his own Oath, produces Witnesses to prove it to be the Last Will of the Deceased, and this in the Presence of the Parties who claim any Interest, or in their Absence if summoned and they do not appear; this is termed a Probate per Testes, which cannot be questioned after thirty Years. 2 Nelf. Abr. 1301. Upon an Issue whether the Deceased made an Executor or no, the Probate of the Will was adjudged to be good Proof. 2 Lill. Abr. 375. And where a Probate of a Will is produced in Evidence at a Trial, the Defendant cannot say that the Will was forged, or that the Testator was Non compos Mentis, because it is directly against the Seal of the Ordinary in a Matter where he had a proper Jurisdiction; but the Defendant may give in Evidence that the Seal itself was forged, or that the Testator had Bona Notabilia, or he may be relieved on Appeal. 1 Lev. 235. Raym. 405. Notwithstanding Appeal from a Will, a Person is complete Executor by the Probate; though the Probate may be traversed, if an Executor Plaintiff do not conclude with a Profert hic in Curia, or the Defendant may demand Oyer of the Will. 3 Bulst. 72. An Executor being made by the Act of the Party deceased himself, therefore the Law intitles him to the Probate of the Will; and the Probate cannot be revoked or altered, which would in Effect make a new Will, though it may be suspended by an Appeal: But if Administration be granted to one, this is by the Act of the Court, and if he afterwards become Bankrupt, &c. the Administration may be repealed. 1 Roll. Rep. 226. Show. 293. 1 Salk. 36. 2 Nelf. Abr. 1302. By the Statute 21 H. 8. cap. 5. it is ordained, that on Probate of Wills, &c. 6d. and no more shall be taken by the Register, where the Goods of the Deceased do not exceed five Pounds Value; and when the Goods of the Deceased are above the Value of 5l. and under 40l. the Fee to the Judge shall be 2s. 6d. and to the Register 1s. and if the Goods exceed 40l. in Value, the Judge's Fee is 2s. 6d. and to the Register 2s. 6d. but this he may refuse, and take a Penny for every ten Lines of the Will, &c. And if the Officer takes more than his due Fees, he shall forfeit 10l. to be divided between the King and the Party grieved. But it hath been held on this Statute, that a Transcript of the Will must be brought to the Register ready ingrossed, and with Wax to be sealed, so that the Register, &c. may have nothing to do but to annex the Probate to it; and then no Fee shall be taken for such Transcript. 4 Inst. 336. Co. Entr. 166. The Power of granting Probates and Administrations of the Goods of Persons dying, for Wages or Work done in the King's Docks and Yards, shall be in the Ordinary of the Diocese where the Person dieth, or in him to whom Power is given by such Ordinary, exclusive of the Prerogative Court, &c. Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. cap. 16. See Executor, &c.

Probatōr, Is an Accuser, or Approver; or one who undertakes to prove a Crime charged upon another. Fleta, lib. 2. cap. 52.

Procedendo, Is a Writ which lieth where an Action is removed out of an inferior Court, to a superior, as the Chancery, King's Bench, or Common Pleas, by Habeas Corpus, Certiorari, or Writ of Privilege; to send down the Cause to proceed upon it, it not appearing to the higher Court that the Suggestion is sufficiently proved. F. N. B. 153. 5 Rep. 63. 21 Fac. 1. cap. 23. And if the Party who sues out a Habeas Corpus, or Certiorari, doth not put in good Bail in Time, (where good Bail is required) then there goes this Writ to the inferior Court to proceed non obstante the Habeas Corpus, &c. 2 Lill. Abr. 376. If a Certiorari, or Habeas Corpus, to remove a Cause, be returned before a Judge, the Judge will give a Rule thereupon to put in good Bail by such a Day; which if the Defendant, upon serving his Attorney with a Copy of the Rule, doth not do, then the Judge will sign a Warrant for a Procedendo, to remove the Cause back again where the Action was first laid: Also if Bail be put in at the Time, and it do not prove good, the Judge will grant a Rule for better Bail to be put in by such a Day, or else to justify the Bail already put in; which if the Defendant doth not do, the Judge will then likewise grant a Warrant for a Procedendo. 2 Lill. 377. Where Bail put in on Removal of a Cause into B. R. is disallowed by the Court, if the Defendant upon a Rule for that Purpose, and Notice given, refuse to put in better Bail, such as the Court shall approve of, a Procedendo may be granted; for Disallowing of the Bail makes the Defendant to be in the same Condition as if he had put in no Bail, and until the Bail is put in and filed, the Court is not possessed of the Cause so as to proceed in it. Mich. 24 Car. B. R. After a Record returned, and the Defendant hath filed Bail in B. R. on a Cause's being removed, a Procedendo ought not to be granted; because by giving and filing Bail in this Court, the Bail below is discharged. Sid. 313. 2 Nelf. Abr. 1304. And it hath been held, that by the Common Law if a Certiorari be once filed, the Proceedings below can never be revived by any Procedendo. Hill. 6 Geo. 2. Hawk. P. C. 294. When a Cause by the Custom of London is actionable, and will not bear an Action at the Common Law, if upon a Habeas Corpus or Certiorari, brought to remove such Cause into the Court of B. R. it doth so appear to the Court; the Court will grant a Procedendo to authorise the Court of London to proceed in the Matter, otherwise the Party that brought the Action would be without Remedy. 2 Lill. Abr. 376. This Writ of Procedendo is called a Procedendo in Loquela.

Procedendo on Aid Prayer. If a Man Pray in Aid of the King, in a real Action, and the Aid be granted; it shall be awarded that he sue unto the King in the Chancery, and the Justices in the Common Pleas shall stay until the Writ of Procedendo in Loquela come unto them: And if it appear to the Judges by Pleading or shewing of the Party, that the King hath Interest in the Land, or shall lose Rent or Service, &c. there the Court ought to stay until they have from the King a Procedendo in Loquela: And then they may proceed in the Plea, until they come to give Judgment; when the Justices ought not to proceed to Judgment, without a Writ for that Purpose. New Nat. Brev. 342. So in a personal Action, if the Defendant Pray in Aid of the King, the Judges are not to proceed until they receive a Procedendo in Loquela. And though they may then proceed and try the Issues joined, they shall not give Judgment until a Writ comes to them to proceed to Judgment. Ibid.

Procedendo ad Judicium, Lies where the Judges of any Court delay the Party, Plaintiff or Defendant, and will not give Judgment in the Cause, when they ought to do it. Wood's Inst. 570. If Verdict pass for the Plaintiff in Affise of Novel Disseisin before the Justices of Assise, and before before they give Judgment, by a new Commission, new Justices are made; the Plaintiff in the Assise may sue forth a Certiorari directed to the other Justices to remove the Record before the new Justices; and another Writ to the new Justices to receive and inspect the Record, and then proceed to Judgment, &c. New Nat. Brev. 342, 343. Where the Authority of Commissioners of Oyer and Terminer, &c. is suspended by Superfedeas; their Power may be restored by a Writ of Procedendo. Regist. 124. 12 Aff. 21. H. P. C. 162.

Processus, (Processus, à Procedendo ab initio usque ad finem) Is so called, because it proceeds or goes out, upon former Matter, either original or judicial; and hath two Significations: First, it is largely taken for all the Proceedings in any Action, real or personal, civil or criminal, from the Beginning to the End; Secondly, we call that the Processus by which a Man is called into any Temporal Court, because it is the Beginning or principal Part thereof, by which the rest is directed; or if taken strictly, it is the Proceeding, after the Original, before Judgment. Briton 138. Lamb. lib. 4. Crompt. 133. 8 Rep. 157. Processus are General, or Special; and Special Processus is that which is especially appointed for any Offence, &c. by Statute: And there is a very great Diversity of Processus. F. N. B. Processus to call Persons into Court, &c. are to be in the Name of the King; and if it issues from the Court of King's Bench, it ought to be under the Teste of the Chief Justice, or of the senior Judge of the Court, if there be no Chief Justice; and if it issueth from any other Court, it is to be under the Teste of the first in Commission, &c. Dalt. ch. 132. Finch 436. Cro. Car. 393. All legal Proceedings take Commencement by original Writ, Indictment, or Information; or in B. R. by Bill of Middlesex, or Latitat, which is the original Processus of this Court; and is in the Nature of an Original to cause Appearance. 2 Lill. Abr. 377. There is no Need of Processus upon an Indictment, &c. where the Defendant is present in Court; only where he is absent. 2 Hawk. 281. If Processus is awarded out of a Court, which hath not Jurisdiction of the principal Cause, it is coram non Judice and void: And the Sheriff executing it will be a Trespasser. 2 Leon. 89. Proceedings in the superior and inferior Courts must be regularly and formally entered, according to the legal Course; or they may be reversed for Error in B. R. Pasch. 24 Car. 2. Lill. 379.

Procession. In Cathedral and Conventual Churches, the Members had their stated Processions, wherein they walked in their most ornamental Habits, with Musick before them, singing of Hymns, and other suitable Solemnity: And in every Parish, there was a customary annual Procession of the Parish Priest, the Patron of the Church, with the chief Flag or holy Banner; and the other Parishioners, to take a Circuit round the Limits of the Parish or Manor, and pray for a Blessing on the Fruits of the Earth; to which we owe our present Custom of Perambulation, which in most Places is still called Processioning, and going in Procession, though we have lost the Order and Devotion, as well as Pomp and Superstition of it.

Processum continuande, Is a Writ for the Continuance of a Processus, after the Death of the Chief Justice, or other Justices in the Commission of Oyer and Terminer. Reg. Orig. 128.

Prochein Amy, (Proximus Amicus) Is used in Law for him that is the next Friend, or next of Kin to a Child in his Nonage, and in that Respect is allowed to deal for the Infant in the Management of his Affairs; as to be his Guardian if he hold Lands in Socage, and in the Redress of any Wrong done to him. Stat. Westm. 1. cap. 48. Westm. 2. cap. 15. 2 Inst. 261. And Prochein Amy is commonly taken for Guardian in Socage; but otherwise, it is he that appears in Court for an Infant who sues any Action, and aids the Infant in Pursuit of his Action: For to sue, an Infant may not make an Attorney, but the Court will admit the next Friend of the Infant Plaintiff; and a Guardian for an Infant Defendant: If no Guardian is appointed by the Father, &c. of an Infant, the Course of the Court of B. R. hath been to allow one of the Officers of the Court to be Prochein Amy to the Infant to sue. Terms de Ley 493. 2 Lill. Abr. 52. It hath been held, that a Guardian, and Prochein Amy, are distinct, though either of them may be admitted for the Plaintiff being an Infant; Prochein Amy was never before the Statute Westm. 1. and was appointed in Case of Necessity, where an Infant was to sue his Guardian, or the Guardian would not sue for him; for which Reason he may be admitted to sue by Prochein Amy, when he is to demand or gain any Thing. 2 Nels. Abr. 997. The Plaintiff Infant may sue per Guardianum, or per Proximum Amicum ad prosequendum; and if the Admission is to sue per Guardianum, when it should be per Proximum Amicum, it will be well enough, there being many Precedents both Ways: But if he is sued, it must be per Guardianum. Cro. Car. 86, 115. Hut. 92. If an Infant be disturbed by the Chief Lord, so that he cannot bring Assise, his Prochein Amy shall be admitted. 48 Ed. 3. cap. 1. So where the Infant is Eloined, &c. 13 Ed. 1. cap. 15. See Infant.

Proclamation, (Proclamatio) Is a Notice publickly given of any Thing, whereof the King thinks fit to advertise his Subjects. 7 R. 2. cap. 6. And in this Sense, none make any Proclamation without the King's Authority; except Mayors, or such like Governors of Towns, &c. by Custom or Privilege. Crompt. Jurisd. 41. By the Stat. 31 H. 8. cap. 8. The King's Proclamation was to be of the same Effect as an Act of Parliament; not to prejudice Life, Liberty, &c. and Contemners of it to be adjudged Traytors. The King may make a Proclamation to his Subjects, Quoad terrorem Populi, and put them in Fear of his Displeasure; but not upon any other certain Pain, as Forfeiture of their Lands or Goods, or to undergo the Penalty of a Fine and Imprisonment, &c. Dalif. 20. 2 Lill. Abr. 381, 382. Yet the King by his Proclamation may inhibit his Subjects, that they go not out of the Realm, without License; and if the Subject act contrary thereto, for this Contempt he shall be fined to the King. 12 & 13 Eliz. Dyer 296. There are Proclamations of divers Kinds; and a Proclamation is to be pleaded under the Great Seal, without which it doth not bind, &c. Cro. Car. 130. Vide King, and Privy Council.

Proclamation of Courts, Is used particularly in the Beginning or Calling of a Court, and at the Discharge or Adjourning thereof; for the Attendance of Persons, and Dispatch of Business incident thereto: And before a Parliament is dissolved, &c. Publick Proclamation is to be made, that if any Person have any Petition, he shall come in and be heard; and if no Answer be given, it is intended that the Publick are satisfied. Lex Constitut. 156. At the latter End of the Affises, there is usually Proclamation made, that no more Records of Nisi prius, shall be put in to be tried at that Affises; after which they will not be received, and all Persons who have not then put in their Records of Nisi prius may depart, and are bound to give no longer Attendance at that Affises. Pasch. 1652. 2 Lill. Abr. 381. Proclamation is made in Courts-Baron, for Persons to come in and claim vacant Copyholds, of which the Tenants died seised since the last Courts; and the Lord may seise a Copyhold, if the Heir comes not in to be admitted upon Proclamation, &c. 1 Lev. 63.

Proclamation of Exigents. On awarding an Exigent, in order to Outlawry, a Writ of Proclamation issues to the Sheriff of the County where the Party dwells, to make three Proclamations for the Defendant to yield himself, or be outlawed. Stat. 6 Hen. 8. cap. 4. 31 Eliz. cap. 3. 4 & 5 W. & M.

Proclamation of a Fine. When any Fine of Land is passed, Proclamation is solemnly made in the Court of Common Pleas where levied, after the Ingrossing it; and Transcripts are also sent to the Justices of Affise, and Justices of the Peace of the County in which the Lands lie, to be openly proclaimed there. 1 R. 3. c. 7.

Proclamation of Nuisances. By Statute, Proclamation is to be made against Nuisances, and for the Removal of them, &c. 12 R. 2.

Proclamation of Rebellion. Is a Writ, whereby a Man, not appearing upon a Subpoena, or an Attachment in the Chancery, is reputed and declared a Rebel, if he render not himself by a Day assigned. See Commission of Rebellion.

Proclamation of Recusants. There is a Proclamation of Recusants, by which they shall be convicted, on Non-appearance at the Affises. 29 Eliz. 3 Fac. 1.

Proclamation of Statutes. Is for their better Observance, and that the People may avoid the Penalties thereof.

Pro confesso. Is where a Bill is exhibited in the Chancery, to which the Defendant appears, and is afterwards in Contempt for not answering; when the Matter contained in the Bill shall be taken as if it were confessed by the Defendant. Terms de Ley 494. If a Defendant is in Custody for Contempt in not answering the Complainant's Bill, upon a Habeas Corpus, which is granted by Order of Court, to bring him to the Bar, the Court assigns him a Day to answer; and the Day being expired, and no Answer put in, a second Habeas Corpus is issued, and the Party being brought into Court a further Day is assigned; by which Day, if he answer not, the Bill upon the Plaintiff's Motion shall be taken Pro confesso, unless Cause be shewed by a Day; and for Want of such Cause shewed on Motion, the Substance of the Bill shall be decreed to the Plaintiff. Hill. 1662. Also after a fourth insufficient Answer made to the Bill of the Complainant, the Matter of the Bill not sufficiently answered unto by the Defendant shall be taken Pro confesso, and decreed accordingly.

Proctor. (Procurator) Is he who undertakes to manage another Man's Cause, in any Court of the Civil or Ecclesiastical Law, for his Fee: Qui aliena negotia gerenda suscipit.

Proctors of the Clergy. (Procuratores Cleri) Are those who are chosen and appointed to appear for Cathedral or other Collegiate Churches; as also for the common Clergy of every Diocese, to sit in the Convocation House in the Time of Parliament. On every new Parliament, the King directeth his Writ to the Archbishop of each Province, for the Summoning of all Bishops, Deans, Archdeacons, &c. to the Convocation, and generally of all the Clergy of his Province, assigning them the Time and Place in the Writ; then the Archbishop of Canterbury, upon his Writ received, according to Custom directs his Letters to the Bishop of London, as his provincial Dean, first citing himself peremptorily, and then willing him to cite in like Manner all the Bishops, Deans, Archdeacons, &c. and generally all the Clergy of his Province to the Place, and against the Day prefixed in the Writ; but directeth withal, that one Proctor be sent for every Cathedral or Collegiate Church, and two Proctors for the Body of the inferior Clergy of each Diocese; and by Virtue of these Letters authentically sealed, the said Bishop of London directs his like Letters severally to the Bishop of every Diocese of the Province, citing them in like Sort, and willing them not only to appear, but also to admonish the said Deans and Archdeacons personally to appear; and the Cathedral and Collegiate Churches, and the common Clergy of the Diocese to send their Proctors to the Place at the Day appointed; and also willet them to certify to the Archbishop the Names of all and every Person so warned by them, in a Schedule annexed to their Letter certificatory: Then the Bishops proceed accordingly, and the Cathedral and Collegiate Churches, and the Body of the Clergy make choice of their Proctors; which being done and certified to the Bishop, he returneth all at the Day. Cowel.

Procurations. (Procuraciones) Are certain Sums of Money which Parish Priests pay yearly to the Bishop or Archdeacon, ratione Visitationis: They were anciently paid in necessary Victuals for the Visitor and his Attendants; but afterwards turned into Money: And Complaints were often made of the excessive Charges of the Procurations, which were prohibited by several Councils and Bulls; and that of Clement the Fourth is very particular, wherein Mention is made that the Archdeacon of Richmond, visiting the Diocese, travelled with one Hundred and three Horses, Twenty one Dogs, and three Hawks, to the great Oppression of religious Houses, &c. There are also called Proxies; and it is said there are three Sorts of Procurations, or Proxies; Ratione Visitationis, Consuetudinis, & Pacti; and that the First is of Ecclesiastical Cognisance, but the two last are triable at Law. Hardr. 180. A Libel was brought in the Spiritual Court for Procurations by the Archdeacon of York, setting forth that for ten or twenty Years, &c. there had been due and paid to him so much yearly by a Parson and his Predecessors; who suggested for a Prohibition, that the Duty had been payable, but denied the Prescription, and that the Ecclesiastical Court cannot try Prescriptions; but it was adjudged, that Procurations are payable of common Right, as Tithes are, and no Action will lie for the same at Common Law; if he had denied the Quantum, then a Prohibition might go. Raym. 360. See Stat. 34 H. 8. c. 19.

Procuras

Procurator, Is one who hath a Charge committed to him by any Person; in which general Signification it hath been applied to a Vicar or Lieutenant, who acts instead of another; and we read of Procurator Regni, and Procurator Reipublice, which is a publick Magistrate: Also Proxies of Lords in Parliament are in our Law-Books called Procuratores; the Bishops are sometimes termed Procuratores Ecclesiarum; and the Advocates of religious Houses, who were to sollicite the Interests and plead the Causes of the Societies, were denominated Procuratores Monasterii; and from this Word comes the common Word Proctor. It is likewise used for him that gathers the Fruits of a Benefice for another Man; and Procuracy for the Writing or Instrument whereby he is authorized. 3 R. 2. c. 3.

Procurus, Signifies the Genealogy of a Man. Matt. Paris. Ann. 1130.

Protes Homines, Is a Title often given in our old Books to the Barons of the Realm, or other military Tenants, that were summoned to the King's Council, and were no more than Discreti & fideles Homines, who according to their Prudence and Knowledge were to give their Counsel and Advice.

Proditio, A Word necessary in Indictments of Treason. 2 Hawk. P. C. 224.

Profaneness (Qu. procul a fano) Is a Disrespect paid to the Name of God, and to Things and Persons consecrated to him. Wood's Inst. 396. And Profaneness is punishable by divers Statutes; as for reviling the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, profanely using the Name of God in Plays, &c. Profaning the Lord's Day, Curfing and Swearing, &c. 1 Ed. 6. c. 1. 1 Eliz. c. 1. 3 Jac. 1. c. 21. 1 Car. 1. c. 1. 13 Car. 2. c. 9. 6 & 7 W. 3. c. 11.

Profer, (Profrum, vel Proferum, from the Fr. Proferer, i. e. Producere) Is the Time appointed for the Accounts of Sheriffs, and other Officers, in the Exchequer, which is twice in the Year. Stat. 51 H. 3. As to the Profers of Sheriffs, tho' the certain Debet of the Sheriff could not be known before the Finishing of his Account; yet it seems there was anciently an Estimate made of what his constant Charge of the annual Revenue amounted to, according to a Medium, which was paid into the Exchequer at the Return of the Writ of Summons of the Pipe; and the Sums so paid were and are to this Day called Profe Vicecomitis: But although these Profers are paid, if upon the Conclusion of the Sheriff's Accounts, and after the Allowances and Discharges had by him, it appears that there is a Surplusage, or that he is charged with more than he could receive, he hath his Profers paid or allowed to him again. Hale's Sher. Account 52. There is a Writ, De Attornato Vicecomitis pro Profro faciendo: Reg. Orig. 139. And we read of Profers in the Statute 32 H. 8. cap. 21. in which Place Profer signifies the Offer and Endeavour to proceed in an Action. See Briton, cap. 28. and Fleta, lib. 1. c. 38.

Profer the Half-Mark, That is to Offer or tender the Half-Mark. Vide Half-Mark.

Profert in Curia, Is where the Plaintiff in an Action declares upon a Deed, or the Defendant pleads a Deed, he must do it with a Profert in Curia, to the End that the other Party may at his own Charges have a Copy of it, and until then he is not obliged to answer it. 2 Lill. Abr. 382. And if a Man pleads by Virtue of an Indenture which is lost, on Affidavit made thereof, the Court will compel the Plaintiff to shew the Counterpart, that the Defendant may plead thereto; or will grant an Imparance. Cro. Jac. 429. When he who is Party or privy in Estate or Interest, or who justifies in the Right of him who is Party or Privy, pleads a Deed; notwithstanding the Party privy claims but Part of the original Estate, yet he must shew the original Deed. 10 Rep. 92, 93. But where a Man is a Stranger to a Deed, and claims nothing in it, &c. there he may plead the Patent or Deed, without a Profert in Curia. Ibid. A Man may claim under a Deed of Uses, without shewing it; because the Deed doth not belong to him, though he claims by it, but the Covenanters, and he hath no Means to obtain it; and for that it is an Estate executed by the Statute of Uses, so as the Party is in by Law, like unto Tenant in Dower, or by Statute, &c. which may have a Rent-Charge extended, and need not shew the Deed. Cro. Car. 442. And in Things executed, or Estates determined, there need not be any Profert in Curia. 3 Lev. 204. Also an Assignee of Commissioners of Bankrupts, need not shew the Bond to the Bankrupt, because he comes in by Act of Law, &c. Cro. Car. 209. By Statute, no Advantage or Exceptions shall be taken for Want of a Profert in Curia; but the Court shall give Judgment according to the very Right of the Cause, without regarding any such Omission and Defect, except the same be specially and particularly set down, and shewn for Cause of Demurrer. 4 & 5 Ann. cap. 16. Where a Deed is pleaded and shewn in Court, the Deed in Judgment of Law remains in Court all the Term wherein it is shewn; and if it be not denied, then at the End of the Term it is delivered to the Party whose it is: And if it be denied, it shall still remain in Court, for if it be found Non est factum, it shall be damned. 5 Rep. 74, 75, 47. See Monstrans de fait, and Oyer, &c.

Profession (Profectio) Is used particularly for the Entering into any religious Order, &c. by which a Monk offered himself to God, by a Vow of three Things, viz. Obedience, Chastity, and Poverty, which he promised constantly to observe; and this was called Sanctæ Religionis Profectio, and the Monk a Religious professed. New Book Entr. And in our Law, this Entering into Religion, whereby a Man is shut up from all the common Offices of Life, is termed a Civil Death.

Profits. A Devise of the Profits of Lands is a Devise of the Land it self. Dyer 210. A Husband devised the Profits of his Lands to his Wife, until his Son came of Age, this was held to be a Devise of the Lands until that Time: Though if the Land were devised to the Son, and that his Mother should take the Profits of it until he come of Age, &c. this would give the Mother only an Authority, and not an Interest. 2 Leon. 221. By Devise of Profits, the Lands usually pass; unless there are other Words to shew the Intention of the Testator. Moor 753, 758. 2 Nelf. Abr. 1051.

Programma, In the old Saxon signifies a Letter sealed with the King's Seal. Spec. Sax. lib. 3. Art. 34.

Prohibition, (Prohibitio) Is a Writ issuing out of the Chancery, King's Bench, or Common Pleas, to forbid the Spiritual Court, Admiralty Court, &c. to proceed in a Cause there depending, upon suggesting that the Cognisance thereof belongs belongs not to the said Courts, but to the Common Law Courts. F. N. B. 39, 40, &c. Or it may prohibit a Judge of any Temporal Court, from proceeding in any Cause out of their Jurisdictions: And the King's Courts, that may award Prohibitions, being informed by the Plaintiff or Defendant, or by any Stranger, that any Court Temporal or Ecclesiastical do hold Plea where they have no Jurisdiction, may lawfully prohibit that Court, as well after Judgment as before. 2 Inst. 229, 601, 602. 4 Rep. 127. Finch 450. This Writ is directed not only to the Judge, but the Parties; and if the Judge of the inferior Court, or the Party, proceeds notwithstanding the Prohibition, an Attachment may be had, against them, or Action of the Case: But on a Prohibition in the Spiritual Court, the Party may appear, and take a Declaration upon the Suggestion, and go to Trial; and if thereupon it be found against the Plaintiff in the Prohibition, a Writ of Consultation shall be awarded, with Costs. 2 Lill. Abr. 384. Wood's Inst. 570. 8 & 9 W. 3. A Prohibition is generally a proper Remedy where an inferior Court exceeds its Jurisdiction; and Prohibitions are granted either pro defectu Jurisdictionis, or pro defectu Triationis: In a Prohibition, upon Motion for a Consultation, it was insisted, that it ought not to be granted without pleading or demurring to the Prohibition; but it was held, that anciently in B. R. there were no Declarations or Demurrers upon Prohibitions, and therefore Consultations were granted upon Motions. 1 Vent. 180. 3 Salk. 287. In Cases of Prohibitions, where they were granted upon a Motion, the ancient Course was, that the Party prohibited sued out a Scire facias, Quare Consultatio non debet concedi post Prohibitionem, in which Writ the Suggestion was recited, and also the Prohibition granted thereon ad Damnum of the Party: Afterwards, this Practice was altered, and the Course came to be thus, (viz.) upon granting a Prohibition to the Plaintiff, the Court bound him in a Recognizance to prosecute an Attachment of Contempt against the Defendant for suing in the Spiritual Court, &c. after a Prohibition granted, and then to declare upon the Prohibition; so that he who was the Defendant in that Court, now becomes Plaintiff in the Court above. Plew. 472. 3 Salk. 289. A Prohibition lies in all Causes wherein a Habeas Corpus doth lie at Common Law; but it is most commonly granted to the Spiritual Courts, where a Cause belongs to the Temporal Jurisdiction: And the Court ought not to deny a Person a Prohibition that prays it, if there be Cause therefore; the Granting Prohibitions being not a discretionary Act of the Court, but ex merito Justitiae; tho' a Prohibition will not be granted on Motion the last Day of the Term, but sometimes in such a Case, a Rule has been made to stay Proceedings until next Term. 2 Lill. Abr. 385, 388. Raym. 4, 92. Prohibition may be granted to the Court of the Lord Marshal, by the Courts of Common Law, if it exceedeth its Jurisdiction; and it hath been strongly insisted, on, that the Court of the Constable and Marshal may also be prohibited, but there having been no Court holden before the Constable and Marshal for many Years past, little is mentioned in our Books on that Head, 2 Hawk. P. C. 14. The Court of B. R. may by the Common Law grant a Prohibition to the Court of Admiralty, to stay their Proceedings, if they hold Plea of any Matter which the Jurisdiction of their Court doth not extend to: And the Defendant in the Court of Admiralty may have a Prohibition, after he hath pleaded, although he cannot have it to an inferior Court; for an inferior Court doth not draw the Matter in Question ad aliud Examen, but doth proceed therein according to the Common Law; but the Court of Admiralty doth draw the Matter ad aliud Examen, that is to try it by the Civil Law; and therefore, and that the Common Law may not be injured, this Court will use their Authority at any Time to stay Proceedings in the Admiralty, though the Defendant by his incautious Pleading hath allowed their Jurisdiction. Trin. 23 Car. B. R. 2 Lill. Abr. 387. Upon a Suggestion that the Admiralty holds Plea upon a Promise, &c. made infra Corpus Comitatus, which is not triable there, but at Common Law, a Prohibition lies; but the Summise and Suggestion must be absolute and certain, that a Promise was actually made infra Corp. Comitatus. for upon an uncertain Suggestion, no Prohibition can be granted, and no Issue can be taken upon it though it should be false. 2 Lill. 384. If the Court of Admiralty proceeds in any Matter, which is not Maritime, although the Thing were done upon the Sea, the Court of B. R. will grant a Prohibition; the Admiralty having Jurisdiction only in Maritime Causes, viz. such as concern Sea Affairs, and not of all Matters done at Sea, as Contracts, Properties, &c. Ibid. 387. Prohibition doth not lie to the Admiralty to stop Proceedings on a Bond made beyond Sea, sued there; nor for a Suit for Mariners Wages, &c. and a Prohibition lies not to that Court in Cases of Felony, which are to be tried there. 3 Leon. 514. 3 Lev. 60. 2 Lill. 389. Prohibitions may be granted to the Prerogative Court, to hinder them from granting Letters of Administration contray to Law; or to prevent any other Proceedings, which are not agreeable to the Common Law. Hill. 22 Car. B. R. But if the Ecclesiastical or Spiritual Courts proceed wholly on their own Canons, they shall not be prohibited by the Common Law; for they shall be presumed to be the best Judges of their own Laws: Though if they proceed upon Temporal Matters, or act in Derogation of the Common Law, by questioning a Matter not triable by them, &c. Prohibition shall be granted. 2 Roll. Rep. 439. 1 Bulst. 159. Where the Ecclesiastical Court hath the sole Cognisance of a Cause, their Proceedings are not examinable at Common Law, tho' erroneous; and no Prohibition will lie, but an Appeal to the Delegates. March 92. But of Things whereof our Law, and the Ecclesiastical Laws, take Cognisance, the Judges are only to rely upon our Law; and not on the Ecclesiastical Law. Ibid. 84. If a Matter is properly determinable in the Spiritual Court, and they make an erroneous Decree, B. R. will not grant a Prohibition; though if they decree a Matter which they have no Jurisdiction of, this Court will grant a Prohibition to annul the Sentence. 2 Lill. 386. A Prohibition may be granted to the Spiritual Court, after Sentence given in a Cause in that Court; but the Court applied to will not do it until they have heard Counsel on both Sides, although before Sentence they grant it upon a bare Suggestion of the Party, if the Matter suggested will bear it; for a Sentence in an Ecclesiastical Court is in the Nature of a Judgment given at the Common Law, and presumed to be given upon mature Deliberation; wherefore fore their Sentence is not to be made void but by good Advice. Ibid. 388. A Libel was exhibited in the Prerogative Court for a Legacy, and a Prohibition pray'd, for that the Party lived out of the Diocese, &c. upon the Stat. 23 H. 8. But because the Will was proved in that Court, and the Suit was there, and Sentence given for the Legacy, and upon an Appeal to the Delegates that Sentence was affirmed, and Execution granted thereon; it was held too late for a Prohibition. Cro. Car. 69. And by Holt Chief Justice, where an Action is commenced in an inferior Court, which hath no Jurisdiction of the Cause; a Prohibition will not lie after Sentence. 3 Salk. 288. No Prohibition shall be allowed after a Consultation duly granted, by the Stat. 50 Edw. 3. cap. 4. which ordains, that but one Prohibition shall lie in one Cause: A Consultation being once granted, there shall be no new Prohibition upon the same Libel; unless it is apparent that the Consultation was unduly obtained, when it is otherwise. 1 Leon. 130. It is a Rule, that a Prohibition shall not be granted where the Proceedings in the Ecclesiastical Court are not against the Law of the Land, nor the Liberty of the Subject. Cro. Jac. 431. If a Suit is for a Pension, it being merely Spiritual, no Prohibition shall be granted. Cro. Jac. 666. But where Property, or the Freehold of an Office, &c. comes in Question, a Prohibition shall go to the Spiritual Court. 4 Leon. 261. Raym. 88. And so where a Custom is alledged in the Ecclesiastical Court: Though a bare Prescription is not sufficient for a Prohibition, except it concerns a Layman; for it was never granted, where a Parson claimed a Pension by Prescription. 2 Lev. 103. 2 Salk. 350. If in suing for Tithes, &c. the Boundaries of Parishes come in Question, Prohibition lies; because the Bounds of Parishes are triable at Common Law. 1 Cro. 228. Though a Prohibition was denied, where the Bounds of two Villis in the same Parish were contested. 1 Lev. 78. And it hath been adjudged, that where a Thing triable at Law is collateral to the Complaint in a Libel, and of which the Spiritual Court have original Jurisdiction, they shall not be prohibited; as where the Libel is for the Tithes of such a Close, here they have an original Jurisdiction of the Cause, viz. for Tithes; then the Defendant pleads that it is not his Close, but the Close of another Person; this is triable at Law, but being collateral to the original Cause, it shall be tried in the Spiritual Court. Sid. 89. 3 Nels. Abr. 12. A Libel for Tithes, the Defendant pleaded an Award, and pray'd a Prohibition for that an Award is Matter triable at Law; but a Prohibition was denied: And it is the same if a Suit is for a Legacy, and the Defendant suggests Payment for a Prohibition, or if an Acquittance is pleaded; no Prohibition shall go, because where the Spiritual Court hath a Jurisdiction of the original Matter, if any subsequent Matter should arise, and which is triable at Law, that shall not deprive the Spiritual Court of their Jurisdiction; though if that Court shall adjudge otherwise upon an Acquittance, or an Award, than according to the Common Law, in such Case a Prohibition may be had. 1 Roll. Rep. 12. Moor 413. Ecclesiastical Courts, when the principal Cause is of Ecclesiastical Cognisance, may try Matters triable at Law, which come in incidentally: And it has been ruled, that where a Thing incident to a Suit in the Spiritual Court is of a Temporal Nature, they must try it in the same Manner in that Court, as it would have been tried at Law, or a Prohibition will be granted; but if the Matter incident is of a Spiritual Nature, they are to try it according to their own Law; for Instance; If they require two Witnesses to the Proof of a Revocation of a Will, a Prohibition will not lie, because such Proof is required at Law; but if they require two Witnesses to prove a Release, or refuse to admit the Proof of one Witness to the Payment of a Legacy, &c. a Prohibition may be granted. 2 Lev. 64. Show. 158, 172. 3 Salk. 288. And if the Spiritual Court refuse a proper Plea to a Libel, &c. the Refusal is a temporal Injury, for which Prohibition lieth. Hob. 307. Cro. Eliz. 655. Where Articles ex Officio are exhibited against any one in the Spiritual Court for criminal Matters, and the Party is required to answer upon Oath, he may plead non tenetur respondere, and if they will proceed, a Prohibition shall be awarded; but not if the Articles are for civil Matters, and they refuse such Plea. Sid. 374. 3 Nels. Abr. 8. Adjudged, that a Refusal of the Copy of the Libel; or where the Libel against the Defendant in the Spiritual Court is too general, these are good Causes for a Prohibition. Hardr. 364. It is always granted for denying a Copy of the Libel, because the Party ought to know whether the Matter is within the Jurisdiction or not, and how to answer. 1 Roll. Rep. 337. 2 Salk. 553. It is never too late to move B. R. for a Prohibition, in a Case where the Spiritual Court had no original Jurisdiction. Mod. Ca. 252. 1 Mod. 273. If a Man promise another 10 l. if he will marry his Daughter; if he marry the Daughter, and the other will not pay the Money, he shall not libel for the same in the Spiritual Court; if he doth, Prohibition will lie: But if he promise one with his Daughter in Marriage 10 l. &c. if he doth marry the Daughter, and he do not pay the Money, he may sue for it in the Spiritual Court, because it concerns Matrimony. 22 Edw. 3. lib. Aff. And if a Person gives Goods in Marriage with his Daughter, and afterwards they are divorced; the Wife may sue in the Spiritual Court for the Goods, and no Prohibition lieth thereof. 13 H. 3. Prohibitions concerning Marriages, and to dissolve a Marriage, &c. 2 Lutw. 1059, 1075. A Parson grants to one by Deed, that he shall be discharged of Tithes of his Lands, and afterwards he sueth in the Spiritual Court for the Tithes, &c. it is said that he shall not have a Prohibition, for he may suggest this Matter in the Spiritual Court, to discharge him of the Tithes: But if it were upon a Composition made before Time of Memory, and now the Parson sues for the Tithes of those Lands, there he shall have a Prohibition against the Parson, &c. Mich. 8 Ed. 4. 14. In a Suggestion for a Prohibition to the Ecclesiastical Court in a Cause of Tithes, and other Spiritual Profits, the Suggestion must be made good to the Court by two sufficient Witnesses, within six Months after such Prohibition granted; provided the Suggestion doth not contain a Negative. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. cap. 13. 2 Inst. 662. By the Statute articuli Cleri, for Tithes, (if the Right ariseth not from the Rights of Patronage, or they amount not to a fourth Part, &c.) Oblations, Mortuaries, Commutation of corporal Penance for Money, Defamation, &c. no Prohibition shall be granted. 9 Ed. 2. 2 Inst. 619. 4 Rep. 20. And see 2 Lutw. 1043, 1057.

1062, 1066, &c. Before the Reign of King Charles 1. many Prohibitions were granted for defamatory Words, in calling Women Whores, &c. but since, such Prohibitions have been denied, the Spiritual Court having a Jurisdiction in Cases of Whoredom, they shall not be prohibited. 1 Mod. 21 Jones 246. Cro. Car. 229. No Prohibition will lie at the Common Law upon a Suit in the Spiritual Court for the Word Whore, because it is of Ecclesiastical Cognisance. 2 Lev. 63. But by the Custom of London, it is actionable to call a Woman Whore; and therefore where the Libel is for that Word there, a Prohibition will be granted. 2 Lutw. 1039. Stile 69, 229, 245. A Prohibition was moved for to stay a Suit for these Words, You were such a one's Whore, before he married you; and on a Suggestion that the Plaintiff gave the Defendant provoking Language, calling him Rogue, &c. but the Prohibition was denied, the Provocation being no Bar to the Suit in the Spiritual Court, though it might be a Mitigation of Damages in an Action at Common Law. 3 Lev. 137. A Person called a Woman Bitch, Whore, and an old Bawd, and on a Libel in the Spiritual Court, a Prohibition was granted; because some of the Words are punishable at Common Law, and some in the Spiritual Court; and if a Prohibition should not be granted, the Plaintiff might be doubly vexed. 3 Mod. 74. On a Libel for calling a Woman Bawd, it was held, this being an Offence of a mixed Nature, and punishable either at Common Law, or in the Spiritual Court; if the Suit is commenced in that Court, a Prohibition shall not go, because the Prosecutor hath determined her Election in which Court to sue; but if it had been for keeping a Bawdy-House, which is an Offence that may be prosecuted in a Leet, a Prohibition shall go. W. Jones 246. Palm. 379, 521. 3 Nelf. Abr. 2. Libel for these Words, You are a Rogue, Rascal, and Son of a Whore; and the Suggestion for a Prohibition was, that they were Words of Heat and Passion; but a Prohibition was not allowed; for the Words import that his Mother is a Whore, and he a Bastard, and so both are scandalised, and this is an Ecclesiastical Scandal. 3 Lev. 119. One called another Whoremaster, on a Libel, &c. it was urged that this was a Word of Passion, and not defamatory; but adjudged it is the same as calling a Woman Whore, which is an Ecclesiastical Slander. 2 Salk. 692. Prohibition will not lie upon a Suit in the Spiritual Court by Husband and Wife, for calling the Husband Cuckold; for the Words charge the Wife with Incontinence, and for that Reason she shall have this Suit in the Ecclesiastical Court, to punish the Defamation that subjects her to Penance in the Spiritual Court: But if the Husband had sued solely, then a Prohibition might be granted; because he doth not incur such Danger by speaking of the Words. 2 Lev. 66. 2 Lill. 391. And yet it hath been ruled, where Husband and Wife libelled in the Spiritual Court for calling the Husband Cuckold, that a Prohibition shall go; and that they cannot both sue in that Court for that Word. Hill. 13 W. 3. 3 Salk. 288. And to call a Man Cuckold, hath been resolved not to be an Ecclesiastical Scandal, but that Wittal is; for that implies his Knowledge and Consent to the Adultery of his Wife. 2 Salk. 692. These Words were spoken of a Parson, he is a lying Fellow, and has lain with all the Women at H. &c. a Prohibition was refused; for these Words are scandalous being spoke of a Parson, though not actionable at Law. 3 Lev. 18. But to say of a Parson, He hath no Sense, he is a Dunce, Blockhead, &c. Prohibition hath been granted; because a Parson is not punishable in the Spiritual Court for being a Blockhead. 2 Salk. 693. So for calling a Parson Fool, &c. in a Thing which doth not concern his Profession. 2 Lev. 41. And where a Suit is in the Spiritual Court for Defamation, the Matter ought to be intirely of Ecclesiastical Cognisance; otherwise a Prohibition will lie. 4 Rep. 20. Moor 873. If one call another Drunkard, as this may be punished as well in the Temporal as Spiritual Courts, a Prohibition shall be granted. Cro. Car. 285. 2 Roll. 296. 3 Salk. 288. If a Man sue another Person in the County-Court for Debt, &c. amounting to the Sum of 40 s. or above, the Party shall have a Prohibition to the Sheriff, that he do not hold Plea thereof, &c. 2 Lev. 230. New Nat. Brev. 103. And the common Form of a Prohibition runs thus: Rex A. B. &c. salutem. Prohibemus vobis, ne ten. Placitum in Cur. &c. de, &c. unde C. D. querunt, quod E. trahit eos in Placitum coram vobis, &c. And to the Party himself; Prohibemus tibi, ne sequ. Placitum in Curia, &c. de, &c. unde C. queritur quod tu trahis eum in Cur. &c.

Prohibitio de vasso directa Parti, A Writ judicial directed to the Tenant, prohibiting him from making Waste upon the Land in Controversy, during the Suit. Reg. Judic. 21. And it hath been adjudged, that a Prohibition shall be granted to any one who commits Waste, either in the House or Buildings of the Incumbent of a Spiritual Living; or that cuts down any Trees on the Glebe, or doth any other Waste. Moor 917. 3 Nelf. Abr. 5.

Pro indiviso, Is taken in Law for a Possession or Occupation of Lands or Tenements belonging to two or more Persons, whereof none knows his several Portion; as Coparceners, before Partition. Bract. lib. 5.

Proles (Lat.) In English Progeny, are such Issue as proceed from a lawful Marriage; though if the Word be used at large, it may denote others.

Prolocutor of the Convocation, (Prolocutor Domus Convocationis) Is an Officer chosen by Persons Ecclesiastical, publicly assembled in Convocation by Virtue of the King's Writ, at every Parliament: And there are two Prolocutors, one of the Higher House of Convocation, and the other of the Lower House; the latter of which is chosen by the Lower House, and presented to the Bishops of the Higher House as their Prolocutor, that is the Person by whom the Lower House of Convocation intend to deliver their Resolutions to the Upper House, and have their own House especially ordered and governed: His Office is to cause the Clerk to call the Names of such as are of that House, when he sees Cause; to read all Things propounded, gather Suffrages, &c.

Promisse, (Promissio) Is when upon a valuable Consideration, Persons bind themselves by Words to do or perform such a Thing as is agreed on; upon which an Action may be grounded: And a Promise against a Promise is a sufficient Ground for an Action. Cro. Eliz. 543, 703, 848. If a Promise be to pay a Sum of Money, by several monthly Payments, the Promise being intire, a Breach of Payment of the first Month, is a Breach Breach of the whole Promise. 2 Roll Rep. 47, See Mutual Promise, and Action on the Case.

Promoters, (Promotores) Are those who in popular and penal Actions prosecute Offenders, in their Name and the King's, as Informers do, having Part of the Fines or Penalties for their Reward: They belonged chiefly to the Exchequer and King's Bench; and Sir Edward Coke calls them Turbidum hominum genus. 3 Inst. 191.

Promulge a Law, (Primulgare Legem) Is to declare, publish, and proclaim a Law to the People; and so Promulged, Promulgatus, signifies published, proclaimed. 6 H. 1. cap. 4.

Proof, (Probatio) Is the Trial or making out of any Thing, by a Jury, Witnesses, &c. And Bracton says, their is Probatio duplex, viz. Viva voce, by Witnesses; and Probatio mortua, by Deeds, Writings, &c. Proof, according to Lilly, is either in giving of Evidence to a Jury upon a Trial, or else upon Interrogatories, or by Copies of Records, or Exemplifications of them. 2 Lill. Abr. 393. Though where a Man speaks generally of Proof, it shall be intended of Proof by a Jury, which in the strict Signification is legal Proof. 3 Bulst. 56. The Condition of a Bond was to pay Money as an Apprentice should mispend, upon Proof made by the Confession of the Apprentice or otherwise; and it was held, that although generally Proof shall be intended to be made at a Trial by the Jury, in this Case it being referred to the Confession of the Party, it is sufficient if he confesses it under his Hand. 2 Cro. 381. 3 Nels. Abr. 15. It hath been insisted upon, that the Law knows no other Proof but before a Jury in a judicial Way, and that which is on Record; but if the Proof is modified by the Agreement of the Parties, that it shall be in such a Manner, or before such a Person, that Modification which allows another Manner of Proof shall be observed, and prevail against the legal Construction of the Word Proof. Sid. 313. 2 Lutw. 436. Where in Agreements, &c. required to be proved, no particular Form is directed how the Proof shall be made, the Plaintiff may bring his Action, and aver that the Thing was done; and the Defendant may take Issue that it was not done, and then the Plaintiff must prove the Doing it. Brownl. 57, 33. Cro. Eliz. 205. Cro. Jac. 232. A Plaintiff said that a Wager was won by Deceit, the Defendant replied, give me a Shilling, and if you can prove that it was won by me by Deceit, I will give you five Pounds; and in an Action on the Case brought against the Defendant upon his Promise to pay the five Pounds, the Plaintiff alledged in facto that he had got the Wager by Deceit, and it was adjudged, that he need not make any other Proof of it, but in this Action. 3 Bulst. 56. Cro. Eliz. 205. In Articles, &c. we bind our selves in the Penalty of 100*l.* &c. to be paid upon due Proof of a Breach; Proof at the Trial will maintain the Action. Lutw. 441. And Proof may be in the same Action, in several other Cases. Cro. Jac. 188, 488. Proof by Witnesses, &c. See Evidence.

Partibus Liberandis, Is an ancient Writ for the Partition of Lands between Co-heirs. Reg. Orig. 316.

Property, (Proprietas) Is the highest Right a Man hath or can have to any Thing; and was first introduced, that every Man might know what was his own. Stud. Compan. 159. Before the Flood, there was no such Thing as particular Property, but an universal Right instead of it;

every Man might then take to his Use what he pleased, and what he had so possessed himself of, another could not, without manifest Injury, take away from him: But upon the Increase of People, Trade and Industry, Property was gained by Purchase, and other lawful Means; for the securing whereof, proper Laws were ordained. Lex Mercat. 2. Property in Lands and Tenements at this Day, is acquired either by Entry, Discent by Law, or Conveyance; and in Goods and Chattels, it may be gained a great many Ways, tho' it is usually by Deed of Gift, or Bargain and Sale. 2 Lill. Abr. 400. And there are three Manner of Properties, viz. Property absolute; Property qualified; and Property possessory: And an absolute Proprietor hath an absolute Power to dispose of his Estate as he pleases, subject to the Laws of the Land. Ibid. Every Owner of Goods, &c. hath a general Property in them: Though a Legatee of Goods hath no Property in the Goods given him by Will until actually delivered him by the Executor, so that he hath the Possession. Mich. 23 Car. B. R. And though by a bare Agreement, a Bargain and Sale of Goods may be so far perfected, without Delivery or Payment of Money, that the Parties may have an Action of the Case for Non-performance, yet no Property vests until there is a Delivery; and therefore it is said if a second Buyer gets a Delivery, he has the better Title. 3 Salk. 61, 62. Property is of Things in Possession, or Action: In Possession, either generally, when no other can have them from the Owner, or with him, without his Act or Default; or specially, when some other hath an Interest with him, or where there is a Property also in another as well as in the Owner; as by Bailment, Delivery of Things to a Carrier, or to an Innkeeper, where Goods are pawned or pledged, distrained, or leased out for a Term, &c. And Property in Action is when one hath an Interest to sue at Law for the Things themselves, or for Damages for them; as for Debts, Wrongs, &c. and all these Things, in Possession, or Action, one may have in his own Right, or in the Right of another, as Executor. Wood's Inst. 314. A Person hath such a special Property in Goods delivered to him to keep, that he may maintain Actions against Strangers, that take them out of his Possession: It is the same of Things delivered to a Carrier; and when Goods are pawned, &c. Hill. 22 Car. 2. Lill. Abr. 400, 401. If a Man hires a Horse for a particular Time to ride such a Journey, he hath a special Property in the Horse during that Time against all Men, even against the right Owner; against whom he may have an Action if he disturbs him in the Possession. Cro. Eliz. 236. But it hath been adjudged, that if a Man deliver Goods to another to keep for a certain Time, and then to redeliver them to the Owner; if he to whom they were delivered doth sell them in open Market, before the Day appointed for the Redelivery, the Owner may seize them wherever he finds them, because the general Property was always in him, and not altered by the Sale. Mich. 7 Jac. Godb. 160. 3 Nels. Abr. 18. And if one delivers a Horse, or other Cattle, or Goods, to another to keep, and he kills the Horse, or spoils the Goods, Action of Trespass lies against him; for by the Killing or Spoiling, the Property is destroyed. 5 Rep. 13. Wild Beasts, Deer, Hares, Conies, &c. though they belong to a Man upon Account of his Game and Pleasure, none can have an absolute Real Property in; but if they are inclosed and made Tame, there may be a qualified and possessory Property in them. One may have absolute Property in Things of a base Nature, as Mastiff-Dogs, Hounds, Spaniels, &c. but not in Things Fera Natura, unless when dead. Dalt. 371. Finch. 176. 11 Rep. 50. Raym. 16. Property in Goods and Chattels, &c. may be forfeited or lost, by Treason, Felony, Flight, Outlawry, by their becoming Deodand, Waif, Estray, &c. Bac. Elem. 77, 78.

Property in Highways, &c. He that hath the Land that lies on both Sides of a Highway, hath the Property of the Soil of the Highway in him, notwithstanding the King hath the Privilege for his People to pass through it at their Pleasures; for the Law presumes that the Way was at first taken out of the Lands of the Party that owns the Lands lying upon both Sides of the Way: And divers Lords of Manors do claim the Soil as Part of their Waste. Mich. 22 Car. B. R. 2 Lill. Abr. 400. If the Sea, or a River, by violent Incurfion carries away the Soil of Ground in so great a Quantity, that he that had the Property in the Soil, can know where his Land is, he shall have his Land; but if his Soil or Land be insensibly, or by little and little, wasted by the Sea or River, he must lose his Property, because he cannot prove which is his Land. Pasch. 1650. A Tenant hath by Law only a special Property in the Trees on the Lands demised, so long as they remain Part of the Freehold; for as soon as they are severed, his Property is gone. 11 Rep. 82.

Property alter'd. To alter or transfer Men's Properties is lawful; but to violate Property is never lawful, Property being a sacred Thing which ought not to be violated. And every Man (if he hath not forfeited it) hath a Property and Right allowed him by the Law, to defend his Life, Liberty, and Estate; and if either be violated, it gives an Action to redress the Injury, and punish the Wrong-doer. 2 Lill. Abr. 400.

Prophecies, (Prophetia) Are in our Statutes taken for Foretellings of Things to come, in hidden mysterious Speeches; whereby great Commotions have been often caused in this Kingdom, and Attempts made by those to whom such Speeches promis'd good Success, tho' the Words were mystically framed, and pointed only to the Cognisance, Arms, or some other Quality of the Parties: But these for Distinction-sake, are called False or Phantastical Prophecies. 3 Ed. 6. c. 15. False Prophecies, (where Persons pretend extraordinary Commissions from God) to raise Jealousies in the People, or terrify them with impending Judgments, &c. are punishable at Common Law, as Impostures: And by Statute 5 Eliz. c. 15. None shall publish or set forth any false Prophecy, with an Intent to raise Sedition, in Pain of 100*l.* for the first Offence, and a Year's Imprisonment; and for the second Offence to forfeit all his Goods and Chattels, and suffer Imprisonment during Life: The Prosecution to be within Six Months. 3 Inst. 128, 129. To prophecy when the King shall die, hath been antiently held to be Treason. Roll. Rep. 88.

Propoztum, Is used in antient Charters for Purport, Intention, or Meaning. Chart. 31 H. 3.

Propouners, Are mentioned with Monopolists and Projectors; and signify the same as Monopolists. 3 Inst.

Proprietary, (Proprietarius) Is he that hath a Property in any Thing: But was heretofore commonly applied to him that had the Profus of an Ecclesiastical Benefice to himself, and his Heirs or Successors; as in Times past Abbots and Priors had, to them and their Successors. And Proprietarii Monachi were those Monks who had any Goods or Substance of their Own. Mon. Angl. Tom 3. pag. 307.

Proprietate probanda, Is a Writ to the Sheriff to inquire of the Property of Goods distrained, when the Defendant claimeth Property upon a Replevin sued; for the Sheriff cannot proceed 'till that Matter is decided, and Property ought to be tried by Writ: And if it is found for the Plaintiff, then the Sheriff is to make Replevin; but if for the Defendant, he can proceed no further. E. N. B. 77. Finch. 316, 450. 1 Inst. 145.

Pro rata, Is as much as pro Portione; as Jointenants, &c. are to pay Pro rata, i. e. in Proportion to their Estates. 16 Car. 2. c. 6.

Prologue, (Prorogare) Signifies to prolong, or put off to another Day. 6 Hen. 8. c. 8. Prorogation of the Parliament, and Adjournment were antiently used as Synonima's; but of late there hath been a Distinction, a Prorogation making a Session, and an Adjournment only a Continuance. Vide Parliament.

Protection, (Protectio) Is generally taken for that Benefit and Safety which every Subject hath by the King's Laws; every Man who is a loyal Subject is in the King's Protection; and in this Sense to be out of the King's Protection, is to be excluded the Benefit of the Laws. 25 Ed. 3. c. 22. In a special Signification, a Protection of the King is an Act of Grace, by Writ sued out of the Chancery, which lies where a Man will pass over Sea in the King's Service; and by this Writ (when allow'd in Court) he shall be quit of all Manner of Suits between him and any other Person, except Assises of Novel Disseisin, Assise of Darein Presentment, Attaints, &c. until his Return into England. 2 Lill. Abr. 398. Protection is an Immunity granted by the King to a certain Person, to be free from Suits at Law for a certain Time, and for some reasonable Cause; and 'tis a Branch of the King's Prerogative so to do: There are two Sorts of these Protections, one is cum Clausula volumus; and of that Protection there are three Particulars; one is called Quia profecturus, and is for him who is going beyond Sea in the King's Service; another is Quia moraturus, which is for him who is already abroad in the King's Service, as an Ambassador, &c. And another is for the King's Debtor, that he be not sued 'till the King's Debt is satisfied: And the other Sort of Protection is cum Clausula nolumus, &c. which is granted to a Spiritual Corporation, that their Goods or Chattels be not taken by the Officers of the King, for the King's Service; it may likewise be granted to a Spiritual Person single, or to a Temporal Person. Reg. Orig. 23. 3 Nelf. Abr. 20. On a Person's going over Sea, in the Service of the King, Writ of Protection shall issue, to be quit of Suits 'till he returns; and then a Resummons may be had against him: But one may proceed against the Defendant having such Protection, until he comes and shews his Protection in Court, and hath it allow'd; when his Plea or Suit shall go sine die; though if after it appears that the Party who hath the Protection, goes not about the Business for which the Protection was granted, the Plaintiff may have a Repeal thereof, &c. Terms de Ley 496. 2 Lill. Abr. 398. A Protection is to be made for one Year, and may be renewed from Year to Year; but if it be made for two or three Years, the Justices will not allow the same: And if the King grant a Protection to his Debtor, that he be not sued till his Debt is paid; on these Protections none shall be delay'd, the Party is to answer and go to Judgment, and Execution shall be stay'd. 1 Inst. 130. 25 Ed. 3. The King granted a Protection to one of his Debtors; and upon a Demurrer it was allowed, that by the Statute 25 Ed. 3. c. 19. Protections of this Kind are expressly, that none shall be delay'd upon them; but the Party shall answer and go to Judgment, and Execution shall stay: And the Court ordered, that when it came to Execution they would advise, so a Respondeas Ouster was awarded. Cro. Jac. 477. In all Protections there ought to be Cause shewn for granting them: If obtain'd pending the Suit, they are naught; and a Person giving Bail to an Action on Arrest, 'tis said may not plead his Protection; one may not be discharged out of Prison to which he is committed in Execution, by Protection to serve the King, &c. Nor will a Protection be allowed where a Person is taken on a Capias Utlagatum, after Judgment; for though the Capias Utlagatum is at the King's Suit in the first Place, it is in the second Degree for the Subject. Latch. 197. 1 Leon. 185. Dyer 162. Hob. 115. But in an Assumpsit, a Protection under the Great Seal was brought into Court, for that the Defendant was in the Wars in Flanders, &c. and it was allow'd, though after an Exigent. 3 Lev. 332. The Plaintiff in Action cannot cast a Protection; for the Protection is always for the Defendant, and shall be for him, if it be not in special Cases where the Plaintiff becomes Defendant. New Nat. Br. 62. And no Protection shall be allowed against the King. 1 Inst. 131. There are many Kinds of Protections; but they are rarely used, being often ousted by Act of Parliament. Wood's Inst. 571.

Protections of Parliament. Peers, and Members of Parliament, &c. by their Privilege, may protest their Menial Servants, and those actually employ'd by them in Service; but by a late Order, this extends not to others, on written Protections. See Privilege.

Protection of the Courts at Westminster. The Protection of the Court of B. R. is allowed for any Person who attends his own Business in this Court, or by Virtue of any Subpoena; but this is more properly Privilege.

Protest, (Protestari) Hath two divers Applications; one by Way of Caution, to call Witness, as it were, openly to affirm, that a Man doth not yield his Consent to any Act which may be prejudicial to him, or but conditionally; or that he doth not agree to the Proceeding of a Judge, in a Court wherein his Jurisdiction is doubtful, &c. The other is by Way of Complaint, to protest a Man's Bill of Exchange, refused Acceptance or Payment; which is necessary to recover Damages, &c. See Bill of Exchange.

Protestando, Is a Word made use of to avoid double Pleading in Actions; it prevents the Party that makes it from being concluded by the Plea he is about to make, that Issue cannot be joined upon it; and it is also a Form of Pleading, where one will not directly affirm or deny any Thing alledged by another or himself: In the first Case, it is where a Man pleadeth a Thing which he dares not affirm, or that he cannot plead for Fear of Making his Plea double; as in Title to Land by two Descents, the Defendant must plead one of them, and put the Word Protestando instead of dicit, as to the other, that such a one died seised, &c. And in the last Case, when one is to answer to two Matters, and by the Law he ought to plead but to one; then in the Beginning of his Plea he may say Protestando, that such Matter is not true, and add to his Plea, Pro Placito dicit; and so he may take Issue upon the other Part of the Matter. Plowd. 276. Finch 359. Practif. Attorn. 1st Edit. pag. 83. A Protestando must not be repugnant, &c. And effectual Matters in Bar ought not to be taken in a Plea by Protestation: A Protestando is sometimes thus; Protestando non Cognoscendo such and such Things, Pro Placito in hac parte dicit, &c.

Protestant Dissenters, Exempt from Penalties, &c. See Dissenters.

Prothonotary, (Protonotarius, vel Primus Notarius) Is a Chief Officer or Clerk of the Common Pleas and King's Bench; and for the first named Court there are three Prothonotaries, and the other hath but one: He of the King's Bench records all Actions Civil; as the Clerk of the Crown Office doth all Criminal Causes in that Court: Those of the Common Pleas, since the Order 14 Jas. 1. upon an Agreement entered into between the Prothonotaries and Filizers of that Court, do enter and inrol all Manner of Declarations, Pleadings, Assises, Judgments, and Actions: They make out all judicial Writs; except Writs of Habeas Corpus and Disfranchis Furator. (for which there is a particular Office erected, called the Habeas Corpora Office). Also Writs of Execution, and of Seisin, of Privilege for removing Causes from inferior Courts, Writs of Procedendo, of Scire facias in all Cases, and Writs to inquire of Damages; and all Process upon Prohibitions, and on Writs of Audita Querela, False Judgment, &c. and they enter Recognizances acknowledged in that Court; and all Common Recoveries; and make Exemplifications of Records, &c. 5 H. 4. cap. 14.

Proto-forestarius, Was he whom our antient Kings made chief of Windsor Forest, to hear all Causes; a Kind of Lord Chief Justice in Eyre. Camd. Britan. 213.

Prover, Anno 28 Edw. 1. and 5 Hen. 4. See Probator.

Providentia, Provisions of Meat and Drink. Knighton, anno 1354.

Province, (Provincia) Signifies an out Country, govern'd by a Deputy or Lieutenant. Litt. Dist. It was used among the Romans for a Country, without the Limits of Italy, gain'd to their Subjection by the Sword; whereupon that Part of France next the Alps was so-called by them, and still retains the Name. But with us, a Province is most usually taken for the Circuit of an Archbishop's Jurisdiction; as the Province of Canterbury, and that of York: Yet it is mentioned in some of our Statutes, for several Parts of the Realm; and sometimes for a County. 32 H. 8. c. 23.

Provincial, (Provincialis) Of or belonging to a Province; also a chief Governor of a Religious Order, as of Friars, &c. Stat. 4 Hen. 4. c. 17.

Provision, (Provisio) By the Laws of England, as well as the Canon Law, is the Providing a Bishop, or any other Ecclesiastical Person, with a Living, by the Pope, before the Incumbent is dead: It is also called Gratia expectativa, or Man data.

datum de providendo; the great Abuse whereof heretofore in this Kingdom, occasioned divers Statutes to prevent it. 35 Ed. 3. c. 22. 37 & 38 Ed. 3. 2, 3 & 7 R. 2.

Provisiones. The Decrees which were made in a Parliament at Oxford, Anno 1258. are termed Provisiones. Contin. Matt. Paris.

Proviso, Is a Condition inserted into any Deed, on the Performance whereof the Validity of the Deed depends; and sometimes it is only a Covenant, Secundum subjectam Materiam. 2 Rep. 70. 2 Lill. Abr. 399. The Word Proviso is generally taken for a Condition; but it differs from it in several Respects, for a Condition is usually created by the Grantor or Lessor, but a Proviso by the Grantee or Lessee; there is likewise a Difference in Placing the Proviso, as if immediately after the Habendum, the next Covenant is that the Lessee shall repair, provided always that the Lessor shall find Timber, this is no Condition; nor is it a Condition, if it comes among other Covenants after the Habendum, and is created by the Words of the Lessee, as if the Lessor covenants to scour the Ditches, Proviso that the Lessee carry away the Soil, &c. 3 Nels. Abr. 21. It hath been held, that the Law hath not appointed any proper Place in a Deed to insert a Proviso; but that when it doth not depend on any other Sentence, but stands originally by it self, and when it is created by the Words of the Grantor, &c. and is restrictive or compulsory, to enforce the Grantee to do some Act, in such Case the Word Proviso makes a Condition, though 'tis intermix'd with other Covenants, and doth not immediately follow the Habendum. 2 Rep. 70. A Proviso always implies a Condition, if there be no Words subsequent which may change it into a Covenant: Also it is a Rule in Provisoes, that where the Proviso is that the Lessee, &c. shall do, or not do such a Thing, and no Penalty is added to it; this is a Condition, otherwise it is void; but if a Penalty be annexed, it is otherwise. Cro. Eliz. 248. 1 Lev. 155. And where a Proviso is a Condition, it ought to do the Office of a Condition, i. e. make the Estate conditional, and shall have Reference to the Estate, and be annexed to it; but shall not make it void without Entry, as a Limitation will: A Lease was made for Years, rendring Rent at such a Day, Proviso if the Rent be arrear for one Month after, the Lease to be void; the Question was, whether this was a Condition or Limitation; for if it was a Condition, then the Lease is not determined without Entry; adjudg'd, that it was a Limitation, though the Words were conditional, because it appeared by the Lease it self that it was the express Agreement of the Parties that the Lease should be void upon Non-payment of the Rent; and it shall be void without Entry. Moor 291. 1 Nels. Abr. 22, 26. If a Proviso be the mutual Words of both Parties to the Deed, it amounts to a Covenant: And a Proviso by Way of Agreement to pay, is a Covenant, and an Action well lies upon it. 2 Rep. 72. The Plaintiff convey'd an Office to the Defendant, Proviso that out of the first Profits he pay the Plaintiff 500*l.* And it was resolv'd, that an Action of Covenant lay on this Proviso; for 'tis not by Way of Condition or Defeasance, but in Nature of a Covenant to pay the Money. 1 Lev. 155. But a Defendant in Consideration of 400*l.* granted his Lands to the Plaintiff for ninety-nine Years, Proviso if he pay so much yearly during the Life of S. T. &c. or 400*l.* within two Years after his Death, then the Grant to be void, and there was a Bond for Performance of Covenants; in Action of Debt brought upon this Bond, it was adjudg'd, that there being no express Covenant to pay the Money, there could be no Breach assigned on this Proviso. 2 Mod. 36. In Articles of Agreement to make a Lease, Proviso that the Lessee shall pay so much Rent, &c. although there be no special Words of Reservation of Rent, the Proviso is a good Reservation. Cro. Eliz. 486. And Proviso with Words of Grant added to it, may make a Grant, and not a Condition. Moor 174. Yet in the Case of a Lease for Life, Proviso if the Lessee died before the End of Sixty Years, that his Executors should enjoy it for so many Years as would make up the said Sixty Years; it was held, that by this Proviso the Lessee had no Estate for Years, nor his Executors any Remainder of a Term, because nothing was limited thereby to the Lessee for Life as a Remainder, to him and his Executors. 1 And. 19. A Proviso to make Leases, in a Covenant to raise Uses, upon the general Consideration of Natural Love and Affection to Children, &c. it is said is void; though such a Proviso might be good, where the Estate is executed by Fine, Recovery, &c. because of the Transmutation of the Estate, and for that in this Case Uses arise without Consideration. 1 Rep. 176. Moor 144. 2 Lill. Abr. 402. In a Deed, a Proviso, that if the Son disturb the other Uses, &c. that then a Term granted to him, and the Uses to the Heirs of his Body, shall be void; this Proviso is sufficient to cease the other Uses, on Disturbance. 8 Rep. 90, 91. But a Proviso to make an Estate, limited to one and the Heirs Males of his Body, to cease as if he was naturally dead, on his Attempting any Act by which the Limitation of the Land, or any Estate in Tail, should be undone, barred, &c. hath been adjudg'd not good; because the Estate-tail is not determined by the Death of Tenant in Tail, but by his Dying without Issue Male. Dyer 351. 1 Rep. 83. A Testator devised his Lands to one and the Heirs Males of his Body, Proviso that if he attempt to alien, then his Estate to cease, and remain to another; the Proviso is void. 1 Vent. 521. A Proviso that would take away the whole Effect of a Grant, as not to receive the Profits of Lands granted, &c. is void; and so is a Proviso that is repugnant to the express Words of the Grant: In a Will, a Testator made another his Executor, provided he did not administer his Estate; adjudged this Proviso is void for Repugnancy. Cro. Eliz. 107. Dyer 3. And if a Proviso is good at first, and afterwards it happens, that there is no other Remedy but that which was restrain'd; the Remedy shall be had, notwithstanding the Restraint. Wood's Inst. 231. Where a Proviso is Parcel of, or abridgeth a Covenant, it doth not make a Condition, but an Exception; when 'tis annex'd to an Exception in a Deed, 'tis an Explanation; and where added at the End of any Covenant, there it extends only to defeat that Covenant. 4 Leon. 72, 73. Moor 105, 471. See Deed.

Proviso, concerning Matters judicial, is where the Plaintiff in an Action desists in Prosecuting his Suit, and doth not bring it to Trial in convenient Time; the Defendant in such Case may take out the Venire facias to the Sheriff, which hath in it these Words, Proviso quod, &c. To the End, that if the Plaintiff take out any Writ to that Purpose, the Sheriff shall summon but one Jury upon them both; and this is called going to Trial by Proviso. Old Nat. Br. 159. By the standing Rules of the Court of B. R. if a Plaintiff will not enter his Issue, the Defendant may by Rule compel him to enter it; and if 'tis entered, and he will not carry down the Cause to Trial, the Defendant may carry it down by Proviso. 3 Salk. 362. Process may be taken out by the Defendant in Criminal Cases by Proviso in Appeals, in the same Manner as in other Actions, on the Default of the Appellant; but not in Indictments, nor in Actions where the King is sole Party; and it hath been question'd, whether there can be any such Process in Informations Qui tam. 2 Hawk. 407, 408.

Provisor, Is taken generally for him that hath the Care of providing Things necessary; but more especially in our Laws it signifies one that formerly sued to the Court of Rome for a Provision. Stat. 25 Ed. 3.

Provisor Monasterii, The Treasurer or Steward of a Religious House. Cowel.

Provisor Victualium, The King's Purveyor, who provided for the Accommodations of his Court.

Provoocation, To make Killing a Person Man-slaughter, &c. See Murder.

Provost-Marshal, In this Kingdom is an Officer of the King's Navy, who hath Charge of the Prisoners taken at Sea: And is sometimes used for like Purpose at Land. 13 Car. 2. c. 9.

Proxies, Are Persons appointed instead of others, to represent them. Every Peer of the Realm called to Parliament, hath the Privilege of constituting a Proxy to vote for him in his Absence, upon a lawful Occasion; but such Proxies are to be entered in Person, and sometimes Proxies have been denied by the King; particularly Anno 6, 27 & 39 Ed. 3. Marriage Contracts have been often made by Proxy, &c.

Proxies, Also are annual Payments made by Parochial Clergy to the Bishop, &c. on Visitations. See Procurations.

Pryk, Is a Kind of Service or Tenure; and according to Blount, signifies an old fashioned Spur, with one Point only, which the Tenant holding Land by this Tenure, was to find for the King. — Per servitium inveniendi unum Equum, unum Saccum, & unum Pryk in Guerra Wallia. 1 R. 2. And in the Time of K. Hen. 8. Light Horsemen in War were called Prickers; because they used such Spurs or Pryks, to make their Horses go with Speed.

Publication, Is used of Depositions of Witnesses in a Cause in Chancery, in order to the Hearing, and Rules may be given to pass Publication; which is a Power to shew the Depositions openly, and to give out Copies of them, &c. There is also a Publication of a Will, which is a Solemnity requisite to the Making thereof, by declaring it to be the Last Will of the Testator, in the Presence of such a Number of Witnesses; and a Will which hath been made many Years, may be New published with Additions, and that makes it equivalent to a new Will. 3 Nelf. Abr. 27. Publication of Libels. Vide Libels.

Publick Faith, (Fides Publica) In the Reign of King Charles 1. was a Pretence or Cheat, to raise Money of the seduced People, upon what was term'd the Publick Faith of the Nation, to make War against the King about the Year 1642. Stat. 17 Car. 1. c. 18.

Pucelage, (Pucellagium) Is used for Virginity, Maidenhead. Bracton, lib. 3. In an antient Manuscript it is written Puellagium. Mich. 19 Ed. 3.

Puis Darrein Continuance, Is a Plea of new Matter, pending an Action, post ultimam Continuationem. See Plea.

Puisne, (Fr.) Younger, Puny; born, or coming after.

Pulla, (Sax. Pul) A Pool, or Lake of standing Water. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. pag. 722.

Pulsator, The Plaintiff or Actor; and Pulsare signifies to accuse any One. Leg. Hen. 1. c. 26.

Pultura, Is an Examination or Demand; and 'tis so called from the Monks, who before they are admitted into a Monastery, Pulsabant ad fores, for several Days, and then enter. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. pag. 1035.

Pundfulda, A Pound for Cattle, or Pinfold. Placita inter Abbat. Glasston. & Henr. de Hamel, Anno 1236.

Punishment, (Pœna) Is the Penalty of Transgressing the Laws: And as Debts are discharged to private Persons by Payment; so Obligations to the Publick, for disturbing Society, are discharged when the Offender undergoes the Punishment inflicted for his Offence. Kings, and such as have equal Power with them, have a Right to require Punishment for Injuries committed against themselves or their Subjects, upon the Violation of national Laws; though the Right of inflicting Punishments to provide for the Safety of Society, was originally (before Commonwealths were erected and Courts of Justice ordained) in the Hand of every Man being equal to, and independent of others; but since, it has resided in the Hands of the highest Powers, as Subjection to others hath taken away that primitive Right: However, this Power and natural Right of Punishing an Equal, still remains in those Places where the People are not subject to some Form of Government. Grot. de Jure Belli, lib. 2. cap. 21. The Punishments of Offences are many and various, adapted to the several Degrees of Crimes, and the Countries wherein committed; and in England are Beheading, Hanging, Imprisonment, Fine, Amercement, &c.

Pur auter Vie, Is where Lands, &c. are held for another's Life. See Occupant.

Purchase, (Acquisitum, Perquisitum, Purchacium) Signifies the Buying or Acquisition of Lands, or Tenements with Money, or by Deed or Agreement; and not obtaining by Descent, or hereditary Right: And Conjunctum Perquisitum is where Two or more Persons join in the Purchase. Litt. 12. Reg. Orig. 143. One cometh in by Purchase when he comes to Lands by legal Conveyance, and he hath a lawful Estate; and not where he hath it by Wrong, as Disseisin, &c. And a Purchase is always intended by Title, either for some Consideration, or by Gift; (For a Gift is in Law a Purchase) whereas Descent from an Ancestor cometh of Course by Act of Law: Also all Contracts are comprehended under this Word Purchase. 1 Inst. 18. Dott. & Stud. chap. 24. If an Estate comes to a Man from his Ancestors without Writing, that is a Descent: But where a Person takes any Thing from an Ancestor, or others, by Deed, Will or Gift, and not as Heir at Law; that is a Purchase. 2 Lill. Abr. 403. An Heir takes an Estate by Will, in another Manner than the Common Law would have given it; there he takes by Purchase, and not by Descent; but then he must be the right Heir. 2 Lev. 79.

None

None can generally take as Heir by Purchase, which is not a right Heir; nor by Descent, where the Estate was never executed in the Ancestor. Ibid. In a new created Estate to right Heirs, they must of Consequence take by Purchase. 4 Mod. 380. At Common Law a Man could not make his own right Heir take by Purchase, without Departing with the whole Fee-simple; but now by Way of Use he may: And where a Remainder of an Estate-tail was vested in a Person as a Purchaser, it was held that the Estate should go on in a Course of Descent. 1 Mod. 226. 3 Salk. 292, 293. If the Father devises Lands to his eldest Son, upon Condition; in such Case, the Son shall be in by Purchase, not by Descent. Cro. Car. 161. And there is this Difference between Purchase and Descent of Lands; if a Person takes by Purchase, a Fine, &c. may be no Bar. 3 Nels. Abr. 30. Every common Purchaser of Land ought at his Peril to take Notice of the Estates and Charges, which are upon the Land he purchases; for the Law presumes that no Man will purchase Lands without Advice of Counsel. 2 Leon. 89. 2 Lill. Abr. 403. But there are several Statutes which guard against fraudulent Incumbrances; as the 27 Eliz. c. 4. enacts, that Conveyances of Lands made to defraud a Purchaser, shall be void: The 29 Car. 2. c. 3. makes Judgments of Lands good against Purchasers bona fide, only from the Time of Signing by the Judges, &c. And no Judgment shall affect Purchasers of Lands, &c. till docketed. 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 20. Chancery will relieve the Purchaser of a Term, against a dormant Title, when Money hath been laid out upon Improvements. 2 Lev. 152. A Man contracted for the Purchase of Lands, but before the Conveyance was made, he died, having devised the Land; &c. and it was held the Devise was good; because the Vendor, after the Contract, stood Trustee for the Vendee. 3 Salk. 85. And if a Man covenant on a Purchase to pay another such a Sum of Money, he making him an Estate in such Land; if the other tender him a Feoffment, and offer to make Livery and Seisin, &c. he may bring an Action for the Money, as if he had actually made a Title. 1 Ventr. 148. Natural Persons, incorporate Persons, sole or aggregate, deaf, dumb and blind Persons, Minors, and all reasonable Creatures may purchase, except in some Cases; but some have Capacity to purchase, and not to hold, as Aliens, Felons, &c. and others have Ability to hold, or not to hold upon a Purchase, at the Election of themselves or others, as Infants, and Feme Coverts. 1 Inst. 2, 3. 11 Rep. 77. 7 Rep. 17. See Descent, Heir, &c.

Purchase and Value of Land. Lands are purchased at divers Rates in this Kingdom, according to their Situation, &c. An Estate of Fee-simple in Lands, is usually valued in the Country at twenty Years purchase. Lands near London yield about twenty-five Years purchase; and in Wales, not above eighteen or nineteen. The Fee of Tithes of perpetual Advowsons is worth about twenty-two Year's Purchase: And Fee-farm Rents issuing out of Lands, and the Fee of Ground-Rents, are rated at twenty-four or twenty-five Year's Purchase. The Fee of Houses in London sells for seventeen or eighteen Years Purchase, if in good Repair, and the Ground-Rents are not high; otherwise for less: Houses not in London, but well situated, without any Lands to them, are sold for fifteen or sixteen Years Purchase: For a Lease of a House for thirty Years, about eight Years Purchase is given in London; and for one and twenty Years about six Years Value. A Freehold Lease for three Lives absolute, or a Copyhold Estate for the like Term, where the Quit-Rents and Heriots reserved are not higher than usual, is rated at fourteen Years Purchase; for the first Life eight, for the Second four, and two for the third Life; or seven, five, and two. A Chattel Lease for three Lives, thirteen Year's Purchase. The Exchanging one Life for another is generally one Year's Purchase; but if a sickly Life be exchanged for a Healthy one, two or three Year's Purchase. A Widowhood in a Copyhold, after the Death of the Husband a third Life, is valued at one Year's Purchase. The Fee in Reversion after Lives, is worth nine, seven, and five Year's Purchase, after one, two, or three Lives; and more where there is Timber, or the Estate is improveable. Land Purch. Compan. 1, 2, 3, 4, &c.

Purgation, (Purgatio) Is the Clearing a Man's Self of a Crime, whereof he is publicly suspected, and accused before a Judge: Of which there was formerly great Use in England. And Purgation is either Canonica, or vulgaris; Canonical Purgation is that which is prescribed by the Canon Law, the Form whereof used in the Spiritual Court is that the Person suspected take his Oath, that he is clear of the Fact objected against him, and bringing his honest Neighbours with him to make Oath, that they believe he swears truly: The vulgar Purgation, according to the ancient Manner, was by Fire or Water Ordeal, or by Combat, practised by Infidels as well as Christians till abolished by Canon. Staundf. P. C. lib. 2. cap. 48. Stat. Westm. 1. c. 2. Purgation is one of the Punishments of the Ecclesiastical Courts; but the Stat. 13 Car. 2. c. 12. having taken away the Oath ex Officio, of Persons accusing or Purging themselves, &c. some maintain that all the Proceedings of Purgation upon common Fame do fall too; though others say, there is still a legal Purgation left, but not Canonical. Wood's Inst. 506, 507. Purificatio Beate Mariæ Virginis, Mentioned in the Statute 32 Hen. 8. c. 21. See Candlemas.

Purlieu, or Purleu, (From the Fr. Pur, i. e. purus, & Lieu, locus) Is all that Ground near any Forest, which being added to the ancient Forest by King Hen. 2. Rich. 1. and King John, was afterwards disafforested and severed by the Stat. Charta de Foresta, and the Perambulations and Grants thereupon, by King Hen. 3. so that it became Purlieu, viz. pure and free from the Laws and Ordinances of the Forest. Manwood's For. Laws, par. 2, cap. 20. Our Ancestors called this Ground Purlieu, purum Locum, because it was exempted from that Servitude which was formerly laid upon it: And whereas Manwood and Crompton call it Pourallee, we may derive it from Pur, purus, & Alee, Ambulatio, because he that walketh or courseth within that Circuit is not liable to the Laws or Penalties incurred by them which hunt within the Forest Precincts; but Pourallee is said to be properly the Perambulation whereby the Purlieu is de-afforested. Stat. 33 Ed. 1. 4 Inst. 303. The Owners of Grounds within the Purlieu by Disafforestation, may fell Timber; convert Pastures into arable, &c. inclose them with any Kind of Inclosure; erect Edifices, and dispose of the same as if they had never been afforested; and and a Purlieu-Man may as lawfully hunt to all Intents within the Purlieu, as any Man may in his own Grounds that were never afforested: He may keep his Dogs within the Purlieu unexpedited; and the Wild Beasts do belong to the Purlieu-Man ratione soli, so long as they remain in his Grounds, and he may kill them. 4 Inst. 303. If the Purlieu-Man chase the Beasts with Greyhounds, and they fly towards the Forest for Safety, he may pursue them to the Bounds of the Forest, and if he then do his Endeavour to call back and take off his Dogs from the Pursuit, although the Dogs follow the Chace in the Forest, and kill the King's Deer there; this is no Offence, so as he enter not into the Forest, nor meddle with the Deer so killed: And if the Dogs fasten upon the Deer, before he recover the Forest, and the Deer drag the Dogs into the Forest, in such Case the Purlieu-Man may follow his Dogs and take the Deer. 4 Inst. 303, 304. But in the Case of Sir Richard Weston, Attorney General, it was said, that there was no Purlieu in Law to hunt; that it cannot be by Prescription, and there is nothing in Statutes as to Hunting; and therefore Purlieu-Men may only keep out the Deer, but cannot kill them, though they be in their Grounds. 1 Jones Rep. 278. See Moor 706, 987. And notwithstanding Purlieus are absolutely disafforested, it hath been permitted, that the Ranger of the Forest shall, as often as the Wild Beasts of the Forest range into the Purlieu, with his Hounds re-chase them back into the Forest. 4 Inst.

Purlieu-men, Are those that have Ground within the Purlieu, and being able to dispend forty Shillings a Year Freehold; who, upon these two Points, are licensed to hunt in their own Purlieus, observing what is required. Manw. For. Laws 151, 157, 180, 186.

Purparty, (Fr. Pour part, i. e. pro parte) Is that Part or Share of an Estate, first held in Common by Parceners, which is by Partition allotted to any of them: To make Purparty is to divide and sever the Lands that fall to Parceners, which 'till Partition they held jointly, and pro Indiviso. Old Nat. Br. 11.

Purpresture, (Pourprestura, from the Fr. Pourprist, an Inclosure) Is generally when any Thing is done to the Nuisance of the King's Demesnes, or the Highways, &c. by Inclosure, or Buildings; endeavouring to make that Private which ought to be Publick. Glanvil, lib. 9. c. 11. 1 Inst. 38, 272. When a Man takes to himself, or incroaches any Thing which he ought not, whether it be in Lands, Franchise, or Jurisdiction, it is a Purpresture; and some Writers mention three Sorts of Purprestures, one against the King, the Second against the Lord of the Fee, and the Third against a Neighbour. Kitch. 10. 2 Inst. 38. Purpresture in a Forest is every Incroachment made therein, by Building, Inclosing, or Using any Liberty, without lawful Warrant to do the same: And if any Inclosures are made in Forests, they may be laid open, &c. Manwood, c. 10. Cro. Jac. 156. Purprestures and Incroachments may be inquired of in the Sheriff's Tourn. Dalt. Sher. 393.

Purprisum, (Fr. Pourpris) A Close or Inclosure; also the whole Compass or Extent of a Manor-Place. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. fol. 106.

Purse, A certain Quantity of Money, containing 500 Dollars, or 125*l.* in Turky. Merch. Dict.

Pursuivant, (From the Fr. Poursuivre, i. e. Agere, persequi) Signifies the King's Messenger attending upon him in his Wars, or at the Council-Table, in his Court, or at his Chamber, the Exchequer, &c. to be sent upon any Business or Message. Those that are used in Martial Affairs, are called Pursuivants at Arms; whereof there are Four of Special Name among the Heralds: And Stow, speaking of the Death of the tyrannical King Rich. 3. hath these remarkable Words; His Body was naked to the Skin, not so much as a Rag about him, and he was trussed behind a Pursuivant at Arms, like a Hog, or a Calf, &c. The Rest of these Pursuivants are used upon Messages in Time of Peace, and especially in Matters concerning Jurisdiction. 24 H. 8. c. 13.

Purveyance, (Fr. Pourveyance, from Pouvoir, providere) Is the Providing of Corn, Fuel, Victuals, and other Necessaries for the King's House: And Purveyor is an Officer of the King or Queen, that provides such Corn, Victuals, &c. Formerly the King's Court was supplied with Necessaries from the Demesnes of the Crown, which were manured for that Purpose; but this Method being found to be troublesome, was by Degrees disus'd, and afterwards the King appointed Officers to buy in Provisions for his Household, who were Purveyors, and claimed divers Privileges by the Prerogative of the Crown. They are mentioned in Magna Charta, cap. 22. and other subsequent Statutes: But Misbehaving themselves, several Offences of Purveyors were made Felonies; as if they took Things above the Value of 12*d.* against the Will of the Owner, without Warrant, or such Appraisement as was directed, or without Paying for them, &c. And the Name of Purveyor became so odious, that it was changed into Buyer. 2 Inst. 543. 28 Ed. 1. c. 2. 5 Ed. 3. c. 2. 36 Ed. 3. c. 2, 3, &c. Though these Laws having not sufficiently provided against the Oppressions of Persons employed for making Provisions for the King's Household, Carriages, and other Purveyance; and the People of many Counties having been obliged to submit to sundry Rates and Taxes, and Compositions to redeem themselves from such Vexations and Oppressions, as it is recited by the 12 Car. 2. c. 24. it was enacted by that Statute, that from thenceforth no Sum or Sums of Money, or other Thing, shall be taken, raised, rated, imposed, or levied, for or in Regard of any Provision, Carriages, or Purveyance for his Majesty, his Heirs or Successors; and by the said Statute it is ordained, that no Person, by any Warrant or Commission from the King, &c. shall, by Colour of Buying or making Provision or Purveyance for his Majesty, or any King or Queen of England, or for their Household, take any Timber, Cattle, Corn, Grain, Malt, Hay, Straw, Victuals, Carriages, or other Things, of any of the Subjects of his Majesty, his Heirs or Successors, without the full and free Consent of the Owner or Owners thereof, had and obtained without Menace or Force; nor shall require any to find Horses, Oxen, Carts, or Carriages, for the Carrying the Goods of his Majesty, &c. without such Consent: And no Pre-emption shall be allow'd or claimed in Behalf of his Majesty, in Markets, &c. but they shall be free to all the Subjects to sell, notwithstanding standing any Pretence of Purveyance; and if any shall make Provision or Purveyance, or impress Carriages, contrary to this Statute, the Justices of Peace are to commit the Offenders to Gaol 'till the next Sessions, when they shall be indicted, and proceeded against for the same, &c. Stat. 12 Car. 2. c. 24. par. 13 & 14. This absolute and universal Restraint of all Kinds of Purveyance, having been found inconvenient, it was enacted by 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 20. That the Officers of the Navy, &c. may press Carriages for the Use of his Majesty's Navy and Ordnance, according to the Regulations prescribed by that Statute, as at so much per Mile; and the like was provided by 1 Jac. 2. c. 10. in Respect to the King's Royal Progresses, &c.

Purview, (Fr. Pourveu, a Patent or Grant) Is frequently used by Sir Edw. Coke for the Body, or that Part of an Act of Parliament which begins with Be it enacted, &c. The Statute 3 H. 7. stands upon a Preamble and Purview. 2 Inst. 403. 12 Rep. 20.

Putage, (Putagium) Fornicatio ex parte Fœmina; quasi putam agere, à Gall. Putte, i. e. Meretrix. Amongst our Ancestors this Crime was esteem'd very heinous; for if any Heir Female under Guardianship, were guilty of it, she forfeited her Part to the other Coheirs; or if she were a sole Heiress, the Lord of the Fee had her Lands by Escheat. Spelm. Glanvil, lib. 7. cap. 12.

Putativus, Putative, Reputed, or commonly esteem'd; oppos'd to what is notorious and unquestionable. — Pater Pueri Putativus, i. e. the reputed Father of the Child.

Putura, (q. Potura) Is a Custom claimed by Keepers in Forests, and sometimes by Bailiffs of Hundreds, to take Man's Meat, Horse Meat, and Dog's Meat, of the Tenants and Inhabitants within the Perambulation of the Forest, Hundred, &c. and in the Liberty of Knaresburgh it was long since turn'd into the Payment of 4 d. in Money by each Tenant. M.S. de Temp. Ed. 3. 4 Inst. 307. The Land subject to this Custom is called Terra Putura. Plac. apud Cestr. 31 Ed. 3.

Pyker or Pycar, A small Ship or Herring-boat. 31 Ed. 3. c. 2.

Q

Quadrata, Signifies any Kind of Square, a Quarter, &c.

Quadragesima, The fortieth Part; also the Time of Lent, from our Saviour's Forty Day's Fast. Litt. Dict.

Quadragesima Sunday, Is the first Sunday in Lent; and so called, because it is about the fortieth Day before Easter. Blount.

Quadragesimalia. In former Days it was the Custom for People to visit their Mother-Church on Midlent Sunday, and to make their Offerings at the High Altar; as the like Devotion was again observed in Whitsun-Week: But as the Processions and Oblations at Whitsontide were sometimes commuted into a rated Payment of Pentecostals; so the Lent or Easter Offerings were changed into a Customary Rate called Quadragesimalia, and Denarii Quadragesimales, also Latere Ferusalem.

Quadrans, A fourth Part of a Penny: And before the Reign of King Edw. 1. the smallest Coin was a Sterling or Penny, mark'd with a Cross, by the Guidance whereof a Penny might be cut into Halves for a Half-penny, or into Quarters or four Parts for Farthings; 'till to avoid the Fraud of unequal Cutting, that King coin'd Half-pence and Farthings, in round distinct Pieces. Matt. Westm. Ann. 1279.

Quadrantata Terræ, The fourth Part of an Acre. See Fardingdeal.

Quadraria, A Place where Men dig Stones; sometimes writ Quararia, which we call a Quarry, &c. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. pag. 133, 177.

Quadrivium, The Center of four Ways, where four Roads meet and cross each other. By Statute, Posts with Inscriptions are to be set up at such Cross-ways, as a Direction to Travellers, &c. 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 16.

Quadrugata terræ, A Team-Land; or so much Ground as may be till'd with four Horses.

