AD CLARISSIMVM VIRVM Robertum Dudleium, Leiceſtriæ Comitem, Regiæ maieſtati a conſiliis, & Oxonienſis Academiæ Cancellarium, Thomæ Cooperi, de Theſauri dedicatione, epiſtola.

CVM ſuperioribus annis (illuſtriſſime vir) in ſubſidium ſtudioſæ iuuẽtutis Eliota Dictionarium Latinoanglicum maximis laboribus conficeret: mihi viſus eſt vir doctus & prudens mente cogitatione q; proſpexiſſe, in quantas anguſtias ętate ſubſequente res literaria prolapſura videretur. Poſtquam enim noſtra memoria, propter graues temporum & religionis mutationes, antiſtites Eccleſiæ verbiq; miniſtri, non in contemptum modò hominum, ſed in periculum etiam ſalutis & fortunarum trahi cæperunt: mirũ profectò quam ex eo tempore quotidie magis deiecta ſit iuuentutis ſpes et induſtria, quam vbiq; contemptæ iacuerint artes & diſciplinæ. Nam cum illud vitæ genus, cuius antea dignitas et amplitudo quaſi prẹmium ſtudioſorum laboribus propoſitum fuit, iam vel, quod multi putant, coniunctam habeat ignominiam, vel, quod impii ſperant, imminentem calamitatem: et parentes, ſuorum proſpicientes commodis, alia vitæ inſtituta liberis prẹſcribunt: et ipſi iuuenes, vulgi potius exiſtimationem quam rerũ dignitatem ſequentes, ad quiduis ſunt promptiores, quam ad diuturnas ſtudiorum moleſtias ſine certo fructu perferendas. Hinc itaq; fit, quod à præclaris ingeniis præmaturè deſtituantur Academiæ et ſcholæ publicæ, multoſq; iuuenes habeant liberaliter ſanè inſtitutos educatione doctrinaq; puerili, ſed paucos admodum, qui cognitionis et ſcientiæ cupidi, in literas illas interiores et reconditas altius penetrare ſtudeant: niſi qui fortè ad medicinæ cognitionem, aut iuriſprudentiam paulo maiori impetu ferantur. Reliqui, vel abiectis ſtudiis ad aulicam vitam confugiunt, vel ad regni inſtituta ediſcenda ſe conferunt, vel ad alias ætatis degendæ rationes deſciſcunt, ex quibus ampliores credunt vtilitates ſibi profecturas. Quamobrem meritò mihi videntur conqueri Chriſtianæ religionis præſides et viri doctiſſimi, quibus eiuſdem hodie tradita eſt adminiſtratio, cum incredibili veritatis Euangelicæ incommodo magnam eſſe in pleriſq; locis eccleſiarũ deſtitutionem, ſummamq; penuriam eorum, qui diuini fœderis præconium ſuſcipiant, qui Eccleſiaſtica munia ſubeant, qui reliquas literatæ pietatis functiones exerceant. Cum enim cæteras reipublicæ partes capeſcentibus certi honores magnaq; præmia proponãtur Eccleſiarum verò rectoribus & literarum magiſtris ad contemptum maior q̃ ad laudem locus relictus ſit: non mirum ſi multi reperiantur, qui gloriam & dignitatem, pauci qui coniunctam cum ignominia virtutem et doctrinam perſequantur. Sed imprudenter à me & intempeſtiuè hæc illata videtur querela, cum omnium iam ſermone peruulgatum ſit, tuo maximè conſilio, & clariſſimi viri Sicilli maieſtatem Regiam iamdudum iniiſſe rationem, quemadmodum non artes ſolum iniuria temporis labãtes in priſtinam reſtituantur dignitatem, ſed etiam vt iuuentus ignauia langueſcens gloriæ ſtimulis erecta magis conſtanter perferat graues ſtudiorum labores. Hanc opinionem mentibus hominum infixit anno ſuperiore Cantabrigienſis profectio: cũ Regia maieſtas in ipſis quaſi Muſarũ delubris, non ſolũ præſentia ſua declarauit honeſtiſſimarum artium cultores ſibi et curæ fuiſſe & delectationi. ſed etiam ſplendida & illuſtri oratione ſtudioſorum animos ad ſingularem quandam ſpem ampliſſimorum virtutis & induſtriæ præmiorum concitabat. Verè quidem illa principis officio fungitur & illuſtris et immortali prædicatione dignæ. Poſtquã enim ſtrepitus armorum et bellorum tumultus prudentiſſimis conſiliis ſedauit, ad pacis rationes componendas incumbit: vt linguarum peritia vigeat, vt humanitatis diſciplinæ floreant, vt