Quæ est eadem, In Pleading is used to supply the Want of a Traverse. 2 Lill. Abr. 405. In a Clausum fregit such a Day, the Defendant pleads the Plaintiff's Licence to enter on the same Day, and that virtute inde he entered; he need not say Quæ est eadem Transgressio: So in Trespas for Taking of Goods; if the Defendant justifies the same Day and Place: And in Trespas and Battery, if the Defendant justifies that the same Day and Place the Plaintiff assaulted him, and that what Damages happened to him was of his own Wrong; this is good without Quæ est eadem Transgressio, &c. though he doth not directly answer the Assault laid by the Plaintiff; but where he justifies at another Day, or at other Place, then he ought to say, Quæ est eadem. 21 Hen. 7. pl. 52. A Fact laid to be Nov. 1. and a Justification Nov. 2. Quæ est eadem is well enough without a Traverse, the Day not being material; but it had been naught, if the Day had been material. 1 Lev. 241. If a Trespas is alleged 10 Nov. and Justification the 11 Nov. and there be an Averment of Quæ est eadem, it is good without making a Traverse. Lutw. 1457. Where a Defendant justifies dicto Tempore in the Plaintiff's Declaration, he hath no Occasion to say Quæ est eadem transgressio; because he agrees with the Plaintiff in the Time and Place mentioned in his Declaration, and gives an Answer to it. Mich. 5 W. & M. B. R.

Quæ plura, Was a Writ that lay where an Inquisition had been taken by an Escheator of Lands, &c. that a Man died seised of, and all the Land was suppos'd not to be found by the Office or Inquisition; this Writ was therefore to inquire of what other Lands or Tenements the Party died seised: But it is now made useless, since the Taking away the Court of Wards and Offices post mortem. 12 Car. 2. c. 24. *Reg. Quakers, (From Tremulus) Are such who pretend to tremble or quake, in the Exercise of their whimsical Religion. Quakers to the Number of Five or more, assembling in Religious Worship not authorized by Law, were to forfeit for the first Offence 5 l. for the Second 10 l. &c. by Stat. 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 1. but they are exempted from the Penalties of that Act by the 1 W. & M. c. 18. The 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 27. enacts, that Quakers making and subscribing the Declaration of Fidelity mentioned in 1 W. & M. and owning King William to be right and lawful King, shall not be liable to the Penalties of this Act against others refusing to take the Oaths; and not subscribing the Declaration of Fidelity, &c. They are disabled to vote at Election of Members of Parliament: Quakers, where an Oath is required, are permitted to make a solemn Affirmation or Declaration, declaring in the Presence of Almighty God the Witness of the Truth, &c. But they are not capable of being Witnesses in a Criminal Cause, nor of serving on Juries, or having Offices in the Government. 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 34. The Quakers Affirmation is ordained to be in Force for ever, and the Form of it appointed by 1 Geo. c. 6. and the 8 Geo. c. 6. authorizes the Affirmation of the Quakers with the Words, I do promise and sincerely declare in the Presence of you, &c. without saying in the Presence of God; false and corrupt Affirming incurs the Pains and Penalties of wilful Perjury. Quakers refusing to pay Tithes, or Church-Rates, Justices of Peace are to determine, and order Costs, &c. 7 & 8 W. 3. 1 Geo.

Quare ius, A Writ judicial which was brought where a Man of Religion had Judgment to recover Land, before Execution was made of the Judgment; it went forth to the Escheator between Judgment and Execution, to make Inquiry whether the religious Person had Right to recover, or the Judgment were obtained by Collusion between the Parties, to the Intent that the Lord might not be defrauded. Reg. Judic. 8, 16, 46. Stat. Westm. 2. c. 32.

Quam diu se bene gesserit, Is a Clause often inserted in Letters Patent of the Grant of Offices, as in those to the Barons of the Exchequer, &c. which must be intended in Matters concerning their Office; and is nothing but what the Law would have implied, if the Office had been granted for Life. 4 Inst. 117.

Quantum meruit, i. e. How much he has deserved, is a Man's Action of the Case, so called, grounded upon the Promise of another, to pay him for doing any Thing so much as he should deserve or merit. If a Man retains any Person to do work or other Thing for him; as a Taylor to make a Garment, a Carrier to carry Goods, &c. without any certain Agreement; in such Case, the Law implies that he shall pay for the same, as much as they are worth, and shall be reasonably demanded; for which Quantum meruit may be brought: And if one sue another upon a Promise to satisfy him for Work done, &c. he must shew and aver in his Declaration how much he deserved for his Work. Compl. Attorn. A Plaintiff declared, that the Defendant in Consideration that the Plaintiff had found him sufficient Meat, Drink, Washing and Lodging, for several Months last past, promised to pay him as much as he should deserve, and averred that he deserved so much; upon Non Assumpsit pleaded, the Plaintiff had a Verdict; but it was moved in Arrest of Judgment, that the Declaration was short and incertain, as to the Time and Number of Months: Though the Declaration was held good, and the Plaintiff had Judgment. Mich. 12 W. 3. B. R. 2 Salk. 557. Where the Word Quantum was omitted in the Declaration, Tantum hath been adjudg'd sufficient, viz. The Defendant promis'd to pay so much as he deserved; and Meruisset signifies as much as ipse Meruisset: Also on several Counts, Quantum habere meruit was construed to be Quantum habere meruerit, to make the Parties mean somewhat, as 'twas plain they did, though this was contrary to the Grammatical Construction; and the Court held that they must take the Words of the Declaration to be the very Words of the Promise, &c. Pasch. and Hill. 4 Ann. B. R. In a Quantum Meruit, bringing Money into Court was denied. Hill. 8 Will. 3. B. R. But it was allowed, ex motione Magistri Raymond. Pasch. 5 Ann. 2 Salk. 597.

Quantum valebat, Is where Goods and Wares sold are delivered by a Tradesman at no certain Price, or to be paid for them as much as they are worth in general; then Quantum valebat lies, and the Plaintiff is to aver them to be worth so much: So where the Law obliges one to furnish another with Goods or Provisions, as an Innkeeper his Guests, &c. And for Goods sold, it is the Practice among Clerks to lay three Counts, viz. Indebitat. Assumpsit, Quantum valebat, and Simul Computasset, that the Plaintiff may be sure to hit on one of the Promises, &c. Practif. Attorn. Edit. 1. pag. 72, 73.

Quare cum, Are general Words used in original Writs, &c. See Original.

Quare ejecit infra Terminum, Is a Writ that lies for a Lessee, where he is cast out of his Farm before his Term is expired, against a Feoffee of the Lands, or the Lessor that ejects him; and the Effect of it is to recover his Term again, and his Damages. Reg. Orig. 227. F. N. B. 197. New Nat. Br. 439. It is said this Writ was devised for the following Cause: If a Man make a Lease of Land for Years, and after he ousts his Lessee, and then makes a Feoffment of the Land unto a Stranger in Fee; now the Lessee cannot have a Writ of Eject one firma against the Feoffee, because he did not put him out, and in that Case the Lessee hath no other Remedy but to enter again into the Land; and if the Feoffee do then put him out, the Lessee may bring Ejectione firme Vi & Armis; but before Entry made by the Lessee, he had no Remedy against the Feoffee: And therefore, by the Equity of the Statute of Westm. c. 24. which enacts, that where it shall happen in one Case a Writ is found, and in the like Case falling under the same Law, and wanting the same Remedy, &c. it is not so, the Clerks of the Chancery are to agree upon a proper Writ, &c. By Reason of that Statute, was this Writ devised. New Nat. Br. 439. And if a Person lease Lands for Years, and the Lessor doth suffer a Recovery to be had against him upon a feigned Title, who entereth; the Lessee shall have his Writ of Quare ejecit infra Terminum, &c. And the Words of the Writ are, Occasione cujus Venditionis; and yet the same is not properly a Sale, but those Words are only of Form. Ibid. It is in the Election of the Lessee, or, if he grants over his Term, the second Lessee, to sue a Writ of Ejectione firme, or a Quare ejecit infra infra termin. against the Lessor, or his Heir, or against the Lord by Escheat, &c. if they put the Termor out of his Term. 19 H. 6.

Quare Impedit, Is a Writ lying for him who hath purchased an Advowson, against a Person that disturbs him in his Right of Advowson by Presenting a Clerk thereto, when the Church is void. F. N. B. 32. Stat. Westm. 2. c. 5. It differs from Affise of Darrein Presentment (or Ultima Presentationis) because that lies where a Man or his Ancestor, under whom he claims, have formerly presented to the Church; and this is for him that is the Purchaser himself: But in both these, the Plaintiff recovers the Presentation and Damages; though in the Writ of Darrein Presentment, &c. he recovers only the Presentation, not the Title to the Advowson, as he doth in a Quare Impedit; for which Reason that Affise is seldom brought, and for that the Proceedings in it are very tedious: And where a Man may have Affise of Darrein Presentment, he may have Quare Impedit. 2 Inst. 356. 3 Nels. Abr. 31. The Writ Quare Impedit is to be brought in Six Months after the Avoidance; and by it a Patron may be relieved, not only in his Presentation to a Church, but to a Chapel, Prebend, Vicarage, &c. And this Writ lies of a Donative, and the special Matter is to be set forth in the Declaration: It also lieth for a Deanery by the King, although it be elective; and for an Archdeaconry, but not for a meer Office of the Church. 1 Inst. 344. 1 Leon. 205. If the Quare Impedit be for a Donative, the Writ shall be Quare Impedit to present to the Donative; if 'tis of a Parsonage, then 'tis Quare Impedit Presentare ad Ecclesiam; if to a Vicarage, 'tis ad Vicariam; if to a Prebend, then 'tis ad Prebendam, &c. 3 Nels. Abr. 35. If a Bishop be disturbed to collate, where he ought to make Collation, he may have a Writ Quare Impedit, and the Writ shall be quod permittat ipsum Presentare, &c. and he shall count upon the Collation: And if the King be disturb'd in his Collation by Letters Patent, he shall have Quare Impedit, &c. New Nat. Br. 73. A Grantee of a next Avoidance may bring this Writ against the Patron who granted the Avoidance. 39 H. 6. It may be brought by Executors, for a Disturbance in vita Testatoris; and Executors being disturb'd in their Presentation, may bring Quare Impedit as well as their Testator might. Owen 99. Lutw. 1. Husband and Wife jointly, or the Husband alone without his Wife may have the Writ Quare Impedit; and if a Man who hath an Advowson in Right of his Wife, be disturb'd in his Presentation, and dies, the Wife shall bring it on that Disturbance. 14 H. 4. 5 Rep. 97. Quare Impedit is made a Writ possessory for an Heir at full Age, Reversioner, or Spiritual Person, on an Usurpation in Time of an Ancestor, &c. 13 Ed. 1. c. 5. It supposes both a Possession and a Right; and the Plaintiff must alledge a Presentation in himself, or in those under whom he claims; unless it be in Case of Lapse, &c. In the Declaration of the Plaintiff, it is not sufficient for him to alledge, that he, or such a Person from whom he claims, were seised of the Advowson of the Church, but he must alledge a Presentation made by one of them; for if he doth not, the Defendant may demur to the Declaration: And the Reason of this is, that the Defendant, by joining the last Presentation to his own Title, is to make appear, that he hath a Right to present now as well as then. Cro. Eliz. 518. 5 Rep. 97.

Vaugh. 57. The Writ must be brought in that County where the Church is; the Patron and Incumbent are to be named in it, the one as he may be dispossessed of his Patronage, and the other of his Presentation; and it is usual likewise to make the Bishop a Defendant, to prevent a Lapse, where the Church is void, pendente lite: Quare Impedit will not lie against the Ordinary and Incumbent, without naming the Patron; because at Common Law the Incumbent could not plead any Thing which concerned the Right of Patronage, and therefore 'tis unreasonable that he alone should be named in the Writ who could not defend the Patronage; but the Stat. 25 Ed. 3. c. 7. enables him to plead against the King, and to defend his Incumbency, although he claims nothing in the Patronage; and by that Statute, he shall plead against any common Person; tho' with this Difference, that when the Inheritance of the Patron is to be devested by a Judgment in a Quare Impedit, there he must be named in the Writ; but where the next Presentation only is to be recovered, he need not be named: Yet where the King presents without a Title, and his Clerk is inducted, the Quare Impedit is to be against the Ordinary and Incumbent, for it will not lie against the King; but if he is Plaintiff, the Writ may be brought against the Patron alone, without naming the Incumbent. 7 Rep. 25. 2 Cro. 650. Palm. 306. The only Plea which the Bishop hath by the Common Law on a Quare Impedit is that he claimeth nothing but as Ordinary; he could not counterplead the Patron's Title, or any Thing to the Right of Patronage, nor could the Incumbent counterplead such Title, till the said Stat. 25 Ed. 3. by which both the Bishop and the Incumbent may counterplead the Title of the Patron; the one, when he collates by Lapse, or makes Title himself to the Patronage; and the other being Persona impersonata, may plead his Patron's Title, and counterplead the Title of the Plaintiff: And it has been adjudg'd, that the Incumbent cannot plead to the Title of the Parsonage, without shewing that he is Persona impersonata of the Presentation of the Patron. W. Jones 4. March 159. 3 Nels. Abr. 38. In a Quare Impedit, though it was found that the Church was full of another who was a Stranger to the Writ, and it did not appear whether he came in by a better Title than that which was found for the Plaintiff; it was held, that the Plaintiff might have a general Writ to the Bishop, which he is bound by Law to execute, or shall be amerced, &c. and he cannot return that the Church is full of another; for no Issue can be joined between the Bishop and the Plaintiff, because he has no Day in Court. 6 Rep. 51. 3 Leon. 136. But where a Plaintiff recovered an Advowson in Ejectment, and thereupon had a Writ to the Bishop, there being another Incumbent in the Church, who was not a Party to the Action; adjudg'd, that this Writ would not lie without a Scire facias to the Incumbent. Sid. 93. If it appears in a Quare Impedit, either in Pleading, or by Confession of the Parties, that neither of them have a Title, but that 'tis in the King; the Court may award a Writ to the Bishop for the King, to remove the Incumbent and admit idoneam Personam ad Presentationem Regis; but this must be when his Title is very plain. Hob. 126, 163. 1 Leon. 323. In Quare Impedit, the Plaintiff and Defendant are both Actors, so that the Defendant may have a Writ to the Bishop, as well as the Plaintiff; but not without a Title appearing to the Court; wherefore if the Defendant never appears, the Plaintiff must make out a Title for Form sake, and so must the Defendant if the Plaintiff be nonsuited. Hob. 163. If the Plaintiff, after Appearance, in a Quare Impedit be nonsuited, it is peremptory; because the Defendant upon a Title made, whereby he becomes Actor, shall have a Writ to the Bishop: And it is the same in Case of a Discontinuance. 7 Rep. 27. 'Tis the Nature of a Quare Impedit to be final, either upon a Discontinuance or Nonsuit; and a Man cannot have two Suits for the same Thing in this Case against one Person, though he may have several *Quare Impedit*s against several Persons. 7 Rep. 27. Hob. 137. The Parson, Patron, and Ordinary are sued; the Ordinary disclaims, and the Parson loseth by Default; the Plaintiff shall have Judgment to recover his Presentation, and a Writ issue to the Bishop, &c. with a Cessat executio, until the Plea is determined between the Plaintiff and Patron. Vaugh. 6. Several were Plaintiffs in a Quare Impedit, the Defendant pleaded the Release of one of them pending the Writ; and it was resolv'd, that this Release shall only bar him who made it, and that the Writ shall stand good for the Rest. 5 Rep. 97. In a Quare Impedit against the Archbishop, the Bishop, and three Defendants; the Archbishop pleaded that he claimed nothing but as Metropolitan; and the Bishop pleaded that he claimed nothing but as Ordinary; and the three Defendants made a Title; but there was a Verdict against them: It was a Question, whether the Writ of Execution should be awarded to the Archbishop, or the Bishop; and it was held, that where neither of them are Parties in Interest, it may be directed to either; but if the Bishop is a Party in Interest, it must be directed to the Archbishop. 6 Rep. 48. 3 Bull. 174. And if the Archbishop of Canterbury be Plaintiff in a Quare Impedit, the Writ must be directed to the Archbishop of York, &c. Show. 329. If the Defendant pleads Ne disturbat, which is in Effect the General Issue in a Quare Impedit, this will be only a Defence of the Wrong with which he stands charged, and is so far from controverting the Plaintiff's Title, that it as it were confesses it; and the Plaintiff may presently pray a Writ to the Bishop, or maintain the Disturbance in order to recover Damages. Hob. 163. There must be a Disturbance to maintain this Action: In a Quare Impedit, the Patron declared upon a Disturbance of him to present 1 November; the Incumbent pleaded, that 1 May next after, the Presentation devolv'd upon the Queen by Lapse, and she presented him to the Church, &c. And upon Demurrer the Plea was held ill; because the Defendant had not confessed and avoided, nor traversed the Disturbance, set forth in the Declaration: And though by the Demurrer the Queen's Title was confess'd, it appearing that it was already executed, and the Defendant having lost his Incumbency by ill Pleading, the Writ shall not be awarded to the Bishop for the Queen to present again, but for the Patron. 1 Leon. 194. In all *Quare Impedit*s, the Defendant may traverse the Presentation alledged by the Plaintiff, if the Matter of Fact will bear it; but the Defendant must not deny the Presentation alledged, where there was a Presentation. Vaugh. 16, 17. And where a Presentment is alledged in the Grantor and Grantee, the Presentment in the Grantor is only traversable; for that is the Principal. Cro. Eliz. 518. The Courts at Westminster are very cautious not to abate the Writ of Quare Impedit, for False Latin, or Want of Form; yet if the Bishop against whom the Writ is brought, or any of the Defendants are misnam'd, 'tis good Cause of Abatement: If the Patron be not named in the Writ, it may be pleaded in Abatement; though the Death of the Patron pending the Writ doth not abate it, if the Quare Impedit is brought against the Bishop, Patron and Incumbent: And if the Incumbent dies, pending the Writ, and a Disturber should present again, and die, Quare Impedit would lie upon the first Disturbance by Journies Accounts; but the first Writ is abated by the Plaintiff's Death; also if the Plaintiff bring a new Writ within fifteen Days after the Abatement, that shall be a Continuance of the first Writ, and prevent the Defendant's Taking any Advantage: But if the Writ abate for any Fault in the Declaration; the Defendant shall have a Writ to the Bishop to admit his Clerk; and so he shall if Judgment is given upon a Demurrer, &c. Cro. Eliz. 324. Cro. Car. 651. 7 Rep. 57. Dyer 240. In a Plea of Quare Impedit, Days are given from 15 to 15, or from three Weeks to three Weeks, according to the Distance of Place: And if the Disturber come not in on the great Distress, a Writ is to be sent to the Bishop, that he claim not to the Prejudice of the Plaintiff for that Time; and upon Recovery, Judgment is to be given to the Party to recover the Presentation and Advowson. Stat. 52 H. 3. c. 12. 2 Roll. Abr. 377. And Damages are given in a Quare Impedit, by the Stat. of Westm. 2. c. 5. though Damages shall not be had against the Bishop, where he claims nothing but as Ordinary, and is no Disturber. 3 Lev. 59. Before this Statute no Damages were allowed on a Quare Impedit; and the King hath none at this Day, for although he declares ad damnum, &c. he is not within that Statute; because by his Prerogative he cannot lose his Presentation. 6 Rep. 52. If a Plaintiff hath a Verdict, and the Church is found to be vacant, the Patron may have the Fruits of his Presentation, and so not be intitled to Damages; in which Case, a Remittitur de Damnis is entered. 3 Lev. 59. There are two Judgments in a Quare Impedit, viz. That the Plaintiff shall have a Writ to the Bishop; and this is the final Judgment, that goes to the Right between the Parties, and is the Judgment at Common Law: And Judgment for Damages, since the Stat. of Westm. 2. after the Points of the Writ are inquired into; which Judgment is not to be given but at the Instance of the Party. 1 Mod. 254, 255. The Points to be inquired of, where the Jury find for the Plaintiff, &c. are, of whom, and upon whose Presentment the Church is full; how long since it was void; the yearly Value of the Church, &c. which being found, Damages are to be given accordingly. 6 Rep. 51. A Quare Impedit was brought against Two, one of them cast an Essoin, and idem dies datus est to the other, &c. Then an Attachment issued against them for not appearing at the Day, and Process continued to the Grand Cape; which being return'd, and the Parties not appearing, it was ruled that final Judgment should be entered according to the Stat. 52 H. 3. But on Motion to discharge this Rule, because the Defendants were not summoned either upon the Attachment or grand Distress, the Summoners being only the feigned Names of John Doe and Richard Roe, the Judgment was set aside; for the Design of the Statute was to have Process duly executed, and that must be with Notice, &c. And where the Right is for ever concluded, this being so fatal, the Process must never be suffered to be a Thing of Course. 1 Mod. 248. When one recovers in a Quare Impedit against an Incumbent, the Incumbent is so removed by the Judgment, that the Recoveror may present without any Thing farther; but the Incumbent continues Incumbent de facto, till such Presentation is made: And if the Plaintiff in this Suit be instituted upon a Writ to the Bishop, the Defendant cannot appeal; if he doth, a Prohibition lies; because in this Case, the Bishop acts as the King's Minister, and not as a Judge. 2 Roll. Abr. 365. 1 Roll. Rep. 62. If one brings a Quare Impedit against the Patron and Incumbent of a Church within six Months, and recovers after the six Months, he shall remove the Incumbent, if named in the Writ. 2 Roll. Abr. 375. And the King cannot remove an Incumbent, presented, instituted and inducted, although upon a Usurpation, but by Quare Impedit in a judicial Way. 2 Cro. 385. See Presentation, &c.

Quare Incumbavit, A Writ that lieth against the Bishop, who within six Months after the Vacation of a Benefice, confers it upon his Clerk, whilst two others are contending at Law for the Right of Presentation. Reg. Orig. 32. Or it is a Writ brought after a Recovery in a Quare Impedit, or Assise of Darrein Presentment, against the Bishop that thus admits a Clerk, notwithstanding the Writ Ne admittas serv'd on him: For if the Bishop doth incumber the Church before a Ne Admittas is issued, then the Party shall have a Quare Impedit; as the Ordinary can have no Notice till the Ne Admittas. F. N. B. 32, 33. Wood's Inst. 571. And if a Man hath a Writ of Right of Advowson depending between him and another, and the Church is void pendant the Writ, the Plaintiff shall not have a Quare Incumb. or Ne Admittas, although the Bishop incumber the Church; because the Plaintiff shall not recover the Presentment upon this Writ, but the Advowson: And where he hath Title to present, he may do it; and have Quare Impedit, if he be disturb'd. New Nat. Br. 108, 109. If the Bishop delay the true Patron in his Presentation, and the Patron sues a Quare Impedit, he may thereupon have a Ne Admittas; and if the Bishop after the Receipt of such Writ, admit the Clerk of any other Person without a Verdict in a Fine Patronatus, the true Patron shall have Quare Incumbavit against the Bishop, and thereby recover the Presentment with Damages: Also a Writ is to be directed to the Bishop to disincumber the Church. F. N. B. 37. This Writ may be brought after the six Months; and if the Plaintiff be Nonsuit in a Quare Incumbavit, he may have another Writ, and vary from his first Declaration, &c. Ibid. 48.

Quare non Admissit, Is a Writ which lies against a Bishop, where a Man hath recovered his Advowson, or Presentation in a Writ of Right of Advowson, Quare Impedit, or other Action, and the Bishop doth refuse to admit his Clerk, upon Pretence of Lapse, &c. 'tis requisite in the Writ to mention the Recovery; and it is to be brought in the County where the Refusal was. F. N. B. 47. 7 Rep. Dyer 40. In a Quare non Admissit the Plaintiff shall recover Damages: And if a Plaintiff have Judgment in a Quare Impedit, and a Writ is awarded to the Bishop; if upon this Writ the Bishop makes a false Return, the Plaintiff may have Quare non Admissit against him, and have his Damages. Dyer 260. King Edw. 1. presented his Clerk to a Benefice in Yorkshire, and the Archbishop of that Province refused to admit him; upon which the King brought a Quare non Admissit, and the Archbishop pleaded that the Pope had a long Time before provided for that Church, as one having supreme Authority in that Case, and therefore he could not admit the King's Clerk: It was adjudged, that for this Contempt to execute the King's Writ, the Archbishoprick should be seised, &c. 5 Rep. 12. If the Bishop refuse the King's Presentee, and doth afterwards admit him, yet the King shall have Quare non Admissit for the Refusal; and so it is presumed may a common Person. New Nat. Br. 106.

Quare non permittit, Is mentioned as an ancient Writ that lieth for one who hath Right to present to a Church for a Turn against the Proprietary. Fleta, lib. 5. cap. 6.

Quarentine or Quarentain, (Quarentena) Is a Benefit allowed by Law to the Widow of a Man dying seised of Lands, whereby she may challenge to continue in his capital Messuage, or chief Mansion-house, (not being a Castle) by the Space of forty Days after his Decease, in order to the Assignment of her Dower, &c. And if the Heir, or any other eject her, she may bring the Writ de Quarentena habenda; but the Widow shall not have Meat, Drink, &c. tho' if there be no Provision in the House, according to Fitzherbert she may kill Things for her Provision. Magn. Carta, cap. 7. Bract. lib. 2. cap. 40. F. N. B. 161.

Quarentine, Is also the Term of forty Days, wherein any Persons coming from Foreign Parts infected with the Plague, are not permitted to land or come on Shore, until so many Days are expired. Stat. 9 Ann. cap. 2. 7 Geo. cap. 3. See Plague.

Quarterizatio, Is Part of the Punishment and Execution of a Traitor, by dividing his Body into four Quarters.——Fecit decollari, & Membratim dividi, & quarterisari, & Caput & ejus Quarterias ad Regni certas Civitates transmitti, &c. Artic. Ricardi Scrope Archiep. Ebor. apud Angl. Sacr. par. 2. pag. 366.

Quarter-Sessions, Is a General Court held by the Justices of Peace in every County, once every Quarter of a Year; originally erected only for Matters touching the Breach of the Peace, but now its Power is greatly increased and extends much farther by many Statutes: The Holding these Sessions Quarterly was first ordained by the 25 Ed. 3. Stat. 1. cap. 8. And the particular Times are appointed by 36 Ed. 3. c. 12. See Justices of Peace.

Quasi

Quash, (Quassare, Fr. Quasser or Casser, i. e. Cassum facere) Is to overthrow or annul any Thing. Bract. lib. 5. 11 Hen. 6. cap. 2. As if the Bailiff of a Liberty return any Jurors out of his Franchise, the Array shall be quashed. Co. Lit. 156. And the Court of B. R. hath Power to quash Orders of Sessions, Presentments, Indictments, &c. Tho' this Quashing is by the Favour of the Court, and the Court may leave the Party to take Advantage of the Insufficiency by Pleading; as they generally do where an Indictment is for an Offence very prejudicial to the Commonwealth, as for Perjury, &c. 2 Lill. Abr. 410. 2 Hawk. P. C. 258. The Court will not quash an Information; but there must be a Demurrer to it, if it be insufficient. 2 Lill. 411. Vide Stat. 7 W. 3. c. 3. See Indictment.

Quaterymes of Wines, (Fr. Quatriesme) A Tax of the Fourth Penny for all Wines retailed.

Quechbord, A Kind of Game, supposed to be what we now call Shovelbord, prohibited by the Stat. 17 Ed. 4. c. 3.

Queen, (Lat. Regina, Sax. Civen, i. e. Uxor, a Wife, sed propter Excellentiam, the Wife of the King) In our Law is either she that holds the Crown of this Realm by Right of Blood, or who is married to the King; the First of which is called Queen Regnant, and the last Queen Consort: She that holdeth by Blood is, in Construction of Law, the same with the King, and hath the like regal Power in all Respects; but the Queen Consort is inferior to the King and his Subject. Staundf. Prærog. 10. 3 Inst. 7. 1 Mar. Parl. 2. cap. 1. To compass the Death of the Queen is Treason: Violating the Queen's Person, &c. is also Treason; and if she consents to the Adulterer, it shall be Treason in her. 25 Ed. 3. 3 Inst. 9. The Queen, as the King's Wife, partakes of several Prerogatives above other Women, viz. By the Common Law, the Wife of the King, is a publick Person, exempt from the King; and is capable of Lands or Tenements of the Gift of the King, which no other Feme Covert is; she is of Ability, without the King, to purchase, grant, and make Leases; and may sue, and be sued alone, in her own Name only, by Præcipe, not by Petition: She may have in herself the Possession of personal Things during her Life, &c. But both Real and Personal Estate goes to the King after her Death; if she doth not in her Life-time dispose of them, or devise them away by Will. 1 Inst. 3, 31, 133. Finch 86. 1 Roll. Abr. 912. Acts of Parliament relating to her, need not be pleaded; for the Court must take Notice of them, because she is a publick Person. 8 Rep. 28. If a Tenant of the Queen aliens a Part of his Tenancy to one, and another Part to another; the Queen may distrain in any one Part for the Whole, as the King may do. Wood's Inst. 22. And in a Quare Impedit brought by the Queen, some say that Plenary is no Plea; no more than in the Case of the King. Ibid. But see 2 Inst. 361. The Queen shall pay no Toll, &c. 1 Inst. 133.

Queen Dowager. No Man may marry the Queen Dowager, without License from the King, on Pain to forfeit his Lands and Goods: But if she marry any of the Nobility, or under that Degree, she loseth not her Dignity; but by the Name of Queen may maintain an Action. 2 Inst. 18, 50. The Stat. 25 Ed. 3. making it Treason to violate the Queen, extends not to a Queen Dowager, but the King's Wife and Companion:

And a Queen Consort and Queen Dowager shall be tried, in case of Treason, by the Peers. 2 Inst. 50.

Queen-gold, (Aurum Regina) Is a Royal Duty or Revenue belonging to every Queen of England, during her Marriage to the King, payable by Persons in this Kingdom and Ireland, upon divers Grants of the King, by Way of Fine or Oblation, &c. being one full tenth Part above the entire Fine, on Pardons, Contracts or Agreements, which becomes a real Debt to the Queen, by the Name of Aurum Regina, upon the Party's bare Agreement with the King for his Fine and Recording the same. Lib. Nig. S. a. pag. 43. 12 Co. Rep. 21, 22.

Que Estate, Signifies which Estate; and is a Plea, where a Man intilling another to Land, &c. saith that the same Estate such other had, he has from him: As for Example, In a Quare Impedit, the Plaintiff alledges that two Persons were seised of Lands, whereunto the Advowson in Question was appendant in Fee, and did present to the Church, and afterwards the Church was void: Que Estate, that is, which Estate of the two Persons he hath now, by Virtue whereof he presented, &c. Broke 175. Co. Lit. 121. A Man cannot plead a Que Estate in an Estate-tail, nor can it be pleaded in Estates for Life, or for Years; a Que Estate of a Term may not be pleaded, by Reason a Term cannot be gained by Disseisin, as a Fee may; but one may plead a Que Estate in a Term in another Person, under whom he doth not claim, and be good; for he is not privy to the Estate of the Stranger, to know his Title. 1 Rep. 46. 3 Lev. 19. 1 Lev. 190. Lutw. 81. A Thing that lies in Grant, cannot be claimed by a Que Estate, directly by itself; yet it may be claimed as Appurtenant to a Manor, by a Que Estate in the Manor. 1 Mod. 232. A Man may not prescribe by a Que Estate of a Rent, Advowson or Toll; but he may of a Manor, to which these are appendant. 2 Mod. 144. 3 Mod. 52. A Person cannot shew a Que Estate, without shewing the Deed how he came by it. Cro. Jac. 673.

Que est mesme, (Signifying Verbatim, the same Thing) Is a Word of Art, in Actions of Trespas, &c. for a direct Justification of the very Act complained of by the Plaintiff as a Wrong: And if where Tenants at Will bringing an Action against their Lord, the Plaintiffs say, that he threatened them in such Sort that he forced them to give up their Lands; to which the Lord pleads, that he said unto them, if they would not depart he would sue them at Law; this being the same Threatning that he used, or to speak artificially Que est le mesme, the Defence is good. Kitch. 236.

Querela, An Action or Declaration preferred in any Court of Justice; whence comes Querens or Complainant, and the Word Quarrel against any Person. And Quietos esse à Querelis was to be exempted from the customary Fees paid to the King or Lord of a Court, for Liberty to prefer such an Action; but more usually to be free from Fines and Amercements imposed for common Trespasles and Defaults. Chart. K. Hen. 2. to Bernard de S. Wallery. Kennet's Gloss. See Plaint.

Querela coram Rege & Concilio, &c. A Writ whereby one is called to justify a Complaint of Trespas made to the King himself, before the King and his Council. Reg. Orig. 124.

Quia improvide, Seems to be a Superfedeas granted in the Behalf of a Clerk of the Chancery, who is sued contrary to the Privilege of that Court in C. B. and prosecuted to the Exigent; and in many other Cases, where a Writ is unwarily and erroneously sued out, or misawarded. Dyer 33.

Quid juris clamat, Is a Writ judicial, issuing out of the Record of a Fine, before it is ingross'd; and it lies for the Grantee of a Reversion or Remainder, when the particular Tenant will not attorn. Reg. Judic. 36, 37. After the Fine is ingrossed, the Cognisee shall not have a Quid juris clamat against the Tenant for Life: But the Course is, when he in the Reversion upon the Writ of Covenant sued against him, maketh Recognisance of the Reversion by Fine, &c. then upon that the Cognisee may have this Writ against the Tenant for Life; and if he be sick or not able to travel, a Dedimus Potestatem shall be granted to take his Cognisance, and to certify the same into C. B. When after Plea pleaded, the Tenant may make Attorney; and if he be adjudged to attorn, a Disfringas ad attornandum shall be awarded against him, &c. New Nat. Br. 328.

Quid pro quo, Signifieth what for what; and is used in the Law, for the giving of one Thing of Value for another Thing, being the mutual Consideration and Performance of both Parties to a Contract. Kitch. 184.

Quietantia, A Quittance, or Acquittance. See Acquietantia.

Quietare, To quit, discharge, or save harmless; a Word often found in old Deeds and Conveyances.

Quiete clamare, Is to quit Claim, or renounce all Pretensions of Right and Title.—De una virgata terra in M. Ricardus & Aldreda remiserunt & Quiete clamaverunt de se & heredibus, &c. pradiſt. A. & hered. suis &c. pro hac autem Remissione Quieta clamacione idem A. dedit, &c. Braſt. lib. 5.

Quietus, (Freed or Acquitted) Is a Word made Use of by the Clerk of the Pipe and Auditors in the Exchequer, in their Acquittances or Discharges given to Accomptants; usually concluding with abinde recessit quietus, which is called a Quietus est: A Quietus est granted to the Sheriff, shall discharge him of all Accounts due to the King. Stat. 21 Jac. 1. cap. 5. And these Quietus's are mentioned in the Acts of General Pardon. 12 Car. 2. c. 11. and 14 Car. 2. c. 21.

Quinquagesima Sunday, Is what we call Shrove-Sunday; about the fiftieth Day before Easter. Britt.

Quinqueportus, The Cinque Ports; which are Hastings, Romney, Dover, Sandwich, &c. See Cinque Ports.

Quinzieme or Quinzime, A French Word signifying a Fifteenth; with us it is a Tax, so called, being raised after the Rate of the Fifteenth Part of Men's Lands or Goods. 10 R. 2. cap. 1. 7 Hen. 7. cap. 5. Though it is said to be a Mistake, that this was a Tax of the Fifteenth Part of all Lands; for it was of the Goods only, and was first granted by the Parliament. 18 Ed. 1. And the Way of collecting it, was by two Affessors appointed in every County by the King; and they deputed others in every Hundred, who made a true Valuation of every Man's Goods, and then caused the Fifteenth Part to be levied. Blount. See Fifteenths.

Quinzime, Is sometimes used for the Fifteenth Day after any Feast; as the Quinzime of St. John Baptist. 13 Ed. 1.

Quintal, One hundred Pound Weight of Fish, &c.

Quintane, (Quintena) Was a Roman military Sport or Exercise, by Men on Horseback, formerly practis'd in this Kingdom to try the Agility of the Country Youth: It was a Tilting at a Mark made in the Shape of a Man to the Navel, in his Left-hand having a Shield, and in his Right-hand a wooden Sword, the Whole made to turn round, so that if it was struck with the Lance in any other Part but full in the Breast, it turn'd with the Force of the Stroke, and struck the Horseman with the Sword which it held in its Right-hand: This Sport is recorded by Matt. Paris. Anno 1253.

Quint-exact, (Quinto exactus) Is the last Call of the Defendant who is sued to Outlawry; and if he do not then appear, he is by the Judgment of the Coroners return'd outlawed. 31 Eliz. cap. 3.

Quintam, Is where an Information is exhibited against any Person on a Penal Statute, at the Suit of the King and the Party who is Informer, where the Penalty for Breach of the Statute is to be divided between them; and the Party Informer prosecutes for the King and himself. Finch 340. When the whole Sum is given by Statute to any Person who will sue for the same, the Prosecutor may bring Action Qui tam, or sue in his own Name, &c. 2 Lill. Abr. 59. See Information.

Quit-claim, A Release, &c. See Quiete clamare.

Quit-Rent, (Quietus Redditus, quasi Quiet Rent) Is a certain small Rent, payable by the Tenants of Manors, in Token of Subjection, and by which the Tenant goes quiet and free: In ancient Records, it is called White Rent; because paid in Silver Money, to distinguish it from Rent-Corn, &c. 2 Inst. 19.

Quoad hoc, Is often used in Law Pleadings and Arguments, to signify As to this Thing named, the Law is so, &c.

Quod Clerici non Eligantur in Officio, Is a Writ that lies for a Clerk, who by Reason of Lands he is possess'd of, is made Bailiff, Reeve, or such like Officer. Reg. Orig. 187.

Quod cum, In Indictments, &c. as A. B. was indicted Quod cum C. D. he had done such a Thing: And this being by way of Recital, and not positively, is not good. 2 Hawk. P. C. 227. 3 Salk. 188. In Forgery, a Quod cum has been held well enough, where it was but an Inducement to the Fact; and when the Inducement came to charge the Offence, it did it in a particular Manner; but 'tis otherwise in Action of Trespass, &c. for there 'tis only Recital. Trin. 2 Anna.

Quod

Quod ei deforcat, A Writ for Tenant in Tail, Tenant in Dower, by the Curtesy, or for Term of Life, having lost their Lands by Default, against him that recovers, or his Heir. Reg. Orig. 171. Stat. Westm. 2. cap. 4. And Quod ei Deforcat may be brought against a Stranger to the Recovery; as if a Man recover by Default, and maketh a Feoffment, this Writ may be had against the Feoffee: If a Woman lose by Default, and taketh Husband, she and her Husband shall have the Quod ei Deforcat; but where Tenant in Tail loseth by Default, and dieth, his Heirs shall not have a Writ of Quod ei Deforcat, but a Formedon: And if Husband and Wife lose by Default the Land of the Wife, which she holdeth for Term of Life, and the Husband dieth, she may not have this Writ, for Cui in vita is her Remedy; and when one bringeth Quod ei Deforcat, he counts that he was seised of the Land in his Demesne, as of Freehold, or in Tail, &c. without shewing of whose Gift he was seised; also he ought to alledge Esplees in himself, and then the Defendant is to deny the Right of the Plaintiff, &c. and shew how that at another Time he recovered the Land against the Plaintiff, by Formedon, or other Action; and shall say in the End of his Plea, Quod ipse paratus est ad manutenendum jus & Titulum suum predict. per Donum, &c. unde petit Judic. &c. New Nat. Br. 347, 349. If Tenant in Tail, or such other Tenant who hath a particular Estate, lose by Default, where he is not summoned, &c. he may have either a Writ of Disceit, or Quod ei Deforcat. Ibid.

Quod permittat, Is a Writ which lieth against any Person who erects a Building, though upon his own Ground, so near to the House of another, that it hangs over, or becomes a Nuisance to it. 2 Lill. Abr. 413. Formerly where a Man built a Wall, a House, or any Thing which was a Nuisance to the Freehold of his Neighbour, and afterwards died; in such Case, he who received any Damage thereby, sued a Quod permittat against the Heir of him that did the Nuisance; and the Form of it was Quod permittat proferre murum, &c. 3 Nelf. Abr. 44. The Writ was given by the Statute Westm. 2. And at Common Law an Assise of Nuisance did not lie against the Alienee of a wrong Doer, for the Purchaser was to take the Land in the same Condition that it was conveyed to him; but by the said Statute of Westm. Damages are given against the Person who sold the Land, if the Nuisance be not abated on Request, &c. tho' this doth not extend to the Alienee of the Alienee. 3 Nelf. 45. Lutw. 1588. This Writ is seldom brought, being turn'd into Action on the Case. Vide Nuisance. Quod permittat lies also for the Heir of him that is disseised of his Common of Pasture, against the Heir of the Disseisor, being dead. Terms de Ley 507. And according to Broke, this Writ may be brought by him whose Ancestor died seised of Common of Pasture, or other like Thing, annexed to his Inheritance, against the Deforcor: If a Man is disturbed by any Person in his Common of Pasture, so that he cannot use it, he shall have a Quod permittat; so of a Turbary, Piscary, Fair, Market, &c. New Nat. Br. 272, 273, 275, 276. And a Parson may have a Quod permittat against a Disseisor, &c. in the Time of his Predecessor. 13 Ed. 1. c. 24. See Quare Impedit.

Quo jure, Is a Writ to compel a Man to shew by what Title he claims Common in the Land of another Person, brought by such other. F. N. B. 128. It is a Writ of Right in its Nature, and lieth against several Tenants; but they must make several Defences and Titles, &c. New Nat. Br. 284.

Quo minus, Lies for the King's Farmer or Debtor in the Court of Exchequer, because by the Detaining of his Debt, he is the less able to pay the King. Terms de Ley. It issues out of the Exchequer, to take the Body of the Defendant, as the Capias in the Common Pleas; and the Latitat in the King's Bench; and runs into Wales, where no Writ does out of those Courts, except it be the Capias Utlagatum: And though formerly it was allowed only to such Persons, as were Tenants or Debtors to the King; at this Day the Practice is become general for the Plaintiff to surmise that for the Wrong which the Defendant doth him, he is less able to satisfy his Debt to his Majesty; which Surmise gives Jurisdiction to the Court of Exchequer, to hear and determine the Cause. Pract. Excheq. 225. If a privileged Person of the Exchequer Court sue out a Quo minus in any Action in which the King is Party, the Sheriff in Execution thereof may, after Request to open Doors, break them open, &c. Pract. Solic. 194.

Quorum, (Lat.) Often occurs in our Statutes, and Commissions both of the Peace and others, but particularly in Commissions to Justices of Peace; and a Justice of the Quorum is so called, from the Words in the Commission, Quorum A. B. unum esse volumus: As where a Commission is directed to five Persons, whereof A. B. and C. D. to be Two: In this Case A. B. and C. D. are said to be of the Quorum, and the Rest cannot proceed without them. They are usually Persons of greater Quality or Estates than the common Commissioners. 3 Hen. 7. c. 3. 32 Hen. 8. cap. 43.

Quorum nomina. In the Reign of King Hen. 6. the King's Collectors, and other Accomptants, were much perplexed in passing their Accounts, by new extorted Fees, and forced to procure a then late invented Writ of Quorum nomina, for the Allowance and Suing out their Quietus, without the Allowance of the King. Chron. Angl.

Quota, A Tax to be levied in an equal Manner. Chart. Ric. 2.

Quo Warranto, Is a Writ which lies against any Person or Corporation, that usurps any Franchise or Liberty against the King, without good Title; and is brought against the Usurpers to shew by what Right and Title they hold or claim such Franchise or Liberty: It also lies for Misuser, or for Nonuser of Privileges granted; and by Bracton, it may be brought against one that intrudes himself as Heir into Land, &c. Old Nat. Br. 149. Finch 322. 2 Inst. 279. The Statute of Quo Warranto is the 18 Ed. 1. which is commented upon. 2 Inst. 494, 495, &c. And the Attorney General may exhibit a Quo Warranto in the Crown-Office against any particular Person, Body Politick or Corporate, who shall claim or use any Franchises, Privileges or Liberties, not having a legal Grant or Prescription for the same; and compel them by Process to appear in the Crown-Office, and shew Cause or set forth by way of Pleading, what Title they have to the Privileges claimed, and Issue shall be joined and tried thereon by Nisi Prius, or the Plea be determined by the Judges on Demurrer, as in other Cases: But though on Demurrer, &c. the Question be determined for the Defendant, yet he has no Costs allowed him; if against him, he must be fined for the Usurpation, and pay large Costs to the Prosecutor. Instit. Legal. 147, 148, 157. But vide Stat. 9 Ann. It hath been adjudged, that the Stat. 4 & 5 W. & M. cap. 18. by which Informations in the Crown-Office are not to be filed without express Order in open Court, &c. being a remedial Law extends to Informations in the Nature of a Quo Warranto, which always suppose a Usurpation of some Franchise; and it is the general Practice not to make such an Order for an Information, without first making a Rule upon the Person complained of to shew Cause to the contrary; and this Rule is grounded on an Affidavit of the Offence, &c. and if the Person on whom the Rule is made and personally serv'd, do not at the Day given satisfy the Court by Affidavit, that there is no reasonable Cause for the Prosecution, the Court generally grants the Information; and upon special Circumstances, will grant it against those who cannot be personally serv'd with such Rule; as if they purposely absent themselves, &c. But if the Party on whom such a Rule is made, shew to the Court a reasonable Cause against such Prosecution; as against a Quo Warranto Information, that his Right in the Franchise in Question hath been already determined on a Mandamus; or been acquiesced in many Years; or that it depends on the Right of others which hath not been tried; or that the Franchise no way concerns the Publick, but is wholly of a private Nature, &c. the Court will not generally grant the Information. 2 Hawk. P. C. 262, 263. A Quo Warranto was brought for Vexation, on Forty-eight Points; and the Court on Motion, ordered that the Prosecutor shall waive that Quo Warranto, and bring a new one, and therein insist only upon three Points; but that he might proceed to Trial upon his new Quo Warranto, in such Time as he might have done upon the old. Hill. 22 Car. B. R. 2 Lill. Abr. 414. A Quo Warranto requires to know of the Defendant by what Authority he claims the Liberties, and charges him with the wrongful Usurpation of them: In a Quo Warranto to shew by what Authority a Person claimed to have a Court-Leet, and alleging farther quod usurpavit Libertatem sine aliqua concessione, &c. The Defendant pleaded Non usurpavit, and it was objected that this was no good Plea, for that the Answer to a Quo Warranto is either to claim or disclaim; but the better Opinion was, that by this Plea the Defendant had answered the Usurpation, though it did not shew by what Title he had claimed. Godb. 91. In Quo Warranto for using a Fair and Market, and taking Toll, Issue was taken, whether they had Toll by Prescription or not; and it was found that they had; and it was moved in Arrest of Judgment, that here was a Discontinuance, because there was no Issue as to the other Liberties claimed: But it was held, they were too soon to make this Objection, and that there can be no Discontinuance against the King before Judgment; for by Virtue of his Prerogative, the Attorney General may proceed to take Issue upon the Rest, or may enter a Nolle Prosequi; but if he will not proceed, the Court may make a Rule on him ad replicandum, and then there may be a special Entry made of it. Hardres 504. 3 Nelf. Abr. 43. A Motion was made for an Information in Nature of a Quo Warranto against a Mayor and Aldermen, to shew by what Authority they admitted Persons to be Freemen of the Corporation, who did not inhabit in the Borough: The Motion was said to be in Behalf of the Freemen, who by this Means were encroached upon; and an Information was granted, there being no other Way to try it, nor to redress the Parties concerned. 1 Salk. 374. Quo Warranto Information may be brought against a Person voting in the Election of a Mayor, or other Chief Magistrate of a Corporation, that hath no Right to do it; upon Affidavit made that the Defendant voted in such an Election, and that the Dependent the Prosecutor believes he had no Right to do it, &c. And by Stat. 9 Ann. If any Person shall usurp, intrude into, or unlawfully hold or execute the Office of Mayor, Bailiff, or other Office in any Town Corporate or Place in England, the proper Officer of the Court of King's Bench, &c. may exhibit Informations in the Nature of a Quo Warranto, at the Relation of any Person desiring to prosecute, who shall be mentioned in such Informations to be the Relator against such Usurper, and proceed as usual; and if the Right of divers Persons may properly be determined in one Information, one Information shall serve, and the Defendants shall appear and plead as of the same Term, &c. the Information is filed, unless the Court give further Time; and the Prosecutor shall proceed with all convenient Speed: And if the Defendants be found guilty of an Usurpation, &c. the said Courts may as well give Judgment of Ouster, as fine the Defendants; and also give Judgment that the Relator shall recover his Costs: And if Judgment be given against the Relator, the Defendants shall have Costs to be levied by Capias ad Satisfaciend. Fieri facias, &c. In a Quo Warranto, the Judgment is final, because that is a Writ of Right; but Judgment on Information, in Nature of a Quo Warranto, is not conclusive: The Proceedings in one are Summons, and Judgment that the Liberties be seised, if the Defendant doth not appear; but in the other the Process is a Venire facias and Distingas. Sid. 86. Kelw. 139, &c. 3 Nelf. Abr. 43. Upon Quo Warranto, when the Liberties are seised quousque, &c. and they do not replevy them, the Course is that Judgment final be given, Nisi they plead within such a Time. Comberbach 18, 19. Wherever Judgment is given for the King on a Quo Warranto, for Liberties usurped, the Judgment is Quod extinguatur, and that the Usurpers Libertates, &c. nullatenus intrumittant; and in such Case the Writ must be brought against particular Persons: But where the Quo Warranto is for a Liberty claimed by a Corporation, there it is to be brought against the Body Politick; and the Liberties may be seised, but the Corporation still subsists. 4 Mod. 52, 58. A Judgment of Seizure cannot be proper where a Thing is dissolved: And by the Judgment in the Quo Warranto against the City of London, which was quod Libertates & Franchisia capiantur & seisantur in manus Regis, the Corporation was not dissolved; for it implied that they were not extinguished. Ibid. It has been observed, that frequent and violent Prosecutions on Quo Warranto's in Behalf of the Crown, have been fatal to both King and People.

Range, (From the Fr. Ranger, i. e. to order, array, or dispose of) Is used in the Forest Laws as a Verb, as to range; and as a Substantive, as to make Range. Chart. Forest. c. 6.

Ranger, A sworn Officer of the Forest, to inquire of Trespasses, and drive the Beasts of the Forest out of the deafforested Grounds into the Forest, &c. He is made by Patent, and hath a Fee paid yearly out of the Exchequer, and certain Fee Déer. Chart. Forest. cap. 7. Manwood's For. Laws, p. 50. See Forest.

Ransome, (Fr. Rancon, i. e. Redemptio) Is properly the Sum paid for redeeming a Captive or Prisoner of War; and sometimes taken in our Law for a Sum of Money paid for the Pardoning some great Offence, and setting the Offender at Liberty who was under Imprisonment. Stat. 1 H. 4. cap. 7. 11 Hen. 6. cap. 11. Fine and Ransom go together, and some Writers tell us that they are the same; but others say, that the Offender ought to be first imprisoned, and then delivered or ransomed in Consideration of a Fine. 1 Inst. 127. Dalt. 203. And Ransom differs from Amerciament, being a Redemption of a Corporal Punishment due to any Crime. Lamb. Eiren. 556.

Rape, (Rapus vel Rapa) Is a Part of a County, signifying as much as a Hundred, and oftentimes contains in it more Hundreds than one: As all Suffex is divided into six Rapes only, viz. The Rape of Chichester, Arundel, Bramber, Lewis, Pevensey and Hastings; every of which, besides Hundreds, hath a Castle, River, and Forest belonging to it. Camd. Britan. 225, 229. These Rapes are incident to the County of Suffex; as Lathes are to Kent; and Wapentakes to Yorkshire, &c.

Rape of the Forest, (Raptus Forestæ) Trespass committed in the Forest by Violence; and is reckoned among those Crimes, whose Cognizance belonged only to the King. — Inter delicta numeratur, quorum cognitio ad unicum Regem spectat. Leg. Hen. 1. c. 10.

Rape of Women, Is an unlawful and carnal Knowledge of a Woman, by Force and against her Will: A Ravishment of the Body, and violent deflouring her; which is Felony by the Common and Statute Law. Co. Lit. 190. And the Word Rapuit is so appropriated by Law to this Offence, that it cannot be expressed by any other; even the Words Carnaliter cognovit, &c. without it, will not be sufficient. 1 Inst. 124. 2 Inst. 180. There must be Penetration and Emission, to make this Crime; and it is said Emission may be Evidence prima facie of Penetration, tho' not full Evidence: If there be no Penetration and Emission, an Attempt to ravish a Woman, though it be never so outrageous, will be an Assault only. 1 Hawk. P. C. 108. It was a Question before 18 Eliz. c. 7. whether a Rape could be committed on the Body of a Child of the Age of six or seven Years; and a Person being indicted for the Rape of a Girl of seven Years old, although he was found guilty, the Court doubted whether a Child of that Age could be ravished; if she had been nine Years old she might, for at that Age she may be endowed. Dyer 304. By the Stat. 18 Eliz. whosoever shall carnally know and abuse any Woman Child under the Age of ten Years, he shall suffer as a Felon, without Benefit of Clergy: And upon an Indictment for this Offence, it is no way material whether such Child consented, or were forced; but it must be proved that the Offender entered her Body, &c. 3 Cro. 332. Dalt. 393. In Rapes, it is no Excuse or Mitigation of the Crime, that the Woman at last yielded to the Violence, and consented either after the Fact or before, if such her Consent was forced by Fear of Death or of Duress; or that she was a common Strumpet, for she is still under the Protection of the Law, and may be forced: But it was anciently held, to be no Rape to force a Man's own Concubine; and it is said by some to be Evidence of a Woman's Consent, that she was a common Whore. 1 Hawk. 108. 1 Inst. 123. Also formerly it was adjudged not to be a Rape to force a Woman, who conceived at the Time; because if she had not consented, she could not have conceived: Though this Opinion hath been since question'd, by Reason the previous Violence is no way extenuated by such a subsequent Consent; and if it were necessary to shew that the Woman did not conceive to make the Crime, the Offender could not be tried till such Time as it might appear whether she did or not. 2 Inst. 190. The sooner Complaint is made of a Rape the better: In Scotland it ought to be complained of the same Day or Night it is committed; and our Law mentions forty Days: It is a strong Presumption against a Woman, that she made no Complaint in a reasonable Time after the Fact. 1 Inst. 123. 7 Inst. 59. H. P. C. 117. On a Bill of Conspiracy, &c. where a Defendant did not indict the Plaintiff for a Rape, in a short Time after the Injury supposed to be done, but concealed it for Half a Year, and then would have preferred an Indictment against him; this was resolved to be malicious, and that there not being Recens prosecutio argued a Consent. 3 Nelf. Abr. 45. A Woman ravish'd may prosecute, and be a Witness in her own Cause. 3 Rep. 37. Yet a Woman's positive Oath of a Rape, without concurring Circumstances, is seldom credited: If a Man can prove himself to be in another Place, or in other Company, at the Time she charges him with the Fact, this will overthrow her Oath; so if she is wrong in the Description of the Place, or swears the Fact to be committed in a Place whereto it was impossible the Man could have Access at that Time; as if the Room was lock'd up, and the Key in the Custody of another Person, &c. Aiders and Abettors in committing a Rape, may be indicted as principal Felons, whether Men or Women; and the Lord Audley was indicted and executed as a Principal, for assisting his Servant to ravish his own Wife, who was admitted a Witness against him. Dalt. 107. State Trials, Vol. 1. p. 265. Of old Time, Rape was Felony, and punished with Death; especially if the Party ravished were a Virgin, unless such Virgin would accept of the Offender for her Husband, in which Case she might save his Life by marrying him; for if she demanded him for her Husband before Judgment pass'd, he escaped Punishment; but by the Stat. Westm. 2. her Election is taken away: Afterwards it was look'd upon as a great Misdemeanor only, and not Felony, but dreadfully punish'd, viz. by the Loss of Eyes, and Privy Members; and by the Statute of Westm. 1. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 13. it was reduced to Trespass, subjecting the Offender to two Years Imprisonment, and a Fine at the King's Will: But the Stat. Westm. 2. c. 34. made it Felony again; and it is excluded from the Benefit of the Clergy, by 18 Eliz. Rape was excepted out of the general Pardon. 2 W. & M. c. 16, &c. See Appeal of Rape.

Raptu heredis, Is an antient Writ lying for the Taking away an Heir, holding in Socage; of which there are two Sorts, one when the Heir is married, the other when not. Reg. Orig. 163.

Rase, (Rasarium) Seems to have been a Measure of Corn now disus'd: Toll shall be taken Rate-Tithe, Is where any Sheep or other Cattle are kept in a Parish for less Time than a Year, the Owner must pay Tithe for them pro Rata, according to the Custom of the Place. F. N. B. 51.

Ratian, A foreign Measure, containing about four Bushels; but more commonly a Day's Allowance of Forage for Man or Horse in an Army. Lex Mercat.

Ratification, (Ratificatio) A Ratifying or Confirming: It is particularly used for the Confirmation of a Clerk in a Prebend, &c. formerly conferred upon him by the Bishop, where the Right of Patronage is doubted or supposed to be in the King. Reg. Orig. 304.

Ratio, A Cause or Judgment given therein; and ponere ad rationem is to cite one to appear in Judgment. Walsingh. 88.

Rationabile Estoverium, Was Alimony heretofore so called. Rot. 7 Hen. 3.

Rationabili parte, A Writ of Right for Lands, &c. See Reſto de Rationabili parte.

Rationabili parte Bonozum, Is a Writ that lies for the Wife, after the Death of her Husband, against the Executors of the Husband denying her the third Part of his Goods after Debts and Funeral Charges paid. F. N. B. 222. And it appears by Glanville, that by the Common Law of England, the Goods of the Deceased, his Debts first paid, shall be divided into three Parts; one Part for the Wife, another Part for his Children, and the Third to the Executors: And this Writ may be brought by the Children, as well as the Wife. Reg. Orig. 142. But it seems to be used only where the Custom of the Country serves for it; and the Writs in the Register rehearse the Customs of the Counties, &c. New Nat. Br. 270, 271. As to Children bringing this Writ, their Marriage is no Advancement, if the Father's Goods be not given in his Life-time; but where a Child is advanced by the Father, this Writ will not lie. Ibid.

Rationabilibus divisiis, A Writ lying where two Lords, in divers Towns, have Seigniories or Lordships joining together, for him that finds his Waste by little and little to have been incroached upon, against the other that hath made the Incroachment, to rectify the Bounds and Divisions; in which Respect Fitzherbert says it is in its Nature a Writ of Right: And the Old Nat. Br. calls it a Kind of Justicies, that may be removed by a Pone out of the County-Court into the Common Pleas. F. N. B. 128. Reg. Orig. 157. New Book Entries.

Rationale, A Priest's Garment, worn by the Pope and Bishops, as a Token of the highest Virtue, Que gratia & Ratione perſecitur. See Pectorale.

Rabishment, (Fr. Ravissement, i. e. Direptio, raptio) Signifies an unlawful Taking away either of a Woman, or an Heir in Ward; and sometimes it is used in the same Sense with Rape.

Rabishment de gard, Was a Writ that lay for the Guardian by Knights-Service, or in Socage, against a Person who took from him the Body of his Ward. F. N. B. 140. By the Stat. 12 Car. 2. c. 24. this Writ is taken away, as to Lands held by Knights-Service, &c. but not where there is Guardian in Socage, or appointed by Will: And the Mayor and Aldermen and Chamberlains of

London

London who have the Custody of Orphans, if they commit any Orphan to another, he shall have a Writ of Ravishment of Ward against him who taketh the Ward out of his Possession. New Nat. Br. 317.

Ray, Is a Word appropriated to Cloth, never colour'd or dy'd. 11 Hen. 4. c. 6.

Razure, Of a Deed, so as to alter it in a material Part, without the Privy of the Party bound by it, &c. will make the same void: And if it be razed in the Date, after the Delivery, it is said it goes through the Whole. 5 Rep. 23, 119. Where a Deed by Razure, Addition or Alteration, becomes no Deed, the Defendant may plead Non est factum to it. Ibid.

Reafforested, Is where a Forest which had been disafforested is again made Forest; as the Forest of Dean is by the Stat. 20 Car. 2. c. 3.

Realty, Is an Abstract of Real, as distinguished from Personalty.

Reason, It has been observ'd, is the very Life of the Law; and that what is contrary to it, is unlawful: When the Reason of the Law once ceases, the Law it self generally ceases; because Reason is the Foundation of all our Laws. Co. Lit. 97, 183. If Maxims of Law admit of any Difference, those are to be preferred which carry with them the more perfect and excellent Reason. Ibid.

Reasonable Aid, Was a Duty claimed by the Lord of the Fee of his Tenants holding by Knights-Service, to marry his Daughter, &c. Stat. Westm. 2. cap. 24. See the Stat. 12 Car. 2. cap. 24.

Reattachment, (Reattachiamentum) Is a second Attachment of him who was formerly attached and dismissed the Court without Day, by the not coming of the Justices, or some such Casualty. Broke. Reg. Orig. 35. A Cause discontinued, or put without Day, cannot be revived without Reattachment or Resummons; which if they are special, may revive the whole Proceedings; but if general, the original Record only. 2 Hawk. 200. And on a Reattachment, the Defendant is to plead de novo, &c. See Day.

Rebate, Is an Abating what the Interest of Money comes to, in Consideration of prompt Payment. Merch. Diff.

Rebellion, (Rebellio) Among the Romans, was where those who had been formerly overcome in Battle, and yielded to their Subjection, made a second Resistance: But with us it is generally used for the Taking up of Arms traiterously against the King, whether by natural Subjects, or others when once subdued; and the Word Rebel is sometimes applied to him that wilfully breaks a Law; likewise to a Villain disobeying his Lord. Stat. 25 Ed. 3. cap. 6. 1 R. 2. c. 6. There is a Difference in our Law between Enemies and Rebels; for Enemies are those that are out of the King's Allegiance; and therefore Subjects of the King, either in open War, or Rebellion, are not the King's Enemies, but Traitors. And David Prince of Wales, who levied War against K. Ed. 1. because he was within the Allegiance of the King, had Sentence pronounced against him as a Traitor and Rebel. Fleta, lib. 1. cap. 16. Private Persons may arm themselves to suppress Rebels, Enemies, &c. 1 Hawk. P. C. 136.

Rebellious Assembly, Is a Gathering together of twelve Persons, or more, intending or going about to practise or put in Use unlawfully, of their own Authority, any Thing to change the Laws or Statutes of the Realm; or to destroy the Enclosures of any Ground, or Banks of any Fish-Pond, Pool or Conduit, to the Intent the same shall lie waste and void; or to destroy the Deer in any Park, or any Warren of Conies, Dove-houses, or Fish in any Ponds; or any House, Barns, Mills, or Bays; or to burn Stacks of Corn; or abate Rents, or Prices of Victuals, &c. Stat. 1 Mar. cap. 12. 1 Ed. 6. See Assembly unlawful.

Rebinare, Was to give a second Stirring or Ploughing to Arable Land that lay fallow, to prepare it for sowing Wheat, &c. or to plough the Ground a third Time for that Purpose.

—Tempus Rebinandi erit post Festum Nativitatis Sancti Johannis Baptista cum terra pullulaverit post carucam. Fleta, lib. 2. c. 73.

Rebutter, (From the Fr. Bouter, i. e. Repellere, to put back or bar) Is the Answer of the Defendant in a Cause to the Plaintiff's Surrejoinder: And the Plaintiff's Answer to the Defendant's Rebutter is called a Surrebutter; but 'tis very rarely that the Parties go so far in Pleading. Pract. Attorn. Edit. 1. pag. 86. Rebutter is also where a Man by Deed or Fine grants to Warranty any Land or Hereditament to another; and the Person making the Warranty or his Heir, sues him to whom the Warranty is made, or his Heir or Assignee, for the same Thing; if he who is so sued, plead the Deed or Fine with Warranty, and pray Judgment if the Plaintiff shall be received to demand the Thing which he ought to warrant to the Party, against the Warranty in the Deed, &c. this is called a Rebutter. Terms de Ley 511. And if I grant to a Tenant to hold without Impeachment of Waste, and afterwards implead him for Waste done, he may debar me of this Action by shewing my Grant; which is Rebutter. Co. Entr. 284. 1 Inst. 365.

Recaption, (Recaptio) Signifies the Taking a second Distress of one formerly distrained, during the Plea grounded on the former Distress; and it is a Writ to recover Damages for him whose Goods being distrained for Rent, or Service, &c. are distrained again for the same Cause, hanging the Plea in the County-Court, or before the Justices. F. N. B. 71, 72. Stat. 47 Ed. 3. cap. 7. And a Recaption lieth where the Lord distrains other Cattle of the Tenant than he first distrained, as well as if he had distrained the same Cattle again, if it be for one and the same Cause; but 19 E. 3. Issue was taken whether the Cattle were other Cattle of the Plaintiff, &c. New Nat. Br. 161. If the Lord distrain the Cattle of a Stranger for the same Rent, and not his Cattle who was first distrained; neither the Stranger, nor the Party first distrained, shall have the Writ of Recaption: And if the Lord distrain for Rent or Service, and afterwards the Lord's Bailiff takes a Distress on the same Tenant for the same Rent or Service, pending the Plea; the Tenant shall not have a Recaption against the Lord, or against the Bailiff, although the Bailiff maketh Cognizance in Right of the Lord, &c. for it may be the Lord had no Notice of that Distress, or the Bailiff had not Notice of the Distress took by the Lord; though in such Case, Action of Trespass lies; and if the Lord agree to the Distress taken by his Servant or Bailiff, the Tenant may have this Writ against the Lord. Ibid. 159. A Man is distrained within a Liberty, and sues a Replevin there by Plaint or Writ, and pendant that Plaint in the Liberty he is distrained again again for the same Cause, by the Person who distrained before; he shall not upon that Distress bring a Writ of Recaption, because the Plaintiff is not pendent in the County-Court before the Sheriff, nor in C. B. before the Justices: But if the Plaintiff be removed by Pone or Re. ordare out of the Liberty before the Justices, then the Party distrained may have a Recaption, &c. And if a Person be convicted before the Sheriff in a Writ of Recaption, he shall not only render Damages to the Party, but be amerced for the Contempt; and by the Justices be fined. 39 Ed. 3. For Damage feasant Beasts may be distrained as often as they shall be found upon the Land; because every Time is for a new Trespass and a new Wrong, and no Recaption lies.

Receiver, (Receptor) Is by us as with the Civilians commonly used in the evil Part, for such as receive stolen Goods, &c. And the Receiving a Felon, and concealing him and his Offence, makes a Person accessory to the Felony. 2 Inst. 183. But a Receiver of a Felon, &c. must have Notice of the Felony either express or implied, which is to be expressly charged in the Indictment; and the Felony must be complete at the Time of the Receipt, and not become so afterwards by Matter subsequent: If a Person knowing of one to have been guilty of Felony, barely receive him and permit him to escape, without giving him any Advice, Assistance or Encouragement, it is a high Misdemeanor, but no capital Offence; and a Wife, in Regard to the Duty and Love which she owes her Husband, may receive him when he hath committed Felony; but no other Relation will exempt the Receiver of a Felon from Punishment. S. P. C. 41. H. P. C. 218, 219. 2 Hawk. P. C. 122, 319, 320. By Statute, if any Person shall receive or buy knowingly any stolen Goods, or conceal Felons knowing of the Felony, he shall be accessory to the Felony, and suffer Death as a Felon. Stat. 5 Ann. c. 31. Such Receivers, &c. may be transported by 4 Geo. cap. 11.

Receiver, Annex'd to other Words, as Receiver of Rents, signifies an Officer belonging to the King, or other great Personage. Crompt. Jurisd. 18. See Account.

Receiver of the fines, Is an Officer who receives the Money of all such as compound with the King upon Original Writs sued out of the Chancery. West. Symb. par. 2. sect. 106. Stat. 1 Ed. 4. c. 1.

Receiver General of the Dutchy of Lancaster, An Officer of the Dutchy-Court, that gathers in and collects all the Revenues, Fines, Forfeitures and Assessments, within the said Dutchy, or what else is there to be received arising from the Profits of the Dutchy Lands, &c. 39 Eliz. c. 7.

Receiver General of the Muster-Rolls, Is mentioned in the Stat. 35 Eliz. c. 4.

Receivers General of the Revenue. The Receivers of the Revenues, are within three Months to pay in their Receipts, on Pain of Forfeiture of Place, and 4 s. per Pound, &c. 34 & 35 Hen. 8. cap. 2. Also Receivers are to be bound with Sureties for true accounting, and to render Accounts yearly, &c. under Penalties. 7 Ed. 6. c. 1. Receivers of the Revenue Actions may be brought against, and not be staid by Privilege of Parliament. 2 Ann. cap. 18. If a Receiver General of Taxes be robbed, Oath is to be made by three in Company, to recover, &c. 6 Geo.

Receiver General of the Court of Wards and Liveries, Was an Officer belonging to that Court; but that Court being taken away by the Stat. 12 Car. 2. cap. 24. this Officer is of Course out of Doors.

Recital, (Recitatio) Is the Rehearsal or making Mention in a Deed or Writing of something which has been done before. 2 Lill. Abr. 416. A Recital is not conclusive, because it is no direct Affirmation; and by feign'd Recitals in a true Deed, Men might make what Titles they pleas'd, since false Recitals are not punishable. 1 Inst. 352. 2 Lev. 108. Wood's Inst. 225. If a Person by Deed of Assignment recite that he is possessed of an Interest in certain Lands, and assign it over by the Deed, and become bound by Bond to perform all the Agreements in the Deed: If he is not possessed of such Interest, the Condition is broken; and though a Recital of it self is nothing, yet being joined and considered with the rest of the Deed, it is material. 1 Leon. 112. The Recital of one Lease in another, is not a sufficient Proof that there was such a Lease as is recited. Vaugh. 74. But the Recital of a Lease in a Deed of Release, is good Evidence of a Lease against the Relessor and those who claim under him. Mod. Ca. 44. A new reversionary Lease shall commence from the Delivery, where an old Lease is recited, and there is none, &c. Dyer 93. 6 Rep. 36.

Recluse, (Reclusus) Is he who being enter'd into a religious Order, is shut up, and stirs not out of the House or Cloyster. Litt. 92.

Recognition, (Recognitio) Signifies an Acknowledgment; and it is the Title of the first Chapter of the Stat. 1 Jac. 1. whereby the Parliament acknowledged the Crown of England, on the Death of Queen Elizabeth, rightfully to have descended to King James.

Recognitione annullenda per Vim & Duriem facta, Is a Writ to the Justices of C. B. for the Sending a Record touching a Recognizance, which the Recognizor suggests was acknowledged by Force and Duress; that if it so appear, the Recognizance may be disannulled. Reg. Orig. 183.

Recognitors, (Recognitores) Are the Jury impanelled upon an Affise; so called, because they acknowledge a Disceisin by their Verdict. Bract. lib. 5.

Recognizance. (Fr. Reconnaissance, i. e. Recognitio, Obligatio) Is a Bond or Obligation of Record, acknowledged to the King, &c. And of Recognizances some are for Debt, some for Bail; and others to appear at the Sessions or Affises to prosecute Felons, and to be of the good Behaviour, &c. For Debt, or Bail, they are taken or acknowledged before the Judges, a Master in Chancery, &c. And to appear at the Affises, or Sessions, they may be taken by Justices of Peace; which Recognizances are to be returned by the Justices to the Sessions, or an Information lies against them. 2 Lill. Abr. 417. All Recognizances must be made in Latin, and the Conditions of them, where they have such, are to be in English; and when a Recognizance of the Peace is made, the Condition is to be read to the Parties bound, calling them by their Names thus: You A. B. do acknowledge to owe unto our Sovereign Lord King George, &c. And then it is to be ingrossed on Parchment, and the Justice is to subscribe it. Dalt. 479, 480. In these Recognizances, the Principal is bound in double the Sum of the Sureties; and the usual Number of Sureties are Two, and and the usual Penalty 40 l. at least ; though if the Party be a very dangerous Person, a Justice may insist upon a Recognizance of 1000 l. Penalty. Style 322. Recognizances in general are of several Sorts ; one is founded on the Stat. 23 H. 8. cap. 6. By which Statute, the Chief Justices of the King's Bench, and Common Pleas in Term-Time, or in their Absence out of the Term, the Mayor of the Staple at Westminster, and the Recorder of London jointly, have Power to take Recognizances for the Payment of Debts in this Form, Noverint Universi, &c. They are to be sealed with the Seal of the Cognizor, and of the King appointed for that Purpose, and the Seal of one of the Chief Justices, &c. And the Recognizees, their Executors and Administrators shall have the like Process and Execution against the Recognizors, as upon Obligations of Statute-staple. 2 Inst. 678. The Execution upon a Recognizance or Statute, pursuant to the Stat. 23 Hen. 8. is called an Extent ; and the Body of the Cognizor, (if he be a Layman) and all his Lands, Tenements and Hereditaments, into whose Hands soever they come, are liable to the Extent : Goods (not of other Persons in his Possession) and Chattels, as Leases for Years, Cattle, &c. that are in his own Hands, and not sold bona fide and for valuable Consideration, are also subject to the Extent. 3 Rep. 13. But the Land is not the Debtor, but the Body ; and the Land is liable only in Respect that it was in the Hands of the Cognizor at the Time of the Acknowledgment of the Recognizance, or after ; and the Person is charged, but the Lands chargeable only. Plowd. 72. Lands held in Tail shall be chargeable only during Life, and not affect the Issue in Tail, unless a Recovery be passed : Copyhold Lands are subject to the Extent, only during the Life of the Cognizor : The Lands a Man hath in Right of his Wife, shall be chargeable but during the Lives of the Husband and Wife together ; and Lands which the Cognizor hath in Jointenancy with another, are liable to Execution during the Life of the Cognizor, and no longer ; for after his Death, if no Execution was sued in his Life, the surviving Jointenant shall have all ; but if the Cognizor survive, all is liable. 2 Inst. 673. If two or more join in the Recognizance, &c. the Lands of all ought equally to be charged : And where a Cognizor, after he hath enter'd into a Recognizance or Statute, doth convey away his Lands to divers Persons, and the Cognissee sues Execution upon the Lands of some of them, and not all : In this Case, he or they whose Lands are taken in Execution, may by Audita Querela or Scire facias have Contribution from the rest, and have all the Lands equally and proportionably extended. 3 Rep. 14. Plowd. 72. This Kind of Recognizance may be used for Payment of Debts ; or to strengthen other Assurances. Wood 288. If a Recognizance is to pay 100 l. at five several Days, viz. 20 l. on each Day, immediately after the first Failure of Payment, the Cognissee may have Execution by Elegit upon the Recognizance for the 20 l. and shall not stay till the last Day of Payment is past ; for this is in the Nature of several Judgments. 1 Inst. 292. 2 Inst. 395, 471. When no Time is limited in a Statute or Recognizance for the Payment of the Money, it is due presently ; as in case of a Bond. Law Secur. 61. A Recognizance for Money lent, though it is not a perfect Record until entered upon the Roll ;

yet when entered, it is a Recognizance from the first Acknowledgment, and binds Persons and Lands from that Time. Hob. 198. But by Stat. 29 Car. 2. cap. 3. no Recognizance shall bind Lands in the Hands of Purchasers for valuable Consideration, but from the Time of Inrollment, which is to be set down in the Margin of the Roll : And Recognizances, &c. in the Counties of York and Middlesex, shall not bind Lands unless registered. 2, 5, 6 & 7 Ann. Also the Clerk of the Recognizances is to keep three several Rolls for the Entering of Recognizances taken by the Chief Justices, &c. and the Persons before whom the Recognizances are taken, and the Parties acknowledging are to sign their Names to the Roll, as well as to the Recognizance. 8 Geo. cap. 25. By Recognizances of Debt, and Bail, the Body and Lands are bound ; though some Opinions are, that the Lands of Bail are bound from the Time of the Recognizance entered into ; and some, that they are not bound but from the Recovery of the Judgment against the Principal. 2 Leon. 84. Cro. Jac. 272, 449. In the Court of B. R. all Recognizances are entered as taken in Court ; but in C. B. they enter them specially where taken, and their Recognizances bind from the Caption, but those in B. R. from the Time of their Entry : In C. B. a Scire facias may be brought on their Recognizances either in London or Middlesex ; on those in B. R. in the County of Middlesex only. 2 Salk. 659. 3 Nels. Abr. 46. A Recognizance of Bail in C. B. is entered specially ; the Bail are bound to pay a certain Sum of Money, if the Party condemn'd doth not pay the Condemnation, or render his Body to Prison ; And in B. R. Recognizances are enter'd generally ; that if the Party be condemn'd in the Suit or Action, he shall render his Body to Prison, or pay the Condemnation Money, or the Bail shall do it for him. Pasch. 23 Car. B. R. 2 Lill. Abr. 417. It was formerly a Question whether a Capias ad satisfaciend. would lie upon a Recognizance taken in Chancery ; but adjudged, that immediately after the Recognizance is acknowledged, it is a Judgment on Record ; and then by the Stat. 25 Ed. 3. cap. 17. a Capias ad satisfaciend. will lie, it being a Debt on Record. 2 Bulst. 62. If a Recognizance be made before a Master in Chancery for a Debt ; or to perform an Order or Decree of the Court ; if the Condition be not perform'd, an Extent shall issue ; or a Scire facias is the proper Process, for the Recognisor to shew what he can say why Execution should not be had against him ; upon which and a Scire fec. or two Nibils return'd, and a Judgment thereupon, the proper Execution is an Elegit, &c. Cro. Jac. 3. Where a Man is bound by Recognizance in the Chancery, and the Cognisor hath certain Indentures of Defeasance ; if the Recognissee will sue Execution on the Recognizance, the Recognisor may come into the Chancery, and shew the Indentures of Defeasance, and that he is ready to perform them, and thereon he shall have a Scire facias against the Recognissee, returnable at a certain Day ; and in the same Writ, he shall have a Superfedeas to the Sheriff not to make Execution in the mean Time. New Nat. Br. 589. If a Person is bound in a Recognizance in Chancery, or other Court of Record, and afterwards the Recognissee dieth ; his Executors may sue forth an Elegit, to have Execution of the Lands of the Recognisor : And if the Sheriff return that the Recognisor is dead, then a special Scire facias facias shall go against the Heir of the Recognisor, and those who are Tenants of the Lands which he had at the Day of the Recognizance enter'd into. Ibid 590. One of the best Securities we have for a Debt is the Recognizance in Chancery, acknowledged before a Master of that Court; which is to be sign'd by such Master, and afterwards inrolled: And the King may by his Commission give Authority to one to receive a Recognizance of another Man, and to return the same into Chancery; and on such a Recognizance, if the Recognisee do not pay the Debt at the Day, the Recognisee shall have an Elegit on the Conuſance so taken, as if it were taken in the Chancery. Pract. Solic. 131. New Nat. Br. 589. In case Lands are mortgaged, without giving Notice of a Recognizance formerly had, if the Recognizance be not paid off and vacated in Six Months, the Mortgagor shall forfeit his Equity of Redemption, &c. 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 16. Recognizances may be discharged by Defeazance on Condition, upon Performance of such Condition; by Release; Payment of the Money; Delivery up of the Recognizance, &c.

ticularly towards the said G. H. &c. That then, &c. Or else, &c.

Capit. & Cogn. die & anno supradict.
Coram me J. S.

Recognizor, Is the Party that enters into the Recognizance; as the Person to whom it is made, or one is bound thereby, is the Recognizee.

Reconciliari, A Church is said Reconciliari when it is consecrated again after it hath been polluted, or in the Possession of Pagans or Hereticks. Matt. Westm. Anno 1015.

Record, (Recordum, from the Lat. Recordari, to remember) Signifies an authentick Testimony in Writing, contained in Rolls of Parchment, and preserv'd in a Court of Record. Britton, c. 27. It is a Writing in Parchment, wherein are inrolled Pleas of Land, or Common Pleas, and criminal Proceedings in Courts of Record; and Records are restrained to such Courts only, and do not extend to the Rolls of inferior Courts, the Registries of Proceedings whereof are not properly called Records. 1 Inst. 260. 2 Lill. Abr. 418. And there are said to be three Sorts of Records, viz. A Record judicial, as an Attainder, &c. a Record ministerial upon Oath, being an Office or Inquisition found; and a Record made by Conveyance and Consent, as a Fine, or a Deed inrolled. 4 Rep. 54. But it has been held, that a Deed inrolled, or a Decree in Chancery inrolled, are not Records, but a Deed and a Decree recorded; and there is a Difference between a Record and a Thing recorded. 2 Lill. 421. Records being the Rolls or Memorials of the Judges, import in themselves such incontrollable Verity, that they admit of no Proof or Averment to the contrary, inſomuch that they are to be tried only by themselves; for otherwise there would be no End of Controversies: But during the Term wherein any judicial Act is done, the Roll is alterable in that Term, as the Judges shall direct; when the Term is past, then the Record admitteth of no Alteration, or Proof that it is false in any Instance. 1 Inst. 260. 4 Rep. 52. A Matter of Record is to be proved by the Record it self, and not by Evidence, because no Issue can be joined upon it to be try'd by a Jury like to Matters of Fact; and the Credit of a Record is greater than the Testimony of Witnesses. 21 Car. B. R. Tho' where Matter of Record is mix'd with Matter of Fact, it shall be tried by a Jury. Hob. 124. A Man cannot regularly aver against a Record; yet a Jury shall not be estopped by a Record to find the Truth of the Fact: And it was adjudg'd by the Court, that upon Evidence, 'tis at the Discretion of the Court to permit any Matter to be shewn to prove a Record. 1 Ventr. 362. Allen 18. 3 Nels. Abr. 48, 49. The Judges cannot judge of a Record given in Evidence, if the Record be not exemplified under Seal: But a Jury may find a Record although it be not so, if they have a Copy prov'd to them, or other Matter given in Evidence sufficient to induce them to believe that there was such a Record. 2 Lill. Abr. 421. Judges may reform Defects in any Record, or Variance between Records, &c. And a Record exemplified or inrolled, may be amended for Variation from the Exemplification. Stat. 8 H. 6. A Record of an Issue made up ready for Trial of a Cause, on Motion and Leave of Court, may be amended so as not to deface the Record; and notwithstanding it be entered for Trial, on paying Costs to the Defen-

Defendant: But the Court will not give Leave to amend it, if it may not be done without defacing or much altering the Record. Mich. 22 Car. B. R. 2 Lill. 420. The Court of B. R. will amend a Record removed thither out of C. B. and also Records removed out of inferior Courts, as to Faults and Misprisions of Clerks, &c. which are adjudg'd amendable by the Statutes of Feoffails; though formerly B. R. would not amend Records out of inferior Courts, but the Law in this Case is now altered by the Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. 2 Lill. Abr. 421, 422. If the Transcript of a Record be false, the Court of B. R. will upon Motion, order a Certiorari to an inferior Court, to certify how the Record is below; and if it be upon a Writ of Error out of the Common Pleas, they will grant a Rule to bring the Record out of C. B. into this Court, and then order the Transcript to be amended in Court, according to the Roll in C. B. And a Record cannot be amended without a Rule of the Court, grounded upon Motion. Ibid. Where a Record is so drawn, that the Words may receive a double Construction, one to make the Record good, and another to make it erroneous; the Court will interpret the Words that Way which will make the Record good, as being most for the Advancement of Justice: So where a Letter of a Word in a Record be doubtful, that it may be taken for one Letter or another, the Court will construe it to be that Letter that is for upholding the Record. Hill. 21 Car. B. R. A Record that is ras'd, if legible, remains a good Record notwithstanding the Rasure; but he that ras'd it is not to go unpunish'd for his Offence. Mich. 1649. And in Case of a Rasure in a Judgment, done by Practice to hinder Execution, the Record hath been ordered to be amended, and a special Entry thereof to be made; but though the Record by this Means be made perfect, the Offender may be indicted for Felony; for not only such an Alteration whereby a Judgment is actually reversed, but also such whereby it is reversible, whether it be or be not afterwards amended by the Court, is within the Act 8 H. 6. c. 12. making it Felony to take away, or avoid any Record, &c. 2 Roll. Rep. 81. 1 Hawk. P. C. 113. The Court will not supply a Blank left in a Record, to make it perfect, when before it was defective; as this would be to make a Record, which is not the Office of the Court to do, but to judge of them. 2 Lill. Abr. 420. When a subsequent Record hath any Relation to one that is precedent; in such Case it must appear in Pleading, &c. to be the same without any Variation. 3 Lutw. 905. And the Record of the Court of an Act made in presenti, ought to be always in the present Tense. 2 Saund. 393. Records are to be pleaded intire, and not Part of them, with an inter alia referring to the Record; and so should a Special Verdict find a Record, unless a Judgment be pleaded, or you declare upon a Judgment in a superior Court, when the Plaintiff may say recuperavit generally; but not in an inferior Court, for there all the Proceedings must be set forth particularly. Mich. 22 Car. B. R. When a Record is pleaded, it is to conclude prout patet per Recordum, or the other Side may answer Nul tiel Record; but this being only Matter of Form, may be sometimes help'd by a general Demurrer; and Writs are Matter of Record, but they need not be so pleaded. 1 Salk. 1. 1 Lev. 211. 3 Nelf. Abr. 49. If a Record is to be read in Court, the Counsel at the Bar must open the Effect of it, after read by the Clerk of the Court, by Custom and Practice; though the Court may suffer it to be read afterwards if they please, and after Reading, &c. it is then by Rule of Court ordered to be set down for a Concilium. Hill. 23 Car. B. R. 2 Lill. Abr. 421. Records certified out of inferior Courts, on Writs of Error, and the Judgments on such Records are to be entered in B. R. for until then the Records are not perfected: And if a Record once comes into B. R. by Writ of Error, it never goes out again; but a Transcript of it may go to the House of Lords, upon a Writ of Error there. 2 Lill. 422. Attornies are to enter the whole Record upon the Roll, after a Cause is tried, before the next Term after the Trial, on Pain of 20 s. That the Record may be spoken to the next Term, if there be Cause, and the Client not be delay'd. Hill. 1649. Justices of Assise, Gaol-Delivery, &c. are to send all their Records and Processess determined to the Exchequer at Michaelmas in every Year; and the Treasurer and Chamberlains on Sight of the Commissions of such Justices, are to receive the same Records, &c. under their Seals, and keep them in the Treasury. Recordare facias Loquelam, Is a Writ directed to the Sheriff to remove a Cause depending in an inferior Court, to the King's Bench or Common Pleas; and it is called a Recordare, because it commands the Sheriff to make a Record of the Proceedings in the County-Court, and then to send up the Cause. F. N. B. 71. 2 Inst. 339. It is in the Nature of a Certiorari; on which, the Plaintiff may remove the Plaint, in the County-Court, without Cause; but the Defendant cannot remove it without Cause shewn in the Writ, as upon a Plea of Freehold, &c. If the Plaint is in another Court, neither the Plaintiff or Defendant can remove it without Cause. Wood's Inst. 572. If a Plea is discontinued in the County, the Plaintiff or Defendant may remove the Plaint into the Common Pleas or King's Bench by Recordare, and it shall be good, and the Plaintiff may declare upon the same, and the Court hold Plea thereof. New Nat. Br. 158. The Form of this Writ in the Register is, Et Recordum illud habeas, &c. But in a Recordare to remove a Record out of the Court of ancient Demesne, the Writ shall say Loquelam & Pro. essum, &c. And there is a Writ to call a Record, &c. to an higher Court at Westminster, called Recordo & Processu mittendis. Tab. Reg. Orig.

Recorder (Recordator) Is a Person whom the Mayor or other Magistrate of any City or Town Corporate, having Jurisdiction, and a Court of Record within their Precincts by the King's Grant, do associate unto them for their better Direction in Matters of Justice, and proceedings according to Law: And therefore he is, for the most Part, a Counsellor or other Person well versed and experienced in the Law.