laudabilium artium doctrina in pretio ſit, ſummo ſtudio contendit. Qua in re licet ipſius præcipuè virtus & prudentia eluceat, veſtra tamen non exigua laus eſt, qui in eiuſdem ſocietatem cõſilii veniſtis. Veſtris enim monitis, veſtris hortatibus, et excitata eſt et cõfirmata Regiæ Celſitudinis induſtria. Quamobrem diuino certè beneficio factum puto, vt his temporibus Academiæ noſtrates, præclaræ Muſarum ſedes, vos inprimis duos habeant patronos: quos omnes vident, & ſingulari quadam naturæ bonitate, & incredibili Reipublicæ ſtudio liberalium diſciplinarum ſuſcepiſſe defenſionem & propagationem. Satis enim intelligit veſtra prudentia, nihil eſſe in natura rerum, quod tam fuſa in omnes partes habeat commoda, quam humanitas atque doctrina. Nam præclara hæc et eximia communiũ literarum eſt vtilitas, quod earũ conformatio, ſi vel ad mediocres naturas acceſſerit, incredibilem vim prudentiæ, conſilii, dignitatis, ad omnes Reipublicæ partes cõſtituendas profert. Quis enim non videt, quantum poſſit humanitatis et diſciplinæ inſtitutio, in vero numinis cultu promouendo, in religione confirmanda, in moribus erudiendis, in obeundis legationibus, in exponendis Principis Senatúsue mandatis, in ſuaſione aut diſſuaſione legum, conſiliorum tractatione, cauſis publicis, iudiciis, cæterisq; rebus omnibus, quibus adminiſtratio Reipublicæ cõtinetur? Labantibus igitur literarũ ſtudiis, et maximę reipublicæ vtilitates ſimul cõcidunt. Pro cognitione et ſcientia, turpiſſima rerum omnium ignoratio: pro ſincero dei cultu, anilis ſuperſtitio: pro dicendi facultate, ſtupida infantia: pro conſilii copia et vbertate, mentis et iudicii inopia: pro exculta morum elegantia, agreſtis et inamœna ruſticitas: pro manſuetudine et humanitate, barbara quædam feritas in vitam hominum inuadit. Quamobrem (vir præclariſſime) quod liberaliſſimarum artium te patronum et defenſorem præbeas, quod ad eorum conſilia te adiunxeris, qui de ſuſcitãda literarum dignitate cogitant, et Reipublicæ maximam cõcilias vtilitatem, et immortalem tibi laudem nominisq; prædicationem. Huius enim facti grata erit in omnem poſteritatem recordatio. Præclara quidẽ ſemper habita ſunt iſta in ſplendidis et illuſtribus viris, vt ſua virtute et induſtria iuris et legum æquabilitatem ſeruent, ciues in officio contineant, ſeditioſos pacis perturbatores reprimant, ab externis bellis patriam defendant: ſed vulgares hæ nobilium virorum laudes ſunt, et cum multis communes. Iſta verò eximia ſunt et ſingularia, ſummo ſtudio curare, vt procul à regni finibus exterminetur infantia: vt longius amandetur fœda rerum ignoratio: vt ſuum locum virtus et ingenii gloria conſequatur: vt, qui ſtudiis et artibus honos debetur, ſtudiis et artibus honos deferatur. Verùm vt pauci ſunt, qui harum rerum gloriam expetunt: ita qui diuinitus excitati in eam rem incumbunt, ab omnibus maiori et honore, et admiratione digni exiſtimantur. Sed hæc cura non claros modò viros, et eos qui cum dignitate ſunt in Republica debet attingere, ſed omnes præterea bonos ciues, et inprimis eos, qui literarum cauſa cupiunt. Quorum è numero cũ ego me profitear eſſe: cum officio meo coniunctum arbitror, vt aliquid in communem ſtudioſorum fructum proferã. Omnes itaq; ingenii mei facultates, cuiuſquemodi ſunt, in hunc vtriuſq; linguæ Theſaurum contuli: vt, qui in re literaria tenuiores ſunt, hinc petant, quo ſuam poſſint inopiam ſuſtentare, donec per ſe maiores orationis diuitias ſibi comparent. Cæteras artes et ſcientias alii ſuo tempore promouebunt, ego pro virili mea parte ſtudui, vt hac ratione iuuenibus noſtris aliquantò facilior eſſet aditus ad Latinæ linguæ cognitionem atq; facultatem. Hic enim non ſolum cuiuſq; vocabuli

vernaculam interpretationem variam et copiosam reperient: sed etiam ex amplissimo Roberti Stephani Thesauro commodissimè congestas locutionum formulas, quibus eiusdem apud probatos authores vsus, quantumuis multiplex, indicatur. Ex eisdem etiam subscriptis locutionum exemplis intelligant, cuiusmodi in illustribus scriptoribus adiuncta sint nominibus epitheta, quæ verbis eleganter aduerbia connectantur, quæ interdum antitheta et contraria, quæ nomina quibus verbis, quæ item verba quibus nominibus aptè cohæreant. Genera verborum et nominum, inflectionem, accentum, deriuationem, nusq; penè prætermisi: vt illorum etiam consulerem industriæ, quibus deest viuæ vocis institutio. Ascripta sunt vbiq; authorum nomina: vt non obscurum esse possit, quid cuiq; debeatur. Hinc etiam vel exiguo negotio depromant sibi non contemnendum apparatum verborum et locutionum, siue de re aliqua dicendum sit, siue scribendum. Accedunt et ista non exigua commoda: quod hic Latini sermonis elegantiam et concinnitatem obseruent, quod eiusdem cum nostro idiomate consensionem intelligant, quod in suis scriptis ad optimorũ authorũ imitationẽ se facilius componant. Quamobrem hic vnus liber omnia videtur adferre subsidia & adiumenta, quibus iuuenes instructi laudabilem orationis facultatem consequantur. Hoc quicquid est laboris et industriæ, quod in Thesauro nostro congerendo locaui, tibi inprimis (vir ornatissime) dicandum arbitror. Oxonienses enim, si quid in literis hoc tempore moliuntur operosius, si quid in lucem proferendum statuunt, id censent tuæ Dignitati tum iure, tum merito deberi. Si enim qui fundum studiosè colendum, diligenter conserendum, eleganter exornandum curat, eiusdem prouentus iure sibi vendicat: æquum etiam videri debet, vt quos studiorum fructus Oxonienſis Academia profert, eos tibi solus auferas, qui tam libenter eam & studio foues, & consilio regis, & authoritate defendis. Cum igitur ego semper alumnus huius scholæ fuerim: non video quemadmodum sine iusta ingratitudinis reprehensione possim non tibi labores meos consecrare. Quod tamen non ea spe facio, vt mea dicatione ad tuas quicquam laudes accedat. Quid enim ad solis splendorem lucernæ lichniolitæ lumen, aut ad immensam maris magnitudinem quid potest adferre stilla muriæ? Ad eum vero laudum tuarum cumulum, quem præclarissimarum virtutum ornamentis tibi comparasti, multo minus hac inscriptione additur. Me tamen nominis tui splendore ad huius lucubrationis obscuritatem illustrandam abuti, non grauiter, vt spero, patiere. Nam & ea es humanitate, vt oblata munuscula non tam suo pondere, quàm offerentium voluntate metiaris: & ea grauitate atq; constantia, vt quarum modo literarum tutelam susceperis, earum iam nolis fructus quantumuis exiguos aspernari. Hunc itaq; Thesaurum literarium tibi exhibeo testem & animi in te mei, & omniũ tuorum Oxonienſium voluntatis. Quem si pro solita benignitate tua in bonam acceperis partem, diuitiarum certè tuarum cumulo non multum, humanitatis commendationi plurimum accesserit.