Recovery (Recuperatio, from the Fr. Recoverer i. e. Recuperare) In a legal Acceptation, signifies an Obtaining any Thing by Judgment or Trial at Law: And there is a true Recovery, and a feigned one. A true Recovery is an actual or real Re- covery of a Thing, injuriously taken away or detained, or the Value thereof, by Judgment in the ordinary Course; as if a Man sue for Land or any other Thing movable or immovable, and have a Verdict and Judgment for him. Recuperatio, id est, ad rem per Injuriam extortam sive detentam, per Sententiam Judicis Restitutio. Co. Litt. 154. A feigned Recovery, which is the Recovery intended here, is factio Juris, or a formal Act by Consent, used for the better Assurance of Lands and Tenements, &c. It is a feigned Suit and Judgment upon a real Action brought in the Common Pleas Court, by one against another that is seised of the Freehold, to destroy Estates-tail, Remainders and Reversions, and to bar the former Owners thereof. 1 Inst. 154. Accom. Conv. 1 Vol. 108. And it is called a Common Recovery, because it is a common Path to that End for which it was ordained, viz. to cut off Estates-tail, &c. Also it is by Custom become a Common Conveyance of Lands; and is much favoured by the Law, many of the Inheritances of the Kingdom depending upon these Assurances. 5 Rep. 40, 41. These Recoveries suppose a Recompence in Value, to all Persons that lost the Estate; and shall not be taken so strictly as real Recoveries are. 2 Lill. Abr. 423. The Force and Effect of a Recovery, is to destroy all Estates, and Incumbrances derived out of them, that one may sell, give or devise the Estate in Fee, or in what Manner he pleases; and the Recompence adjudged over shall go in Succession of the Estate, as the Land lost should have done, and then it would not be reasonable for the Heir, &c. to have the Land and Recompence in Value also; therefore he loseth the Land, and must trust to the Recompence. 1 Rep. 62. 3 Rep. 61. 6 Rep. 42. This supposed Recompence is the Reason why a Common Recovery is a Bar to all that are in Remainder or Reversion, as well as the Issues in Tail; whereas a Fine bars only the Heirs in Tail, and not those in Remainder or Reversion, unless upon Non-claim in due Time. Wood's Inst. 252. A Common Recovery is the best Assurance (except an Act of Parliament) that a Man can have; and it may be had of such Things, for the most Part, as pass by a Fine: An Use may be raised upon a Recovery, as well as on a Fine, &c. and the same Rules are generally to be observed and followed for the guiding and directing the Uses of a Recovery, as are observed for the Guidance and Direction of a Fine. West. Symb. sect. 2, 3. 1 Rep. 15. There must be three Persons at least to make a Common Recovery; i. e. a Recoveror, a Recovee, and a Vouchee; the Recoveror is the Plaintiff or Demandant, that brings the Writ of Entry sur Disseisin, &c. The Recovee is the Defendant or Tenant of the Land, against whom the Writ is brought, and he must be perfect Tenant of the Freehold; and the Vouchee is he whom the Defendant or Tenant voucheth or calls to Warranty of the Land in Demand, either to defend the Right, or yield him other Lands in Value according to a supposed Agreement. 1 Inst. 101. Now to suffer a Recovery, the Tenant of the Freehold agrees with the Demandant (usually some Friend) that he shall bring his Action real against him, as though the Demandant had good Right to the Land, and the Tenant no Right of Entry to the same, but on a Disseisin which a Stranger had unjustly made; though the Demandant never had Possession thereof, nor the Stranger: The Tenant appearing to the Writ vouches to Warranty A. B.

the Cryer of the Court, or the Bag-bearer of Writs to the Custos Brevium, who is called the common Vouchee, and is supposed to warrant the Title; this Vouchee appears, as though he would defend the Title, and the Demandant exhibits a Declaration against him, who thereupon prays a Day to make his Defence; but on the Day given by the Court he makes Default, and the Plaintiff or Demandant hath Judgment to recover the Land against the Defendant or Tenant in Tail, and he to recover in Value against the common Vouchee; whereupon issues a Writ of Seisin for the Possession of the Lands, &c. Yet this Recovery in Value is only imaginary, because the common Vouchee hath no Lands to render in Value; though it is taken for a Bar of the Tail for ever, and is said to be good in Conscience as well as Law, notwithstanding the Stat. Westm. 1. cap. 2. wherein it is provided, that the Will of the Donor shall be observed. Dr. & Stud. cap. 26. 10 Rep. 37, 38. 1 Inst. 224. To every Recovery there must be a good Tenant to the Præcipe, or it will be void. 2 Lill. Abr. 425. This Tenant to the Præcipe is made by Lease and Release, Fine, &c. And if the Tenant to the Præcipe gains a Freehold before Judgment, it is sufficient: Also where a Præcipe was made by a Fine, and a Common Recovery suffered, and afterwards in a Writ of Error that Fine was reversed; though this was assigned for Error to reverse the Recovery, it was adjudged that the Recovery was good, for there was a Tenant to the Præcipe at that Time. 2 Salk. 568. There is no Occasion of setting forth a Lease and Release to make a Tenant to the Præcipe, because where a Man claims under a Common Recovery it shall be intended that there was a good Tenant to the Præcipe till the contrary is shewn; and rather than the Recovery shall fail, they shall be intended to be Tenants to the Præcipe by Disseisin, especially if it is alledged in the Pleadings that they are Tenants liberi Tenementi. 3 Rep. 59. 2 Mod. 70. Adtunc tenens is a sufficient Averment in the Pleading a Common Recovery; but it is not so when in the same Sentence a Matter is set forth which is contradictory and inconsistent with it. 1 Mod. 418. A Defendant pleaded a Title under a Common Recovery, in which he set forth the Lease and Release to make the Tenant to the Præcipe, the Writ of Entry, and the Proceedings upon it, the Judgment, Writ of Seisin, &c. And it was a Question, whether it might have been pleaded in a shorter Manner, (viz.) That A. was Demandant in the Writ of Entry, and B. and C. Tenants; that the said Tenants vouched to Warranty L. D. and he vouched the Common Vouchee; and thereon Taliter processum fuit, that Judgment was given for the Demandant to recover against the Tenants, and that they should recover against L. D. ad valentiam, and that he should recover against the Common Vouchee. 2 Lill. 1539. In such short Pleading it is necessary to shew that the Recovery was executed, either by Entry, or by Return of the Writ of Seisin; for till then the Estate is not altered. 1 Jones 10. 3 Nels. Abr. 57. A Deed and the Recovery make but one Conveyance: When precedent Indentures are made, and afterwards a Recovery is suffered, no Averment can be taken by Parol that the Recovery was to other Uses than those in the Indenture; though nothing vests till the Recovery is had: Upon an Indenture subsequent, an Averment may be taken, that other Uses than in the Indenture were declared and limited before and at the Time of the Recovery. 9 Rep. 10. 1 Mod. 250. If the Uses of a Recovery are declared by a Deed bearing Date afterwards, there a Stranger shall be admitted to plead other Uses before the Deed; but an Heir at Law shall not. 2 Lill. Abr. 428. Formerly it was doubted, whether Declarations of Fines and Recoveries after had and levied were good in Law, the Stat. 29 Car. 2. of Frauds and Perjuries, requiring Writing to pass Estates at the very Time of the Conveyance: But now all Declarations of Uses, of Fines or Recoveries, by any Deed made by the Party who is by Law enabled to declare such Use, after the Suffering such Recovery, &c. shall be good and effectual in Law. 4 & 5 Ann. c. 16. A Common Recovery is either with single, double, or treble Voucher; in the Recovery with single Voucher, the Writ of Entry is to be brought against Tenant in Tail in Possession, and he is to vouch the common Vouchee: In a Recovery with double or treble Voucher, the Estate must be discontinued by Fine, Feoffment, Lease and Release, &c. and a Tenant made of the Freehold of the Land; and then the Writ is to be brought against that Tenant, the Conusee, Feoffee, &c. and he is to vouch the Tenant in Tail, and he the common Vouchee, &c. And this Recovery with double Voucher is the most common and safest Way of Proceeding. 1 Inst. 102, 372. Wood's Inst. 251. The Recovery with single Voucher bars the Tenant in Tail, and his Heirs only, of such Estate-tail which is in his Possession, with the Remainder depending upon it, and the Reversion expectant, which others have; and of all Leases and Incumbrances derived out of such Remainder or Reversion: A Recovery with double Voucher bars the first Voucher and his Heirs of every such Estate as at any Time was in him, or any of his Ancestors, whose Heir he is of such Estate; and all others of Right to Remainders and Reversions, dependant and expectant upon the same, and all Leases and Incumbrances derived out of them; and it will also be a Bar of the Estate whereof the Tenant was then seised in Reversion or Remainder, &c. The Recovery with treble Voucher is to make a perpetual Bar of the Estate of the Tenant, and of every such Estate of Inheritance as at any Time had been in the first or second Vouchee, or their Ancestors, whose Heirs they are of such Estate; and as well of every Reversion thereon dependant, as of all Leases, Estates, Charges, and Incumbrances derived out of any such Reversion or Remainder. 3 Rep. 5. 10 Rep. 37. 2 Roll. Abr. 204. Noy 81, 82. A Tenant in Tail cannot be restrained from suffering a Common Recovery. 10 Rep. 38, 41. If there be Tenant for Life, Remainder in Tail, Remainder or Reversion in Fee; and Tenant for Life is impleaded by Agreement, and vouch Tenant in Tail, and he vouch over the common Vouchee; this shall bar the Remainder and Reversion in Fee; though he in Remainder or Reversion did never assent to the Recovery: And if Tenant for Life surrender to him in Remainder in Tail, he may bind the Remainder and Reversion expectant upon his Estate. 1 Rep. 15. 3 Rep. 60. 1 Inst. 362. But if Tenant for Life alone suffer a Recovery, without the Assent of him in Remainder, the Recovery will be void: And if a Recovery be had against Tenant for Life, and a Remainder-man in Tail, (not being vouch'd by Tenant for Life) and they vouch the common Vouchee; the Recovery thus suffered doth not bar the Intail, nor the Remainder over, neither are the Issue in Tail barr'd by it. Cro. Eliz. 670. If Tenant for Life suffers a Common Recovery by Consent and Covin, between such Tenant and the Recoveror; this is a Forfeiture of his Estate, and he in the Reversion may enter presently: And all Recoveries had by Agreement of the Parties by Covin, against Tenants in Tail after Possibility of Issue extinct, Tenants by the Curtesy, or for Term of Life or Lives, &c. shall be void against them in Remainder or Reversion, and their Heirs, &c. Wood's Inst. 251. Stat. 14 Eliz. c. 8. This Statute extendeth not to any Recovery, except it be by Agreement and Covin; and it was never the Intent of the Act to extend to such a Recovery in which a Tenant in Tail was vouch'd. 1 Rep. 15. Tenant for Life, Remainder in Tail, Remainder in Fee; the Tenant for Life suffered a Common Recovery, in which the Issue in Tail was vouch'd, &c. And it was objected, that the Remainder-Man in Fee was not barred by this Recovery, because the Statute 14 Eliz. enacts, that Recoveries suffered by Tenant for Life, shall be void against those in Reversion or Remainder, and the Proviso in that Statute extends to bind only those in Remainder who assent to the Record; but as the Tenant in Tail was vouch'd in this Recovery, it was adjudged, that he in Remainder in Fee was barred, as he would have been if the Tenant in Tail had been the first Tenant to the Præcipe, instead of the Tenant for Life; which Judgment was affirm'd in Error in the Exchequer Chamber. Moor 690. A Father devised his Lands to his Son B. for Life, and after his Decease, to the Issue of his Body, &c. And for Want of such Issue, Remainder over; B. suffered a Common Recovery, and as to the Estate that B. had, two Judges held, he had only an Estate for Life, because such an Estate was expressly devised to him; but Hale Ch. Just. held, that he had an Estate-tail by Implication, and by consequence the Recovery was well suffered; for the Words Issue of his Body, and those which follow, viz. For Want of such Issue, make an Estate-tail by Implication; though Judgment was given according to the Opinion of the Judges, which was afterwards reversed in the Exchequer Chamber, by the Opinion of the Chief Justice. 2 Lev. 58. 1 Vent. 214, 225. 3 Salk. 296. A Recovery had against Tenant in Tail of the King's Gift, the Reversion or Remainder being in the King, shall not be a Bar; nor shall the Remainder or Reversion, which at the Time of the Recovery is in the King, be barred by a Recovery. 34 & 35 H. 8. c. 20. But by the Stat. 34 H. 8. the Estate-tail is not preserved, where a Reversion or Remainder is in the King, except it was created by the Crown, and not where it was made by a common Person; for before that Statute a common Recovery barred an Estate-tail made by the King. Dyer 32. 2 Rep. 15. A Feme Covert, with her Husband, is bound by a Recovery; but as in a Fine she ought to be examined. 3 Cro. 307. It is not absolutely necessary for the Judges to examine a Feme Covert, per Rolle Ch. Just. when she joins with her Husband to suffer a Recovery of her own Lands; it shall be suppos'd she doth it freely and voluntarily: But it is prudential to do it, because it may happen that the Feme may be brought to it by Fraud or Force. 2 Lill. Abr. 424. The Case upon a Special Verdict in Ejectment was; There was Tenant for Life, Remainder to Husband and Wife, and their Heirs, and the Husband and Wife suffered a Recovery; it was objected, that the Heirs of the Wife were not barred by this Recovery, by Reason she was not Tenant to the Præcipe, neither did it appear that she was examin'd; but it was resolv'd, that she is concluded to speak against this Recovery, as she join'd with her Husband in it, and the Record is perfect, and she being Party and Privy to the Recovery, her Heirs shall be bound thereby. Style 319. Husband and Wife, Jointenants for Life, Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of the Husband, Remainder to A. B. in Tail, the Husband alone suffered a Recovery; and it was held a Bar only as to a Moiety of the Lands, for by the Recovery the Jointure was severed, and the other Moiety was the Freehold of the Wife, so that the Recovery could not bar the Estate-tail or Remainder, as to that Moiety. 3 Rep. 3, 4, 5. Moor 210. 4 Leon. 93, 222. But when the Husband and Wife have not a joint Estate of Inheritance, and they join in a Fine to make a Tenant to the Præcipe, and the Recovery is suffered by the Husband alone; that shall be a good Bar to the Remainder. 3 Rep. 6. A Husband and Wife, Tenants in special Tail, Remainder to B. in Tail, Remainder to C. in Fee; the Husband alone levied a Fine to D. and died, leaving Issue, the Wife entered, she is in of her Estate-tail; and though the Issue in Tail were barred by the Fine, yet by her Entry B. and C. are remitted to their several Remainders; and if she suffers a Recovery, which she lawfully may, because she hath the whole Estate-tail, those Remainders are barred. Hob. 259. 3 Nelf. Abr. 55. An Infant, it hath been held, cannot suffer a Common Recovery by Guardian; though if he obtains a Privy Seal for that Purpose, he himself may. 10 Rep. 43. Hob. 196. But a Guardian was allowed by Order of the Court to an Infant, that a Recovery might be suffered against him as Vouchee; and he was brought into Court, and vouch'd, and his Guardian appeared and vouched the common Vouchee. Cro. Eliz. 172, 471. Hob. 197. And adjudg'd, that a Common Recovery suffered by an Infant by Guardian, shall bind him; and when the Vouchee in a Common Recovery is within Age, the Infancy must be try'd by Inspection, &c. Cro. Car. 307. 1 Sid. 322. 1 Inst. 380. Mortgagees cannot suffer a Recovery to bind the Mortgageors; nor can Tenant for Years levy a Recovery, for Want of a Freehold. Wood's Inst. 251. Where an Estate-tail is barred by a Recovery, all Things depending upon it are barred, as well as the Estate it self; but nothing which is collateral: And therefore a Recovery will not bar the Right of a Mortgagee, unless he is vouched, &c. 3 Salk. 297. And if Tenant for Life, with Power to make a Jointure on Wife, suffers a Common Recovery, his Power is extinguished: Though 'tis otherwise where a Power is collateral; as for Instance, where an Executor has Power to sell. Ibid. Tenant in Tail mortgages for Years, and afterwards marries, and suffers a Recovery for his Wife's Jointure; this Recovery shall enture to make good the Mortgage, tho' design'd only for the Marriage Settlement: And so it is in the Case of a Judgment; for a Recovery shall make good all his precedent Acts. Chanc. Rep. 120. 2 Lill. Abr. 425. If there be a Limitation of Uses upon Condition, and the Cestuy que Use suffers a Recovery, that will not destroy the Condition, the Estate being charged with it; and the Recoveror can only have the Estate, as he that suffered the Recovery had it. 1 Mod. 109. A Tenant in Tail grants a Rent-Charge, and suffers a Recovery, the Recovery shall not avoid the Rent-Charge; though it doth a Reversion: Because the Estate of him that suffers the Recovery is charg'd with the Rent. 1 Mod. 109. 1 Cro. 598. If he in Remainder grants a Rent-Charge, a Recovery suffered by Tenant in Tail shall bar it; for the Recoveror comes in, in the Continuance of that Estate which is not subject to the Rent, but is above all those Charges. 1 Mod. 109. Tenant in Tail, Remainder in Tail, he in Remainder granted a Rent-Charge, and the Tenant in Tail suffered a Common Recovery, and died without Issue; it was adjudg'd, that it shall bind not only the Remainders, and all Charges made by them, but also the Reversioners and all Grants by them. 1 Rep. 62. Recoverors, &c. may distrain for Rents and Services, and have Actions of Debt for Rent, and Waste, &c. as those against whom the Recovery was had; and Termors are to enjoy their Terms, &c. Stat. 7 H. 8. c. 4. A Lease for Years made by him who after suffers a Recovery, is good, and shall not be defeated by the Recovery; but otherwise where the Recovery is by a good Title. 2 Leon. 65. It was a Doubt by 9 Eliz. that if there was a Tenant in Tail, Remainder for Years, and Tenant in Tail suffers a Recovery, whether the Lease for Years be barred, or no? Because it was said that no Recompence can go to this, being a Chattel: But it was ruled, that this Lease should be barred, and that so the constant Experience had been. 2 Lev. 30. 1 Mod. 110. A Recovery bars only where there is a Privy in Law; as the Issue of Tenant in Tail, and he in Remainder, Reversion, &c. Carter 53. Strangers are not barr'd by a Recovery and Nonclaim, as they are in a Fine. 3 Rep. 5. Nor shall a Recovery bar the Heir, who claims as a Purchaser, and not by Discent; or where there is an executory Estate, which depends upon Contingencies; but it will bar a contingent Remainder. Lutw. 1224. 3 Salk. 297. The Testator had Issue three Sons, A. B. and C. and devised his Lands to B. his second Son, paying so much to C. and if B. died without Issue, living A. then to A. upon the like Condition; B. suffered a Recovery, and it was held that this Recovery should not bar A. because he had only a Possibility to have the Estate if he survived B. dying without Issue, which cannot be touched by a Recovery. 2 Cro. 590. A Party who suffered a Recovery, died the first Day of Michaelmas-Term, between Five and Six in the Morning, upon which Day the Recovery was suffered; and adjudged good. 1 Rep. 93, &c. 2 Lill. 425. And most Errors in a Recovery are amendable by the Court the first Term after the Recovery had: But for gross Error in the Proceedings in Matter of Substance, a Recovery may be avoided by Writ of Error; as when an Infant or Feme Covert, without her Husband, suffers a Recovery, &c. and it may be also avoided by Pleading, that it was by Covin against Tenant for Life to disinherit him in Reversion; or that he against whom the Writ is brought is no Tenant of the Freehold by Right or Wrong; or he that hath the Estate is neither Party nor Privy to the Recovery; or because another hath some Estate in the Thing whereof the Recovery is had, &c. Also by Motion to the Court, and praying a Vacat of the Judgment, a Recovery may be falsified fed and avoided. 8 Rep. 162. 1 Inst. 104. Recoveries may be avoided, as any other Conveyance, if suffered by Fraud to deceive Purchasers, &c. And to suffer a Recovery in another Person's Name, not Privy or Consenting to the same, is Felony without Benefit of Clergy. 21 Jac. 1. c. 26. Common Recoveries are suffered in the Common Pleas by the Tenants and Vouchers personally in Court, or by Attornies; and sometimes by Attorney in the Country on a Dedimus Pote-statem, or Commission out of Chancery: They may be suffered at the Assises and Great Sessions in Wales; and in the Counties Palatine of Lancaster, Chester, and Durham. 34 & 35 H. 8. c. 16. 27 Eliz. c. 9. And Recoveries may be had in a Court-Baron, by Custom. Kitch. 176. In C. B. the Præcipe, naming the Demandant and the Tenant, the Quantity and Quality of the Land, &c. is delivered to one of the Serjeants at the Bar, who will count upon it; and then the Prothonotary marks it, after which it is carried to the Cursitor of the County, and he makes out the Writ of Entry, &c. and the Recovery is pass'd through the several Offices. Clerk's Remembr. 212, 213.

A Deed to lead the Uses of a Recovery.

T HIS Indenture tripartite, made, &c. Between A. B. of, &c. of the first Part, C. D. and E. F. of, &c. of the second Part, and G. H. and J. K. of, &c. of the third Part, witnesseth, that the said A. B. for the Docketing, Barring and Cutting off all Estates-tail and Remainders in Tail, of and in the Messuage, Tenement, Lands and Hereditaments herein after mentioned, and for the Settling and Assuring of the same, to and for the Uses, Intents and Purposes herein after limited, expressed and declared, *and in Consideration of 5 s. to him in Hand paid by the said C. D. and E. F. the Receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, and for divers other good Causes and Considerations him the said A. B. in this Behalf moving, hath granted, bargained and sold, released and confirmed, and by these Presents doth grant, bargain and sell, &c. unto the said C. D. and E. F. (in their actual Possessions now being, by Virtue of a Bargain and Sale to them thereof made for one whole Year, &c.) All that Messuage or Tenement, and all those Lands, &c. situate, lying and being, &c. And all Ways, &c. And the Reversions, Remainders, Rents and Services thereof, or incident thereunto. To have and to hold the said Messuage, Tenement, Lands and Premises above-mentioned, and every Part and Parcel thereof with the Appurtenances unto the said C. D. and E. F. and their Heirs for ever, To the Intent and Purpose that the said C. D. and E. F. shall and may become perfect Tenants of the Freehold of the said Messuage, Lands and Premises, and shall and may stand and be seised thereof until a good and perfect Common Recovery with double Vouchers over, may be duly had, suffered and executed of the said Messuage, Tenement, Lands and Premises, according to the usual Course of Common Recoveries for the Assurance of Lands and Tenements in such Cases used and accustomed. And thereupon it is covenanted, concluded and agreed, by and between all the said Parties to these Presents, for themselves and their and every of their Heirs by these Presents in Manner following, (that is to say) That the said C. D. and E. F. shall and will before the End of Michaelmas-Term next coming, permit and suffer the said G. H. and J. K. to sue forth and prosecute against them the said C. D. and E. F. One Writ of Entry sur Disseisin en le post returnable before his Majesty's Justices of the Court of Common Pleas at Westminster, thereby demanding against the said C. D. and E. F. the said Messuage, Tenement, Lands, Hereditaments and Premises herein before-mentioned, by such Name and Names, Number of Acres, Quantities, Qualities, Terms and Descriptions in the said Writ to be contained, and in such Manner and Form as by Counsel learned in the Law shall be advised, unto and upon which said Writ of Entry so to be prosecuted and sued forth, the said C. D. and E. F. shall appear gratis and vouch to Warranty the said A. B. which said A. B. shall appear either in Person or by Attorney lawfully authorised, and enter into Warranty, and after his Entry into Warranty, shall vouch to Warranty the common Vouchee, who shall likewise appear and imparl, and afterwards make Default, and depart in Contempt of the Court, so that Judgment may be thereupon had and given for the said G. H. and J. K. to recover the said Messuage or Tenement, Lands, Hereditaments and Premises against the said C. D. and E. F. And for the said C. D. and E. F. to recover in Value against the said A. B. and for the said A. B. to recover in Value against the common Vouchee; to the End one perfect Common Recovery, with double Voucher, may be thereupon had and suffered, and all and every other Thing and Things be done and perfected, needful and convenient for the having and suffering the same Recovery, according to the Course of Common Recoveries in such Cases used; and the same Recovery is also to be executed by one Writ of Habere facias Seisinam accordingly. And it is hereby further covenanted, concluded and agreed, by and between all the said Parties to these Presents for themselves and every of them, their, and every of their Heirs, that the said Recovery so as aforesaid, or in any other Manner to be had and suffered of the said Messuage, Tenement, Lands, Hereditaments and Premises above-mentioned, shall be and enure, and shall* shall be deemed, adjudged and taken, and is meant and intended, and by all the said Parties to these Presents is hereby declared to be and enure, and the said G. H. and J. K. and their Heirs, from and immediately after the suffering the same, shall stand and be seised of all and singular the said Messuage, Tenement, Lands, and Hereditaments above-mentioned, and every Part and Parcel thereof with the Appurtenances, to and for the only proper Use and Behoof of the said A. B. his Heirs and Assigns for ever, and to and for none other Use, Intent, or Purpose whatsoever. In Witness, &c.

Form of a Deed of Conveyance by Fine and Recovery.

THIS Indenture tripartite, made, &c. Between A. B. of, &c. and E. his Wife, C. D. of, &c. and M. his Wife, of the first Part, E. F. of, &c. and G. H. of, &c. of the second Part, and J. K. of, &c. and L. M. of, &c. of the third Part, witnesseth, that for and in Consideration of the Sum of, &c. to the said A. B. and E. his Wife, and C. D. and M. his Wife, in Hand paid by the said J. K. and L. M. the Receipt whereof they do hereby acknowledge, and in Consideration also of 5 s. of, &c. to the said A. B. and E. his Wife, and C. D. and M. his Wife in Hand paid by the said E. F. and G. H. the Receipt whereof they do also hereby acknowledge; and the said A. B. and C. D. for the Barring, Docketing, Cutting off and Destroying of all Estates-tail and Remainders over, now in Being in and upon the Messuage, Lands, Tenements and Hereditaments herein after mentioned, and for Conveying and Assuring the same Premises, to the only proper Use and Behoof of the said J. K. and L. M. and their Heirs; they the said A. B. and C. D. have, and each of them hath covenanted and granted, and by these Presents do, and each of them doth covenant and grant, to and with the said E. F. and G. H. their Heirs and Assigns, that they the said A. B. and E. his Wife, and C. D. and M. his Wife, shall and will on this Side, and before the End of, &c. Term next coming, before his Majesty's Justices of the Court of Common Pleas at Westminster, in due Form of Law, levy and acknowledge unto the said E. F. and G. H. and their Heirs, or to the Heirs of one of them, one Fine sur Conuzance de Droit come ceo, &c. with Proclamations to be thereupon had according to the Form of the Statute in that Case made and provided, of all that Messuage or Tenement, &c. and also of the Reversion and Reversions, Remainder and Remainders, Rents and Services of the said Premises above-mentioned, and of every Part and Parcel thereof with the Appurtenances, by such Name and Names, Quantity and Number of Acres and Things, and in such Manner and Form as by the said E. F. and G. H. or their Counsel learned in the Law shall be reasonably devised or advised and required: Which said Fine so to be had and levied in Manner aforesaid, and all and every other Fine and Fines already had, or at any Time hereafter to be had, levied, sued or prosecuted of the said Premises, or any Part thereof, by it self, or jointly with any other Lands or Tenements, by or between the said Parties to these Presents, or by or between them, or any or either of them, and any other Person or Persons before the said, &c. Term, as for and concerning all and singular the said Premises above-mentioned, with the Appurtenances, shall be and enure, and shall be adjudg'd, esteem'd and taken to be and enure, to and for the only proper Use and Behoof of the said E. F. and G. H. their Heirs and Assigns, to the Intent and Purpose that they may become perfect Tenants of the Freehold of the said Premises: Yet nevertheless to this further End, Intent, and Purpose, that they the said E. F. and G. H. shall and will on this Side, and before the End of the said next, &c. Term, permit and suffer the said J. K. and L. M. to sue and prosecute one or more Writ or Writs of Entry Sur Disseisin en le poss, returnable before his Majesty's Justices of the said Court of Common Pleas against them the said E. F. and G. H. of all and singular the said Premises above mentioned, and of every Part and Parcel thereof with the Appurtenances, by such Name and Names, Quantity and Number of Messuages, Acres and Things, and in such Sort, Manner and Form, as by the said J. K. and L. M. shall be thought fit and convenient; unto and upon which said Writ of Entry so to be brought, the said E. F. and G. H. shall appear, and vouch to Warranty the said A. B. and E. his Wife, and C. D. and M. his Wife, who shall likewise appear, either in their several Persons, or by their Attornies lawfully authorized, and enter into the said Warranty, and after their Entry into the said Warranty, shall vouch over the common Vouchee, who shall also enter into the said Warranty and imparl, and afterwards make Default, To the End one perfect Common Recovery shall and may of all and singular the said Premises above-mentioned be had, prosecuted and executed in all Things, according to the usual Form of Common Recoveries for Assurance of Lands, Tenements and Hereditaments in such Cases used and accustom'd; and the same Recovery shall in due Form of Law be executed by one Writ of Habere facias Seisinam accordingly. And it is covenanted, granted, concluded and agreed upon, by and between the said Parties to these Presents, and the true Meaning hereof is, and it is hereby so declared, that the said Recovery so, or in any other Manner to be had and suffered, and all and every other Recovery and Recoveries to be had, suffered and executed of the said Premises, or any Part thereof, by or between the said Parties to these Presents, or by or between them or any or either of them, and any other Person and Persons, on this Side and before the End of, &c. Term next coming, and the full Force and Execution of them, and every of them, and all other Conveyances and Assurances of the said Premises, or any Part thereof, had, or to be had, or made between the said Parties, or any of them, shall be and enure, and shall be adjudged, esteemed and taken to be and enure, to and for the only proper Use and Behoof of the said J. K. and L. M. their Heirs and Assigns for ever. And each of them the said A. B. and C. D. for himself severally and apart, and not jointly, and for his several and respective Heirs and Assigns, doth severally and apart, and not jointly, covenant and grant to and with the said J. K. and L. M. their Heirs and Assigns, that they the said A. B. and E. his Wife, and C. D. and M. his Wife are, or some or one of them now is lawfully and rightfully seised of a good, sure, perfect, and indefeasible Estate of Inheritance in Fee-simple, or Fee-tail, of and in the said Premises above-mentioned, with the Appurtenances, in their, or some, or one of their own Rights or Right, without any Condition, Mortgage, Limitation of Use or Uses, or other Matter or Thing to alter, charge, change, and determine the same. And also, that they the said J. K. and L. M. their Heirs and Assigns, shall and may from Time to Time, and at all Times hereafter for ever, peaceably and quietly enter into, have, hold, occupy, possess, and enjoy, all and singular the said Premises above-mentioned, and every Part and Parcel thereof with the Appurtenances, without the Let, Trouble, Hindrance, Molestation, Interruption, and Denial of them the said A. B. and E. his Wife, and C. D. and M. his Wife, their Heirs and Assigns, or any of them, and of all and every other Person and Persons whatsoever claiming, or to claim by, from, or under under them, or any or either of them, or by, from, or under, &c. deceased. And further, That they the said A. B. and E. his Wife, and C. D. and M. his Wife, and their Heirs, and all and every other Person and Persons, and his and their Heirs, any Thing having or claiming in the said Premises above-mentioned, or any Part thereof, by, from, or under them, or any or either of them, or under the said, &c. shall and will at any Time or Times hereafter upon the reasonable Request, and at the Costs and Charges of the said I. K. and L. M. their Heirs and Assigns, make, do and execute, or cause or procure to be made, done and executed, all and every such further and other lawful and reasonable Grants, Acts, and Assurances, in the Law whatsoever, for the further, better, and more perfect granting, conveying, and assuring of all and singular the said Premises above-mentioned, with the Appurtenances, unto the said I. K. and L. M. their Heirs and Assigns, To the only proper Use and behoof of the said I. K. and L. M. their Heirs and Assigns for ever, according to the true Intent and Meaning of these Presents, as by the said I. K. and L. M. their Heirs or Assigns, or their or either of their Counsel learned in the Law shall be reasonably devised or advised and required. In Witnesses, &c.

Recoupe, (from the Fr. Recouper) To cut again, and in our Law we use it for to Defalc or Discount; as if a Person hath a Rent of ten Pounds issuing out of certain Lands, and he disseises the Tenant of the Land, in an Affise brought by the Disseisee, the Disseisor shall recoupe the Rent in the Damages.

Reclat, Signifies to cite a Criminal to Justice. — Quo Judio deducendi sunt illi qui Reclati sunt de Latrocinio, Mordro, &c. Hoved. 655.

Reclat, Claim of Right, or an Appeal to the Law for Recovery thereof.

Reditudo, Right or Justice; and sometimes it signifies legal Dues, a Tribute, Duty or Payment. Leg. Edw. Confess. cap. 30. Si quis Dei Reditudines per vim deinceat, emendet, &c. viz. If any one doth violently detain the Rights of God (i. e. Tithes and Oblations) let him be fined or amerced, to make full Satisfaction. Leg. Hen. 1. cap. 6.

Recto, Is used for a Writ of Right, which is of so high a Nature, that whereas other Writs in Real Actions are only to recover the Possession of the Lands, &c. in Question; this aims to recover the Seisin, and the Property, and thereby both the Rights of Possession and Property are tried together. 1. Inst. 158. It hath two Species; Writ of Right Patent, and Writ of Right Close: The first is so called, because it is sent open, and is the highest Writ of all others, lying for him that hath a Fee-simple in the Lands or Tenements sued for, against Tenant of the Freehold at least, and in no other Case. F. N. B. 1, 2, &c. But this Writ of Right Patent seems to be extended farther than originally intended; for a Writ of Right of Dower, which lies for Tenant in Dower, is Patent, as appears by Fitzherb. Nat. Br. 7. And the like may be said in some other Cases. Table Reg. Orig. Also there is a Special Writ of Right Patent in London, otherwise term'd a Writ of Right according to the Custom, which lieth of Lands or Tenements within the City, &c. And the Writ of Right Patent is likewise called Breve magnum de Recto. Reg. Orig. 9. Fleta, lib. 5. cap. 32. A Writ of Right Close is brought where one holds Lands and Tenements by Charter in ancient Demesne, in Fee-simple, Fee-tail, or for Term of Life, or in Dower, and is disseised; and is directed to the Bailiff of the King's Manors, or to the Lord of ancient Demesne, if the Manor is in the Hands of a Subject, commanding him to do Right in his Court: This Writ is also called Breve parvum de Recto. F. N. B. 11 Reg. Orig. 9. Britton, cap. 120. And he who holds Land in ancient Demesne by Copy of Court-Roll, if he be ousted, shall not have the Writ of Right Close, but is to sue by Bill in the Lord's Court, &c. If a Person seised in Fee-simple dies seised of such Estate, and a Stranger doth abate and enter into the Land, and deforce the Heir; the Heir may sue a Writ of Right Patent against the Tenant of the Freehold of the same Land, or an Affise of Mortdancestor. 11 Aff. 17. And in a Writ of Right Patent, the Demandant is to count of his own Seisin, or of the Seisin of his Ancestor; if one bring the Writ as Heir unto his Ancestor, he must lay the Seisin and Epleas as in Pernancy of the Profits of the Lands in his Ancestors; and where it is brought by a Bishop or Body Politick, Seisin of the Ecclesies is to be laid in themselves, or in their Predecessors. New Nat. Br. 10. Where a Writ of Right Close is directed unto the Lord of whom the Lands are holden, and he will not hold his Court to proceed upon it; a Writ shall issue requiring him to hold his Court, &c. And if the Lord hold his Court, but will not do the Demandant Right, or delay it, the Plea may be removed by a Writ called a Tolt into the County-Court of the Sheriff; and from thence by Recordare into the Common Pleas. Ibid. 6, 7. A Writ of Right may be tried in the Lord's Court, between Kinsmen who claim by one Title from their Ancestor. And Glanville seems to make every Writ whereby a Man sues for any Thing due unto him, a Writ of Right. Glan. cap. 10, 11, 12.

Form of a Writ of Right.

Georgius, &c. A. B. Dom. &c. salutem. Praecipimus tibi, quod sine dilatione plenum Rectum teneas, C. D. de &c. de uno Messuag. & Viginti acr. terr. cum pertin. in &c. qua clamat tenere de Te per liberam servitium unius denar. per Ann. pro omni servitio, quod E. F. de &c. ei deinceat, &c. ne amplius inde clamorem audiamus pro defectu Recti. Teste, &c.

Writ of Right may be had after an Affise, Writ of Entry sur Disseisin, &c. or other Real Action, where the Demandant is barred by Action tried; and so if he lose by Default in a Writ of Right, before the Mise is join'd, &c. But if a Person once loseth his Cause upon a Writ of Right by Trial and Judgment, &c. he is without Remedy, and shall be finally concluded. New Nat. Br. 12.

Recto de Advocatione Ecclesiae, Is a Writ lying where a Man hath Right of Advowson, and the Parson of the Church dying, a Stranger presents his Clerk to the Church, the Party that hath Right not having brought his Action of Quare Impedit nor Darrein Presentment, but suffered the Stranger to usurp upon him: And it lieth only where an Advowson is claimed in Fee to him and his Heirs. F. N. B. 30. 4 Ed. 3. c. 18.

Recto de Dote, A Writ of Right of Dower, which lies for a Woman that hath received Part of her Dower, and demands the Residue in the same Town, against the Heir of the Husband, or his Guardian. F. N. B. 7, 8, 147. 1 Inst. 32, 38.

Recto de Dote unde nihil habet, Is where the Wife hath receiv'd no Part of her Dower; as in Case a Man having Lands or Tenements, hath made no Assurance of any Part thereof to his Wife, so that she is driven to sue for her Thirds against the Heir or his Guardian. F. N. B. 6. 20. H. 3. c. 1.

Recto quando Dominus remittit, Is a Writ that lieth where Lands or Tenements in the Seigniorship of any Lord, are in Demand by a Writ of Right. If the Lord holdeth no Court at the Prayer of the Demandant or Tenant, but sends to the King's Court his Writ to put the Cause thither for that Time (saying to him at other Times the Right of his Seigniorship) then this Writ shall issue out for the other Party; and hath its Name from the Words therein contained. F. N. B. 16.

Recto de Rationabili parte, A Writ lying between Privies in Blood, as Brothers in Gavelkind, Sisters, and other Coparceners, for Land in Fee-simple. If there be two Sisters, and the Ancestor dieth seised of Land in Fee, and one of the Sisters enters into the whole, and deforces the other Sister, she who is deforced shall have the Writ of Right de Rationabili parte; And if where there are two Sisters, after the Death of the Ancestor they enter and occupy in common as Coparceners, and then one of them deforce the other Sister to occupy that which is appendant or appurtenant to the Messuage, &c. which they have in Coparcenary; she that is deforced shall have this Writ. Also if the Ancestor were disseised of Lands, and dieth, and one Sister entereth into the whole Land, and deforceth her Sister, she shall have the Writ against her other Sister: For it lieth as well upon a Dying seised of the Ancestor, if one Sister enter upon all, as where the Ancestor doth not die seised; and it is a Writ of Right Patent, &c. F. N. B. 9. New Nat. Br. 19, 20. In this Writ the Demand shall be of a certain Portion of Land, to hold in Severalty; and Voucher and View do not lie in it, because of the Privy of Blood; but in a Rationabili parte the View was granted, 15 H. 5. For that the Ancestor did not die seised, &c. The Process in the Writ, after removed into C. B. is Summons, Grand Cape, & Petit Cape, &c. Ibid.

Recto sur Disclaimor, Is a Writ that lies where the Lord, in the Court of Common Pleas, avows upon his Tenant, and the Tenant disclaims to hold of him; upon which Disclaimer the Lord shall have this Writ, and if he avers and proves that the Land is holden of him, he shall recover the Land for ever: This Writ is grounded on the Statute of Westm. 2. cap. 2. Old. Nat. Br. 150.

Rector, (Lat.) Signifies a Governor; and Rector Ecclesie parochialis, Is he that hath the Charge or Cure of a Parish Church. It has been held, that Rector Ecclesie parochialis is one who hath a Parsonage where there is a Vicarage endowed. And when Dioceses were divided into Parishes in this Kingdom, the Clergy who had the Charge in those Places were called Rectors; and afterwards, when their Rectories were appropriated to Monasteries, &c. the Monks kept the great Tithes; but the Bishops were to take Care that the Rector's Place should be supplied by another, to whom he was to allow the small Tithes for his Maintenance, and this was the Vicar. Count. Pars. Comp. 75. — Rector tantum jus in Ecclesia parochiali habet, quantum Prælati in Ecclesia Collegiata.

Rectory, (Rectoria) Is taken pro integra Ecclesia parochiali, cum omnibus suis juribus, prædiis, decimis, aliisque proventuum Speciebus. Spelm. Also the Word Rectoria hath been often applied to the Rector's Mansion, or Parsonage House. Paroch. Antiq. 549. See Parsonage.

Rectum, Right; and anciently it was used for a Trial or Accusation. Bract. lib. 3. Stare ad Rectum, i. e. to stand Trial at Law, or Præsto esse ad Jusitiam.

Rectum. Esse ad Rectum in Curia Domini is the same with Stare ad Rectum. Leg. H. 1. c. 43.

Rectum, Stare ad Rectum, To stand or abide the Justice of the Court. Hoved. 655.

Rectum Rogare, Is to petition the Judge to do Right. Leg. Ine. cap. 9.

Rectus in Curia, i. e. Right in Court, is he that stands at the Bar, and no Man objects any Offence against him. Smith de Repub. Angl. lib. 2. cap. 3. And when a Person outlawed hath reversed the Outlawry, so that he can participate of the Benefit of the Law, he is said to be Rectus in Curia.

Recusants, Are such as adhere to the Pope as supream Head of the Church, and who refuse or deny Supremacy to the King. At the Reformation, those were deem'd Recusants who disputed the Authority of the Crown in Causes Ecclesiastical, and denied the King's Supremacy; but the Acts of Parliament made against Recusants, particularly the 35 Eliz. describe a Recusant to be one that does not repair to some Church or Chapel, or usual Place of Common Prayer, to hear Divine Service. Afterwards, the Receiving the Sacrament of the Church was made a farther Test of Conformity; and by the 25 & 30 Car. 2. a Declaration against Transubstantiation was required, to distinguish Papists and Popish Recusants from Protestants: At this Day all Persons are judged Popish Recusants convicted, who refuse the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy, or Abjuration; and are liable to suffer and forfeit accordingly, viz. they incur a Premunire, whereupon they forfeit all their Goods and Chattles, with their Lands, &c. Read. Stat. 4. Vol. pag. 315. Recusants convicted, above the Age of sixteen Years, are to go to their Places of Abode or Settlement, and not travel above five Miles from thence, without License from the King, three of the Privy Council, or four Justices of the Peace, with the Assent of the Bishop of the Diocese, or the Lieutenant, or a Deputy Lieutenant of the County, on Pain of forfeiting their Goods, &c. And not having Lands worth twenty Marks per Ann. or Goods to the Value of 40 l. if they do not make the Submission of Conformity mentioned in 35 Eliz. c. 2. being required by a Justice of Peace, they may be compelled to abjure the Realm; which Abjuration must be certified to the next Assizes; and 'tis Felony if they do not depart within the Time limited by the Justices, or departing and returning again without the King's License: But if any Person offend-offending against that Act, shall before Conviction, come to some Parish Church on a Sunday, and make a publick Declaration of his Conformity, he shall be discharged from all Penalties, &c. though if such Offender afterwards relapse and become a Recusant again, he shall lose the Benefit he might otherwise have had upon his Submission: And Recusants required by Process to make their Appearance, shall not incur any Forfeiture for travelling on such Occasions, 35 Eliz. As to the Licencing a Recusant to travel, the Bishop, Lieutenant, or Deputy Lieutenant, who gives his Assent to it, must be a distinct Person from the Justices of Peace that gave the License; and therefore if one and the same Person be a Justice of Peace, and Deputy Lieutenant, he cannot act in both Capacities; but if he sign and seal the License as a Justice of Peace, the Assent of some other Deputy Lieutenant, &c. must be had. And it is a good Exception to a License by four Justices, that no particular Cause of the Recusants travelling is expressed in it, Cro. Jac. 352. Cawley 210. A Person was indicted for Recusancy, but conformed before Conviction: And so again the second Time, and was indicted a third Time for a Relapse; and on Motion, that it might be certified into the Exchequer, because by the Stat. 35 Eliz. he is to lose all the Benefit which he was to have by his former Conformity, the Relapse was certified accordingly, 1 Bull. 133. Justices of Peace in their Sessions are to cause Proclamation to be made, that Popish Recusants shall render themselves to the Sheriff or Bailiff of the Liberty where they are, before the Assises or Sessions, &c. And if they do not, the Default being recorded, shall be taken as a sufficient Conviction. 3 Jac. 1. c. 4. And Constables and Churchwardens of every Parish, or one of them, or if there be none such, the Constable of the Hundred there, are to present once a Year at the Quarter-Sessions such Recusants as shall absent from the Church for a Month together; the Forfeiture of which is 20 l. per Month, &c. Stat. Ibid. If a Recusant shall conform, and not receive the Sacrament once a Year at least; he shall forfeit for the first Year 20 l. for the second 40 l. and every Default after 60 l. And if after he hath once received it, he make Default therein by the Space of one Year, he shall forfeit 60 l. to be recovered at the Quarter-Sessions by Indictment, and divided between the King and the Prosecutor: But the Husband is not chargeable with the Offence of the Wife, nor the Wife for the Husband after his Death. Ibid. It hath been adjudged, that a Writ of Error will not lie on a Conviction of a Recusant, for not rendering himself to the Sheriff, &c. because the Conviction is no Judgment, but the Statute gives Process upon it for the Forfeiture: So that if there be any Faults in it, the same is to be quashed in the Exchequer, the Party first conforming. Raym. 433. An Information tam quam was brought against a Defendant, setting forth that before and on such a Day he was a Recusant Convict, and that afterwards he conform'd, &c. and for three Years after had not received the Sacrament, and so demanded 60 l. for every Year. Upon Not guilty pleaded, the Plaintiff had a Verdict; and thereupon it was moved that the Information was uncertain, because neither the Time was alledged, nor how, or in what Court, nor before whom the Conviction was; and the Informer demands the Penalty for three Years, when by Statute no Informer can demand a Penalty upon a Penal Law, but by an Information exhibited within a Year after the Offence: But it was resolved, that the first Exception had been good on a Demurrer; but the Defendant having pleaded Not guilty, all the Circumstances of his Conviction were admitted, and that nothing remain'd to be try'd but the Fact: And as for the second Exception, it was good against the Informer for his Part, but should not prejudice the King, 2 Cro. 365. 3 Nelf. Abr. 59. The Stat. 23 Eliz. c. 1. gives several Remedies against Recusants; one for the King alone, and there the Prosecution must be by Indictment in B. R. The other for a common Person, and that is to be by Action of Debt, Bill, Plaint, or Information. And the 28 Eliz. c. 6. was made for the Benefit of the Crown upon Indictments, and doth not extend to Informations; therefore such Informations may be brought in any Court of Record. Hob. 204. Where the Defendant is indicted on the Statute of Recusancy, Conformity is a good Plea; but not where an Action of Debt is brought. 1 Mod. 213. A Recusant certified into the Court of King's Bench, according to the 23 Eliz. shall give Security for his good Behaviour, &c. 2 Bull. 155. See Papists.

Ræd, (Sax. Ræd) Is an old Word signifying Advice: And Redbana is one who advised the Death of another.

Red Book of the Exchequer, (Liber rubens Scaccarii) Is an ancient Record, wherein are registered the Names of those that held Lands per Baroniam in K. Henry the 2d's Time. Ryley 667. It is a Manuscript Volume of several Miscellany Treatises, in the Keeping of the King's Remembrancer in his Office in the Exchequer; and hath some Things (as the Number of the Hides of Land in many of our Counties, &c.) relating to the Times before the Conquest. There is likewise an Exact Collection of the Escuages under King Hen. 1. Rich. 1. and King John; and the Ceremonies used at the Coronation of Queen Eleanor, Wife to King Hen. 3d. &c.

Reddendum, Is used substantively for the Clause in a Lease, whereby the Rent is reserved to the Lessor; and anciently Corn, Flesh, Fish, and other Viſuals, were for the most part reserved on Leases. 2 Rep. 72. Wood's Inst. 226. In Debt for Rent, the Plaintiff declared upon a Lease made 25 Aug. 11. Will. 3. of a Messuage, &c. for seven Years, to commence from the 24th Day of January, Reddendum quarterly at Michaelmas, St. Thomas's Day, Lady-Day, and Midsummer, three Pounds ten Shillings, the first Payment to be made at Michaelmas then next; and assign'd for Breach that fourteen Pounds of the said Rent was in Arrear for one Year ending 24 December, Anno 13. Will. And upon Demurrer to this Declaration, it was objected that on this Lease there was no Year could be ended on the 24th of December, but on St. Thomas's Day, according to the Reddendum; which was held to be true, because where special Days are limited in the Reddendum, the Rent must be computed from those Days, and not according to the Habendum; and that the Rent is never computed from the Habendum, but when the Reddendum is general, i. e. paying quarterly so much; so the Plaintiff had Leave to discontinue, &c. 1 Salk. 141. See Deed, & Reservation.

Reddidit se, Is where a Man procures Bail for himself to an Action in any Court at Law, if the Party bailed at any Time before the Return of the second Scire Facias against the Bail, renders himself in Discharge of his Bail, they are thereby discharged. 2 Lill. Abr. 430. A Capias ad satisfaciend' was return'd Non est Inventus against the Principal, and one Scire Fac. and a Nichil; and upon the second Scire Fac. he renders himself, and was received: But if there had been a Scire Fac. and Judgment thereupon, he had come too late. Cro. Jac. 109. If a Defendant renders himself to the Marshal of B. R. upon any Action in that Court, in Discharge of his Bail, the Defendant's Attorney is forthwith to give Notice of such Render to the Plaintiff's Attorney, and shall make Oath thereof, &c. And a Reddidit se will not discharge the Bail, unless the Attorney who is concern'd for the Defendant, or his Bail, enters it in the Marshal's Book; and having given Notice thereof to the Attorney for the Plaintiff, brings the Bail-piece to the Secondary, who upon producing of a Note from the Marshal or his Clerk, that the Defendant is in Custody, will discharge it; and until this is done, the Plaintiff may notwithstanding proceed to Judgment and Execution against the Bail; for till the Bail-piece is discharged, there is a Record still remaining in Court against them. 15 Car. 2. 2 Lill. 431. A Reddidit se of the Principal, in Discharge of the Bail, is no Plea in a Writ of Error; for the Recognizance is not to render the Body, but to pay the Debt adjudged. 3 Jac. 1. c. 8. Vide Bail.

Redditarius, A Renter; and Redditarium hath been used for a Rental of a Manor, or other Estate. Cartular. Abbat. Glaston. M.S. 92.

Reddition, (Redditio) A Surrendring or Restoring; being also a judicial Confession and Acknowledgment that the Land or Thing in Demand belongs to the Demandant, and not to the Person so surrendring. Stat. 34 & 35. H. 8. c. 24.

Redecima, The Tenth of the Tenth. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. pag. 199.

Redelivery, Is a Yielding and Delivery back of a Thing: If a Person has committed a Robbery, and stolen the Goods of another, he cannot afterwards purge the Offence by any Redelivery, &c. 1 Inst. 69. H. p. c. 72.

Redemise, Is a Regranting of Lands demised or leased. See Demise & Redemise.

Redemption, (Redemptio) A Ransom, or Commutation; and by the old Saxon Laws, a Man convicted of a Crime paid such a Fine, according to the Estimation of his Head, pro Redemptione sua.

Redeable, (from the Sax. Redevair, debere) signifies bound or obliged to another, for some Benefit received. Blount.

Redisseisin, (Redisseisina) Is a Disseisin made by him, who once before was found and adjudged to have disseised the same Man of his Lands or Tenements; for which there lies a special Writ called a Writ of Redisseisin. Old Nat. Br. 106. F. N. B. 188. The Writ of Redisseisin lieth where a Person doth recover by Assise of Novel Disseisin any Lands, Rent, or Common, &c. and is put in Possession thereof by Verdict and Judgment, and afterwards he is disseised of the same by him by whom he was disseised before. Statute of Merton, c. 3. New Nat. Br. 417. Also this Writ lies against him who committed the Redisseisin, and another who was not Disseisor, if he be Tenant of the Land; and if a Man do recover by Redisseisin, and after he is disseised again by the Person who made the first Redisseisin, he shall have a New Writ of Redisseisin; and so once Redisseisin after another, every Time he is re-disseised. Ibid. 418. 420. And the Redisseisin being found on the Sheriff's Inquisition, the Party who did it is to be committed to Prison, and the Lands resealed; and he who recovereth in Redisseisin, shall have double Damages, &c. Stat. Westm. 2. c. 26. And the Punishment for Redisseisin see in the Statute 52 H. 3. c. 8. See Post-Disseisin.

Redubbing, Are those that buy stolen Cloth, and turn it into some other Colour or Fashion, that it may not be known again. Britton, cap. 29. 3 Inst. 134.

Re-entry, (from the Fr. Rentrer, i. e. reversus intrare) Is the Resuming or Retaking a Possession lately had; as if a Man makes a Lease of Lands, &c. to another, he thereby quits the Possession; and if he covenants with the Lessee, that for Non-payment of the Rent at the Day, it shall be lawful for him to re-enter; this is as much as if he conditioned to take again the Land into his own Hands, and to recover the Possession by his own Act, without the Assistance of the Law: But Words in a Deed give no Re-entry, if a Clause of Re-entry be not added. Wood's Inst. 140. One may reserve a Rent on Condition in a Feoffment, Lease, &c. That if the Rent is behind he shall re-enter, and hold the Lands till he is satisfied, or paid the Rent in Arrear; and in this Case, if the Rent is behind, he may re-enter; though when the Feoffee, &c. pays or tenders on the Land all the Arrears, he may enter again. Lit. 327. 1 Inst. 203. And the Feoffor, &c. hath only an Interest, not the Freehold, to take the Profits in the Nature of a Distress: Here the Profits shall not go in part of Satisfaction of the Rent; but 'tis otherwise if the Feoffor was to hold the Land till he was paid by the Profits thereof. Ibid. All Persons that would re-enter upon their Tenants for Non-payment of Rent, are to make a Demand of their Rent; and to prevent the Re-entry, Tenants are to tender their Rent, &c. 1 Inst. 201. If there is a Lease for Years, rendring Rent with Condition, That if the Lessee assigns his Term, the Lessor may re-enter; and the Lessee assigneth, and the Lessor receiveth the Rent of the Assignee, not knowing or hearing of the Assignment, he may re-enter notwithstanding the Acceptance of the Rent. 3 Rep. 65. 1 Cro. 553. A Feoffment may be made upon Condition, That if the Feoffor pay to the Feoffee, &c. a certain Sum of Money at a Day to come, then the Feoffor to re-enter, &c. Lit. 322.

Re-exchange, Is the like Sum of Money paid by the Drawer of a Bill of Exchange which is return'd, for the Exchange of the Sum mentioned in the Bill back again to the Place whence it was drawn. Lex Mercat. 98.

Revertent, Is a second Extent upon Lands or Tenements, on Complaint that the former Extent was partially made, &c. Broke 313.

Refare, (From the Sax. Reaf, or Refan) To bereave, take away, or rob. Leg. H. 1. c. 83.

Refectio, A Dinner or Supper; sometimes taken for a Duty incumbent to provide Suppers, &c. The Word is derived from Reficio, to refresh.

Refectory, (Refectorium) Is that Place in Monasteries where the Monks used to eat: So the Halls in Colleges and Inns of Courts, wherein the Scholars and Students eat and refresh themselves, may properly be called Refectories. Cowel.

Reference, In the Acceptation of Law is, where a Matter is referred by the Court of Chancery to a Master; and by the Courts at Law to a Prothonotary or Secondary, to examine and report to the Court. 2 Lill. Abr. 432. In Chancery, by Order of Court, Irregularities, Exceptions, Matters of Account, &c. are referred to the Examination of a Master of that Court. In the Court of B.R. Matters concerning the due Proceedings, or undue Proceedings in a Cause, by either of the Parties, are proper Matters of Reference unto the Secondary, and for him in some ordinary Cases to compose the Differences betwixt them; and in others to make his Report how the Matters do stand, that the Court may settle the Differences according to their Rules and Orders. Pasch. 1650. If a Matter in Difference between the Plaintiff and Defendant be referred to the Secondary, and one of the Parties will not attend at the Time appointed, after Notice thereof given, to hear the Business referred; the other Party may proceed in the Reference alone, and get the Secondary to make his Report without hearing of the Party not attending. 2 Lill. 432. See Report.

Referendary, (Referendarius) Is the same Officers abroad as Masters of Request were to the King among us; they were those who exhibited the Petitions of the People to the King, and acquainted the Judges with his Commands. And there was such an Officer in the Time of the English Saxons here, viz. Ego Augemundus Referendarius approbavi, &c. And we read of a Referendarius Angliae. Spelm.

Refugium, A Sanctuary or Privilege of the Church.—Cum omni sua Libertate & Refugio Ecclesie Sancti Petri, &c. Mon. Angl. Tom. 3. pag. 122.

Refullus, For Refluxus; and perhaps Refullum Aquæ is the High-water Mark, or so high as the Water comes at full Sea. Mon. Angl.

Refusal. An Executor may refuse an Executorship; but the Refusal ought to be before the Ordinary. If an Executor be summoned to accept or refuse the Executorship, and he doth not appear upon the Summons and prove the Will, the Court may grant Administration, &c. which shall be good in Law till such Executor hath proved the Will; but no Man can be compelled to take upon him the Executorship, unless he hath intermeddled with the Estate, 1 Leon. 154. Cro. Eliz. 858. Where there are several Executors, and they all refuse, none of them shall administer afterwards; but if there is a Refusal by one, and the other proves the Will, the Refusing Executor may administer when he will, during the Life of his Co-executor. 5 Rep. 28. 2 Nels. Abr. 63. There is a Difference where there is but one Executor, and where there are more Executors than one, as to Refusal of an Executorship; for if there is but one, and in such Case he administer, he cannot refuse afterwards; and if once he refuse he cannot administer afterwards: As for Instance; The Testator being possessed of Lands, &c. for a Term of Years, devised the same to the Lord Chief Justice Catline, and made him Executor, and died: Afterwards the Executor wrote a Letter to the Judge of the Prerogative Court, intimating that he could not attend the Executorship, and desiring him to grant Administration to the next of Kin to the Deceased, which was done accordingly; and after this, the Executor entred on the Lands, and granted the Term to another; but it was adjudged void, because the Letter which he wrote was a sufficient Refusal, and he may not once refuse, and afterwards take upon the Executorship. Moor 272. An Executor after a Caveat entred against the Will, took the usual Oath of an Executor, and afterwards refused to prove the Will; and it was held, that having taken the Oath of Executor, the Court could not admit him to refuse afterwards, but ought to grant Probate to him notwithstanding the Caveat, on another's Contesting for the Administration, &c. 1 Ventr. 335. There is a Refusal of a Clerk presented to a Church, for Illiterature, &c. And if a Bishop once refuses a Clerk for Insufficiency, he cannot accept of him afterwards, if a new Clerk is presented. 5 Rep. 58. 1 Cro. 27. In Actions of Trover and Conversion, a Demand of the Goods and Refusal to deliver them must be proved, &c. 10 Rep. 56. 1 Danv. Abr. 20.

Refutantia, An Acquittance; or a Renouncing of all future Claim.—Visis Libris, Instrumentis, Registris, Refutationibus, aliisque Evidentiis, &c. Thorn. Anno 1389.

Regal, (Regalis) Royal, or Kingly; like a King. Lit. Dist.

Regale Episcoporum, The temporal Rights and legal Privileges of a Bishop. Mandatum est Roberto de B. quod faciat habere Episcopo Norwicensi totum Regale quod ad Episcopatum suum pertinet. Brady's Append. to the History of England. pag. 108.

Regal fishes, Are Whales and Sturgeons; to which some add Porpusses. The King by his Prerogative ought to have every Whale cast on Shore in all Places within this Realm, (except granted to Subjects by Special Words) as a Royal Fish: And 'tis said the King himself shall have the Head and Body to make Oil and other Things; and the Queen the Tail to make Whale-Bones for her Royal Vestments. Pat. 1. Edw. 1. Stat. 17. Edw. 2. cap. 1. 1 Eliz. cap. 5.

Regalia, (Lat.) Royalties, the Royal Rights of a King, which the Civilians say are six, 1. Power of Judicature. 2. Power of Life and Death. 3. All Kind of Arming. 4. Masterless Goods, as Waifs, Estrays, &c. 5. Assessments, and 6. The Value of Money, &c. Also the Crown, the Scepter, four several Swords, the Globe, and other such like Things, used at the Coronation of our Kings, are called Regalia. Stat. 13. Eliz. cap. 16. And Regalia is sometimes taken for the Dignity and Prerogative of the King. Likewise Regalia is applied to those Rights which the Church enjoys by the Grants and Concessions of Kings: And sometimes to the Patrimony of the Church; and those Lands and Hereditaments that have been given by our Kings thereto. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. pag. 231.

Regardant, (Fr. i. e. Seeing, Marking, or Vigilant) As a Villain Regardant, was one who had the Charge to do all base Services within the Manor, and to see the same freed of Annoyances; and therefore called Regardant to the Manor. Co. Lit. 120.

Regard, (Regardum, Fr. Regard, i. e. Aspectus) Signifies generally any Care, or looking on; and in a special Signification is used only in Matters of the Forest, and there two Ways, one for the Office of the Regarder, the other for the Compass of Ground belonging to the Regarder's Charge, which is the whole Forest, viz. All that Ground which is Parcel of the Forest; for there may be Woods within the Limits of the Forest, that are no Part thereof, and those are without the Regard. Crompt. Jurisd. 175, 199. Manw. par. 2. cap. 7.

Regarder, (Regardator, Fr. Regardeur, Spectator) Is the Officer of the King's Forest, who is sworn to make the Regard of it, as has been used in ancient Time; and to view and inquire of all Offences of the Forest, as well of Vert as of Venison; and of Concealments of any Offences or Defaults of the Foresters, and all other Officers of the King's Forest, relating to the Execution of their Offices, &c. Crompt. Jurisd. 153. Manwood. This Officer was ordained in the Beginning of the Reign of King Hen. 2d. And the Regarders of the Forest must make their Regard, before any General Sessions of the Forest, or Justice-Seat can be holden; when the Regarder is to go through the Forest, and every Bailiwick, to see and inquire of the Trespasses therein; ad videndum, ad inquirendum, ad imbreuiandum, ad Certificandum, &c. Manw. part 1. pag. 194. A Regarder may be made either by the King's Letters Patent; or by any of the Justices of the Forest, at the General Eyre, or such Time as the Regard is to be made, &c. Manw.

Rege inconsulto, Is a Writ issued from the King to the Judges not to proceed in a Cause which may prejudice the King until he is advised. King James 1st, granted the Office of Superfedeas in C. B. to one Mitchel, and thereupon Brownlow, chief Prothonotary, brought an Assise against him; and the Defendant Mitchel obtained the King's Writ to the Judges, reciting the Grant of this Office, commanding them not to proceed Rege inconsulto: And it was argued against the Writ, that the Court might proceed, because the Writ doth not mention that the King had a Title to the Thing in Demand, nor any Prejudice which might happen to the King if they should proceed: The Cause was compromised. Moor 844.

Regio Mensu, A Writ whereby the King gives his Royal Assent to the Election of a Bishop. Reg. Orig. 294.

Registrar, (Registrarius) Is an Officer that writes and keeps a Registry; and Register is also the Name of a Book, wherein are entred and set down most of the Forms of Writs Original and Judicial used at Common Law, called the Register of Writs: Sir Edward Coke affirms, That this Register is one of the most ancient Books of the Common Law. Co. Lit. 159.

Register of the Parish Church, (Registrum Ecclesie Parochialis) Is that wherein Baptisms, Marriages, and Burials are registred in each Parish every Year; which was instituted by the Lord Cromwel, Anno 13 Hen. 8. while he was Vicar General to that King.

Registry, (Registrum from the old Fr. Gister, i. e. in Lecto reponere) Is properly the same with Repository; and the Office, Books, and Rolls wherein the Proceedings of the Chancery, or any Spiritual Court are recorded, &c. are called by this Name.

Registry of Deeds. The Registrying of Deeds and Incumbrances is a great Security of Titles to Purchasers of Lands and Mortgagees; and some Laws have been made requiring the same. By the 2 Ann. cap. 4. A Registry is to be kept of all Deeds and Conveyances affecting Lands executed in the West-Riding of Yorkshire, and a publick Office erected for that Purpose; and the Register is to be chosen by Freeholders having 100 l. per Annum, &c. The 6 Ann. cap. 35. ordains, that a Memorial and Registry of all Deeds, Conveyances, Wills, &c. which affect any Lands or Tenements, shall be made in the East-Riding of the County of York, and the Register is to be sworn by the Justices in Quarter-Sessions, and every Leaf of his Book signed by two Justices. By 7 Ann. cap. 20. A Memorial and Registry is to be made of all Deeds and Conveyances, and of all Wills whereby Lands are affected, &c. in the County of Middlesex, in like Manner as in Yorkshire. And by these Statutes, Deeds, Conveyances and Wills shall be void against subsequent Purchasers or Mortgagees, unless registred before the Conveyances under which they claim: Also no Judgment, Statute, or Recognizance, shall bind any Lands in those Counties, but from the Time a Memorial thereof shall be entred at the Register's Office; but the Acts do not extend to Copyhold Estates, Leases at a Rack-Rent, or to any Leases, not exceeding 21 Years, where the Possession goes with the Lease; nor to any Chambers in the Inns of Court.

Registry of Papists Estates. Papists are to register their Estates, or on Default shall forfeit them. 1 Geo. cap. 55. And all Persons refusing to take the Oaths, are obliged to register their Estates as Papists, &c. 9 Geo. cap. 24. See Papists.

Regius Professor, Is a Reader of Lectures in the Universities, founded by the King: K. Hen. 8. was the Founder of five Lectures in each University of Oxford and Cambridge, viz. of Divinity, Greek, Hebrew, Law and Physick, the Readers of which are called in the University Statutes Regii Professores.

Regrator, (Regratarius, Fr. Regrateur) Signifies him that buys and sells any Wares or Victuals in the same Market or Fair: And by Statute, Regrators are particularly described to be those who buy or get into their Hands in Fairs or Markets, any Grain, Fish, Butter, Cheese, Sheep, Lambs, Calves, Swine, Pigs, Geese, Capons, Hens, Chickens, Pigeons, Conies, or other dead Victuals whatsoever, brought to a Fair or Market to be sold there, and do sell the same again in the same Fair, Market, or Place, or in some other within four Miles thereof, Stat. 5 & 6. Ed. 6. cap. 14. 13 Eliz. cap. 25. Regrating is a Kind of Huckstry, by which Victuals are made dearer; for every Seller will gain something, which must of Consequence enhance the Price. 3 Inst. 195. And in ancient Time, both the Ingrosser and Regrator were comprehended under the Word Forestaller. Ibid. Regrators are punishable by Loss and Forfeiture of Goods, and Imprisonment, in Proportion to the first, second, or third Offence, &c. Vide Forestaller.

Regula, The Book of Rules, Orders or Statutes in a Religious Convent; and sometimes it is used for the Martyrology, or Obituary. Regulars are Monks or Canons, who profess to live under some Rule of Obedience.

Regulus,

Regulus, Is a Word often mentioned in the Councils of the English Saxon Kings, and used for Comes; as the Subregulus was the Viccomes: Offa Rex Merciorum, Uthredus Regulus, & Aldredus Subregulus, &c.

Rehæere facias seisinam, Quando Vicecomes liberavit seisinam de majore parte, quam deberet, is a judicial Writ; of which there is another of the same Name and Nature. Reg. Judic. 13, 51, 54.

Rehabilitation, (Rehabilitatio) A Restoring to former Ability; and is one of those Exactions claimed by the Pope heretofore in England, by his Bull or Brief, for re-enabling a spiritual Person to exercise his Function who had been disabled. Stat. 25 Hen. 8. c. 21.

Rejoinder, (Rejunctio) Is where the Defendant in any Action makes Answer to the Plaintiff's Replication: It is an Exception or Answer thereto, and it ought to be a sufficient Answer to the Replication, and follow and enforce the Matter of the Bar pleaded. 2 Lill. Abr. 433. The Defendant is not to rejoin upon such Words as are not contained in the Declaration, or Replication; and if the Defendant do in his Rejoinder depart from his Plea pleaded in Bar, the Rejoinder is not good, because this is uncertain, and to say and unsay, which the Law doth not allow. Mich. 22 Car. B. R. Where a Replication is pleaded, which is issuable, the Clerk of the Papers when he makes up the Paper-Book, doth of Course make up the Rejoinder, and joins the Issue in it; and if the Rejoinder be issuable, he hath the Making up of the Surrejoinder to it, and the Issue thereupon. 2 Lill. 433.

Relation, (Relatio) Is where, in Consideration of Law, two different Times or other Things are accounted as one; and by some Act done the Thing subsequent is said to take Effect by Relation from the Time preceding; as if one deliver a Writing to another, to be delivered to a third Person, as the Deed of him who made it, when such third Person hath paid a Sum of Money; now when the Money is paid, and the Writing delivered, this shall be taken as the Deed of him who made and delivered it; at the Time of its first Delivery, to which it has Relation. Terms de Ley 515. A Judgment had in full Term shall have Relation to the first Day of the Term, which is the Effoin-Day; but this must be understood of a Judgment given after Appearance; and if it be upon Default, then the Quartus dies post is the Day. Cro. Car. 73. 1 Bulst. 33. Judgments shall have Relation to the first Day of the Term, as if given on that very Day, unless there is a Memorandum to the contrary; as where there is a Continuance till another Day in the same Term. 3 Salk. 212. A Verdict was given in a Cause for the Plaintiff, and there was a Motion in Arrest of Judgment within four Days; the Court took Time to advise, and in four Days afterwards the Plaintiff died: It was adjudged, that the Favour of the Court shall not prejudice the Party, for the Judgment ought to have been given after the first four Days; and though 'tis given after the Death of the Party, it shall have Relation to the Time when it ought to have been given. 1 Leon. 187. Rule was had for Judgment, and two Days after the Plaintiff died; yet the Judgment was enter'd, because it shall have Relation to the Day when the Rule was given, which was when the Plaintiff was alive. Posb. 132. The Defendant in a Suit after the Teste of the Fieri facias, and before the Sheriff had executed it, sold the Goods, and delivered them to the Buyer; and it was resolved, that the Sheriff might take them in Execution in the Hands of the Buyer; for when such Execution is made, it shall have Relation to the Teste of the Fi. fa 1 Leon. 304. Sale of Goods of a Bankrupt, by Commissioners, shall have Relation to the first Act of Bankruptcy; and be good, notwithstanding the Bankrupt sells them afterwards. 1 Jac. 1. cap. 15. Wood's Inst. 311. And if a Man buys Cattle in a Market that are stolen, and selleth them out of the Market, though the Cattle are afterwards brought into the Market, and the second Bargain confirm'd, and Money paid, &c. this Bargain will not be good; for it shall have Relation to the Beginning, which was unlawful. Dyer 99. Fines being but common Assurances shall be guided by the Indenture precedent; and the Execution thereof shall have Relation to the original Act. 2 Cro. 110. A Bargain and Sale to A. B. and before it was inrolled, the same Bargainor levied a Fine to the Bargainee, and afterwards and within the six Months the Deed was inrolled; adjudged that the Bargainee was in by the Fine, and not by the Deed inrolled, because though the Inrollment shall have Relation to the Delivery of the Deed, that is only to protect the Lands from all Incumbrances to be made by the Bargainor to others after the Deed, and before the Inrollment, but not to divest any lawful Estate made by him before. 4 Rep. 70. After an Indenture of Bargain and Sale is inrolled, it relates to the Delivery; nothing passes till Inrollment, but then it relates 3 Nels. Abr. 68. But generally in Cases at Common Law, there is no Relation; as between the Feoffment of Lands and Livery and Seisin; or between the Grant of a Reversion and the Attornment, which is only the Assent of the particular Tenant, and shall not relate to the Grant. Ibid. Tho' if one distrains for Rent as Bailiff, when in Truth he is not; if he in whose Name he took the Distress will afterwards assent to it, he shall not be a Trespasser, for the Assent shall have Relation to the Time of the Distress taken. 2 Leon. 196. Letters of Administration relate to the Death of the Intestate, and not to the Time when they were granted. Stile 341. It is a Rule in Pleadings, Grants, &c. Ad proximum antecedenz fiat Relatio; but that Rule hath an Exception, (viz.) nisi impediatur sententia: And it hath been held that this Rule hath many Restrictions, i. e. Fiat Relatio, so as there is no Absurdity or Incongruity; and therefore it is always secundum subjectam materiam. Hardr. 77. 3 Salk. 199. A Person granted Totam illam portionem Decimarum in B. with all other his Tithes in B. then or late in Occupatione of F. C. here the Words in Occupatione of F. C. have Relation to the whole Sentence, and not only to the precedent Words, with all other his Tithes, because the Pronoun illam relates as well to the Tenure of the Tithes, as to the Place where they arise. 4 Rep. 34. In Debt upon Bond condition'd that if F. M. died before Midsummer Day, without Issue Male of her Body then living, that in such Case the Bond should be void: The Defendant pleaded that before Midsummer Day, she did die without Issue Male then living; and the Question was, whether the Adverb then should relate to Midsummer Day, or to the Death of F. M. And it was agreed, that it might relate to either; but because it happened in Fact that she had a Son living at her Death, which Son died before Midsummer Day, therefore the Words then living shall relate to that Day, and not her Death; and because it is most beneficial to the Obligor that it should be so. Dyer 17. 3 Nelf. Abr. 65.

Relator, (Lat.) A Rehearer, or Teller; also apply'd to an Informer. Stat. 9 Ann. c. 20. See Quo Warranto.

Release, (Relaxatio) Is an Instrument, whereby Estates, Rights, Titles, Entries, Actions, and other Things, are extinguished or abridged, and sometimes enlarged. West's Symb. par. 1. lib. 2. Generally it is a giving up or discharging of the Right or Action which any Man hath or claimeth against another, or his Lands, &c. and is usually made by the Words; Have Remised, Released, and Quit-claimed, or other Words to the like Purpose: He that releaseth is the Releasor, and he to whom the Release is made is called the Releasee. Lit. 445. 1 Inst. 264. Releases are of two Kinds, viz. a Release as to Lands, (called Lease and Release) and of Goods and Chattels; and a Release of Actions, whether Real, Personal or Mix'd. Lit. 492. And they are also either in Fact express'd, or implied in Law: In Fact or express'd, is that which the very Words expressly declare, and the Act of the Party releasing, by Deed: In Law or implied, is that Release which the Law makes, and which acquits by way of Consequent or Intendment of Law, and is sometimes by Writing, and sometimes without. 1 Inst. 264. Perkins 71. When an Obligee or Creditor, makes the Obligor or Debtor his Executor, who accepts thereof; this is a Release in Law by Writing: But if an Obligor is made Administrator to the Obligee, this is no Release in Law; and when he is made Executor, though this is a Release in Law of the Action, the Duty remains, and it shall be Affets in his Hands. 8 Rep. 136. If a Feme Obligee or Creditor takes the Obligor or Debtor to Husband, it is a Release in Law without Writing; but not if a Feme Executrix takes the Debtor to Husband, for that would be a Wrong to the Dead. Ibid. If a Charge or Duty grow by Record, the Release must be upon Record; and if by Deed, the Release is to be by Deed. 1 Inst. 298. And it is to be observed, That no Right passeth by a Release, but the Right which the Releasor had at the Time of the Release made; if he has no Right, the Release is void. Litt. 446, 450. Rights and Titles to Goods and Chattels, Actions Real, Personal, &c. may be released: Also Conditions annexed to Estates, Powers of Revocation of Uses, Warranties, Covenants, Rents, Services, Commons, and other Profits to be taken out of Lands, may be discharged and extinguished by Release. 1 Rep. 112. 2 Rep. 51. 10 Rep. 48. A Condition cannot be released upon Condition; but the Release will be good, and the Condition void. 1 Inst. 237, 265. A Man may not release a Personal Thing, as an Obligation, upon a Condition subsequent; because a Personal Thing once suspended, is extinguished for ever. 1 Roll. Abr. 412, 490. If a Person releases upon Condition, the Condition will be void; but a Release may be delivered as an Escrow, to be a Man's Deed when such a Thing is performed, which makes it in the Nature of a Condition. Keilw. 88. A Release of an Action or Right cannot be for a Time: It will enure for ever, if made but for an Hour. 1 Inst. 274. Lit. 467. A Duty certain may be released before the Day of Performance of the Condition; but a Duty uncertain at first, upon a Condition precedent to be made certain afterwards, being in the mean Time but a mere Possibility, cannot be released. 5 Rep. 70. 10 Rep. 11. Cro. Eliz. 580. As a Man may release any Debt or Duty due to himself; so a Person may release any Thing or Wrong done to his Wife, before or after the Marriage: A Release by the Husband of his Wife's Suit in the Ecclesiastical Court for Defamation, is a good Release as to the Costs, but not as to the Defamation; for the Court may give Sentence that the Defendant shall make a corporal Satisfaction by Penance and Submission, which the Husband cannot release. Cro. Car. 161. If the Wife is Executrix to another, the Husband may release any Debt or Duty due to the Testator; which the Feme Executrix cannot to the Prejudice of her Husband. 5 Rep. 27. A Wife is divorced causa Adulterii, the Husband may release a Duty to the Wife. Cro. Eliz. 909. Regularly the Release of an Infant is void; yet an Infant Executor may release a Debt duly paid to him as Executor. Ibid. An Executor before Probate of the Will, may release a Debt due to the Testator, because he hath an absolute Interest of the Debt in him. 5 Rep. 27. 9 Rep. 39. If a Man releaseth, and after taketh out Administration, this is no Bar to him; by Reason at the Time of the Release made, he had not so much as a Right of Action in him. 5 Rep. 28. A Merchant of Ireland entered into a Bond there to one in London, which Bond was afterwards brought to London, the Obligee died Intestate in England, and his Son obtained Administration in Ireland, and released the Debt to the Obligor; after this the Widow of the Intestate obtained a Prerogative Administration herè, and sued the Obligor, and recovered notwithstanding the Release, the Administration granted to the Releasor being wrong; for it ought to be granted where the Bond was, and not where the Debt began. Dyer 305. Where there are two joint Executors, and one alone doth release a Debt due to the Testator, before Judgment, this will bar the other Executor; but not if the Release is after Judgment. 1 Cro. 648. If divers Persons join in an Action to recover any Personal Thing, of which they are to have the joint Benefit or Interest, there the Release of one of them shall bar all the Rest; as where there are two Plaintiffs in Debt, &c. and one of them doth release to the Defendant, this is also a Bar to the other Plaintiff: But where they are to discharge themselves of a Personal Thing, it is otherwise; for if there is a Judgment against three, and they bring a Writ of Error, and the Defendant in Error pleads the Release of one of them, this is no Bar to the other, because they are all compelled by Law to join in a Writ of Error, which is brought not to recover any Personal Thing, but to discharge themselves of a Charge imposed by the Judgment. 6 Rep. 25. A Defendant being in Execution brought a Writ of Error in B. R. and before the Judgment was affirmed, he obtained a Release of all Actions, Debts, Duties, Executions, &c. and afterwards the Judgment was affirmed; and upon a Scire facias against the Bail, they pleaded this Release: It was the Opinion, that both the Debt and Bail were discharged. 2 Bulstr. 231: But before Judgment given against the Principal, there can be nothing due from the Bail, to be released or barr'd. 5 Rep. 71. Where two are bound jointly in a Bond a Bond or Obligation, and the Obligee releases to one of them, this shall discharge the other; and no Relief shall be had in Equity thereupon. 1 Inst. 232. 1 Cro. 648. A Release by a Lord to one Jointenant, shall extend to both of the Jointenants: If two commit a Trespass against a Man, his Release to one of them shall discharge the other; for against joint Trespassers there can be but one Satisfaction. 1 Inst. 232. 2 Roll. Abr. 410. Hob. 66. And when a Promise is of two Parts, a Release of one Part will be a Release of the other Part. 1 Inst. 232. Trover was brought against two, and one pleads a Release, and the other Not guilty; the Jury find him Guilty who pleaded Not guilty, and also the Release for the Party who pleaded it: The Judgment was thereon stay'd, because a Release to one joint Trespasser is a Release to all the Rest; though they may sever in Pleading, yet one Jury shall assess Damages for all: And the Plaintiff having joined and made him a Defendant with one to whom he had released, the Release shall extend to discharge him who pleaded Not guilty. 2 Lill. Abr. 439. In an Affise by two, the Release of one of the Parties is no Bar for the Lands, nor for the Damages which ensue the Reality. Cro. Eliz. 649. And a Release of an Action by one Churchwarden is not good; nor can both of the Churchwardens release to the Prejudice of the Church. 1 Danv. Abr. 788. A Release of all manner of Actions, discharges all Real, Personal and Mix'd Actions, and Causes of Action subsisting at the Time of the Release: And a Release of all Actions Real or Personal releases Mix'd Actions; but by a Release of all Actions Real and Personal, a Writ of Error is not released; nor is it a Bar to an Execution, if the Party is not put to a Scire facias, though a Release of all Suits, will be a Bar to an Execution, except in the Case of the King: A Release of all Actions bars only in civil Actions; not in Appeal of Death, &c. Litt. 406. 1 Inst. 285. 4 Rep. 63. 8 Rep. 152. Release of all Actions generally, is better than to say all Actions Real and Personal. 2 Lill. Abr. 437. In Debt for Arrears of an Annuity, the Defendant pleads a Release of all Actions before the Day of Payment; and it was held to be an ill Plea, because a Release cannot discharge a Duty not then in Being. 1 Inst. 292. Cro. Eliz. 897. An Annuity, or Rent payable at a Time to come, cannot be discharged by a Release of all Actions; but one may release the Rent, &c. before the Day, by special Words. Wood's Inst. 278. A Release of all Actions, barreth not a Right, if there be other Means to come at it. 8 Rep. 159. Release of all Quarrels, Controversies, &c. amounts to a Release of all Actions; but if a Man making such a Release, be dispossessed of his Goods, he may take his Goods again, though he has released; for such a Release doth not bar the Right; it is the same in Release of all Actions. 1 Inst. 292. 4 Rep. 63. 11 Rep. 82. A Release of all Actions will not discharge a Covenant before broken; before Breach there is not any Duty or Cause of Action: By a Release of all Covenants, a Covenant not broken may be released. 1 Rep. 112. 5 Rep. 71. Upon a Bond for Performance of Covenants, the Obligee before any Breach releases all Covenants, and afterwards a Covenant is broken, the Obligation is not forfeited but discharged. 3 Leon. 105. A Release of all Statutes, discharges all Statutes; Release of Errors, all Writs of Error, &c. 1 Inst. 76. A Defendant pleaded that after a Bond, &c. by him given, the Plaintiff released to him all Errors, and all Actions, Suits, and Writs of Error; and upon Demurrer it was insisted that the Obligation makes the Duty, and the Release of all Actions shall be a good Bar; but adjudged that this was a special Release, and extends only to the Errors, and that the Debt on the Bond was not released. Hetl. 9, 15. 3 Nelf. Abr. 76. By Release of all Debts, Debts upon Specialties, Executions, &c. are discharged; and by Release of all Actions and Duties, a Release which was in Question was held to be released. 1 Inst. 291. Owen 71. A Release of all Dues or Duties, will release personal Actions, and Executions, not bar a Writ of Account, there being nothing certainly due before the Account made: A Release of all Actions will be a good Bar in Account; though a Release of all Accounts, shall be extended only to Account. 8 Rep. 153. 2 Roll. Abr. 404. The Release of all Demands is the best Release of all, and the most effectual to bar Actions, Rights, &c. and includes in it most of the others: By this Release, all Rights, and Titles to Lands, Conditions before broken or after, Contracts, Covenants broken, Rents, Annuities and Arrearages of Rents and Annuities, Debts, Duties, Obligations, Recognizances, Statutes, Judgments, Executions, &c. all manner of Actions Real and Personal, &c. are barred and discharged. Litt. 508. 1 Inst. 291: 5 Rep. 71. 8 Rep. 153. Dyer 56. But a Release of all Demands doth not extend to such Writs, where nothing is demanded. 8 Rep. 152. And it hath been resolved, that a Release before any Rent due, of all Demands that the Releasee had or should have against the Releasee, shall not release the accruing Rent not being then due. 1 Inst. 291. 1 Lev. 29. 2 Lev. 210. A Release of all Demands may discharge all Rent actually due, but not the growing Rent afterwards due, and which is incident to the Reversion; and if the Release be pleaded in Bar to the whole Rent, when 'tis good only for Part, the Plea is ill. 2 Salk. 578. In Award, that all Suits should cease, and that the Defendant should pay 10 l. and the Plaintiff on Payment thereof should release all Demands, &c. It was held, that if the Plaintiff would not receive the 10 l. because he would not be obliged to release, and the Defendant tendered and he refused, the Plaintiff was as much obliged to release upon the Tender, as if he had actually received the Money. 1 Salk. 74, 75. One in Consideration that the Plaintiff had lent him 10 l. and assign'd over a Bond to him, and had promised to release him from all Demands; he promised that if the Money was not received upon the Bond, he would at such a Time pay 20 l. the Plaintiff avers all done on his Part, and that the 20 l. was not paid: And the Defendant pleads the Release; but it was not good, the Release being Part of the Consideration, without making of which the Plaintiff could not maintain his Action: Also it doth not release what is future. Cro. Jac. 623. 2 Lill. Abr. 439. Release of all Demands doth not avoid Obligations subsequent to the Release; yet where a Man is bound in an Obligation to pay 10 l. at Michaelmas, a Release of all Actions and Demands before Michaelmas, will be a good Discharge. Lit. 512. Notwithstanding the Plaintiff could not have his Action till after Michaelmas, it is Debitum in presenti, and although solvendum in futuro. Ibid. 5 Rep. 28. If a Man makes a Release of

of all Demands to the personal Estate of another, this doth not release a Bond; for a Bond is not a Demand to the personal Estate before Judgment, &c. And there is a Difference between a Release of all Demands to the Person, and to the personal Estate. Yelv. 214. 2 Salk. 575. A Statute was acknowledged 3 Octob. and by a Release dated the 2 Octob. the Cognisee released to the Cognisor all Debts and Demands, usque Confectionem of the Release, which was delivered the 4th Day; adjudged that the Statute was discharged, because the Day of the Delivery is dies Confectionis of the Release; and that being after the Statute acknowledged, it must release it; but if it had been a Release of all Demands usque Datum of the Release, it had not been released. Dyer 307. Release usque Diem dati of a Bond, &c. excludes the Day whereon made. 2 Mod. 280. If a Release be made on a particular Occasion, that shall restrain the Generality of the Words. 3 Lev. 275. Raym. 399. 2 Mod. 277. A general Release of all Demands, &c. relating to a particular Person or Thing, shall not bar by the general Words, but only for that Purpose. 2 Lev. 214, 215. 3 Nelf. Abr. 77, 78. If a Bond be entered into to A. to the Use of another; this Bond cannot be released by A. And if an Obligee in Trust for another releases to the Obligor all Demands, upon his own Account; this doth not release the Obligation. 1 Lev. 235, 272. In Debt on a single Bill made to W. R. to the Use of him and L. R. In this Case L. R. may not release or sue, because he is not a Party to the Deed. Ibid. Where A. is bound to B. and then B. the Obligee reciting the Bond covenants not to sue the Obligor, or to save him harmless; this is an absolute Release, and if it is to save him harmless upon a Contingency, then 'tis a conditional Release. 2 Salk. 573. But such a Covenant with one Obligor will not release another. Ibid. An Acknowledgment under Hand and Seal that a Debt is satisfied, is a good Release of the Debt. 9 Rep. 52. K NOW all Men by these Presents, That I A. B. of, &c. Have remised, released, and for ever quit-claimed; and by these Presents do for me, my Heirs, Executors and Administrators, remise, release, and for ever quit claim unto *C. In Witness, &c.

Relegation, (Relegatio) Signifies a Banishing or Sending away, for a Time only: As Abjuration is a Forfeiting the Realm for ever. Co. Litt. 133.

Relief, (Relevium, Relevatio, from the Lat. Relevare) Is a certain Sum of Money that every Freehold Tenant being at full Age payeth unto his Lord at the Death of his Ancestor, on his Entrance upon or taking Possession of the Inheritance; by Payment whereof, the Heir relieves and as it were raiseth up again his Lands, after they were fallen down into his Superior's Hands. 1 Inst. 76. Compl. Cop. Sett. 25. And to explain this Word; first, a feudatory or beneficiary Estate in Lands was granted only for Life; and after the Death of the Tenant it returned to the chief Lord, for which Reason it was called Feudum caducum, viz. fallen to the Lord by the Death of his Tenant; afterwards these feudatory Estates being turn'd into an Inheritance by the Assent of the chief Lord, when the Possessor of such an Estate died, it was termed Hereditas caduca, i. e. fallen to the Lord, but to whom the Heir having paid a Sum of Money, he did then relevare Hereditatem caducam out of the Lord's Hands, and the Money thus paid was denominated a Relief: But this is understood after the Conquest; for in the Time of the Saxons, there were no Reliefs, but Heriots paid to the Lord at the Death of his Tenant. Blount. We may read in the Laws of Will. 1. called the Conqueror, and of King Hen. 1. that Reliefs were anciently paid by Earls, Barons, &c. yet the Payment was very uncertain, till the Statute of Magna Charta, c. 3. by which it was made certain, viz. it was declared to be the fourth Part of the annual Revenue which was required by Law to support the Dignity of the Person; as the Son of a Knight was to pay for a Relief 5 l. the fourth Part of 20 l. per Ann. a Son of a Baron to pay 100 Marks, the fourth Part of 400 Marks per Ann.; the Son of an Earl 100 l. the fourth Part of 400 l. a Year; and of a Duke 200 l. which is the fourth Part of 800 l. per Ann. such Estates being at that Time reputed sufficient to support these Dignities; and of others, according to the ancient Custom of Fees. 9 Rep. 122. 3 Nelf. Abr. 79, 81. The Heir of every Ancestor who held by Knights-Service, was to pay a Relief; and wherever there was a Title of Wardship, there was likewise a Relief to be paid; but the Lands must come to the Heir by Discent, otherwise no Relief was due; for many Bishops and Abbots had Baronies, and yet they paid no Relief, because they came in by Succession, not by Discent. Ibid. A Relief may be due by Tenure; as for Instance; A Man may hold Land of A. B. as of such a Manor by Rent, and a customary Relief of one Year's Value, &c. 3 Bulst. 323. And there is Relief-Service, and Relief-Custom: The Relief-Service is that which is paid upon the Death of any Freeholder: And Relief-Custom is that which is paid on the Death or Alienation of a Freeholder, according to the Custom of the Place. Coke's Compl. Cop. Sett. 25. 1 Inst. 83. But Reliefs are more properly divided into a Relief at the Common Law, and by Custom; a Relief being no Service, but an Incident to and the Fruit of it. 2 Lill. Abr. 440. 3 Rep. 60. Reliefs are paid by Freeholders only: In many Places, the Relief is Half a Year's, or a Year's Rent and Profit of the Land; and in some, double the Rent of that Year; and for this the Lord may distrain, but cannot have an Action of Debt, though his Executors or Administrators may bring an Action of Debt for it, and cannot distrain. 1 Inst. 83. And Debt lies by an Executor against an Executor of an Heir, who who was to pay a Relief. Cro. Eliz. 883. Acceptance of the Rent of a new Tenant is no Bar of a Relief due from a former Tenant. Cro. Eliz. 886. 3 Rep. 66. Moor 643. And an Avowry for a Relief is good, without shewing particularly how due; because a Relief is incident to every Tenure, de communi jure; and if separated, must be shewn on the other Side. 3 Lev. 145. See Latch. 37, 129.

Religion, (Religio, à religando) Signifieth Piety, Devotion, and the Worship of God: And there are many Temporal Laws, made for the Support of Religion. The Law hath so tender a Regard for the Interests of the King and of Religion, that an Indictment will lie for doing any Thing which plainly appears immediately to tend to the Prejudice of either of them; and be good, though it do not expressly complain of it as a common Grievance. 1 Hawk. P. C. 198. Offences tending to subvert all Religion and Morality, which are the Foundation of Government, are punishable by the temporal Judges by Fine and Imprisonment, and also such corporal Punishment as the Court in Discretion shall think fit; and seditious Words in Derogation of the establish'd Religion, are indictable, as tending to a Breach of the Peace. Ibid. 7. So also profane Scoffing of the Scripture; Impostures in Religion, &c. By Statute, no Person in Authority to execute spiritual Jurisdiction, has Power to adjudge any Matters of Religion to be Heresy, but such as have been so adjudg'd by canonical Scripture, by one or more of the general Councils, or shall be adjudg'd by the Parliament with the Assent of the Convocation. 1 Eliz. cap. 1. The 13 Eliz. establishes the Thirty-nine Articles of Religion, to be subscribed by the Clergy, &c. But Protestant Dissenters are exempted from subscribing the 34, 35 and 36th Articles, by 1 W. & M. c. 18. Persons educated in the Christian Religion, who by Writing or Speaking, deny any one of the Persons in the Holy Trinity, to be God; or asserting there are more Gods than one; or who shall deny the Christian Religion to be true; or the Old and New Testament to be writ by divine Authority, are render'd incapable to hold any Office or Employment; and being convicted of a second Offence, are disabled to prosecute any Action, to be Executor, Guardian, &c. and subject to Imprisonment for three Years. 9 & 10 W. 3. cap. 32. If any Person shall come into a Church, Chapel, or Congregation for Religion, and disturb the same, or misuse the Teacher, on Conviction at the Quarter-Sessions he shall forfeit 20 l. 1 W. & M. But no Assembly for Religious Worship, is to be allow'd till the Place of Meeting is certified to the Bishop of the Diocese, or Justices of Peace in Quarter-Sessions. Ibid.

Religious Houses, Are Houses set apart for the Use or Exercise of Religion, and other pious charitable Uses; as Monasteries, Hospitals, &c.

Religious Men, (Religiosi) Such as enter into some Monastery or Convent, there to live devoutly: And in ancient Deeds of Sale of Lands, the Purchasers were often restrained by Covenant from giving or alienating it viris Religiosis, so the End the Land might not fall into Mortmain. Cowel.

Religious Orders, For the Qualification of Clergy. See Ordination.

Relinquishment, Is a forsaking, abandoning, or giving over. It hath been adjudged, that a Person may relinquish an ill Demand in a Declaration, &c. and have Judgment for that which is well demanded. Stile 175. In Assise the Count was of a Messuage, and four Acres of Land in B. and the Jury having a View only of the Land, the Demandant relinquish'd his Plaint to the House. Dyer 66. But on Assise where the Plaint was for Fifty-three Shillings and Four Pence Rent, no Part of that Rent could be relinquish'd, because a Rent is an intire Thing. Ibid. 61. In a Writ of Annuity, where the Jury found the Arrears, but did not assess Damages or Costs, which could never be supply'd by a Writ of Enquiry; the Plaintiff was admitted to relinquish and release the Damages, and had Judgment for the Arrears. 11 Rep. 56.

Reliques, (Reliquia) Are some Remains, such as the Bones of the Dead, preserv'd by those that are living, as sacred Memorials of them: They are forbidden to be used or brought into England, by several Statutes; and Justices of Peace are empower'd to search Houses for popish Books and Reliques, which when found are to be defaced and burnt, &c. 3 Jac. 1. cap. 26.

Remainder, (Remanentia) Is an Estate limited in Lands or Tenements, to be enjoyed after the Estate of another expired; as if one grant Land for Term of Years, or Life, and afterwards the same to remain to another Person and his Heirs. Bract. lib. 2. cap. 23. 2 Lill. Abr. 441. It is also defined to be the Residue of an Estate in Land, depending upon a particular Estate, and created together with the same; and if a Man seised in Fee, lets Lands or Tenements for Years, the Remainder over to another for Life, in Tail; or in Fee; here is first a particular Estate for Years, created out of a Fee, and afterwards the Residue disposed of, which we call a Remainder; though the particular Estate, and all the Remainders, make but one Estate in Law. 1 Inst. 49, 143. Plowd. 25, 35. And where it depends upon a Lease for Life or Years, Livery is to be made on the Lease, or the Remainder will not pass. Ibid. Remainders and Reversions are so called, because they are Estates in Expectancy only; they are a present Interest, yet stand in a Degree remov'd from the Possession till the particular Estate is determined: And as by a Reversion, after the appointed Term, the Estate returns to the Donor or his Heirs; so by a Remainder, it goes to some third Person or a Stranger. Wood's Inst. 152. Spelm. If a Man make a Lease for Life, with Remainder to his Heirs, or Remainder to himself and his Heirs, or to himself and the Heirs of his Body, the Remainder is void, and his Estate is not altered: But 'tis otherwise if he convey the Land by way of Use, with such Limitation; as if he make a Feoffment to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder to the Heirs Males of his Body; this is an Entail executed in him; and so it is if he covenant to stand seised in the same Manner. 1 Ventr. 378. 1 Mod. 159. 3 Salk. 292. A Lease was made for Life, and afterwards the Lessor reciting that Lease, demised the Remainder to another; Habendum the said Remainder, after the Determination of the first Lease, for twenty Years; and it was held, that the Reversion did pass by the Name of the Remainder: And if a Man grant Lands to another Person, and to the Heirs of his Body; and for Want of such Issue, that the Lands shall revert to the Grantor; by these Words the Remainder doth pass.

pass. Dyer 46. 3 Nelf. Abr. 90. And a Lessor by Deed, reciting that A. B. held a Close of him at Will, granted the same Close to him for Life, rendering Rent to the Lessor, and by the same Deed granted the Reversion to another in Fee; adjudged, that A. B. had an Estate for Life by way of Confirmation, and that the other had a good Estate in Remainder, but not in Reversion. 1 And. 23. Though an Estate at Will is not such a particular Estate, whereon a Remainder may depend. Wood 150. In Deeds, by limiting Remainders, the Reversion may pass: There being a Grandfather, Father, and Son, &c. the Grandfather levied a Fine to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder to the Father in Tail, and Remainder to the right Heirs of the Grandfather; here the Grandfather had an Estate in Fee, expectant upon the Determination of the Estate-tail, as a Reversion, and not in Remainder. 2 Rep. 91. And a Feoffment was made in Fee by a Man to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder over to the Use of A. B. for Life, Remainder to the right Heirs of the Feoffor; and it was resolved, that the Fee-simple was in the Feoffor in the Nature of a Reversion, not of a Remainder to his Heirs, as it proceeded from himself, and was his own Act. 1 And. 256. 3 Nelf. Abr. 90. The following Rules are to be observed, in the Creation of Remainders: There must be a particular Estate precedent made at the same Time, that the Remainder may depend upon it; and the particular Estate must continue till the Remainder shall vest; the Remainder is to commence in Possession, at the very Time the particular Estate ends, for there must not be a Mean between; and pass out of the Lessor executed or executory at the Time of the Possession taken by the particular Tenant; but it cannot depend upon a Matter ex post facto: Also a Remainder may depend upon a Condition, that is not repugnant or against Law, and then it will pass either executed or executory; the Person to whom the Remainder is limited, is to be capable of it at the Time it was created, or by common Possibility during the particular Estate; and the Thing whereof a Remainder shall be created, must be in esse before and at the Time of the Appointment and Creation thereof. 1 Rep. 66, 129, 130. 2 Rep. 51. 3 Rep. 20. 1 Inst. 378. Noy's Max. 31. But in some Cases, there may be a Remainder, without a particular Estate in esse to support it; as in the Case of an Use in Remainder, by the Statute of Uses. 2 Lill. Abr. 443. And if the Remainders are limited by a Devise, they are good without a particular Estate; though not where the Estate passes by Livery and Seisin; for when the particular Estate is defeated, the Livery is gone, and all the Estates which depend upon it. Dyer 126. Plowd. 403. A Remainder must be created with the particular Estate, and be limited for a certain Estate: A Cognisor levied a Fine to the Use of himself for Life, and afterwards to the Use of his two Daughters, till his Son returned from beyond Sea, or came of Age, or died, which should first happen; and then Remainder to his Son, &c. This was a good Remainder, and did not depend upon any Uncertainty, because though his Returning or Coming of Age was uncertain, yet his Death is certain. Cro. Eliz. 269. A Person conveys Lands to the Use of himself for ninety-nine Years, if he lived so long, Remainder to his first, second, or third Son, &c. this Remainder is not good, for Want of a Freehold to support the same; a Freehold being necessary to support every contingent Remainder; and 'tis against the Rules of Law that a Remainder can be supported by a Term for Years, or by any Thing less than a Freehold. 2 Lill. 446. Moor 486, 718. 4 Mod. 54. 2 Salk. 679. One may make a Lease for Years to one, so long as he shall live of those Years; Remainder to another for the Rest of the Years: But he cannot give a Term for Years to one for Life; and after the Expiration of the said Term, Remainder to another. 1 Rep. 153. 2 Roll. Abr. 415. Though in a Devise, or Last Will and Testament, a Lease for Years may be given to one for Life, or so long as he shall live; and after to another during the Residue of the Term. 8 Rep. 94. 10 Rep. 47. 1 Roll. Abr. 610. A Rent may be devised to one for Life, with Remainder over. 2 Salk. 577. All contingent Remainders before the Stat. 10 & 11 W. 3. were to be supported by particular Estates for Life, &c. and to vest either before, or at that very Instant when the particular Estates were determined; and if the Contingencies happened before those particular Estates were determined, then the Remainders were void. 3 Nelf. Abr. 84. A Testator being seised of Lands devised them to H. his Nephew, eldest Son of his Brother R. L. for Life, Remainder to his first Son in Tail, Remainder to R. the second Son of R. L. with several Remainders over: H. enter'd by Virtue of this Devise, and died before his Son was born, leaving his Wife with Child of a Son, and R. the second Son of R. enter'd as in Remainder, and about six Months afterwards the Son of H. was born; and adjudged, that this being a contingent Remainder to that Son, who was not born when his Father, who had the particular Estate for Life, died, it was therefore void; and R. being the next in Remainder, and entering before the Son of H. was born, it was vested in him by Purchase; this Judgment was affirmed upon a Writ of Error in B. R. But it was reversed in the House of Lords, for it being a Case arising upon a Will, it shall be construed according to Equity, and agreeable to the Intention of the Testator, which could never be to disinherit the Heir of his Family upon such a Nicety in the Law. 4 Mod. 282. And because such Cases might often happen, it was enacted by the 10 & 11 W. 3. cap. 16. That where any Estate is limited in Remainder, to any Person who shall be born after the Decease of his Father, such Person shall take in the same Manner as if born in the Lifetime of his Father; although no Estate is limited to Trustees after the Father's Decease, to preserve such contingent Remainders to such after-born Son, &c. A Person not in esse may take a Remainder by way of Purchase, if he be in esse before the particular Estate ends; and it has been held, that the Remainder shall be in Abeyance, until the Birth of the Child. 2 Lill. Abr. 404. A Feoffment was made to the Use of Husband and Wife for their Lives, Remainder to the first Son in Tail, Remainder to the Husband and Wife, and to the Heirs of their two Bodies, they having then no Son: In this Case, the Husband and Wife are Tenants in Tail; but when a Son is born, then the Estate is opened again, and they are Tenants for Life, Remainder to the Son in Tail, Remainder to them in Tail; and the Reason is, because all these Estates were created by one and the same Conveyance; wherefore the Remainder shall vest in the Husband and Wife till till the Contingency happens, when the Estates shall be open and disjoin'd, to let in the contingent Remainder to the Son, which before were united in the Husband and Wife: But where the Remainder in esse comes to the particular Estate by any Means whatsoever, after the original Conveyance, it is otherwise. 1 Inst. 28. 2 Sand. 385. Tenant for Life, with Remainder to his Wife for Life, Remainder to his first and second Son, &c. in Tail, Remainder to the right Heirs of the Tenant for Life; who afterwards committed Treason, and then his Son was born, and the Father was attainted: It was adjudged, that whether the Son was born before or after the Attainder, the contingent Remainder to him was not discharged by the Vesting of the Estate in the Crown, during the Life of the Father; because of the intermediate Estate to the Wife for Life, which supported that Remainder. 2 Salk. 576. Ruled by Hale Chief Justice, that where W. R. is Tenant for Life, Remainder to R. R. for Life, Remainder to C. W. for Life, Remainder to L. L. and the Heirs of his Body: If W. R. and R. R. join in a Fine, the Right of Entry of C. W. preserves the contingent Estate over: And if there be Tenant for Life, Remainder to his first, second and third Son, the like Remainder to others, and their Sons, &c. one of which hath Issue a Son, and then he and the others join in a Fine to Tenant for Life, who after makes a Feoffment; by this, the Remainders are not destroy'd, as there is a Son of one of the Remainder Men born, who has a Right of Entry left in him, which will support the Remainders. 1 Mod. 92. Contingent Remainders are where the Estate is to take Place upon an uncertain Event; and are preserved by making a Feoffment, &c. to the Use of A. B. for Life, Remainder to the Use of the Feoffees, for the Life of A. B. and so on for the contingent Remainders, when he that hath the first Estate cannot destroy the Remainder. 1 Ventr. 189, 10 Rep. 85. A contingent Remainder doth not depend upon a Reversion, which comes after; but upon the Estate, which precedes it: And may be destroy'd by levying a Fine, suffering a Recovery, or otherwise destroying the particular Estate upon which the contingent Estate depends, before the Contingency happens. 2 Lill. 446. Also where the particular Estate is drown'd in the Reversion, the contingent Remainder depending upon it is gone. 2 Saund. 382. If Feoffees, who have only an Estate during the Life of a Son, &c. where divers Remainders are limited over, make a Feoffment in Fee to him, by the Feoffment all the future Remainders are destroyed, because the Estate for Life on which they were supported, was forfeited by it. 1 Rep. 120. Land was devised to the Father for Life, Remainder to the next Heir Male of the Father, and to the Heirs Males of his Body; the Father made a Feoffment with Warranty; and it was held, that by the Feoffment of the Tenant for Life, the Remainder was destroy'd; for the particular Estate for Life being determined by the Feoffment, by Consequence he in Remainder ought to enter for the Forfeiture; and here the immediate Remainder being limited to the next Heir Male, he could not enter as such, as he cannot be Heir whilst his Father is living. 1 Rep. 66. There are cross Remainders in Wills and Deeds; as where the Testator deviseth an Estate to two Persons, and that each shall be the other's Heir, &c. but such cross Remainders are seldom or never allowed by Implication: And though they are permitted between two Persons, they are rarely amongst three or more; unless it plainly appears by the Will that the Testator so intended. 2 Roll. Rep. 281. 3 Nelf. Abr. 98. If a Man devise one Acre of Land to A. the eldest Son, and the Heirs Males of his Body, another Acre to B. the second Son in like Manner, and another Acre to C. the third Son in the same Manner; and if they all die without Issue of their or any of their Bodies, or either of them, Remainder over; here are cross Remainders among all the three Sons, by reason of the Words or any of their Bodies, &c. Dyer 303. 1 Ventr. 224. Three Things one shall have by a Remainder, by Conveyance at the Common Law: A Remainder vested; Possession in Law; and Possession in Fact. Plowd. 25. 2 Lill. 445. A Man makes a Conveyance to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder to the eldest Child; he hath Issue a Daughter, and afterwards a Son; as soon as the Daughter is born, the Remainder is vested in her, and shall not be devested by the Birth of the Son. 2 Leon. 219. In a Limitation of a Remainder, the Word Puer may be construed either a Son, or Daughter; but in a Family Settlement, it shall be intended a Son, where the Sons are always preferred: And where a Tenant in Tail suffered a Recovery to Uses, with Remainder Seniori Filio of his Body in Tail, &c. and afterwards the same Person and his Wife levied a Fine to Uses, Remainder to the eldest Child of the Husband, Remainder over; after which the Husband had Issue a Daughter, and a Son after that, and then the Father died; adjudged that the Son shall have the Land, and not the Daughter, by reason of the first Limitation. Bendl. 29 Dyer 337. T. S. being seised of Land which descended to him as Heir on the Part of his Mother, levied a Fine thereof to A. and B. to the Use of them and their Heirs, in order to make them Tenants of the Præcipe; upon which a common Recovery was had, and the Uses declared to the said T. P. for Life, Remainder to his Wife for Life, Remainder to his first and second Son, &c. in Tail, with Remainder to his own right Heirs; afterwards T. P. and his Wife died without Issue; and in Ejectment the Question was, whether this Limitation of the Remainder to the right Heirs of T. P. did create a new Estate in him descendible to the Heirs general; but it was resolved, that the Remainder shall be to the Heirs of T. P. on the Part of his Mother, according to the antient Estate and Use which he had before the Fine and Recovery, as it did arise immediately out of the Estate which moved from him. 2 Salk. 590. A Remainder may not be limited after a Fee-simple; because the whole Estate is in the Grantee, &c. and one Fee-simple cannot remain upon another. 1 Plowd. 29. Raym. 29. Tenant in Tail cannot limit a Remainder over by Deed; for an Estate for his own Life, is as long as he can grant: But where there is an Estate-tail, with Condition, that if the Tenant in Tail aliens in Fee, Fee-tail, &c. then the Estate to cease, and the Land to remain to another; this is a void Remainder; the Alienation vests the Estate in the Alienee, or the Donor. 2 Rep. 52. 1 Lutw. 832. Wood's Inst. 150. A Proviso will not make a Remainder; but it may determine it. A. leased to B. for Life, Remainder to C. Provided that if A. had a Son who should live to such an Age, then the Estate should remain to his Son in Tail ; he had such a Son, and it was held that he should not have the Estate. Cro. Eliz. 360. 2 Lill. Abr. 444. He in Remainder of an Estate vested, may grant, or devise the same ; and if one in Remainder make a Lease to commence at a Day to come, and afterwards grants his Estate in Remainder to another, it shall be charged with this Lease in the Hands of the Grantee, although the Lands were never in the Possession of the Grantor. 3 Nelf. Abr. 92. Action of the Case lies for him in Remainder against a Copyholder for Life committing Waste, &c. 3 Lev. 130. A Person in Remainder may have a Writ of Intrusion, if any do intrude after the Death of Tenant for Life : And the Writ Ex gravi Querela lies to execute a Devise in Remainder, after the Death of Tenant in Tail, without Issue. Nat. Br. 441, 453. An Entry is requisite to avoid a Remainder for Life : And a Claim of a Remainder by Force of a Condition, must be upon the Land. 2 Rep. 53. A Bargain and Sale made off from the Land, is not sufficient to make a Claim, and then to pass a Remainder. 2 Rep. 54. A Remainder limited after an Estate which is void, is also void : And where a Limitation is impossible and void, all the Remainders after are void. 1 Saund. 150. 2 Lev. 157. One that takes an Estate by way of Remainder, must not be a Party to the Deed : For a Remainder a Man may take, though he is not a Party to the Conveyance ; but not present Estates. Cro. Eliz. 10. 2 Lill. 444. If any Persons, for whose Lives any Estates are granted, be absent abroad, and no Proof made of their being living, they shall be accounted as dead ; and those in Remainder may move the Lord Chancellor to order Persons to be produced, or enter, &c. Stat. 19 Car. 2. and 6 Ann. See Executory Devise and Recovery.

Remanet in Custodia. Entry of an Action in the Marshal's Book, by reman. Custod. where a Man is actually in Custody, is a good Commencement of an Action in B. R. 3 Salk. 150.

Remedy, (Remedium) Is the Action or Means given by Law, for the Recovery of a Right ; and when ever the Law giveth any Thing, it gives a Remedy for the same : There is a Maxim, Lex semper dabit Remedium. Stud. Compan. 177, 179. Remedies are favourably extended, and sometimes to be had without Action or applying to the Courts of Justice, viz. by Accord and Agreement of the Parties, Arbitrament ; Retaking Goods wrongfully taken away ; taking Distresses for Rent ; Entry on Lands, to regain Possession, &c. Wood's Inst. 528, 529, 530.

Remembrancers, (Rememoratores) Formerly called Clerks of the Remembrance, are Officers of the Exchequer ; of which there are Three, distinguished by the Names of the King's Remembrancer, the Lord Treasurer's Remembrancer, and the Remembrancer of First-Fruits : Upon whose Charge it lies, to put the Lord Treasurer and the Justices of that Court in Remembrance of such Things as are to be called upon and dealt in for the King's Behoof and Benefit. The King's Remembrancer enters in his Office all Recognizances taken before the Barons for any of the King's Debts, for Appearance, &c. and he takes all Bonds for such Debts, and makes out Process for the Breach of them ; also he writes Process against the Collectors of Customs, Subsidies, Excise, and other publick Payments for their Accounts : All Informations upon penal Statutes are entered and sued in his Office ; and he makes the Bills of Composition on penal Laws, and takes the Stallment of Debts : And all Matters upon English Bills in the Exchequer Chamber remain in the Office of this Remembrancer. He has deliver'd into his Office the Indentures, Fines, and other Evidences, that concern the Passing any Lands to or from the King. In Crastino animarum yearly he reads in open Court the Statute for Election of Sheriffs, and gives them their Oath ; and he also reads in Court the Oath of all the Officers of the Court, when they are admitted. Writs of Prerogative or Privilege, for Officers and Ministers of the Court, are made out by him ; and so Commissions of Nisi prius. by the King's Attorney's Warrant, on Trial of any Matters within his Office at the Assises in the Country ; he hath the Entering of Judgments of Pleas, &c. And all Differences touching Irregularities in Proceedings, shall be determined by the King's Remembrancer ; who is to settle the same, if he can, and give Costs where he shall find the Fault ; but if not, the Court is to determine it, &c. By Order of Court, his Majesty's Remembrancer, or his Deputy, are diligently to attend in Court, and to give an Account touching any Proceedings as they shall be required ; and they enter the Rules and Orders of the Court. The Treasurer's Remembrancer issues out Process of Fieri facias and Extents, for Debts to the King ; and against Sheriffs, Escheators, &c. not accounting ; he makes the Record whereby it appears whether Sheriffs and other Accountants, pay their Profers due at Easter and Michaelmas ; and he makes another Record, whether Sheriffs and other Accountants keep their Days prefixed : There are also brought into his Office all the Accounts of Customers, Controllers, and Accountants, to make Entry thereof on Record. All Estreats of Fines, Issues and Amerciaments, set in any Courts at Westminster, or at the Assises or Sessions, are certified into his Office ; and by him delivered to the Clerk of the Estreats to make out Process upon them ; and he may issue Processes for Discovery of Tenures ; and all such Revenue as is due to the Crown by Reason thereof, &c. The Remembrancer of the First-Fruits, his Office is to take all Compositions, and Bonds for the Payment of the First-Fruits and Tenths ; and he makes Process against all such Persons as do not pay the same. Stat. 35 Eliz. cap. 5. 5 R. 2. cap. 14. 37 Ed. 3. cap. 4.

Remitter, (From the Lat. Remittere, to restore or send back) Is where a Man hath two Titles to Land, and he comes to the Land by the last Title, but that proving defective, he is restored to and judg'd in by Force of his elder or surer Title, by Operation of Law. Litt. 659. 1 Inst. 347. If Land descend to him, that has Right to it before, he shall be remitted to his better and more ancient Title, if he will : And a Remitter must be to a precedent Right ; for regularly to every Remitter, there are two Incidents, viz. an ancient Right, and a defeazible Estate of Freehold coming together. Doct. & Stud. c. 9. Wood's Inst. 528. Tenant in Tail makes a Feoffment in Fee upon Condition, and dieth, and his Issue being within Age enters for the Condition broken by Virtue of the Feoffment ; he shall be first in as Tenant in Fee-simple, and be remitted as Heir to his Father : But if the Heir be of Age, he shall not be remitted ; but is to bring his Writ of Formedon against the Feoffee. 1 Inst. 202, 349. And

And if Tenant in Tail infeoff his Son or Heir apparent, who is within Age, and after dies, that is a Remitter to the Heir: Though if he were of full Age at the Time of such Feoffment, it is no Remitter, because it was his Folly, that he being of full Age would take such a Feoffment. Litt. 665. If a Husband alien Lands that he hath in Right of his Wife, and after take an Estate again to him and his Wife for their Lives, this is a Remitter to the Wife, for the Alienation is the Act of the Husband, and not of the Woman; yet if the Alienation be by Fine in a Court of Record, such a Taking again afterwards to the Husband and Wife, shall not make the Wife to be in her Remitter, she being excluded by the Fine for ever. Terms de Ley 519. When the Entry of a Person is lawful, and he takes an Estate in the Land for Life, or in Fee, &c. (except it be by Matter of Record, or otherwise to conclude or estop him) he shall be remitted. 1 Inst. 363. And a Remitter to one in Possession may be a Remitter to another in Remainder; if the Remainder be not bound, which estops it. Cro. Car. 145. If there be Tenant in Tail, Remainder in Fee to A. B. and the Tenant in Tail continueth, and takes back an Estate in Fee; and then devises the Lands to his Wife for Life, with Remainder to W. R. for Years, Remainder to the same A. B. in Fee, and dies, and his Wife enters and dies: It has been held, that he in Remainder in Fee may enter and avoid the Term for Years to W. R. because he is remitted to his first Remainder in Fee; and a Remitter avoids a Lease for Years, without Entry. Noy 48. A Father was Tenant for Life, Remainder to his Son for Life, Remainder to the right Heirs of the Body of the Father; he and his Son conveyed the Lands to the Uncle in Fee, who died without Issue, so that the Son who was Heir in Tail to the Father, was now Heir at Law to the Uncle, and the Fee descended on him; the Wife of the Uncle brought Dower, but the Son being remitted to his former Estate, no Dower accrue to the Wife, for the Estate of which she claims Dower is gone. 1 Leon. 37. 9 Rep. 136. Lands were purchased by a Man and settled upon himself and his Wife in Tail, and they had Issue two Sons; then he made a Feoffment to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder to the Wife for Life, Remainder in Fee to his second Son: The Wife after his Death entered, and made a Feoffment to the Issue of the second Son; and then the eldest Son entered for a Forfeiture, upon the Stat. 11 H. 7. c. 20. and it was adjudg'd a Forfeiture, by Reason the Wife having two Titles, one as Tenant in Tail, and the other as Tenant for Life, by her Entry she is remitted to her Estate for Life, so that the Feoffment made by her is a Forfeiture of her Estate. Sid. 63. 3 Nelf. Abr. 100. If Tenant in Tail make a Feoffment to the Use of himself and his Heirs, he shall not be remitted; but his Issue shall. Ibid.

Renant, Or rather Reniant, i. e. Negans; from the Fr. Renier, negare, to deny or refuse. 32 H. 8. cap. 2.

Render, (Fr. Rendre, viz. Reddere) Signifies to yield, give again, or return: A Fine with Render is where Lands are render'd back by the Cognisee to the Cognisor. And there are certain Things in a Manor that lie in Prender, that is, which may be taken by the Lord or his Officers when they happen, without the Tenant's Leave, such as Escheats, &c. and certain that lie in Render,

i. e. must be rendered or answered by the Tenant, as Rents, Heriots, and other Services: Also some Services consist in Seisance; and some in Render. West. Symb. par. 2. Perkins Reserva. 696.

Renegate, or Renegado, Which we corruptly call Runnegate, is one who was a Christian, and afterwards negat Christum and apostatized to Mahometism: This is mentioned in Hoveden by the Name of Reneez. Hoved. Anno 1192.

Renegeld, Is a Kind of Rent or Tenure. — Per Renegeld Johannes S. Ar. clamat habere de qualibet Bovata terra infra feodum de A. 1 d. Rot. Plac. in Itin. apud Cestriam. 14 H. 7.

Renobant, (From Renovo) To renew, or make again: The Parson sued one for Tithes to be paid of Things Renovant, &c. 2 Cro. 430.

Rent, (Redditus) Is a Sum of Money, or other Consideration, issuing yearly out of Lands or Tenements. 1 Inst. 141. It must be certain, or that which may be reduced to a Certainty; and regularly it is to be reserv'd out of a corporeal Inheritance, whereunto the Grantor may have Recourse to distrain, and not granted out of a Common, Piscary, &c. or such like incorporeal Inheritances; but as to incorporeal Inheritances, the Reservation may be good by Way of Contract, to have Action of Debt. 1 Inst. 47, 143. A Grant of a Rent out of a Hundred, is void; for the Rent cannot issue out of it, nor doth an Assise lie for it, because it cannot be put in View: And a Fair is but a Franchise, out of which a Rent may not be reserved. 5 Rep. 3, 4. A Rent may be reserved out of a Reversion or Remainder of Lands; for the apparent Possibility that they may come in Possession. Cro. Eliz. 792. But the Profits of the Land, which are the Thing it self, may not be reserved as Rent; notwithstanding the Rent be out of the Profits. 1 Inst. 206. Rents are to be reserved to the Lessor or Feoffor, &c. it being a Maxim in Law, that the Rent must be reserved to him from whom the Land moveth. 1 Inst. 143. There are several Kinds of Rents; as a Fee-farm Rent, Quit-Rent, Rack-Rent, Old Rent, and improv'd Rent, &c. but the common Division of Rents is into three Sorts, viz. Rent-Service, Rent-Charge, and Rent-Seck. Litt. 213. Rent-Service is accompanied with some corporeal Service, as Fealty, &c. and is where upon a Gift in Tail, or Lease for Life, or Years, a Man reserves to himself a certain Rent, whilst the Reversion of the Lands continues in him; this is a most certain Mark to know it to be a Rent-Service, and if this Rent be behind at the Day on which it ought to be paid, the Landlord by the Common Law may distrain for it, without any particular Covenant, &c. If there be no Reversion left in the Grantor, he cannot distrain for the Rent; yet Debt will lie for it as a Sum in Gros, where there is no Reversion. 1 Inst. 87, 141, 142. Litt. 213. 2 Lev. 80. And where an annual Sum is appointed to be paid to a Stranger, it is not a Rent but a Sum in Gros. 1 Leon. 362. Rent-Charge is when a Person by Deed maketh his Estate over to another in Fee, or by Gift in Tail, the Remainder in Fee, or a Lease for Life, Remainder over in Fee, or any other Grant where the whole Estate passeth, and by the same Deed reserveth to him and his Heirs a certain Rent; and covenanteth that if the Rent be behind, it shall be lawful for him and his Heirs to distrain, &c. such a Rent is called a Rent-Charge, because the Lands are charged with such Distress by Force of the Deed, and not by the Common Law, as in the Case of a Rent-Service: It must be a Conveyance in Fee, either in Possession or Remander, or a Grant of the whole Estate, to make a Rent-Charge; for the Reversion is not to be in the Feoffor, as is requisite in the Rent-Service: But if one seised of Land, Grants by Deed an yearly Rent issuing out of it to another Person in Fee, Fee-tail, for Term of Life, or Years, with Clause of Distress, it is a Rent-Charge; also if one seised of Lands in Fee, binds his Goods and Lands for the Payment of an yearly Rent, this is a good Rent-Charge, with Power to distrain: So that a Rent-Charge may be either by Reservation or Grant. Litt. 217, 218. 1 Inst. 143, 144, 147. If a Man hath a Rent-Service or Rent-Charge, and grants it to another by Deed for Life, rendring Rent it is void; because a Rent cannot be charged with another Rent. Kelw. 161. A Rent-Charge, of what Nature soever it be, is grantable over: And a Rent is not a Thing meerly in Action. 1 Inst. 292. 3 Nelf. Abr. 111. Lands are charged with a Rent-Charge, and after the Owner of these Lands makes a Lease thereof, and covenants with the Lessee to save him harmless: If afterwards the Lessee pays the Rent to the Grantee of the Rent-Charge, voluntarily and without Compulsion, per Holt Ch. Just. in such Case he pays it in his own Wrong, and must pay it again to the Lessor; though if he is distrained for the Rent-Charge and his Goods are taken, whereby he is compelled to pay the Rent, it is otherwise, and this is a Breach of the Covenant, and not before. 3 Salk. 109. Rent-Seck, or dry Rent, is where a Man by Deed passeth his Estate to another, and reserves to him and his Heirs a certain Rent; or granteth a Rent issuing out of his Lands, without any Clause of Distress in the Deed: Now he cannot distrain, by Reason he hath not Seisin of the Rent, and no Distress is incident to it, there being no Reversion or particular Charge to enable him to it: But if the King hath a Rent-Seck, he may distrain for it. Litt. 217, 233, 235. An Affise will lie of a Rent-Seck for a Grantee, if he hath had Seisin; but if there hath been no Seisin, it is said he is without Remedy: Non-payment of a Rent-Seck upon Demand is a Denial in Law, whereof the Grantee may have an Affise; provided he hath had Seisin of the Rent before. Cro. Eliz. 505. 2 Lill. Abr. 449. The Difference between a Rent-Charge and a Rent-Seck is, that there is a Clause of Distress annex'd to one, and no such Clause to the other; and therefore the one is a Charge on the Land, but for the other the Grantee hath no Remedy, but to charge the Person of the Grantor in a Writ of Annuity; and he must have Seisin of the Rent, which is to be created by Grant, and not by Devise; also the first Payment that gives Life to the Rent-Seck, ought to be made by the Tenant of the Freehold; likewise he should attorn, or he cannot have Affise. 6 Rep. 56. If a Rent be granted in Fee, with a Clause of Distress only for the Life of the Grantee, there it is a Rent-Charge for his Life, and after his Death his Heirs shall have it as a Rent Seck; though if the Clause of Distress be for Years, then 'tis a Rent-Seck, as well during his Life as afterwards. 7 Rep. 23. 3 Nelf. Abr. 113. To these three Sorts of Rents may be added a Rent reserv'd upon a Lease at Will; called a Rent distrainable of Common Right: And in Action of Debt for Rent upon a Lease at Will, the Plaintiff must set forth, that the Defendant entered and was possessed, and prove it, because the Rent is due only by the Occupation; but on a Lease for Years, the Rent is due on the Contract; and if the Lessee never enters, he must pay the Rent. 1 Inst. 141. 1 Salk. 209. A Man may have a Rent by Prescription; and there are Rents, but not properly called so, reserved by Contract or Deed, which creates them with Clause of Distress, without a Tenure, against the natural Course of the Law; though such Rent is rather a Penalty: In all Cases, by late Statutes, a Landlord may distrain for his Rent upon any Contract. 1 Inst. 144, 213. Litt. 345. Wood's Inst. 185, 598. Rent will not be barred by Fine levied by Tenant in Tail; but remains a collateral Charge on the Land. 2 Lev. 30. And where a Donor grants a Rent out of a Reversion, it may not be barred by Recovery against the Tenant in Tail; though if a Man makes a Gift in Tail, reserving a Rent, it may. Cro. Car. 598. If a Lease for Years, or Life, or Gift in Tail, be made to one with Reservation of Rent; and the Lessor or Donor grant the Reversion over generally to another, the Rent passeth to the Grantee, although no Mention be made of it in the Grant; the Rent being incident to the Reversion: But though a Rent be incident to the Reversion, it is not inseparably incident; the Reversion may be granted, so as not to pass the Rent. 1 Inst. 143, 317. Rents may be devised by Will, in the same Manner as Lands: A Testator seised of Lands in Fee, made a Lease thereof rendring Rent, and afterwards devised the Rent to another; and adjudged, that the Executor and not the Heir shall have it; because 'tis but a Chattel in the Devisee. 2 Cro. 144. Dyer 5. A Lease is made for Years of Land in Fee-simple, rendring Rent to the Lessor, his Executors and Assigns, during the Term; the Heir shall have the Rent, it running with the Reversion: And if a Lessor dies before the Day of Payment of Rent, it shall go to his Heir, as incident to the Reversion; but if it becomes due in the Lessor's Life-time, it will go to the Executors. 12 Rep. 36. 10 Rep. 127. Raym. 213. 2 Saund. 367. If the Lessor dies upon the Day of Payment, and the Rent is unpaid, the Heir shall have it; for the Rent is not due till the last Minute of the Day: But if it be paid that Morning before the Lessor dies, his Executor shall retain it against the Heir. 10 Rep. 127. 1 Inst. 212. One seised of Lands in Fee makes a Lease of the same Land for ten Years, yielding to him and his Heirs a yearly Rent of 20*l.* at the Feast of St. Michael, or within one Month after; now if the Lessor dieth between the Feast of St. Michael and the End of the Month, the Rent must be paid to the Heir, and not the Executor; because this was not due until the End of the Month. 10 Rep. 127. 1 Saund. 287. If a Lease is made for Years, paying a yearly Rent at Michaelmas and Lady-day, or within twelve Days after, it is said the Tenant or Lessee hath twelve Days after the twelve Days, to pay the said Rent; for the twelfth Day after the Feasts was a Day of Payment: But if the Clause in the Lease had been, that if the Rent is behind for the Space of twelve Days next after either of the said Feast-Days of Payment, the Lease to be void, &c. here the Tenant hath but the twelve Days allowed him. 10 Rep. 129. 4 Rep. 27. A Man seised in Fee of Lands, lets them for Years, and reserves a Rent to himself, not to him and his Heirs, the Rent shall determine by his his Death, if he dies within the Term: So if he reserves a Rent to him and his Assigns, the Reservation is good only during his Life. Wood's Inst. 186. Though if he reserves a Rent generally, without shewing to whom it shall go, it will go to his Heirs. 1 Inst. 47. 5 Rep. 111. An Heir shall have the Rent, where he is named in the Grant: And if the Rent is reserved to the Lessor, his Heirs and Assigns, the Assigns of the Reversion shall enjoy it, if the Rent is incident to the Inheritance. 2 Cro. 282. Plowd. 167. 1 Inst. 47. Where a Tenant for Life lets a Lease for Years, if he shall so long live, under certain Rent, and the Tenant for Life dieth before a Quarter-Day, or Day of Payment, the Tenant is discharged of the Rent for that Quarter by the Act of God: But this may be guarded against by dividing the Rent, and making it payable weekly, &c. tho' it be not usually received otherwise than quarterly; or by Covenant in the Lease, to oblige the Tenant to pay the Executors of the Lessor for so much of the Profits as shall be received) in Proportion to the whole Rent till his Death, if he die before any Day of Payment. 10 Rep. 127, 129. Without this Care, the Tenant may receive the Profits of the Lands and detain the Rent too, by quitting the Estate upon the Death of his Landlord, who did not live till the Rent was due; and thereby barring those in Remainder and Reversion, &c. of the Rent, because he was not their Tenant at the Day of Payment: And this has been often done by the Tenants of Bishops and Parsons, and of Widows endowed, or having Jointures of Land for Life, &c. If a Rent upon a Lease for Years of Land is reserv'd and made payable at four Quarter-Days, the Lessor may have Action of Debt after the first Day of Failure; for every Quarter's Rent is a several Debt, and distinct Actions may be brought for each Quarter, and it is not like Debt for Part of the Money on Contract. 5 Rep. 81. 10 Rep. 128. 2 Vent. 129. Thus it is of a Covenant or Promise to pay 100 l. at five several Days, after the first Default; though if one leaseth a Stock of Cattle, or other personal Goods, and the Rent is to be paid at several Days, the Lessor must stay till all the Days are expired, because it is all but one personal Contract. 4 Rep. 94. 1 Inst. 292. An Action for one Quarter's Rent, when two Quarters were due, so that the Plaintiff sued for less than was his due, without shewing how the Rest was satisfied, which 'twas objected the Law would not allow, has been adjudged good on Demurrer, every Quarter being a several Debt; but not if it appears by the Plaintiff's own shewing that Rent for a whole Year is due, and he brings an Action only for Half a Year, &c. 2 Vent. 129. 3 Nels. Abr. 117. In Debt for Rent, the Plaintiff demands more in his Declaration than is due, he may remit Parr, and have Judgment for the Residue. 2 Lill. 449. Action of Debt may be brought for Rent due for a Copyhold and Freehold together. 3 Lev. 39. Cro. Eliz. 851. Also for Rent upon a Lease of Land, and a Flock of Sheep. 3 Lev. 150. Assignee of Rent upon a Lease for Years, shall have Debt for it. 1 Lev. 22. And Covenant for Rent lies against the Lessee after an Assignment, by the Grantee in Reversion; and this, although Notice and Acceptance of the Rent had been pleaded, as it is upon an express Covenant. 3 Lev. 233. A Lessee for Years rendring Rent, assign'd his Term in Parcel of the Land, and that Assignee made another Assignment of that Parcel; and it was held, that the Lessor might have an Action of Debt against the first Lessee for the whole Rent, because the Privy of Contract remain'd between them, and that the Rent should not be apportioned. Dyer 4. 2 Leon. 121. If a Lease be made of three Acres of Land of equal Value, paying such a Rent, and afterwards the Lessor grants the Reversion of one Acre to another, the Grantee shall have the proportionable Rent, for though 'tis but one Lease and one Rent, yet because the Reversion is severable the Rent shall attend upon it and be likewise severable. 8 Rep. But in a Lease of a Warren which extended into three Villis, where the Lessor granted the Reversion of that Part which lay in one of the Villis to another, and the Lessee attorn'd; adjudg'd that the Grantee shall not have any Part of the Rent, nor the Grantor neither, because an intire Contract cannot be apportioned, and therefore the Rent is determined. Moor 115. Action of Debt was brought for Rent on a Lease of three several Acres of Land, for three several Terms, paying Rent pro Terminis predictis. And it was insisted, that the Rent could not issue out of all, because they were several Terms; but the Court ruled, that it was an intire Lease, and that the Rent issued out of all the Lands; and if one of the Terms determines, it shall be paid out of the Residue. Dalif. 139. The Husband after the Wife's Death is liable to pay the Rent in arrear, upon a Lease to the Wife: And any Man who in Right of his Wife, shall have any real Estate in Rents, &c. which shall be due and in arrear at her Death, may after her Death bring Debt for those Arrears. 1 Lev. 25. 4 Rep. 50. An Action of Debt lies for Rent in arrear upon a Lease for Life, or Years; at Common Law it lay not on Leases for Life, but now by Statute it may be brought. 8 Ann. c. 17. Debt may be brought for Part of Rent due, and a Distress taken for the other Part; so as to make both the Person and Land liable: If Tenant in Fee, or in Tail die, his Executor may have Action of Debt by the Stat. 32 H. 8. for Rent in arrear, or he may distrain; but before this Act the Executor had no Remedy at Common Law: So it was in the Case of a Tenant pur auter Vie, for his Executor had no Remedy till the Death of Cestui que Vie; and now he may distrain or have an Action of Debt for the Rent arrear. 1 Cro. 471. 3 Salk. 333. If Tenant for Life die, his Executor might bring Action of Debt for the Rent in arrear, and this was his Remedy at Common Law; but a new Remedy is given by this Statute, and that is to distrain: Though if there be a Grantee of a Rent for twenty Years, if he so long live, and there is Rent in arrear, and then the Grantee dies; his Executor cannot distrain for the Arrears within the Statute, but must keep to his Remedy at Common Law. 3 Salk. 304. Where the Lord gain'd a Rent of the Tenant by Incroachment, upon a Distress taken for it, the Tenant could not help himself in Replevin, before the Statute 32 H. 8. c. 3. because he could not traverse the Tenure; but was compell'd to bring the Writ Ne injuste vexes against the Lord, and there he might traverse the Tenure: Since that Statute, the Lord in this Avowry must alledge Seisin of the Rent for forty Years past; which the Tenant may traverse. 4 Rep. 8. 10 Rep. 88. 9 Rep. 33. In Debt for Rent upon a Lease for Years, the Defendant pleaded an Invasion by Enemies, Enemies, who drove him and his Cattle from the Lands demised, so that he could not enjoy the same; but it was adjudged against him; for he did not plead that the Army were all Aliens and unknown: And if a Man covenants to pay Rent, and it happens that the Lands are overflowed with Water, he is still chargeable with the Rent, because he might have provided against this Accident by his Contract; and though there was no express Covenant in this Lease to pay the Rent, the Reservation is a Covenant in Law, and a Duty is created by it, and the Law will not protect him against his own Agreement. Style 47. If no Place is appointed for Payment of Rent, the Law appoints it to be upon the Land. 4 Rep. 72. Demand of Rent is also to be on the Land, &c. and to warrant a Distress, the Demand may be at any Time after due; but it is not so for Re-entry. 1 Inst. 201. Dyer 25. Tender of the Rent, which must be the whole Rent due, may be upon any Part of the Lands let. Ibid. Acceptance of Rent, in some Cases, will give Affirmance to a voidable Lease, and bar Entries for Conditions broken, &c. Vide the Heads.

Rental, A Roll wherein the Rents of a Manor are written and set down, and by which the Lord's Bailiff collects the same: It distinguishes the Lands and Tenements, and the Names of the Tenants, the several Rents arising, and for what Time, usually a Year. Comp. Court Keep. 475.

Rents of Assise, The certain Rents of Freeholders, and ancient Copyholders, so called, because they were assised, and different from others that were uncertain, paid in Corn, &c. 2 Inst. 19. Rents resolute are such Rents as were anciently payable to the Crown from the Lands of Abbies and Religious Houses; and after the Dissolution of the Abbey Lands which were demised to others, the said Rents were still reserved to the Crown: They are reckoned among the Fee-farm Rents, to be sold by the Stat. 22 Car. 2. c. 6.

Reparatione facienda, Is a Writ that lies in divers Cases; one whereof is where there are Tenants in Common or Jointenants of a House, &c. which is fallen to Decay, and one of them is willing to repair it, but the others are not: In this Case the Party willing to repair the same, shall have this Writ against the others. F. N. B. 127. And if a Man have a House adjoining to my House, and he suffer his House to lie in Decay to the Annoyance of my House; I may have a Writ against him to repair his House: So if a Person have a Passage over a Bridge, and another ought to repair the Bridge, who suffers it to fall to Decay, &c. New Nat. Br. 281.

Repastum, A Repast or Meal of Meat given to servile Tenants, when they labour'd for their Lord. Paroch. Antiq. 401.

Repeal, (From the Fr. Rappel, i. e. Revocatio) Signifies the same with revoke; as the Repealing of a Statute is the Revoking or Disannulling it. Raft. A Deed or Will may not stand good as to Part, and be repealed for the Rest. Style 241. And a Defendant in a Suit cannot repeal or revoke his Warrant of Attorney, given to an Attorney to appear for him, &c. 2 Lill. Abr. 452.

Repleader, (Replacitare) Is to plead that again which was once pleaded before. Broke. On an immaterial Issue in a Cause, Repleader may be awarded; and Repleader is to be had where the Pleading hath not brought the Issue in Question, which was to be tried: Also if a Verdict be given where there was no Issue join'd, there must be a Repleader to bring the Matter to Trial, &c. 2 Lill. Abr. 460. In Debt on a Sheriff's Bond, for the Defendant's Appearance in B. R. upon the Return of the Writ, the Defendant pleaded that he had appeared secundum, &c. and upon this they were at Issue; and there being a Verdict for the Plaintiff, a Repleader was allow'd, because the Appearance was not triable by a Jury, but by the Record. 1 Leon. 90. 3 Nelf. Abr. 123. It was held by the Court of B. R. that at Common Law, a Repleader was granted before Trial, because a Verdict did not cure an immaterial Issue; but that now a Repleader ought never to be awarded before Trial, because the Fault in the Issue may be help'd by the Statutes of Feoffails: That if a Repleader is denied where it should be granted, or e converso, 'tis Error; and the Judgment in Repleader is general, (viz.) Quod Partes replacitent: They must begin again at the first Fault, which occasioned the immaterial Issue; if the Declaration and the Bar, and the Replication be all ill, they must begin de novo; but if the Bar be good, and the Replication ill, they must begin at the Replication; and no Costs are allow'd on either Side; and a Repleader cannot be awarded after a Default. Trin. 2 Ann. 2 Salk. 579. Though a Repleader is allow'd after a Verdict; it has been adjudg'd not to be awarded after a Demurrer: (But a Repleader hath formerly been granted after a Demurrer, and likewise after the Demurrer argued) and that a Repleader can never be awarded after a Writ of Error; but only after Issue join'd, &c. Latch. 147. 3 Lev. 440. Mod. Ca. 102. See the Form of a Repleader. Lutw. 1622.

Replegiare, Is to redeem a Thing detained or taken by another, by putting in legal Sureties. See Replevin.

Replegiare de averiis, A Writ brought by one whose Cattle are distrain'd, or put in the Pound upon any Cause by another Person, on Surety given to the Sheriff to prosecute or answer the Action at Law. F. N. B. 68. Reg. Orig. Stat. 7 H. 3. cap. 4.

Replevin, (Plevina, à Replegiare) Is a Remedy grounded and granted upon a Distress, being a Re-deliverance of the Thing distrained to remain with the first Possessor, on Security or Pledges given by him to try the Right with the Distrainer, and to answer him in a Course of Law. 1 Inst. 145. If one doth distrain another's Cattle or Goods for Rent, Service, Damage-feasant, &c. the Owner, upon giving Security to the Sheriff that he will pursue his Action against the Party distraining, and return the Cattle or Goods again, if the Taking shall be adjudg'd lawful, may have a Writ of Replevin or Replegiari facias; whereby the Sheriff is commanded to return the Cattle or Goods to the Owner, 'till the Right of the Distress is determined: And the Person that is distrain'd is to be Plaintiff in the Replevin, and the Person distraining the Defendant or Avowant; for his Justification of the Distress is term'd an Avowry. 1 Inst. 268. Replevins are by Writ at Common Law; or upon Plaint in the Sheriff's Court by Statute, for the Party's more speedy having again of his Cattle and Goods distrained; and the Sheriff ought to take two Sorts of Pledges, one by the Common Law, viz. Plegii de Prosequendo; and another by the Statute, i. e. Plegii de Retorno Habendo: And Replevin lies either in the the King's Bench or Common Pleas, by Writ; also it lieth in the County-Court, and Court-Baron by Plaint; and a Hundred-Court may hold Plea of Replevins, but they are not to be granted out of Court. 1 Inst. 145. Dyer 246. If the Cattle or Goods are not delivered upon a first Replevin, the Party distrained shall have an Alias and a Pluries Replevin. F. N. B. 69. The Sheriff may act by Virtue of the Writ of Replevin, or ex Officio by Precept to his Bailiff: And the Sheriff may take a Plaint on the Statutes, and make a Replevin presently, and enter it in the County-Court afterwards. 2 Inst. 139. 52 H. 3. c. 21. By the Statute 52 H. 3. If Beasts are taken and wrongfully with-holden, the Sheriff upon Complaint may deliver them, if they were not taken within Liberties: And if within Liberties, and the Bailiffs thereof will not deliver them, the Sheriff shall cause them to be delivered in Replevin. The Stat. Westm. 2. 13 Ed. 1. c. 2. enacts, That Lords of Hundreds or Courts-Baron, shall have Power to hold Plea of Replevin; and Sheriffs, Bailiffs, &c. are to take Pledges of the Plaintiff to prosecute his Suit, and return the Distress, if it be awarded; or they shall answer the Lord for the Price of the Cattle; and if a Bailiff is not able to restore them, his Superior shall do it. By 1 Ph. & Mar. c. 12. the Sheriff at his first County-Court, within two Months after he has his Patent, is to depute and proclaim in the Shire-Town, Deputies to make Replevins, &c. The 21 H. 8. c. 19. ordains, that upon a Replevin sued, an Avowry may be made by the Lord, or Cognisance and Justification by his Bailiff, &c. on the Land holden of the same Lord, without naming any Person certain to be Tenant thereof; and the like Law is upon every Writ sued of second Deliverance: In a Replevin Damages and Costs are given the Defendant, such as the Plaintiff would have had if he had recovered in the Action, &c. By the 17 Car. 2. c. 7. In Replevin, &c. if the Plaintiff be nonsuit, the Defendant may make Suggestion in the Nature of an Avowry for Rent, and on Prayer a Writ shall be awarded to the Sheriff to inquire of the Sum in arrear, and the Value of the Distress; and on the Return thereof, the Defendant shall recover the Arrears, or the Value of the Distress with Costs, &c. And by 4 & 5 Ann. c. 16. The Plaintiff in a Replevin, with Leave of Court, may plead as many several Matters thereto as he shall think necessary for his Defence: Provided, if any such Matter upon Demurrer join'd shall be adjudg'd insufficient, Costs shall be given at the Discretion of the Court; or if a Verdict be found upon any Issue for the Plaintiff or Defendant, Costs shall also be given, unless the Judge certify that the Party had a probable Cause to plead such Matter: These two last Statutes relate to Replevins in the Courts at Westminster. The most usual Method to obtain a Replevin is by Plaint: But one cannot claim Property in a Replevin by his Bailiff or Servant, where Replevin is by Plaint in the County-Court; though one may claim Property in a Court of Record, by a Bailiff or Servant. 1 Lev. 90. And the Action of Replevin may be removed out of the County-Court, by Pone, if it was sued out by Writ; and by Recordare, where the Replevin is upon Plaint, returnable into B. R. or C. B. there to be tried. F. N. B. 69, 70. The Plaintiff in Replevin must have a general or special Property in the Goods, for he who claims no Property in the Thing distrained shall not have Re- plevin; but if the Defendant in the Replevin claims the Property, the Sheriff cannot proceed till it is inquired into and decided before him by the Writ Proprietate Probanda, whereon if found for the Defendant, he can proceed no further, as he may if found for the Plaintiff; though the Plaintiff may afterwards replevy by Writ, and if the Sheriff returns the Property claim'd, it shall be put in Issue and tried in C. B. 1 Inst. 145. Finch 316, 317. If any Thing touching the Freehold comes in Question, the Sheriff likewise must proceed no further. Wood's Inst. 553. When a Plaint in Replevin is removed into C. B. &c. and the Plaintiff makes Default, or is Nonsuit, before or after Declaration, or Judgment is given against him, the Defendant in Replevin shall have the Writ Retorno Habendo of the Goods taken in Distress; so if he pursue not his Action of Replevin, &c. And the Plaint being removed, if the Plaintiff in Replevin is nonsuited before or after Avowry made, the Defendant may again distrain his Cattle for the same Cause he distrained the first; yet the Plaintiff may sue out a Writ of Second Deliverance upon the same Record, which will revive the first Suit: And after this Second Deliverance and Trial thereupon, or if the Plaintiff be again Nonsuit upon a Declaration, then there must be awarded a Returnum irreplevibile to the Defendant, and then he may make his Avowry, or Plea in Justification of his Distress to ground a Writ to inquire of Damages; or he may hold the Beasts till he is satisfied. Raym. 33. E. N. B. 72. Wood's Inst. 553. If the Defendant makes Default, the Plaintiff shall have Judgment to recover all in Damages; as well the Value of the Cattle, as Damages for the Taking of them, and his Costs. F. N. B. 69. Mich. 8 H. 8. No Writ of Second Deliverance lies in Replevin after a Judgment upon a Demurrer, or after a Verdict given; but in these Cases the Judgment must be entered with a Return irreplevibile; though on a Nonsuit a Second Deliverance will lie, because there is no Determination of the Matter, and there a Writ of Second Deliverance lieth to bring the Matter into Question: But in the Case of a Demurrer and Verdict, the Matter is determined by Law. Mich. 7 W. B. R. 2 Lill. Abr. 457. The Plaintiff in a Second Deliverance was nonsuited, and a Writ of Inquiry of Damages awarded, and also a Retorno Habendo, upon which the Sheriff return'd Averia Elongata; whereupon a Withernam was granted, and all the other of the Plaintiff's Cattle were delivered to the Defendant; and some Time after the Plaintiff came into Court, and paid the Damages and Costs, on which the Court granted him a Special Writ to restore his Cattle; but there was no Allowance for the Keeping of the Cattle, it being intended their Labour was worth the Charges. 3 Leon. 323. Litt. Rep. 54. If Cattle distrain'd are put into a Castle, the Sheriff must nevertheless make Replevin and Deliverance; and if Occasion be, he may take the Possession or Power of the County with him for that Purpose: And where the Cattle are driven out of the County, &c. so that the Sheriff cannot make Replevin, a Writ of Withernam shall go to the Sheriff to take so many of the Distrainer's or Defendant's Cattle, &c. 1 Roll. Abr. 565. A Defendant in Replevin may plead Property in the Cattle in a Stranger, either in Bar or in Abatement; and where the Plea in Abatement is to the Point of the Action, as Property is, there the Defendant shall have a Return without making an Avowry for it; for whether the Property was in him or a Stranger, he ought to have a Return, because he had the Possession of the Cattle, which were illegally taken from him by the Plaintiff in Replevin: But where the Plea in Abatement is of a collateral Matter, he must make an Avowry to have the Return. 1 Salk. 94. 3 Nelf. 129. The general Issue in Replevin is Non Cepit; but the Defendant may plead Property in himself, in Bar or Abatement to the Action; though if he plead Property in a Stranger, he must conclude in Abatement, and 'tis to be observ'd, that upon the general Issue Property cannot be given in Evidence, therefore it must be pleaded there. Ventr. 249. 3 Salk. 307. Replevin was brought for Taking and Detaining a Mare and Colt; the Defendant pleaded Not guilty as to the Taking, infra sex annos ultimo elapsos; and upon Demurrer it was insisted, that the Plea was good, because in Effect 'tis Non Cepit, and if he is not guilty of the Taking, he could not be guilty of the Detaining; and if this Plea be not allowed, the Statute of Limitations can never be a Bar in Replevins; but the Plea was adjudg'd ill, because it doth not answer the Detaining, and probably the Cattle might be pounded where the Plaintiff could not come to replevy them, which is an illegal Detainer, tho' the Taking might be legal. Sid. 81. The Plaintiff is to lay his Replevin in the Detinuit or Detinet; if in the Detinet, the Plaintiff hath his Goods again, and Damages for the Taking; if 'tis brought in the Detinuit, he shall only recover for the wrongful Taking, for that Word being in the preterperfect Tense, implies that the Plaintiff had his Goods again: So that if in Replevin the Writ be in the Detinet, and the Plaintiff declare in the Detinuit, the Declaration is ill, the Variance being material. 2 Lutw. 1147, 1151. A Replevin ought to be certain, in setting forth the Number and Kinds of Cattle distrained, or it will not be good; because if it be uncertain the Sheriff cannot tell how to make Deliverance of the Cattle, if a Writ be directed to him to do it. Trin. 23 Car. B. R. And in a Declaration in Replevin for Taking of Cattle, if the Time and Place of Taking be not named, the Declaration is naught for Uncertainty: The Declaration must be not only of a Taking in a Vill or Town, but in quodam loco vocat, &c. or the same will not be good on Demurrer; but such a Declaration in Action of Trespass is good. Hob. 16. 3 Salk. 308. In Replevin for Taking several of his Beasts in quibusdam locis called A. and B. upon a Demurrer to this Declaration it was held ill; the Plaintiff ought to shew how many were taken in one Place, and how many in another Place. Litt. 37. And if the Plaintiff alledge two Places, and the Defendant answers only one, it is a Discontinuance. 1 Salk. 94. Plaintiff in Replevin declared, that the Defendant took his Cattle apud R. omitting the Words in quodam loco ibidem; and on a Demurrer it was ruled, that the Effect of this Suit is the Taking the Cattle, and not the shewing the Place where they were taken; for the Plaintiff might not know the Place, &c. and in this Action the Avowant is Actor, and best knows where the Cattle were taken, and therefore it ought to be shewed by him. 1 Brownl. 176. 3 Nelf. Abr. 125. Count in a Replevin, for Breaking of the Plaintiff's Doors and Locks, and Carrying away his Goods and Cattle; the Defendant avows for a Rent-Charge, and says nothing of the Breaking of the Doors, &c. Per Cur. He need not answer it in this Action; though in Action of Trespass, he must. Trin. 7 W. 3. B. R. 2 Lill. Abr. 456. In a Replevin for Taking of four Beasts, the Defendant had Judgment for a Return, and he then surmised that forty Beasts were taken and impounded, and were not all delivered back, and pray'd that the Sheriff should make a Deliverance to him of forty, &c. But resolv'd, that the Plaintiff having declared but of four Beasts taken, and he the Defendant agreed that Four only were taken by Avowing for them, he was therefore without Remedy: Yet he might in his Avowry have shewn that forty Beasts were taken, and have avowed for all, and prayed a Return of all of them, although the Plaintiff had not declared for so many. Cro. Jac. 611. In Replevin, the Avowry was for Rent arrear, and the Avowant had Judgment; and in a Writ of Error brought in B. R. the Error assign'd was, that Part of the Rent became due after the Distress taken, viz. the Distress was made three Days before Michaelmas, and the Defendant avowed for Michaelmas Rent; and it was adjudg'd ill, being for more than was due at the Time of the Distress taken: The Avowant ought to have abated his Avowry quoad the Michaelmas Rent, and taken Judgment for the Rest; but he got the Roll amended in C. B. and so it was here. 2 Salk. 580. If the Jury in trying of an Action of Replevin do not inquire as well of the Value of the Cattle distrained for Rent, that they may be sold according to the Statute, as also of the Rent due, there shall be no Writ of Inquiry to supply it. 1 Lev. 255. A Verdict was found in Replevin, Part for the Plaintiff with Damages and Costs; and Part for the Defendant: But in Avowry for Rent, Part was found for the Plaintiff and Damages and Costs, and Part for the Avowant; and adjudg'd, that the finding Damages and Costs for the Plaintiff was void, but that Part being found for the Avowant he shall have a Return with Damages and Costs. Lutw. 1194. Cro. Jac. 473. It is a proper Conclusion of a Plea in Replevin, &c. to say Unde petit judicium & return. Averiorum; without saying any Thing of Damages, because they are given by the Statute: And the Defendant must suggest Matter to have a Return, &c. which Suggestion is only to bring his Case within the Statute of H. 8. for Damages; for before that Statute at Common Law the Defendant had no Damages; and this Suggestion being for a particular Purpose, is not traversable. 1 Salk. 94. A Second Deliverance may be a Superfedas to the Return. Habend. but 'tis not so to the Writ of Inquiry for Damages; because they are not given for the Thing for which the Defendant avowed, but by Virtue of the Stat. 21 H. 8. as a Recompence to the Avowant for his Expence and Trouble. Ibid. In Action of Replevin, the Defendant avowed for Damage-feasant, and had a Verdict; adjudg'd, that he shall have a Return. Habend. for the Cattle, and a Capias ad satisfaciend. for the Damages: But if the Party tender the Costs and Damages, the Sheriff ought not afterwards to execute the Return. Habend. And if for Want of such Tender, the Sheriff doth execute it, and after the Costs and Damages are paid, a Writ Si constare poterit, &c. lies, upon suggesting that the Costs are paid, to deliver the Distress, &c. 3 Cro. 162. 3 Salk. 54. If a Man take Cattle for Damage-feasant, and the other renders tenders Amends, and he refuseth it, &c. on a Replevin sued for the Cattle, Damages shall be recovered by the Plaintiff for the Detaining of them; and not for the Taking, which was lawful. New Nat. Br. 154, 155. And if a Lord distrains his Tenant's Cattle wrongfully, and afterwards the Cattle return back unto the Tenant, the Tenant shall have a Replevin against the Lord for those Cattle, and recover Damages for the wrongful Distraining of them; because he cannot have Action of Trespass against his Lord for that Distrain. Ibid. A Replevin is triable by either Plaintiff or Defendant, without Proviso: And if a Man do distrain Cattle in one County, and drive the Cattle into another County, the Party may sue a Replevin in which of the Counties he will; but not in both the Counties. Ibid. Replevin may be had, where Cattle are taken that agist or manure Land; if one distrain a Cow which afterwards hath a Calf, &c. it may be brought for both: Also it lies for Wood cut, and any Goods or Chattels; for generally whatever is distrain'd, may be replevied: But no Replevin lieth of Goods taken beyond the Seas, though brought afterwards into England. Show. 91. A Replevin may not be had against the King, nor where he is Party, or the Taking was in his Right. 3 H. 7. An Infant may bring Replevin; and Executors or Administrators shall have it de bonis Testatoris: Husband and Wife shall join in a Replevin, for a Distress taken on the Wife's Lands; and for Goods and Chattels taken of the Wife when sole, the Husband alone may have it: If the Beasts of several Men are taken, they must have Replevin severally, and not join; unless they are Jointenants or Tenants in Common. Land Purch. Compan. 174, 175. If a Man whose Goods are distrained thinks himself wrong'd, and would have the Goods or Cattle restored, he may obtain them by Replevin; but if he be only desirous of a reasonable Satisfaction for them, he may bring an Action of Trespass or Trover, &c. See Avowry.

Replication. (Replicatio) Is an Execution or Answer made by the Plaintiff in a Suit to the Defendant's Plea: And it is also that which the Complainant replies to the Defendant's Answer in Chancery, &c. West's Symb. par. 2. The Replication is to contain Certainty, and vary from the Declaration, but must pursue and maintain the Cause of the Plaintiff's Action; otherwise it will be a Departure in Pleading, and going to another Matter. 1 Inst. 354. Though as a faulty Bar may be made good by the Replication; so sometimes a Replication is made good by a Rejoinder, but if it wants Substance, a Rejoinder can never help it. 2 Lill. Abr. 462. A Replication being intire, and ill in Part, is ill in the Whole: But if there be three Replications, and one of them is superfluous; and the other Two sufficient, and the Defendant demurs generally, the Plaintiff may have Judgment upon those which are sufficient. 2 Saund. 17. 1 Saund. 338. Where the Defendant pleads in Bar, and the Plaintiff replies insufficiently; if the Defendant demurs specially upon the Replication, and the Action is of such a Nature that a Title is set forth in the Declaration or Count, as in a Formedon, &c. Judgment may be given for the Plaintiff upon the insufficient Bar of the Defendant: And where the Title doth not appear 'till set forth in the Replication, and that is insufficient, there Judgment shall be had for the Defendant for the ill Replication. Gorb. 138. 1 Leon. 75. 3 *Nelf. Report. (From the Lat. Reportare) Is a publick Relation, or bringing again to Memory, of Cases judicially argued, debated, resolv'd or adjudg'd in any of the King's Courts of Justice, with the Causes and Reasons of the same as delivered by the Judges. Co. Litt. 295. There are likewise Reports of another Nature; as when the Chancery, or other Court, refers the Stating some Case, &c. to a Master of Chancery, or other Referee, his Certificate therein is called a Report: Upon which the Court makes an absolute Order. Pract. Solic. 67. A Master in Chancery, having an Order of Reference, is to issue his Summons for the Parties to attend him at a certain Time and Place; when and where they may come with their Counsel, Clerk or Solicitor to defend themselves, and maintain or object against his Report or Certificate, &c. And Masters are to draw their Reports briefly and as succinctly as may be, preserving the Matter clearly for the Judgment of the Court; without Recital of the several Points of the Orders of Reference, or the Debates of Counsel before them; unless it be in Cases doubtful, when they may shortly represent the Reasons which induce them to what they do. Ibid. Reports and Certificates of Masters in Chancery are to be filed with the Register in four Days after the Making and Signing; and to be confirmed by the Court, to which Exceptions may be made, &c. Vide Reference.

Reprisal, (Reprisalia) Is the Retaking of one Thing for another, derived from the Fr. Reprise, i. e. Recaptio, vel Resumptio; and is all one in the Common and Civil Law. King Hen. 4. Enacted, That Application being made to the Keeper of the Privy Seal, by Persons injured in the Loss of Shipping at Sea contrary to Treaties, &c. on Evidence shewn, he shall sign Letters of Request to demand Restitution and Reparation; which if not made in convenient Time, the Lord Chancellor of England is to grant Letters of Reprisal, to obtain the same by Force, and for the Indemnity of the Persons interested: And this is confirmed by the Stat. 4. H. 5. cap. 7. Also there are two Sorts of Reprisals, Ordinary and Extraordinary; the Ordinary Reprisals are to arrest and take the Goods of Merchant Strangers within the Realm; and the other is for Satisfaction out of the Realm, and is under the Great Seal, &c. Lex Mercat. 120. If any Person shall be killed, wounded, spoiled, or any ways damaged in a hostile Manner, in the Territories of any King or Potentate, to whom Letters of Request are transmitted, and no Satisfaction shall be made, there is no Necessity to resort to the ordinary Prosecution, but Letters of Reprisal shall issue forth; and the Prince against whom the same are issued, is obliged to make Satisfaction out of the Estates of the Persons committing the Injuries; and in Case of a Deficiency there, it will then be adjudged a common Debt on his Country. But where Misfortunes happen to Persons, or their Goods, residing in a foreign Country in Time of War, Reprisals are not to be granted: In this Case they must be contented to sit down under the Loss, for they are at their Liberty to relinquish the Place on the Approach of the Enemy, when they foresee the Country is subject to Spoil and Devastation; and if they continue, they must partake of the common Calamity. Lex Mercat. or Merch. Compan. 174, 175. Reprisals may be granted on unjust and illegal Prosecutions abroad; where wrong Judgment is given in Matters not doubtful, which might have been redress'd either by the ordinary or extraordinary Power of the Country or Place, and which was apparently deny'd, &c. See Letters of Marque.

Reprises, (Fr. Resumptions, or Taking back) Is used for Deductions and Payments out of a Manor or Lands, as Rent-Charges, Annuities, Fees of Stewards, &c. And therefore when we speak of the clear yearly Value of a Manor or Estate in Land, we say it is so much per Annum ultra Reprises, besides all Reprises.

Reprive, (from the Fr. Repris) Signifieth to take back or suspend a Prisoner from the Execution of the Law for that Time. Terms de Ley 527. Every Judge that hath Power to order an Execution, hath Power to grant a Reprive; and oftentimes Execution is staid upon Condition of Transportation. But no Prisoner convicted of any Felony, for which he cannot have his Clergy, at the Sessions of the Old Baily for London and Middlesex, &c. ought to be reprived but in open Sessions; and not otherwise, without the King's express Warrant, not by Order of any Justices of Goal-Delivery. Kel. 4. 2 Hawk.

P. C. 463. Wood's Inst. 662. If a Woman is condemn'd for Treason or Felony, and she is found by an Inquest or Jury of Matrons impanelled by the Sheriff, &c. to be Quick with Child, Execution shall be respited, and the Woman reprived 'till her Delivery; though she shall take this Favour but once; and she cannot save her self by this Means from pleading upon her Arraignment, nor from having Judgment pronounc'd against her on her Conviction. S. P. C. 198. H. P. C. 272. Finch 478.

Repugnant, (Repugnans) Is what is contrary to any Thing said before: And Repugnancy in Deeds, Grants, Indisements, Verdicts, &c. will make them void. 3 Nelf. 135. 2 Hawk. P. C.

Reputation, (Reputatio) Is defined by Sir Edw. Coke to be vulgaris Opinio ubi non est veritas; and he tells us that vulgaris Opinio est duplex, viz. Una orta inter graves & Discretos & qua vultum veritatis habet; altera orta inter leves & vulgares homines absque specie veritatis. 4 Rep. 104. That is not Reputation which this or that Man says; but that which generally hath been, and many Men have said or thought. 1 Leon. 15. A little Time is sufficient for the gaining of a Reputation which needs not a very ancient Pedigree to establish it; for general Acceptation will produce a Reputation. 2 Cro. 308. 1 Leon. But it has been held, that common Reputation cannot be intended of an Opinion which is conceived of four or five Years standing; but of long Time. 2 Lill. Abr. 464. And some special Matter must be averr'd to induce a Reputation. Ibid. Land may be reputed Parcel of a Manor; tho' not really so. 1 Ventr. 51. 2 Mod. 69. 3 Nelf. Abr. 137. And there is a Parish and Office in Reputation, &c.

Reputation or Fame, Is under the Protection of the Law, as all Persons have an Interest in their good Name; and Scandal and Defamation are injurious to it, though defamatory Words are not actionable, otherwise than as they are a Damage to the Estate of the Person injured. Wood's Inst. 37.

Request, Of Things to be done: Where one is to do a Collateral Thing, agreed on making a Contract, there ought to be a Request to do it. 2 Lill. Abr. 464. If a Duty is due, it is payable without Request: On a Promise to pay a Duty precedent on Request, there needs no actual Request; but upon a Promise for a Penalty or Collateral Sum, there should be an actual Request, before the Action is brought. Cro. El. 74. 1 Saund. 33. 1 Lev. 289. If a Debt is before a Promise, a Request is not necessary, for then a Request is not any Cause of the Action; though a Promise generally to pay upon Request, the Action arises upon Request and not before. Cro. Jac. 201. 1 Lev. 48. Action of Debt, for Money due on a Bond, may be brought without alledging a special Request; and if the Action is for Debt, not appointed to be paid upon Request, there needs no special Request to be laid in the Declaration; otherwise if it is of a Thing collateral. Cro. Eliz. 229, 523. A Man promises to re-deliver upon Request, such Goods as were delivered to him; if an Action of Detinue is brought, the Plaintiff need not alledge a special Request, because the Action is for the Thing it self: But if an Action of the Case is had for these Goods, then the Request must be specially alledged; as it is not brought for the Thing it self, but for Damages. Sid. 66. 3 Salk. 309. If a Promise is made to pay Money to the Plaintiff upon Request quest, no special Request is required. But where there are mutual Promises between two Persons to pay each other Money upon Request, if they do not perform such an Award; the Request is to be specially alledged. And if there is a Promise to pay Money to a Man upon Request, and he dies before any Request made, it shall be paid to his Executors; but not till the Request is made. 3 Salk. 309. 3 Bulst. 259. When a Person promises to pay a precedent Duty, the general Allegation Licet sapius requisit is sufficient, because there was a Duty without a Promise: As for Instance; If one buys or borrows a Horse, and promises to pay so much upon Request: But where the Promise is collateral, as to pay the Debt of a Stranger upon Request, &c. the Request is Part of the Agreement, and traversable, there being no Duty before the Promise made; and for that Reason the Request must be specially alledged, for the bringing the Action will not be a sufficient Request. Latch. 93. 3 Leon. 200. 1 Saund. 35. 3 Salk. 308. If a Debt or Duty arises either upon Bond or Contract, Licet sapius requisitus is good; contra where it becomes a Duty by the Request it self, when it is to be alledged specially. 3 Nelf. Abr. 144. It has been adjudged, that where the Thing is a Duty before any Request made, a Request is only alledged to aggravate Damages, and such Request is not traversable; but if the Request makes the Duty, as in Assumpsit to do such a Thing upon Request, there the Day, &c. of the Request ought to be alledged, because it is traversable. Palm. 389. An Assumpsit to do a Thing upon Request, a Request must be alledged; and a special Request must be laid to be made such a Day, at such a Place; where the Duty is not upon Bond, &c. If a Request is to be specially made, the Day and Year when made should be specially alledged. 1 Lutw. 231. 2 Lill. Abr. 466. Cro. Car. 280. But where a Person is not restrained to make the Request by a Time limited, if made at any Time during his Life, it has been held to be good. Cro. Eliz. 136. And a Request at any other Time than named may be given in Evidence. Sid. 268. A Defendant pleaded the Statute of Limitations in an Action on a Promise to pay so much on Request, &c. And upon Demurrer the Plaintiff had Judgment; for though the Promise was within the Statute, yet the Duty was not, being no Duty till the Request was made, and the Action being then brought within Time after the Breach, 'tis good. Cro. Car. 98. At a Trial the Defendant would have the Plaintiff prove the Request; but it was ruled that he need not; for not being traversed in the Plea, 'tis admitted. 1 Lev. 166. In a special Action on the Case for keeping a Passage stopp'd up, so that the Plaintiff could not come and cleanse his Gutter, &c. after a Verdict for the Plaintiff, it was objected in Arrest of Judgment, that the Plaintiff ought to have set forth a Request to the Defendant to open the Passage; and this was held a good Objection after a Demurrer, but not after a Verdict. 1 Mod. 27. Unreasonable Requests are not regarded in Law; and there is no Difference where a Thing is to be done upon Request, and reasonable Request. Dyer 218. Cro. Car. 176. 3 Nelf. Abr. 140. 142.

Resceit, (Receptio) Is an Admission or Receiving a third Person to plead his Right in a Cause commenced between two other Persons; as where an Action is brought against Tenant for Life or Years, or any other particular Tenant, and he makes Default, in such Case he in the Reversion may move that he may be received to defend his Right, and to plead with the Demandant: Resceit is likewise applied to the Admittance of a Plea, where the Controversy is between two Persons. Broke 205. Co. Lit. 192. 3 Nelf. Abr. 146. He in Reversion may come into Court, and pray to be received in a Suit against his particular Tenant. Stat. 13. R. 2. cap. 17. And 'tis said a Wife shall be received, in Default of her Husband. 2 Lill. Abr. 467. But Resceit is admitted only for them who have Estates depending upon particular Estates for Life, Tenants by the Curtesy, or after Possibility, &c. and not for him in Remainder after an Estate-tail, which is perdurable. 1 And. 133. And Husband and Wife were Tenants for Life, Remainder to another in Fee; a Formedon was brought against the Husband, who made Default after Default; and thereupon the Wife pray'd that she might be received to defend her Right, but it was denied by the Court; because if the Demandant should recover against her Husband, it would not bar her Right if she survived him, and therefore it would be to no purpose. Then he in Remainder prayed to be received, which at first the Court doubted, by Reason if the Husband should recover, he might falsify such Recovery; and because his Estate did not depend upon the Estate of the Husband alone, but upon the Estate of Husband and Wife; but at last he was received. 1 Leon. 86.

Resceit of Homage, (Receptio Homagii) The Lord's receiving Homage of his Tenant, at his Admission to the Land. Kitch. 148.

Rescous, (Rescussus, from the Fr. Rescousse, i. e. Liberatio) Is an illegal Taking away and setting at Liberty of a Distress taken, or a Person arrested by Process or Course of Law: And where a Man has taken a Distress, and the Cattle distrained as he is driving them to the Pound happen to go into the House of the Owner; if he that took the Distress demand them of the Owner, and he delivers them not, this is a Rescous in Law. Co. Lit. Also it is used for a Writ which lies for this Fact, called Breve de Rescussu, F. N. B. 101. Reg. Orig. 105. Rescous is a forcible Resistance and a Rescuing of any Thing, or of a Person arrested, and procuring an Escape against Law. 1 Inst. 160. And there must be a Distress, or an Arrest, or there cannot be a Rescous. Wood's Inst. 191. If a Distress is taken without Cause, as where no Rent is due; or if one distrains out of his Fee, or in the Highway, or distrains Averia Caruca, where there is a sufficient Distress besides; or if the Landlord distrains any Thing that is not distrainable, one may make Rescous: And this may be done by the Tenant, when any Thing of his is wrongfully distrained; or by a Stranger, when his Goods are distrained without just Cause, &c. But if the Distress was made upon good Cause, the Owner cannot make Rescous as they are going to the Pound; and notwithstanding the Distress be without Cause, if it be imimpounded, the Owner cannot break into the Pound to rescue the Distress. 1 Inst. 47, 160. 4 Rep. 11. Where the Owner of the Cattle, before Distress, tenders his Rent, and a Distress is afterwards taken, it is wrongful, and the Tenant may make Rescous; though if he tender after the Distress, it is otherwise; he cannot make Rescous, the Taking being lawful. 1 Inst. 160. 2 Inst. 107. 8 Rep. 147. A Tender of Amends to a Bailiff is not good; for he cannot deliver the Distress when once taken. Wood 192. In Rescous, the Plaintiff declared that he had distrained forty Sheep of the Defendant's, and eighty Sheep of another Person's Damage feasant, and that the Defendant took, chased and rescued all of them; the Defendant justified the putting his forty Sheep in the Place where, &c. having Right of Common there, and that the Plaintiff de injuria sua propria chased them, and that the Defendant would have taken them from him, but they ran among the other eighty Sheep of the Stranger, and he folded them, and because he could not sever them, he chased them to the Fold, qua est eadem Rescussio: And upon Demurrer the Plaintiff had Judgment, because tho' the Defendant had some Colour to rescue his own Sheep, he had none to rescue the Sheep of the other Person. 2 Cro. 468. Unlawful Rescous of Goods distrained, and Pound-Breaches, incur treble Damages; recoverable by Statute on Action of the Case. 2 W. & M. Goods were levied on a Writ of Fieri facias, and the Sheriff returned that they were rescued from him by A. B. contra voluntatem; adjudged, that no Rescous can be on a Fi. fac. for that lies only on a Capias against the Person himself; but the Party injured may have an Action on the Case against A. B. who made the Rescous. Hetley 145. In Rescous of one arrested, it has been held, that the Plaintiff, at whose Suit an Arrest is made upon mesne Process, may have his Action against the Rescuers; and he cannot bring it against the Sheriff. And where a Person is rescued, taken upon a Capias ad satisfaciend. Action lies for the Plaintiff, as well against the Rescuers as the Sheriff. Cro. Fac. 486. Cro. Car. 109. On Action for an Escape on mesne Process, if the Sheriff pleads a Rescous it shall be good; but not upon an Execution, where the Sheriff may raise the Possesse Comitatus to secure the Prisoner; or when the Prisoner is in Gaol. 2 Lev. 144. 3 Lev. 46. 2 Inst. 105, 193. But a Sheriff return'd a Rescous of the Person whom he had taken by mesne Process; and it was ruled no good Return, for he might upon that Process, raise the Possesse Comitatus. Noy. 40. 2 Cro. 419. 3 Nelf. Abr. 149. The Sheriff cannot return a Rescous made upon a Special Bailiff, not known to the Country; it ought to be upon the Sheriff's known Bailiff. 2 Lill. Abr. 468. And the Return of a Rescous must be, that the Party was rescued out of the Custody of the Sheriff, and not of the Bailiff; though the Fact was that he was rescued out of the Bailiff's Custody; for the Sheriff is the Officer, and the Bailiff is but his Servant; yet a Return of a Rescue out of the Custody of the Sheriff's Bailiff hath been held sufficient. 1 Lev. 214. 2 Lev. 26. And it hath been resolved, that if an Action on the Case is brought for a Rescous, it is well enough for the Plaintiff to declare secundum veritatem facti; but if the Defendant is indicted, it must be secundum veritatem Legis, viz. That the Prisoner was rescued out of the Custody of the Sheriff. 5 Mod. 216. Rescuers may be indicted, or Action may be brought against them; but if on an Indictment of Rescous, the Place where, and Time when the Rescous was made be not express'd, it is not good. Trim. 23 Car. B. R. The Sheriff return'd a Rescous, but did not set forth the Place where it was made; this was held insufficient, though he shewed where the Party was arrested. Dyer 69. Moor 422. See Cro. Fac. 345. And upon a Latitat awarded against a Defendant, the Sheriff return'd a Rescous on such a Day, without mentioning any Place, &c. and adjudged a void Return; because it did not appear that the Arrest or Rescous were within his Jurisdiction. But if it had appeared to be done in the County, it shall be intended within his Bailiwick, tho' within a Liberty in the same County; and in such Case the Rescous had been unlawful. Yelv. 51. An Indictment for a Rescous in B. R. ought not to be quashed, although it be erroneous, except the Party that is indicted for it do personally appear in Court; for he cannot in such Case appear by Attorney, the Offence being criminal. 21 Car. B. R. If the Writ upon which a Defendant is arrested be naught, and Rescous is made; there is no Remedy against the Rescuers. 2 Lill. Abr. 468. But if it is alledged that the Party was lawfully arrested, it shall be intended by a good Warrant, tho' it be not set forth that he was taken by Virtue of any Warrant. And where the Warrant was set forth in Writing, but it was not said sub sigillo sigillat', it was allowed to be good; but in another Case disallowed, because it is no Warrant if not under the Seal of Office. 2 Cro. 472. 3 Nelf. Abr. 149. In Case for a Rescous, Holt, Chief Just. doubted whether an Arrest was lawful, being made by the Bailiff's Servant, and not in his Presence; but said that the Plaintiff must prove his Cause of Action against the Person arrested and rescued: That he must prove the Writ and Warrant, by producing sworn Copies of them; the Manner of the Arrest, that it may appear to the Court to be legal; and in point of Damage, he is to prove the Loss of his Debt, viz. that the Party rescued became insolvent, or could not be re-taken. Mod. Ca. 211. Where a Bailiff hath a Warrant to arrest a Man, and is hindered in the Execution of his Office by another; if there is no actual Arrest, it cannot be a Rescous, but it is a great Contempt of the Court. Ibid. Process of Outlawry lies on the Return of a Rescous; and Peers of the Realm, Spiritual or Temporal, are liable to an Attachment for Rescous, &c. 2 Hawk. P. C. 302, 152. When a Rescous is made, it must be return'd upon the Writ, and then it is proper to move the Court for an Attachment against the Rescuers; and not to grant it on Affidavits: So where the Rescous is return'd to the Filizer, and Process of Outlawry issues, upon which the Rescuers are brought into Court, they shall not be bailed upon Affidavits; but where an Attachment is granted, and they are examined on Interrogatories, upon answering them the Rescuers shall be discharged: It is the Course upon the Return of a Rescous, to set four Nobles Fine upon each Rescuer. 2 Salk. 586. Rescuing a Prisoner in or before the Courts of Justice at Westminster, is liable to Forfeiture of Lands and Goods, and perpetual Imprisonment. And rescuing a Felon lawfully arrested for Felony, is Felony in the Ref-

Rescuers ; and so of Treason, &c. S. P. C. 31. H. P. C. 131. 3 Inst. 141.

Rescussor, The Party that commits such a Rescous. 2 Cro 419.

Rescuer, (Rescure) Is the Re-taking of Lands into the Hands of the King, where a general Livery or Ouster le main was formerly misus'd contrary to the Order of Law. Staundf. Prerog. 26.

Reservation, (Reservatio) A Keeping aside, or Providing ; as when a Man lets or departs with his Land, but reserves or provides for himself a Rent out of it for his own Livelihood ; and sometimes it hath the Force of a Saving or Exception. 1 Inst. 143. Exception is always of Part of the Thing granted in general, and of a Thing in Being : And a Reservation is of a Thing not in Being, but is newly created out of the Lands or Tenements demised ; tho' Exception and Reservation are sometimes used promiscuously. 1 Inst. 47. The proper Place for a Reservation, is next after the Limitation of the Estate ; and a Reservation of Rent may be every two, three or more Years ; as well as Yearly, Half-yearly, Quarterly, &c. 1 Inst. 47. 8 Rep. 71. It must be out of an House, or Lands ; and be made either by the Words Yielding and Paying, &c. or the Word Covenant, which is of both Lessor and Lessee, and therefore makes a Reservation. 1 Roll. Rep. 80. The Reservation of Rent is good, although it is not reserved by apt and usual Words, if the Words are equivalent. Plowd. 120. 3 Nels. Abr. 150. But Reservation of a Rent secundum Ratum, is a void Reservation. 2 Ven. 272. See Reddendum, &c.

Resiant, (Resiantia, from the Fr. Reseant) Signifies a Man's Abode or Continuance in a Place ; whence also comes the Participle Resiant, that is continually dwelling or abiding in any Place : And is all one with Residence ; but that Custom ties this only to Persons Ecclesiastical. Old Nat. Br. 85. Kitch. 33.

Resiant-Rolls, Are Rolls wherein the Resiants of a Tithing, &c. are set down. Comp. Court Keep.

Residence, (Residentia) Is peculiarly used both in the Canon and Common Law, for the Continuance of a Parson or Vicar upon his Benefice : And personal Residence is required of Ecclesiastical Persons on their Cures, upon Pain of forfeiting 10*l.* for every Month. Stat. 21. H. 8. cap. 13. One of the great Duties incumbent upon Clergymen, is that they be Resident upon their Livings : And on the first erecting Parochial Churches, every Clergyman was obliged to reside on his Benefice, for Reading of Prayers, Preaching, &c. by the Laws and Canons of the Church ; and by Statute, the Parson ought to abide upon his Rectory, in the Parsonage House ; for the Statute is intended not only for serving the Cure, and for Hospitality, but to maintain the House in Repair, and prevent Dilapidations : Though lawful Imprisonment, Sicknefs, &c. being Things of Necessity, are good Cause of Excuse for Absence, and excepted out of the Act by Constitution of Law : And it is the same where a Person is employed in some important Business for the Church or King ; or he is entertained in the King's Service. 6 Rep. 21. 1 Cro. 590. In an Information on the Statute aforementioned, it was adjudged that the Parson is to live in his Parsonage House, and not in any other, though in the same Parish. But as by Stat. 13 Eliz. cap. 20. Leases made by Parsons are declared void, where the Parson is absent for eighty Days, &c. on this Act a Defendant pleaded to an Agreement for Tithes, that the Parson was absent from his Parsonage by the Space of eighty Days in one Year ; and the Jury found that he dwelt in another Town adjoining, and came constantly to his Parish Church four Days in every Week, and there read Divine Service ; and it was held, that this was not such an Absence as is intended by Statute to avoid any Agreement or Lease made by the Parson. 1 Bulst. 112. See Cro. 123. Vide Non Residence.

Residens, Is a Tenant who is bound Residere on his Lord's Land, and not to depart from thence. Leg. Hen. 1. cap. 43.

Residuary Legatee, Is he to whom the Residuum of the Estate is left by Will. And such Legatee being made Executor with others, shall retain against the rest : If where there are two Residuary Legatees, and one die Intestate, his Administrator shall have a Moiety of the Surplus of the Personal Estate of the Testator, contrary to joint Executors, who are not intitled to Moieties ; because by making them Residuary Legatees, the Testator intended an equal Share to both : And if a Residuary Legatee die before the Will is proved, his Executor shall have Administration, &c. 6 H. 7. 1 Chanc. Rep. 238. Shore 26. See Executor.

Resignation, (Resignatio) Is the Yielding up a Benefice into the Hands of the Ordinary, called by the Canonists Renunciation ; and though it is all one in Nature with the Word Surrender, yet it is by Use restrained to the yielding up a Spiritual Living to the Bishop, as Surrender is the giving up of Temporal Lands into the Hands of the Lord. And a Resignation may now be made into the Hands of the King, as well as the Diocesan, because he has supremam Autoritatem Ecclesiasticam, as the Pope had here in ancient Times ; though it has been adjudged, that a Resignation ought to be made only to the Bishop of the Diocese, and not to the King ; because the King is not bound to give Notice of the Resignation to the Patron, as the Ordinary is ; nor can the King make a Collation himself, without Presenting to the Bishop. Plow. 498. Roll. Abr. 358. Every Person that resigns a Benefice, must make the Resignation to his Superior ; as an Incumbent to the Bishop, a Bishop to the Archbishop, and an Archbishop to the King, as supreme Ordinary ; and a Donative is to be resign'd to the Patron, and not the Ordinary ; for in that Case the Clerk receiv'd his Living immediately from the Patron. 1 Rep. 137. A Common Benefice is to be resign'd to the Ordinary, by whose Admission and Institution the Clerk first came into the Church : And the Resignation must be made to that Ordinary who hath Power of Institution ; in whose Discretion it is either to accept or refuse the Resignation ; as the Law hath declared him the proper Person to whom it ought to be made, it hath likewise empowered him to judge thereof. 2 Cro. 64, 198. The Instrument of Resignation is to be directed to the Bishop, and when the Bishop hath accepted of it, the Resignation is good, to make void the Church, and not before ; unless it be where there is no Cure, when it is good without the Acceptance of the Bishop. A Resignation may be made before a Publick Notary, but without the Bishop's Acceptation it doth not make the Church void : The Notary can only attest the Resignation, in order to it's being presented, &c. Ibid.

Ibid. Before Acceptance of the Resignation by the Bishop, no Presentation can be had to the Church; but as soon as the Acceptance is made, the Patron may present to the Benefice resigned. And when the Clerk is instituted, the Church is full against all Men in Case of a common Person; though before Induction, such Incumbent may make the Church void again by Resignation. Count. Parl. Compan. 106. A Parsonage is not to be granted over by the Incumbent, but it may be resigned; and Resignations are to be absolute, and not conditional; for 'tis against the Nature of a Resignation to be Conditional, being a judicial Act. 3 Nelf. Abr. 157. If any Incumbent shall corruptly resign his Benefice, or take any Reward directly or indirectly for resigning the same, he shall forfeit double the Value of the Sum, &c. given, and the Party giving it shall be incapable to hold the Living. Stat. 31. Eliz. cap. 6. But a Man may bind himself by Bond to resign, and it is not unlawful, but may be upon good and valuable Reasons; as where he is obliged to resign if he take a second Benefice, or if he be Non-Resident by the Space of so many Months, or to resign on Request, if the Patron shall present his Son or Kinsman when he should be of Age capable to take the Living, &c. Cro. Jac. 249, 274. though Bonds for Resignation of Benefices have no Encouragement in Chancery; for on such Bonds generally the Incumbent is relieved, and not obliged to resign. 1 Roll. Abr. 443. The usual Words of a Resignation are Renuncio, Cedo, Dimitto, & Resigno; and the Word Resigno is not a proper Term alone. 2 Roll. 350.

Form of a Resignation of a Benefice.

IN Dei Nomine Amen. Ego A. B. Rector & Incumbens Ecclesiæ Parochialis de, &c. in Com. & Diocesi Oxon. Volens & ex certis Causis & Considerationibus, veris iustis & legitimis me in hac parte Specialiter moventibus, ab onere, Cura & Regimine dictæ meæ Rectoriæ, de, &c. & pertinentiis ejusdem penitus exonerari, eandem Rectoriam meam & Ecclesiam Parochialem præd. Potestatem habentis vel habituri, non vel in metu coactus, nec dolo malo ad idem inductus, nec aliqua sinistra machinatione motus, sed ex certa Scientia animo deliberato & Spontanea voluntate meis pure simpliciter & absolute Renuncio & Resigno ac re & verbo vacuam dimitto, jure quoque titulo & Possessione meis in eadem Rectoria sive Parochiali Ecclesia una cum suis juribus Membris & pertinentiis Universis præhabitis & mihi hactenus concessis omnibus & singulis Renuncio eisdemque Cedo & ab iisdem recedo totaliter & expresse in his Scriptis. In cujus Rei Testimonium nomen & sigillum meum his presentibus apposui die & Anno, &c.

Resignation of Offices. If a Man can have no Title to the Profits of an Office, without the Admission or Confirmation of a Superior, there the Resignation of that Office must be to him. 3 Nelf. Abr. 158.

Resort, (Fr.) Signifies the Authority or Jurisdiction of a Court: Salvo tamen tam Reforto quam aliis jure nostro, & jure etiam alieno. Spelm. Dernier resort, the last Refuge.

Respectu computi Uiceromitæ habendo, Is a Writ for the Respiting a Sheriff's Account, directed to the Treasurer and Barons of the Exchequer. Reg. Orig. 139.

Respite, (Respectus) A Delay, Forbearance, or Continuation of Time. Glanvil. lib. 12. c. 9.