ANNOTATIONES QVIBVS ſtudioſi lectores admonentur de ratione & ordine iſtius libri, ne fortè in quærendis dictionibus vel errent vel hæſitent.

ORdinem alphabeticum diligenter in omnibus ſeruaui, præterq̃ in illis vocabulis quæ ab alijs deducuntur. Nam, quæ Grammatici vocant deriuatiua, reieci ad ſuos fontes, vnde promanant et profluunt. Vt iſtæ dictiones Eſurio, Eſuriens, Eſuries, Eſuritio, &c. non habentur in alphabetica ſerie, ſed poſt verbum Edo, à quo deriuantur. Quam rationem ideo putaui vtiliorem fore, quod facile iuuenis cognoſcat, vtrum dictio, de qua dubitatur, primogenia ſit, an deductitia: & ſi deductitia, à quo tandem trahatur, & quos habeat generis conſortes. Suis tamen locis in alphabetico ordine reperies, vbi iſta, poſt ſuas origines, quærenda ſint.

Vernaculas phraſium & locutionum interpretationes de induſtria plurimis in locis inuenies mancas & imperfectas. Vt in verbo Colligo, iſtæ locutioni, Colligare impetum furentis, adieci interpretationis cauſa tantummodo, to repreſſe, &c. reliquam partem ſententiæ reliqui induſtriæ lectoris. Item, in Circulus, iſta ſententia, Circulos ſuos orbesq; conficiunt celeritate mirabili ſtellæ, hanc imperfectam habet adiunctam expoſitionem: Co theyr courſes with maruelous, &c. Vbi vides eius duntaxat partis expoſitionem, quæ difficillima ſit, & quæ pertineat ad vocabulum, cuius vſus eo loco deſcribitur: cętera conſulto prętermiſi. Hanc rationem licet multis fortaſſe minus probatam, me tamen vel inuitum perſequi coegit ſtudium breuitatis: quam licet & hac in re, & alijs quibuſcunque potui modis ſecutus ſum, vides tamen plus iuſto voluminis magnitudinem creuiſſe.

Non defuturos ſcio, qui vernaculam interpretationem reprehendant, tanq̃ multis in locis parum commodè latinis reſpondentem. Sed ab æquis lectoribus vehementer contendo, vt iudicium ſuum differant, donec in eum locum inciderint, vnde phraſes ipſæ deſumptæ ſunt. In maternum enim ſermonem transfudi, non eo quidem ſenſu, quem prima fronte præ ſe ferre videntur Latina: ſed iuxta mentem & ſententiam authoris, quem citaui. Exempli cauſa, in Viuus ſic legent, Viui peruenimus illuc. Virg. Statim expectabunt hanc interpretationem, We came thyther aliue. Sed ego ſenſum authoris ſecutus, ſic verti: We haue liued to ſee that. Item in Tarditas, Curſu corrigere tarditatem, hunc in modum interpretatus ſum: With more ſpæde to make amendes for his ſlowneſſe before time. At multi credent magis appoſitè me vertiſſe, ſi dixiſſem, To amende his ſlowneſſe wyth running. Quæ interpretatio longè diſcrepaſſet ab authoris ſententia. Hæc pauca ſatis fuerit exempli cauſa demonſtraſſe: cum tamen alia plurima ſint eiuſdem generis.

Omnis dictio, quæ ex claſsicis et probatis authoribus depromitur, habet authoris nomen aſcriptum. Quod ſi qua non habuerit, eam ſcito vel Græcam eſſe, nec dum in ſatis probatum vſum Latini ſermonis pertractam: vel eiuſmodi Latinam, quæ in laudatis ſcriptoribus non reperiatur.

Locutionum formulæ poſt vnumquodque vocabulum non temerè et confuſè, ſed alphabetica ſerie commodiſsimè congeſtæ ſunt, vt minori negotio ſe quærentibus offerant.

Vbicunque repereris hanc notam aſcriptam ¶. ibi ſcito vel ſignificationem, vel vſum dictionis nonnihil diſcrepare ab eo, quod proximè ſuperius præceſſerat.