Respite of Homage, (Respectus Homagii) Is the Forbearance or Delay of Homage, which ought to be perform'd by Tenants holding by Homage, &c. though it had the most frequent Use for such as held in Knight's Service and in Capite, who formerly paid into the Exchequer every fifth Term some small Sum of Money to be respited their Homage: But this Charge being incident to and arising from Knight's Service, is taken away by the Stat. 12 Car. 2.

Respondens Duffer, To answer over in an Action to the Merits of the Cause, &c. See Judgment.

Respondent Superior. If Sheriffs of London are insufficient, the Mayor and Commonalty must answer for them: And per Insufficiency del Bailiff d'un Liberty, Respondent Dominus Libertatis. 4 Inst. 114. Stat. 44. Edw. 3. cap. 13. If a Coroner of a County is insufficient, the County as his Superior shall answer for him. Wood's Inst. 83. A Gaoler constitutes another under him, and he permits an Escape, if he be not sufficient, Respondent Superior; and superior Officers must answer for their Deputies in Civil Actions, if they are insufficient to answer Damages. Dr. & Stud. c. 42.

Responsalis (Qui Responsum deferit) Is he that appears for another in Court at a Day assign'd. Glanvil. lib. 12. cap. 1. And Fleta makes a Difference between Responsalem Attornatum and Essoniatorem; and says that Responsalis was for the Tenant, not only to excuse his Absence, but to signify what Trial he meant to undergo, the Combat or the Country. Flet. lib. 6. cap. 11. This Word is made use of in the Canon Law, & significat procuratorem vel eum qui absentem excusat.

Responsions, (Responsiones) Was applied chiefly by the Knights of St. John of Hierusalem, to certain Accounts made to them by such as held their Lands, &c. 32 H. 8. cap. 24.

Responsum, A Word used for Business: Pope Alexander sent two Persons to King Edw. 1st, pro Responsis Ecclesiasticis. Blount.

Restare, i. e. To stay or stop; it is mentioned in Matt. Paris. 515.

Restitution, (Restitutio) Is a Restoring any Thing unjustly taken from another: It signifies also the setting him in Possession of Lands or Tenements, who had been unlawfully disseised of them. Crompt. Inst. 144. And Restitution is a Writ which lies where a Judgment is reversed, to restore and make good to the Defendant in the Action what he hath lost. The Court which reverses the Judgment, gives upon the Reversal a Judgment for Restitution; whereon a Scire facias quare Restitutionem habere non debet, reciting the Reversal of the Judgment, and the Writ of Execution, &c. must issue forth. 2 Lit. Abr. 472. But the Law doth oftentimes restore the Possession to one without the Writ of Restitution, i. e. by Writ of Habere facias Possessionem, &c. in the common Proceedings of Justice upon a Trial at Law. Ibid. 473. And there is a Restitution of the Possession of Lands in Cases of forcible Entry; a Restitution of Lands to an Heir, on his Ancestor's being attainted of Treason or Felony; and

Resti-

Restitution of stolen Goods, &c. A Writ of Restitution is not properly to be granted but where the Party cannot be restored by the ordinary Course of Law; and the Nature of it is to restore the Party to the Possession of a Freehold, or other Matter of Profit, from which he is illegally removed; and it extends to Restitution on Mandamus to any Publick Office. Trin. 23 Car. B. R. 2 Lill. 472, 473. Where a Judgment for Land is reversed in B. R. by Writ of Error, the Court may grant a Writ of Restitution to the Sheriff to put the Party in Possession of the Lands recovered from him by the erroneous Judgment; though there ought to be no Restitution granted of the Possession of Lands, where it cannot be grounded on some Matter of Record appearing to the Court. Hill. 22 Car. And Persons that are to restore, are to be Parties to the Record; or they must be made so by special Scire Fac. Cro. Car. 328. 2 Salk. 587. If a Lease is taken in Execution upon a Fieri Fac. and sold by the Sheriff, and afterwards the Judgment is reversed; the Restitution must be of the Money for which it was sold, and not the Term. Cro. Fac. 246. Moor 788. But a Sheriff extended Goods and Lands upon an Elegit, and return'd that he took a Lease for Years, which he sold and delivered to the Plaintiff as Bona & Catalla of the Defendant for the Debt, and afterwards the Judgment was reversed for Error; and it was adjudged that the Party shall be restored to the Lease, because the Elegit gave the Sheriff no Authority to sell the Term, and therefore a Writ of Restitution was awarded. Yelv. 179. And there has been in this Case a Distinction made between compulsory and voluntary Acts done in Execution of Justice, where the Sheriff is commanded by the Writ to sell the Goods, and where he is not, when the Goods are to be restored, &c. 8 Rep. 96. If the Plaintiff hath Execution, and the Money is levied and paid, and afterwards the Judgment is reversed, there the Party shall have Restitution without a Scire Fac. for it appears on the Record what the Party had lost and paid; but if the Money was only levied, and not paid, then there must be a Scire Fac. suggesting the Sum levied, &c. And where the Judgment is set aside after Execution for any Irregularity, there needs no Scire Fac. for Restitution; but an Attachment of Contempt, if upon the Rule for Restitution, the Money is not restored. 2 Salk. 588. In a Scire Facias quare Restitution, &c. the Defendant pleaded Payment of the Money mentioned in the Scire Fac. and it was held to be no Plea. Cro. Car. 328. But now Payment is a good Plea to a Scire Fac. by the Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. 2. Lill. Abr. 479. Upon a Vi Laica removendo, a Parson was put out of Possession; and upon a Suggestion thereof, and Affidavit made, Restitution was ordered. Cro. Eliz. 465. The Justices of Peace, before whom an Indictment for forcible Entry is found, must give the Party Restitution of his Lands, &c. who was put out of Possession by Force. Stat. 8. H. 6. But where one is indicted for a forcible Entry, and the Party indicted traverses the Indictment, there cannot be Restitution before Trial and a Verdict, and Judgment given for the Party, though the Indictment be erroneous; it being too late to move to quash the Indictment after the Traverse, which puts the Matter upon Trial. 2 Lill. 473, 474. A Person being attainted of Treason, &c. he or his Heirs may be restored to his Lands, &c. by the King's Charter of Pardon; and the Heir by Petition of Right may be restored, if the Ancestor is executed: But Restitution of Blood must be by Act of Parliament; and Restitutions by Parliament are some of Blood only, some of Blood, Honour, Inheritance, &c. 3 Inst. 240. 1 Inst. 8, 391. The King may restore the Party or his Heirs to his Lands, and the Blood, as to all Issue begotten after the Attainder. Ibid. There shall be a Writ of Restitution granted the Owner of stolen Goods, by the Court where a Felon is tried on Indictment, after the Attainder of the Felon, as in Case of Appeal of Robbery. 21 H. 8. cap. 11. And it may be also of Money, when the Felon is convicted of the Felony, by Reason of the Evidence given by the Party robb'd, or by his Procurement, &c. And by this Statute Executors and Administrators shall have Restitution of Goods, and 'tis said notwithstanding Sale in Market-overt. 2 Inst. 714. 3 Inst. 242. 5 Rep. 109. If Goods stolen are not waived by Flight, or seized for the King, the Party robb'd may take his Goods again without prosecuting the Felon; but after seized for the King, they may not be restored without Appeal or Indictment. Kel. 48. 2 Hawk. P. C. 168.

Re-restitution, Is where there hath been a Writ of Restitution before granted: And Restitution is generally Matter of Duty; but Re-restitution is Matter of Grace. Raym. 85. A Writ of Re-Restitution may be granted upon a Motion for it, if the Court see Cause to grant it. 2 Lill. Abr. 474. And on Quashing an Indictment of forcible Entry, the Court of B. R. may grant a Writ of Re-restitution, &c.

Restitutio Temporalium, Is a Writ directed to the Sheriff to restore the Temporalities, or the Barony of a Bishoprick to the Bishop elected and confirm'd. F. N. B. 169. 1 Roll. Abr. 880.

Resummons, (Resummonitio) Signifies a second Summons, or calling a Man to answer an Action, where the first Summons is defeated by any Occasion; and when by the Death, &c. of the Judges, they do not come on the Day to which they were continued, for the Trial of Causes, such Causes may be revived or recontinued by Resummons. Vide Reattachment.

Resumption, (Resumptio) Is used particularly for the taking again into the King's Hands such Lands or Tenements, &c. as before upon false Suggestion he had granted by Letters Patent to any Man. Broke 298. And Resumption of Grants is mentioned in the Stat. 31 H. 6. cap. 7. and other Statutes.

Retail. To buy by the Great, and sell by Retail or Parcels. 3 & 4. Ed. 6. c. 21.

Retainer, (from the Lat. Retineo) Is a Keeping or Maintaining; as of a Servant, not menial or continually dwelling with the Master, but attending sometimes upon special Occasions, 1 R. 2. cap. 7. And Counsellors and Attornies are retained to attend the Causes of their Clients, in the several Courts, &c.

Retaining Fee, Is the first Fee given to any Serjeant or Counsellor at Law, whereby to make him sure that he shall not be on the contrary Side.

Retenementum, Is a Word used for Restraint, With-holding, or Keeping back. And sine ullo retenemento was a usual Expression in old Deeds and Conveyances of Lands. Cowel.

Retractus Aquæ, The Ebb or Return of a Tide. Plac. 30. Edw. 1.

Retraxit, Is when the Plaintiff cometh in Person in Court where his Action is brought, and saith he will not proceed in it; and this is a Bar to that Action for ever: It is so called, because it is the emphatical Word in the Entry, and is entred thus, ff. Et prad. Quer. in propria Persona sua venit & dicit quod ipse placitum suum prad. versus prad. Defenden. ulterius Prosequi non vult; sed abinde omnino se Retraxit, &c. A Retraxit must be always in Person; and if it is by Attorney, 'tis Error. 8 Rep. 58. 3 Salk. 245. As to a Retraxit, it is a Bar to any Action of equal Nature brought for the same Cause or Duty; but a Nonfuit is not. 1 Inst. 208. If the Plaintiff says he will not appear, this is not a Retraxit, but Nonfuit: But if the Plaintiff says he will not sue, it is a Retraxit. 2 Danv. Abr. 471. And Retraxit is always on the Part of the Plaintiff or Demandant; and it cannot be before a Declaration, for before the Declaration it is only a Nonfuit. 3 Leon 47. 2 Lill. Abr. 476. If the Plaintiff enter a Retraxit against one Joint Trespasser, it is a Release to the other. Cro. Eliz. 762. But if a Retraxit be entred as to one Apellee in Appeal of Murder, the Suit may be continued against the Rest; because the Appellant is to have a several Execution against every one of them. H. P. C. 190. In a Prohibition by three, a Retraxit of one shall not bar the other two Plaintiffs. Moor 460. Nelf. Abr. 165. See Nolle Prosequi.

Retropannagium, Is After-Pannage, when the best is eaten, and only Haws and such like are left. Pet. in Parl. temp. Edw. 3.

Return, (Returna, or Retorna, from the Fr. Retour, i. e. Reditio, recursus) Hath divers Applications in our Law, but is most commonly used for the Return of Writs, which is the Certificate of the Sheriff made to the Court of what he hath done touching the Execution of any Writ directed to him; and where a Writ is executed, or the Defendant cannot be found, &c. then this Matter is endorsed on the back of the Writ by the Officer, and delivered into the Court whence the Writ issued at the Day of the Return thereof in order to be filed. Stat. West. 2. cap. 39. 2 Lill. Abr. 476. The Name of the Sheriff must always be to the Return of Writs; otherwise it doth not appear how they came into Court: If a Writ be returned by a Person to whom it is not directed, the Return is not good, it being the same as if there were no Return at all upon it. And after a Return is filed, it cannot be amended; but before it may. Cro. Eliz. 310. 2 Lill. Abr. 477, 478. If the Sheriff doth not make Return of a Writ, the Court will amerce him; or if he make an insufficient Return; and if he make a false Return, the Party grieved may have his Action against him. Wood's Inst. 71. Sheriffs are to accept of Returns of Bailiffs of Liberties, where they are sufficient. 1 Danv. 191. There is a Return of Fines by Sheriffs; and Returns of Commissions, by Commissioners, &c.

Return-Days, Are Days in Term called by that Name; or Days in Bank. See Term.

Returnum Habendo, Is a Writ that lies where Cattle are distrained and replevied, and the Person that took the Distress justifies the Taking, and proves it to be lawful, upon which the Cattle are to be return'd to him. This Writ also lieth when the Plaint in Replevin is removed by Recordare into the King's Bench or Common Pleas, and he whose Cattle are distrained makes Default, and doth not prosecute his Suit. F. N. B. 74.

Returnum Aberiozum, A judicial Writ, the same with Retorno Habendo. Reg. Judic. 4.

Returnum irrepletiabile, Is a Writ Judicial directed to the Sheriff for the final Restitution or Return of Cattle to the Owner when unjustly taken or distrained by another, and so found by Verdict; and it is granted after a Nonfuit in a second Deliverance. Reg. Judic. 27.

Reve, Is the Bailiff of a Franchise or Manor, especially in the West of England. Hence Shire-reve, Church-reve, &c. Kitch. 43. Vide Greve.

Reveland. The Land which in Domesday is said to have been Thaneland, and after converted into Reveland, seems to have been such Lands as being reverted to the King after the Death of his Thane, who had it for Life, was not since granted out to any by the King, but rested in Charge upon the Account of the Reve or Bailiff of the Manor. Spelm. Feuds. cap. 24.

Revelles, Signifying with us Sports of Dancing, and Masking, &c. commonly perform'd by Night. See Master of the Revels.

Revenue, (Fr.) Is properly the Yearly Rent and Profits that accrue to any Man from his Lands and Possessions; and is generally used for the Revenues or Profits of the Crown.

Reversal, Of a Judgment is the making it void for Error; and when upon the Return of a Writ of Error, it appears that the Judgment is erroneous, then the Court will give Judgment, Quod judicium revocetur, adnulletur & penitus pro nullo habeatur. 2 Lill. Abr. 481. The ancientest Judge of the Court, and in his Absence the next in Seniority to him, doth always pronounce the Reversal of an erroneous Judgment openly in Court, upon the Prayer of the Party; and he pronounceth it in French, to this Effect, Pur les Errors evandit, & auter errors manifest in le Record, soit le Judgment Reverse, &c. Trin. 22 Car. B. R. A Reversal of a Judgment may be pronounced conditionally, i. e. That the Judgment is reversed if the Defendant in the Writ of Error doth not shew good Cause to the contrary at an appointed Time; and this is called a Revocetur nisi; and if no Cause be then shewn, it stands reversed without further Motion. 2 Lill. 482. The Stat. 21 Jac. 1. cap. 16. hath provided a new Writ, where Judgment is reversed after a Verdict, or where an Outlawry is reversed, &c. Lutw. 264. Vide Error.

Reversion, (Reversio from Revertor) Signifies a Returning again; and therefore Reversio terre est tanquam terra revertens in Possessione donatori sive heredibus suis post donum finitum. 1 Inst. 142. A Reversion hath a double Acceptation in Law; the one is an Estate left, which continues during some particular Estate is in Being; and the other is the Returning of the Land after the particular Estate is ended: It is said to be an Interest in the Land, when the Possession shall fall, and so it is commonly taken; or it is when the Possession and Estate which was parted with for a Time, ceaseth and is determined in the Persons of the Alienees or Grantees, &c. and returns to the Grantor or Donor, or their Heirs from whence derived. Plowd. 160. 1 Inst. 142. But the usual Definition of a Reversion is, that it is the Residue of an Estate left in the Grantor after a particular Estate granted away, continuing in him that granted the particular Estate; and where where the particular Estate is derived out of his Estate: As in a Gift in Tail, the Reversion of the Fee-simple is in the Donor; and in a Lease for Life, or Years, the Reversion is in the Lessor: Also a Reversion takes Place after a Remainder, where a Person makes a Disposition of a less Estate, than that whereof he was seised at the Time of making thereof. 1 Inst. 22, 142. Wood's Inst. 151. When the particular Estate determines, then the Reversion comes into Possession, and before it is separated from it; for he that hath the Possession, cannot have the Reversion, because by uniting them, the one is drown'd in the other. 2 Lill. Abr. 484. The Reversion of Land when it falls, is the Land it self; and the Possession of the Tenant, preserves the Reversion of the Lands, with the Rents, &c. in the Donor, or Lessor. 1 Inst. 324. A Reversion of an Estate of Inheritance, may be granted by Bargain and Sale inrolled, Lease and Release, Fine, &c. If one have a Reversion in Fee, expectant upon a Lease for Years, he may make a Bargain and Sale of his Reversion for one Year, and then make a Release to the Bargainee in Fee; by which the Reversion in Fee will pass to the Bargainee. 2 Lill. Abr. 483. And a Reversioner may covenant to stand seised of a Reversion to Uses, &c. 11 Rep. 46. Likewise a Reversion may be devised by Will; and a Testator being seised in Fee of Lands which he had in Possession, and of other Lands in Reversion, devised all his Lands for the Payment of his Debts; adjudged, that by the Words all his Lands, the Reversion as well as the Possession passed. 2 And. 59. Cro. Eliz. 159. A Person devised a Manor to A. B. for six Years, and some other Lands to C. D. and his Heirs; and all the Rest of his Lands to his Brother, and the Heirs Male of his Body; and it was held, that these Words, the Rest of the Lands, did not only extend to the Lands which were not devised before, but to the Reversion in Fee of the Manor, after the Determination of the Estate for Years. Allen 28. And by Devise of all Lands, Tenements and Hereditaments, undispos'd of before in a Will, a Reversion in Fee will pass. 2 Ventr. 285. 3 Nelf. Abr. 166. There was Lessee for Years, Remainder for Life, Reversion in Fee; the Tenant for Life died, and the Lessee for Years did not attorn to him in the Reversion; yet it was resolv'd, That it passed without Attornment, and that he might bring an Action of Debt, or avow. Hetl. 73. Reversions expectant upon an Estate-tail, are not Assets, or of any Account in Law, because they may be cut off by Fine and Recovery; but it is otherwise of a Reversion on an Estate for Life, or Years. 1 Inst. 173. 6 Rep. 38. Wood's Inst. 151. No Lease, Rent-charge, or Estate, &c. made by Tenant in Tail in Remainder, shall charge the Possession of the Reversioner. 2 Lill. 448. There were no Reversions or Remainders upon Estates in Tail, at Common Law: And by the Common Law, no Grantee of a Reversion could take Advantage of any Condition or Covenant broken by the Lessees of the same Land; but by Statute, Grantees of Reversions may take Advantage of Conditions and Covenants against Lessees of the same Lands, as fully as the Lessors and their Heirs; and Lessees may have the like Remedies against the Grantees of Reversions, &c. 1 Inst. 327. 32 Hen. 8. can. 34. How to plead a Reversion in Fee. 1 Lutw. 1174. The Difference between a Reversion and a Remainder, is that a Remainder is general, and may be to any Man, but he that granteth the Land, for Term of Life or otherwise; and a Reversion is to himself from whom the Conveyance of the Land proceeded, and is commonly perpetual, &c. Reuina ter. æ, A Ridge or Furrow of arable Land ploughed in a strait Line. Mon. Ang. Tom. 1. pag. 515.

Reuena, (Fr. Reuene) A Bill of Review in Chancery, is where the Cause hath been heard, and the Decree therein is signed; but some Error in Law appears in the Body of the Decree, or new Matter is discovered in Time after the Decree made: Which Bill must be exhibited by Leave of the Court, and is usually done on Oath made of the Discovery of new Matter, which could not be had or used at the Time of the Decree passed; and the Sum of 20 l. must be deposited in Court on bringing this Bill, as a Security for Costs and Delay, if the Matter be found against the Party, &c. Ord. in Canc. 69. Pract. Soli. 121, 122. Where a Decree of Chancery is repugnant, or one Part of it contradicts another, &c. it may be reversed by Bill of Review. Ibid.

Review of Appeal of Delegates, Is a Commission granted by the King, to certain Commissioners, &c. See Appeal to Rome.

Revivor, or Bill of Revivor, Is when a Bill hath been exhibited in the Chancery, against one who answers, and before the Cause is heard; or if heard, and the Decree is not inrolled, either Party dies: In this Case, a Bill of Revivor must be brought, praying the former Proceedings may stand revived, and be put into the same Condition as at the Time of the Abatement. If a Party dieth, a Female Plaintiff marries, or there have been no Proceedings on a Decree, &c. for a Year past, the Decree and Proceedings must be revived by Subpoena Sci. fac. or if the Decree be inrolled, by Bill of Revivor: But if the Parties are not Heirs, or Executors, &c. to the Party dead, the Decree or Cause is to be revived by original Bill, and not by Subpoen. Sci. fac. or Bill of Revivor; and a Bill of Revivor lies not upon a Decree of long Standing, but an original Bill is to be preferred. Practif. Soli. 122.

Rebiving, Is a Word metaphorically applied to Actions, Rents, &c. and signifies a Renewing them after they were extinguished. Broke 223.

Revocation, (Revocatio) Is the Calling back of a Thing granted; or a destroying and making void of some Deed, which had Existence until the Act of Revocation that made it void. 2 Lill. Abr. 485. In voluntary Deeds and Conveyances, there are frequently Proviso's containing Power of Revocation, which being coupled with an Use, and tending to pass by raising of Uses, according to the Stat. Hen. 8. are allowed to be good, and not repugnant; as where one seised of an to break the Peace, they may as properly be said to be assembled together for that Purpose, from the Time of such Confederacy, as if their first coming together had been upon such a Design. 1 Hawk. P. C. 156. 6 Mod. 43. And it is agreed, That if an Assembly of Persons met together on any lawful Occasion, shall on a sudden Proposal go in a Body to pull down a House, or Inclosure, or to do any Act of Violence to the Disturbance of the publick Peace, and the same be executed accordingly, the Persons concerned cannot but be Rioters; their Associating themselves together for such a new Purpose, being no way extenuated by their having met at first upon another: And if any Person seeing others actually engaged in a Riot, shall join with them, and assist them therein, he is as much a Rioter as if he had at first assembled with them for that Intent; nor shall his pretending that he came innocently into the Company avail him; for it is impossible to discover whether every particular Person engaged in a Riot was in Truth one of the first Assembly, or had a previous Knowledge of the Design of the Tumult. 1 Hawk. Ibid. On an Indictment for a Riot, it hath been adjudged, that where three or more are assembled lawfully, without any ill Intent, and an Affray happens amongst them, none are guilty but those who are actually concern'd in it; but if they were unlawfully assembled, then the Act of one may be imputed to all: That if they are lawfully assembled, and afterwards quarrelling, one of the Company is beaten by the rest, it is no Riot; though if they beat a Stranger, in that very Moment the Quarrel began, they are an unlawful Assembly; and if such Stranger is beaten by one of the Company, the Concurrence of the rest is Evidence of their evil Intention, and 'tis a Riot in all of them. 2 Salk. 595. Any Person may assemble a Number of Men to defend his House against Injury or Violence; and yet if a Man be threaten'd, that if he come to such a Place, he shall be beaten, and he thereupon assembles a Company to go thither with him, though it be for the Safety of his Person, this may be deem'd a Riot, because of the Danger the Government may be in from such Assemblies; and for that the Law gives him another Remedy, viz. by demanding Surety for the Peace. Broke 1. But every Man in a peaceable Manner, may assemble a Company to do any lawful Thing, or to remove any Nuisance; and may for that Purpose enter another Man's Ground: And where a Man hath erected a Wear over a common River, and several People assembled with Spades, and other Things necessary to remove the said Wear, and made a Trench in his Land that did erect the Wear, to turn the Water so as they might the better take the said Wear, and did remove the same Nuisance; this was held neither any forcible Entry nor Riot. Bro. 14, 33. Though if in removing such Nuisance, the Persons assembling use any threatening Words, as that they will do it, if they die for it, or the like; or their Behaviour be in apparent Disturbance of the Peace, then it will amount to a Riot; for the Manner of doing a lawful Thing may make it unlawful. Ibid. If one assembles a proper Company to carry away a Piece of Timber, to which he pretends a Right, if the Number be no more than necessary to carry it away, although another Man may have a better Right to the Timber, and this is an unlawful Act, it is no Riot, except there be a Disturbance of the Peace; so that the Doing of an unlawful Act by an Assembly of People, may be so managed as not to be a Riot. 1 Hawk. 157. And Persons assembled together to do a Thing prohibited by Statute, if they peaceably perform the same, cannot be denominated Rioters. 6 Mod. 141. An Indictment against A. B. for that he cum multis aliis at such a Place, &c. did commit a Riot, is good: And several being indicted for a Riot, it was moved, that the Prosecutor might name two or three, and try it against them, and that the Rest might enter into a Rule to plead guilty, if they were found guilty; and a Rule was made accordingly, this being to prevent the Charges in putting them all to plead. Mod. Caf. 212. 3 Salk. 317. If two only are found guilty on an Indictment for a Riot, and the Rest acquitted, all are acquitted; and if a Battery be likewise laid in the Indictment, if it be not laid as a distinct Offence, the Defendants being discharged of the Riot, are also discharged of the Battery. 2 Salk. 593. Upon an Information against several Persons for committing a Riot, and setting up a Bank, &c. the Jury found the Defendants guilty as to setting up the Bank, but quoad the Riot not guilty; and it was held, that by this Verdict the Defendants were acquitted of the Charge in the Information, which was a Riot; for an Action on the Case would lie for erecting the Bank. 3 Mod. 72. The Defendants being found guilty on Information for a Riot, and hindering the Bailiff and Burgesses of a Borough from choosing a Bailiff; Judgment was arrested, because the Information did not set forth that the Defendants were unlawfully assembled, &c. Besides, it did not mention any Right in the Bailiff and Burgesses to meet together to choose a Bailiff, and they might be assembled to do an unlawful Act themselves; and then it is not unlawful in the Defendants to disturb them. 2 Salk. 594. Dyer 68. A Mayor and Aldermen of a Town making a Riot, are punishable in their natural Capacities; but where they have countenanced dangerous Riots within their Precincts, their Liberties have been seized, or the Corporation fined. 3 Cro. 252. Dalt. 204, 326. Women may be punished as Rioters; but Infants under the Age of fourteen Years, are not punishable. Dalt. 325. Wood's Inst. 429. By the Common Law, Riots are punished by Fine and Imprisonment; and if enormous, by Pillory: And by Statute, Justices of the Peace have Power to restrain Rioters, &c. to arrest and imprison them, and cause them to be duly punished. 34 Ed. 3. c. 1. As soon as the Sheriff and other the King's Ministers hear of a Riot, or other Assembly against the Peace, they with the Power of the County shall apprehend such Offenders, and put them in Prison until delivered by Law. 27 R. 2. cap. 8. And two or more Justices of the Peace, dwelling near the Place where such Offences shall be committed, together with the Sheriff or Under-Sheriff of the County, shall by the Power of the County, if need be, suppress Riots, Routs, &c. arrest the Offenders, and record what shall be done in their Presence; by which Record the Offenders shall stand convicted, as by Stat. 15 R. 2. in case of Forcible Entries; and if the Offenders are departed, the said Justices, &c. shall within a Month after make Enquiry thereof, and hear and determine the same; and if the Truth cannot be found, then then within a further Month the Justices and Sheriff are to certify to the King and Council, &c. on Default whereof, the Justices, &c. shall forfeit 100*l.* 13 Hen. 4. cap. 7. These Statutes are understood of great and notorious Riots: And the Record of the Riot within the View of the Justices, by whom it is recorded, is such a Conviction as cannot be traversed, the Parties being concluded thereby; but they may take Advantage of the Insufficiency of the Record, if the Justices have not pursued the Statute, &c. It is said that the Offenders being convicted upon the Record of their Offence, in the Presence of the Justices, ought to be sent immediately to Gaol, till they pay a Fine assessed by the same Justices; which Fine is to be estreated into the Exchequer; or the Justices may record such Riot, and commit the Offenders, and after certify the Record into B. R. or to the Assises, or Sessions: If the Offenders are gone, then the Justices shall inquire by a Jury; and the Riot being found, they are to make a Record of it, and fine them, or receive their Traverse, to be sent by the Justices to the next Quarter-Sessions, or into the King's Bench, to be tried according to Law. Dalt. 200, 201, 202. It hath been adjudged, that where Rioters are convicted upon the View of two Justices, the Sheriff must be a Party to the Inquisition on the Stat. 13 Hen. 4. But if they disperse themselves before Conviction, the Sheriff need not be a Party, for in such Case the two Justices may make the Inquisition without him; and this is pro Domino Rege: And if the Justices neglect to make an Inquisition within a Month after the Riot, they are liable to the Penalty for not doing it within that Time; but the Lapse of the Month doth not determine their Authority to make an Inquisition afterwards. 2 Salk. 592. Rioters convicted on View of two Justices, and of the Sheriff of the County, are to be fined by the two Justices and the Sheriff; and if the Sheriff do not join in setting the Fine, it is Error; for the Statute requires that he should be joined with the Justices in the whole Proceedings. Raym. 386. 13 Hen. 4. cap. 7. By the 2 Hen. 5. cap. 8. If the Justices make Default in Enquiring of a Riot; at the Instance of the Party grieved, the King's Commission shall be issued to inquire by sufficient and indifferent Men of the County, at the Discretion of the Chancellor; and the Coroners shall make the Panel of Inquest upon the said Commission, which is returnable, into the Chancery, &c. and by this Statute, heinous Rioters are to suffer one Year's Imprisonment. The Lord Chancellor having Knowledge of any Riot, may send the King's Writ to the Justices of Peace, and to the Sheriff of the County, &c. requiring them to put the Statute in Execution; and the Chancellor upon Complaint made, that a dangerous Rioter is fled into Places unknown, and on Suggeſtion under the Seals of two Justices of Peace and the Sheriff, that the common Fame runneth in the County of the Riot, may award a Capias against the Party, returnable in Chancery upon a certain Day, and afterwards a Writ of Proclamation returnable in the King's Bench, &c. 2 H. 5. cap. 9. 8 Hen. 6. cap. 14. If one Justice of Peace hath Notice of a Riot, he must endeavour to remove it, and may bind the Rioters to the good Behaviour; and if they have no Sureties, or refuse to be bound, he may commit them to Prison. 13 Hen. 4. Mod. Inst. 368. Where Riots are committed, the Sheriff upon a Precept directed to him, shall return twenty-four Persons dwelling within the County to inquire thereof &c. 19 Hen. 7. cap. 13. The Stat. 1 Geo. enacts, That if any Persons to the Number of Twelve or more, unlawfully and riotously assembled against the Peace, being required by a Justice of Peace, Sheriff, or Under-Sheriff, Mayor, or other head Officer of any Town, &c. by Proclamation in the King's Name, to disperse themselves, shall continue together an Hour afterwards, they shall be guilty of Felony without Benefit of Clergy; and Persons thus assembled and continuing, are to be apprehended and carried before a Justice of Peace, &c. And if in Resistance, the Rioters are killed, the Persons concern'd in it shall be indemnified: Persons by Force hindering the Proclamation, it shall be adjudged Felony; and the Offenders nevertheless guilty, if they do not disperse, &c. Rioters demolishing any Church, Chapel, or Dwelling-house, are guilty of Felony; and Inhabitants of Towns and Hundreds are to yield Damages for Rebuilding or Reparation, to be levied and paid in such Manner as Money recovered against the Hundred, by Persons robbed on the Highway, &c. 1 Geo. cap. 5. Prosecutions on this Act are to be commenced within one Year after the Offence: And this is the severest Statute that hath been made against Rioters; but it being wholly in the Affirmative, it doth not take away any Authority in the suppressing a Riot by Common Law, or by other Statutes. Wood's Inst. 430. See Rebellious Assembly.

Roba, A Robe, Coat or Garment; and those who Robas accipiebant of another, are accounted of his Family. Walsingh. 267.

Robbery, (Robberia, or Robaria, derived de la Robe, i. e. Vestis) Is a felonious and violent Assault upon the Person of another, by putting him in Fear, and taking from him his Money or Goods, on the Highway: And it is said to be so called, because a Man was thereby sometimes bereaved of his Robes or Garments; and for that his Money or other Goods being taken from his Person, viz. from or out of some Part of his Garment or Robe. 3 Inst. 68. Though Robbery in a large Sense, is any wrongful Taking away of Goods. 2 Inst. 236. Robbery on the Highway is Felony of Death, though the Sum taken is under Twelve-pence, or be but one Penny; for it may be of any Value; whereas in other Thefts Judgment of Death is only where the Thing stolen is above the Value of 12*d.* H. P. C. 73, 74. But there must be something taken; and if any Thing be taken from the Person of another, on the Highway, without putting in Fear, it is not Robbery, but Felony allow'd Clergy; the putting in Fear distinguishing the Robber from other stealing from the Person. 3 Inst. 68. H. P. C. 71. Dalt. 364. And if there be only an Attempt to rob, without any Taking, it is not Felony, but a Misdemeanor punishable by Fine and Imprisonment, &c. Wood's Inst. 369. There is a Taking in Deed, and a Taking in Law, in Robberies; as when a Thief only receives Money or Goods of a Traveller, or if he compels him for Fear of Death to swear that he will fetch him a Sum of Money, and he delivers it; this is a Taking in Law, and adjudged a Robbery. 3 Inst. The Robber must be in Possession of the Thing stolen: For Example; If the Bag or Purse of a Man be fastened to his Girdle, and the Thief the more easily to take it do cut the Girdle, whereby it falls to the Ground, it is no Taking by reason the Robber never had any Possession thereof: But if the Thief take up the Bag or Purse, and in Striving let it fall, tho' he never take it up again; or if finding little in the Purse, he delivers it with all the Money to the Party again; these are a felonious Taking, because he had it in his Possession; and the Continuance of his Possession is not required by Law. 3 Inst. 69. And where a Man throws his Purse into a Bush, to conceal it from the Robber, who perceiving it, takes it up, this is deem'd in Law a Taking from the Person; so if a Man had thrown off his Coat, and whilst it lies in his Presence, a Thief assaults him and takes his Coat, it is a Robbery; and if one endeavouring to make his Escape from a Robber, drops his Hat, and the Thief takes it up, it is a Taking from the Person. Ibid. The Taking away a Horse which a Man is actually riding, is not only Robbery; but if the Horse is standing by him, and be taken away, it is the same; and a Claim of Property, without Colour for it, will not avail: But if any Man leaves his Horse tied, and steps aside; or if a Carrier follows his Horses at a Distance, and they are taken by a Thief, such Taking is not a Taking from the Person, to make it Robbery. Dalt. 364. Pult. 128. If a Person having assaulted me, drives my Cattle in my Presence out of my Pasture; or rob my Servant of my Money before my Face, he may be indicted as having taken such Things from my Person. S. P. C. 27. Stile 156. And some have gone so far as to hold, That if a Man meeting another going with his Goods to Market in order to sell them, compel him to sell them against his Will, he is guilty of Robbery. Crompt. 34. 1 Hawk. P. C. 97. If a Thief bids the Party deliver his Money, &c. either with or without a Weapon drawn, and he gives it him; or a Person with Sword or Pistol in his Hand, demands my Money, and afterwards prays Alms, and

and I give it accordingly ; it is a Robbery : For when ever any Person assaults another with Circumstances of Terror that cause him by Reason thereof to part with his Money, the Taking thereof is adjudged Robbery ; whether there were any Weapon drawn or nor, or the Person assaulted delivered his Money upon the other's Command, or after gave it him upon his Ceasing to use Force, and begging Alms, &c. 3 Inst. 60. H. P. C. 71, 72. 1 Hawk. 96. And if I am robbed by several in a Gang, and one of them only takes my Money, in this Case in Judgment of Law, every one of the Company shall be said to take it, in respect of that Encouragement which they give to one another through the Hopes of mutual Assistance ; and though they miss of their first intended Prize, and one of them afterwards rides from the rest, and robs another Person in the same Highway without their Knowledge or Consent, out of their View, and returns to them, all are guilty of Robbery, as they came together with an Intent to rob, and to assist one another in so doing. Cromp. 34. 1 And. 116. H. P. C. 72. The Words in an Indictment for a Robbery, are, a Persona A.B. violenter & felonice Cepit & asportavit in magnum Terrorem, &c. And the Robbery must be laid in the Indictment to be done in Alta via Regia : If it be alledged to be done in quadam via Regia pedestri ducent. de London ad Islington, &c. the Offender will not be ousted of his Clergy, because the Words of the Statute to this Purpose are, in or about or near the Highway. 1 Hawk. P. C. 97. 2 Hawk. 342. Moor 5. Streets in Cities are Highways, as to Robberies, &c. by a late Statute. 6 Geo.

Where Robberies are committed on the Highway in the Day-time of any Day, except Sunday, the Hundred is chargeable : If the Robbers are not taken in 40 Days, &c. the Hundred shall answer it, and Hue and Cry is to be made after the Robbers ; also if the Robbers are taken, and prosecuted by the Party robbed, he shall have Restitution of his Goods, &c. Stat. 27 Eliz. 21 Hen. 8. And he who apprehends and prosecutes a Robber on the Highway to Conviction, shall receive of the Sheriff of the County, where the Robbery was done 40 l. (producing the Certificate of the Judge before whom the Person was convicted) with his Horse, Furniture, Arms, &c. And if any Person out of Prison, having committed any Robbery, discovers two or more Robbers, so as they are convicted, he shall be intitled to a Pardon. 4 W. & M. cap. 8. How to sue the Hundred for Money lost on Robberies, see Hue and Cry and Hundred.

Rules of Court: Attornies are bound to observe the Rules of the Court, to avoid Confusion; also the Plaintiff and Defendant in a Cause are at their Peril to take Notice of the Rules made in Court touching the Cause between them. 2 Lill. Abr. 492, 493. The Court will not make a Rule for a Thing which may be done by the ordinary Course; and if the Court be inform'd that they have made such a Rule, they will vacate it. Mich. 22 Car. B. R. And if a Rule be made by the Court grounded upon an Affidavit, the other Side may move the Court against this Rule, and is to bring into Court a Copy of the Affidavit and Rule thereupon made, that the Affidavit may be read, to put the Court in Mind for what Reasons they made the Rule, and whether there be stronger Reasons for the Vacating of it, than there were for the Making of it, or not. 2 Lill. 494. Where a Rule of Court is made, and it is not drawn up and enter'd before the Continuance Day of the same Term, the Clerk of the Rules will not draw it up afterwards until the Court be moved, and shall again order it to be enter'd. Pasch. 1656. For Breach and Contempt of a Rule of Court, an Attachment lies; and if a Rule of Court is made betwixt Parties by their Consent, though the Court would not have made such Rule without their Consent, yet if either Party refuse to obey such a Rule made, the Court will upon Motion grant an Attachment against the Party that disobeys the Rule. Hill. 1655. But generally an Attachment is not grantable for Disobedience to any Rule, unless the Party hath been served with it personally; nor for disobeying a Rule at Nisi prius, till it is made a Rule of Court; or for Disobedience of a Rule made by a Judge at his Chamber, if it be not enter'd. 1 Salk. 71, 83. And a Rule not enter'd is of no Force to ground a Motion upon, &c.

Rule of Court may be granted to any Prisoner in the King's Bench or Fleet Prisons, every Day the Courts sit, to go at large, if such Prisoner hath Business in Law of his own to follow. 2 Lill. Abr. 493.

Rumney Marsh. King Hen. 3. granted a Charter to Rumney Marsh, in the County of Kent, empowering Twenty-four Men thereunto chosen to make Distresses equally upon all those which have Lands and Tenements in the said Marsh, to repair the Walls and Water-gates of the same, against the Dangers of the Sea: And there are several Laws and Customs observ'd in the said Marsh, established by Ordinances of Justice thereto appointed, in the 42d Year of King Hen. 3. the 16 Edw. 1. the 33 Ed. 3. &c.

Sack of Wool, A Quantity of 26 Stone of Sheep's Wool; and of Cotton-Wool, from One hundred and a Half to Four hundred. Stat. 14 Ed. 3. c. 2.

Sacrament, (Sacramentum) Is the most solemn Act of Worship amongst us, being instituted by our Saviour himself; and by the Rubrick there must be Three at the least to communicate, and a Minister is not without lawful Cause to deny it to any who shall devoutly and humbly desire it: But notorious Sinners are not to be admitted to it 'till they have repented, nor those who maliciously contend until they are reconciled, &c. also the Sacrament is not to be administered to such who refuse to be present at the Prayers of the Church, or to Strangers; for a Minister is not obliged to give it to any but to those of his own Parish; and the Partakers of the Holy Sacrament ought to signify their Names to the Curate at least a Day before it is administered. Can. 26. Count. Parf. Compan. 36, 37, 38. If a Minister refuse to give the Sacrament to any one, being required by the Bishop, he is to certify the Cause of such Refusal; and a Parson refusing to administer the Sacrament to any, without just Cause, is liable to be sued in Action of the Case; because a Man may have a Temporal Loss by such Refusal. Right Clergy 489. By Statute, no Persons shall be chosen into any Office of Magistracy, or Place of Trust, &c. unless they receive the Sacrament, according to the Rites of the Church of England, and deliver a Certificate thereof to the Court of King's Bench or Quarter-Sessions, under the Hand of the Minister, and prove it by Witnesses. 13, 14 & 25 Car. 2. In every Parish-Church, the Sacrament is to be administered three Times in the Year, (whereof the Feast of Easter to be one) and every Lay-man is bound to receive it thrice every Year, &c. In Colleges and Halls of the Universities, the Sacraments are to be administered the first or second Sunday of every Month; and in Cathedral Churches, upon all principal Feast-Days. Canon 21, 22, 23. The Church-wardens as well as the Minister are to take Notice whether the Parishioners come so often to the Sacrament as they ought; and on a Church-warden's Presenting a Man for not receiving the Sacrament, he may be libelled in the Ecclesiastical Court and excommunicated, &c. Reviling the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper is punishable by Fine and Imprisonment. 1 Eliz. cap. 1.

Sacramentum, Is used for an Oath: The common Form of all Inquisitions made by a Jury runs thus, Qui dicunt super Sacramentum suum, &c. whence possibly the proverbial Offering to take the Sacrament of the Truth of a Thing, was first meant of Attesting upon Oath.

Sacramentum altaris, The Sacrifice of the Mass, or what we now call the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper; for which Communion in the Times of Popery, the Parish-Priest provided Bread for the People and Wine for himself, out of the Offerings and Oblations. Paroch. Antiq. 488.

Sacrileg (Sacrilegium) Is Church Robbery, or a Taking of Things out of a Holy Place; as where a Person steals any Vessels, Ornaments, or Goods of the Church: And it is said to be a Robbery of God, at least of what is dedicated to his Service. 3 Cro. 153. If any Thing belonging to private Persons, left in a Church be stolen, it is only common Theft, not Sacrilege: But the Canon Law determines that also to be Sacrilege; as likewise the Stealing of a Thing known to be consecrated, in a Place not consecrated. Treat. Laws 360. By the Civil Law, Sacrilege is punish'd with greater Severity than any other Thefts; and the Common Law distinguished this Crime from other Robberies, for it denied the Benefit of the Clergy to the Offenders, which it did not do to other Felons: But by Statute it is put upon a Footing with other Felonies, by Making it Felony excluded of Clergy, as most other Felonies are. 2 Inst. 250. All Persons not in Holy Orders, who shall be indicted, whether in the same County where the Fact was committed, or in a different County, of Robbing any Church, Chapel, or other Holy Place, are excluded from their Clergy, by 23 H. 8. c. 1. 25 H. 8. c. 3. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 10. And all Persons in general are ousted of their Clergy for the felonious Taking of any Goods out of any Parish-Church, or other Church or Chapel, by the 1 Ed. 6. c. 12. But the Word Robbing being always taken to carry with it some Force, it seems no Sacrilege is within these Statutes, which is not accompanied with the actual Breaking of a Church, &c. Kel. 58, 69. Dyer 224. And the Statute 23 H. 8. is the only Statute which extends to Accessaries to these Robberies; except the Offence amount to Burglary, in which Case Accessaries before are ousted of Clergy, by 3 & 4 W. & M. c. 9. 2 Hawk. P. C. 351.

Sacrilege, Or Alienation to Lay-men and to profane Uses of what was given to Religious Persons and to Pious Uses, was a Guilt which our Fore-fathers were very tender of incurring; and therefore when the Order of the Knights-Templars was dissolv'd, their Lands were given to the Knights Hospitallers of Jerusalem, for this Reason.

— Ne in pios usus erogata contra Donatorum voluntatem in alios usus distraberentur. Paroch. Antiq. 390.

Sacrista, (Lat.) A Sexton, belonging to a Church, in old Times called Sagerfon and Sagiston.

Safe-conduct, (Salvus Conductus) Is a Security given by the Prince, under the Great Seal, to a Stranger, for his Safe-coming into and passing out of the Realm; the Form whereof is in Reg. Orig. 25. And touching which there are several Statutes, viz. 9 H. 3. c. 30. 15 H. 6. c. 3. 28 H. 8. c. 1.

Safe-guard, (Salva Guardia) A Protection of the King to one who is a Stranger that fears Violence from some of the Subjects, for seeking his Right by Course of Law. Reg. Orig. 26.

Saio & Saiones, Fori vel Magistratus, Minister. A Tiptaff or Serjeant at Arms; derived from the Sax. Sagol, i. e. Fustis, because they use to carry a Rod or Staff of Silver.

Salary, (Salarium) Is a Recompence or Consideration made to a Person, for his Pains or Industry in another Man's Business: The Word is used in the Statute 23 Ed. 3. c. 1. Salarium at first signified the Rents or Profits of a Sala, Hall or House; (and in Gascoigne they now call the Seats of the Gentry Sala's, as we do Halls) but afterwards it was taken for any Wages, Stipend, or annual Allowance.

Sale, (Venditio) Is the Transferring the Property of Goods from one to another, upon valuable Consideration: And if a Bargain is, that another shall give me 5*l.* for such a Thing, and he give me Earnest, which I accept, this is a perfect Sale. Wood's Inst. 316. On Sale of Goods, if Earnest be given to the Seller, and Part of them are taken away by the Buyer, he must pay the Residue of the Money upon fetching away the Rest, because no other Time is appointed; and the Earnest given binds the Bargain, and gives the Buyer a Right to demand the Goods; but a Demand without paying the Money is void: And it has been held, that after the Earnest is taken, the Seller cannot dispose of the Goods to another, unless there is some Default in the Buyer; therefore if he doth not take away the Goods, and pay the Money, the Seller ought to require him so to do, and then if he doth not do it in convenient Time, the Bargain and Sale is dissolved, and the Seller may dispose them to any other Person. 1 Salk. 113. A Seller of a Thing is to keep it for a reasonable Time, for Delivery: But where no Time is appointed for Delivery of Things sold, or for Payment of the Money, it is generally implied that the Delivery be made immediately, and Payment on the Delivery. 3 Salk. 61. Where one agrees for Wares sold, the Buyer must not carry them away before paid for; except a Day of Payment is allowed him by the Seller. Noy 87. And if a Man affirms a Thing sold is of such a Value, when it is not, this is not actionable; but if he actually Warrants it, at the Time of the Sale, and not afterwards, it will bear an Action, being Part of the Contract. 2 Cro. 4, 386, 630. 1 Roll. Abr. 97. See Contract. And Sales of Goods in Markets, to be binding, &c. vide Market.

Salet, Is a Head-piece, (from the Fr. Salut, i. e. Salus) A Salet or Scul of Iron, &c. 20 R. 2. c. 1. 4 & 5 P. & M.

Sancta, Are the Reliques of the Saints; and Furare super Sancta was to make Oath on those Reliques. Leg. Canut. c. 57.

Sanctuary, (Sanctuarium) Is a Place privileged for the Safe-guard of Offenders Lives, being founded upon the Law of Mercy, and the great Reverence and Devotion which the Prince bears to the Place whereunto he grants such Privilege. Sanctuaries were first granted by K. Lucius to our Churches and their Precincts; and among all other Nations, our ancient Kings of England seem to have attributed most to these Sanctuaries, permitting them to shelter such as had committed both Felonies and Treasons; so as within forty Days they acknowledged their Fault, and submitted themselves to Banishment; during which Space, if any Lay-man expell'd them, he was excommunicated; and if a Clerk, he was made irregular. Mat. Westm. Ann. 187. S. P. C. lib. 2. cap. 38. Fleta, lib. 1. c. 29. St. John's of Beverley in Yorkshire had an eminent Sanctuary belonging to it in the Time of the Saxons: And St. Buriens in Cornwall had the like granted by King Athelstan, Anno 936. so had Westminster granted by King Edward the Confessor; and St. Martins le Grand in London. 21 H. 8. &c.

Sanctuaries, It has been observ'd, did not gain the Name of such 'till they had the Pope's Bull, though they had the full Privilege of Exemption from Temporal Courts by the King's Grant only: But no Sanctuary granted by general Words, extended to High Treason; though it extended to all Felonies, except Sacrilege, and all inferior Crimes, not committed by a Sanctuary Man; and it never was a Protection against any Action Civil, any farther than to save the Defendant from Execution of his Body, &c. 2 Hawk. P. C. 335 336. Sanctuaries were abolished here by the Statutes 26, 28 & 32 H. 8. and 1 & 2 Ed. 6. And the Plea of Sanctuary with Abjuration is taken away by 21 Jac. 1.

Scandalum Magnatum, Is the special Name of a Scandal or Wrong done to any high Personage of the Realm: And it is also a Writ granted to recover Damages thereupon. 2 R. 2. c. 5. None shall report any false or slanderous News or Tales of Great Men, whereby any Discord may arise betwixt, the King and his People, on Pain of Imprisonment until they bring forth the Author. Stat. Westm. 1. c. 34. No Person shall devise or tell any false News, or Lies, of any Lord, Prelate, Officer of the Government, Judge, &c. by which any Slander shall happen, or Mischief come to the Kingdom, upon Pain of being imprisoned; and where any One hath told false News or Lies, and cannot produce the Author, he shall suffer Imprisonment, and be punished by the King's Council, &c. 2 R. 2. c. 5. 12 R. 2. c. 11. If the Slander is published in a Libel, the Party may be indicted, fined and imprison'd: But the Action of Scandalum Magnatum is usually brought upon the 2 R. 2. tam pro Domino Rege, quam pro seipso, in the Name of the King and the Party; the King being concerned in the Credit of Great Men, who act by his Authority; so that the Plaintiff recovers Damages upon this Statute for the Wrong, and the Defendant is imprison'd on the Statute of Westm. upon the King's Account. 5 Rep. 125. The Words in these Cases shall be taken in the worst Sense, to preserve the Honour of great Persons: Yet 'tis said a Defendant may justify in Scandalum Magnatum, setting forth the Special Matter. 1 Vent. 60. 1 Lev. 277. 4 Rep. 13, 14. And the Statutes extend only to extrajudicial Slanders, and so it is at Common Law; for though the Charge be false, which is alleged in a Court of Justice, no Action of Scandalis Magnat. lieth. 2 Inst. 228. 1 Roll. Abr. 34. Hob. 35. For these Words, I do not know but my Lord of Peterborough sent Gibbs to take my Purse; they were held actionable, though there was no positive Charge. 1 Vent. 59. So where a Defendant hearing that his Father's Barns were burnt, said, I cannot imagine who should do it but my Lord Stourton. Moor 142. A Man said of the Earl of Lincoln, That he was a base Earl, and a Poultry Lord, and kept none but Rogues and Rascals about him; although the Words were spoken chiefly concerning his Servants, they were judg'd in Contempt of his Honour and Dignity, and actionable. 2 Cro. 196. But where the Defendant said, The Lord Lincoln's Man did, by his Command, take the Goods of a certain Person by a forged Warrant; after a Verdict for the Plaintiff and great Damages, the Judgment was arrested, because it was not averred that the Earl knew the Warrant to be forged. Goldsb. 115. If one says of a Peer, He is an unworthy Person, and acts against Law and Reason; in the Case of the Lord Townsend it was adjudg'd Action of Scandalum Magnatum lay, notwithstanding the Words were general, and charged him with nothing certain: Though Justice Atkins held an Action, would not lie for these Words, being of a trivial Nature; and the Statute mentions only great Scandals, whereby Discord might arise, &c. 1 Mod. 232. 2 Mod. 150. 1 Danv. Abr. 165. In this last Case 4000 l. Damages were given; and on a Motion for a new Trial, because of the excessive Damages, it was denied. 1 Nelf. Abr. 130. The Defendant being a Parson, spoke the following Words in the Pulpit, The Lord of Leicester is a wicked and cruel Man, and an Enemy to the Reformation; and in Action of Scandalum Magnatum the Plaintiff had 500 l. Damages. 2 Sid. 21, 30. The Statute of Scandalum Magnatum is a general Law, of which the Court is to take Notice. 4 Rep. 12. And it hath been resolv'd, that if the Plaintiff recites so much of the Statute in his Declaration as will maintain his Action, though he mistakes the Rest, it will not make his Declaration ill: But it being a general Law, it need not be recited. 2 Mod. 98. An Action brought upon this Statute, and several particular Objections to the Declaration, with the Answers to them, and Judgment for the Plaintiff, see Cro. Car. 135.

Scabage, Scavage or Schelmage, (From the Sax. Sceawian, i. e. Ostendere) A Kind of Toll or Custom, exacted by Mayors, Sheriffs, &c. of Merchant Strangers, for Wares shewed or exposed to Sale within their Liberties; prohibited by the Statute 19 H. 7. c. 7. But the City of London still retains this ancient Custom to a good yearly Profit: And the Lord Chancellor, Treasurer, President of the Council, Privy Seal, Steward, and two Justices of the King's Bench and Common Pleas, are to ascertain these Duties, and order Tables to be made mentioning the Particulars, &c. by 22 H. 8. c. 8.

Scabaldus, The Officer who collected the Scavage Money, which was sometimes done with great Extortion.

Scabengers, (From the Belg. Schaven, to scrape or carry away) Are Persons chosen into this Office in London and its Suburbs, who hire Rakers and Carts to cleanse the Streets, and carry the Dirt and Filth thereof away. 14 Car. 2. c. 2. In Easter-Week yearly, two Tradesmen in every Parish within the Weekly Bills of Mortality must be elected Scavengers, by the Constables, Church-wardens, and other Inhabitants, who are to take upon them the Office in Seven Days, under the Penalty of 10 l. These Scavengers every Day except Sundays or Holidays, are to bring their Carts into the Streets, and give Notice by a Bell, or otherwise, of carrying away Dirt, and to stay a convenient Time, or shall forfeit 40 s. and Justices of Peace in their Petit Sessions may give Scavengers Liberty to lodge their Dirt in vacant Places near the Streets, satisfying the Owner for the Damage, &c. All Persons within the Weekly Bills, are to sweep the Streets before their Doors every Wednesday and Saturday, on Pain of 3 s. 4 d. and Persons laying Dirt or Ashes before their Houses, incur a Forfeiture of 5 s. Inhabitants and Owners of Houses are also to pave the Streets before their own Houses, under the Penalty of 20 s. for every Perch: And Constables, Church-wardens, &c. may make a Scavenger's Tax, being allowed by two Justices of Peace, not exceeding 4 d. in the Pound, &c. 2 W. & M. c. 2. By the Stat. 1 Geo. c. 48. Justices of Peace in their Quarter-Sessions may appoint Scavengers, and order the Repairing and Cleansing the Streets in any City or Market-Town, and appoint Persons to make Assessments, so as not to exceed 6 d. per Pound per Ann. to defray the Charge of such Scavengers, to be collected and levied by Distress; and when new Scavengers are chosen, the old Ones must account before two Justices for the Money assess'd and collected, and pay what remains in their Hands to the new Scavengers, or be committed to Prison, &c. The Assessments for Scavengers of the Parishes of St. Anne Westminster, and St. James's, shall be rated according to the Custom of the City; and ancient Streets in the City are to be maintained according to ancient Usage, &c. The Lord Mayor or any Alderman may present upon View, any Offence within the City, and assess Fines not exceeding 20 s. to be paid to the Chamberlain for the Use of the City, &c. Stat. Ibid.

Schirens-geld, Schire-geld, Was a Tax paid to the Sheriffs for keeping the Shire or County-Court. Cartular. Abbat. St. Edmund. 37.

Schism, (Schisma) A Rent or Division in the Church: There was a Statute made to prevent the Growth of Schism. Anno 12 Ann.

Schoolmaster. No Person shall keep or maintain a Schoolmaster, which does not constantly go to Church, or is not allow'd by the Ordinary; in Pain of 10 l. a Month; and the Schoolmaster shall be disabled, and suffer a Year's Imprisonment. Stat. 23 Eliz. c. 1. Recusants are not to be Schoolmasters in any publick Grammar-School, nor any other, except the Person be licensed by the Bishop; under the Penalty of forfeiting 40 s. a Day. 1 Jac. 1. c. 4. Every Schoolmaster keeping any publick or private School, and every Tutor in any private Family, shall subscribe the Declaration, that he will conform to the Liturgy of the Church of England as by Law established, and be licensed by the Ordinary; or he shall for the first Offence suffer three Months Imprisonment, &c. 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 4. If any Papist shall be convicted of Keeping a School, or take upon him the Education of Youth, he shall be adjudged to perpetual Imprisonment. 11 & 12 W. 3. c. 4. Persons keeping Schools without a Licence from the Bishop, and receiving the Sacrament of the Church of England, taking the Oaths, &c. (except Tutors in Reading, Writing, and Arithmetick) shall be committed to the common Gaol for three Months, &c. 12 Ann. But this last Statute, as to Schoolmasters receiving the Sacrament of the Church is repealed by 5 Geo. c. 3. By our Canons, no Man shall teach in a publick School, or private House, but such as is allowed and examined by the Bishop, and of sober Life: And all Schoolmasters are to teach the Catechism of the the Church in English or Latin; and bring their Scholars to Church, and afterwards examine them how they have benefited by Sermons, &c. Can. 77, 79.

Scilicet, An Adverb, signifies, that is to say, to wit; and is often used in Grants and Law-Proceedings. Sir John Hobart in his Exposition of this Word, says it is not a direct and separate Clause, nor a direct and intire Clause, but intermedia; neither is it a substantive Clause of it self, but it is rather to usher in the Sentence of another, and to particularize that which was too general before, or distribute that which was in gross, or to explain what was doubtful and obscure; and it must either increase or diminish, as it gives nothing of it self: Also it will make a Restriction, where the precedent Words are not so very express, but they may be restrained. Hob. 168, 174. The Word Scilicet in a Declaration, shall not make any Alteration of that which went before. Poph. 201, 204. And yet in some Cases, the Scilicet which introduces a Subsequent, shall not be rejected. 2 Cro. 618.

Scire facias, Is a Writ judicial, most commonly to call a Man to shew Cause to the Court whence it issues, why Execution of a Judgment should not go out. Old Nat. Br. 151. A Scire facias lieth, where Debt and Damages are recovered, and no Execution is sued out within a Year and a Day; then after the Year and Day, the Plaintiff shall have this Writ to summon the Defendant to shew Cause why there should not be Execution sued upon the Judgment against him; and if he can shew no Cause, there is Judgment, Quod habeat Executionem. Terms de Ley 537. 2 Lill. Abr. 497. This Writ was not at the Common Law; but given by the Stat. of Westm. 2. cap. 45. in Personal Actions, when Debt or Damages were recovered: And before, if the Plaintiff had not sued out his Execution in a Year and a Day after his Judgment, he had no Remedy but by new Action of Debt upon his Judgment; but now he hath his Liberty to bring either a Scire facias, or Action of Debt, as he pleases. 2 Inst. 469. At Common Law the Writ of Scire facias lay only on Judgments in Real Actions; though it has been adjudg'd that it lay also in mix'd Actions. 2 Salk. 600. If any of the Writs of Execution, whether in Personal or Real Actions, are not executed within the Year and Day after the Judgment, to obtain Execution, there must be a Scire facias, to shew Cause why the Execution should not be awarded: But if the Plaintiff sueth out any of them within the Year, he may continue them after the Year 'till he hath Execution, and need not sue out any Sci. fac. And a Writ of Error is the Continuance of the Cause, so that no Scire facias is required, tho' it depend some Years; and because pending the Writ of Error the Plaintiff cannot sue out Execution of the Judgment, but he may after the Affirmation of it, &c. Litt. 505. 1 Inst. 290. 2 Inst. 471. 2 Lill. 500, 504. Where Judgment is had against a Testator, there must issue a Scire facias against the Executor, although within the Year, to shew Cause why Execution shall not be had; the like against an Administrator of an Intestate: And so on the Plaintiff's Part, if Heir, Executor, or Administrator; the Person being altered: And if one recovers against a Feme sole, and she is married within the Year and Day, a Scire facias is to go against the Husband. Wood's Inst. 610. When either Plaintiff or Defendant, or one of the Plaintiffs or Defendants dies, Execution may not be sued out upon a Judgment until a Scire facias obtained and Judgment thereupon; in these Cases there is to be a new Judgment to warrant Execution. 2 Lill. Abr. 500. If an Administrator obtains Judgment for a Debt due to the Intestate, by Default or Confession, and the Administrator doth after die Intestate, and Letters of Administration are granted to one de bonis non, &c. of him that first died Intestate; this Administrator cannot have a Scire facias to revive the Judgment obtained by the first Administrator of the first Intestate, but he must bring a new Action to recover that Debt; for he is no Ways Party or Privy to the first Judgment, but a meer Stranger to it: But if the Recovery were by Verdict, he may now have a Scire facias upon it, by 17 Car. 2. c. 8. 2 Lill. 505. It hath been used of late to make out a Fieri facias de bonis Testatoris, and also a Scire facias, and a Writ of Inquiry, all in one Writ, against an Executor or Administrator, for the speedier Obtaining of Execution upon a Judgment; though antiently they were distinct Writs or Processes, and to be severally executed. Ibid. 503. One may have a Scire facias to revive an old Judgment upon which no Execution hath been executed, without any Motion, if it be but seven Years past since the Judgment was had; and if it be above seven Years, and under ten Years since the Judgment was given, a Scire facias may be moved for at the Side-Bar to revive it: But if it be above ten Years, then a Sci. fac. cannot be had without moving the Court, and a Rule for it; and the Court doth not use to deny it, if moved for. Ibid. 502. 2 Salk. 598. If a Scire fac. be taken out to revive an old Judgment of above ten Years standing, without Motion and Leave of the Court, the Sci. fac. is not good, but may be set aside upon a Motion. Trin. 23 Car. B. R. A Scire facias to revive a Judgment, ought not to be granted 'till the Record of the Judgment be in Court where the Sci. fac. is moved for. 2 Lill. 498. In a Sci. fac. brought upon a Judgment given in C. B. it is necessary to shew before what Chief Justice by Name the Judgment was had; but it is not necessary to do it in a Scire facias upon a Judgment of B. R. And the Reason is, because the Proceedings are in the Common Pleas coram the Chief Justice & sociis suis; and in the King's Bench they are coram Domino Rege. Ibid. 499. If a Scire facias be sued upon a Judgment in B. R. where the Action is brought by Original; the Plaintiff must alledge a Place where the Court is held, as such a Sci. fac. is returnable Coram nobis ubicunque fuerimus, &c. 'tis otherwise on a Judgment in C. B. because that Court is by Magna Charta confined to a certain Place. 1 Ventr. 46. 1 Mod. 19. The Process of Scire facias ought to be in the same Court where the Judgment was given; unless it be on a Recognizance on a Statute Merchant or Staple; for in such Case it may be returnable in Chancery, the Recognizance being before that Court, who are Judges of it. 2 Bulst. 10. After the Removal of a Record by Certiorari into a Superior Court, a Scire facias shall issue, &c. And if a Sci. fac. is brought in B. R. upon a Judgment in an inferior Court, it must appear in the Writ it self, how the Judgment came into B. R. whether by Certiorari, or Writ of Error, because the Execution is different; if it came in by Certiorari, the Sci. fac. is to set forth the same, and the Limits of the inferior Jurisdiction, and pray pray Execution within those particular Limits; but if it was brought in by Writ of Error, that must be shewn in the Sci. fac. it self likewise, and pray Execution generally. 3 Salk. 320. A Scire facias is in the Nature of an Action, as the Defendant may plead to it: And it ought to be brought in the same County where the original Action was laid; for it must always pursue the first Action. Finch 477. Cro. Jac. 231. And if one doth not proceed upon a Writ of Scire facias within a Year and a Day after it was taken out, he cannot after that Time proceed upon that Writ, which is discontinued; but is to sue out a new Sci. fac. 2 Lill. 504. Scire fac. may be pleaded to, before Judgment given upon it; afterwards it is too late: Though a Writ of Error may be brought to reverse the Judgment on the Scire facias, if that be not good on which the Judgment was grounded. Ibid. 503. Payment is no Plea at Common Law to a Sci. fac. upon a Judgment; because it is a Debt upon Record. 3 Lev. 120. But this is altered by the 4 & 5 Ann. Whatever is pleadable to the original Action in Abatement, shall not be pleadable to disable the Plaintiff from having Execution on a Scire facias; because the Defendant had admitted him able to have Judgment. 1 Salk. 2. In Scire facias upon a Judgment in Debt, or other Personal Action, the Defendant cannot plead Non-tenure of the Land generally, where it is contrary to the Return of the Sheriff; but he may plead a special Non-tenure: But in a Sci. fac. to have Execution in a Real Action, the Defendant may plead Non-tenure generally, because the Freehold is in Question, and that is favoured in Law; and the Ter-tenants may plead there are other Ter-tenants not named, and pray Judgment if they ought to answer quousq; the others are summoned, &c. tho' 'twould be otherwise if the Sci. fac. had been against particular Tenants by Name. 2 Salk. 601. On a Sci. fac. to have Execution upon a Judgment in Action of Debt, every Ter-tenant is to be contributory, and therefore one shall not answer, as long as he can show that another is so, and not warned: Contra in a Scire facias upon a Judgment in a Real Action; for every Tenant is to answer for that which he hath, and one may be contributory, and the other not. 2 Cro. 507. 3 Nels. Abr. 204. There is to be a Scire facias against the Heir and Ter-tenants, to reverse a Common Recovery of Lands; the Scire facias is to issue against all the Ter-tenants, for they are to gain or to lose by the Judgment in the Recovery. Raym. 16. 3 Mod. 274. A Scire facias to have Execution of a Fine, shall not be sued against Lessee for Years; but against him who hath the Freehold, who may have some Matter to bar the Execution. Cro. Eliz. 471. 2 Brownl. 144. In Ejectment, it was adjudg'd, that a Sci. fac. might be brought by the Lessee though he was but nominal, and that it may be had by the Lessor himself; as either of them may have a Writ of Error on the Judgment: And that it might be brought against those who were Strangers to the Judgment, and against the Executors of the Defendant, &c. 2 Lutw. 1267. A Defendant being summoned upon a Scire fac. and the Summons return'd, if he doth not appear, but lets Judgment go by Default, he is for ever barred. 1 Lev. 41, 42. If the Sheriff hath return'd him warn'd, he shall not have Audita Querela on a Release, &c. for the Defendant might have pleaded the same on the Return of the Scire facias; but if the Sheriff return Nihil, on which an Execution is awarded, he shall have Audita Querela. New Nat. Br. 230. Where the Plaintiff in the Judgment releaseth the Defendant of all Judgments and Executions, &c. the Defendant may upon his Release sue out a Writ of Scire fac. against the Plaintiff in the Judgment ad Cognoscendum scriptum suum Relaxationis; and he needs not to sue out his Audita Querela. Hill. 5 W. & M. B. R. Sci. fac. may be sued against a Sheriff, for not bringing the Money into Court levied on a Judgment, to shew Cause why Execution should not be had against him for the Sum, with which he had charged himself by the Return of the Writ of Execution. Hutt. 32. If one sues out two Writs of Scire facias, one after the other, where it is upon a Judgment by Bill, there ought to be eight Days between the Teste and Return of the first Sci. fac. and seven Days at least between the Teste and Return of the second Sci. fac. And the Teste of the Alias Scire facias is to be the Day of the Return of the First. 3 Ann. B. R. 2 Lill. 503.

Scire facias against Bail, To an Action, is where a Capias ad Satisfac. is sued out and return'd Non est Inventus against the Principal, and the Writ filed; after which this Writ is brought to have Execution against the Bail, &c. And if upon the Sci. fac. or two Nichils return'd, the Bail do not appear, Judgment shall be entered against them. 1 Inst. 290. Lutw. 1273. In C. B. there is but one Sci. fac. against the Bail, and upon a Nihil return'd, there is Execution; but in B. R. there are two Scire facias's and two Nichils, and the first is to be duly return'd, before the Second sued out; and there must be fifteen Days inclusive between the Teste of the First and the Return of the last. 2 Salk. 599. There must be a particular Warrant of Attorney to a Sci. fac. against the Bail; for such a Warrant in the principal Action is no Warrant to the Scire fac. because these are distinct Actions; and the particular Warrant is to be entered when the Suit commences, which is when the Writ is return'd. 2 Salk. 603. When a Scire facias is brought against the Bail, it must be in eâ parte; and where 'tis brought against the Defendant in the principal Action, it is to be in hac parte. 2 Salk. 599. If there be no good Judgment against the Principal, Judgment against the Bail by Sci. fac. may be reversed, &c. 3 Nels. Abr. 190. See Bail.

Scire facias ad audiendum Errores, On Writs of Error. There must be fifteen Days between the Teste and Return of every Scire fac. ad audiend. Error. upon a Writ of Error returnable in B. R. And if on the Return of two Nichils, &c. the Defendant in Error doth not appear, it is not with him as it is in the Case of a Sci. fac. quare Execution. non, &c. but the Cause is to be set down to be heard by the Court, and the Plaintiff in Errors shall be heard thereunto ex parte. 2 Lill. Abr. 499. If a Writ of Error is brought in B. R. and the Record brought in, the Defendant may thereupon sue out a Scire facias. quare Executionem habere non debet, and an Alia Sci. fac. if there be not a Scire Feci return'd on the first Writ; and if the Plaintiff in Error after a Sci. fac. or two Nichils return'd, doth not before the Rule for Judgment upon the Scire fac. is out, appear and assign Errors, or plead to the Sci. fac. there will be Judgment against him Quod habeat Executionem, &c. But the Writ of Error depend still until Judgment is affirm'd or reverfed, or the Plaintiff in the Errors is nonsuited. Ibid. 502.

Scire facias upon a Recognisance. In Chancery may be sued out to extend Lands, &c. If upon a Scire facias on a Recognisance in the Chancery, the Record be transmitted into B. R. to try the Issue, and the Plaintiff is nonsuit; he may bring a new Sci. fac. in B. R. upon the Record there. 2 Saund. 27. Where a Statute is acknowledged, and the Cognisor afterwards confesseth a Judgment, and the Land is extended thereon, in this Case the Cognissee shall have a Scire facias to avoid the Extent of the Lands; but if the Judgment be on Goods, it is otherwise. 1 Brownl. 37. 3 Nelf. Abr. 186. Scire fac. lies on Recognisance of the Peace, &c. removed into B. R.

Scire facias to repeal Letters Patent and Grants. A Scire fac. to repeal a Patent, must be brought where the Record is, which is in Chancery; and there are to be two of these Writs sued out of the Petty-bag Office directed to the Sheriff of Middlesex, who by a Letter under the Seal of his Office must send Notice to the Corporation or Person whose Concern the Patent is, that there is a Scire facias issued out returnable at such a Time, and remaining with him, for the Revocation of such a Patent, and that if they do not appear thereunto, Judgment will be had against them by Default; and this Letter is to be delivered to the Corporation or Person interested in such Patent, by some Person who can make Oath thereof. Dalton's Sheriff. On a Sci. fac. out of Chancery returnable in B. R. to repeal Letters Patents, it was held, that if Letters Patent are granted to the Prejudice of any Person, as if a Fair is granted to the Damage of the Fair of another, &c. he may have a Scire facias on the Inrollment of such Grant in Chancery; but it may be a Question, whether a Sci. fac. upon a Record in Chancery is returnable in B. R. though after it is made returnable into B. R. that Court, and not the Chancery, hath the Jurisdiction of it. Mod. Caf. 229. In all Cases at Common Law, where the King's Title accrues by a judicial Record, and he grants his Estate over, the Party grieved could not have a Scire fac. against the Patentee, but was forced to his Petition to the King; otherwise it is when his Title is by Conveyance on Record, which is not judicial. 4 Rep. 59. The King hath a Right to repeal a Patent by Scire fac. where he was deceived in his Grant, or it is to the Injury of the Subject. 3 Lev. 220. And where a common Person is put to his Action, there upon an Inquisition found, the King is put to his Scire facias, &c. 9 Rep. 96.

Scire facias's Have issued to repeal the Grants of Offices, for Conditions broken, Non-attendance, &c. and for Disability, or in Case of Forfeiture, the Offices may be seized without Sci. fac. 3 Nelf. Abr. 201, 202.

Scire facias in Appeal of Murder, before a Pardon shall be allow'd; vide Appeal.

Scite, (Situs) Signifies the Setting or Standing of any Place; the Seat or Situation of a Capital Messuage, or the Ground whereon it stood. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. fol. 278. The Word in this Sense is mentioned in the Stat. 32 H. 2. c. 20. and 22 Car. 2. c. 11.

Scolds, Are indictable in the Sheriff's Turn, and punished by the Cucking-stool, &c.

Scot and Lot, (Sax. Sceat, pars. & Llot, i. e. Sors) Signify a customary Contribution laid upon all Subjects, according to their Ability. Spelm.

Nor are these old Words grown obsolete, for whoever in like Manner (though not by equal Portions) are assessed to any Contribution, are generally said to pay Scot and Lot. Stat. 33 H. 8. cap. 9.

Scotal, or Scotale, Is where any Officer of a Forest keeps an Ale-house within the Forest, by Colour of his Office, causing People to come to his House and there spend their Money for Fear of his Displeasure: It is compounded of Scot and Ale, which by Transposition of the Words is otherwise called an Alesbot. This Word is used in the Charter of the Forest, cap. 8. — Nullus Forestarius faciat Scotallas, vel Garbas colligat, vel aliquam Collectam faciat, &c. Manwood 216.

Scotare. Those Tenants are said Scottare, whose Lands are subject to pay Scot. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. pag. 875.

Scotland, Is united to England by 5 Ann. In the Reigns of King James 1. and K. Car. 2. Commissioners were appointed to treat with Commissioners of Scotland, concerning an Union. But the bringing about this Great Work, was reserved for the Reign of Queen Anne. The 1 Ann. c. 14. ordained Articles to be settled by Commissioners for the Union of the two Kingdoms, &c. And by the 5 Ann. c. 8. the Union was effected: The Kingdoms united are to be called Great Britain; and the Cross of St. George and St. Andrew to be conjoined; they are to be represented by one Parliament, and sixteen Peers of Scotland and forty-five Commoners are to be elected for Scotland, and have all the Privileges of Parliament as Peers of England: The Subjects of either Kingdom shall have Freedom of Trade, and be liable to the same Customs, and like Laws for publick Government, &c. Kirk-Government of the Church is confirm'd; and the Courts of Justice are to remain the same as before the Union, but subject to Regulation: When 1,997,763 l. shall be raised in England on a Land-Tax, Scotland is to be charged with 48,000 l. And Scotland is to have an Equivalent for being charged towards the Payment of the Debts of England, &c. By 6 Ann. c. 14. A Peer committing High Treason, or Felony in Scotland, may be tried by Commission under the Great Seal, constituting Justices to inquire, &c. in Scotland: And the King may grant Commissions of Oyer and Terminer in Scotland, to determine Treasons, &c. by the 7 Ann. c. 21. Persons having Lands in Scotland, guilty of High Treason by Corresponding with, Assisting, or remitting Money, &c. to the Pretender, on Conviction, to be liable to the Pains of Treason; and their Vassals continuing in dutiful Allegiance, shall hold the said Lands of his Majesty in Fee and Heritage for ever, where the Lands were so held of the Crown by the Offender: And Tenants continuing peaceable and occupying Land, are to hold the same two Years Rent-free. 1 Geo. c. 20. An Act for Disarming the High-lands of Scotland, and requiring Bail of Persons for their loyal and peaceable Behaviour, &c. 1 Geo. c. 54.

Scripture. All profane Scoffing of the Holy Scripture, or exposing any Part thereof to contempt and ridicule is punish'd by Fine and Imprisonment. 1 Hawk. P. C. 7.

Scribblers, Are mentioned in the Statute against Usury and excessive Interest of Money. 12 Ann. c. 6. If a Scrivener is intrusted with a Bond, he may receive the Interest, and if he fails, the Obligee shall bear the Loss; and so it is if he receive the Principal, and deliver up the Bond, Bond, for being intrusted with the Security it self, it shall be presumed he is trusted with Power to receive the principal and Interest, and the giving up the Bond on Payment of the Money is a Discharge thereof: But if a Scrivener be intrusted with a Mortgage-Deed, he hath only Authority to receive the Interest, not the Principal, the giving up the Deed in this Case not being sufficient to restore the Estate, but there must be a Reconveyance, &c. Decreed in Chancery. 7 Ann. 1 Salk. 157.

Scutage (Scutagium) Was a Tax on those that held Lands by Knights-Service, towards furnishing the King's Army. King Hen. 3d. for his Voyage to the Holy Land, had a Tenth granted by the Clergy, and Scutage, viz. Three Marks on every Knight's Fee by the Laity; and this was levied by King Hen. 2d, Rich. 1st, and King John. See Escuage.

Scute, A French Gold Coin of 3 s. 4 d. in the Reign of King Hen. 5. And Catherine Queen of England had an Assurance made her of sundry Castles, Manors, Lands, &c. valued at the Sum of forty thousand Scutes, every two whereof were worth a Noble. Rot. Parl. 1 Hen. 6.

Scutella, (from Scutum, Sax. Scutel) A Scuttle, any thing of a flat and broad Shape, like a Shield.

Scutella eleemosynaria, An Alms Basket or Scuttle. Paroch. Antiq.

Scutum Armorum, A Shield, or Coat of Arms. — Noverint Universi per presentes me Johannem K. dedisse, &c. Richardo P. filio Humfridi P. Scutum Armorum meorum: Habend' & tenend' ac portand' & utend' ubicunque voluerit sibi & heredibus suis imperpetuum; ita quod nec Ego nec aliquis alius nomine meo aliquod jus vel clameum seu calumpniam in predicto Scuto habere potuerimus, sed per Presentes sumus exclusi in perpetuum. In cuius Rei Testimonium, &c. Dat. apud Knightley Anno 14. H. 6.

Scyldwit, (Sax.) Is a Mulct for any Fault; from the Saxon Scilde, i. e. Delictum, & Wite, pena. Leg. Hen. 1.

Scyza, A Fine impos'd on such as neglected to attend the Scyregemot Court, which all Tenants were bound to do. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. pag. 52.

Scyre-gemot, (Sax.) Was a Court held by the Saxons twice every Year by the Bishop of the Diocese, and the Earldorman, in Shires that had Earldormen; and by the Bishop and Sheriff where they were committed to the Sheriffs, &c. wherein both the Ecclesiastical and Temporal Laws were given in Charge to the Country, Seld. Tit. Hon. 628. This Court was held three Times in the Year, in the Reign of K. Canutus the Dane. — Et habeatur in Anno ter Bergimotus & Scyremotus. Leg. Canut. cap. 38. And Edward the Confessor appointed it to be held twelve Times in a Year. Leg. Ed. Conf. cap. 35.

Sea, (Mare) The Main Sea, beneath the Low Water-mark, and round England, is Part of England; for there the Admiral hath Jurisdiction. 1 Inst. 260. 5 Rep. 107. The Seas which environ England are within the Jurisdiction of the King of England, 1 Roll. Abr. 528. Sovereignty of the Sea. Vide Navy.

Sea-Laws, Are Laws relating to the Sea; as the Laws of Oleron, &c.

Seamen, Retained to serve the King, are punishable for departing without Licence. Stat. 2. R. 2. And Fighting, Quarrelling, and Diturbances of Seamen may be punished by the Commissioners of the Navy by Fine and Imprisonment. 19 Car. 2. cap. 7. Registered Seamen are exempted from serving upon Juries, or in any Parish Office, &c. and shall have 40 s. per Annum Bounty-Money, besides their Pay; and on Disability of Service be admitted into Greenwich Hospital. 7 & 8 W. 3. cap. 21. By this Act, Seamen to the Number of 30,000 were to be registered for the King's Service. See Navy and Mariner.

Seareebee, In villis Maritimis est qui Maritimum Domini Jurisdictionem curat, litus lustrat, & ejectum Maris (quod Wreck appellatur) Domino colligit. Spelm.

Seal, (Sigillum) Is a little Image graven or molten, or Signet made use of in sealing of Deeds, &c. The first sealed Charter we had in England is said to be that of King Edward the Confessor, upon his Foundation of Westminster Abbey: But Seals were in use in the Times of the Saxons, according to Taylor in his History of Gavelk. 73. Before the Conquest, the English did not seal with Wax, but they usually made a Cross of Gold on the Parchment, and sometimes an Impression on a Piece of Lead, which hang'd to the Deed with a string of Silk; and thus it continu'd 'till the Reign of King Hen. 2. and then they sealed their Deeds with Wax, the Colour whereof was green with which the King's Grants were sealed, to signify that they were always to be in Vigour; and the Impression on all Seals was a Man on Horse-back, with his Sword in his Hand, 'till about the Year 1218. when they began to engrave Coats of Arms on their Seals, &c. Ingulph. 901. 2 Nelf. 207. In former Times, the Makers of Deeds subscribed their Names, adding the Sign of the Cross, and in the End setting down a great Number of Witnesses, without using any Kind of Seal; but in the Time of Will. 1st, called the Conqueror, the King and the Nobility used Seals of Arms, which was afterwards followed by the Gentry; and in the Reign of King Edw. 3d, Seals with Devices became common with all Sorts of Persons. Terms de Ley. 331, 332. — Has Donationes & Ordinationes confirmarunt & Cruce signarunt, Henricus Rex, & Mathildis Regina. Mon. Angl. Tom. 3. pag. 7. Sealing of Writings by biting the Wax, see Wang.

Sealing Deeds, Makes Persons Parties to them; and if they are not thus sealed they are void, Dyer 13. If a Seal is broken off, it will make the Deed void; and when several are bound in a Bond, the pulling off the Seal of one makes it void as to the others. 2 Lev. 220. 3 Nelf. Abr. 208.

Dutchy Seal, Exchequer Seal, Great Seal, Privy Seal, Seals of Office of Bishops, &c. Vide the Heads.

Sealer (Sigillator) Is an Officer of the High Court of Chancery, appointed by the Lord Chancellor to seal the Writs and Instruments there made in his Presence.

Seam, (Sax.) A Measure of Corn. See Seme.

Sean Fish, Seems to be that Sort of Fish which is taken with a large and long Net, called a Sean. Stat. 1. Jac. 1. cap. 25.

Searcher, An Officer of the Customs, whose Business it is to search and examine Ships outward bound, if they have any prohibited or uncustomed Goods on board, &c. This Officer is mentioned in the Stat. 12. Car. 2. And there are Searchers concern'd in Alnage Duties; of Leather, and in divers other Cases.

Secondary, (Secundarius) Is an Officer who is Second or next to the Chief Officer; as the Secondaries to the Prothonotaries of the Courts of B. R. and C. B. the Secondary of the Remembrancer in the Ex chequer, Secondary of the Compter, &c. 2 Lill. Abr. 506.

Writ of the Office of Privy Seal, Is taken Notice of by 1 Edw. 4. cap. 1.

Second Replevin, (Secunda Deliberatione) Is a Judicial Writ that lies after a Nonsuit of the Plaintiff in Replevin, and a Returno Habendo of the Cattle replevin, adjudg'd to him that distrained them; commanding the Sheriff to replevy the same Cattle again, upon Security given by the Plaintiff in the Replevin for a Redelivery of them, if the Distress be justified. It is a second Writ of Replevin, &c. F. N. B. 68.

Second Marriage, (Secunda Nuptia) Is when after the Decease of one a Man marries a second Wife, which the Law terms Bigamus.

Secretary, (Secretarius, & Secretis.) A Title given to him that is ab Epistolis & Scriptis Secretis; as the two Secretaries of State, &c. The Secretaries of State have an extraordinary Trust, which renders them very Considerable in the Eyes of the King, and of the Subject also; whose Requests and Petitions are for the most part lodg'd in their Hands, to be represented to his Majesty, and to make Dispatches thereupon, pursuant to his Majesty's Directions: They are Privy Counsellors, and a Council is seldom or never held without the Presence of one of them; they wait by turns, and one of these Secretaries always attends the Court, and by the King's Warrant, prepares all Bills or Letters for the King to sign, not being Matter of Law. And depending on them is the Office called the Paper Office, which contains all the publick Writings of State, Negotiations, and Dispatches, all Matters of State and Council, &c. and they have the Keeping of the King's Seal, called the Signet, because the King's private Letters are signed with it. There was but one Secretary of State in this Kingdom till about the End of the Reign of King Hen. 8. but then that great and weighty Office was thought proper to be discharged by two Persons, both of equal Authority, and stiled Principal Secretaries of State. The Correspondence with all Parts of Great Britain is managed by either of the Secretaries, without Distinction; but in respect to foreign Affairs, all Nations which have Intercourse of Business with Great Britain, are divided into two Provinces, the Southern and the Northern; of which the Southern is under the Senior, and the Northern under the junior Secretary, &c. Our Secretaries of State have Power to commit Persons for Treason, and other Offences against the State, as Conservators of the Peace at Common Law, or as Justices of Peace all over England; and it is incident to their Office. 1 Salk. 347. Wood's Inst. 458.

Secta Curia, Suit and Service done by the Tenants at the Court of their Lord. Paroch. Antiq. 320.

Secta ad Curiam, Is a Writ which lieth against him who refuseth to perform his Suit to the County-Court, or Court-Baron. F. N. B. 158.

Secta facienda per illam quæ habet æniam partem, Is a Writ to compel the Heir that hath the Elder's Part among Co heirs, to perform Service for all the Coparceners. Reg. Orig. 177.

Secta Molendini, A Writ lying where a Man by Usage Time out of Mind, &c. hath grinded his Corn at the Mill of a certain Person, and afterwards goeth to another Mill with his Corn, thereby withdrawing his Suit to the former: And this Writ lies especially for the Lord against his Tenants who hold of him to do Suit at his Mill. Reg. Orig. 153. F. N. B. 122. The Count in the Writ Secta Molendini, may be on the Tenure of the Land; or upon Prescription, viz. That the Tenant, and all those who held those Lands, have used to do their Suit at the Plaintiff's Mill, &c. New Nat. Br. 272. Secta ad Molendinum, and Assises of Nuisance are now much turned into Actions of the Case.

Secta Regalis, A Suit by which all Persons were bound twice in a Year to attend the Sheriff's Tourn; and was called Regalis, because the Sheriff's Tourn was the King's Leet, wherein the People were to be obliged by Oath to bear true Allegiance to the King, &c.

Secta unica tantum facienda pro pluribus hæreditatibus, Is a Writ that lies for an Heir who is distrained by the Lord to do more Suits than one, in respect of the Land of divers Heirs descended to him. Reg. Orig.

Secta non faciendi, A Writ brought by a Woman, who for her Dower, &c. ought not to perform Suit of Court. Reg. Orig. 174.

Secunda Superoneratione Pasturæ, Is a Writ which lieth where Admeasurement of Pasture hath been made, and he that first surcharged the Common doth it a second Time, notwithstanding the Admeasurement. Old Nat. Br. 73.

Securitatem inveniendi quod se non dixerat ad Partes externas sine Licentia Regis, An ancient Writ lying for the King against any of his Subjects, to stay them from going out of this Kingdom to foreign Parts; the Ground whereof is, That every Man is bound to serve and defend the Common Wealth, as the King shall think fit. F. N. B. 85. See Ne exeat Regnum.

Securitate Pæris, Is a Writ that lies for one who is threatened Death or Danger by another, against him which so threatens; and is issued out of the Chancery directed to the Sheriff, &c. Reg. Orig. 88.

Se Defendendo, Is a Plea for him that is charged with the Death of another Person, by alledging that he was driven unto what he did in his own Defence; and the other so assaulting him, that if he had not done as he did, he must have been in Danger of his own Life; which Danger ought to be so great, as that it appears to have been otherwise inevitable. Staundf. P. C. lib. 1. cap. 7. Any Person in his Defence may kill another for the Safety of his Life; and where a Man is attack'd, a Defence may be made without expecting the first Blow, which may render a Person incapable of making any Defence: But a Defence ought to be always unblameable, not to take Revenge. Bac. Max. 25. If a Man attack another Person on a sudden falling out, and before a Mortal Wound is given, the other flies to the Wall, or some other unpassable Place, to save his Life, and being still pursued kills the Person making the Assault; from the unavoidable Necessity of it, this is Se Defendendo; and so in the like Cases. Bract. 3. E. 3. There is no express Judgment in Chance-medley, or Se Defendendo; but the Offender is left to Mainprise to sue out his Pardon; and yet his Goods and Chattels are forfeited; tho' where one kills another in his own Defence, upon the Special Matter found, it is said he may be dismiss'd without any Forfeiture, or Pardon purchased. 2 Inst. 148. 3 Inst. 220. 1 Inst. 391. H. P. C. 138. See the Statute 4 H. 8. cap. 5.

Seditious Conventicles, To the Disturbance of the Peace, &c. See Conventicles and Heresy.

Seed-cod, (from the Sax. Seed, Seed, and Codd, a Purse or such like Continent) Is a Basket or other Vessel of Wood carried on one Arm of the Husbandman or Sower of Ground, to bear the Seed or Grain which he sows, and spreads abroad with the other Hand: In Westmoreland a Bolster or Pillow is called a Codd; and in other Northern Parts a Pin cushion is term'd a Pin-cod. —Pro uno Seed-cod cmpto 4 d. Paroch. Antiq. 549. Kennet's Glos.

Seeder, A Seedfman, or one who sows the Land. Blount.

Seigneur, (Fr. Seigneur, i. e. Dominus) Is in general Signification as much as Lord; but particularly used for the Lord of the Fee, or of a Manor, as Senior among the Feudists is he who grants a Fee or Benefit out of the Land to another; and the Reason is, because having granted away the Use and Profit of the Land, the Property or Dominium he still retains in himself. Hotom. F. N. B. 23.

Seignior, (Dominium) Signifies a Manor or Lordship, and it often occurs in our old Books. Kitch. 80.

Seigniorage, Is a Royalty or Prerogative of the King, whereby he claims an Allowance of Gold and Silver brought in the Mass, to be exchanged for Coin. As Seigniorage, out of every Pound-Weight of Gold, the King had for his Coin 5 s. of which he paid to the Master of the Mint for his Work sometimes 1 s. and sometimes 1 s. 6 d. Upon every Pound-Weight of Silver, the Seigniorage answer'd to the King in the Time of King Edw. 3d, was eighteen Penny-weight, which then amounted to about 1 s. out of which he sometimes paid 8 d. at others 9 d. to the Master: In the Reign of King Hen. 5. the King's Seigniorage of every Pound of Silver was 15 d. &c. Stat. 9. Hen. 5. cap. 1. Hale's Sher. Acco. pag. 3.

Seisin, (Seisina, Fr. Seisine) In the Common Law signifies Possession. To seise is to take Possession of a Thing; and primer Seisin is the first Possession. Co. Lit. 152. There is a Seisin in Deed or in Fact, and a Seisin in Law; a Seisin in Deed is when an actual Possession is taken; and Seisin in Law is where Lands descend, and one hath not actually entred on them, &c. 1 Inst. 31. Seisin in Law is a Right to Lands and Tenements, though the Owner is by Wrong disseised of them: And he who hath an Hour's actual Possession quietly taken, hath Seisin de droit & de claime, whereof no Man may disseise him, but must be driven to his Action. Perk. 457, 458. A Seisin in Law is sufficient to avow upon; but to the bringing an Affise actual Seisin is required, &c. 4 Rep. 9. Seisin of a superior Service, is Seisin of all inferior Services which are incident thereto: And Seisin of Homage is a Seisin of all other Services, because in the doing thereof the Tenant takes upon himself to do all Services. 4 Rep. 80. 1 Danv. Abr. 647. The Seisin of Rent, or other annual Service, is a sufficient Seisin of casual Services. 4 Rep. 8. But Seisin of one annual Service is not Seisin of another annual Service; as if there be Lord and Tenant by Fealty, ten Shillings Rent, and three Days Work in the Year; in this Case Seisin of the Rent is no Seisin of the Work, nor is Seisin of the Rent Seisin of the Suit of Court, which is annual. 4 Rep. 9. 1 Danv. Abr. 647. 2 L. R. 507. The Seisin of the Father is not sufficient for the Heir; though if a Fine be levied to one for Life, the Remainder to another in Tail, and the Tenant for Life takes Seisin of the Services, this will be a good Seisin for him in Remainder; and the Seisin of a Lessee for Years is sufficient for him in Reversion. 2 H. 6, 7. 45 Ed. 3, 26. 1 Danv. 805, 646. Where a Man is seised of a Reversion, depending upon an Estate for Life, the Pleading of it is that he was seised of it ut de feodo, leaving out the Word Dominico; but if it be a Reversion in Fee, expectant upon the Determination of a Lease for Years, there he may plead that he was seised of it in Dominico suo ut de feodo. Dyer 185, 257. Rep. 20, 27. 4 Rep. 68. Seisin is never to be alledg'd, but where it is traversable; and when a Defendant alledged a Seisin in Fee in any one under whom he claims, the Plaintiff cannot alledge a Seisin in another, without traversing, confessing or avoiding of the Seisin alledged by the Defendant. Cro. Eliz. 30. 1 Brownl. 170. When a Seisin in Fee is alledged, it shall be intended a lawful Seisin till the contrary appears. 2 Lutw. 1337. But the Party is to shew of what Estate he is seised, &c. 3 Nelf. Abr. 215. See Stat. 32. H. 8. cap. 2.

Seisina habenda, quia Rex habuit Annum, Diem, & hystum, Is a Writ that lies for Delivery of Seisin to the Lord of Lands or Tenements, after the King in Right of this Prerogative hath had the Year, Day and Waste, on a Felony committed, &c. Reg. Orig. 165.

Sel, Denotes the Bigness of a Thing to which it is added; as Selwood is a great Wood.

Selds, (from the Sax. Selde, a Seat, or Stool) Is used for a Shop, Shed, or Stall in a Market. Affis. 9. R. 1. But Sir Edw. Coke takes the Word Selda for a Wood of Sallows. Co. Lit. 4.

Sellobane, (Sax. Self-bana) Is where a Man murders himself, called Felo de se.

Self-Preservation. Every Creature has implanted in it by Nature a strong Desire of Self-Preservation; and by our ancient Law, if a Man stole Victuals merely to satisfy his present Hunger, being for the Preservation of Life, it was not Felony, but this Law is become obsolete. Staund. P. C. See se Defendendo.

Selson of Land, (Selio Terra) Is derived from the Fr. Seillon, which signifies a Ridge of Land, or Ground arising between two Furrows, and contains no certain Quantity, but sometimes more and sometimes less: Therefore Crompton says, That a Selson of Land cannot be in Demand, because it is a Thing uncertain. Crompt. Juris. 221.

Seme, (Sax. Seam, i. e. Onus) A Horse Load, or eight Bushels of Corn. Blount. A Seme of Glafs is twenty-four Stone, each Stone five Pounds Weight.

Semevole, A Pipe, or Half a Tun of Wine. Merch. Dist.

Seminaries, Persons are not to go or be sent to Popish Seminaries, to be instructed or educated, under divers Penalties and Disabilities, by Stat. 1. Jac. 1. cap. 4. And Contributing to the Maintenance tenance of a Popish Seminary, is made a Premunire. Stat. 27. Eliz. cap. 2. See Papist.

Seminiverbius, A Preacher, or Sower of Words. Pet. Bese.

Senage, (Senagium, from Senatus, sometimes used for Synod) Is Money paid for Synodals.

Senatoz, (Lat.) As now taken, is a Parliament Man. In the Laws of King Edw. the Confessor, we are told that the Britons called those Senators whom the Saxons afterwards term'd Aldermen, and Borough-masters; tho' not for their Age, but their Wisdom, for some of them were young Men, but very well skill'd in the Laws. Kenulph, King of the Mercians, granted a Charter which ran thus, viz. Consilio & consensu Episcoporum & Senatorum gentis sue largitus fuit dicto Monasterio, &c. Staundf. P. C. cap. 28.

Sendal, A Kind of thin fine Silk, mentioned in the Stat. 2. R. 2. cap. 1.

Seneschal, (Senescallus, derived from Germ. Sein a House or Place, and Schale, an Officer) Is a Steward: As the High Seneschal, or Steward of England; Seneschal de le Hotel de Roy, Steward of the King's Household, Seneschal or Steward of Courts, &c. Co. Lit. 61. Croke's Jurisd. 102. Kitch. 83. See Steward.

Seneschallo & Marehallo quod non teneant placita de libero tenemento, A Writ directed to the Steward and Marshal of England, inhibiting them to take Cognizance of an Action in their Court that concerns Freehold. Reg. Orig. 185, 191.

Seneucia, A Word anciently used for Widowhood. Plac. Trin. 17. Ed. 3.

Seney-Days, Are Play-Days, or Times of Pleasure and Diversion — Dies recreationis vocati Anglice Seney-Days, &c. Regist. Eccl. Ebor. Anno 1562.

Seperia, Seperaria, Several, or severed and divided from other Ground. Paroch. Antiq. 336.

Separation, (Separatio) Is the Living asunder of Man and Wife. See Divorce.

Septuagesima, The third Sunday before Quadragesima Sunday in Lent, and is called Septuagesima, because 'tis about the seventieth Day before Easter, as Sexagesima and Quinquagesima are thus denominated from their being, the one sixty, the other fifty Days before the same Feast, which are all of them Days appropriated by the Church to acts of Penance and Mortification, preparatory to the Devotion of Lent. From Septuagesima Sunday until the Octaves after Easter, the Solemnizing of Marriage is forbidden by the Canon Law; and the Laws of King Canutus ordained a Vacancy from Judicature, from Septuagesima to Quindena Pasche. See Stat. Westm. 1. cap. 51.

Septuagint, The Seventy Interpreters of the Bible; who were in Truth seventy-two, viz. Six out of every one of the Twelve Tribes. Litt. Di&t.

Septum, An Inclosure, so called by Reason it is encompass'd cum Sepe & Fossa, with a Hedge or a Ditch, at least with a Hedge; and it signifies any Place paled in.

Sepulchre, (Sepulchrum) Is the Place where any Body lies buried; but a Monument is set up for the Memorial of the Deceas'd, though the Corps lie not there. Corwel.

Sepultura, An Offering made to the Priest for the Burial of a dead Body. Domesd.

Sequatur sub suo Periculo, Is a Writ that lies where a Summons ad Warrantizand' is awarded, and the Sheriff returns that the Party hath nothing whereby he may be summon'd; then goes forth an Alias and a Pluries; and if he come not in on the Pluries, this Writ shall issue. Old Nat. Br. 163.

Sequela Causæ, The Process and depending Issue of a Cause for Trial.

Sequela Curiz, Is used for Suit of Court. — Et quod sint liberi a Sequela Curiz. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. pag. 253.

Sequela Villanorum, The Retinue and Appurtenances to the Goods and Chattels of Villains, which were at the absolute Disposal of the Lord. In former Times, when any Lord told his Villain, it was said, Dedi B. Nativum meum cum tota Sequela sua; which included all the Villain's Offspring. Paroch. Antiq. 216, 288.

Sequentia, A Jubilee, or Song of Rejoycing. Brompton.

Sequefter (Sequestrare) Is a Term used in the Civil Law for Renouncing; as when a Widow comes into Court, and disclaims to have any thing to do, or to intermeddle with her Husband's Estate who is deceas'd. She is said to sequefter.

Sequestration, (Sequestratio) Signifies the Separation or setting aside of a Thing in Controversy, from the Possession of both the Parties that contend for it; and it is twofold, Voluntary and Necessary; Voluntary is that which is done by the Consent of each Party: Necessary is what the Judge of his Authority doth, whether the Parties will or not. Fortescue, cap. 50. Dyer 232, 256. And there is a Sequestration on a Person's standing out all the Processes of Contempt for Non-appearance in Chancery upon a Bill exhibited; so where Obedience is not yielded to a Decree, the Court will grant a Sequestration of the Lands of the Party, &c. And a Sequestration is also a Kind of Execution for Debt; especially in the Case of a beneficed Clerk, of the Profits of the Benefice, to be paid over to him that had the Judgment, 'till the Debt is satisfied. 2 Inst. 472. 2 Roll. Abr. 474. But the most usual Sequestration of a Benefice, is upon a Vacancy, for the gathering up the Fruits of the Benefice to the Use of the next Incumbent; and the Profits of the Church being in Abeyance, are to be received by the Church-wardens by Appointment of the Bishop, to make Provision for the Cure during the Vacancy, &c. Stat. 28. H. 8. cap. 11. Sequestration is further the Act of the Ordinary, disposing of the Goods of one that is dead, whose Estate no Man will meddle with.

Sequestration in London, Is made upon an Action of Debt; and the Course of proceeding in it is thus: The Action being entred, the Officer goes to the Shop or Warehouse of the Defendant, when there is no Body within, and takes a Padlock and hangs it upon the Door, &c. using these Words, viz. I do sequester this Warehouse, and the Goods and Merchandises therein of the Defendant in the Action, to the Use of the Plaintiff. &c. and so puts on his seal, and makes Return thereof at the Compter; then four Court-Days being past, the next Court after the Plaintiff may have Judgment to open the Doors of the Shop or Warehouse, and to appraise the Goods therein by a Serjeant, who takes a Bill of Appraisement, having two Freemen to appraise them, for which they are to be sworn at the next Court holden for that Compter; and then the Officer puts his Hand to the Bill of Appraisement ment, and the Court granteth Judgment ; though the Defendant in the Action may put in Bail before Satisfaction, and so dissolve the Sequestration; and after Satisfaction, may put in Bail ad disprobandum debitum, &c. Pract. Solic. 429.

Sequestro habendo, Is a Writ Judicial for the Discharging a Sequestration of the Profits of a Church Benefice granted by the Bishop at the King's Commandment, thereby to compel the Parson to appear at the Suit of another ; and the Parson upon his Appearance may have this Writ for the Release of the Sequestration. Reg. Judic. 36.

Serjeant, (Serviens, from the Fr. Sergeant) Is a Word diversly used ; as first a Serjeant at Law, (Serviens ad Legem) otherwise called Serjeant Counter or of the Coif, is the highest Degree in the Common Law, as a Doctor is in the Civil Law; but according to Spelman, a Doctor of Law is Superior to a Serjeant, for the very Name of a Doctor is Magisterial, but that of a Serjeant is only Ministerial. To these Serjeants, as Men best learned and experienced in the Law and Practice of the Courts, one Court is severd to plead in by themselves, which is that of the Common Pleas, where the Common Law of England is most strictly observ'd ; yet they are not so limited as to be restrained from Pleading in any other Courts, where the Judges (who cannot be such 'till they have taken the Degree of Serjeant) call them Brothers, and hear them with great Respect ; and of which one or more are stiled the King's Serjeants, being commonly chosen out of the rest in respect of their great Learning, to plead for the King in all his Causes, especially upon Indictments for Treason, &c. In other Kingdoms the King's Serjeant is called Advocatus Regius ; and here in England, in the Time of King Edw. 6th. Serjeant Benloe wrote himself solus Serviens ad Legem, there being for some Time none but himself ; and in Ireland at this Day there is only a King's Serjeant : Serjeants at Law are made by the King's Writ or Mandat directed unto such as are called, commanding them to take upon them that Degree by a certain Day ; and with what Solemnity they are created, see Fortescue, cap. 50. 3 Cro. 1. Dyer 72. 2 Inst. 213, 214. Their Privilege of being impleaded in C. B. &c. vide Privilege.

Serjeants at Arms, Their Office is to attend the Person of the King, to arrest Persons of Condition offending, and give Attendance on the Lord High Steward of England, sitting in Judgment on any Traitor, &c. There may not be above thirty Serjeants at Arms in the Realm, by the Stat. 13. R. 2. cap. 6. And two of them, by the King's Allowance, do attend on the two Houses of Parliament ; the Office of him in the House of Commons is, the Keeping of the Doors, and the Execution of such Commands touching the Apprehension and taking into Custody of any Offender, as that House shall injoin him. Another of them attends on the Lord Chancellor in the Chancery, and one on the Lord Treasurer of England : Also one upon the Lord Mayor of London on extraordinary Solemnities, &c. They are in the old Books called Virgatores, because they carried Silver Rods gilt with Gold, as they now do Maces, before the King. Stat. 7. Hen. 7. cap. 3. Crompt. Fur. 9. Fleta. lib. 2. cap. 38.

Serjeants Of a more inferior Kind are Serjeants of the Mace, whereof there is a great Band in the City of London, and other Corporate Towns, that attend the Mayor or other Head Officer, chiefly for Masters of Justice, &c. Kitch. 143. Formerly all the Justices of Eyre had certain Officers attending them called Serjeants, who were in the Nature of Tipstaves. West. 1. cap. 30. And the Word Serjeant is used in Britton for an Officer belonging to the County ; which is the same with what Bracton calls Serjeants of the Hundred, being no more than Bailiff of the Hundred. Bract. lib. 5. cap. 4. And we read of Serjeants of Manors, of the Peace, &c.

Serjeants of the Household, Are Officers who execute several Functions within the King's Household, mentioned in the Stat. 33. H. 8. cap. 12.

Serjeanty, (Serjantia) Signifies in Law a Service, that cannot be due from a Tenant to any Lord but to the King only ; and this is either Grand Serjeanty or Petit ; the first is a Tenure whereby one holds his Lands of the King by such Services as he ought to do in Person to the King at his Coronation ; and may also concern Matters Military, or Services of Honour in Peace, as to be the King's Butler, Carver, &c. Petit Serjeanty, is where a Man holds Land of the King, to furnish him Yearly with some small Thing towards his Wars ; and in Effect payable as Rent, though all Tenures are turn'd into Socage by the 12 Car. 2. cap. 24. Yet the Honourary Services of Grand Serjeanty still remain, being therein excepted. Lit. 153, 159. 1 Inst. 105, 108. See Chivalry.

Sermonium, Was an Interlude or Historical Play acted by the inferior Orders of the Clergy, assisted by Youths and Children in the Body of the Church, suitable to the Solemnity of some High Procession Day ; and before the modern Improvements of the Stage, these ruder Sort of Performances were even a Part of the unreform'd Religion. Collect. Matt. Hutton, Ex. Reg. Eccl. Lincoln. M.S.

Serples, A Mantle or upper Coat ; from the Lat. Superpellicium. Blount.

Servage, Is when Tenants, besides Payment of a certain Rent, find one or more Workmen for their Lord's Service. 1 R. 2. cap. 6. King John brought the Crown of England in Servage to the See of Rome. 2 Inst. 274.

Servants, Are such as Men of Trades and Professions employ under them, to assist them in their particular Callings ; or such Persons as others retain to perform the Work and Business of their Families, which comprehends both Men and Women : And Servants are Menial, or not so ; Menial, being Domesticks living within the Walls of the House. Wood's Inst. 51. Every Person under the Age of 30 Years, that has been brought up in Handicraft Trades, and hath not Lands of Inheritance, or for Life, of the yearly Value of 40 s. or is not worth 10 l. in Goods, and so allowed by two Justices of Peace, and not being retained with any Person in Husbandry, or in the said Arts, nor being lawfully hired as a Servant with any Nobleman or Gentleman, or having any Farm or other Holding whereupon he may employ his Labour ; shall, upon Request made by any Person using the Mystery wherein such Person hath been exercised, be obliged to serve him as a Servant therein, on Pain of Imprisonment : 5 Eliz. cap. 4. And by the same Statute, Persons are compellable to serve in Husbandry by the Year, with any Person that keepeth or useth Husbandry, and who will require any any proper Person to serve; and the Justices of Peace have Authority herein, and to assess the Wages of such Servants in Husbandry, order Payment, &c. Also two Justices, and Mayors or Head Officers of any City or Town, may appoint any poor Woman of the Age of 12 Years, and under 40. unmarried, to go to Service by the Year, &c. for such Wages and in such Manner as they think fit; and if any such Woman shall refuse to go abroad as a Servant, then the said Justices, &c. may commit such Woman until she be bound to serve. Stat. Ibid. If any Master shall give more Wages than assessed by the Justices; or any Servant take more, or refusing to serve for the Statute Wages, they are punishable; but a Master may reward his Servant as he pleases, so as it be not by way of Contract on the Retainer: And if a Servant depart before the End of the Term, being hired for a Year, without Cause allowed by a Justice; or after his Term is expired, without giving a Quarter's Warning, two Justices may commit him to Prison till he give Security to serve out the Time; or one Justice of Peace may send him to the House of Correction, there to be punished as a disorderly Person. 7 Fac. 1. cap. 4. A Master cannot put away a Servant before the End of his Term without some reasonable Cause, to be allowed by one Justice; nor after the End of the Term without a Quarter's Warning given before Witnesses; if a Master discharges a Servant otherwise, he is liable to a Penalty of 40 s. 5 Elix. And where Servants quit their Services, Testimonials are to be given by Constables and two Householders, &c. declaring their lawful Departure; and a Servant not producing such a Testimonial to the Constable where he designs to dwell, is to be imprison'd till he gets one, and in Default thereof be whipped as a Vagabond; Masters retaining them without such Testimonial, shall forfeit 5 l. But the Testimonial concerns only Servants in Trades and Husbandry. Stat. Ibid. No Person may retain a Servant for less than a Year, by the ancient Statutes; if one retains a Servant generally, without expressing any Time, the Law construes it for a Year; and where a Servant is hired for a Year, according to the Statute, and the Master dieth within that Time, his Executor must pay the Wages. Dalt. 129. 1 Inst. 42. If a Woman Servant marrieth, she is obliged to serve out her Year; but if a single Woman who is with Child procures her self to be retained with a Master, who knows nothing thereof, this is a good Cause to discharge her from her Service; and so if she be gotten with Child during her Service. Dalt. 92. Resol. Ann. 1633. A Servant retained for a Year, falling sick, ought not to be discharged therefore, or for any Disability by the Act of God; neither may his Wages be abated for those Causes. Dalt. 129. Master and Servant may part by Consent, and then the Allowance of the Discharge by a Justice is not necessary. And a Master's detaining Wages, not allowing sufficient Meat, &c. or the Master's Wife beating him, are good Causes for a Servant's Departure; but they must be allowed by a Justice. Dalt. If a Master puts away his Servant, he must pay him his Wages to the Time he served; though if the Servant go away from his Service before the End of the Time agreed, he shall forfeit all his Wages. Dalt. 129. A Servant is not to depart from his Service without good Cause; and if he refuse to do his Business, this is a Departure in Law, although he go not away. Noy's Max. 90. Enticing away a Servant, or retaining and keeping one who departed from his Master without License, knowing him to be a Servant to another, the Master may have Action of the Case against the Person doing it. 2 Lev. 63. Stat. 23. Ed. 3. But if a Man do retain another's Servant, not knowing that he was in the Service of the other, he shall not be punished for so doing, if he do not retain him after Notice of his first Service: And if a Person do retain one to serve him for 40 Days, and another doth afterwards retain him to serve for a Year, the first Covenant is avoided, because the Retainer was not according to the Statute. New Nat. Br. 374, 375. A Master is answerable for the Actions and Trespases of his Servant in many Cases; but not for Trespases of Battery, &c. and in criminal Cases, unless done by his Commandment. Noy Max. 99. If a Man has a Servant known to be such, and he send him to Fairs and Markets to buy or sell, his Master shall be charged if the Thing come to his Use; tho' if a Servant makes a Contract in his Master's Name, the Contract will not be binding, unless it were by the Master's Commandment or Assent; and where a Servant borrows Money in his Master's Name, without Order, that does not bind the Master. Dr. & Stud. Dial. 2. ch. 42. A Servant buys Things in his own Name, the Master shall not be charged, except the Things bought come to his Use, and he have Notice of it. Kitch. 371. Where a Master always gives his Servant Money, he shall not answer for what the Servant buys on Trust; but if he sends sometimes on Trust, he must answer to his usual Tradesmen for what is so taken up upon Trust by him. Wood's Inst. 56. A Master used to give his Servant Money every Saturday, to defray the Charges of the foregoing Week, and the Servant kept the Money; per Holt Ch. Just. the Master is chargeable; for the Master at his Peril ought to take Care what Servant he employs; and 'tis more reasonable that he should suffer for the Cheats of his Servants than Strangers and Tradesmen who do not employ them. 3 Salk. 234. It has been adjudg'd, that where a Servant usually buys Goods for his Master upon Tick, and takes up Things in his Master's Name, but for his own Use, the Master is liable; but it is not so where the Master usually gives him ready Money: That if the Master gives the Servant Money to buy Goods for him, and he converts the Money to his own Use, and buys the Goods upon Tick, yet the Master is answerable, as the Goods come to his Use; otherwise he is not: Also a Note under the Hand of an Apprentice shall bind his Master, where he is allowed to deliver out Notes, tho' the Money is never applied to the Master's Use; but if he is not allowed or accustomed to deliver out Notes, his Note shall not bind the Master, if the Money is not applied to the Use of the Master. 3 Salk. 234, 235. The Act of a Servant shall not bind the Master, unless he acts by Authority of his Master; and therefore if a Master sends his Servant to receive Money, and the Servant instead of Money takes a Bill, and the Master as soon as told thereof disagrees, he is not bound by this Payment: But Acquiescence, or any small Matter, will be Proof of his Master's Consent, and that will make the Act of the Servant the Act of his Master. Hill. 2. Ann. B. R. 2 Salk. 442. For what is within the Compass of a Servant's Business, the

the Master shall be generally chargeable, and also have Advantage of the same against others. Noy's Max. The Master is liable for the Neglects of his Servant, (tho' not the wilful Wrong) where a Carrier's Servant loses Things delivered to him, the Master must answer it, and Action lies against him; and if Goods be undertaken to be carried safely for Hire, but by Negligence are spoiled, it has been held, that whoever employs another, is answerable for him, and undertakes for his Care to all that make Use of him. 2 Salk. 440. If a Surgeon undertakes the Cure of a Person, and by sending Medicines by his Servant, the Wound is hurt and made worse, the Patient shall have Action against the Master, and not against the Servant. 18 Hen. 8. And where a Smith's Servant pricks a Horse whilst he is shoeing him, the Master shall answer the Damages. Wood's Inst. 56. A Servant casting any Thing into the Highway to the Nuisance of the King's Subjects, the Master shall be charged, &c. Noy's Max. 94. A Master may maintain the Cause of his Servants, may bring an Action for the Battery of a Servant, whereby the Master loses his Service, which is to be alledged: And if a Servant is cozened of his Master's Money, the Master may bring Action on the Case against the Person that cozened him. 9 Rep. 113. 10 Rep. 130. 1 Roll. Abr. 98. And in case a Servant give away his Master's Goods, the Master may have Action against the Receiver. Noy's Max. 94. Where a Servant damages Goods of his Master, Action lies against him: And being employed to sell Goods in his Master's Shop, if the Servant carries away and converts them to his own Use, Action of Trespass may be brought by the Master against the Servant; for the Servant cannot meddle with them in any other Manner than to sell them. 5 Rep. 14. 1 Leon. 88. Moor 248. But if a Servant be robbed, without his Default, &c. he shall be excused, and allowed it on his Account. 1 Inst. 89. Servants going or making away with, imbezilling or purloining any of their Master's Goods, to the Value of 40s. are guilty of Felony, by Stat. 21 Hen. 8. cap. 7. and 12 Ann. c. 7. And assaulting their Masters, they may be bound to the good Behaviour, or be committed to Prison for a Year, &c. 5 Eliz.

Servi, Were Bond-men; and Servi Testamentales, those which we now call Covenant Servants. Leg. Athelst. The proper Servi were of four Sorts, viz. such as sold themselves for a Livelihood; Debtors that were to be sold for being incapable to pay their Debts; Captives in War, employ'd as perfect Slaves; Nativi, such as were born Servants, and by such Discent belonged to the sole Property of the Lord: And all these had their Persons, their Children, and Goods, at the Disposal of their Lord, incapable of making any Wills, or giving away any Thing, &c.

Service, (Servitium) Is that Duty which the Tenant, by Reason of his Fee or Estate, oweth unto the Lord: The ancient Law-Books make many Divisions of it; as into Personal, and Real; Free, and Base; Continual, or Annual; Casual, and Accidental; Intrinsic, and Extrinsic, &c. Bract. lib. 2. Brit. cap. 66. 4 Co. Rep. 9. And where Services are intire, and cannot be divided, such as Payment of a Horse, &c. upon the Alienation of Parcel of the Lands by the Tenant, the Services shall be multiplied, and every Alience render the whole Service; though by the Purchase of Parcel by the Lord, the Whole is extinct, except in Case of Fealty, and Heriot Custom. 6 Rep. 1. Wood's Inst. 133.

Service Secular, Signifies worldly Service, contrary to Spiritual and Ecclesiastical. Stat. 1 Ed. 4. c. 1.

Servitium Forinfecum, A Service which did not belong to the chief Lord, but to the King: It was called Forinfecum and Epraneum, because it was done Foris, vel extra servitium quod fit Domino Capitali; and we find several Grants of Liberties with the Appurtenances, Salvo forensi servitio, &c. in Mon. Ang. Tom. 2. pag. 48.

Servitium Intrinfecum, Is that Service which was due to the chief Lord alone from his Tenants within his Manor. Bract. lib. 2. Fleta, lib. 3.

Servitium Liberum, A Service to be done by feudatory Tenants, who were called Liberi homines, and distinguished from Vassals; as was their Service; for they were not bound to any of the base Services of ploughing the Lord's Land, &c. but were to find a Man and a Horse, or go with the Lord into the Army, or to attend his Court, &c. and sometimes it was called Servitium liberum armorum; as in an old Rental of the Manor of South-Malling in Essex, mentioned by Somner in his Treatise of Gavelkind, pag. 56.

Servitium Regale, Royal Service, or the Prerogatives that within a Royal Manor belong'd to the Lord of it; which were generally reckoned to be the following, viz. Power of Judicature in Matters of Property; and of Life and Death in Felonies and Murders; Right to Waifs and Estrays; Minting of Money; Assise of Bread and Beer; and Weights and Measures: All which Privileges 'tis said were annexed to some Manors by Grant from the King. Paroch. Antiq. 60. Blount says, Servitium Regale is the same with Forinfecum.

Servitius Acquietandis, Is a Writ Judicial that lies for a Man distrained for Services to one, when he owes and performs them to another, for the Acquittal of such Services. Reg. Judic. 27.

Servitor, (Servulus) Is a Serving-Man; particularly applied to Scholars in the Colleges of the Universities, who are upon the Foundation.

Servitors of Bills, Such Servants or Messengers of the Marshal of the King's Bench, as were sent abroad with Bills or Writs to summon Men to that Court. Stat. 2 H. 4. c. 23.

Sessur, Seems to signify the Assessing or Rating of Wages. 25 Ed. 3. c. 6.

Session, (Sessio) Is a Sitting of Justices in Court upon their Commission; as the Sessions of Oyer and Terminer, Quarter Sessions, &c.

Sessions of Parliament, (Sessio Parliamenti) The Sitting of the Parliament; and the Session of Parliament continues till it be prorogued or dissolved, and breaks not off by Adjournment. 4 Inst. 27. See Parliament.

Settlements of Poor, In Parishes, there are several Statutes relating to, viz. 43 Eliz. cap. 2. 3 & 4 W. & M. cap. 17. 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 30, &c. Vide Poor.

Several Action, Is where two or more Persons are severally charged in any Action.

Several Inheritance, An Inheritance conveyed, so as to descend, or come to two Persons severally, by Moieties, &c. Vide Inheritance.

Several Tail, Is that whereby Land is given and intailed severally to two. Co. Lit.

Several Cenuay, (Tenua separalis) A Plea or Exception taken to a Writ that is laid against two Persons as joint Tenants, who are several. Bro. 273.

Severance, Is the Singling or Severing of two or more join'd in one Writ or Action: There is a Severance of the Tenants in an Affise, when one or two Disseisees appear upon the Writ, and not the other. Book Entr. 81. A Severance in Debt, where two Executors are named Plaintiffs, and one refuseth to act or prosecute. Ibid. 220. Severance in Quare Impedit; in Attaints, &c. 5 Rep. 97. And it lies in Real, as well as Personal Actions; and on Writs of Error. F. N. B. 78. 10 Rep. 135. In Writ of Error, if three Defendants in the Action bring Error, and one releases the Errors, he may be summoned and severed, and then the other two shall proceed to reverse the Judgment. 6 Rep. 26. And if in Error where there are several Plaintiffs, one only appears and assigns Errors; this is not good, without summoning and severing the Rest. Cro. Eliz. 892. Summons and Severance is usually before Appearance; as Nonsuit is after Appearance. 10 Rep. 134. But according to Hale, there are two Sorts of Severances, one when a Plaintiff will not appear; and the other when several Plaintiffs appear, but some will not proceed and prosecute. Hardr. 317. 3 Nels. Abr. 255. If a Plaintiff or Defendant on a Writ of Summons and Severance, sued out against him by another, doth not come in upon it, Judgment shall be had ad Prosequendum solum; and this hath been done in B. R. by giving a Rule to appear and come in. 2 Lill. Abr. 539.

Severance of Corn, The Cutting and Carrying it from off the Ground; and sometimes the Setting out the Tithes from the Rest of the Corn, is called Severance. 2 Cro. 325.

Seward, A Saxon Word for he who guards the Sea-Coasts; it signifies Custos Maris.

Sewer, (Severa & Sewera) Is a Fresh-water Trench, or little River, encompass'd with Banks on both Sides, to carry the Water into the Sea, and thereby preserve the Land against Inundations, &c. The Kings of England granted Commissions of Sewers long before any Statute was enacted in Parliament for it; and during the Reigns of King Hen. 6. Ed. 4. and H. 7. several Statutes were made for appointing Commissions of Sewers in all Parts of the Realm where needful; some to endure ten Years, some fifteen Years, and others five Years, &c. with certain Powers to the Commissioners; which Commissions, by the 23 Hen. 8. are to be settled by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Treasurer, and the two Chief Justices, or any three of them, whereof the Lord Chancellor to be one; and is to continue ten Years, unless repealed by a new Commission: And by this Law, the Commissioners Oath is appointed, they are to be qualified as to Estates, by having Lands, Tenements or Hereditaments, in Fee or for Life, worth forty Marks per Ann. besides Reprizes (except they are resident in and free of a Corporation, and having Moveables worth 100*l.*) and if they execute the Commission not being thus qualified, they incur a Forfeiture of 40*l.* Commissioners that may lawfully act, have an Allowance for their Pains of 4*s.* per Diem, and their Clerks 2*s.* a Day, out of the Taxes to be laid and levied. 23 Hen. 8. cap. 5. The Commissioners of Sewers have Power to make and ordain Laws, but not to continue in Force longer than their Commission by this Statute; and may decree Lands to be sold to levy Charges assessed, upon Nonpayment, &c. Stat. Ibid. All Laws, and Ordinances of the Commissioners, are to remain in Force till repealed, notwithstanding the Determination of their Commission; and Clerks of Commissions of Sewers are to estreat Fines and Penalties imposed by the Commissioners, yearly into the Exchequer, by 13 Eliz. cap. 9. The Business of the Commissioners of Sewers is to repair Sea-Banks, and Walls, survey Rivers, publick Streams, Ditches, &c. and make Orders for that Purpose: They have Authority grounded on the Statutes, to inquire of all Nuisances, and Offences committed by the Stopping of Rivers, erecting Mills, not repairing of Banks, and Bridges, &c. and to tax and assess all whom it may concern, for the Amending of Defaults, which tend to the Obstruction or Hinderance of the free Passage of the Water, through its ancient Courses: And they may arrest Carts and Horses, and take Trees, paying a reasonable Price for them, for Reparations; appoint Workmen, Bailiffs, Surveyors and other Officers, &c. Terms de Ley. 541. 4 Inst. 275. Laws Sew. 86, 96. They proceed by Jury and View, in their Inquiries into Annoyances and Defects of Repairs; and the Jury may amerce for Neglects: Also the Commissioners may punish by Fine for Contempts, and where Officers are negligent in their Duty; though they may not imprison Persons for Disobedience to their Orders. Laws Sew. But they cannot intermeddle where there is not a publick Prejudice; nor can they make a new River: Upon the Statute 23 Hen. 8. of Sewers, the Commissioners decreed, that a new River should be made out of another large River through the main Land for seven Miles, unto another Part of the old River, and in order to it they laid a Tax of a Sum in gross upon several Towns; adjudged, that the Commissioners have no Power to make a new River, or any new Invention to cast out Water, &c. for such Things are to be done in Parliament: But they may order an old Bank to be new made, or alter a Sewer upon any inevitable Necessity; and the Tax of a Sum in gross is not warranted by their Commission, they being to tax every Owner or Possessor of the Lands, according to the Quality of their Lands, Rents, and Number of Acres, and their respective Portions and Profits, whether of Pasture, Fishing, &c. 10 Rep. 141. Commissioners of Sewers ought to tax all equally, who are in Danger to receive any Damage by the Waters, and not only those whose Lands are next adjoining; because the Rage of the Waters may be so great, that the Land contiguous may not be of the Value to make the Banks; and therefore the Stat. 6 H. 6. cap. 6. will have all that are in Danger to be contributory. 5 Rep. 100. The Commissioners having made a Rate, according to the Quantity and Quality of the Land, &c. may grant Warrants to distrain for it; or the Land may be decreed to be sold to pay the Rate: But the Decrees of Commissioners of Sewers are to be certified into the Chancery, and have the King's Assent to be binding; and the Commissioners and their Proceedings, are subject to the Jurisdiction of the King's Bench. 23 H. 8. 1 Ventr. 67. There are several Causes and Considerations for which Persons are obliged to repair and maintain Sewers; as Frontagers were bound to the Repairs of the Walls, and Banks, &c. by Reason of Frontage, by 37 Lib. Assf. pl. 10. The being Owner

Owner of a Bank, Wall, or other Defence, is a sufficient Inducement to impose the Charge of the Repairs thereof upon such Owner. 8 Hen. 7. Prescription and Custom are much of the same Nature, and the Law takes Notice of them in this Case; but Prescription doth not bind a Man to the Repairs, except it be Ratione Terræ. 21 Ed. 4. 38. 19 Hen. 7. By Tenure of Land, a Person may be bound to repair a Wall, Bank, or Defence mentioned in the Statute of Sewers. 12 H. 4. A Man may bind himself and his Heirs by Covenant expressly to repair a Bank, Wall or Sewer, and be good; yet this shall not bind the Heir after his Death, where Assets are not left from the Ancestor, which entered into the Covenant. Callis's Read. The Use of Defences may tie a Man to the Reparation thereof; if one and his Ancestors have had the Use of a River by sailing up and down the same, or have used a Ferry on or over it, &c. Laws Sew. 57. If no Persons or Grounds can be known, which ought to make Repairs by Tenure, Prescription, Custom, or otherwise, then the Commissioners are to tax the Level. Ibid. 67, 68. And by the Laws and Statutes of Sewers, all shall be charged, &c. If it is found before Commissioners of Sewers, that such a Person ought to repair a Bank; and this is removed into B. R. the Court will not quash the Inquisition, or grant a new Trial, except he repair it; and if afterwards he is acquitted, he shall be reimbursed. Sid. 78. In Cases of Sewers, the Court of King's Bench inquires into the Nature of the Fact, before they grant a Certiorari to remove Orders; that no Mischief may happen by Inundations in the mean Time, which is a discretionary Execution of their Power. 1 Salk. 146. The Court commonly swears Counsel on both Sides, where Orders of Commissioners of Sewers are removed by Certiorari, before such Orders are filed; for if good, the Court will grant a Procedendo, which cannot be done after they are filed: But now they will file them in any Case, where there is no Danger likely to ensue. 1 Salk. 145. If Commissioners of Sewers proceed after a Certiorari delivered out of B. R. Attachment will issue against them, and they may be fined. 3 Nels. Abr. 218.

The Sea, Creeks and Bays, on the Coasts, are all within the Statute of Sewers, in Point of Extent; but they and the Shores, and the relinquished Grounds, are out of the Commission of Sewers, to be determined thereby: But Ports and Havens, as well as the Walls and Banks of Waters, are within the Commission of Sewers; and the Shore and Grounds left by the Sea, when they are put in Gainage and made profitable, are then within the Power of the Commission of Sewers: And though before the Ground left by the Sea, is not as to Defence, within the Commission of Sewers; yet a Wall or Bank may be thereon raised, for the Succour of the Country, although not for any private Commodity, the Commission of Sewers aiming at the general Good. Callis's Read. Laws Sew. 31, 32. The Stat. 3 Fac. 1. cap. 14. ordains, That all Ditches, Banks and Bridges, within two Miles of London, falling into the Thames, shall be subject to the Commission of Sewers: And the Lord Mayor, &c. is to appoint Persons who have Power of Commissioners of Sewers. 7 Ann. cap. 10. Sheriff, Shireff or Shire-reeve, (Vicomites) Sax. Scire-geveþa, i. e. Pagi vel Comitatus Præpositus, or rather from the Sax. Scyrian, to divide; is the chief Officer under the King in every Shire or County, being so called from the first Division of the Kingdom into Counties. Camd. Brit. 104. And the Sheriff was anciently chosen in the County-Court by the Suffrages of the People, as Knights of Parliament now are; but by Statute, Sheriffs are to be made by the King, and the Lord Chancellor, Treasurer, and Barons of the Exchequer, &c. nominate three Persons yearly for each County, out of which the King chooses one; and he is created by Letters Patent. Fortescue, cap. 24. 9 Ed. 2. Sheriffs are appointed for a Year; but they may be constituted durante beneplacito, though the King cannot restrain any Part of the Sheriff's Power, as to any Town, &c. (unless he make it a County by it self, and appoint a Sheriff there) nor abridge the Sheriff in any Thing incident to his Office. 4 Rep. 32. The Lord Mayor and Citizens of London have the Shrievalty of London and Middlesex in Fee, by Charter; and two Sheriffs are annually elected by them, for whom they are to be answerable: If one of these Sheriffs dies, the other cannot act till another is made; and there must be two Sheriffs of London, which is a City and County, though they make but one Sheriff of the County of Middlesex: They are several as to Plaints, in their respective Courts. 3 Rep. 72. Show. Rep. 289. When a Sheriff is chosen, the old Sheriff continues Sheriff of the County till the new one is sworn, which compleats him in his Office. 2 Lill. Abr. 516. The new Sheriff being elected and sworn into his Office, is to deliver a Writ of Discharge to the old Sheriff, who must deliver over all the Prisoners in the Gaol, with all Writs, &c. by Indenture to the new Sheriff; and until that is done, the Prisoners remain in the Custody of the old Sheriff: But the Office of the old Sheriff ceases, and is at an End, when the Writ of Discharge comes to him. Wood's Inst. 70. Poph. 85. A Person in Execution in the Custody of the old Sheriff, not being turned over to the new Sheriff, if he escapes, the old Sheriff, and not the new one, is chargeable: Though where a Sheriff dies in his Office, if any Prisoners escape before another is sworn, this is no Escape against the Sheriff; the Prisoners on the Sheriff's Death are all in Custodia Legis till there is a new Sheriff; and in these Cases when the new Sheriff is sworn into his Office, he must take Notice of all Persons in Execution, &c. as there is none to make a Delivery of them. 3 Rep. 72, 73. A Sheriff out of his Office, may not be fined for any Misdemeanor whilst Sheriff; but the Court may send a Tipstaff for him, or issue forth Process of Distingas nuper vic. to make him appear and answer, &c. 2 Lill. Abr. 510. The Sheriff hath a judicial and ministerial Power: His judicial Authority consists in Hearing, Trying, and Determining Causes in his Tourn and County Court; and in preserving the Peace of the County; for by the Common Law, he is the principal Conservator of the Peace there; and he is to assist the Justices of Peace, and raise the Posse Comitatus to keep the Peace, &c. But this judicial Authority as Conservator of the Peace, is seldom used; being commonly executed by the Justices of Peace. 1 Inst. 174. 2 Inst. 193. The ministerial Power of a Sheriff consisteth in the Execution of Writs and Processes out of the King's Courts; and no Process is to be serv'd but by the Sheriff, wherein he ought not to dispute the Validity of any Writ, but to execute it. 1 Inst. 168. 2 Inst. 452. 5 Rep. 64. He shall not let a Person escape, though taken on an erroneous Process. Cro. Jac. 3. 289. In Cases which concern the King, or where the King is Party, and in criminal Causes, the Sheriff's Officers may break open a Door to execute the Process; (after Demand to open it, signifying the Cause of coming, and Refusal) tho' not in a Civil Cause at the Suit of the Subject; unless when an Execution, &c. is once lawfully begun, as where the Out-doors are open, the Sheriff entering may proceed and break open inner Doors. 5 Rep. 91. Palm. 53. Upon an Arrest, his Officers are to shew at whose Suit it is, and out of what Court the Writ issues, and for what Cause, &c. And if the Sheriff do not make a Return of the Writs, or if he imbezils them, or make a false Return, the Sheriff may be amerced by the Court, or the Party may bring Action of the Case against the Sheriff; also Attachment may be had against him for undue Practices in Arrests, &c. 5 Rep. 64. 9 Rep. 168. 10 Rep. 70. Cro. Eliz. 75. 2 Hawk. 147. Besides their ministerial Office to execute the Process of the King's Courts, Sheriffs are to return Juries for Trials in civil and criminal Causes; but where there is Cause of Challenge against the Sheriff, the Coroners are to return Juries; though if there be two Sheriffs, and one of them is challenged, the Venire shall go to the other. 23 Hen. 6. Show. 329. They are to proclaim Statutes; and make Returns of Writs for electing Knights of the Shire, &c. and they shall preserve the Rights of the King within their Counties; collect his Rents, seize Profits of Lands forfeited and Goods of Felons, levy the King's Debts, Fines, Amercements, &c. and be accountable to the King for the Issues and Profits of their Counties; for which they are to give up their Accounts in the Exchequer, &c. And they are to see that Criminals be executed, and observe the Order of Law in putting them to Death. 10 Ed. 1. Doct. & Stud. Dial. 2. ch. 41. The Sheriff hath under him an Under-Sheriff, Bailiffs, Gaoler, &c. for he hath the Custody, Rule, and Charge of common Gaols; and for all these he is answerable: But he may execute his Office himself, without an Under-Sheriff, if he pleases. 4 Inst. 114. The Under-Sheriff is to take the Oaths, before he enters on his Office; and then his Power is the same with that of the High Sheriff, he acting in his Stead; though all Returns of Writs by the Under-Sheriff are in the Name of the High Sheriff, and the High Sheriff only is sworn to execute the Office of Sheriff, and therefore he must answer for all. 27 Eliz. cap. 12. Wood's Inst. 73. An Under-Sheriff is removable by the High Sheriff at Pleasure; and is but in the Nature of a general Bailiff-Errant to the Sheriff in the whole County, as other Bailiffs are over particular Districts. 2 Lill. Abr. 511, 512. He ought always to have his Deputy attendant in Courts, to receive and execute their Commands, give Account of Business, &c. and is to file a Warrant of Attorney for his High Sheriff in all the Courts at Westminster, by an Attorney of each Court, or Action will lie upon the Statute Hen. 6. against the High Sheriff. 2 Lill. 511. Sheriffs are not to take any Money or Reward for the Places of Under-Sheriff, Gaoler, Bailiffs, &c. under Penalties. Stat. 5 Ed. 6. cap. 16. 3 Geo. cap. 15. And by Statutes, every Sheriff shall abide in proper Person within his Bailiwick; and a Sheriff shall not let his Bailiwick to farm. 4 Hen. 4. cap. 4. Sheriffs must have sufficient Lands, to answer the King and his People; and shall not continue in their Offices above one Year, on Pain of 200 l. which also extends to Under-Sheriffs; but they may act longer in other Men's Names; and the Under-Sheriffs of London are excepted. 4 Ed. 3. cap. 9. 14 Ed. 3. cap. 7. 23 Hen. 6. cap. 8. No Sheriff is to act as a Justice of Peace, during his Shrievalty: And no Under-Sheriff shall be Attorney in any of the King's Courts, so long as he bears the Office; though such as are Attornies, may practice in the Name of others. 1 M. cap. 28. 1 Hen. 5. cap. 4. They are to let Persons to bail upon reasonable Sureties; and take but 20d. for an Arrest, and the Bailiff 4d. and they shall take no Bond of Persons arrested but for Appearance, pearance, &c. under the Penalty of 40 l. 23 H. 6. cap. 8. And no Sheriff, Under-Sheriff, &c. shall make out any Warrant before they have in their Custody the Writs upon which such Warrants ought to issue, on the Penalty of 10 l. 6 Geo. c. 21. The Fees of Sheriffs are ascertained, not to be above 1 s. in the Pound, where under 100 l. nor more than 6 d. in the Pound if above, for levying an Extent or Execution: And 1 s. per Pound of the yearly Value of Lands, for executing a Writ of Habere facias Possessionem, &c. where the Whole exceeds not 100 l. per Annum, and 6 d. in the Pound where above; in Pain of treble Damages to the Party grieved, and 40 l. taking more. 29 Eliz. cap. 4. 3 Geo. cap. 15. It has been adjudged, that if a Writ is actually out, the Sheriff may make a Warrant before 'tis delivered to him; and it shall be intended to be delivered to him before the Arrest. 2 Lutw. 1283. At Common Law, Sheriffs, &c. were bound to indorse their Names of Office only to Returns; but by Statute they are required to indorse their Names, as well as Name of Office. Moor 578. A Sheriff may take an Appearance Bond, with one or more Sureties, or let the Defendant go without Sureties; for the Bond is only for the Sheriff's Indemnity. Cro. Eliz. 808. And if a Sheriff takes a Bail-Bond of two good Men of visible Estates at the Time of taking it, and they afterwards become insolvent, the Sheriff shall be excused; because he is obliged to let to Bail on good Security; and if the Sheriff refuse to take good Bail, Action lies against him. 2 Lill. Abr. 511. Sid. 22. Cro. Eliz. 76. The Sheriff being obliged to let a Defendant to Bail, and to return a Capi, no Action lies against him for not having the Body at the Day; and the Return of paratum habeo, &c. is in Effect no more than that he had the Body to bring in when the Court should command him so to do, and he is to be amerced till he doth it. 1 Mod. 239. A Plaintiff may direct the Officer to take a Bond of the Defendant in his the Plaintiff's Name, to give Security for the Payment of the Debt, or render his Body to Prison, &c. but the Sheriff cannot take a Bond in another Man's Name, to elude the Statute. 2 Mod. 304. A Bond with a Condition, that a Man shall continue a true Prisoner, till he is lawfully discharged, is good. 1 Sand. 161. But in Action of Debt on a Sheriff's Bond, condition'd that the Defendant shall be a true Prisoner; the Defendant pleaded that he was in Execution for Debt, and that the Bond was given for Ease and Favour, and to obtain his Liberty without satisfying the Plaintiff in that Action; and to this Plea the Sheriff demurred; and it was held, that the Plea was good, without pleading the Statute 23 Hen. 6. because it is a general Law, of which the Court must take Notice; but if it was not, the Bond is void at Common Law. 2 Lev. 103. 3 Nelf. Abr. 224. A Defendant was taken upon an Attachment for a Contempt, and the Sheriff took a Bail-Bond in 40 l. for his Appearance, but he did not appear; whereupon the Sheriff was amerced, and the Prosecutor refused to accept an Assignment of the Bail-Bond; and resolv'd, that he might refuse it, and proceed against the Sheriff; and if the Bond was sufficient, the Sheriff might put it in Suit, and reimburse himself. 2 Salk. 608. Upon a Fieri facias the Sheriff took a Bond to pay the Money in Court at the Return of the Writ; and this was adjudged good; for the Statute extends only to such Bonds which are made when the Defendant is in Custody; and here he was not. 10 Rep. 99. 3 Nelf. 223. Payment to the Sheriff upon a Fi. fa. is a good Plea, by reason he hath Authority to levy the Debt: Payment on a Capias ad satisfac. is not, because he is only to detain the Body. 2 Lev. 203. If two Writs of Execution are brought to the Sheriff in one and the same Day; on the First whereof no Warrant is made out, but is on the last which is first executed, it shall take Place of the First. 2 Lill. Abr. 516. But according to Salkeld, the Sheriff shall answer it to the Party which brought the first Writ. 1 Salk. 330. Where a Superfedeas comes to a Sheriff, before he hath seized Goods in Execution, he shall stop; but after he hath seized, he may go on and sell the Goods. Cro. Eliz. 597. If a Sheriff levies Money on a Fieri facias, and dies, Action may be brought against his Executor for the Money; but 'tis otherwise where the Sheriff is chargeable in his Life for a personal Tort; there Actio moritur cum Persona. Cro. Car. 539. And the Sheriff seizing Goods in such a Case, is answerable for the Value he hath return'd, and the Defendant is discharged. 3 Ann. R. R. Abr. 236. He may bring Trover or Trespass, &c. for taking his Goods levied in Execution. 1 Lev. 280. An Under-Sheriff procuring Goods taken in Execution to be appraised at an Under-value, and delivering them to the Plaintiff accordingly; for this Oppression, Indictment will lie. Cro. Jac. 426. A Sheriff may have Action of Debt for his Fees, though the Statute doth not give any Remedy, but only saith, that he shall have and receive Twelve-pence per Pound, on Executions, &c. 3 Nelf. Abr. 229. Upon an Extent of a Statute, and before the Liberate executed, the Sheriff took a Bond with a Penalty for the Payment of his Fees; and it was held, that he ought not before a compleat Execution, and that the Taking this Bond was Extortion. Winch. 21, 50. And a Sheriff refusing to execute a Capias ad satisfac. till he had his Fees: On Motion against him to attend, it was ruled, that the Plaintiff might bring an Action against him for not doing his Duty, or pay him the Fees, and indict him for Extortion. 1 Salk. 330. A Sheriff cannot detain in his own Hands his Fees upon levying of Goods on a Fi. fac. but ought to bring his Action for them. 2 Lill. 575. The Sheriff took twenty Shillings for making a Warrant upon a Capias utlagatum before Judgment, for which he ought to take no Fee, it being at the Suit of the King, and therefore he was committed; but on such a Capias after Judgment, he may take twenty Shillings and Four-pence, which is given by Statute. 2 Brownl. 283. Sheriffs are to have Allowance for executing the King's Writs, levying Extreas, Expences at the Assises, and the like; not exceeding a certain Sum, by Stat. 34 H. 8. cap. 16. But this was afterwards repealed; and where Sheriffs have no Tallies of Reward, they shall be allowed Expences on Petition. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 4. A Quietus shall be a sufficient Discharge for a Sheriff, his Heirs, Executors, &c. 21 Jac. 1. cap. 3. No Sheriff at Assise-Time is to keep a Table for the Entertainment of any but those of his own Retinue, or make any Present to a Judge; or have above forty Servants with Liveries, or under Twenty, attending him at the Assises, &c. so as not to extend to the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex. 13 & 14 Car. 2. cap. 21. and this Act is made perpetual by 1 Jac. 2. cap. 17. Sheriff's Ac-

Accounts are not to be delay'd in the Exchequer, and 4000 l. yearly is to be set apart at the Exchequer, and allowed the Sheriffs of the several Counties of England, to help to pass their Accounts; also the Fees to be paid by Sheriffs on passing their Accounts are appointed, &c. 3 Geo. c. 16. The particular Form of the Oath of Sheriffs, is ordain'd by this Statute, and is as follows, viz.

The Sheriff's Oath, enjoining his Duty by Statute.

I A. B. do swear, That I will well and truly serve the King's Majesty, in the Office of Sheriff of the County of, &c. and promote his Majesty's Profit in all Things that belong to my Office, as far as I legally can or may; and I will truly preserve the King's Rights, and all that belong to the Crown, and will not assent to decrease, lessen, or conceal the King's Rights, or the Rights of his Franchises; and whensoever I shall have Knowledge that the Rights of the Crown are concealed or withdrawn, be it in Lands, Rents, Franchises, Suits or Services, or in any other Matter or Thing, I will do my utmost to cause them to be restored to the Crown; and if I may not do it myself, I will certify and inform the King thereof, or some of his Judges; I will not respite or delay to levy the King's Debts for any Gift, Promise, Reward, or Favour, where I may raise the same without great Grievance to the Debtors; I will do right, as well to Poor as to Rich, in all Things belonging to my Office; I will do no Wrong to any Man for any Gift, Reward or Promise, nor for Favour or Hatred; I will disturb no Man's Right, and will truly and faithfully acquit at the Exchequer all those of whom I receive any Debts or Duties belonging to the Crown; I will take nothing whereby the King may lose, or whereby his Right may be disturbed, injured, or delayed; I will truly serve and truly return all the King's Writs, according to the best of my Skill and Knowledge; I will take no Bailiffs into my Service, but such as I will answer for, and will cause each of them to take such Oaths as I myself do, in what belongs to their Business and Occupation; I will truly set and return reasonable and due Issues of them that be within my Bailiwick, according to their Estates and Circumstances, and make due Panels on Furies of Persons able and sufficient, and not suspected, or procured, as is appointed by the Statutes of this Realm; I have not sold or let to Farm, nor contracted for, nor have I granted or promised for Reward or Benefit, nor will I sell or let to farm, or contract for, or grant for Reward or Benefit by myself, or any other Person for me, or for my Use, directly or indirectly, my Sheriffwick, or any Bailiwick thereof, or any Office belonging thereunto, or the Profits of the same, to any Person or Persons whatsoever; I will truly and diligently execute the Laws and Statutes of this Realm; and in all Things well and truly behave myself in my Office, for the Honour of the King, and the Good of his Subjects, and discharge the same according to the best of my Skill and Power.

A Sheriff's Authority determines by the Death of the King; but in such Case, new Patents are presently issued out by the Successor. 3 Rep. 72. And on the Deaths of Sheriffs, their Under-Sheriffs are to act in their Names, &c. till others are appointed, by the Stat. 3 Geo. A Subject cannot be exempted from the Office of Sheriff, but by Act of Parliament, or Grant from the King. 3 Salk. 134. See Escape, Fieri facias, &c.

Simnel, (Siminellus, vel Simnellus) Is mentioned in the Assise of Bread, and is still in Use especially in Lent: The English Simnel is Panis purior, or the purest white Bread. Stat. 51 H. 3.

Simony, (Simonia) Is a corrupt Contract for a Presentation to any Benefice of the Church, for Money, Gift, or Reward: It is defined to be, studiosa voluntas emendi vel vendendi aliquid Spirituale aut Spirituali annexum opere subsecuto.

Also venditio rei Sacra; so called from Simon Magus. And some Authors mention Simony per munus triplex; as per munus à manu, i. e. by Bribery; per munus à lingua, by Favour and Flattery; per munus ab obsequio, i. e. by a sordid Subjection to the Patron. Against the scandalous Corruption of Simony, many Church Canons have been made; particularly in the Time of King Hen. 2. a Provincial Canon was made against it by the then Archbishop of Canterbury; and among the Canons of Othobonus, anno 53 H. 3. there is a severe one on this Head: There are some other general Canons of the Church, requiring an Oath to be administered to Clergymen against Simony, and whereby Simony is punished with Deprivation, Disability, &c. and it has been held by some of the Fathers to be Heresy, if not the Sin of the Holy Ghost: But neither the Greatness of the Offence, nor the Severity of the Canons, (as has been observ'd) were sufficient to restrain this Evil in the Church; till the Parliament took it into their Care, and Anno 31 Eliz. enacted the following Law, viz. That if any Person for any Sum of Money, Reward, Gift, Profit, or Benefit, or by Reason of any Promise, Agreement, Grant, Bond, Covenant, or other Assurance for any Sum of Money, Reward, Gift, &c. shall present or collate any Person to any Benefice with Cure, Dignity, or Living Ecclesiastical; or give or bestow the same in Respect of any such corrupt Cause, or Consideration, every such Presentation, Collation, Gift, and Bestowing, and every Admission and Induction thereupon, shall be utterly void; and the Crown shall present for that Turn: And the Persons that shall give or take any Sum of Money, or shall take or make any such Promise, &c. shall forfeit and lose double the Value of one Year's Profit of every such Benefice; and the Person so corruptly taking any such Benefice, shall from thenceforth be disabled to have and enjoy the same. Stat. 31 Eliz. c. 6. 1 Inst. 120. Generally any Covenant or Agreement, made under any Manner of Consideration whatsoever, to present a Clerk is simoniacal: If one promise to a Clerk, that in Consideration he will marry his Daughter, Kinswoman, &c. he will present him to such a Living when void, or the next good Living that shall fall within his Gift, this has been adjudg'd a simoniacal Contract: But if a Father, upon the Marriage of his Daughter, covenants to pay a Portion, &c. and there is a distinct Covenant that he will procure the Son-in-Law to be admitted to such a Benefice upon the next Avoidance, it shall not be intended to be simoniacal; because the Covenant had no Dependence upon the Marriage, being an intire Covenant by it self, and not made in Consideration of Marriage; for if it had, then it would have been Simony; and yet 'tis said it may be made so, by a special Averment, shewing that it was simoniacal. Crc. Car. 425. A Feme sole was seised of an Advowson, and the Church becoming void, she presented a Parson upon Condition that he would marry her, which he did accordingly; and this was held to be Simony, and that it made the Presentation void; for it was for her Benefit, which is the very Word in the Statute: So if a Patron presents one, on Condition that he shall be a Tutor to his Son, though this is not properly a Gift or Reward. Noy 148. If a Patron take Bond of his Presentee to pay an yearly Sum to the Wife of the last Incumbent, for the Maintenance of her and her Children; or to pay an yearly Sum to the Son of the last Incumbent, so long as he shall be a Student in the University unpreferred, no Simony will be committed; and this is by an equitable Construction of the Statute against Simony: But if the Money were to be paid to the Son of the Patron, it would be otherwise. Pasch. 2 Jac. 1. Noy 142. A Man may buy the next Turn of a Church, when the Church is full of an Incumbent, who is well in Health, and be no Simony: And if a Father doth purchase the next Avoidance of a Church for his Son, when the Incumbent is sick, with an Intent to present him after the Death of the Incumbent, it is not Simony; because the Father is obliged by Nature to provide for the Son: And therefore it is, that tho' the Son may not contract for a Benefice, to the Intent that another should present him; yet the Father may contract with an Intention of Presenting his Son. 3 Cro. 685. Contracts may be simoniacal, as well before as after the Church is void, in some Cases; for notwithstanding it be lawful for any Person to buy the next Turn of a Church, when it is full generally speaking, such Contracts have been sometimes adjudg'd unlawful: As if a Person seised of an Advowson, grants the next Presentation to another, who enters into Bond to pay him a Sum of Money for it, when the Church shall become void; this is Simony: And if a Church being full of an old sickly Incumbent, a Clerk doth contract with the Patron of the Church for a certain Sum of Money, payable when the Church shall be void, to make a Grant of the next Turn to a Friend of his, and the Friend having such Grant doth present the said Clerk to the said Church, it is Simony. Hob. 105. In a Quare Impedit it was held, that the Grant of the next Avoidance for Money, when the Incumbent was very sick in his Bed and near Death, is Simony. Winch. 63. Where a Man agrees to give a Sum of Money, to procure him to be presented to a Church, this is Simony: And if an Incumbent make a simoniacal Contract with the Friend, or Wife of the Patron, who knows nothing of it, it will be Simony; also if Strangers make make Agreement by Compact betwixt them, without the Privy of the Incumbent or Patron; as if a Friend of the One, give Money to a Relation of the other to procure him to present such a Clerk, it is simoniacal; though this Judgment hath been oppos'd, because thereby the Patron's Right may be defeated by Collusion between Strangers. Cro. Car. 330. Cro. Jac. 386. Sid. 329. And if one that hath no Right to present, shall by Means of a corrupt and simoniacal Agreement, present a Clerk, who is by his Presentation admitted, instituted and inducted into a Church; this shall not be such an Act of Simony to intitle the King to present: For though the Statute makes all void, an Usurper cannot forfeit the Right of another, in whom there is no Fault. 2 Brownl. 7. 3 Inst. 153. If any Person receives Reward, &c. for any Presentation to a Benefice, although he who is presented know nothing of the Matter, his Presentation, Institution and Induction are void by the Statute 31 Elizabeth. and the King shall present pro hac Vice: The Statute intends to inflict a Punishment upon the Patron, by the Loss of the Presentation, because he was the Author of the Corruption; and likewise upon the Incumbent, by the Loss of his Incumbency, because he came in by such a corrupt Patron. 12 Rep. 101. And it is the corrupt Agreement, by Colour of which the Clerk is instituted and inducted, which makes the Simony; and Notice in this Case is not material, because of the Difficulty of Proving it. 3 Lev. 337. Moor 914. Though the Forfeiture of double Value of the Church is incurred by the corrupt Contract; the Presentation is not forfeited to the King, unless the Clerk be de facto presented or collated upon the same. Count. Pars. Compan. 175. The Clerk is disabled to hold the Benefice made void by the Simony; and although he be neither Party nor Privy to the simoniacal Contract, and obtain a new Presentation from the King, it hath been resolv'd, that he is disabled during Life to hold that Living. Cro. Jac. 385. But by my Lord Coke it was adjudg'd otherwise, that the Clerk presented, not being privy or consenting to the corrupt Agreement, shall not be a disabled Person; and though he loses his Incumbency upon such a Presentation, he may be presented again to the same Benefice. Cro. Jac. 385. 12 Rep. 101. 3 Inst. 154. According to Jus. Dodderidge, a Simoniacus is the Person who makes the simoniacal Contract, and he is incapable to hold that Benefice to which he was thus promoted, or to have any other; but simoniace promotus is where a Friend of the Parson gives Money to the Patron or Ordinary for a Presentation or Institution, and the Parson himself doth not know it, who is incapable to hold that Benefice upon the corrupt Promotion; though he may have any other, or even that very Benefice, if afterwards he come lawfully to it, so as the Right of the Patron be not disturb'd. 2 Roll. Rep. 465. It hath been held, that where two Parsons agreed to exchange their Livings, and the one promis'd his Patron, that if he would present the other, with whom he was to exchange his Living, he would make the Patron a Lease of his Tithes at such a Rent; this shall be Simony, although the other be not privy to the Contract. Pars. Counc. 50. And corrupt Resignations of Livings are within the Statute against Simony, as well as Exchanges, &c. A Presentation upon a simoniacal Agreement is void to all Manner of Persons who have any Interest in the Benefice: 'Tis void as to the Patron, who is to lose his Presentation, for that is vested in the King, and he may present; it is void as to the Ordinary, by Reason he is bound to admit the King's Presentee, and no Layle can incur where the Right of Presentation is in the Crown; 'tis void as to the Clerk, without a declaratory Sentence, though he was not privy to it, and he is disabled, &c. And 'tis void as to the Parishioners; for if he sue them for Tithes, they may plead him no Incumbent, and that he hath no Right to the Profits of the Church; all those being due to the Clerk which the King shall present from the Time of the Avoidance. 1 Roll. Rep. 237. And if a Man be presented to a Benefice by Simony, a General Pardon afterwards will not enure to the Settling of him in that Benefice, which was never full because of the Simony; but it may discharge the Punishment of Simony, in Respect of the Forfeiting double Value of the Profits of one Year, &c. Hob. 168. 3 Cro. 685. By the 1 W. & M. c. 16. After the Death of a Person simoniacally promoted to any Benefice, the Offence or Contract of Simony shall not be alledged to the Prejudice of any other Patron innocent of Simony, or of his Clerk; unless the Person simoniacally presented, or his Patron were convicted of such Offence in the Life-time of the simoniack Person: But if the guilty Patron doth present another Clerk upon the Decease of the former, the Simony upon the first Presentation may be alledged both against the guilty Patron, and his second Clerk, though innocent. Wood's Inst. 157. If any Person shall for any Reward in his own Name, or the Name of any other Person, take or accept the next Avoidance of, or Presentation to a Benefice with Cure of Souls, and shall be presented thereto, the Presentation shall be void, and such Agreement deemed a simoniacal Contract; and the Crown may present for that Time, &c. by 12 Ann. c. 12. The Statute against Simony may be recited in the Declaration against a Simonist; or it may be good without it. 2 Lutw. 1090.

Soc, (Sax.) Signifies Power, or Liberty to minister Justice and execute Laws; also the Circuit or Territory wherein such Power is exercised: Whence our Law-Latin Word Soca is used for a Seigniorship or Lordship, enfranchised by the King, with the Liberty of Holding or Keeping a Court of his Sockmen: And this Kind of Liberty continues in divers Parts of England to this Day, and is known by the Names of Soke and Soken. Bract. lib. 3. Lamb. — Nullus Socman habet impune peccandi; i. e. None hath Liberty of Sinning without Punishment. Leg. Hen. 1.

Socage, (Socagium à Soca, a Plough) A Tenure by which Tenants held their Lands, to plough the the Land of their Lords with their own Ploughs, and do other inferior Services of Husbandry at their own Charge: Which slavish Tenure was afterwards, by the mutual Agreement of Lord and Tenant, turn'd into the Payment of a Sum of Money yearly, and from thence it was called Liberum Socagium; whereas the other was term'd Villanum Socagium. Bract. lib. 2. cap. 35. It was a Tenure of so large an Extent, that Littleton tells us, all the Lands in England, which were not held in Knights Service, were held in Socage: It seems the Land was divided between these two Tenures; and as they were of different Natures, so the Descent of these Lands was in a different Manner; for the Lands held in Knights Service descended to the eldest Son; but those held in Villano Socagio, equally among all the Sons; and if there was but one Messuage, the eldest Son was to have it, paying the Rest the Value, &c. Litt. 117. When the Tenant holdeth of the Lord by certain Service, for all Manner of Services, it is Socage; if a Man holds by Fealty only, such Service is Tenure in Socage: And Tenure by Petit Serjeanty, and in Burgage, are but Socage Tenures in Effect: But Grand Serjeanty, holden of the King, and Frankalmoign, which is a Spiritual Service, is not in Socage. Litt. 117, 118, 160. 1 Inst. 86. Free Socage is likewise called Common Socage: And all Tenures are adjudged and taken to be for ever turn'd into Free and Common Socage. Stat. 12 Car. 2. c. 24.

Socagers, Were those Tenants whose Tenure is called Socage; otherwise stiled Sockmen.

Socmen, Sokemen, (Socmanni) Are such Tenants as hold their Lands and Tenements in Socage; but the Tenants in antient Demesne seem most properly to be called Socmans. F. N. B. 14. Briton, cap. 66. After the Conquest, the Socmanni or Sokemanni, often mentioned in Domesday, were Tenants who held by no servile Tenure, but commonly paid their Rent to the Lord as a Soke or Sign of Freedom; though they were sometimes obliged to customary Duties for the Service and Honour of their Lord. Spelm. of Feuds, cap. 7.

Soldiers, The Military State of England includes the Soldiery by Land and Sea: And in Time of War, particular Orders are always made for the due Order and Discipline of Officers and Soldiers, and Regulation of the Army, which are to be consulted upon all Emergencies; and therefore we are not to expect many standing or perpetual Laws on that Account. Wood's Inst. 45. The chief Statutes relating to the Army, and their Contents, are as follow, viz. By 18 H. 6. Soldiers retained, departing from their Colours, without Licence, are guilty of Felony. The 7 H. 7. c. 1. and 3 H. 8. c. 5. enact, That if a Captain shall not have the whole Number of his Soldiers, or not pay them their due Wages, within six Days after he hath received it, he shall forfeit all his Goods and Chattels, and suffer Imprisonment. By the 4 & 5 Ph. & M. c. 3. If any Person being commanded to muster, doth absent himself (having no lawful Excuse) he shall suffer ten Days Imprisonment, or pay a Fine of 40 s. And if any one authorized to levy or muster Soldiers, shall take any Reward to discharge or spare any from the said Service, he shall forfeit ten Times as much as he shall take, &c. The Stat. 1 Jac. 1. c. 4. ordains, that if any Person going beyond Sea, to serve any foreign Prince, as a Soldier, if he do not take the Oath of Allegiance before he goes, it is Felony; and if he is a Gentleman or Officer, that is going to serve a foreign Prince, he is to be bound with two Sureties not to be reconciled to the See of Rome, &c. or it will be Felony. By 31 Car. 2. c. 1. no Soldier shall be quartered on any Persons without their Consent; and Inhabitants of Places may refuse to quarter any Soldier, notwithstanding any Order whatsoever. The 4 & 5 W. & M. &c. was made for punishing Mutiny and Desertion, &c. And by 10 & 11 W. 3. Officers and Soldiers may exercise Trades. The 2 & 3 Ann. gave Power to Justices of Peace to send Warrants for apprehending idle Persons, and to deliver them to Officers to recruit the Army; and during the Wars 40 s. and 4 l. Advance-Money was given to Soldiers voluntarily lifting. By the 12 Ann. c. 11. Lifting Men, or being enlisted for the Service of any foreign Prince as Soldiers, or procuring the same, without the King's Licence, is made High Treason. The 1 Geo. c. 3. enacts, That every Soldier who shall cause a Mutiny, Desert, &c. shall be punish'd by a Court Martial; and Persons suspected of Desertion are to be taken up by Constables, for whom a Reward is ordered of 20 s. And concealing Deserters, Buying their Clothes, &c. incurs a Forfeiture of 5 l. Officers making false Certificates to excuse the Absence of Soldiers from Musters, shall forfeit 50 l. and making false Musters, be cashiered and forfeit 100 l. Commissaries of the Forces are to give Notice to Mayors to be present at Musters; and the Muster-Rolls shall be sign'd by such Mayors: Soldiers falsely mustered shall be deem'd listed Soldiers; and Horses lent to the Persons so mustered to be forfeited: If any Pay-master of the Army detains the Pay ordered, for one Month; or any Officer shall refuse to pay his Soldiers, they shall be discharged, and be liable to 100 l. Forfeiture: Officers receiving Subsistence-Money, are to give Notice to Inn-keepers, and pay their Accounts; and Accounts shall be made up between the Pay-master General and Colonels of Regiments, &c. Constables shall quarter Soldiers in Inns and Ale-houses, and Officers taking Money for excusing Quarterage, shall be cashiered: Justices of Peace are to issue Warrants to Constables to provide Carriages for Baggage, where Soldiers are on the March, and Officers shall pay 1 s. per Mile for Waggon, and 9 d. for Carts; and forcing Horses, &c. from the Owners, is liable to a Forfeiture of 5 l. Soldiers after three Years Service may demand their Discharges; and his Majesty may establish Articles of War, &c. By 1 Geo. c. 34. No listed Soldier is to be allowed to be absent longer than twenty Days in six Months, by any Furlow, except sign'd by the Officer in Chief; and Soldiers in London shall have no Protection unless they constantly do Duty: Perfwad-ding and procuring Soldiers to desert, incurs a Penalty of 40*l.* and not paying it, the Offenders are to be committed to Gaol for six Months, and be set on the Pillory: Papists being Soldiers are to renounce their Religion, or be disabled. The 3 Geo. c. 2. and 4 Geo. c. 4. ordain, That no Soldier shall be taken out of the Service, by any Process, except it be for some criminal Matter, or for a real Debt amounting to 10*l.* of which Affidavit is to be made; and if any Soldier be otherwise arrested, a Justice of Peace by Warrant under his Hand may discharge him. By the 5 Geo. c. 5. when an Officer or Soldier is accus'd of a capital Crime, the commanding Officer, on Application made to him, is to use his utmost Endeavours to deliver over the Criminal to the Civil Magistrate, and he is not to be try'd by a Court Martial in eight Days; within which Time, Application is to be made: But after that the Criminal may be try'd by a Court Martial. Vide Court Martial. See Stat. 4 Geo. c. 3. as to Half-pay Officers, &c.

Staple, (Stapulum) Comes from the Fr. Espace, i. e. Forum Vinarium, a Market or Staple for Wines, which is the principal Commodity of France; or rather from the Germ. Stapelen, which signifieth to gather, or heap any Thing together: In an old French Book, it is written à Calais Espace Eftape de la Laine, &c. i. e. The Staple for Wool: And it is with us a Publick Mart, appointed by Law to be kept at the following Places, viz. Westminster, York, Lincoln, New Castle, Norwich, Canterbury, Chichester, Winchester, Exeter, and Bristol, &c. A Staple-Court is held at the Wool-Staple in Westminster, the Bounds whereof begin at Temple-Bar and reach to Tutbill; in other Cities and Towns, the Bounds are within the Walls, and where there are no Walls, they extend thro' all the Town: And the Court of the Mayor of the Staple is governed by the Law-Merchant in a summary Way, which is the Law of the Staple. 4 Inst. 237. See Stat. 27 Ed. 3. The Staple Goods of England are Wool, Woolfels, Leather, Lead, Tin, Cloth, Butter, Cheese, &c. as appears by the Statute 14 R. 2. c. 1. Though some allow only the five First; and yet of late Staple Goods are generally understood to be such as are vendible, and not subject to perish, of any Kind. Vide Statute Staple.

Star, (Starrum, a Contraction from the Hebr. Shetar, a Deed or Contract) All the Deeds, Obligations, &c. of the Jews were antiently called Stars, and writ for the most Part in Hebrew alone, or in Hebrew and Latin; one of which yet remains in the Treasury of the Exchequer, written in Hebrew, without Points, the Substance whereof is express'd in Latin just under it, like an English Condition under a Latin Obligation: This bears Date in the Reign of K. John; and many Stars, as well of Grant and Release, as obligatory, and by Way of Mortgage, are pleaded and recited at large in the Plea-Rolls. Pasch. 9 Edw. 1.

Star-Chamber, (Camera Stellata, Chambre de Etoile) Was a Chamber at Westminster so called, because at first all the Roof thereof was decked with gilded Stars. Sir Tho. Smith de Rep. Angl. lib. 2. cap. 2. It is written the starred Chamber. Stat. 25 H. 8. c. 1. There was formerly a high Court called by this Name; long since taken away. 3 H. 7. 21 H. 8. 17 Car. 1. See Court of Star-Chamber.

Staticks, (Statice, Scientia Ponderum) Knowledge of Weights and Measures; or the Art of Balancing or Weighing in Scales. Merch. Dist.

Stationarius, (From Statio, Residence) Is the same with Stagarius.

Statuarium, A Tomb adorn'd with Statues. — Ac ejus Sacro Corpore terra illic inter multa alia Romana Statuaria commendato, &c. Ingulph. 853.

Status de Manerio, The State of a Manor: All the Tenants within the Manor, met in the Court of their Lord, to do their customary Suit, and enjoy their Rights and Usages; which was termed omnis Status de Manerio. Paroch. Antiq. 456.

Statute, (Statutum) Has divers Significations: First, It signifies an Act of Parliament made by the King, and the three Estates of the Realm; and Secondly, It is a short Writing called a Statute-Merchant, or Statute-Staple, which are in the Nature of Bonds, &c. and called Statutes, as they are made according to the Form expressly provided in certain Statutes. 5 H. 4. c. 12. To Statutes enacted in Parliament, there must be the Assent of the King, Lords, and Commons, without which there can be no good Act of Parliament; but there are many Acts in Force, though these three Assents are not mentioned therein, as Dominus Rex statuit in Parlamento, and Dominus

Rex in Parlamento suo Statuta edit, and de Comuni Concilio Statuit, &c. Plowd. 79. 2 Bulfr. 186. And Sir Edw. Coke says, that several Statutes are penned like Charters in the King's Name only; though they were made by lawful Authority.

4 Inst. 25. Before the Invention of Printing, all Statutes were proclaimed by the Sheriff in every County, by Virtue of the King's Writ. 2 Inst. 526, 644. Some Statutes are General, and some are Special: And they are called General from the Genus, and Special from the Species; as for Instance; The whole Body of the Spirituality is the Genus, but a Bishop, Dean, and Chapter, &c. is the Species: Therefore Statutes which concern all the Clergy, are General Laws; but those which concern Bishops only are special. 4 Rep. 76. The Statute 21 H. 8. c. 13. which makes the Acceptance of a second Living by Clergymen, an Avoidance of the First, is a general Law, because it concerns all Spiritual Persons. 5 Rep.

All Statutes concerning Mysteries and Trades in general, are general or publick Acts; though an Act which relates to one particular Trade is a private Statute. Dyer 75. A Statute which concerns the King is a Publick Act; and yet the Stat. 23 H. 8. concerning Sheriffs, &c. is a Private Act. Plowd. 38. Dyer 119. 'Tis a Rule in Law, that the Courts at Westminster ought to take Notice of a General Statute, without Pleading it; but they are not bound to take Notice of particular or private Statutes unless they are pleaded. 1 Inst. 98. Statutes against the Power of subsequent Parliaments are not binding; notwithstanding the Statute 42 Ed. 3. c. 3. declares that any Statute made against Magna Charta shall be void: And this is evident, seeing many Parts of Magna Charta have been repealed and altered by subsequent Acts. Read. on Statut. Vol. 4. pag. 340. If a Statute is against Reason, or impossible to be perform'd, it is void. 2 Inst. 587. Old Statutes must give Place to new, where they are contrary; but an affirmative Act does not repeal a precedent affirmative Statute: And when there is a seeming Variance between two Statutes, and no Clause of Non obstante in the latter, such Construction shall be made that both may stand. 11 Rep. 56. Dyer 347. By Repealing of a Repealing Statute, the first Statute is revived. 4 Vol. Read. Stat. Statutes consist of two Parts, the Words, and the Sense; and 'tis the Office of an Expositor, to put such a Sense on the Words of a Statute, as is agreeable to Equity and right Reason: Equity must necessarily take Place in the Exposition of Statutes; but explanatory Acts are to be construed according to the Words, and not by any Manner of Intendment, for 'tis incongruous for an Explanation to be explained. Plowd. 363, 465. Cro. Car. 23. The Preamble of a Statute, which is the Beginning thereof, going before, is as it were a Key to the Knowledge of it, and to open the Intent of the Makers of the Act; it shall be deem'd true, and therefore good Arguments may be drawn from the same. 1 Inst. 11. It is the most natural and genuine Exposition of a Statute, to construe one Part by another Part of the same Statute, for that best expresses the Meaning of the Makers: The Words of an Act of Parliament are to be taken in a lawful and rightful Sense; and the Construction of Statutes in general must be made in Suppression of the Mischief, and for the Advancement of the Remedy intended by the Statute; but so that no innocent Person, by a literal Construction shall receive any Damage. 1 Inst. 381, 24. The best way to expound a Statute, is to consider what Answer the Law-givers would probably have given to the Question made, if proposed to them. Plowd. 465. 3 Nelf. Abr. 245. In the usual Exposition of Statutes, these Things are to be observed, viz. 1. What was the Common Law before the making of the Statute? 2. The Mischief and Defect which the Common Law did not provide against. 3. What Remedy the Statute hath appointed to cure this Mischief? 4. The true Reason of the Remedy. 3 Rep. 7. Where a Statute gives a Remedy for any Thing, it shall be presumed there was no Remedy before at Common Law. And the Rules to construe Acts of Parliament, are different from the strict Rules of Common Law; though in the Construction of a Statute, the Reason of the Common Law gives great Light. Raym. 191, 355. 2 Inst. 301. If an Act of Parliament is dubious, long Usage may be good to expound it by; and the Meaning of Things spoken and written, must be as hath been constantly received; but where Usage is against the obvious Meaning of a Statute, by the vulgar and common Acceptation of Words, then it is rather an Oppression than an Exposition of the Statute. Vaugh. 169, 170. A Statute which alters the Common Law, shall not be strained beyond the Words, except in Cases of publick Utility, when the End and Design of the Act appears to be larger than the Words themselves. Ibid. 179. Relative Words in any Statute, may make a Thing pass as well as if particularly express'd. And Cases of the same Nature shall be within the same Remedy. Raym. 54. An Act of Parliament in Affirmance of the Common Law, extends to all Times after, though it mentions only to give Remedy for the present; and where a Thing is granted by Statute, all necessary Incidents are granted with it. 1 Inst. 235. Where-ever a Statute gives or provides a Thing, the Common Law supplies all manner of Requisites. Hardr. 62. Every Statute made against an Injury, gives a Remedy by Action, expressly or implicitly. 2 Inst. 55, 74. And Things for Necessity sake, or to prevent Failure of Justice, are excepted out of the Statutes. Ibid. 118. How Statutes are to be recited, and Indictments drawn on them, see Indictment.

Statutes Merchant, A Statute Merchant is a Bond of Record, acknowledg'd before the Clerk of the Statutes Merchant, and Lord Mayor of the City of London, or two Merchants assign'd for that Purpose; and before the Mayors of other Cities and Towns, or the Bailiff of any Borough, &c. sealed with the Seal of the Debtor and the King, upon Condition that if the Obligor pays not the Debt at the Day, Execution may be awarded against his Body, Lands, and Goods, and the Obligee shall hold the Lands to him, his Heirs and Assigns, 'till the Debt is levied. Terms de Ley 548. Stat. 13. Edw. 1. The Statute of Acton Burnel, 13 Ed. 1. Enacts, That the Merchant is to cause his Debtor to come before the Mayor of London, &c. to acknowledge the Debt due, and Day of Payment; and the Recognizance is to be entred in a Roll: Then the Clerk is to make out a Bill Obligatory, whereunto the Seal of the Debtor shall be affix'd, together with the King's Seal, in the Custody of the Mayor, &c. And if the Debtor fail in Payment at the Day, upon Notice thereof to the Mayor and Clerk, they are to cause his Goods and Chattels to be sold by Appraisment, to satisfy the Creditor what his Debt amounts unto, and the Money without Delay is to be paid to such Creditor; or in Case they cannot sell the Goods, they shall cause so much of the Goods to be delivered to the Creditor as will answer his Debt. If the Debtor have no Goods within the Mayor's Jurisdiction, the Recognizance is to be sent to the Lord Chancellor under the King's Seal, and he shall thereupon direct a Writ to the Sheriff in whose Bailiwick the Goods of the Debtor are, who is to proceed therein as the Mayor might have done if the said Goods had been in his Jurisdiction: And if the Debtor have no Goods whereupon the Debt may be levied, he shall be imprisoned, and there remain until he agree with the Creditor, &c. If the Debtor have Sureties, they shall be proceeded against in like Manner as the Debtor; but so long as the Debt may be levied of the Goods of the Debtor, the Sureties are to be without Damage. Also a Merchant Stranger, to whom a Debt is due by Statute Merchant, shall besides the Payment of his Debt be satisfied for his Stay and Detainer from his Business. And by the Statute de Mercatoribus, 13 Edw. 1. The Merchant shall cause his Debtor to appear before the Mayor of the City of London, or other City or Town, and there acknowledge the Debt, &c. by Recognizance, which is to be inrolled, the Roll whereof must be double, one Part to remain with the Mayor, and the other with the Clerk appointed by the King: And then one of the Clerks is to write the Obligation, which shall be sealed with the Debtor's Seal and that of the King, &c. If the Debt be not paid at the Day upon the Merchant's Account, the Mayor is to cause the Debtor to be imprison'd, if to be found, and in Prison to remain until he hath agreed the Debt; and if the Debtor cannot be found, the Mayor shall send the Recognizance into the Chancery, from whence a Writ shall issue to the Sheriff of the County where the Debtor is, to arrest his Body, and keep him in Prison till he agree the Debt; and within a Quarter of a Year, his Lands and Goods shall be delivered to him to pay the Debt; but if the Debtor do not satisfy the Debt within that Time, all his Lands and Goods shall be delivered to the Merchant by a reasonable Extent, to hold until the Debt is levied thereby; and in the mean Time he shall remain in Prison; but when the Debt is satisfied, the Body of the Debtor is to be delivered, together with his Lands. If the Sheriff return a Non est Inventus, &c. the Merchant may have Writs to all the Sheriffs where he hath any Land; and they shall deliver all the Goods and Lands of the Debtor by Extent, and the Merchant shall be allowed his Damage, and all reasonable Costs, &c. All the Lands in the Hands of the Debtor, at the Time of the Recognizance acknowledged, are chargeable; though after the Debt is paid, they shall return to the Grantees, if granted away, as shall the rest to the Debtor. The Debtor or his Sureties dying, the Merchant shall not take the Body of the Heir, &c. but shall have his Lands until the Debt is levied. In London, out of the Commonalty, two Merchants are to be chosen and sworn by this Statute; and the Seal shall be opened before them, whereof one Piece is to be delivered to the said Merchants, chants, and the other remain with the Clerk ; and before these Merchants, &c. Recognizances may be taken ; a Fee of 1 d. per Pound is allowed to the Clerk for fixing the King's Seal ; and a Seal is to be provided that shall serve for Fairs, &c. but the Statute extends not to Jews, Stat. Ibid. Cro. Car. 450, 457. Statutes Merchant were contrived for the Security of Merchants only ; but at this Day are used by others, and become one of the common Assurances of the Kingdom : The Form of a Statute Merchant Bond, according to Fleta, is as follows, viz. — Noverint universi me A. B. de &c. Teneri C. D. in centum libr. solvend' eidem C. D. ad festum, &c. Anno Regni Regis, &c. Et nisi fecero, concedo quod currant super me & heredibus meis districtio & poena provisiva in Statuto Domini Regis edit. apud Westm. Datum London, tali die, &c.

Statutes Staple, Are concerning Merchants and Merchandizes of the Staple ; and are of the same Nature with Statutes Merchant : They are for Debt acknowledged before the Mayor of the Staple, at our chief Cities, &c. in the Presence of one or more of the Constables of the Staple, by Virtue of which the Creditor may forthwith have Execution of the Body, Lands, and Goods of the Debtor, on Nonpayment. 4 Inst. 238. The Mayor of the Staple may take Recognizance of a Debt in Presence of the Constables of the Staple ; and there shall be a Seal remaining with the Mayor, &c. with which every Obligation upon such Recognizance shall be sealed : And upon such Obligation, after Default of Payment, the Mayor may imprison the Debtor, and attach his Goods, and sell them to satisfy the Creditor ; but if the Debtor be not found within the Staple, the Mayor is to certify the Obligation into Chancery, and from thence a Process shall go against the Debtor's Person, his Lands, Goods, and Chattels, as in Case of a Statute Merchant. In every Staple Town there is to be a Mayor and two Constables established to take Recognizances, &c. and when they die, or are changed, others shall be chosen in their steads by the Commonalty of Merchants ; though the Mayor is not to hold over a Year, unless he be again chose, &c. 27 Ed. 3, cap. 1. Mayors and Constables of the Staple are to have Consuance of Debts and Contracts touching Merchandize. Officers of the Staple shall be sworn first to the King, and then to the Staple ; and the Mayor of the Staple taking a Recognizance contrary to the Statute, is to forfeit to the King Half the Sum recognized, &c. Persons suing a Scire facias in Chancery, to defeat an Execution upon a Statute Staple, must find Security both to the King and Recognizee to prosecute, &c. Stat. 36. Edw. 3. 14 & 15 R. 2. 11 H. 6. Debt lies as well upon a Statute Staple, as upon a Bond : And a Statute acknowledged upon Lands, is a present Duty, and ought to be satisfied before an Obligation ; a Debt due on an Obligation being but a Chose in Action, and recoverable by Law, and not a present Duty by Law, as a Debt upon a Statute Judgment or Recognizance is, upon which present Execution is to be taken without further Suit. Cro. Eliz. 355, 461, 494. 2 Litt. Abr. 536. In Chancery the Proceedings on a Statute Staple are in the Petty Bag Office ; and Statutes Staple are suable in the King's Bench or Common Pleas, as well as in Chancery. Cro. Eliz. 208. On a Statute's being satisfied, it is to be vacated by entering it, &c. Statutes Staple and Statutes Merchant are to be entred within six Months, or shall not be good against Purchasers. 27 Eliz. cap. 4. See the Stat. 16 & 17 Car. 2. for preventing Delays in extending Statutes. Vide Recognizance.

Statute Merchant and Statute Staple, Tenants thereby. He that is in Possession of Lands on a Statute Merchant or Staple, is called Tenant by Statute Merchant and Statute Staple, during the Time of his Possession : And Creditors shall have Freehold in the Lands of Debtors, and Recovery by Novel Disseisin, if put out ; but if Tenant by Statute Merchant, or Statute Staple, hold over his Term, he that hath Right may sue out a Venire facias ad computand' or enter, as upon an Elegit. 27 Edw. 3. &c.

Statuto Stapule, Is a Writ that lies to take the Body to Prison, and seise upon the Lands and Goods of one who hath forfeited the Bond called Statute Staple. Reg. Orig. 151.

Statuto Mercatorie, A Writ for the Imprisoning him that has forfeited a Statute Merchant Bond, until the Debt is satisfied : And of these Writs, there is one against Lay Persons, and another against Persons Ecclesiastical. Reg. Orig. 146, 148.

Statutum de Laborariis, Is an ancient Writ for the apprehending of such Labourers as refuse to work according to the Statute. Reg. Judic. 27.

Statutum Sessionem, The Statute Sessions, A Meeting in every Hundred of Constables and Housholders, by Custom, for the Ordering of Servants, and the Debating of Differences between the Masters and Servants, rating of Servants Wages, &c. 1 Eliz. cap. 4.

Staurum, Any Store, or standing Stock of Cattle, Provision, &c. Matt. Westm. Anno 1259.

Stoerelman, The same with Stirmannus, or Sturemannus.

Sterling, (Sterlingum) Was the Epithet for Silver Money current within this Kingdom, and took Name from this ; that there was a pure Coin stamped first in England by the Easterlings, or Merchants of East Germany, by the Command of King John ; and Hoveden writes it Esterling. Instead of the Pound Sterling, we now say so many Pounds of lawful English Money ; but the Word is not wholly disused, for tho' we ordinarily say lawful Money of England, yet in the Mint they call it Sterling Money ; and when it was found convenient in the Fabrication of Monies, to have a certain Quantity of baser Metal to be mixed with the pure Gold and Silver, the Word Sterling was then introduc'd ; and it has ever since been used to denote the certain Proportion or Degree of Fineness, which ought to be retained in the respective Coins. Lownd's Ess. on Coins 14.