Non

NOn inutile mihi videtur,vt,propoſitis quibuſdam exemplis, quaſi digito tyronibus demonſtrem,quem fructum poſsint ex hoc Theſauro decerpere. Quæ res ſi forte á me tractabitur magis craſſa Minerua, q̃ vt prouectioribus & excercitatis gratum eſſe poſsit: cogitent me eorum maximè cauſa facere, qui deſtituti magiſtris viuæ vocis inſtitutionem non ſunt conſecuti. Hanc item rationem ſi illi Literarum magiſtri,qui per ſe meliorem excogitare non poſſunt,in ſuis prælectionibus obſeruare voluerint,non inutilem meo iudicio nauabunt operam.

FOr ſo much as the vnſkilfull or yong learned Scholars cannot of themſelues conceyue the vſe of this boke, I haue thought it good by examples to note vnto them,what fruit & cõmodity they may take therof,in ſo plaine ſorme or mãer as I can deuiſe. Fyrſte therefore they may here learne, what parte of ſpeach the word is. For Nownes and Verbes may be knowen by their declining, which commonly is here noted: and the other parts are expreſſely named: as, Participles, Aduerbes, Coniunctions.&c. Nert, they may ſee,what accent it ſhould haue, & howe it is to be pronounced:as, Piſcîna, penul prod. not Piſcina. If it be a Nowne,they may know whether it be Adiectiue or Subſtantiue. For Adiectiues be expreſſely noted moſt commonly, and Subſtantiues may be perceyued by their Gender and Declenſon. If it be a Subſtantiue,let them marke, what Gender it is, and of what Declenſon. The Gender both is added moſt commonly,and where it is not,may be learned by the phraſes following: and the Declenſon may be gathered by the Genitiue caſe. As, Dux, is noted to be the common Gender, and the Genitiue caſe Ducis, ſheweth it to be the thyrde Declenſon. Ducatus, is noted to be the Maſculine gender, and Ducatus the Genitiue caſe declareth it to be the fourth Declenſon. Then may they further learne, whether the worde be a Primitiue, or Deriuatiue deduced of ſome other. For all the Deriuatiues are ſet with their ſignifications and phraſes, in a ſmaller Latine letter after their Primitiues. As,after this Primitiue, *Duco,*followeth Ducens, Ductus, Ducatus, Dux, Ductor,Ducatarius, Ductilis, Ductim. Wherby w̃ great profite they may learne,as it were,ẏ whole progenie & offſpring of any word. Nert, let them further marke ẏ diuers ſignificatiõs of the word,& the manifolde conſtructions and vſes of the ſame, be it Verbe, Nowne, or other. As, Certamen, ſometime ſignifieth a game, or play: as, lex Certaminis. Sometyme ſtryfe, debate, contention: as, Certamen eſt mihi cum illo. Sometyme fight or battayle: as, conſerere Certamen. This diuerſity of ſignifications I haue not only noted together confuſely in the fyrſt expoſition of the word, but afterward alſo diſtinctly each by it ſelf, with the phraſes to the ſame belonging: which he may find out by this Paragraffe ¶ which is noted whereſoeuer eyther the ſignification, or the vſe of the thing altereth. In a Verbe they haue to note, whether it be Primitiue or Deriuatiue,of what Coniugation it is, what is the Preterperfect tenſe and Supines,what diuerſitie of ſignifications, and varietie of conſtructions it hath. As, Contendo, being in the bigger ſorte of letter, is declared to be a Primitiue, and hath deduced of it theſe Deriuatiues, Contentus, Contentè, Contentio, Contentioſus,&c. The Coniugation may be knowen by the termination of the Infinitiue mode Contendere, there added. The Preterperfect tenſe, and the Supines are expreſſed as well in this worde, as all other. Contendo, ſometime ſignifieth to bende: as, Contendere arcum. Sometime to ſtretch: as, Ilia riſu contendere. Sometime to ſtrayne harde: as, Contendere vincla. Sometime to go to: as, Contendit Romam. Sometime to endeuoure: as, Contendere omnibus neruis. Sometime earneſtly to deſire: as, Omni ſtudio à te mi Brute contendo. Sometime to contende: as, Contendo de honore. Sometime to compare: as, Contendere rem aliquam cum alia. The diuerſitie of conſtruction of all other poyntes is eſpecially to be obſerued, which oftentymes chaungeth,as the ſignification altereth. As, Contendo, ſignifying to ſtretch or bende,ſometime hath an Accuſatiue caſe onely,as Contendere poplitem: ſometime an Accuſatiue with an Ablatiue:as, Ilia riſu contendere. When it ſignifieth to go,it hath ſometime an Accuſatiue alone:as,Romam contendit: ſometime an other Accuſatiue with,ad: as,Contendere curſum ad aliquem: ſometime an Accuſatiue with ad, only: as,Contendit ad patrem: ſometime an Accuſatiue with,in, or ad, and alſo an Ablatiue, as Magnis itineribus contendere in Italiam, vel ad exercitum. When it ſignifieth to endeuoure,ſometime it is vſed abſolutely, as Eniti et contendere debet ſometime wyth an Ablatiue:as,Labore contendere: ſometime an Infinitiue mode,as Dyrrhachium petere contendit. ſometime an Accuſatiue wyth,Contra, and vt, following: as,Contra grauitatem morbi contendit, vt conſequatur &c. Sometime an Accuſatiue with ad, and an Ablatiue:as, Maximis periculis ad ſummam laudem contendere: ſometime an Aduerbe,as Fruſtra contendere. When it ſignifieth to deſire, it is moſt cõmonly vſed with an Accuſatiue of the thing,and an Ablatiue with,A, or ab, of the perſõ:as, Hoc à me contendebat ſometime in ſteade of the Accuſatiue,an other Ablatiue is added with de: as,Pompeius vehementer à me contendit de reditu in gratiam: In place of which Ablatiue may be vſed ẏ Subiunctiue mode w̃ *vt,*as, Contendit à me vt redeam in gratiam. When it ſignifieth to ſtriue or contende,it hath ſometime an Accuſatiue wyth,aduerſum, or *contra:*as, Summa vi contendere aduerſum, vel contra aliquem ſometime a Datiue: as,Hyrundo cõtendit cygni: ſometime an Ablatiue with,*cum:*as,Iure contendere cum aliquo: ſometime an Accuſatiue with Inter, and an Ablatiue:as,Verbis inter ſe contendunt: ſometime an Ablatiue with de: as,De honore contendere. When it ſignifieth to compare,it hath ſometime an Accuſatiue,and an Ablatiue with cum: as,Contendere rem aliquam cum alia: ſometime the Ablatiue is turned into the Datiue:as,Contendere rem aliquam alteri. And this varietie of conſtruction is not onely to be conſidered in the diuerſity of caſes, but alſo of other partes vndeclined:as,in Emineo, you haue, Eminere extra terram, Eminet ante oculos, Eminet in re aliqua, Inter omnes eminet, Eminebat ex ore crudelitas, Eminet ira in ſuos, Eminet ferrum per coſtas, Eminet è mari globus terræ. It is alſo to be noted, what Aduerbes authours do vſe with Verbes:as,Ciuiliter contendere, Inimi-