Steward, (Senescallus, compounded of the Sax. Steda, i. e. Room, or Stead, and Weard, a Ward or Keeper) Is as much as to say a Man appointed in my Place or Stead, and hath many Applications ; but always denotes an Officer of chief Account within his Jurisdiction. The greatest of these Officers is, The Lord High Steward of England, who anciently had the Supervising and Regulating, next under the King, the Administration of Justice, and all other Affairs of the Realm, whether Civil or Military ; and the Office was Hereditary, belonging to the Earls of Leicester, 'till forfeited to King Hen. 3. But the Power of this Officer being very great, of late the Office of High Steward of England hath not been granted to any one, only pro hac vice, either for the Trial of a Peer of the Realm on an Indi-ment for a Capital Offence, or for the Determination of the Pretensions of those who claim to hold by Grand Serjeanty, to do certain honourable Services to the King at his Coronation, &c. for both which Purposes he holds a Court, and proceeds according to the Laws and Customs of England; and he to whom this Office is granted must be of Nobility and a Lord of Parliament. 4 Inst. 58, 59. Crompt. Jurif. 84. 13 H. 8. 11. 2 Hawk. P. C. 5. Of the nine great Officers of the Crown, the Lord High Steward is the first; but when the special Business for which he is appointed is once ended, his Commission expires. The first Lord High Steward that was created for the Solemnizing of a Coronation, was Thomas, second Son of Hen. 4th; and the first Lord Steward for the Trial of a Peer, was Edward Earl of Devon, on the Arraignment of John Holderne's Earl of Huntingdon in the same Reign. Lex Constitution. 170. There is a Lord Steward of the Household, mention'd Stat. 24 H. 8. cap. 13. whose Name was changed to that of Great Master of the Household, Anno 32 H. 8. But this Statute was repeal'd by 1 Mar. cap. 4. and the Office of Lord Steward of the Household revived. He is the chief Officer of the King's Court, to whom is committed the Care of the King's House; he has Authority over all Officers and Servants of the Household, except those belonging to the Chapel, Chamber, and Stable; and the Palace Royal is exempted from all Jurisdiction of any Court, but only of the Lord Steward, or in his Absence, of the Treasurer and Comptroller of the Household, with the Steward of the Marshalsea, who by Virtue of their Offices, without any Commission, hear and determine all Treasons, Murders, Felonies, Breaches of the Peace, &c. committed in the King's Palace: Besides the Treasurer and Controller, the Lord Steward hath under him a Cofferer, several Clerks of the Green Cloth, &c. He attends the King's Person at the Beginning of Parliaments, and is a White-Staff-Officer, which he breaks over the Hearse on the Death of the King, and thereby discharges all Officers under him: Of this Officer's ancient Power, read Fleta, lib. 2. and F. N. B. 241. In the Liberty of Westminster, an Officer is chosen and appointed called High Steward; and there is a Deputy Steward of Westminster; and the Word Steward is of so great Diversity, that in most Corporations, and all Houses of Honour, an Officer is found of this Name and Authority. Stewards of Manors, see Copyhold.

Stews, (from the Fr. Estuves, i. e. Therma, Balneum) Are those Places which were permitted in England to Women of profess'd Incontinency, and that for Hire would prostitute their Bodies to all Comers, so called because dissolute Persons are wont to prepare themselves for venereous Acts by Bathing: And Hot Baths were by Homer reckon'd among the effeminate Sort of Pleasures. These Stews were suppress'd by King Hen. 8. about the Year 1546.

Stica, A Brass Saxon Coin, of the Value of Half a Farthing, four of them making an Halfing.

Sticks of Eels, A Quantity or Measure of twenty-five: A Bind of Eels contains ten Sticks, and each Stick 25 Eels. Stat. Weights and Measures.

Stickler, An inferior Officer who cut Wood within the King's Parks of Clarendon. Rot. Parl. 1. H. 6.

Stilyard, Steelpard, Otherwise called the Stylehouse, in the Parish of Albhallows in London, was by Authority of Parliament assign'd to the Merchants of the Hanse and Almaine to have their Abode in for ever, with other Tenements, rendering to the Mayor of London a certain yearly Rent. Stat. 14. Edw. 4. In some Records it is called Guldbalda Teutonicorum; and it was at first denominated Stilyard, of a broad Place or Court where Steel was sold, upon which that House was founded. See 19 H. 7. cap. 32. & 22 H. 8. cap. 8. 1 Ed. 6. cap. 13.

Stiremannus, Sturemannus, Sax. Steor-man, A Pilot of a Ship, or Steers-man. Domesd.

Stoc and Stobel, A Forfeiture where any one is taken carrying Stipites and Pabulum out of the Woods, for Stoc signifies Sticks, and Stovel Pabulum. Antiq. Chart.

Stock or Stoke, Syllables added to the Names of Places, from the Sax. Stocce, i. e. Stipes, Truncus; as Woodstock, Basingstoke, &c.

Stockjobbers, All Stockjobbing not authorized by Act of Parliament, or by Charter; or used by obsolete Charters, is declared to be void, and the Undertakings, Nuſances, &c. 6 Geo. cap. 18. See Brokers.

Stocks, (Cippus) A Wooden Engine to put the Legs of Offenders in, for the securing of disorderly Persons, and by the Way of Punishment in divers Cases ordained by Statute, &c. And it is said that every Vill within the Precinct of a Town is indictable for not having a Pair of Stocks, and shall forfeit 5 l. Kit. b. 13.

Stola, Was a Garment formerly worn by Priests, like unto those which we now call Hoods. And sometimes it is taken for the Archiepiscopal Pall. Eadmer. cap. 188. Also it was a Vestment which Matrons wore. Corwel.

Stone, A Weight of 14 Pounds, used for weighing of Wool, &c. The Stone of Wool ought to weigh 14 Pounds; but in some Places, by Custom, it is less, as 12 Pounds and a Half: A Stone of Wax is 8 Pounds; and in London the Stone of Beef is no more. 11 Hen. 7. cap. 4. Rot. Parl. 17 Edw. 3.

Stores of War, The Laws and Statutes relating to, vide Naval Stores.

Stotarius, He who had the Care of the Stud or Breed of young Horses. Leg. Alfred. cap. 9.

Stoth, Nativi de W. solvit quilibet pro filiabus suis Maritandis gerson Domino, & Ourlop pro filiabus corruptis, & Stoth, & alia servitia, &c. Petr. Bleff. contin. Hist. Croyl. pag. 115.

Stolm, (Sax. i. Locus) A Place, and is sometimes join'd to other Words, as Godstow is a Place dedicated to God.

Stowage, Is the Room where Goods are laid, or it is the Money paid for such Place.

Straits, A narrow Sea between two Lands, or an Arm of the Sea. Also there is a narrow coarse Cloth anciently so called. 18 Hen. 6. cap. 16.

Strand, (Sax.) Any Shore or Bank of a Sea or great River. Hence the Street in the West Suburbs of London, which lay next the Shore or Bank of the Thames, is called the Strand. An Immunity from Custom, and all Impositions upon Goods or Vessels, by Land or Water, was usually usually express'd by Strand and Stream; as King Hen. 2d, in his Charter to the Town of Rochester.

— Concedo & Confirmo in perpetuum cum Socne & Soke, & Strand & Stream. Mong. Angl. Tom. 3. pag. 4.

Stranded, (from the Sax. Strand) Is when a Ship is by Tempest or ill Steerage run on Ground, and so perishes. 17 Car. 1. cap. 14. Where a Vessel is stranded, or run on Shore, Justices of the Peace, &c. shall command Constables near the Sea Coasts to call Assistance for the Preservation of the Ship; and Officers of Men of War are to be aiding and assisting under the Penalty of 100 l. 12 Ann. cap. 18.

Stranger, (derived from the Fr. Estranger, aliena) Signifies generally in our Language, a Man born out of the Realm, or unknown. In the Law it hath a special Signification, for him that is not privy to an Act: As a Stranger to a Judgment is he to whom a Judgment doth not belong; and in this Sense it is directly contrary to Party or Privy. Old Nat. Br. 128. Strangers to Deeds shall not take Advantage of Conditions of Entry, &c. as Parties and Privies may; but they are not obliged to make their Claims on a Fine levied 'till 5 Years; whereas Privies, such as the Heirs of the Party that passed the Fine, are barred presently. 1 Inst. 214. 2 Inst. 516. 3 Rep. 79. Strangers have either a present or future Right, or an apparent Possibility of Right, growing afterwards, &c. Wood's Inst. 245.

Stray, Or going astray of Beasts and Cattle, see Estray.

Stream-works, A Kind of Works in the Stannaries mentioned in the Stat. 27 H. 8. cap. 23.

Stretward, Was an Officer of the Streets, like our Surveyor of the Highways, or rather a Scavenger. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. pag. 187.

Strip, (Strepitus) Destruction, Mutilation, from the Fr. Estrapier: Strepitum & vastum facere, i. e. To make Strip and Waste, or Strop and Waste. See Estrapement.

Strond, An old Saxon Word signifying the same as Strand.

And procuring or suborning a Witness to give false Testimony in any Court of Record concerning Lands or Goods, the Offender shall forfeit 40 l. or suffer Imprisonment for Half a Year, stand on the Pillory, &c. by 6 Eliz. cap. 9. 3 Inst. 167. See Perjury.

Subpoena, Is a Writ whereby common Persons are called into Chancery, in such Cases where the Common Law hath provided no ordinary Remedy; and the Name of it proceeds from Words therein, which Charge the Party called to appear at the Day and Place assign'd, sub poena Centum librarum, &c. West. symb. par. 2. Crompt. Juris. 33. The Subpoena is the leading Process in Courts of Equity; and by Statute, when a Bill is filed against any Person, Process of Subpoena shall be taken out to oblige the Defendant to appear and answer the Bill, &c. 4 & 5 Ann. cap. 16. and there are several of these Writs in Chancery; as the Subpoena ad Respondend' Subpoena ad Replicand' & ad Rejungend'. The Subpoena ad Testificand' & ad audiend. judicium, &c. which Writs are to be made out by the proper Clerk of the Subpoena Office; and Subpoena's to answer must be personally served by being left with the Defendant, or at his House with one of his Family, on Affidavit whereof, if the Defendant do not answer, Attachment shall be had against him, &c. Pract. Solic. 5, 6. A Subpoena ad Testificandum lies for the calling in of Witnesses to testify in any Cause, not only in Chancery, but in all other Courts; and in that Court, and in the Exchequer, it is made use of in Law and Equity. The two chief Writs of Subpoena are to appear and to testify; and the latter issues out of the Court where the Issue is join'd, upon which the Evidence is to be given. 2 Lill. Abr. 536. In this Writ the 100 l. Penalty is inserted only in Terrorum, being never levied; though if a Witness serv'd with a Subpoena, refuse to appear, on Tender of his Charges, the Party injured thereby may recover 100 l. Damages, and other Recompence by Action of the Case. 5 Eliz.

Suffragan, Suffraganeus, Chorepiscopus, (Episcopi vicarius) Is a Titular Bishop, ordained to aid and assist the Bishop of the Diocese in his Spiritual Function; or one who supplieth the Place instead of the Bishop. Some Writers call these Suffragans by the Name of Subsidiary Bishops, whose Number is limited by the Stat. 26 H. 8. cap. 14. By which Statute it was enacted, That it should be lawful for every Bishop, at his Pleasure, to elect two honest and discreet Spiritual Persons within his Diocese, and to present them to the King, that he might give to one of them such Title, Stile, and Dignity of such of the Sees in the said Statute mentioned, as he should think fit: And that every such Person should be called Bishop Suffragan of the same See, &c. This Act sets forth at large for what Places such Suffragans were to be nominated by the King; and if any one exercise the Jurisdiction of a Suffragan, without the Appointment of the Bishop of the Diocese, &c. he shall be guilty of a Præmunire. Stat. Ibid. See Chorepiscopi.

Suggestion, (Suggestio) Is in Law a Surmise, or Representing of a Thing; and by Magna Charta no Person shall be put to his Law on the Suggestion of another, but by lawful Witnesses. 9 H. 3. cap. 28. Suggestions are Grounds to move for Prohibitions to Suits in the Spiritual Courts, &c. when they meddle with Matters out of their Jurisdictions. 2 Lill. Abr. 536. The Matters of Record ought not to be stay'd upon the bare Suggestion of the Party; there ought to be an Affidavit made of the Matter suggested, to induce the Court to grant a Rule for staying the Proceedings upon the Record. 2 Lill. 537. There are Suggestions in Replevin, for a Returno habendo; which 'tis said are not traversable, as they are for Prohibitions to the Spiritual or Admiralty Courts. 1 Plowd. 76. Breaches of Covenants and Deaths of Persons must be suggested upon Record, &c. 8 & 9 W. 3. cap. 10.

Suit, (Setta, Fr. Suite, i. e. Consecutio, Sequela) Signifies a Following another; but in divers Senses. The first is a Suit in Law, and is divided into Suit Real and Personal; which is all one with Action Real and Personal. 2. Suit of Court, an Attendance which a Tenant owes to the Court of his Lord. 3. Suit-Covenant, when a Man hath covenanted to do Suit in the Lord's Court. 4. Suit-Custom, where I and my Ancestors owe Suit Time out of Mind. 5. Suit is the following one in Chase, as Fresh-suit. And this Word is used for a Petition made to the King, or any great Personage. See Setta.

Suits at Law, Are to be prosecuted in certain Times limited by the Statute 21 Jac. 1. cap. 16, &c. Persons desiring to end any Suits, for which there is no Remedy but by personal Action or Bill in Equity, may agree that their Submission of the Suit to the Award of Arbitrators, shall be made a Rule of Court, &c. 9 & 10 W. 3. cap. 15.

Sumptuary Laws, (Sumptuaria Lex, from Sumptuarius, of or belonging to Expences) Are Laws made to restrain Excess in Apparel, and prohibit costly Clothes, of which heretofore we had many in England, but they are all repealed by 1 Fac. 1. 3 Inst. 199.

Sunday, (Dies Dominicus) Is the Lord's Day set apart for the Service of God: And if any Butchers shall kill or sell Meat on a Sunday, they are liable to a Penalty of 6s. 8d. And Carriers, Drovers, &c. travelling on the Lord's Day, incur a Forfeiture of 20s. No Person shall do any worldly Labour on a Sunday, (except Works of Necessity and Charity) on Pain of 5s. And crying or exposing to sale any Wares or Goods on a Sunday, the Goods to be forfeited to the Poor, &c. on Conviction before a Justice of Peace, who may order the Penalties and Forfeitures to be levied by Distress: But this is not to extend to Dressing Meat in Families, Inns, Cook-Shops, or Victualling Houses; nor to crying of Milk on a Sunday in the Morning and Evening. 29 Car. 2. cap. 7. Law Processes by this Act are not to be serv'd on a Sunday, unless it be in Cases of Treason, or Felony, or on an Escape, by Virtue of 5 Ann. Sunday is not a Day in Law for Proceedings, Contracts, &c. 2 Inst. 264.

Supercargo, A Person employ'd by Merchants to go a Voyage, and oversee their Cargo, and dispose of it to the best Advantage. Merch. Dict.

Super-institution, (Super-institutio) Is one Institution upon another; as where A. B. is admitted and instituted to a Benefice upon one Title, and C. D. is admitted and instituted on the Title or Presentment of another. 2 Cro. 463. See Institution.

Super-jurare, A Term used in our ancient Law, when a Criminal endeavour'd to excuse himself by his own Oath, or the Oath of one or two Witnesses, and the Crime objected against him was so plain and notorious, that he was convicted by the Oaths of many more Witnesses: This was called Super-jurare in Leg. Hen. 1. cap. 74. Leg. Athelstan. cap. 16.

Superoneratione Passuræ, Is a Judicial Writ that lies against him who is impleaded in the County Court for the Surcharging or Overburthening a Common with his Cattle, in a Case where he was formerly impleaded for it in the same Court, and the Cause is remov'd into one of the Courts at Westminster. Reg. Judic.

Super Prerogativa Regis, A Writ which formerly lay against the King's Widow for Marrying without his License. F. N. B. 173.

Superfedeas, Is a Writ that lies in a great many Cases; and signifies in general a Command to stay some ordinary Proceedings at Law, on good Cause shewn, which ought otherwise to proceed. F. N. B. 236. A Superfedeas is used for the staying of an Execution, after a Writ of Error is allowed, and Bail put in: But no Superfedeas can be made out on bringing Writ of Error, 'till Bail is given, where there are Judgments upon Verdict, or by Default in Debt, &c. though in Case and Trespas, where Damages only are recover'd, on the bringing and allowing of the Writ, the Clerk of the Errors will make out a Superfedeas without Bail. 2 Lill. Abr. 543. A Writ of Error is said to be in Judgment of Law a Superfedeas, until the Errors are examined, &c. that is to the Execution, not to Action of Debt, on the Judgment at Law. From the Time of the Allowance, a Writ of Error is a Superfedeas; and if the Party had Notice of it before the Allowance, 'tis a Superfedeas from the Time of such Notice; but this must be where Execution is not executed, or begun to be executed. Cro. Fac. 534. Raym. 100. Mod. Ca. 130. 1 Salk. 321. If before Execution, the Defendant bring a Writ of Error, and the Sheriff will execute a Fieri fac. and levy the Money, the Court will award a Superfedeas, quia erroneice emanavit, and to have Restitution of the Money. Stile 414. After an Execution, there was a Superfedeas, quia Executio improvide emanavit, &c. issued; and there being no Clause of Restitution in the Superfedeas, it was insisted that the Execution was executed before the Superfedeas awarded, and that a faulty Superfedeas is no Superfedeas; but the Court ordered another Superfedeas, with a Clause of Restitution. Moor 466. 3 Nelf. Abr. 256. It appearing upon Affidavit, that there were two Writs of Execution executed upon one Judgment: The Party moved for a Superfedeas, because there cannot be two such Executions, but where the Plaintiff is hindred either by the Death of the Defendant, or by some Act in Law, that he can have no Benefit of the first; and so it was adjudged. Stile 255. Where an Execution was well awarded, but ill served, a Superfedeas was denied. Hetl. 30. A Superfedeas is grantable to a Sheriff to stay the Return of an Habeas Corpus; and if he return it afterwards, and the Parties proceed to Trial, 'tis Error; and so are all the Proceedings in an inferior Court, after an Habeas Corpus delivered, unless a Procedendo is awarded, in which Case a Superfedeas is not to be granted. Cro. Car. 43, 350. When a Certiorari is delivered, [it is a Superfedeas to inferior Courts below, and being allowed, all their Proceedings afterwards are erroneous; and they may be punished. The Justices, &c. to whom a Certiorari is sent, are to issue a Superfedeas to the Sheriff to stop stop Execution of any Award, &c. 2 Hawk. P. C. 293. If a Sheriff holds Plea of 4 s. Debt in his County-Court, the Defendant may sue forth a Superfedeas that he do not proceed, &c. or after Judgment he may have a Superfedeas directed to the Sheriff, requiring him not to award Execution upon such Judgment; and upon that an Alias, a Pluries, and an Attachment, &c. New Nat. Br. 552. Superfedeas may be granted by the Court, for setting aside an erroneous judicial Process, &c. also a Prisoner may be discharged by Superfedeas; as a Person is imprison'd by the King's Writ, so he is to be set at Liberty; and a Superfedeas is as good a Cause to discharge a Person, as the first Process is to arrest him. Finch 453. Cro. Jac. 379. If a privileged Person is sued in any Jurisdiction foreign to his Privilege, he may bring his Superfedeas. Vaugh. 155. But a Peer being arrested by a Bill of Middlesex, was ordered to plead his Privilege; and not allowed a Superfedeas. Stile 177. It is false Imprisonment to detain a Man in Custody after a Superfedeas delivered; for the Superfedeas is to be obey'd; and in such Case 'tis a new Caption without any Cause. 2 Cro. 379. 3 Nelf. 256. There is a Superfedeas where an Audita Querela is sued; and out of the Chancery, to set a Person at Liberty taken upon an Exigent, on giving Security to appear, &c. And in Cases of Surety of the Peace and good Behaviour, where a Person is already bound to the Peace in the Chancery, &c. New Nat. Br. 524, 529, 532.

Superstitious Uses, Causing Forfeiture of Lands and Goods, to the King, by Stat. 1 Ed. 6. cap. 14. See Uses.

Supervisor, (Lat.) A Surveyor or Overseer: And it was formerly and still is a Custom among the better Sort of People, to make a Supervisor of a Will, to supervise and oversee the Executors that they punctually perform the Will of the Testator; but this Office is of late very carelessly executed, so as to be to little Purpose or Use. Supervisor (now Surveyor) of the Highways, is mentioned in the Stat. 5 Eliz. c. 13.

Supplicavit, Is a Writ issuing out of Chancery, for taking Surety of the Peace, when one is in Danger of being hurt in his Body by another; it is directed to the Justices of Peace and Sheriff of the County, and is grounded upon the Stat. 1 Ed. 3. cap. 16. which ordains, That certain Persons shall be assign'd by the Chancellor to take Care of the Peace, &c. F. N. B. 80, 81. When a Man hath purchased a Writ of Supplicavit, directed to the Justices of the Peace, against any Person, then he against whom the Writ is sued may come into the Chancery, and there find Sureties that he will not do Hurt or Damage unto him that sueth the Writ; and upon that he shall have a Writ of Superfedeas directed to the Justices, &c. reciting his having found Sureties in Chancery, according to the Writ of Supplicavit; and also reciting that Writ, and the Manner of the Security that he hath found, &c. commanding the Justices, that they cease to arrest him, or to compel him to find Sureties, &c. And if the Party who ought to find Sureties cannot come into the Chancery to find Surety, his Friend may sue a Superfedeas in Chancery for him; reciting the Writ of Supplicavit, and that such a one and such a one are bound for him in the Chancery in such a Sum, that he shall keep the Peace according to it; and the Writ shall be directed to the Justices, that they take Surety of the Party himself according to the Supplicavit, to keep the Peace, &c. and that they do not arrest him; or if they have arrested him for that Cause, that they deliver him. New Nat. Br. 180. Sometimes the Writ Supplicavit is made returnable into the Chancery at a certain Day; and if so, and the Justices do not certify the Writ, nor the Recognizance and the Security taken, the Party who sued the Supplicavit shall have a Writ of Certiorari directed unto the Justices of Peace to certify the Writ of Supplicavit, and what they have done thereupon, and the Security found, &c. Ibid. If a Recognizance of the Peace be taken in Pursuance of a Writ of Supplicavit, it must be wholly governed by the Directions of such Writ; but if it be taken before a Justice of Peace below, the Recognizance may be at the Discretion of such Justice. Lamb. 100. Dalt. cap. 70. To sue the Writ of Supplicavit, the Party that desires it must go before one of the Masters in Chancery, and make Oath that he doth not desire the same through any Malice, but for his own Safety; upon which the Master makes out a Warrant, and the Writ is made by it by one of the Clerks in the Six Clerks Office; and when made, the Supplicavit is to be delivered to the Sheriff to have his Warrant thereupon for arresting the Party, &c. and then having sued out a Certiorari, it is to be delivered to them that took Bail thereon; and they are required to certify it, &c. Pract. Solic. 130.

Supremacy, Signifies Sovereign, Dominion, Authority and Preheminence, the highest Estate. King Hen. 8. was the first Prince that shook off the Yoke of Rome here in England, and settled the Supremacy in himself, after it had been long held by the Pope. Stat. 25 Hen. 8. cap. 12, 20. And by 1 Eliz. cap. 1. all Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction was annexed to the Crown; and it was ordain'd that no Foreign Potentate should exercise any Power or Authority in this Kingdom: Also the Oath of Supremacy was appointed, &c. By these Laws, the great Power of Rome was suppress'd; and the Act of 1 Eliz. Sir Edward Coke says, was an Act of Restitution of the ancient Jurisdiction Ecclesiastical, which always belong'd of Right to the Crown of England; and that it was not introductory of a new Law, but declaratory of the old, and that which was of Right ought to be by the fundamental Laws of this Realm, Parcel of the King's Jurisdiction; by which Laws, the King as Supreme Head, had full and intire Power in all Causes Ecclesiastical as well as Temporal ; and the Judges of the Ecclesiastical and Temporal Laws derive their Authority from him alone. 5 Rep. 8, 9. There are several Instances of Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction exercised by the Kings of England in former Ages ; and in this Respect the King is said to be Persona mixta & unita cum sacerdotibus. The King is the supreme Ordinary, and by the ancient Laws of the Land, might without any Act of Parliament, make Ordinances for the Government of the Clergy ; and if there be a Controversy between spiritual Persons, concerning Jurisdiction, the King is Arbitrator, and 'tis a Right of his Crown to declare their Bounds, &c. Moor 755, 1043. Hob. 17. See Appeals to Rome, Pope, and Præmunire.

Sur Cui in vita, Is a Writ that lies for the Heir of a Woman, whose Husband hath aliened her Land in Fee, and she neglected to bring the Writ Cui in vita for Recovery thereof ; in this Case, her Heir may bring this Writ against the Tenant after her Decease. F. N. B. 193.

Surety, (Vas, Vadis) A Bail that undertakes for another Man in a criminal Case, or Action of Trespass, &c. and there is a Surety of the Peace, so called, because the Party that was in Fear is thereby secured, by Bond or Recognizance of the other, and his Bail bound for him. Lamb. Eiren. lib. 2. Vide Good Behaviour.

Surgeon, (Chirurgus). May be deduc'd from the Fr. Chirurgion, signifying him that dealerh in the mechanical Part of Physick, and the outward Cures perform'd with the Hand ; and therefore is compounded of the two Greek Words Χειρ, manus, "Epyor, opus ; and for this Cause Surgeons are not allowed to administer inward Medicine. By the Stat. 32 Hen. 8. cap. 42. the Barbers and Surgeons of London are incorporated and made one Company ; and there shall be chosen yearly four Masters for the said Company, of which two must be expert in Surgery, and the other two in Barbery, who shall have Power to punish and correct all Defaults ; and the Company and their Successors are to have the Oversight and Correction as well of Freemen as Foreigners, for such Offences as they shall commit against the good Order of Barbery and Surgery : They shall be exempted from bearing of Arms, serving on Juries, and all Manner of Parish-Offices, &c. but are to pay Scot and Lot, and other Charges as formerly ; and the said Company shall have free Liberty, to take four Persons condemn'd for Felony, for Anatomies yearly. No Barber in London, or within one Mile thereof, shall practise Surgery, letting of Blood, or any other Thing relating thereto, except drawing of Teeth ; nor shall any Person who practises Surgery within those Limits, exercise the Craft of a Barber : Though any Man not being a Barber or Surgeon, may retain in his House as a Servant, a Barber or Surgeon, who may exercise his Art in his Master's House, or elsewhere, &c. All Persons practising Surgery in London, shall have an open Sign in the Street where they dwell, that People may know where to resort to them when wanted : And every Person offending in any of the Articles contained in this Statute, shall forfeit 5 l. a Month, one Moiety to the King, and the other to him who will sue for the same, &c. See Physicians.

Sur sui iur, i. e. Upon his Oath, according to ancient Laws. Leg. W. 1. cap. 16.

Surplusage, (Fr. Surplus, i. e. Corollarium) Is a Superfluity or Addition more than needful, which sometimes is the Cause that a Writ abates ; but in Pleading, many Times it is absolutely void, and the Residue of the Plea shall stand good. Broke. Plowd. 63. As on a Writ of Enquiry of Damages in Waste, in which the Sheriff was commanded to go to the Place wasted, and there to inquire of the Waste done and Damages, who returned the Inquisition, without mentioning that he went to the Place wasted ; and this was held to be Surplusage that would not hurt, because by the Plea in the Action the Waste was acknowledged, so that he need not go to the Place wasted to view it. Poph. 24. A Disfringas was returnable Tres Trin. Nisi prius venerit Matthæus Hale Mil. Capital. Baro, &c. on such a Day eiusdem Mensis Junii ; whereas the Month of June was not mentioned before ; and this was moved in Arrest of Judgment as a Discontinuance ; but adjudged that the Word eiusdem shall be rejected as Surplusage and void, and then the Word Junii shall be intended June next ; as a Covenant to pay Money at Michaelmas, shall be intended Michaelmas next ensuing. Hardr. 330. In a Declaration for Debt, upon Demurrer, it was objected against the Declaration, for that the Plaintiff averred the Defendant had not paid præd. sexaginta Libras, &c. when the Word Sexaginta was not before mentioned : And it was resolved that it shall be Surplusage, when 'tis that the Defendant had not paid præd. Libras, which must be the Pounds for which the Plaintiff had declared. 1 Lutw. 445. Cro. Eliz. 647. 3 Nelf. Abr. 262. A Plaintiff being right named through all the Proceedings, but in the last Place, where it was said that a Capias Utlagatum was prosecuted against prædict. Johannem Fowler, and his true Name was George : It was ruled, that the Word Johannes shall be Surplusage and be rejected ; and then the Plea will be, that a Capias Utlagatum was prosecuted against prædict. Fowler. 2 Lutw. 919. 1 Lev. 428. If a Jury find the Substance of the Issue before them to be tried, other superfluous Matter is but Surplusage. 6 Rep. 46. And where a Verdict, or Judgment, is compleat ; if there be any other Matter repugnant or uncertain, &c. it shall be rejected as Surplus. 3 Nelf. 261. 2 Hawk. P. C. 441. See Pleading.

Surplusage of Accounts, Signifies a greater Disbursement than the Charge of the Accountant amounts unto.

Surrebutter, A second Rebutter ; or more properly it is the Replication or Answer of the Plaintiff to the Defendant's Rebutter. See Rebutter.

Surrejoinder, Is a second Defence of the Plaintiff's Declaration in a Cause, and answers the Rejoinder of the Defendant. West's Symb. par. 2. As a Rejoinder is the Defendant's Answer to the Replication of the Plaintiff ; so a Surrejoinder is the Plaintiff's Answer to the Defendant's Rejoinder. Wood's Inst. 586. After Rejoinder and Surrejoinder, and Rebutter, &c. there may be a Demurrer. Pract. Attorn. Edit. 1. pag. 86.

Surrender, (Sursum Redditio) Is a Deed or Instrument testifying that the particular Tenant for Life or Years, of Lands and Tenements, doth yield up his Estate to him that hath the immediate Estate in Remainder or Reversion, that he may may have the present Possession thereof; and where the Estate for Life or Years may merge or drown by the mutual Agreement of the Parties. Co. Lit. 337. And of Surrenders there are three Kinds; a Surrender properly taken at Common Law; a Surrender of Copyhold or Customary Estates; and a Surrender improperly taken, as of a Deed, a Patent, Rent newly created, &c. The Surrender at Common Law, is the usual Surrender, and is of two Sorts, viz. A Surrender in Deed, or by express Words in Writing; where the Words of the Lessee to the Lessor prove a sufficient Assent to give him his Estate back again: And a Surrender in Law, being that which is wrought by Operation of Law, and not actual; as if Lessee for Life or Years, take a new Lease of the same Land during their Term; this will be a Surrender in Law of the first Lease. 1 Inst. 338. 5 Rep. 11. Perk. 601. And in some Cases a Surrender in Law is of greater Force than a Surrender in Deed; for if a Man makes a Lease for Years to begin at a Day to come, this future Interest cannot be surrendered by Deed, because there is no Reversion wherein it may drown; but if the Lessee before the Day, take a new Lease of the same Land, it is a good Surrender in Law of the former Lease: And this Surrender in Law, by taking a new Lease, holds good, tho' the second Lease is for a less Term than the First; and 'tis said, though the second Lease is a voidable Lease, &c. 5 Rep. 11. 6 Rep. 69. 10 Rep. 67. 1 Inst. 218. Cro. Eliz. 873. If Lessee for Life do accept of a Lease for Years, this is a Surrender in Law of his Lease for Life; if it should be otherwise, the Lease for Years would be made to no Purpose, and both the Leases cannot stand together in one Person. 2 Lill. Abr. 544. Lessee for twenty-one Years takes a Lease of the same Lands for forty Years, to commence after the Death of A. B. it is not any present Surrender of the first Term; but if A. B. dies within the Term, it is. 4 Leon. 83. A Lessee for Years took a second Lease to commence at Michaelmas next; adjudg'd this was an immediate Surrender in Law of the First, and that the Lessor might enter and take the Profits from the Time of the Acceptance of the second Lease, until Michaelmas following. Cro. Eliz. 605. If a Woman Lessee for Years marries, and afterwards she takes a new Lease for Life without her Husband, this is a Surrender and Extinguishment of the Term; but if the Husband disagree, then 'tis revived: Though if the new Lease had been made to the Husband and Wife, then by the Acceptance thereof, the first Lease had been gone. Hutt. 7. A Lessor takes the Lessee to Wife, the Term is not drown'd or surrendered; but he is possessed of the Term in her Right, during the Coverture. Wood's Inst. 285. A Surrender may be of any Thing grantable, either absolute or conditional; and may be made to an Use, being a Conveyance tied and charged with the Limitation of a Use: But it may not be of an Estate in Fee; nor of Rights or Titles only to other Estates for Life or Years; or for Part of such an Estate; nor may one Termor regularly surrender to another Termor; or can a Tenant at Will surrender any more than he can grant. Perk. 615. Noy's Max. 73. Cro. Eliz. 688. 1 Leon. 305. Where Things will not pass by Surrender, the Deed may enure to other Purposes, and take Effect by way of Grant, having sufficient Words. Perk. 624, 588. And a Surrender may be made by these Words: Hath surrendered, granted, yielded up and confirmed, &c. To the Making of a good Surrender in Deed of Lands, the following Things are requisite; the Surrenderor is to be a Person able to grant and make a Surrender, and the Surrenderee a Person able to receive and take it; the Surrenderor must have an Estate in Possession of the Thing surrendered, and not a future Right; and the Surrender is to be made to him that hath the next Estate in Remainder or Reversion, without any Estate coming between; the Surrenderee must have a higher or greater Estate in his own Right, and not in the Right of his Wife, &c. in the Thing surrendered, than the Surrenderor hath, so that the Estate of the Surrenderor may be drown'd therein; (for if Lessee for Life surrender to him in Remainder for Years, &c. it is a void Surrender) there is to be Privy of Estate between the Surrenderor and Surrenderee; and the Surrenderee must be sole seised of his Estate in Remainder or Reversion, and not in Jointenancy; and the Surrenderee agree to the Surrender, &c. 1 Inst. 338. Perk. 584, 588. 2 Roll. Abr. 494. Noy's Max. 73. In case of Tenant for Life, Remainder for Life, Reversion in Fee; it was a Question formerly, whether the Remainder-man for Life, by and with the Consent of the Tenant for Life could surrender to him in Reversion without Deed, but only by coming on the Land and saying, that he did surrender to him in Reversion; the Court were divided, but two Judges held, that if Tenant for Life and he in Remainder for Life, surrender'd to the Reversioner, it should pass as several Surrenders, viz. First of him in Remainder to the Tenant for Life, and then by the Tenant for Life to him in Reversion. Poph. 137. By Statute, no Estates of Freehold, or of Terms for Years, shall be granted or surrendered but by Deed in Writing, signed by the Parties, or unless by Operation of Law, &c. 29 Car. 2. c. 2. Surrenders of Copyhold Estates, see Copyhold.

Form of a Surrender of Lands held for Term of Years.

TO all People to whom these Presents shall come, A. B. of, &c. sendeth Greeting: Whereas the said A. B. is possessed of and interested in one Messuage or Tenement called D. and all these Lands containing, &c. situate, lying and being in, &c. for the Remainder of a certain Term of twenty-one Years, the Reversion whereof doth belong to C. D. of, &c. Now know ye, That the said A. B. for and in Consideration of the Sum of, &c. to him in Hand paid by the said C. D. the Receipt whereof the said A. B. doth hereby confess and acknowledge: He the said A. B. hath surrendered and yielded up, and by these Presents doth surrender and yield up unto the said C. D. his Heirs and Assigns for ever, All the said Messuage or Tenement, Lands and Premises above-mentioned, and all the Estate, Right, Title, Interest, Term of Years, Claim and Demand whatsoever of him the said A. B. of in and to the said Premises, and every Part thereof, with the Appurtenances; so that neither he the said A. B. his Executors, Administrators or Assigns, or any of them, shall or may have, claim, challenge or demand the said Premises, or any Part thereof, or any Estate, Right, Title or Interest, of in and to the same, but shall at all Times hereafter, of and from all Right, Title and Interest, of and in the said Premises, and every Part thereof, be barred and for ever excluded by these Presents: And the said A. B. for himself, his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, doth covenant covenant and grant to and with the said C. D. his Heirs and Assigns, that he the said C. D. his Heirs and Assigns, shall and may at all Times hereafter peaceably and quietly enter into, have, hold, occupy, possess, and enjoy, all and singular the said Messuage or Tenement, Lands and Premises above-mentioned, and every Part thereof, with the Appurtenances, without the Let, Trouble, Hinderance, Molestation, Interruption or Denial of him the said A. B. his Executors, Administrators or Assigns, or of any other Person or Persons whatsoever, claiming, or to claim, by, from, or under him. In Witness, &c.

Surrender of Letters Patent, and Offices. A Surrender may be made of Letters Patent to the King, to the End he may grant the Estate to whom he pleases, &c. And a second Patent for Years, for the same Thing, is a Surrender in Law of the first Patent. 10 Rep. 66. Letters Patent for Years were delivered into the Chancery to be cancelled, and new Letters Patent made for Years; but the first were not cancelled: It was held that the Second were good, because they were a Surrender in Law of the First, and the not Cancelling was the Fault of the Chancery, which ought to have done it. 10 Rep. 66, 67. 2 Lill. Abr. 545. If an Officer for Life accepts of another Grant of the same Office, it is in Law a Surrender of the first Grant: But if such an Officer takes another Grant of the same Office to himself and another, it may be otherwise. 1 Ventr. 297. 3 Cro. 198.

Surrogate, (Surrogatus) Is one that is substituted or appointed in the Room of another; as the Bishop or Chancellor's Surrogate, &c.

Surmise, (Supersisa) A Word specially used in the Castle of Dover, for Penalties and Forfeitures laid upon those that pay not the Duties or Rent of Castleward, at the Days limited. Stat. 32 Hen. 8. c. 40.

Survey, Is to measure, lay out, or particularly describe a Manor, or Estate in Lands; and to ascertain not only the Bounds thereof, but the Tenure of the respective Tenants, the Rent, and Value of the same, &c. In this last Signification, which is according to our Law, it is also understood to be a Court; for on the Falling of an Estate to a new Lord, consisting of Manors, where there are Tenants by Lease, and Copyholders; a Court of Survey is generally held; and sometimes at other Times, to apprise the Lord of the present Terms and Interests of the Tenants, and as a Direction on making further Grants, as well as in Order to Improvements, &c. See my Comp. Court Keep.

A Survey of the Manor of D. in the County of G. belonging to the Honourable W. B. Esq; Taken this Day of, &c. in the Year, &c.

A. B. of, &c. holds by Lease for his Life, and the Lives of T. B. and C. B. his Sons, one Messuage, and twenty Acres of Land, Meadow and Pasture, situate in, &c. within the said Manor, under the yearly Rent of 20 s. — 20 l. per Ann.

C. D. holds by Copy of Court-Roll for his own Life and the Lives of M. his Wife and C. his Son (all of them living) one Messuage or Tenement with the Appurtenances within the said Manor, called, &c. Quit-Rent 30 s. Heriot 3 l. — 30 l. per Ann.

E. F. holds by Copy for the Lives of K. his Wife, and T. his Son, one Tenement within the said Manor, Rent 10 s. Heriot, &c. — 15 l. per Ann.

G. H. holds for the Term of his own Life, one Cottage with the Appurtenances, Quit-Rent 5 s. — 10 l. per Ann.

J. K. holds for her Widowhood, a Piece of Ground called, &c.

L. M. holds, &c.

Examined by G. F. Gent.

Steward of the said Manor.

Surveyor, (Compounded of two Fr. Words, Sur, i. e. Super, & Voir, Cernere) Signifies one that hath the Overseeing or Care of some great Persons Lands or Works: And there was a Court of Surveyors, erected by 33 Hen. 8. c. 39.

Surveyor of the King's Exchange, An ancient Officer, mentioned in the Statute 9 Hen. 5. cap. 4.

Surveyor General of the King's Manors, We read of in Crompt. Jurisd. 106.

Surveyor of the Wards and Liveries, Taken away with the Court of Wards and Liveries. 12 Car. 2. c. 24.

Survivor, (From the Fr. Survivre, Supervivo) Is the longer Liver of two Jointenants, or of any two Persons joined in the Right of a Thing: He that remaineth alive, after others be dead, &c. Broke 33. Where there are Jointenants in any Thing, when one dies, (if but two only) the Whole goes to the Survivor; but if there be more than two, then the Part of him who is dead goes amongst all the Survivors. 2 Lill. Abr. 546. Jointenants take by Survivorship, unless they do any Act whereby the Jointure is severed; for then there can be no Survivorship. Wood's Inst. 147. See Jointenant.

Susana Terra, Said to be Land worn out with Ploughing. Thorn.

Susceptor, (Lat.) An Undertaker, or Godfather; also a Receiver of Tribute in the Roman Provinces. Litt. Dist.

Suspense, (Suspensio) Is a temporal Stop, or hanging up as it were of a Man's Right, for a Time; and in legal Understanding, is taken to be where a Rent, or other Profit out of Land, by Reason of the Unity of Possession of the Rent, &c. and the Land out of which it issues, is not in esse for a certain Time, Et tunc dormiunt, but may be revived or awaked: And it differs from Extinguishment, which is when it dies or is gone for ever. Co. Litt. 213. A Suspension of Rent is, when either the Rent or Land are so conveyed, not absolutely and finally, but for a Time, after which the Rent will be revived again. Vaugh. 109. A Rent may be suspended by Unity for a Time; and if a Lessor doth any Thing which amounts to an Entry on the Land, though he presently depart, yet the Possession is in him sufficient to suspend the Rent, until the Lessee do some Act which amounts to a Re-entry. Vaugh. 39. 1 Leon. 110. As Rent is not issuing out of a Common, the Lessor's Inclosing the Common cannot suspend his Rent. Cro. Jac. 679. If Part of a Condition is suspended, the whole Condition, as well for Payment of the Rent as doing a collateral Act, is suspended. 4 Rep. 52. And a Thing or Action personal once suspended, is for ever suspended, &c. Cro. Car. 373. See Extinguishment.

Suspension, A Censure whereby Ecclesiastical Persons are forbidden to exercise their Office, or to take the Profits of their Benefices; or where they are prohibited for a certain Time in both of them, in Whole or in Part: Hence is suspensio ab Officio, or suspensio à Beneficio, and ab Officio & Be- & Beneficio. Wood's Inst. 510. There is likewise a Suspension which relates to the Laity, i. e. Suspensio ab Ingressu Ecclesie, or from the Hearing of Divine Service, &c. In which Case it is used as in the Canon Law, pro minori Excommunicatione. Stat. 24 Hen. 8. c. 12.

Suspicion, A Person may be taken up on Suspicion, where a Felony is done, &c. but those who are imprison'd for a light Suspicion of Larceny or Robbery, are bailable by Statute. 2 Hawk. P. C. 101.

Suspiral, (From the Lat. Suspirare, i. e. ducere Suspiria) Is used for a Spring of Water, passing under Ground towards a Conduit or Cistern. 35 Hen. 8. cap. 10.

Suthdurt, (Sax.) i. e. The South Door of a Church; it was the Place where Canonical Purgation was perform'd, that is, where the Fact charged upon a Person could not be proved by sufficient Evidence, and the Party accused came to the South Door of the Church, and there in the Presence of the People made Oath that he was innocent: And Plaints, &c. were heard and determined at the Suthdurt; for which Reason, large Porches were anciently built at the South Doors of Churches. Gervas Dorob. de Reparation. Ecclesie Cantuar.

Swan, (Cygnus) Is a noble Bird of Game; and a Person may prescribe to have Game of Swans within his Manor, as well as a Warren, or Park. 7 Rep. 17, 18. A Swan is a Bird Royal; and all white Swans not marked, which have gain'd their natural Liberty, and are swimming in an open and common River, may be seized to the Use of the King by his Prerogative: But a Subject may have a Property in white Swans not mark'd; as any Man may have Swans not mark'd in his private Waters, and the Property of them belongs to him, and not the King; and if they escape out of his private Waters, into an open and common River, he may retake them; though it is otherwise if they have gain'd their natural Liberty and swim in open Rivers, without such Pursuit. Game Law, par. 2. pag. 152. Stealing Swans mark'd and pinion'd, or unmark'd, if kept in a Mote, Pond, or private River, and reduc'd to Tameness, is Felony. H. P. C. 68. And he that steals the Eggs of Swans out of their Nests, shall be imprison'd a Year and a Day, and be fined at the King's Pleasure. 11 Hen. 7. cap. 17. No Fowl can be a Stray, but a Swan. 4 Inst. 280.

Swanmark, No Person may have a Swanmark, except he have Lands of the yearly Value of five Marks, and unless it be by Grant of the King or his Officers lawfully authorized, or by Prescription. Stat. 22 Ed. 4. c. 6.

Swainmote or Swainmote, (Swainmotus, from the Sax. Swang, i. e. a Country Swain and Gemote, i. Conventus) Signifies a Court touching Matters of the Forest, held by a Charter of the Forest thrice in the Year, before the Verderors as Judges. Crompt. Jurisd. 108. 3 Hen. 8. c. 18. The Swainmote is a Court unto which all the Freeholders in the Forest do owe Suit and Service; and all the Officers of the Forest are to appear at every Swainmote, also out of every Town and Village in the Forest four Men and a Reeve; or on Default, shall be amerced and distrained. Game Law, par. 2. 19, 20. A Court of Swainmote is incident to a Forest, as the Court of Pie-powder to a Fair, &c. Chart. Forest. Hen. 3. See Forest.

Swarff-Money, Is mentioned among Customs and Services: And the Swarf-Money is one Halfpenny, paid before the Rising of the Sun; the Party must go three Times about the Cross, and say the Swarff-Money, and then take Witness and lay it in the Hole; and he is to look well that his Witness do not deceive him, for if it be not so paid, he shall pay a great Forfeiture, viz. xxxs. and a White Bull: This Account was found in an old M.S. containing the Rents due to the Catesby's in Lodbroke, and other Places in Warwickshire. See Warth-Money.

Swath, (Sax. Swatha) A Swathe, or as in Kent a Sweath, and in some Parts a Swarth, is a strait Row of cut Grass or Corn, as it lies after the Scythe at the first Mowing of it. Paroch. Antiq. 399.

Swearing, (Imprecatio) Is an Offence against God and Religion, and a Sin of all others the most extravagant and unaccountable, as having no Benefit or Advantage attending it, which most others have: There are several good Laws and Statutes for punishing this Crime; the 21 Jac. 1. cap. 26. enacts, That if any Person shall profanely swear or curse in the Presence of a Justice of Peace, or the same shall be prov'd before a Justice, he shall forfeit 1 s. for every Offence, to the Use of the Poor, to be levied by Distress; and for Want of a Distress, the Offender to be set in the Stocks, &c. This Law is altered by the Stat. 6 & 7 W. 3. c. 11. which confines the Forfeiture of 1 s. to Servants, Labourers, common Soldiers and Seamen; and by this latter Law the Penalty is 1 s. for the first Offence, for the Second double, and for the third Offence treble; and every Person, not being a Servant, Labourer, &c. swearing and cursing, shall forfeit for the first Offence 2 s. for the Second and Third, double and treble, &c. to be levied by Distress and Sale of Goods; and if there be no Distress, the Offender shall be put in the Stocks one Hour, or two Hours if for more Offences than one, provided he be above sixteen Years of Age; for if he is under that Age, he shall be punished with Whipping: The Prosecution is to be in ten Days after the Offence; and Conviction before a Justice by Confession, or Oath of one Witness, &c. The Justice is to register in his Book all Convictions upon this Statute, and certify them to the Quarter-Sessions; and neglecting his Duty in putting the Act in Execution, he shall forfeit 5 l. And Parsons are to read this Act in their Churches the next Sunday after every Quarter-day yearly, immediately after Morning Prayer, under the Penalty of 20 s. Mod. Just. 432.

Swepeage, Or the Swepe, is the Crop of Hay got in from a Meadow. Co. Lit. 4.

Swoling of Land, (Solinga, vel Swolinga Terra, in Sax. Sulung, from Sul, aratum, as to this Day in the West Country a Plow is called a Sul) Is as much as one Plough can till in a Year; the same as Carucata Terra: A Hide of Land; tho' some Writers say it is an uncertain Quantity.

Su oin Brothers, (Fratres jurati) Persons who by mutual Oath, covenanted to share each other's Fortune: And formerly in any notable Expedition, to invade and conquer an Enemy's Country, try, it was the Custom for the more eminent Soldiers to ingage themselves by reciprocal Oaths to share the Reward of their Service ; so in the Expedition of William Duke of Normandy into England, Robert de Oily, and Roger de Ivery were sworn Brothers and Copartners in the Estate, which the Conqueror allotted them.—Robertus de Oileio & Rogerus de Iverio Fratres jurati, & per Fidem & Sacramentum Confœderati venerunt ad Conquestum Angliæ. Paroch. Antiq. 57. This Practice probably gave Occasion to our Proverb of Sworn Brother, or Brethren in Iniquity ; because of their dividing Plunder and Spoil.

Symbolum, Is a Symbol or Sign in the Sacrament ; also the Creed of the Apostles, which is often called by this Name in our Historians.

Syncope, A Word used in several Ecclesiastical Councils and Synods, signifying to cut short or pronounce Words so as not to be understood. Synod. Wigorn. cap. 10.

Syndicus, An Advocate, or Patron ; a Burgess or Recorder of a Town, &c. Matt. Paris. Anno 1245.

Syngraph, (Syngraphus) A Deed, Bond or Writing, under the Hand and Seal of all the Parties ; and it was the Custom for both the Debtor and Creditor, in Writings obligatory, to write their Names and the Sum borrowed on a Piece of Paper, with the Word Syngraphus in large Letters in the Middle ; which being cut through, one Part of the Paper was delivered to each Party, for their better Security, &c. See Chirograph.

Synod, (Synodus) A Meeting or Assembly of Ecclesiastical Persons for the Cause of Religion ; being the same Thing in Greek, as Convocation in Latin : And of Synods there are four Kinds, 1st, A General or Universal Synod or Council, where Bishops of all Nations meet. 2dly, A National Synod, of the Clergy of one Nation only. 3dly, A Provincial Synod, where Ecclesiastical Persons of a Province only assemble. 4thly, A Diocesan Synod, of those of one Diocese, &c. And our Saxon Kings usually called a Synod or mix'd Council, consisting of Ecclesiasticks and the Nobility, three Times a Year ; which is said to have been the same with our Parliament.

Synodal, (Synodale) Is a Tribute or Payment in Money, paid to the Bishop or Archdeacon, by the inferior Clergy, at Easter Visitation ; and it is called Synodale or Synodaticum, quia in Synodo frequentius dabatur. Right Clerg. 59. They are likewise termed Synodies, in the Stat. 34 Hen. 8. cap. 16. And sometimes Synodale is used for the Synod it self ; and Synodals Provincial, the Canons or Constitutions of a Provincial Synod. 25 Hen. 8. cap. 19.

Synodales Testes, Were the urban and rural Deans, whose Office at first was to inform of and attest the Disorders of the Clergy and People in the Episcopal Synod ; and for which a solemn Oath was given them to make their Presentments, &c. But when they sunk in their Authority, the Synodical Witnesses were a Sort of impanelled Grand Jury, composed of a Priest and two or three Laymen of every Parish, for the Informing of or Presenting Offenders ; and at length two principal Persons for each Diocese were annually chosen, till by Degrees this Office of Inquest and Information was devolved upon the Churchwardens. Paroch. Antiq. 649.

Tactare, For Confirmare. Fleta, lib. 2. c. 61.

Tail, (Fr. Taille, from Tailler, to cut or limit, Lat. Feodum Taliatum) Is a limited Fee, opposed to Fee-simple : It is that Inheritance whereof a Man is seised to him and the Heirs of his Body, begotten or to be begotten : And he that giveth the Lands in Tail, is called the Donor, and he to whom the Gift is made, the Donee. Litt. 18. All Estates of Inheritance were originally Fee-simple by the Common Law; but by the Statute de Donis Conditionalibus the Inheritance was divided, and a particular Estate created by the Statute in the Donee, which is what is called an Estate-tail, i. e. an Estate cut and divided from the Fee-simple; which Estate is to return to the Donor or his Heirs, after the Determination of the Tail. 3 Nels. Abr. 266. Before the Statute of Westm. 2. 13 Ed. 1. If Lands were given to a Man and the Heirs of his Body, it was interpreted to be a Fee-simple presently by the Gift, upon Condition that he had Issue; and if he had Issue, the Condition was supposed to be perform'd for three Purposes, viz. to alien and disinherit the Issue, and by the Alienation to bar the Donor or his Heirs of all Possibility of the Reversion; to forfeit the Estate for Treason or Felony; and to charge it with Rent, &c. But by this Statute, the Will and Intention of the Donor is to be observed; as that the Tenant in Tail shall not alien after Issue had or before, or forfeit or charge the Lands longer than for his own Life, &c. and the Estate shall remain to the Issue of the Donee, or to the Donor or his Heirs where there is no Issue; so that whereas the Donee had a Fee-simple before, now he had but an Estate-tail, and the Donor a Reversion in Fee expectant upon that Estate-tail. Co. Lit. 19. In this Manner it continued some Time, though daily Experience shewed that much Mischief had crept into the Law by intail'd Inheritances, as Frauds to Creditors, &c. and Sons became disobedient when they found they could not be disinherited; wherefore the Judges found out a Way to bar an Estate-tail, with Remainders over, by a feigned Recovery. Ann. 12 Ed. 4. And since by a Fine to bar the Issue, by 4 Hen. 7. cap. 20. and 32 Hen. 8. cap. 36. And for that Owners of Land held in Tail were lets fearful to commit Treason on Account of the easy Forfeiture; therefore the Stat. 26 Hen. 8. cap. 13. was made; and because Men that had intailed Lands, could not make Improvements, their Estate being only for Life; for this Reason the Stat. 32 Hen. 8. cap. 18. gave them Power to make Leases for twenty-one Years, or three Lives, &c. And notwithstanding the many Mischiefs and Inconveniencies arising from intailed Estates, and the Statutes before mentioned, and Fines and Recoveries to dock Entails; there are Methods observed in Settlements to limit Estates, that no Law or Statute, can reach or alter them, except a particular Act is made for that Purpose. Wood's Inst. 122. The Statute de donis creates no Intail, but of such an Estate which was a Fee-simple at the Common Law; and descendible as a Fee-simple. 1 Inst. 19. Lands of Inheritance, and all Inheritances favouring of the Realty, may be intailed; so Rents, Profits, Offices, Dignities, &c. which concern Lands, or certain Places: But if the Grant of an Inheritance be merely personal, or exercised with Chattels only; it cannot be intailed. 4 Inst. 87. 7 Rep. A Grant of an Annuity, to a Man and the Heirs of his Body, is void: And a Lease for Years to a Person and the Heirs of his Body, is also void; though an Assignment may be made of a Lease for Years, in Trust to permit the Issue in Tail to receive the Profits; which is in Effect an Estate-tail. 10 Rep. 87. Estate-tail of Lands, are General, or Special; General Tail is where Lands or Tenements are given to a Man and the Heirs of his Body begotten; or to a Woman and the Heirs of her Body begotten: In this Case, it is called a general Tail, because whatever Woman the Man taketh to Wife, the Issue may inherit the Lands; and whatsoever Man the Woman takes to Husband, the Issue may inherit; or if she have divers Husbands, and have Issue by every of them, they shall inherit one after another, as Heir of her Body: Special Tail is when Lands and Tenements are given to a Man and his Wife, and to the Heirs of their two Bodies begotten; in which Case, no other Persons can inherit but the Issue that are begotten by him on that particular Wife; and it is called Special Tail, for that if the Wife die, and the Husband marries a second Wife, by whom he hath Issue, such Issue has no Benefit, as they have by the general Tail. Litt. 14, 16. Co. Lit. 19, 20. If Lands are given to the Husband and Wife, and to the Heirs of their Bodies, both of them have an Estate in special Tail; by reason the Word Heirs, or the Inheritance, is not limited to one more than the other: Where Lands and Tenements are given to a Man and his Wife, and to the Heirs of the Body of the Man, the Husband hath an Estate in general Tail, and the Wife an Estate for Life; as the Word Heirs relates generally to the Body of the Husband: And if the Estate is made to the Husband and Wife, and to the Heirs of the Body of the Wife by the Husband begotten; there the Wife hath an Estate in special Tail, and the Husband for Term of Life only; because the Word Heirs hath Relation to the Body of the Wife, to be begotten by that particular Husband: If an Estate be limited to a Man's Heirs which he shall beget on his Wife, it creates a special Tail in the Husband; but the Wife will be intitled to nothing, &c. Litt. 26, 28. Co. Lit. 22, 26. Lands given to a Man and Woman unmarried, and to the Heirs of their Bodies, will be an Estate in special Tail; for they may marry. 1 Inst. 25. 10 Rep. 50. And though Lands are given to a married Man and another Man's Wife, and the Heirs of their two Bodies, it may be a good Estate-Tail; for the Possibility of their Intermarrying. 15 Hen. 7. A general Tail, and a special Tail, may not be created at one and the same Time; if they are, the General which is greater, will frustrate the Special. 1 Inst. 28. There are other Estates-tail within the Equity of the Statute; as if Lands are given to a Man and his Heirs Males or Females, of his Body begotten, the Issue Male or Female shall only inherit according to the Limitation: By Virtue of the Statute, here the Daughter may be Heir by Discent, though there be a Son: But in Case of a Purchase, there cannot be an Heir Female, where there is a Son, who is right Heir at Law. 1 Inst. 24, 164. It is the Word Body, or other Words amounting to it, make the Entail: And a Gift to the Heirs Males, or Heirs Females, without any Thing further, is a Fee-simple Estate; because it is not limited of what Body: And hence a Corporation cannot be seized in Tail. 1 Inst. 13, 20, 27. In a Devise or last Will, an Estate-tail may be created without the Word Body; also begotten shall be supply'd and necessarily intended. Noy's Max. 101. 1 Inst. 26. If one gives Lands to a Man and his Issue, or Children of his Body, without the Words, his Heirs, to convey the Inheritance, he has but an Estate for Life: Though such Words may be good enough to convey the Inheritance in a Will; as

Estates-tail by Devise are always more favour'd in Law, than Estates-tail created by Deeds. 1 Inst. 20. The Word Heirs is necessary to create an Estate-tail and Inheritance by Deed; and where an Use was limited to A. B. and to his Heirs Males, lawfully to be begotten; these last Words imply that it must be Heirs Males of his Body, because no other Heir Male can inherit by Virtue of this Grant, but such who are lawfully begotten by the Grantor. 7 Rep. 41. If a Man makes a Feoffment to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder to the Heirs Males of his Body, this is an Estate-tail executed in him; and so it is if he covenanted to stand seised in the same Manner. 1 Mod. 159. By a Marriage-Settlement and Fine levied, &c. to the Use of Husband and Wife, for their joint Lives, Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of the Wife by the Husband to be begotten, Remainder (the Wife surviving the Husband) to her for Life, Remainder to the right Heirs of the Husband; this was held to be an Estate-tail, executed in the Wife. Raym. 127. 3 Salk. 338. When a Remainder is limited to two, and the Heirs Male of their Bodies, they have not joint but several Estates-tail: And between Baron and Feme, 'tis said several Moieties may be of an Estate-tail, as well as of a Fee-simple. Cro. Eliz. 220. Moor 228. 2 Lill. Abr. 551. A Feoffment was made to the Use of the Feoffor for Life, Remainder to W. R. his Son and his Heirs; and for Want of Issue of him, Remainder to the right Heirs of the Feoffor; adjudged W. R. hath only an Estate in Tail; for though the first Words of the Sentence, viz. to his Son and his Heirs make a Fee-simple, the subsequent Words in the same Sentence, i. e. and for Want of Issue of him, make an Estate-tail by qualifying and abridging the same. 5 Mod. 266. 3 Salk. 337. Feoffment to the Use of a Man's Self; and afterwards he made his Will, by which he devised that the Feoffees should make an Estate to all his Sons, except to Henry; and if all his Sons died without Issue, Remainder to a Stranger: It was held, that because Henry was not excepted in this last Clause, he had an Estate-tail. Heth. 57. Though an Estate-Tail is created by the Words Dying without Issue, &c. yet where the Limitation is to a Son upon a Dying without Issue, in the Life-time of another, there it will be otherwise. Dyer 334. A Father having two Sons, devised his Lands to his youngest Son, and if he died without Heirs, then to his eldest Son and his Heirs; the youngest Son had an Estate-tail, because of the Devise to him; and if he died without Heirs, is the same as if the Testator had devised it in these Words, (viz.) If he die without Heirs of his Body; for otherwise the Remainder limited to the eldest Son had been void, as the Youngest cannot die without Heirs, so long as the Eldest is living. 1 Roll. Abr. 836. In Ejectment the Case was, the Father having three Sons, devised his Lands to his second Son, and his Heirs for ever; and for Want of such Heirs, then to the right Heirs of the Father; then the Father died, and his second Son enter'd, and died without Issue, leaving the eldest Son: It was resolv'd, that the second Son had but an Estate-tail, and that the Devise over by these Words, and for Want of such Heirs, is void in Point of Limitation, for the Testator's Intent was that the Lands should descend from himself, and not from his second Son: and the Words, Want of such Heirs, could import no other than Want of Issue, &c. so that the eldest Son takes by Descent in this Case, and not by the Will. 1 Salk. 233. An Estate-tail cannot merge by the Accession of the Fee-simple to it: But it has been adjudg'd, that two Fees immediately expectant upon one another, (as where a Man is Tenant in Tail, and Remainder in Fee to the Tenant in Tail) cannot subsist in the same Person; and the Statute of Westm. having made Estates-tail a Kind of particular Estates, they must like all other such Estates be subject to Merger and Extinguishment, when united with the absolute Fee. 8 Rep. 74. 1 Salk. 338. If there be Tenant in Tail, Remainder in Tail, and Tenant in Tail enfeoffs the Reverfioner in Fee; it is a Discontinuance: And Tenants in Tail can make no greater Estate than for their own Lives; unless it be by Lease, &c. according to the Stat. 32 Hen. 8. 1 Rep. 140. Estates-tail are usually created upon Settlements: Tho' an Agreement to intail, is no Intail; for no Agreement shall bind the Issue in Tail, where there is a first Intail, without a Fine. Chanc. Rep. 236. It is incident to an Estate-tail, to be punishable of Waste; that the Wife of the Donee shall be endowed; and the Husband of a Feme Donee, be Tenant by the Curtesy; and that the Tenant in Tail may suffer a common Recovery, &c. and therefore Conditions to restrain any of these, are void. 1 Inst. 224. 10 Rep. 38. As by Statute it is incident to Estates-tail, to make Leases; so by Custom, it is to grant Lands by Copy of Court-Roll, &c. See Recovery.

Tail after Possibility of Issue extinct, Is where Lands and Tenements are given to a Man and his Wife in special Tail, and either of them dies without Issue had between them; the Survivor hath an Estate in Tail after Possibility of Issue, &c. Also if they have Issue, and the Issue dies without Issue, whereby there is none left which may inherit by Force of the Intail, the Survivor of the Donees hath an Estate-tail after Possibility. Litt. 32. The Estate of this Tenant must be created by the Act of God, viz. by the Death of either Party without Issue; none can have this Estate but one of the Donees, or a Donee in special Tail; for a Donee in general Tail may by Possibility have Issue. Litt. 34. 1 Inst. 28. 11 Rep. 80. And if one gives Lands to a Man and his Wife, and the Heirs of their two Bodies in special Tail, and they live till each of them are one hundred Years old, and have no Issue; yet doth the Law see no Impossibility of having Children, and they continue Tenant in Tail: But if the Wife die without Issue, there the Law seeth an apparent Impossibility. 1 Inst. 28. Tenants in Tail after Possibility of Issue extinct, are not punishable for Waste; as are Tenants for Life. 1 Inst. 27. Where Tenants in Tail general or special, &c. die without Issue, the Donor or his Heirs may enter. Litt. 18.

Tales, (Lat.) Is used in the Law for a Supply of Men, impanelled on a Jury and not appearing, or on their Appearance challenged as not indifferent; when the Judge upon Motion orders a Supply to be made by the Sheriff, &c. of one or more such Persons present in Court, equal in in Reputation to those that were impanelled, to make up a full Jury; which he could not do by the Common Law; and this is by the Statutes 35 H. 8. c. 6. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 32. 14 Eliz. c. 9. 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 32. &c. Tales are of two Sorts, i. e. Tales de Circumstantibus, and a Decem Tales; a Tales de Circumstantibus is where a full Jury do not appear at the Nisi prius, or so many are challenged that there is not a full Jury; then on the Prayer of the Plaintiff's Counsel or Attorney, the Judge will grant this Tales, which the Sheriff returns immediately in Court: A Decem Tales is when a full Jury doth not appear at a Trial at Bar, and is a Writ to the Sheriff apponere Decem Tales. 10 Rep. 102. Finch. 414. 2 Roll. Abr. 67. Upon a Trial at Bar, if the Jury do not appear full, the Court cannot grant a Tales de Circumstantibus, but will grant a Decem Tales returnable in some convenient Time the same Term, to try the Cause. 2 Lill. Abr. 552. And a Tales de Circumstantibus ought not to be in an Affise, only a Nisi prius; the Decem Tales must be awarded in an Affise. Cro. Car. 341. A Plaintiff or Defendant may have a Tales de Circumstantibus; and the Statutes which authorize Justices of Nisi prius to award a Tales de Circumstantibus, extend as well to capital Cases as to others; but such a Tales cannot be prayed for the King upon an Indictment, or criminal Information, without a Warrant from the Attorney General, or an express Assignment from the Court before which the Inquest is taken: Though it may be awarded on an Information qui tam, &c. because of the Interest which the Prosecutor hath in such Prosecutions. 2 Hawk. P. C. 409. 3 Salk. 339. A Tales is not to be granted where the whole Jury is challenged, &c. but the whole Panel, if the Challenge be made good, is to be quashed, and a new Jury return'd; for a Tales consists but of some Persons to supply the Places of such of the Jurors as were wanting of the Number of Twelve, and is not to make a new Jury. 2 Lill. Abr. 552. If but one Juror appears on the Principal Panel, the Court may order a Tales by the Statute 35 H. 8. 10 Rep. 102. And if upon a Habeas Corpora or a Distingas Fur. none of the Jury appear, a Decem Tales shall be awarded: But it shall not be had upon a Venire fac. Cro. Eliz. 502. Moor 528. One of the Principal Panel only appears; in such Case there shall be eleven Talesmen; or if Eleven of the impanell'd Jurors appear, there shall be one Talesman added; and if Two of the Principal Panel appear and are withdrawn, the Trial may be by all Talesmen. Dyer 245. 2 Roll. Rep. 75. At the Affises, one of the Principal Panel appear'd, and no more, and a Tales was awarded, the Title whereof was Nomina Decem Talium, and under it Eleven were return'd; this was notwithstanding held good, for 'tis only a Misprision of the Clerk, and Decem was struck out, and then the Title was Nomina Talium, &c. And it was adjudg'd, that if after a Tales granted, the Principal Panel should be quash'd, the Tales should stand good, and more be added, &c. 4 Rep. 103. 2 Cro. 316. 3 Nelf. Abr. 275. A Day being appointed for a Trial at Bar, the Sheriff of the County by Order of the Plaintiff countermanded the Jurymen; but the Defendant did not know it; whereupon he and Three of the Jury appear'd on the Day, and the Defendant pray'd a Tales that the Trial might go on; though the Court would not grant it, but offer'd to nonsuit the Plaintiff on Record, and directed that the Defendant should contribute to satisfy the three Jurors who appear'd, and referred it to the Secondary to tax Costs for the Defendant in Satisfaction of his Trouble and Expences. 2 Sid. 77. No Person shall take any Reward or Fee, upon the Account of any Tales return'd; on Pain of Forfeiting 10 l. one Moiety to the Informer, and the other to the King. 4 & 5 W. & M. And by this Act, the Qualification of Talesmen is to be 5 l. per Annum Freehold Estate, &c.

Tales Is also the Name of a Book in the King's Bench Office, of such Persons as were admitted of the Tales. 4 Inst. 93.

Tallage, (Tallagium, from the Fr. Taille) Is metaphorically used for a Part or Share of a Man's Substance, carv'd out of the Whole, paid by Way of Tribute, Toll or Tax. *Stat. de Tallagio non concedendo temp. Talley, (Tallea, Fr. Taille, Ital. Tagliare, i. e. Scindere) Is a Stick cut in two Parts, on each whereof is mark'd with Notches, or otherwise, what is due between Debtor and Creditor; as now used by Brewers, &c. And this was the ancient Way of Keeping all Accounts, one Part being kept by the Creditor, the other by the Debtor, &c. Hence the Tallier of the Exchequer, whom we now call the Teller. But there are two Kinds of Tallies mentioned in our Statutes to have been long used in the Exchequer; the one are termed Tallies of Debt, which are in the Nature of an Acquittance for Debts paid to the King, on the Payment whereof these Tallies are delivered to the Debtors, who carrying them to the Clerk of the Pipe-Office, have there an Acquittance in Parchment for their full Discharge. 1 R. 2. c. 5. The other are Tallies of Reward or Allowance, being made to Sheriffs of Counties as a Recompence for such Matters as they have perform'd to their Charge, or such Money as is cast upon them in their Accounts of Course, but not leviable, &c. 27 H. 8. c. 11. 33 & 34 H. 8. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. In the Exchequer there is a Talley-Court, where attend the two Deputy Chamberlains of the Exchequer, and the Talley-cutter; and a Talley is the King's Acquittance for Money paid or lent, and has written on it Words proper to express on what Occasion the Money is received. Lex Constitut. 205. *vid. Tax, (Taxa, from the Gr. Taxis, i. e. Ordo, Tributum) A Tribute or Imposition laid upon the Subject, which being certainly and orderly rated, was wont to be yearly paid into the King's Exchequer: And it differs from what is commonly called a Subsidy, in this, That it is always certain as it is set down in the Exchequer-Book, and levied in general of every Town, and not particularly of every Man, &c. No History mentions that the Saxon Kings had any Taxes after the Manner of ours at present; but they had Levies of Money and personal Services towards repairing of Cities, Castles, and Bridges, and for military Expeditions, which they called Burghbote, Brigbote, and Heregeld; and when the Danes invaded this Kingdom, great Sums of Money were raised yearly, by a Tax on every Hide of Land, the Lands of the Church only excepted; and thence it was afterwards called Hydagium, which Name remain'd and was used for all Taxes and Subsidies impos'd on Lands; though sometimes it was laid upon Cattle, and then was termed Horngeld: The Normans called these sometimes Taxes, other times Tallages; and made a Law for the particular Manner of their Levying; but many Years after the Conquest, they were levied otherwise than now, as every ninth Lamb, every ninth Fleece, and every ninth Sheaf, &c. Rastal's Abr. 4 Inst. 26, 33. It is said that in antient Times, Taxes were imposed by the King at his Pleasure; but K. Edw. 1. bound himself and his Successors, in the 25th Year of his Reign, that from that Time forward no Tax should be laid upon the Subject, without the Assent of the Lords and Commons in Parliament. Stat. 25 Ed. 1. c. 5. And the Way of Taxing was formerly by Tenths and Fifteenthths, then by Subsidies, afterwards by Royal Aids, and at last by a Pound Rate; the former were all upon the Person and Personal Estate, and were much the same, but the Pound-Rate was on Lands and Rents: Anno 18 Ed. 3. a Valuation was made of all the Towns in England, and returned into the Exchequer, and this became the standing Rule for Taxing every Town, (viz.) When a Tax was given, the Officers of the Exchequer presently knew to how much it amounted for every Town, and the Inhabitants taxed the Landholders, and Occupiers of Lands, and they were charged and paid their Proportion, &c. The first Subsidy was granted Anno 32 H. 2. and this was a Tax upon the Person, both for Lands and Goods, and payable where the Persons lived; and this continued till the 15 Car. 1. and about two Years afterwards the first Assessment was made upon Land and Rents, according to a Pound-Rate. 2 Inst. 76, 77. 3 Salk. 340. In the 16 & 17 Car. 1. Taxes were granted for Relief of, and disbanding the Army, &c. And 13 Car. 2. c. 3 & 4. the Sum of 1,260,000 l. was granted for eighteen Months at 70,000 l. per Month, charged on the several Counties by Lieutenants, for Ammunition for the Militia; and several Aids were granted, one of 2,477,000 l. for Fitting out a Navy and Maintenance of Wars, &c. in the Years 16, 17, 18, 19 & 25 Car. 2. Also a free and voluntary Present was granted to King Car. 2. but it was ordained that the same should not be drawn into Example. King James 2. had Aids and Taxes granted him by Parliament; and after the Revolution, heavy Taxes were necessarily laid on Lands and Personal Estate, in the Reigns of K. Will. 3. and Q. Anne, to defend the Crown and and Kingdom against the Efforts of the King of France, in Favour of the pretended Prince of Wales, and secure the Protestant Succession in the Line of his present Majesty King George. Since this Necessity, join'd to others, Land-Taxes have been annually granted of 1 s. 2 s. 3 s. and 4 s. in the Pound, as the present Exigencies have required; enacted to be levied by Commissioners on the several Counties, Cities, Towns, &c. And in Respect of this Tax, it is not the Quantity but the yearly Value of Lands that must be observ'd; the Farmers or Occupiers of the Land, are to be charged, and deduct it out of their Rents to the Landlords; and a Man may be rated for Goods, as well as Lands, but not for both; and in Case of a Rate on Goods, the Charge must be on the Person: The Commissioners are to ascertain the several Proportions of the Tax, to be charged upon every Hundred or Division; and appoint fit Persons to be Assessors and Collectors in every Parish to assess and levy the Money, which when received is to be paid to Receivers General, and by them return'd to the Exchequer, &c. If any Persons refuse to pay the Tax, the Collectors may levy it by Distress and Sale of their Goods; but if they are over-rated, they shall be relieved on Appeal to the Commissioners, who have Power to charge the same on others, as they see Cause, and in Case of Deficiency to make a Re-assessment; Assessors neglecting their Duty, are to be fined not exceeding 40 l. And Collectors detaining the Money, shall be imprisoned, and their Estates seized and sold, &c. If a General Receiver neglect to return the Money by him received, he is liable to the Penalty of 500 l. And where there is any Failure in raising and paying the Sums of Money charged on any County, Process may issue against the Commissioners for their Neglect, &c. Papists are double taxed; but the Colleges in the Universities are exempted from paying any Thing to this Tax: There is a Poundage Fee for collecting the Tax, of 3 d. per Pound to the Collectors, 2 d. per Pound to the General Receiver, and 1 d. Half-penny per Pound to the Commissioners Clerks. Stat. 1 Geo.

Taxatio Bladozum, Is an Imposition laid upon Corn. Cowel.

Taxers, Are two Officers yearly chosen in Cambridge, to see the true Gauge of all Weights and Measures; though the Name took rise from Taxing or Rating the Rents of Houses, which was antiently the Duty of their Offices.

Taylor's, Contracts entered into with Journey-men Taylors, for advancing their Wages, are declared void; and Taylors giving greater Wages than allow'd, shall forfeit 5 l. and Journey-men accepting the same, or refusing to work for the settled stated Wages, shall be sent to the House of Correction for two Months, &c. by Stat. 7 Geo. c. 13.

Tea, Is a Kind of potable Liquor of late used in England, and introduced from China and the East-Indies, being made of the Product of a Shrub growing in those Parts: It is mentioned in the Stat. 12 Car. 2. c. 15.

Team and Theme, (From the Sax. Tyman, i. e. propagare, to Teem or bring forth) Signifies a Royalty or Privilege granted by the King's Charter to the Lord of a Manor, for the having, restraining and judging of Bondmen and Villains, with their Children, Goods and Chattels, &c. Glanvil, lib. 5. c. 2.

Teding-penny, Tething-penny, Tithing-penny, A small Duty or Payment to the Sheriff from each Tithing towards the Charge of keeping Courts, &c. from which some of the Religious were exempted by Charter from the King. Chart. Hen. 1.

Teinland, Tainland, or Thainland, The Land of a Thaine or noble Person. See Thane-Lands.

Teirce, (Fr. Tiers, i. e. a Third) A Measure of Wine, Oil, &c. containing the Third Part of a Pipe, or forty-two Gallons. Stat. 32 H. 8. c. 14.

Teller, Is a considerable Officer of the Exchequer, of which Officers there are Four; whose Office is to receive all Money due to the King, and to give the Clerk of the Pells a Bill to charge him therewith: They also pay to all Persons any Money payable by the King, by Warrant from the Auditor of the Receipt; and make weekly and yearly Books of their Receipts and Payments, which they deliver to the Lord Treasurer.

Telligraphæ, (From the Sax. Tellan, i. e. dicere, and the Gr. ἱστορεω, Scribo, quasi, a Telling any Thing by Writing) Are written Evidences of Things past. Blount.

Tellwort, Is that Work or Labour which the Tenant was bound to do for his Lord, for a certain Number of Days; from the Saxon Word Tællan, numerare, & Worc, opus. Thorn. Ann. 1364.

Temple. Dugdale and Stow both tell us that the Temple in London is a Place of Privilege from Arrests, by the Grant of the King; but this hath been denied by the Court of B. R. Dugd. 317, 320. 3 Salk. Rep. 45. In the Middle Temple the King's Treasure was antiently kept.

Templers, (Templarii) Knights of the Temple having their Residence in Part of the Buildings belonging to the Temple of Jerusalem; we read of them in the Reign of Hen. 2. They had in every Kingdom a Governor, whom Bracon calls Magistrum Militie Templi; and the Master of the Temple here, was summoned to Parliament 49 H. 3. Bracon. lib. 1. cap. 10. The Chief Minister of the Temple Church is still called Master of the Temple. See Knights Templers.

Temporalities of Bishops, Are the Revenues, Lands, Tenements, and Lay-Fees belonging to Bishops, as they are Barons and Lords of Parliament; all Things as a Bishop hath by Livery from the King, as Manors, Lands, Tithes, &c. 1 Roll. Abr. 881. It was a Custom formerly, that when Bishops received from the King their Temporalities, they did by a solemn Form in Writing renounce all Right to the same by Virtue of any Provision from the Pope, and acknowledged the Receipt of them only from the King; which Custom continued from the Reign of Edw. 1. to the Time of the Reformation: And this Practice began by Occasion of a Bull of Pope Gregory 8. wherein he conferred the See of Worcester on a certain Bishop, and committed to him Administrationem Spiritualium & Temporalium Episcopatus prædicti. Anno 31 Ed. 1. The Custody of the Temporalities of every Bishop and Archbishop, during the Vacancy of the Sees, belongs to the King; and no Subject can claim them by Grant or Prescription. F. N. B. 32, 34. 2 Inst. 15. And the King may commit the Temporalities during the Vacation of the See; also he may present to a void Advowson, when the Temporalities are in his Hands. 1 Inst. 90, 388. Magn. Chart. c. 5. 14 Ed. 3. c. 4.

Temptatio, or Tentatio, Is used in antient Records for a Trial, or Proof. Chart. 20 Edw. 1.

Tempus Vestonis, Mast-Time in the Forest, which is from about Michaelmas to St. Martin's Day. Novemb. 11.

Tempus pinguedinis, a firmationis; The Season of Killing the Buck and the Doe. M.S. Temp. H. 3.

Tena, Was that which we now call a Coif, worn by Ecclesiasticks: — Tena coronas abscondunt quasi Coelestes radios repellentes, &c. Counc. Lambeth, Anno 1281.

Tenancies, Are Houses or Places for Habitation, held of another. 23 Eliz. c. 4.

Tenant, (Tenens à tenendo, from holding) Is one that holds or occupies Lands or Tenements, by any Kind of Right, of some Lord or Landlord, by Rent or Fealty, &c. Also the Word Tenant is used with divers Additions; as Tenant in Fee-simple, Fee-tail, for Life, Years, or at Will, Tenant in Dower, by the Curtesy, by Copy of Court-Roll, Tenant in Mortgage, by Statute-Merchant, and Statute-Staple, Elegit, &c. Co. Litt.

Tenants in Common, Are such as hold Lands for Life or Years, by several Titles, or by one Title and several Rights; and as Jointenants have one joint Freehold, so Tenants in Common have divers Freeholds. 1 Inst. 188. If a Conveyance is made to two Persons, Habendum the one Moiety to one and his Heirs, and the other, Moiety to the other, &c. it is a Tenancy in Common; and the Heirs and Executors of Tenants in Common, shall have their Parts or Shares, and not the Survivors, as in Case of Jointenants. 2 Lill. Abr. 559. Tenants in Common know not their own Part, but take the Profits in Common: One Tenant in Common cannot bring Action of Trespass against another Tenant in Common; but one such Tenant may bring Waste against his Partner, &c. 3 Leon. 307. 2 Lill. 561. At Common Law Tenants in Common were not compellable to make Partition; though they are by the Stat. 31 H. 8. See Jointenant.

Tenant to the Praeipe, Is he against whom the Writ of Praeipe is to be brought in suing out a Recovery. 3 Rep.

Tend, Seems to signify as much as Tender, or Offer; it is mentioned in our old Books, as to tend a Traverse, an Averment, &c. Briton, cap. 76. Staundf. Prærog. 16.

Tender, (Fr. Tendre) Is the Offering of Money, or any other Thing in Satisfaction, or circumspetly to endeavour the Performance of a Thing; as a Tender of Rent is to offer it at the Time and Place when and where it ought to be paid: And it is an Act done to save the Penalty of a Bond, before Action brought, &c. Terms de Ley 557. Tender of Rent on any Part of the Land, or at any Time of the last Day of Payment, will save the Condition for that Time, though the Landlord refuse it: But when Rent is tendered, the Lessor may after bring Debt; though he cannot recover any Damages; the Lessees being ready to pay excuses the Damages, but doth not debar the other of his Rent. 1 Inst. 200. Litt. Rep. 33. 34. 3 Salk. 344. A Tender of Rent to save the Forfeiture must be of the whole Rent due, without any Deduction of Taxes or other Payments; unless it be so agreed, &c. Stoppage being no Payment. 1 Inst. 202. Tender of Money on a Bond, is to be made to the Person of the Obligee at the Day appointed, to save the Penalty and Forfeiture of the Bond, and it ought to be done before Witnesses; though if the Obligor be sued afterwards, he must still pay it: But if the Obligor be to do any collateral Thing, or which is not Part of the Obligation, as to deliver a Horse, &c. and the Obligor offers to do his Part, and the Obligee refuseth it, the Condition is perform'd, and the Obligation discharged for ever, 1 Inst. 207, 208. A Sum awarded by an Award, was lost by the Tender; it being a collateral Thing. 3 Lev. 277. On Award, that the Defendant should pay Money on such a Day, and at such a Place; the Defendant pleaded, that he tendered the Money at the Day and Place, and because he did not set forth that he continued there ready to pay it at the last Instant of the Day 'till after Sun-setting, &c. it was held ill. 2 Cro. 243. Where Time and Place of doing an Act is made certain by Agreement of the Parties, and they both meet accordingly; he who pleads a Tender, must also plead a Refusal of the other Party to accept; otherwise such Plea will be ill upon a Demurrer, but not after Verdict; and if the Plaintiff be absent, that is to be set forth, and that he was at the Time and Place, & obtulit solvere, &c. 2 Salk. 623. A Tender and Refusal being pleaded, 'tis the Refusal which is traversable, and not the Tender, for 'tis that makes it a Payment in Law; and wherever the Demand is certain, there a Tender and Refusal is a good Plea; and a Tender is not well pleaded without a Refusal. 3 Salk. 341. In Action of Debt, Tender and Refusal may be pleaded in Bar of the Damages; though not in Bar of the Action, as the Debt still remains: There is a Difference in Pleading a Tender in Action of Debt, and in Action on the Case; in Debt, the Damages are but Accessary, so that in Pleading a Tender to such Action, the Defendant must pray Judgment de Damnis; but in Assumpsit, the Damages are Principal, and he is to plead semper paratus, with a Proferat hic in Curia, and pray Judgment de ulterioribus Damnis. 2 Salk. 622. 3 Salk. 344, 345. A Man pleads a Tender of a Debt at the Day, he need not plead Semper paratus; but uncore Priſt, and bring the Money into Court. 2 Lill. Abr. 564. And Tender and Refusal, on Covenant to pay Money, where Damages only are to be recovered, is a good Plea without uncore Priſt. Show. 129. Tender may be of Money in Bags, without shewing or telling it, if it can be proved there was the Sum to be tendered; it being the Duty of him that is to receive the Money, to put out and tell it. 5 Rep. 115. Though where a Person held the Money on his Arm in a Bag, at the Time of Offering it; this was adjudged no good Tender, for it might be Counters or base Money. Noy 74. 3 Nelf. Abr. 281. If a Tender is made of more than is due, it is good; and the Party to whom tender'd ought to take out what belongs to him. 5 Rep. 114. Tender of the Money is requisite on Contracts for Goods sold, &c. to intitle Action of Trover: And a Tender of Stock sold for so much Money, if it be well made, and the Transfer not accepted, will intitle the Party to the Sum agreed to be paid, when he hath done all he could to accomplish the Agreement. 3 Salk. 343. See Bond, &c.

Tenement, (Tenementum) Signifies properly a House or Home-stall; but more largely it comprehends not only a House, but all Corporeal Inheritances which are holden of another, and all Inheritances issuing out of, or exercisable within the same. Co. Lit. 6, 19, 154. A Tenement may be said to be any House, Land, Rent, or other such like Thing, that is any Way held or possessed; but being a Word of a large and ambiguous Meaning, and not so certain as Messuage, therefore it is not fit to be used to express any Thing which requires a particular Description. 2 Litt. Abr. 566. The Word Tenement is join'd with the adjective Frank, to denote an Estate in Lands, Offices, &c. for Life or in Fee. Kitch. 41.

Tenementary Land, Was the outland of Manors granted out to Tenants by the Saxon Thanes, under arbitrary Rents and Services. Spelm.

Tenementis Legatis, An antient Writ lying to the City of London, or any other Corporation, (where the old Custom was, that Men might devise by Will, Lands and Tenements as well as Goods and Chattels) for the Hearing and Determining any Controversy touching the same. Reg. Orig. 244.

Tenendum In Deeds, Where the Fee-simple passeth, must be of the Chief Lord of the Fee, by the same Customs and Services as the Feoffor held; and not of the Feoffor and his Heirs, whereby the Lords would lose their Escheats, &c. 1 Inst. 6. 2 Inst. 66. Stat. 18 Ed. 1.

Tenentibus in Affisa non Onerandis, Is a Writ that lies for him to whom a Disseisor hath alienated the Land whereof he disseised another, that he be not molested in Affise for the Damages, if the Disseisor have wherewith to satisfy them. Reg. Orig. 214.

Tenheved, or Tienheofed, A Saxon Word signifying Decanus, Caput vel Princeps Decanie sive Decurie. Leg. Edw. Conf. cap. 29.

Tenmentale, (Sax. Tienmantale, i. e. decem vivorum numerus) Decennaria, Tithinga. Leg. Edw. Conf. Also an antient Tax or Tribute paid to the King. Hoveden 737.

Tenor, (Lat.) Of Writs, Records, &c. is the Contents or Purport of them; or a Transcript or Copy. Tenor of a Libel hath been held to be a Transcript, which it cannot be if it differs from the Libel; and juxta Tenorem imports it, but not ad Effectum, &c. for that may import an Identity in Sense, but not in Words. 2 Salk. 417. In Action of Debt brought upon a Judgment in an inferior Court, if the Defendant pleads Nul tiel Record, a Tenorem Recordi only shall be certified; and by Hale Ch. Just. it may be the same on *Certiorari*s. 3 Salk. 296. A Return of the Tenor of an Indictment from London, on a Certiorari to remove the Indictment, is good by the City Charter; but in other Cases it is usual to certify the Record it self. 2 Hawk. P. C. 295.

Tenore Indictamenti mittendo, Is a Writ whereby the Record of an Indictment, and the Process thereupon is called out of another Court into the King's Bench. Reg. Orig. 69.

Tenore Præsentium, The Tenor of these Presents, is the Matter contain'd therein, or rather the Intent and Meaning thereof; as to do such a Thing according to the Tenor, is to do the same according to the true Intent of the Deed or Writing.

Tentates Panis, The Essay or Assay of Bread. Blount.

Tenter, A Stretcher, or Trier of Cloth, used by Dyers, &c. mentioned in the Stat. 1 R. 3. c. 8. but prohibited by 39 Eliz. c. 20.

Tenth, (Decima) Are the Tenth Part of the annual Value of every Spiritual Benefice, being that yearly Portion or Tribute which all Ecclesiastical Livings pay to the King. They were antiently claimed by the Pope, to be due to him Jure Divino as High Priest, by the Example of the High Priest among the Jews, who had Tenths from the Levites: But they have been often granted to the King by the Pope upon divers Occasions, sometimes for one Year, and sometimes for more; and were annexed perpetually to the Crown by Stat. 26 H. 8. 1 Eliz. c. 4. and at last granted with the First-Fruits, towards the Augmentation of the Maintenance of Poor Clergymen. 1 Ann. c. 11. Collectors of this Revenue are to be appointed by the King by Letters Patent; and an Office is to be kept for Management of the same, in some Part of London or Westminster, &c. 3 Geo. c. 10. Tenths signify likewise a Tax on the Temporality; see the Statutes of King Ed. 6. Q. Eliz. and K. James.

Tents, Robbing of, in Fairs and Markets, is Felony, and punished as Burglary. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. cap. 9.

Tenure, (Tenura, from the Lat. Tenere) Is the Manner whereby Lands or Tenements are holden; or the Service that the Tenant owes to his Lord: And there can be no Tenure without some Service, because the Service makes the Tenure. 1 Inst. 1, 93. All Lands in the Hands of a Subject are held of some Lord or Landlord, by Tenure or Service: And all the Lands and Tenements in England are said to be holden either mediately or immediately of the King; and therefore he is Summus Dominus supra omnes. 2 Inst. 531. Tenure signifies the Estate in the Land; and Tenures and Services were antiently divided into twelve Parts, viz. Homage, Esuage, Knight-Service, Homage Ancestral, Burgage, Villenage, Grand Serjeanty, Petit Serjeanty, Frankalmoign, Fealty, Socage, and Rent; but the common Tenures at this Day are Fee-simple and Fee-tail, by the Curtesy, and in Dower, for Life, and Years, and by Copy of Court-Roll. Vide Stat. 12 Car. 2. Fee, and Socage.

Term, (Terminus) Signifies commonly the Limitation of Time or Estate; as a Lease for Term of Life, or Years, &c. Bract. lib. 2.

Termor, (Tenens ex Termino) Is he that holds Lands or Tenements for Term of Years or Life. Litt. 100.

Terms, Are those Spaces of Time, wherein the Courts of Justice are open, for all that complain of Wrongs or Injuries, and seek their Rights by Course of Law or Action, in order to their Redress; and during which, the Courts in Westminster Hall sit and give Judgments, &c. But the High Court of Parliament, the Chancery, and inferior Courts, do not observe the Terms; only the Courts of King's Bench, the Common Pleas, and Exchequer, the highest Courts at Common Law. Of these Terms there are Four in every Year, viz. Hilary-Term, which begins the 23d of January, and Ends the 12th of February; Easter-Term, that begins the Wednesday Fortnight after Easter-Day, and ends the Monday next after Ascension-Day; Trinity-Term, which begins the Friday after Trinity-Sunday, and ends the Wednesday Fortnight after; and Michaelmas-Term, that begins the 23d of October, and ends the 28th of November. Each Term has certain Returns; as Hilary-Term hath Four, Easter hath Five, Trinity Four, and Michaelmas Six: And by Statute, Trinity-Term was abridged four Returns; and Michaelmas-Term two Returns; for those Terms were formerly longer.

longer than now, 'till contracted by the Statutes 32 H. 8. c. 21. and 16 Car. 1. c. 6. There are four Days in Term, called the Effoin-Day; the Day of Exceptions; the Day of Returns of Writs; and Day of Appearance, called the Quarto die post: The Term is said to begin on the Effoin-Day, when one Judge sits in each Court of Law at Westminster, to take and enter Effoins; but the third Day afterwards is the first Day of the Term, at which Time the Judges in all the Courts sit to do the Business of the Term. 2 Lill. Abr. 569. All the Term in Construction of Law is accounted but as one Day to many Purposes; for a Plea that is put in the last Day of a Term is a Plea of the first Day of the Term; and a Judgment on the last Day of Term is as effectual as on the first Day. Trin. 23 Car. B. R. And for this Reason, the Judges may alter and amend their Judgments in the same Term, &c. It has been held, that the Courts sit not but in Term, as to giving of Judgments: And the Judges of B. R. and C. B. before Trinity-Term, 1651, did not sit longer in Court than 'till one a-Clock upon the last Day of Term; because they would not encourage Attornies to neglect their Clients Business to the last Day of Term, as too commonly they do, to the Toil of the Court and too much Hurry in Dispatch. Mich. 22 Car. 2. Lill. 91. Terms have been adjourned, and Returns of Writs and Processes confirmed. 1 W. & M. Sess. 1. c. 4. Where there is a Term intervening between the Teste and Return of a Writ of Capias, &c. or when the Term to which a Suit is continued is adjourn'd, and the Suit is not adjourn'd, it is a Discontinuance, &c. 2 Hawk. 298. The issuable Terms are Hilary and Trinity Terms only; so called, because in them the Issues are joined and Records made up of Causes, to be tried at the Lent and Summer Affises, which immediately follow. 2 Lill. Abr. 568.