cissimè atq; infestissimè contendere, Palam & vehementer contendere. Moreouer the phrases of elegancie, and especially such as haue any good grace of Metaphors: as, Contendere neruos ætatis & industriæ in re aliqua: Fores amicitiæ aperire: Fontem liberalitatis exhaurire &c. It helpeth much also to the apte vse of the Latine tong to obserue in Verbes, with what Nownes they be well vsed: and in Nownes, what Verbes and Adiectiues they haue ioyned with them. In the Verbe Creo, besyde other you haue Aerumnas creare, to work one miserie: Arbores creare, to bring forth trees: Carmina creata de aliquo, Verses made vpon one: Commoditates creare alicui, to worke one sundry commodities: Fastidium creare, to cause lothsomenesse: Periculum creare, to procure daunger &c. In Nownes also, as I sayd, it is good to consider first, what Substantiues or Adiectiues are ioyned to them as Epithetons. In the worde Amicitia, you haue Condimentum amicitiæ, Conciliator amicitiæ, Fores amicitiæ, fons, finis, exitus, ius, lex, ornamentum, simulatio, vinculum amicitiæ. Also these Adiectiues Ambitiosa, communis, pudica, grauis, excellens, infausta, iusta, vera, stabilis, suauis, venusta amicitia, with many other that for breuitie I rehearse not. Likewise it hath these Verbes, Comparare, contrahere, consequi, conciliare, gignere, acquirere, parere amicitiam: conglutinare, coniungere, connectere, coniugare, constituere amicitiam: discindere, dirumpere, dissociare, dissuere amicitiam, with many moe of like sort, which diligently to marke shall both greatly helpe, not onely the knowledge of the righte vse of the Latine tong, but also the copious enriching of the same. This is not only to be done in Nownes and Verbes, but in Aduerbes, Coniunctions, and Prepositions. In the apt vse whereof consisteth a great part of the elegancy of the Latine tong. Last of all, a studious yong man, with small paynes, by the helpe of this booke may gather to himselfe good furniture both of wordes and approued phrases and fashions of speaking for any thing, that he shall eyther write or speake of, and so make vnto his vse, as it were a cōmon place booke for such a purpose. As in the matter of loue and frendship, if he take two or three of the chiefe wordes belonging to that purpose, as for example, Amicus, amo, amor, and then consider the wordes deriued of them, and the phrases to the same belonging, there is nothing pertayning to that matter, but that he shall be able copiously to vtter it. And if he adde the search of some moe wordes of that signification, as Charitas, beneuolentia &c. he shall marueilously enrich that common place. To shewe this by the example of this matter of loue or frendeshippe, for so much as it is somewhat copious, it would be longer, than this place requireth. I wyll declare it by a matter of smaller vse & copie. In ẏ feate of shooting you haue these two chiefe instruments, Arcus, and Sagitta, in considering the phrases of which two, you may procure this store and furniture: Acer arcus, a strong or quicke casting bowe: Vastus arcus, a lugge, or a mighty bygge bowe: Sonans arcus, a ringing bowe: Arcus laxus, remissus, retentus, a bow vnbent: Arcus tentus, intentus, contentus, a bow bent: Sumere & corripere manu arcum, to take a bowe in his hande: Arcum lentare, aut curuare, to boowe a bow, as one doth in assaying the strength of it, before it be bent: Arcum neruo temperare, to string a bow: Arcum tendere, intendere, contendere, flectere, to bende a bow: Laxare, retendere, remittere arcum, to vnbende a bowe: Arcum adducere, sinuare, lunare, to drawe a bowe: Arcu se exercere, to go on shooting, to practise shooting: Arcu telum dirigere, Dirigere arcum in aliquid, Obuertere arcum in aliquid, Tendere arcum aliquò, to laye hys hand towarde a thing to shoote at it: Emittere vel expellere arcu sagittam, Neruo sagittam impellere, to shoote: Petere aliquem arcu, to shoote at: Stringere aliquid arcu, Arcu ferire, Infigere alicui sagittam, Configere sagitta, to hyt that he shooteth at: Sagitta stridens, an arrowe that singeth as hee goeth: Sagittæ leues, volucres, celeres, Arrowes swifte of slight: Acuere sagittam, & asperare sagittam ferro vel cuspide, to sette an head on an arrowe: Armari sagittis, to haue arrowes by his syde: Depromere & promere sagittam, to take forth an arrowe to shoote: Corripere sagittam, to take forth an arrowe quickely: Neruus per Cælum diuerberat sagittam, the bowe deliuereth forth the arrowe: Sagittæ pendent à latere, hys arrowes are by his syde: Expedire alimenta arcu, with his bow to kil beasts or foule to liue by. There is more I graūt that may be brought to this purpose: but by these and the imitation of them, any thing well neere pertayning to ẏ feate may be vttered in good Latine. This haue I here noted at the request of certayne, that by their owne laboure wythout instruction or helpe of maisters trauaile to attayne the knoweledge of the Latine tong: as for other that eyther be themselfe well learned, or haue good maisters, as they haue no great neede of thys booke, so haue they no neede at all of this admonition.