The Terms in Scotland are Martinmas, Candlemas, Whitsonide, and Lammas, at which Times the Court of Exchequer, &c. there is to be kept. Stat. 6 Ann. c. 6. And the Terms of our Universities for Students are different in Time from the Terms of the Courts of Law.

Terms of the Law, Are artificial Words or Terms of Art, for Things particularly adapted to the Profession of the Law. 2 Hawk. P. C. 239.

Terms for Payment of Rent, Or Rent-Terms, the Four quarterly Feasts, upon which Rent is usually paid. Cartular. St. Edmund. 238.

Terra Hydota, Was Land subject to the Payment of Hydage. Selden.

Terra Lucrabilis, Land that may be gained from the Sea, or inclosed out of a Waste to a particular Use. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. pag. 406.

Terra Nova, Is Land newly assarted and converted from Wood-Ground to arable; vel Terra noviter Concessa, &c. Spelm.

Terra Putura, Land in Forests held by the Tenure of furnishing Man's Meat, Horse-meat, &c. to the Keepers therein. See Putura.

Terra Sabulosa, Gravelly or sandy Ground. Inquis. 10 Ed. 3.

Terra Vestita, Is used in old Charters for Land sown with Corn.

Terra Usinabilis, Signifies tillable Land. M.S.

Terra Wareda, Is fallow Land. See Warectum.

Terrage, Seems to be an Exemption from Ploughing of Land, Reaping, &c. mentioned in a Charter of K. Ed. 3.

Terrar, or Terrier, (Terrarium, catalogus Terrarum) Is a Land-Roll, or Survey of Lands, either of a single Person, or of a Town; containing the Quantity of Acres, Tenants Names, and such like; and in the Exchequer, there is a Terrar of all the Glebe Lands in England, made about 11 E. 3. Stat. 18 Eliz. c. 17.

Terrarius, A Land-holder or one who possesses many Farms of Land. Leg. W. 1.

Terrarius Canobialis, An Officer in Religious Houses, whose Office was to keep a Terrier of all their Estates, and to have the Lands belonging to the Houses exactly survey'd and registred; and one Part of his Office was to entertain the better Sort of Convent-Tenants, when they came to pay their Rents, &c. Hist. Dunelm.

Terre-tenant, Tertenant, (Terra Tenens) Is he who hath the actual Possession of the Land: For Example, a Lord of a Manor has a Freeholder, who letteth out his Freehold to another, to be possessed and occupied by him, such other is called the Tertenant. West. Symb. par. 2. Britton, cap. 29. In the Case of a Recognizance, Statute, or Judgment, the Heir is chargeable as Tertenant, and not as Heir; because by the Recognizance or Judgment, the Heir is not bound, but the Ancestor concedit that the Money de Tervis, &c. levetur. 3 Rep. 12. Plea of Tertenancy, in a Scire fac. &c. See Cro. Eliz. 872. Cro. Jac. 506.

Terris Bonis & Catallis rehabendis post Purgationem, A Writ for a Clerk to recover his Lands, Goods and Chattels formerly seised, after he had clear'd himself of the Felony of which he was accused, and delivered to his Ordinary to be purged. Reg. Orig. 68.

Terris & Catallis tentis ultra debitum levatum, Is a judicial Writ for the Restoring of Lands or Goods to a Debtor, that is distrain'd above the Quantity of the Debt. Reg. Judic. 38.

Terris liberandis, A Writ lying for a Man convicted by Attaint, to bring the Record and Process before the King, and take a Fine for his Imprisonment, and then to deliver him his Lands and Tenements again, and release him of the Strip and Waste. Reg. Orig. 232. It is also a Writ for the Delivery of Lands to the Heir, after Homage and Relief perform'd; or upon Security taken that he shall perform them. Ibid. 293, 313.

Tertian, A Measure of eighty-four Gallons; so called, because it is a third Part of a Tun. 1 R. 3. c. 13. 2 H. 6. c. 11.

Test, As to bring one to the Test, is to bring him to Trial and Examination, &c. By the Act of King Car. 2. commonly called the Test-Act, all Officers Civil and Military are to take the Oaths and Test, and if they neglect it, and execute any Office within the Words of that Statute, being legally convicted thereof upon Inform-mation, Presentment, or Indictment, in any of the Courts at Westminster, or at the Affises, they shall forfeit 500 l. to be recovered by him who will sue for the same in any Action of Debr, &c. 25 Car. 2. c. 2.

Testament, (Testamentum, i. e. Testatio mentis) Is a Witness of the Mind: And is thus particularly defined, Testamentum est ultima voluntatis justa Sententia, eo quod quis post mortem suam fieri vult, &c. And of Testaments there are two Sorts, viz. a Testament in Writing; and a Testament in Words, which is called a Nuncupative Testament. Co. Litt. See Will.

Testator, (Lat.) He that makes a Testament or Will. Swinb. of Wills.

Testatum, Is a Writ in personal Actions, where the Defendant cannot be arrested upon a Capias in the County where the Action is laid, but is return'd Non est Inventus by the Sheriff; then this Writ shall be sent out into any other County where such Person is thought to be, or to have wherewith to satisfy: And this is term'd a Testatum, by Reason the Sheriff hath testified that the Defendant was not to be found in his Bailiwick. Kitch. Ret. Writs 287.

Teste, A Word generally used in the last Part of all Writs, wherein the Date is contained; which begins with these Words, Teste meipso, &c. if it be an original Writ; or Teste Roberto Raymond Mil. &c. if judicial. There is to be at least fifteen Days between the Teste and Return of every Process awarded from the King's Bench into any foreign County. Co. Litt. 134. See Writs.

Testimonial, Is a Certificate under the Hand of a Justice of Peace, Testifying the Place and Time, when and where a Soldier or Mariner landed, and the Place of his Dwelling and Birth, unto which he is to pass. 39 Eliz. c. 17. And formerly Testimonials were to be given by Mayors and Constables to Servants quitting their Services, &c. 5 Eliz. c. 4.

Testimonials of Clergy, Are necessary to be made by Persons present, that a Clergyman inducted to a Benefice hath perform'd all Things according to the Act of Uniformity; to evidence that the Clerk hath comply'd with what the Law requires on his Institution and Induction, which in some Cases he shall be put to do. Count. Parf. Compan. 24, 26.

Teston, or Tesson, Commonly called Tester, a Sort of Money, which among the French did bear the Value of 18 d. But being made of Brass lightly gilt with Silver, in the Reign of K. Hen. 8. it was reduc'd to 12 d. and afterwards to 6 d. Lownd's Ess. on Coins, pag. 22.

Textus, A Text or Subject of a Discourse, and is mentioned by several Authors to signify the New Testament; it was written in golden Letters, and carefully preserv'd in the Churches.

Textus magni Altaris, We read of in Domesday and Cartular. S. Edmund.

Textus Rossensis, An antient Manuscript, containing the Rights, Customs, and Tenures, &c. of the Church of Rocheſter, drawn up by the Bishop of that See, Anno 1114.

Thane, (From the Sax. Thenian, ministrare) Was the Title of those Persons as attended the English Saxon Kings in their Courts, and who held Lands immediately of them; and therefore in Domesday, they were promiscuously called Thaini, and Servientes Regis. This Appellation was in use among us after the Norman Conquest, as appears by a certain Writ of K. Will. 1. which runs thus: Willielmus Rex Salutat Hermannum Episcopum, & omnes Thanos, &c. though not long afterwards the Word was diffus'd, and instead thereof these Men were called Barones Regis: And there were also Thaini Minores, likewise stiled Barons; they were Lords of Manors, and had a particular Jurisdiction within their Limits, and over their own Tenants in their Courts, which to this Day are called Courts-Baron: But this Word signifies sometimes a Nobleman; sometimes a Freeman; and sometimes a Magistrate; and more properly an Officer of the King. Skene saith, that it was a Name of Dignity, equal with the Son of an Earl: And Thainus Regis is taken for a Baron, by Sir Edw. Coke.

Thane-Lands, Such Lands as were granted by Charter of the Saxon Kings to their Thanes; which were held with all Immunities, except the threefold Necessity of Expeditions, Repairs of Castles, and mending of Bridges: Thanage signified also Land under the Government of a Thane. Skene.

Thascia, A certain Sum of Money or Tribute impos'd by the Romans on the Britons and their Lands. Leg. H. 1. c. 78.

Theft, (Furtum) Is an unlawful felonious Taking away of another Man's moveable and personal Goods, against the Will of the Owner: And this is divided into Theft simply so called, and Petit Theft; whereof the one is of Goods above the Value of Twelve Pence, and is Felony; and the other under that Value, called Larceny. Theft is also either open or privy Theft; the Civil Law judges open Theft to be satisfied in its Punishment by the Recompence of Four-fold; and privy Theft, by the Recompence of double: But the Law of England adjudges both these Offences Felony. West. Symb. par. 2. Vide Larceny.

Theft-bote, (From the Sax. Thef, i. e. Fur, & Bote, compensatio) Is the Receiving of a Man's Goods again from a Thief, after stol'n, or other Amends not to prosecute the Felon, and to the Intent the Thief may escape; which is an Offence punishable with Fine and Imprisonment, &c. H. P. C. 130. See Misprision of Felony.

Thelonium, Signifies Toll; to be exempt from which, there is a Writ called Breve essendi quieti de Thelonio. F. N. B.

Thetonnannus, The Toll-Man, or Officer who received Toll. Cartular. Abbat. Glaston. M.S. 446.

Themmagium, A Duty or Acknowledgment paid by inferior Tenants to be free from Theme or Team. Ibid. 88.

Thenicium, Thenicii agrorum. i. e. Arborum crescentium circa agros pro Clausura eorum, vulgarly called Hedge rows, or Dike-rows. Lindwode.

Thew, or Theowe, (Sax.) A Slave or Captive; Bondmen among the Saxons were called Theowes and Efnes, who were not accounted Members of the Common-wealth, but Parcels of their Master's Goods and Substance. Spelm. Feuds, cap. 5.

Thingus, The same with Thanus; a Nobleman, Knight, or Freeman. Crompt. Jurisd. 197.

Third

Thirdbegow, Is used for a Constable, by Lambard in his Duty of Constables pag. 6. And in the Stat. 28 H. 8. c. 10.

Thirduings, i. e. The third Part of the Corn growing on the Ground, due to the Lord for a Heriot on the Death of his Tenant, within the Manor of Turfat, in Com. Hereford. Blount. Ten.

Third Night Awn-hinde, (Trium noctium Hospes). By the Laws of St. Edward the Confessor, if any Man lay a Third Night in an Inn, he was called a Third Night Awn-hinde, for whom his Host was answerable, if he committed any Offence: The first Night, Forman-night or Uncuth, he was reckon'd a Stranger; the Second Night, Twa-night, a Guest; and the Third Night, an Agen-hine or Awn-hinde, a Domestick. Bract. lib. 3.

Third-penny, (Denarius Tertius) See Denarius Tertius Comitatus.

Thistle-take, In the Manor of Halton in the County Palatine of Chester, there was a Custom, that if in driving Beasts over the Common the Driver permitted them to graze or take but a Thistle, he should pay a Half-penny a Beast to the Lord of the Fee. Reg. Priorat. de Thurgarton.

Thoket, Fish with broken Bellies, forbid by Statute to be mix'd or pack'd with Tale-fish. 22 Ed. 4. c. 2.

Thorp, Trop, (Sax. Villa, Vicus) In the Beginning or End of Names of Places, signifies a Street or Village; as Adelstrop, &c.

Thrave of Cozn, (Trava Bladi, from the Sax. Threav. i. e. a Bundle) Is a Quantity of twenty-four Sheaves, or four Shocks; but in some Counties they reckon only twelve Sheaves to the Thrave. 2 Hen. 6. c. 2. King Athelstan gave to St. John of Beverley's Church, four Thraves of Corn from every Plough-land in the East-Riding of Yorkshire, by Charter, Anno 923.

Threnqus, A Name antiently applied to certain Vassals, or Tenants. See Drenches.

Thrimla, (Sax. Thrim, Three) Was an old Piece of Money of three Shillings, according to Lambard; or the third Part of a Shilling, being a German Coin passing for 4 d. Selden's Tit. Hon. pag. 604.

Thrything, (Thrythingum) A Court consisting of Three or Four Hundreds. Stat. Merton. 2 Inst. 99.

Thude Weald, (Sax.) A Woodward, or Person that looks after the Woods.

Tical, A Piece of Money in China of two Pounds sixteen Shillings and three Pence Value. Merch. Dist.

Tidesmen, Are certain Officers of the Custom-house appointed to watch or attend upon Ships, till the Customs are paid; and they are so called, because they go aboard the Ships at their Arrival in the Mouth of the Thames, and come up with the Tide.

Tigh, (Sax. Teag.) A Close or Inclosure, mentioned in antient Charters; which Word is still used in Kent in the same Sense. Chart. Eccl. Cant.

Tihla, (Sax.) Signifies an Accusation, in the Laws of K. Canutus.

Tiles. The Earth for Tiles is to be digged and cast up before the first of Novemb. yearly, and to be stirred and turned before the first of February following, and be wrought before the first of March: And every common Tile must be in Length ten Inches and a Half, in Breadth six Inches and a Quarter, and Thickness Half an Inch and Half a Quarter; Roof-Tiles are to be thirteen Inches in Length, and of the same Thickness as the common Tiles, &c. And if any Persons put to Sale any Tiles contrary hereto, they shall forfeit double Value, and be fined. Stat. 17 Ed. 4. c. 4.

Tillage. (Agricultura) Is of great Account in Law, as being very profitable to the Commonwealth; and therefore arable Land hath the Preference before Meadows, Pastures, and all other Ground whatsoever: And so careful is our Law to preserve it, that a Bond or Condition to restrain Tillage or Sowing of Lands, &c. is void. 11 Rep. 53.

Tilting. Where one kills another in Fighting at Tilting, by the King's Command, the Accident is excusable: But if it be by such Tilting, without the Command of the King; or by Parrying with naked Swords, covered with Buttons at the Points, &c. which cannot be used without manifest Hazard of Life, it will be Felony of Man-slaughter. H. P. C. 31.

Timberlode, A Service by which Tenants were to carry Timber felled from the Woods to the Lord's House. Thorn's Chron.

Time and Place, Are to be set forth with Certainty in a Declaration; but Time may be only a Circumstance when a Thing was done, and not be made Part of the Issue, &c. 5 Mod. 286. It has been held that an impossible Time is no Time; and where a Day or Time is appointed for the Payment of Money, and there is no such, the Money may be due presently. Hob. 189. 5 Rep. 22. If no certain Time is imply'd by Law for the Doing of any Thing, and there is no Time agreed upon by the Parties, then the Law doth allow a convenient Time to the Party for the Doing thereof, i. e. as much as shall be adjudg'd reasonable, without Prejudice to the Doer of it. 2 Lill. Abr. 572. In some Cases, one hath Time during his Life for the Performance of a Thing agreed, if he be not hastened to do it by Request of the Party for whom it is to be done; but if in such Case he be hastened by Request, he is obliged to do it in convenient Time, after such Request made. Hill. 22 Car. 1. B. R. See Bond, Month, &c.

Time limited, For the Prosecution of Actions. Void Limitation.

Tinel le Roy, (Fr.) The King's Hall, wherein his Servants used to dine and sup. 13 R. 2. c. 3.

Tinemann, Was a Petty Officer in the Forest, who had the nocturnal Care of Vert and Venison, and other Employments in the Forest. Leg. Canut. Reg.

Tinet, (Tinettum) Is used for Brushwood and Thorns to make and repair Hedges: In Herefordshire, to tine a Gap in a Hedge is to fill it up with Thorns, that Cattle may not pass through it. Chart. 21 Hen. 6.

Tinewald, The Parliament or annual Convention of the People of the Ile of Man, of which this Account is given: The Governor and Officers of that Island, do usually call the twenty-four Keys, being the chief Commons thereof, especially once every Year, viz. upon Midsummer-Day at St. John's Chapel to the Court kept there, called the Tinewald Court; where, upon a Hill near the said Chapel, all the Inhabitants of the Island stand round about and in the Plain adjoining, and hear the Laws and Ordinances agreed upon in the Chapel of St. John, which are published lished and declared unto them; and at this Solemnity the Lord of the Island sits in a Chair of State with a Royal Canopy over his Head, and a Sword held before him, attended by the several Degrees of the People, who sit on each Side of him, &c. King's Descript. Isl. Man.

Tinpeny, A Tribute so called, usually paid for the Liberty of Digging in Tin-Mines, from the Sax. Tinnen, Stanneus, & Penig, Denarius, according to Du Fresne: But some Writers say, it is a customary Payment to the Tithingman from the several Eriburghs, as Tedingpeny signified the Money paid the Sheriff by the several Tithings; for that Tin is only a Contraction of Teon, and means the number Ten. 'Tis mentioned in several Places in the Monasticon — Non Tributa, non Tething-peny, non Tinpeny, exigat. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. pag. 419.

Tinstaffs, Officers appointed by the Marshal of the King's Bench, to attend upon the Judges with a Kind of Rod or Staff tips with Silver, who take into their Custody all Prisoners either committed, or turn'd over by the Judges at their Chambers, &c. See Baston. Stat. 1 R. 2.

Tithes, (Decima, from the Sax. Teotba, i. e. Tenth) Are the Tenth Part of the Increase yearly, arising from the Profits of Lands, and Industry of the Parishioners, payable for the Maintenance of the Parson of the Parish: They are an Ecclesiastical Inheritance, collateral to the State of the Land; and a Spiritual Duty, not released by a Release of all Demands of a Parishioner out of his Lands. 11 Rep. 13. 1 Cro. 293, 814. Tithes must be paid of such Things as yield an yearly Increase by the Act of God; but are not due to be paid Jure Divino, but per Legem Terræ. Selden. 2 Litt. Abr. 574. No Man had a Property in Tithes until the Council of Lateran, which was held in the Reign of our K. John; for 'till then there were no Parishes distinct from one another, and by Consequence no Parish-Priests who could claim any Right to the Tithes: But by a Canon made in the Lateran Council, every Person is compellable to pay Tithes to the Parson or Vicar of that Parish where they arise; whereas before, the Bishop of every Diocese made a Distribution of Tithes to Spiritual Persons for their Subsistence, to charitable Uses, and for Repairs of the Church. Hob. 296. Since the Statutes of Dissolution of Abbies, &c. which were made Anno 27 & 31 H. 8. Tithes and other Ecclesiastical Revenues have been transferred to Laymen, who are not capable to take them at Common Law; and Spiritual Profits being by those Statutes made Lay-Fees in the Hands of Temporal Men, if those Men were wrongfully kept out of their Possessions, a subsequent Statute, made the 32 H. 8. gave them Remedy to recover in the King's Temporal Courts; though that Act did not take away the Force of the Ecclesiastical Law concerning Tithes, but all Spiritual Persons who had any Right to Tithes before the Statute, might sue for the same as formerly. 11 Rep. 8, 9, 10. An Assise for Tithes is given by the Statute 32 H. 8. c. 7. And the Statute of Limitations doth not extend to an Action of Debt or Tithes. Cro. Eliz. 559. Cro. Car. 513. Antiently many Men were so scrupulously Careful in their Payment of Tithes, as they at their Deaths bequeathed Legacies, and ordered Mortuaries to be given to the Priest, in Lieu and Recompence of any Tithes which might be forgotten: But it was observ'd by Sir Edward Coke, that in later Times, Laymen taking Occasion to withdraw their Tithes, the Statutes 27 & 32 H. 8. and other Laws were made, to inforce the Payment thereof. 2 Inst. 648. By the 27 H. 8. c. 20. On Complaint, by a Judge of the Ecclesiastical Court, to two Justices of the Peace (one of the Quorum) of any Contumacy or Misdemeanor committed by a Defendant in any Suit depending for Tithes, and other Dues of the Church, the Justices may commit such Defendant to Prison, there to remain without Bail till he find sufficient Surety to give due Obedience to the Process, Decrees and Sentences of the Ecclesiastical Courts. The Stat. 32 H. 8. c. 7. requires, That all Persons do duly set forth, and pay Tithes; and if they are not set out and paid, the Party grieved may convene those as detain them before the Ecclesiastical Judge, who has Power to hear and determine, &c. And Persons refusing Payment after Sentence, are to be committed to Prison by two Justices of Peace, on Certificate from the Judge; and if any Persons are disseised of a Parsonage or Tithes, made Temporal, they may have like Remedy in the Temporal Courts as for other Lands, &c. By 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 13. No Person shall carry away his Corn before he hath justly divided and set forth the Tenth Part, or agreed for the Tithes with the Parson or other Proprietor, on Pain of forfeiting treble the Value of the Tithes taken away; and the Owner claiming such Tithes may depute his Servant to view the said Tithes, and see that they are truly set out and severed from the Nine Parts, and the same to take away; and if any Person shall carry his Corn or Hay, before the Tithe is set forth, or withdraw his Tithes, stop the Owner, &c. from viewing or carrying away the same, upon due Proof before a Spiritual Judge, the Party shall pay double Value of the Tithes, besides Cost of Suit: And in Suits for subtracting or withdrawing of Tithes, the Ecclesiastical Judge may excommunicate Persons disobeying his Sentence, &c. The treble Damages are recoverable in the Temporal Courts, by Action of Debt, for they are given generally, not limiting where to be recovered; and the Forfeiture is to the Party grieved, though it is not given to any Person in certain by the Statute; but it cannot be demanded of Executors, because the Wrong was personal, and it was a personal Contempt of the Statute: As for the double Value, it may be recover'd in the Ecclesiastical Court; and it is equivalent to the treble Forfeiture to be recovered in the Temporal Courts, because one may sue in the Spiritual Court for the Tithes themselves, or a Recompence for them, and have also the double Value. 1 Inst. 159. 2 Inst. 612, 650. If the Tithes are set out and severed from the Nine Parts by the Owner, they are become Lay Chattels; so that if after the Severance they are carried away by a Stranger, the Remedy is in the Temporal Courts for treble the Value: And if the Owner of the Land carries them away after Severance, this is no setting forth. 1 Cro. 607. 2 Inst. 613. The Laws of the Church oblige the Owners of the Corn, Hay, &c. to give Notice to the Parson of the Setting forth the Tithes; but by the Common Law such Notice is not necessary; and the Statute gives the Parson only a Right of seeing the Tithes set out, but doth not oblige to Notice. 2 Ventr. 48. 2 Danv. Abr. 595. If a Person sows his Land, and before Severance the Parson of the Parish dies, the Tithes shall be paid to the Successor; but if the

the Corn is cut down, the Parson's Executors shall have the Tithes. 1 Cro. The Stat. 13 Eliz. Enacts that Composition for Tithes may be made by the concurrent Consent of the Parson, Patron, and Ordinary; and a Modus Decimandi may arise by Prescription from a real Composition, beyond the Memory of Man, &c. Where there is a Custom alledg'd for the Payment of Tithes, a Prohibition shall go to the Ecclesiastical Court, which may not try Customs, but the Temporal Courts; and so it is of a Prescription to pay Money in lieu of Tithes; but in a Prescription, except it concerns a Layman, or a Prescription merely Spiritual, &c. it is otherwise. 2 Lev. 103. By the 7 & 8 W. 3. cap. 6. small Tithes of or under the Value of 40 s. may be recovered before two Justices of the Peace not interested in Tithes, within twenty Days after Demand, and two Years after due; and the said Justices are impowered to administer an Oath to Witnesses to summon the Party, and after Appearance, or in Default thereof, to determine the Case in Writing, with Costs not exceeding 10 s. but with Liberty of Appeal to the Quarter-Sessions, whose Judgment shall be final, unless the Title of such Tithes come in Question: The Justices may levy the Money adjudg'd by Distress, upon Refusal ten Days after Notice, &c. And this Judgment being inrolled by the Complainant, shall not be removed by Certiorari; though if the Defendant insists on a Modus, and gives Security to pay Costs and Damages in the Courts above, which shall be given against him upon a Trial at Law, the Justices shall not proceed; but the Complainant is put to his Remedy by suing for his Tithes in the Courts at Westminster. This Statute doth not extend to the City of London, or any other Corporation, where the Tithes are particularly settled by Act of Parliament. The 7 & 8 W. 3. cap. 34. ordains, That if any Quaker refuse to pay or compound for great or small Tithes, &c. the two next Justices of Peace may, upon Complaint, convene him before them, and examine upon Oath the Matter of Complaint, and thereupon determine what is due to the Person complaining; and by Order under their Hands and Seals, direct the Payment in all Cases of or under 10 l. And if after the Order such Quaker shall refuse to comply, one of the Justices may by Warrant order the same to be levied by Distress, &c. subject to appeal to the Quarter-Sessions, in which Case no Warrant for Distress may be granted till the Appeal is determined. By 1 Geo. cap. 6. the Act of 7 & 8 W. 3. cap. 34. is made perpetual, and that Statute is extended to the Recovery of any Tithes or Right belonging to the Church, with 10 s. Costs, &c. But notwithstanding all these Statutes, Tithes, if of any considerable Value, are commonly sued for in the Exchequer by English Bill; except it be upon the Statute of 2 & 3 Edw. 6. for treble or double Value, &c. And the Manner of Payment of Tithes is for the most part govern'd by Custom; it is the Customs of Parishes which generally determine what are the Dues of the Parson, especially of small Tithes. 11 Rep. 16. An ancient Statute obliged the Citizens of London to pay yearly to their Parsons, for every 20 s. Rent of all Houses, Shops, or Warehouses, 2 s. 9 d. and so in Proportion for greater and lesser Rents: But by an Act of Cha. 2d. after the Fire of London, the whole Tithes of the Parishes in London were reduced to a Certainty, from 200 l. per Annum, the greatest Incomes of Rectors, to 100 l. per Ann. the lowest, over and above Perquisites, Gifts, &c. to be levied by Rate and Assessment on the Inhabitants, made by the several Aldermen of Wards, Common Council-Men and Churchwardens, and in Default of Payment by Distress and Sale of Goods, by Virtue of the Lord Mayor's Warrant, and to be paid Quarterly, &c. The Sums assessed are appointed in lieu of Tithes, for the Maintenance of the respective Parsons, Vicars, &c. of the Parishes in the Act mentioned; and in Parishes where there are Improvements, the Improvements shall pay and allow what they formerly used and ought to pay to the several Incumbents, as Part of the Maintenance of the Parsons; and no Court or Judge Ecclesiastical or Temporal, shall have Cognisance of or determine any Controversy relating to the Sums ordained for these Tithes, but the Persons mentioned in the Statute 22 & 23 Car. 2. cap. 15.

Tithes are due of common Right to the Parson or Rector of the Parish; and are of three Kinds, viz. Predial, Personal, and Mixt: Predial, such as immediately arise from the Land, either by Manurance, or of its own Nature, as Corn, Grain, Hay, Wood, Fruit and Herbs; and these are due, without deducting the Costs. Personal Tithes are those as arise from the Labour and Industry of Man only, being the tenth Part of his clear Gains in Trade, &c. after Charges deducted; which are paid when due by Custom, tho' but seldom in England, and payable where the Party dwells, and hears Divine Service, &c. But see the Statute 2 & 3 Ed. 6. Mix'd, such as arise not immediately from the Ground, but proceed from Cattle and other Things that receive their Nourishment from, and are maintained out of the Land; as Colts, Calves, Pigs, Wool, Lambs, Milk, Cheese, &c. and are paid where they arise. 2 Inst. 490, 649, 656. And Tithes as to their Value are likewise divided into Great and Small: Great Tithes are Corn, Hay, and Wood; small Tithes comprehend all other Predial Tithes besides Corn and Hay, &c. as also those Tithes which are Personal and Mix'd: Some Things may be great or small Tithes, in regard of the Place; as Hops in Gardens are small Tithes, and in Fields may be great Tithes; and 'tis said the Quantity will turn a small Tithe into a great one, if the Parish is generally sown with it. 1 Roll. Abr. 643. 1 Cro. 578. Wood's Inst. 162. According to the Opinion of Holt, Ch. Just. where Flax or Hemp grow in Gardens, they shall be accounted small Tithes; but when sowed in large Quantities in Fields, that alters the Nature of those Things, and then they become great Tithes: But the other Judges held, that the Quantity did not alter the Nature of the Flax, for let that be as much or as little as it will, it is still small Tithes. 3 Lev. 365. 4 Mod. 183. 3 Nels. Abr. 313. Great Tithes generally belong to the Rector, and small Tithes to the Vicar. Cro. Car. 20. The particular Things for which Tithes are paid, and for which not, according to our Law, are the following, viz. Acorns, as they yearly increase, are liable to the Payment of Tithes; but this is where they are gathered and sold, and reduc'd to a certain Profit; not when they drop, and the Hogs eat them. 2 Inst. 643. Heil. 27. After-math, or After-pasture pays no Tithes, except by Custom; being the Remains of what was before tithed. 2 Inst. 652. 2 Danv. Abr. 589. Tit. Dismes. Agistment of of Cattle upon Pasture Land, which hath paid no other Tithes that Year, pays Tithe for the Cattle; and if a Man breeds or buys barren unprofitable Cattle, and sells them, he shall pay for the Agistment; but if he depastures his Land with his own Saddle Horses, he shall pay no Tithes. If Ground is eat up with unprofitable Cattle of a Man's own, or others, a tenth Part of the yearly Value of the Rent of the Land, i. e. the Sum of 2 s. per Pound, is payable by the Owner of the Land, or his Tenant; though the twentieth Part is usually accepted. 1 Roll. Abr. 646. Hardr. 184. Alder Trees pay Tithes, notwithstanding they are above 20 Years Growth, not being Timber. Asp is Timber, and therefore if these Trees are above 20 Years Growth, they are Tithe free. Asp Trees are exempted, if beyond that Growth, in Places where they are used for Timber. 2 Cro. 199. 2 Inst. 643. Bark of Trees is not Titheable, if the Trees whereon produc'd were Timber. 11 Rep. 49. Barren Land, which is so of its own Nature, pays no Tithe; where Land is barren, and not manurable without some extraordinary Charge, in respect of such Charge, and for the Advancement of Husbandry, such Land being converted to Tillage, shall for the first seven Years after the Improvement, be discharged from Tithes by the Act 2 & 2 Ed. 6. cap. 13. But the barren Land, during the seven Years of Improvement, shall pay such small Tithes as have been accustomed to be paid before; and afterwards is to pay the full Tithe according to the Improvement: And if Land is over-run with Bushes, or become unprofitable by bad Husbandry, it cannot properly be called barren Land; for if it be grubbed, or plough'd and sow'd, it immediately pays Tithes. 2 Inst. 656. Cro. Eliz. 475. Beech Trees, where Timber is scarce, and these Trees are used for Building, if above 20 Years Growth to be Timber, are privileged from Tithes, by the Stat. 45 Ed. 3. cap. 3. though this Tree is not naturally Timber, for 'tis Necessity makes it so. 2 Danv. Abr. 589. Bees are Titheable for their Honey and Wax, by the tenth Measure and tenth Pound: It hath been a Question whether the tenth Swarm can be demanded for Tithes of Bees, because Bees are Fera Nature; but when the Bees are gathered into Hives, they are then under Custody, and may pay Tithe by the Hive or Swarm; but the Tithe is generally paid in the tenth part of the Honey or Wax. 1 Roll. Abr. 651. 3 Cro. 404, 559. Birch Wood is Titheable, though of above 20 Years Growth. 2 Inst. 643. Bricks pay not Tithes, for they are made of Parcel of the Freehold, and are of the Substance of the Earth, not an annual Increase. 1 Cro. 1. Broom shall pay Tithe; but it may be discharged by Custom, or if burnt in the Owner's House, kept for Husbandry. 2 Danv. Abr. 597. Calves are Titheable, and the tenth Calf is due to the Parson when weaned, and he is not obliged to take it before; but if in one Year a Person hath not the Number of ten Calves, the Parson is not intitled to Tithes in Kind for that Year, without a special Custom for it, though he may take it the next Year, throwing both Years together; and it is a good Custom to pay one Calf in seven, where there hath been no more in one Year; and where a Man sells a Calf to pay the Tenth of the Value, &c. 1 Roll. Abr. 648. Raym. 277. Cattle sold pay Tithe; but not Cattle kept for the Plough or Pail, which pay no Tithe for their Pasture, by Reason the Parson hath the Benefit of the Labour of Plough Cattle in tilling the Ground, by the Tithe of Corn, and Tithe Milk for those kept for the Pail; yet if such Cattle bought are sold before used, or if being past their Labour, the Cows are barren, and afterwards fatted in order to sell, Tithes shall be paid for them; tho' if the Owner kill and spend the Cattle in his own House, no Tithe is due for them, being for his Provision to support him in his Labour about other Affairs, for which the Parson hath Tithes. Cattle feeding on large Commons, where the Bounds of the Parish are not certainly known, shall pay Tithes to the Parson of the Parish where the Owner lives; and if fed in several Parishes, and they continue above a Month in each Parish, Tithes shall be paid the two Parsons proportionably. 1 Roll. Abr. 646, 647, 635. Hardr. 35. Chalk and Chalk-pits are not Titheable; nor is Clay or Coal, as they are Part of the Freehold, and not Annual to pay Tithes. 2 Inst. 651. Cheese pays Tithe by Custom, where Tithe is not paid for the Milk; but if the Milk pays a Tithe, the Cheese pays none: And it may be a good Custom to pay the tenth Cheese made in such a Month, for all Tithe Milk in that Year. 1 Roll. Abr. 651. Chicken are not Titheable, because Tithe is paid for the Eggs. 1 Roll. Abr. 642. Colts pay Tithes in the same Manner as Calves. Ibid. Conies are Titheable only by Custom, for those that are sold; not for such as are spent in the House. 2 Danv. Abr. 583. Corn pays a Predial Tithe; it is tithed by the tenth Cock, Heap, or Sheaf, which if the Owner do not set out, he may be sued in an Action upon the Statute 2 & 3 Edw. 6. And if the Parishioner will not sow his Land usually sown, the Parson may bring his Action against him. 1 Roll. Abr. 644. 1 Sid. 283. 2 Vent. 48. Deer are not Titheable, for they are Fera Nature; though in Parks, &c. they may pay Tithes by Custom. 2 Inst. 651. Doves kept in a Dove-House if they are not spent in the Owner's House, are Titheable. 1 Vent. 5. Eggs pay Tithe when Tithes are not paid for the Young. 1 Roll. Abr. 642. Elm Trees being Timber, are discharged from the Payment of Tithes, but not if under 20 Years Growth. 2 Inst. 643. Fallow Ground is not Titheable for the Pasture in that Year in which it lies fallow, unless it remain beyond the Course of Husbandry; because it improves and renders the Land more fertile by lying fresh. 1 Roll. Abr. 642. Fenns being drain'd, and made manurable, or converted into Pasture, are subject to the Payment of Tithes. 1 Roll. Rep. 354. Fish taken in the Sea or common Rivers, are Titheable only by Custom, and the Tithe is to be paid in Money, and not the tenth Fish; but Fish in Ponds and Rivers inclos'd, ought to be set forth as a Tithe in Kind. 2 Danv. Abr. 583, 584. Flax pays Tithe; every Acre of Flax or Hemp sown shall pay yearly 5 s. for Tithe, and no more. 11 & 12 W. 3. cap. 16. Forest Lands shall pay no Tithes while in the Hands of the King, though such Lands in the Hands of a Subject shall pay Tithes; and if a Forest be disforested, and within a Parish, it shall pay Tithes. 1 Roll. Abr. 655. 3 Cro. 94. Fowls, as Hens, Geese, Ducks, are to pay Tithes, either in Eggs or the Young, according to Custom, but not in both. Turkeys are said to be exempt from Tithes. 2 Danv. Abr. 583. Fruit, Apples, Pears, Plumbs, Cherries, &c. pay Tithes in Kind when gathered; and ought to be set out according to the Statute.

tute. 2 Inst. 621. Fruit-Trees cut down and sold, are not Titheable, if they have paid Tithe Fruit that Year before cut. Ibid. 652. Furzes, if sold, pay Tithe, not if used for Fuel in the House, or to make Pens for Sheep, &c. Wood's Inst. 166. Gardens are Titheable as Lands, and therefore Tithes in Kind are due for all Herbs, Plants, and Seeds sowed in them; but Money is generally paid by Custom or Agreement. Ibid. Grass mowed is Titheable by Payment of the tenth Cock, or according to Custom; but for Grass cut in Swarths for Sustainance of Plough Cattle only, not made into Hay, no Tithe is to be paid. Grass or Corn, &c. when sold standing, the Buyer shall pay the Tithe; and if sold after cut and severed, the Seller must pay it. 1 Roll. Abr. 644, 645. Wood's Inst. 166. Hazle, Holly, and Maple Trees, &c. are regularly Titheable, although of 20 Years Growth. 2 Danv. Abr. 589. Hay pays a Predial Tithe; the tenth Cock is to be set out and paid, after made into Hay, by the Custom of most Places, and the Parishioners shall make the Grass Cocks into Hay for the Parson's Tithe; but if they are not obliged to make the Tithe into Hay, they may leave it in Cocks, and the Parson must take it, for which Purpose he may come on the Ground, &c. A Prescription to measure out and pay the tenth Acre, or Part of Grass standing, in lieu of all Tithe Hay, may be good: And if Meadow Ground is so rich that there are two Crops of Hay in one Year, the Parson by special Custom may have Tithe of both. 1 Roll. Abr. 643, 647, 950. Headlands are not Titheable, if only large enough for turning the Plough; but if larger, Tithe may be payable. 2 Inst. 652. Herbage of Ground is Titheable for barren Cattle kept for Sale, which yield no Profit to the Parson. Wood's Inst. 167. Honey pays a Tithe, as under Bees. Hops are Titheable, and the tenth Part may be set out after they are picked: There are several Ways of tithing Hops, viz. by the Hills, Pole, or Pound; in some Places they set forth the tenth Pole for Tithes, but my Lord Chief Just. Roll tells us, they ought not to be tithed before dried. 1 Roll. Abr. 644. Horses kept to sell, and afterwards sold, Tithes shall be paid for their Pasture; though not where Horses are kept for Work and Labour. Hutt. 77. Houses for Dwelling are not properly Titheable. A Modus may be paid for Houses in lieu of Tithes of the Land upon which they are built, and a great many Cities and Boroughs have a Custom to pay a Modus for their Houses; as it may be reasonably suppos'd that it was usual to pay so much for the Land before the Houses were erected on it. 11 Rep. 16. 2 Inst. 659. Kids pay a Tithe as Calves, the tenth is due to the Parson. Wood 167. Lambs are Titheable in like manner as Calves; but if they are yeaned in one Parish, and do not tarry there thirty Days, no Tithe is due to the Parson of that Place: If there be a Custom that the Parishioner having six Lambs or under, shall pay so much for every Lamb, and if he have above that Number, then to pay the Seventh, it is good. 3 Cro. 403. Lead may pay Tithe by Custom, as it does in some Counties; but it doth not without it. 2 Inst. 651. By Custom only Lime and Lime-Kilns are Titheable. 1 Roll. Abr. 642. Mast of Oak and Beech pays Tithe, as under Acorns. Milk is Titheable when no Tithes are paid for Cheese all the Year round, except Custom over-rules; and it is payable by every tenth Meal, not tenth Quart or Part of every Meal; and is to be brought to the House of the Parson, &c. by Custom, in which Particular this Tithe differs from all others, which must be fetched by the Receiver. In some Places they pay Tithe Cheese for Milk, and in others some small Rate according to Custom. Cro. Eliz. 609. 2 Danv. Abr. 596. Mills, as there are several Sorts of them, the Tithes are different; the Tithes of Corn-Mills driven by Wind or Water, are paid in Kind every tenth Toll-Dish of Corn to the Parson of the Parish wherein the Mills are standing: But ancient Corn-Mills are Tithe-free, being suggested that they are very ancient, and never paid Tithes, &c. And it is question'd whether Tithe is due for any Corn-Mills, unless by Custom, because the Corn hath before paid Tithe; and it seems rather a Personal Tithe where due: The Tithes of Fulling-Mills, Paper-Mills, Powder-Mills, &c. are Personal, charged in respect to the Labour of Men, by Custom only, and are regarded more as Engines of several Trades than as Mills. 1 Roll. Abr. 656. 2 Inst. 621. Mines pay no Tithes but by Custom, being of the Substance of the Earth, and not annually increasing. 2 Inst. 651. Nurseries of Trees shall pay Tithes, if the Owner digs them up and makes Profit of them by selling. 2 Danv. Abr. 585. Oak Trees are privileged as Timber from the Payment of Tithes by the Statute of Sylva Cadua 45 Ed. 13. if of or above 20 Years Growth; and if Oaks are under that Age, it is the same when they are apt for Timber. Moor 541. Offerings, &c. are in the Nature of Personal Tithes. 2 Inst. 659, 661. Orchards pay Tithes both for the Fruit they produce, and the Grass or Grain, if any be sown or cut therein. 2 Inst. 652. Parks are Titheable by Custom for the Deer and the Herbage; and when dispart'd and converted into Tillage, they shall pay Tithes in Kind. 1 Roll. Rep. 176. Partridges and Pheasants, &c. as they are Fera Natura, yield no Tithes of Eggs or Young. 1 Roll. Abr. 636. Pease, if gathered for Sale, or to feed Hogs, pay Tithes; but not Green Pease spent in the House. 1 Roll. Abr. 647. Pigeons ought to pay Tithes when sold; and this holds good if they lodge in Holes about an House, as well as in a Dove-house; and by Custom if spent in the House, they may be Titheable, though not of common Right. 2 Danv. Abr. 583, 597. Pigs are Titheable, as Calves, Ibid. Pollard-Trees, such as are usually lopp'd, and distinguished from Timber-Trees, pay Tithes. Plowd. 470. Quarries of Stone, &c. are not subject to pay Tithes, because they are Part of the Inheritance, and Tithes ought to be collateral to the Land, and distinct from it. 1 Roll. 644. Rakings of Corn are not Titheable, for they are left for the Poor; and are properly the Scattering of the Corn whereof the Tithes have been paid, left after the Cocks set out are taken away. Cro. Eliz. 660. Saffron pays a Predial and small Tithe. 1 Cro. 467. Salt is not Titheable, but by Custom only. 2 Danv. Abr. Sheep, a Tithe is paid for of Lambs and Wool, and therefore they pay no Tithe for their Feeding. If Sheep are in the Parish all the Year, they are to pay Tithe Wool to the Parson; but if remov'd from one Parish to another, the Parsons of each Parish are to have Tithe pro Rata, where they remain 30 Days in a Parish; and if they are fed in one Parish, and brought into another to be shorn, the same Tithing is to be observ'd. 1 Roll. Abr. 642, 647. 3 Cro. 237. Stubble pays no Tithe, under Aftermath. 2 Inst. 652. Tares, Vetches, &c. are Titheable; but if they are cut down green, and given to the Cattle of the Plough, where there is not sufficient Pasture in the Parish, no Tithe shall be paid for them. 1 Cro. 139. Tiles are no yearly Increase, and not Titheable. 2 Inst. 651. Timber-Trees, such as Oaks, Ashes, and Elms, and in some Places Beech, &c. above the Age of 20 Years, were discharged of Tithes by the Common Law, before the Statute 45 Edw. 3. and the Reason of it is, because such Trees are employ'd to build Houses, and Houses when built are not only fixt to, but part of the Freehold; and if these Trees stand so long 'till they become rotten and fit for Firing only, no Tithe is due for them, because they were once privileged; and Loppings of Timber-Trees, above 20 Years Growth, pay no Tithes, for the Branch is privileged as well as the Body of the Tree; and the Roots of such Trees are exempted as Parcel of the Inheritance. Trees cut for Ploughboor, Cart-boor, &c. shall not pay Tithes, although they are no Timber; but all Trees not fit for Timber, and not put to those Uses, pay Tithes. 1 Roll. Abr. 650. Cro. Eliz. 477, 499. Turfs used for Fuel are Part of the Soil, and Tithe-free. 2 Inst. 651. Underwood is Titheable, though the Tithe is not of annual Payment; and is set out while standing, by the tenth Acre, Pole, or Perch, or when cut down by the tenth Faggot or Billet, as Custom directs; and if he that sells the Wood doth not set out the Tithe, he is liable to the treble Damages by 2 Edw. 6. cap. 13. But if the Underwood is used for Firing in a House of Husbandry, or to burn Brick to repair the House, or for Hedging and Fencing the Lands in the same Parish, it may be discharged from Tithe. 2 Inst. 642, 643, 652. Iob. 250. 2 Danv. Abr. 597. Warrants where Titheable, see Conies. Waste Ground, where Cattle feed, is liable to the Payment of Tithes. 2 Danv. Abr. Wood growing in Nature of an Herb, is a Predial and small Tithe. 2 Danv. 594. Wood is generally esteem'd to be a great Tithe; and if Wood-Grounds have likewise Timber-Trees growing on them, and consist for the most part of such Trees, the Trees shall privilege the other Wood; but if the Wood is the greatest Part, then it must pay Tithes for the whole. 13 Rep. 13. Wool is a mix'd small Tithe, paid when clip'd; one Fleece in ten, or in some Places one in seven is given to the Parson. If there is under ten Pounds of Wool at the Shearing, a reasonable Consideration shall be paid, because the Tithes are due of common Right; and if less than ten Fleeces, they shall be divided into ten Parts, or an Allowance be otherwise made. All Sheep kill'd, and Sheep which die, pay Tithe Wool; and Neck-wool cut off for the Benefit of the Wool, but not if it is to preserve the Sheep from Vermin, &c. Also the Wool of Lambs shorn at Midsummer, though Tithe was paid for the Lambs at Mark-tide, is Titheable. 1 Roll. Abr. 646, 647. 2 Inst. 652. Vide Tithe of Sheep. When any thing is Titheable only by Custom, it may be exempted from Tithe by Custom, but Custom to exempt Corn, &c. from Tithe, will not be allowed, because for that Tithes are due de jure. Count. Parf. Compan. 155. See Modus and Prescription.

Tithes Extraparochial, which do not lie in any Parish, belong to the King. 2 Rep. 2, 44.

Tithing, (Tithingum, from the Sax. Teothunge, i. e. Decuriam) Is in its first Appointment the Number or Company of ten Men with their Families, held together in a Society, all being bound for the peaceable Behaviour of each other: And of these Companies there was one chief Person who was called Teothung-man, at this Day Tithing-man; but the old Discipline of Tithings is long since left off. In the Saxon Times, for the better Conservation of the Peace, and more easy Administration of Justice, every Hundred was divided into ten Districts or Tithings; and within every Tithing the Tithing-men were to examine and determine all lesser Causes between Villages and Neighbours; but to refer greater Matters to the then Superior Courts, which had a Jurisdiction over the whole Hundred. Paroch. Antiq. 633.

Tithing-men Are now a Kind of petty Constables, elected by Parishes, and sworn in their Offices in the Court-Leet, and sometimes by Justices of Peace, &c. There is frequently a Tithing-man in the same Town with a Constable, who is as it were a Deputy to execute the Office in the Constable's Absence; but there are some Things which a Constable has Power to do that Tithing-men and Headboroughs cannot intermeddle with. Dalt. 3. When there is no Constable of a Parish, the Office and Authority of a Tithing-man seems to be all one under another Name. Stat. 13 & 14 Car. 2. cap. 12. See Constable.

Title, (Titulus) Is when a Man hath lawful Cause of Entry into Lands whereof another is seized, for which he cannot have his Action; and it signifies also the Means whereby a Man comes to Lands or Tenements, as by Feoffment, Fine, Last Will and Testament, &c. The Word Title includeth a Right, but is the more general Word: Every Right is a Title, tho' every Right is not such a Title for which an Action lies; so that Titulus est justa Causa possidendi quod nostrum est, and is the Means of holding the Lands. Co. Lit. 345. A Man may plead in Trespass, &c. without particularly setting forth his Title, where his Justification is collateral to the Title of the Land; so if Damages are to be recovered, and the Title of the Land is not in Question; and in Actions on real Contracts, where the Plaintiff shews enough to intitle him to the Action, &c. 2 Mod. 70. 1 Roll. Rep. 13. Cro. Car. 571. 3 Nelf. Abr. 325. But in Trespass for cutting Corn on Lands, the Party must set forth the Title which he hath to the Corn, or on Demurrer it will be judg'd ill; for the shewing that he is possessed thereof, is not sufficient without a Title, because the Property shall be intended to be in the Owner of the Soil. 2 Sand. 401. 3 Salk. 361. When a Person will recover any Thing from another, he must make out and prove a better Title than the other hath; or it will not be enough to destroy his Title, &c. Hob. 103. It is not allow'd for the Party to forsake his own Title, and fly upon the other's; for he must recover by his own Strength, not the other's Weakness. Ibid. 104. If by the Record it appears that the Plaintiff in the Cause hath no Title, he shall not have Judgment. Lutw. 1631. The Law will not permit Titles and Things in Entry, &c. to be granted over; and the Buying or Selling any pretended Rights or Titles to Lands, is prohibited by Statute as Maintenance. 32 H. 8. cap. 9.

Titles of Clergymen, Signify some certain Place where they may exercise their Functions. A Title in this Sense is the Church to which a Priest Priest was ordained and constantly to reside: And there are many Reasons why a Church is called Titulus; one is because in former Days the Name of the Saint to whom the Church was dedicated was engraved on the Porch, as a Sign that the Saint had a Title to that Church; from whence the Church it self was afterwards denominated Titulus. Concil. London. Ann. 1125. No Persons shall be ordained without a Title; and this is required to keep out those from the Ministry who might otherwise for want of Maintenance, bring Disgrace upon the Church. And if a Bishop shall admit any Person into the Ministry without any Title, he shall maintain him 'till he prefers him to some Ecclesiastical Living; or if he refuses so to do, he shall be suspended from giving Orders for one Year. Can. 31. Anciently a Title of Clergy was no more than entering their Names in the Bishop's Roll, and then they had not only Authority to assist in the Ministerial Functions, but had a Right to a Share of the common Stock or Treasury of the Church; but since a Title is an Assurance of being preferred to some Ecclesiastical Benefice, a Certificate that the Clerk is provided of some Church, or Place, &c. or where the Bishop who ordains him, intends shortly afterwards to admit him to a Benefice or Curacy then void. Count. Parf. Compan. 2, 3.

Titinylls, An old Word for Tale-bearers. — In all Realms the Popish Practice hath had such Confederacy of false, forsworn, factious, and traitorous Titinylls, untrue to their Sovereign, &c. Letter Secr. State. 28 H. 8. to James 5. King of Scotland.

Toalia, A Towel; and there is a Tenure of Lands by the Service of Waiting with a Towel at the King's Coronation; — Petrus Picote tenet unum Mesuag. &c. per Serjeantiam serviendi cum una Toalia ad Coronationem Regis. Inq. Ann. 12, 13. K. John.

Tobacco, Is not to be planted in England on Pain of forfeiting 40 s. for every Rod of Ground thus planted; but this shall not extend to hinder the Planting of Tobacco in Physick Gardens. 12 Car. 2. cap. 34. And Justices of Peace have Power to issue Warrants to Constables, to search after and examine whether any Tobacco be sown or planted, and to destroy the same; which they are to do under Penalties, &c. 22 & 23 Car. 2. cap. 26. The 4 & 5 W. & M. continues the Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2. And by a late Act, if any Person shall cut Walnut Tree Leaves, or other Leaves, (not being Tobacco Leaves) or colour them so as to resemble Tobacco; or shall sell the same mixed with Tobacco, they shall forfeit 5 s. per Pound: And the like Penalty is inflicted for exporting such Leaves, or Engines for cutting, which may be seized by the Officers of the Customs, &c. Also Servants employed therein may be committed to Gaol, or the House of Correction, for any Time not exceeding six Months, &c. 1 Geo. cap. 46.

Tod of Wool, contains twenty-eight Pounds, or two Stone; mentioned in the Stat. 12 Car. 2. cap. 32.

Toft, (Toftum) A Messuage, or rather a Place or Piece of Ground where an House formerly stood, but is decay'd, or casually burnt and not re-edify'd; it is a Word much used in Fines, wherein we often read Toftum and Croftum, &c. West Symb. par. 2. Stat. 22 & 23. Car. 2.

Toftman (Toftmannus) The Owner or Possessor of a Toft. Reg. Priorat. Lew. pag. 18.

Toile, (Fr. i. e. Tela) A Net to compass or take Deer, which is forbid to be used unlawfully in Parks, on Pain of 20 l. for every Deer taken therewith. 3 & 4 W. & M. cap. 10.

Tokens False, to get Money or Goods by from others, &c. See false Tokens.

Tol, (Tollere) Signifies to defeat or take away; as to Tol an Entry is to take away the Right of Entry. 8 Hen. 6.

Toll, (Tolnetum, vel Theolonium) Is a Saxon Word, and properly a Payment in Towns, Markets and Fairs, for Goods and Cattle bought and sold. It is a reasonable Sum of Money due to the Owner of the Fair or Market, upon Sale of Things tolable within the same. 2 Inst. 220. and it is used for a Liberty as well to take as to be free from Toll; of which Freedom from Toll the City of Coventry boasts an ancient Charter granted by Leofrick Earl of the Mercians, in the Time of King Edw. the Confessor, who at the Importunity of Godeva, his virtuous Lady, granted this Freedom to that City. By the ancient Law of this Land, the Buyers of Corn or Cattle in Fairs or Markets ought to pay Toll to the Lord of the Market, in Testimony of the Contract there lawfully made; for Toll was first invented that Contracts in Markets should be openly made before Witnesses; and privy Contracts were held unlawful. But the King shall pay no Toll for any of his Goods; and a Man may be discharged from the Payment of Toll, by the King's Grant. Also Tenants in ancient Demefne are discharged of Toll throughout the Kingdom, for Things which arise out of their Lands, or bought for Manurance thereof, &c. not for Merchandizes. Horn's Mir. lib. 1. 2 Inst. 221. 2 Roll. Abr. 198. Toll doth not of common Right belong to a Fair, though it hath been held, that some Toll is due of common Right, as appears from the Immunities of several Persons not to pay Toll, which proves that if it was not for those Privileges, they ought to pay Toll of common Right; therefore where the King grants a Market, Toll is due, although it is not expressed in the Grant what Toll is to be paid; and this from the Necessity of it, because the Property of Things sold in a Market is not alter'd without paying Toll. Palm. 76. 2 Lutw. 1377. 3 Nelf. Abr. 326. But it is said, if the King grants to a Man a Fair or Market, and grant no Toll, the Patentee shall have no Toll; for Toll being a Matter of private Right for the Benefit of the Lord, is not incident to a Fair or Market, as a Court of Piepowders is, which is for the Benefit of the Publick and Advancement of Justice, &c. such a Fair or Market is free from Toll; and after the Grant made the King cannot grant a Toll to such free Fair or Market, without some proportionable Benefit to the Subject: And if the Toll granted with the Fair or Market be outrageous, the Grant of the Toll is void, and the same is a free Market, &c. 2 Inst. 220. Cro. Eliz. 559. When the King grants a Fair, he may likewise grant that Toll shall be paid, though it be a Charge upon the Subjects; but then it must be of a very small Sum. Toll is to be reasonable, for the King cannot grant a burthensome Toll; and one may have Toll by Prescription for some reasonable Cause, but such a Prescription to charge the Subject with a Duty of Toll, must import a Benefit or Recompence for it, or some Reason must be shewn why it is claimed. Cro. Eliz. 559. 3 Lev. 424. 2 Mod. 143. 4 Mod. 323. The Toll in Fairs is generally taken upon the Sale of Cattle, as Horses, &c. but in Markets for Grain only; and the Lord may seize until Satisfaction is made him: It is always to be paid by the Buyer, unless there be a Custom to the contrary; and nothing is tollable before the Sale, except it be by Custom Time out of Mind; which Custom none can challenge that claim the Fair or Market by Grant since the Reign of King Richard 2d; so that it is better to have a Market or Fair by Prescription than Grant. 2 Inst. 220, 221. At this Day, there is not any one certain Toll to be taken in Markets; but if that which is taken be unreasonable, it is punishable by the Stat. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 31. And what shall be deem'd reasonable is to be determin'd by the Judges of the Law, when it comes judicially before them. Toll may be said to be outrageous, where a reasonable Toll is due, and excessive Toll is taken; or when no Toll is due, and Toll is unjustly usurp'd, &c. 2 Inst. 222. If excessive Toll be taken in a Market-Town, by the Lord's Consent, the Franchise shall be seized; and if by other Officers, they shall pay double Damages, and suffer Imprisonment, &c. Stat. Westm. 1. 3 Edw. 1. Owners of Markets and Fairs are to appoint Toll-takers where Toll is to be taken, under Penalties, by the 2 & 3 Ph. & M. cap. 7. And he that hath the Toll, or Profit of the Market where no Toll is, ought to provide a lawful Measure of Brass, and chain it in the publick Market-place, or shall forfeit 5*l.* 22 Car. 2. cap. 8. See Market.

Port-Toll. A Prescription to have Port-Toll for all Goods coming into a Man's Port may be good; and this 'tis said without any Consideration. 2 Lev. 96. 2 Lutw. 1519. And it hath been adjudged, that the Liberty of bringing Goods into a Port for Safety, implies a Consideration in it self. 3 Lev. 37. Prescription of Toll for Goods landed in a Manor, or to have Port-Toll for all Goods coming into Port, is a good Prescription; but not to have Toll of Goods brought into a River, &c. 2 Lev. 96, 97. Toll may be Appurtenant to a Manor. 2 Mod. 144.

Toll-Travers, Is where one claimeth to have Toll for every Beast driven over his Ground; for which a Man may prescribe, and distrain for it in via Regia. Cro. Eliz. 710. They who claim these Tolls by Grant, ought to aver the Certainty of the Sum mentioned in the Grant, &c. Palm. 76. Toll-Travers being to pass a nearer Way, he that hath it is to repair the Way, because he receives Money for it. 2 Lill. Abr. 585.

Thorough-Toll, Is when a Town prescribes to have Toll for such a Number of Beasts, or for every Beast that goeth through their Town; or over a Bridge or Ferry, maintained at their Cost, which is reasonable, though it be for passing through the King's Highway, where every Man may lawfully go, as it is for the Ease of Travellers that go that Way. Terms de Ley. 561, 562. Persons may have this Toll by Prescription or Grant; but it must be for some reasonable Cause, which must be shewn, viz. that they are to repair and maintain a Causeway, or a Bridge, or such like. Cro. Eliz. 711.

Turn-Toll, A Toll paid for Beasts that are driven to Market to be sold, and do return unsold. 8 Rep. 46. There is also In-toll and Out-toll mentioned in ancient Charters: But if any one take Toll where he ought not, the Party grieved shall have an Action on the Case, or Action of Trespass, &c. 3 Nels. Abr. 325, 326. Of Toll, and Grants, Customs and Prescriptions for Tolls, good, and not so, see 4 Mod. 319. 5 Mod. 361. Lutw. 1380, 1518.

Towage, (Towagium, Fr. Touage) Is the Rowing or Drawing a Ship or Barge along the Water by another Ship or Boat fastened to her; or by Men or Beasts on Land: It is also Money which is given by Bargemen to the Owner of Ground next a River where they tow a Barge or other Vessel. Plac. Parl. 18. Ed. 1.

Town, (Oppidum, Villa) A wall'd Place or Borough: The old Boroughs were first of all Towns; and upland Towns, which are not ruled and govern'd as Boroughs, are still Towns, tho' inclos'd with Walls. Finch 80. There ought to be in every Town a Constable, or Tithingman; and it cannot be a Town unless it hath or had a Church, with Celebration of Sacraments and Burials, &c. But if a Town is decay'd so that it hath no Houses left, yet it is a Town in Law. 1 Inst. 115. Under the Name of a Town, or Village, Boroughs, and 'tis said Cities are contained, for every Borough or City is a Town. Where a Murderer escapes untaken in a Town, in the Day Time, the Town shall be amerced. 3 Hen. 7. cap. 1. And a Township is answerable for Felons Goods to the King, which may be seized by them. 1 R. 3. cap. 3. But see 31 Ed. 3. cap. 3. A Custom may be alledged in a Town, &c.

Trabariæ, Were little Boats, so called from their being made out of single Beams, or Pieces of Timber cut hollow. Elorence of Worcester, pag. 618.

Trabes In Churches, was that we now call Branches, made usually with Brals, but formerly with Iron. Cowel.

Tractus, A Trace by which Horses in their Gears draw a Cart, Plough, or Waggon. Paroch. Antiq. 549.

Trade, In general Signification is Traffick or Merchandize: Also a private Art and Way of Living. All the King's Subjects were to have a free Trade with France, Spain, &c. Stat. 3 Fac. 1. cap. 6. But by 1 W. & M. cap. 34. all Trade with France, during the War, and importing Goods was declared a common Nuisance, and the Commodities were to be seized and burnt; the Vessels with their Furniture, &c. to be forfeited; and landing Goods, or assisting therein, incurr'd a Penalty of 500*l.* though the Prohibition of Trade to France was taken off and repealed by 9 Ann. cap. 8. The King was enabled to prohibit all Trade with Sweden, on the intended Invasion of this Kingdom, by the late King of Sweden. 3 Geo. cap. 1. None of the King's Subjects may trade to and with a Nation of Infidels without the King's Leave, because of the Danger of relinquishing Christianity; and Sir Edw. Coke said, That he had seen a License from one of our Kings, reciting, That he having a special Trust and Confidence that such a one, his Subject, would not decline his Faith and Religion, licensed him to trade with Infidels, &c. 3 Nels. Abr. 331. As to private Trades at Common Law, none was prohibited to exercise any particular Trade, wherein he had any Skill or Knowledge; and if he used it unskilfully, the Party grieved might have his Remedy against him by Action on the Case, &c. By the 5 Eliz. a Man must serve 7 Years Apprenticeship, before he can set up any Trade; though it hath been resolv'd that the Statute doth not prohibit the Use of a Trade for a Family, but the publick Use of it in general. 11 Rep. 53. If a Bond or Promise restrains the Exercise of a Trade, though it be to a particular Place only, if there was no Consideration for it, it is void; if there be a Consideration, in such Case, it may be good: But if the Restraint be general throughout England, although there be a Consideration, it will be void. 2 Lill.

Transcript, Is the Copy of any Original Writing, or Deed, &c. where it is written over again, or exemplified. Stat. 34 & 35 Hen. 8. cap. 14.

Transcripto pedes finis levati mittendo in Cancellariam, A Writ for certifying the Foot of a Fine levied before Justices in Eyre, &c. into the Chancery. Reg. Orig. 669.

Transcripto Recognitionis factæ coram Justiciariis itinerantibus, &c. Is a Writ to certify a Recognisance taken by Justices in Eyre. Reg. Orig. 152.

Transgressione, A Writ or Action of Trespass, according to Fitzherbert.

Transire, (from Transire) Is used for a Warrant from the Custom House, to let pass. 14 Car. 2. cap. 11.

Transitory, Is the Opposite to Local: Transitory Actions are those as may be laid in any County, or Place; such as Personal Action of Trespass, &c. See Local.

Translation, (Translatio) In a common Sense of the Word signifies a Version out of one Language into another; but in a more confined Acceptation, it denotes the Setting from one Place to another, and the Removal of a Bishop to another Diocese, &c. which is called Translating: And such a Bishop writes not Anno Consecrationis, but Anno Translationis nostræ, &c. A Bishop translated is not consecrated de novo; for a Consecration is like an Ordination, 'tis an indelible Character, and holds good for ever. 3 Salk. 72. But the Bishop is to be a new elected, &c. 1 Salk. 137. See Postulation.

Transportation, Is the Banishing or Sending away a Criminal into another Country. And by Statute, if any one convicted of Felony, shall in open Court pray to be transported, it may be done if the Court thinks fit. 31 Car. 2. cap. 2. The 4 Geo. cap. 11. was made for the more effectual Transportation of Offenders convicted of Felony, or Larceny, within the Benefit of Clergy, &c. By 5 Geo. cap. 28. Deer-Stealers may be transported to the Plantations, &c.

Transubstantiation, (Transubstantiatio) Is a Converting into another Substance: To transubstantiate, i. e. Quidnam in aliam Substantiam convertito. Litt. Dict. A Declaration against the Doctrine of Transubstantiation used in the Church of Rome, is required by the Stat. 30 Car. 2. cap. 1.

Travellers. Inn-keepers are to receive Travellers, and find them Lodging, Viſuals, &c. on Refusal, a reasonable Price being rendered, they may be indicted and fined; or Action of the Case lies against them. 2 Hawk. 225.

Traverse, (from the Fr. Traverser) Is the Affirming of one Thing, and the Denial of another, and is used in Law for the denying of some Matter of Fact, alledged to be done in a Declaration or Pleadings; upon which the other Side comes and says that it was done, and this makes a single and good Issue for the Cause to proceed to Trial. And the formal Words of a Traverse are in our French Sans ceo, in Latin Abſque hoc, and in English without that, &c. Kit.b. 227. West Symb. part 2. A Plea will be ill, which neither traverseth nor confesseth the Plain-

Plaintiff's Title, &c. And every Matter in Fact, alledged by the Plaintiff, may be traversed by the Defendant; but not Matter of Law, or where it is Part Matter of Law and Part Matter of Fact; nor may a Record be traversed which is not to be tried by a Jury. And if a Matter be expressly pleaded in the Affirmative, which is expressly answered in the Negative, no Traverse is necessary, there being a sufficient Issue join'd; also where the Defendant hath given a particular Answer in his Plea, to all the material Matters contained in the Declaration, he need not take a Traverse; for when the Thing is answered there needs no further Denial. Cro. Eliz. 755. Yelv. 173, 193, 195. 2 Mod. 54. If a Traverse contain no more than the Party hath pleaded before, it will not be good. No Traverse ought to be taken but where the Thing traversed is Issuable: And where one will make a Traverse to a Declaration, he ought to traverse that Part of it, the doing whereof will make an End of the Matter, when the Point is determined by the Jury. 2 Roll. Rep. 37. 2 Lill. Abr. 587. 3 Nelf. Abr. 355. As one Traverse is enough to make a perfect Issue, a Traverse cannot regularly be taken upon a Traverse, if 'tis well taken to the material Point, and goes to the Substance of the Action; but where the first Traverse is not well taken, nor pertinent to the Matter, there to that which was sufficiently confessed and avoided before, the other Party may well take a Traverse after such immaterial Traverse taken before: And if special Matter alledged in a foreign County in the Defendant's Plea be false, the Plaintiff may maintain his Action, and traverse that special Matter; and in such Case a Traverse on a Traverse hath been adjudged good. 1 Saund. 32. Poph. 101. These Rules are to be observed in Traverses: 1. The Traverse of a Thing immediately alledged, vitiates a good Bar. 2. Nothing must be traversed but what is expressly alledged. 3. Surplusage in a Plea doth not inforce a Traverse. 4. It must be always made to the substantial Part of the Title. 5. Where an Act may indifferently be intended to be at one Day or another, there the Day is not traversable. In Action of Trespass generally the Day is not material; though if a Matter be to be done upon a particular Day, there it is material and traversable. 2 Roll. Rep. 37. 1 Roll. Rep. 235. Yelv. 122. 2 Lill. Abr. 313. If the Parties are agreed one the Day for a Thing to be done, the Traverse of the Day is material; but where they are not agreed on the Day, it is otherwise; and though 'tis proved to be done on another Day, 'tis sufficient. Palm. 280. Per Holt Ch. Just. Where a Traverse goes to the Matter of a Plea, &c. all that went before is waved by the Traverse; and if the Traverse goes to the Time only, it is not waved. 2 Salk. 642. In Action of Trespass, a particular Place, and Time, were laid in the Declaration, and in the Plea there was a Traverse as to the Place, but not as to the Time: On Averment that it was eadem Transgressio, the Plea was held good. 3 Lev. 227. 2 Lutw. 1452. Where a Plea in Justification of a Thing is not local, a Traverse of the Place is wrong. 2 Mod. 270. The Substance and Body of a Plea must be traversed. Hob. 232. But a Traverse that a Person died seised of Land in Fee modo & forma as the Defendant had declared, was adjudged good. Hutt. 125. A Lord and Tenant differ in the Services, there the Tenure and not the Seisin shall be traversed; but if they agreed in the Services, the Seisin and not the Tenure is traversable; and it is a general Rule, that the Tenant shall never traverse the Seisin of the Services without admitting the Tenure. March. 116. 3 Nelf. Abr. 361. That which is not material nor traversable, is not admitted when it is alledged, and not traversed. 2 Salk. 561. But the Omitting a Traverse where it is necessary, is Matter of Substance. 2 Mod. 60. And a Traverse of a Debt is ill when a Promise is the Ground of the Action; which ought to be traversed, and not the Debt. Leon. 252. A Traverse should have an Inducement to make it relate to the foregoing Matter. And 'tis no good Plea for the Plaintiff to reply that a Man is alive who is alledged to be dead, without traversing that he is not dead 2 Lill. 3 Salk. 357. It is said that where a Traverse absque hoc comprizes the whole Matter generally, it may conclude & de hoc pon. se super Patriam; but when it traverses a particular Matter, the Conclusion ought to be with an Averment, &c. 1 Salk. 4.

Traverse of an Indictment or Presentment, Is to take Issue upon, and contradict or deny some chief Point of it: As in a Presentment against a Person for a Highway overflow'd with Water, for Default of scouring a Ditch, &c. he may traverse the Matter, that there is no Highway, or that the Ditch is sufficiently scoured; or otherwise traverse the Cause, viz. That he hath not the Land, or he and they whose Estate, &c. have not used to scour the Ditch. Lamb. Eiren. 521. Book Entr.

Traverse of an Office, Is to prove that an Inquisition made of Lands or Goods is defective and untruly made. No Person shall traverse an Office, unless he can make to himself a good Right and Title: And if one be admitted to traverse an Office, this Admission of the Party to the Traverse, doth suppose the Title to be in him, or else he had no Cause of Traverse. Vaugh. 64. 2 Lill. Abr. 590, 591.

Traylbaston, Commissions in the Reign of King Edw. 1. See Justices of Traylbaston.

Traytor, (Traditor, Proditor) A State-Offender, Betrayor, &c.

Trayterous Position, Of taking Arms by the King's Authority against his Person, and those that are commissioned by him, is condemned by the Statute 14 Car. 2. cap. 3.

Treason, (from the Fr. Trahir, to betray; and Trabison the Betraying, contracted into Treason) the Latin Word for which used in Law is Proditio, is divided into High Treason, Alta Proditio, and Petit Treason, Proditio parva: And there is Mention of Accumulative and Constructive Treason in some of our Statutes. High Treason is defined to be an Offence committed against the Security of the King or Kingdom; and as all Treasons are Felony, therefore the Word Proditorie must be used in the Indictment for Treason, to distinguish it. 3 Inst. 4, 15. At Common Law there were different Opinions concerning High Treason, and before the Statute 25 Edw. 3. Treason was a very very uncertain Crime; for the Killing of the King's Brother, or even of his Messenger, was taken to be included in it; so when Acts tended to diminish the Dignity of the Crown, and where a Man grew popular, this was construed to be incroaching Royal Power, and held to be Treason; so that by the Excess of the Times, any Crime by aggravating the Circumstances of it, was heightened into Treason: Wherefore this Statute was made to determine what should be Treason; and since the Making thereof, there can be no constructive Treason, i. e. Nothing can be construed to be Treason, which is not literally specified in that Act; nor may this Statute be construed by Equity, because it is a declarative Law, and one Declaration ought not to be a Declaration of another; besides it was made to secure the Subject in his Life, Liberty and Estate, which by admitting Constructions to be made of it, might destroy all. 1 Hawk. P. C. 34. 3 Salk. 358. The Statute 25 Ed. 3. c. 2. (reciting that divers Opinions having been, what Cases should amount to High Treason) enacts and declares, That if a Person doth compass or imagine the Death of the King, Queen, or their eldest Son and Heir; or if he do violate and deflower the King's Wife, or his eldest Daughter unmarried, or the Wife of the King's eldest Son; or if he levy War against the King in his Realm, or adhere to his Enemies, give them Aid and Comfort in the Realm, or elsewhere, and thereof be provably attainted of open Deed; and if a Man counterfeit the King's Great or Privy Seal, or his Money, or bring false Money into the Kingdom, like to the Money of England, to make Payment therewith in Deceit of the King and his People; or if he kill the Chancellor, Treasurer, or any of the King's Justices of either Bench, Justices of Assize, &c. being in their Places doing their Offices; these Cases are to be adjudged Treason: And if any other Case happen before the Justices, supposed to be Treason, they shall not proceed to Judgment 'till it be declared by the King and Parliament whether it ought to be judged Treason, or not. 25 Ed. 3. It was made High Treason to wish or desire, by Words or Writing, or to imagine the Death of the King, Queen, or their Heir apparent; or to publish, that the King was an Heretick, Schismatick, Infidel, &c. by 26 H. 8. c. 13. And to endeavour to depose the King, or affirm by Writing that he is an Usurper, Tyrant, &c. was declared Treason by the 1 Ed. 6. c. 12. But these are repealed by 1 Mar. which enacts, That no Act, Deed or Offence, shall be deemed or adjudged Treason, but such as are declared and expressed to be so by the 25 Ed. 3. concerning Treasons. 1 Mar. Sess. 1. c. 1. All Treasons were settled by the Stat. 25 Ed. 3. c. 2. And by 1 Mar. c. 1. that Act was re-inforced and confirmed, and made the only Standard of Treason; the 1 Mar. takes away the Power of the King and Parliament to adjudge any Thing else to be Treason, than what is declared to be such therein: So as no Crime is at this Day High Treason, Petit Treason, or Misprision of Treason, unless it be declared by 25 Ed. 3. or by some Statute since the 1 Mar. c. 1. All other Statutes made between those two Acts concerning High Treason are abrogated; but since 1 Mar. many Offences are made High Treason by Statute, which were not so before; as relating to the Pope, Popish Priests and Papists, the Protestant Succession, &c. And to say that the King is a Papist, or that he intends to introduce Popery, intending Death or bodily Harm, or a Restraint of the King's Person; or to incite an Invasion, &c. and such Intentions declared by Printing, Writing or Speaking, the Offenders shall be adjudged Traitors. 13 Car. 2. c. 1. Persons sending any Arms, Powder, Masts, Cordage, &c. to France, during the late War, were declared Traitors, by 3 & 4 W. & M. c. 13. Corresponding with the pretended Prince of Wales, or remitting him Money, is made High Treason. 13 W. 3. c. 3. And if any one shall maliciously by Writing or Printing, declare that the King is not lawful King, or that the Pretender hath any Title to the Crown, he shall be guilty of Treason. 4 & 5 Ann. c. 3. Officers or Soldiers of this Realm, holding Correspondence with any Rebel, or Enemy to the King, or giving any Advice, Information by Letter, Message, &c. is declared Treason by the 2 & 3 Ann. And if a Subject of Great Britain or Ireland shall enlist himself a Soldier, with Intent to go beyond Sea, to serve any foreign Prince or State, he shall suffer and forfeit as in Treason. 12 Ann. &c. These are the chief of our Statutes antient and modern, declaring what Offences shall be Treason; and Treasons committed out of the Realm may be tried in B. R. as if the Offence had been done in the County of Middlesex; also they may be inquired of and tried in such County as the King thinks fit, &c. A Party within one Year after Outlawry for Treason, may surrender himself to the Chief Justice of England, and traverse the Indictment; and none shall be attainted of Treason but by the Testimony of Two Witnesses, &c. by Stat. 35 H. 8. c. 2. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 11. All Trials for High Treason shall be according to the Course of the Common Law, and not otherwise. 1 & 2 Ph. & Mar. c. 10. And Persons indicted for Treason are to have a Copy of the Indictment five Days before Trial, to advise with Counsel; and shall be admitted to make a full Defence by Counsel learned in the Law, and by lawful Witnesses, &c. and there must be Two Witnesses to the same Overt-Act, or two Acts of the same Treason, produc'd Face to Face, to make out the Treason against them. 7 W. 3. c. 3. Offenders guilty of High Treason by being concern'd in the Rebellion in the first Year of K. Geo. 1. were to be tried before such Commissioners of Oyer and Terminer and Gaol-Delivery, and in such County as his Majesty by any Commission under the Great Seal should appoint, by lawful Men of the same County, as if the Fact had been there committed: This extended only to Persons actually in Arms. 1 Geo. 1. c. 33. All are Principals in High Treason; and on Attainder of Treason, the Blood of the Criminal is corrupted; he shall be drawn, hang'd and quartered; and forfeit his Lands and Goods to the King, &c.

Treason by the Stat. 25 Ed. 3. in compassing and imagining the Death of the King, must be manifested by some Overt-Act, as by providing Arms to do it, consulting to levy War against him, writing Letters to excite others to join in it, assembling Persons in order to imprison or depose the King, or to get him into their Power, &c. these Acts are sufficient to prove that one compassed or imagined the Death of the King, and to make a Man guilty of High Treason. 3 Inst. 6. 12. It has been a very great Question whether Words spoken can amount to High Treason: But it was resolv'd in the Trial of the Regicides, that though though a Man cannot be indicted of High Treason for Words only; yet if he be indicted for compassing the King's Death, these Words may be laid as an Overt-Act, to prove that he compassed the Death of the King; and to support this Opinion, the Case of a Person was cited who was indicted of Treason Anno 9. Car. 1. for that he being the King's Subject at Lisbon used these Words; I will kill the King, (innuendo King Charles) if I may come to him; and afterwards he came into England for that Purpose; and two Merchants proving that he spoke the Words, for that his traitorous Intent and the wicked Imagination of his Heart was declared by these Words, it was held to be High Treason by the Common Law, and within the Statute of the 25 Ed. 3. cap. 2. Cro. Car. 242. 1 Leo. 57. Deliberate Words, which shew a direct Purpose against the King's Life, will amount to an Overt-Act of compassing or imagining the King's Death; as the Compassing or Imagining the Death of the King is the Treason, Words are the most natural Way of expressing the Imagination of the Heart, and may be good Evidence of it: And any external Act which may be a Manifestation of such Imagination, is an Overt-Act; but although Words may be an Overt-Act of Treason, they must be so certain and positive as plainly to denote the Intention of the Speaker, and be laid with an Averment that they were spoken de Rege, &c. 1 Hawk. P. C. 40. 2 Salk. 631. 3 Mod. 52. The Maxim, That no Words can amount to Treason, at this Day, is not generally true; and notwithstanding the Objection made against Words being high Treason, from the Stat. 1 M. cap. 1. wherein it is said, that many honourable Persons and others of good Reputation, had then of late for Words only suffered shameful Death, that the Severity of such like dangerous and painful Laws should be abolished: It was enacted; That no Offence made Treason by Words, Writing, Cyphering, &c. should be adjudged Treason: It appears from the next Part of the Preamble of the said Statute, that it is applicable only to the Statutes in the Time of King Hen. 8. which made bare Words High Treason. And in the first Edition of Hale's Pleas of the Crown it is twice said, that it hath been adjudged that Words are an Overt-Act; though in the latter Edition it is said, that Compassing by bare Words is not an Overt-Act, &c. 1 Hawk. 41. Ever since the Revolution, it has been the constant Practice, where a Person by treasonable Discourses, has manifested a Design to murder or depose the King, to convict him upon such Evidence: And Chief Justice Holt was of Opinion, That express Words were not necessary to convict a Man of High Treason; but if from the Tenor of his Discourse, the Jury were satisfied he was engaged in a Design against the King's Life; this was sufficient to convict the Prisoner. State Trials, Vol. 4. pag. 172. Words of Persuasion to kill the King, are Overt-Acts of compassing his Death; and it hath been adjudged, that he who intendeth by Force to prescribe Laws to the King, and to restrain him of his Power, doth intend to deprive him of his Crown and Life; that if a Man be ignorant of the Intention of those who take up Arms against the King, if he join in any Action with them, he is guilty of Treason; and that the Law construesth every Rebellion to be a Plot against the King's Life, and a Deposing him, because a Rebel would not suffer that King to reign and live, who will punish him for Rebellion. Moor 620. 2 Salk. 63. 3 Nelf. Abr. 365. If Words are set down in Writing, and kept privately in one's Closet, they are not an Overt-Act of Treason, except the Words are published. Kel. 20. But it has been held, that treasonable Matter put in Writing, Scribere est agere; and though it was not published but sent in a Box to the King, it shewed the Intent of the Party to be High Treason. 2 Roll. Rep. 88. Under the Head of compassing and imagining the King's Death, Intention of Treason proved by Circumstances, is High Treason: The Law takes Notice of Intentions to commit Treason, and Men's Actions are govern'd by their Intentions, &c. 1 Inst. 140. 5 Mod. 206. For a Man to say, That he will be King after the King's Death, hath been adjudged Treason: And so to prophesy when the King shall die; for this may imply Knowledge of a Conspiracy. Roll. Rep. 88. There must be a Compassing, Intent or Imagination to kill the King, to make the Offence Treason; the Killing him per nfortunium, as Sir Wa. Tyrrel killed King Will. 2. by the Glance of an Arrow in New Forest, is not Treason: And though by the antient Law, if a Madman killed or offered to kill the King, it was held to be Treason; by the Stat. 25 Ed. 3. by Force of the Words Compass or Imagine, he that is Non Compos Mentis, and totally deprived of all Compassings and Imaginations, cannot commit High Treason; but it must be an absolute Madnefs, and total Deprivation of Memory. 3 Inst. 6. If the Husband of a Queen regent conspire her Death; or a Queen Consort shall conspire the King's Death, either of these Acts are Treason: And although the Compassing the Death of the Queen Consort be Treason, by the 25 Ed. 3. this must be intended during the Marriage; and it doth not extend to a Queen Dowager. 3 Inst. 8. And the eldest Son and Heir of the King, that is living, is intended by the said Act, though he was not the first Son; but if the Heir apparent to the Crown be a collateral Heir, he is not within the Statute; nor is a Conspiracy against such collateral Heir, Treason by this Act. Ibid. Also Violating the Queen Consort is High Treason, and her yielding and consenting to it is Treason; but this doth not affect a Dowager Queen: So likewise Violating the Wife of the Prince is Treason only during the Coverture. 3 Inst. 9. And the eldest Daughter of the King is such a Daughter as is eldest not married, at the Time of the Violation, which will be Treason, although there was an elder Daughter than her, who died without Issue; for now the Elder alive has a Right to the Inheritance of the Crown, upon Failure of Issue Male: And violating the Queen's Person, &c. was High Treason at Common Law, by Reason it destroyed the Certainty of the King's Issue, and consequently rais'd Contention about the Succession. H. P. C. 16. By the Common Law, Levying War against the King was Treason: But, as in Cases of High Treason, there must be an Overt-Act; a Conspiracy or Compassing to levy War is no Overt-Act, unless a War is actually levied; though if a War is actually levied, then the Conspirators are all Traitors, although they are not in Arms: And a Conspiracy to levy War will be Evidence of an Overt-Act to maintain an Indictment for Compassing the King's Death; but if the Indictment be for levying War only, Proof must be made that a War was levied, to bring the Offender under this Clause of the Statute

25 Ed. 3. 3 Inst. 8, 9. H. P. C. 14. If Two or more conspire to levy War, and one of them alone raises Forces; this shall be adjudged Treason in all. Dyer 98. And Persons raising Forces for any publick End or Purpose, and putting themselves in a Posture of War, by chusing Leaders, and opposing Constables or Guards, &c. is High Treason: Some Time ago there was a great Riot in London by the Apprentices there, some whereof being imprisoned, the Rest conspired to kill the Lord Mayor, and release their Comrades; and in order to it, to provide themselves with Armour, by Breaking open two Houses near the Tower; they marched with a Cloke on a Pole instead of an Ensign, towards the Lord Mayor's House, and in the Way meeting with Opposition from the Sheriffs, resisted them, this was held Levying of War and Treason. Trin. 37 Eliz. Sid. 358. Those who make an Insurrection in order to redress a publick Grievance, whether it be a real or pretended One, are said to levy War against the King, although they have no direct Design against his Person; as they are for doing that by private Authority, which he by publick Justice ought to do, which manifestly tends to a Rebellion: For example; Where great Numbers by Force endeavour to remove certain Persons from the King, or to lay violent Hands on a Privy Councillor, or revenge themselves against a Magistrate for executing his Office, or to deliver Men out of Prison, expel Foreigners, or to reform the Law or Religion, to pull down all Bawdy-houses, or throw down all Inclosure in general, &c. But where a Number of Men rise to remove a Grievance to their private Interest, as to pull down a particular Inclosure, they are only Rioters; for there is a Difference between a Pretence that is publick and general, and one that is private or particular. 3 Inst. 9. H. P. C. 14. Kel. 75. 1 Hawk. P. C. 37. It was resolved by all the Judges of England in the Reign of King Hen. 8. That an Insurrection against the Statute of Labourers, for raising their Wages, was a Levying of War against the King; because it was generally against the King's Law, and the Offenders took upon them the Reformation thereof. Read. Statutes. Vol. 5. pag. 150. Not only such as directly rebel and take up Arms against the King, but also those who in a violent Manner withstand his lawful Authority, or attempt to reform his Government, do levy War against him; and therefore to hold a Fort or Castle against the King's Forces, or keep together armed Men in great Numbers against the King's express Command, have been adjudg'd a levying War and Treason: But those who join themselves to Rebels, &c. for fear of Death, and return the first Opportunity, are not guilty of this Offence. 3 Inst. 10. Kel. 76. To succour or adhere to the King's Enemies, give them Comfort or Relief, or for any Persons to be in Counsel with others to levy any seditious Wars, are High Treason: And the Delivery or Surrender of the King's Castles or Forts, by the Captains thereof, to the King's Enemy, within the Realm or without, for Reward, &c. is an Adhering to the King's Enemies, and Treason by the 25 Ed. 3. A Lieutenant of Ireland let several Rebels out of Dublin-Castle, and discharged some Irish Hostages which had been given for Securing the Peace; and for this he was attainted of High Treason in adhering to the King's Enemies. 33 H. 8. 1 Leon. Adhering to the King's Enemies out of the Realm is Treason; and one who was beyond Sea having solicited a foreign Prince to invade the Kingdom, was adjudged guilty of High Treason, and triable by the Statute 35 H. 8. But Adherence out of the Realm must be alledged in some Place in England. 3 Inst. 10. H. P. C. 14. Dyer 298, 310. It has been adjudg'd, that Adhering to the King's Enemies is an Adhering against him; and that English Subjects joining with Rebel Subjects of the King's Allies, and fighting with them under the Command of an Alien Enemy Prince, is Treason in Adhering to the King's Enemies; and Cruising in a Ship with Intent to destroy the King's Ships, without doing any Act of Hostility, is an Overt-Act of Adhering, Comforting and Aiding; for where an Englishman lifts himself and marches, this is Treason without coming to Battle, or actual Fighting. 2 Salk. 634. An Indictment for Levying of War, or Adhering to the King's Enemies generally, without shewing some particular Instances, is not good; because of these Words, viz. And thereof shall be proveably attainted by Overt-Deed, which follow and are connected to the Treasons of Compassing the King's Death, Levying War, and Adhering to the King's Enemies; and as these Treasons are several and distinct Treasons, one of them cannot be made an Overt-Act of another. Ibid. There is no Necessity expressly to alledge that Adherence was against the King; but the Special Manner of Adherence must be set forth: And it is said, that the Succouring a Rebel, fled into another Realm, is not within the Statute; for a Rebel is not properly an Enemy, and the Statute is taken strictly. 1 Hawk. 38. Subjects of the King, in open War or Rebellion, are not the King's Enemies, but Traitors; and if a Subject join with a foreign Enemy, and come into England with him, if he be taken Prisoner, he shall not be ransomed or proceeded against as an Enemy, but as a Traitor to the King: On the other Hand, an Enemy coming in open Hostility into England, and taken, shall be either executed by Martial Law, or ransomed; for he cannot be indicted of Treason, because he never was within the Ligeance of the King. 3 Inst. 11. By the Word Proveably, a Person ought to be convicted of the Treason on direct and manifest Proofs, and not upon Presumptions or Inferences; and the Word Attainted necessarily implies, That the Prisoner be proceeded against and attainted according to due Course of Law; wherefore if a Man be killed in open War against the King, or be put to Death arbitrarily, or by Martial Law, and be not attainted of Treason according to the Common Law, he forfeits nothing, for which Cause some Persons killed in open Rebellion against the King, have been attainted by Act of Parliament, Ibid. 12. On a Judgment for High Treason, Error was brought, for that the Indictment did not conclude contra Ligeantiam, &c. Now though all the particular Facts of the Treason were fully expressed, so that it appeared that it must be contra Ligeantiam sue debitum, yet the Judgment was reversed. 3 Lev. 396. Upon a Writ of Error to reverse an Attainder in Treason, because the Party convicted was not asked what he had to say why Judgment should not be given against him, the Attainder was reversed; for he might have a Pardon, or some Matter to move in Arrest of Judgment. 2 Salk. 630. 3 Mod. 265. And the Omission of any necessary Part of the Judgment

ment for Treason, is Error sufficient to reverse an Attainder; as it is more severe and formidable in Treason, than for any other Crime. 2 Salk. 632. As to the Counterfeiting the King's Seal, this was Treason by Common Law; and the Statute 25 Ed. 3. mentions only the Great Seal and Privy Seal; for the Counterfeiting of the Sign Manual or Privy Signet, is not Treason within that Act, but by 1 & 2 P. & M. c. 6. Those who aid and consent to the Counterfeiting of the King's Seal are equally guilty with the Actors: But an Intent or Compassing to counterfeit the Great Seal, if it be not actually done, is not Treason; there must be an actual Counterfeiting, and it is to be like the King's Great Seal. 3 Inst. 15. S. P. C. 3. H. P. C. 18. And this Branch of the Statute does not extend to the Affixing the Great Seal to a Patent, without a Warrant for so doing; nor to the Rasing any Thing out of a Patent, and adding new Matter therein; or to the Taking off the Wax impressed by the Great Seal from one Patent, and fixing it to another; yet this, though it be not a Counterfeiting, has been adjudg'd a Mispri-son of the highest Degree: And a Person guilty of an Act of this Nature, with Relation to a Commission for levying Money, &c. had Judgment to be drawn and hanged. 2 H. 4. 3 Inst. 16. Kel. 80. At Common Law, Forging of the King's Money was Treason, as Counterfeiting it is by the Stat. 25 Ed. 3. Forging or Counterfeiting foreign Money made current here by Proclamation, is likewise High Treason by 1 Mar. c. 6. And if not current here, it is Mispri-son of Treason. Counterfeiting the King's Coin, or impairing or lightening it by Clipping, &c. is Treason; but it shall work no Corruption of Blood. 18 Eliz. c. 1. And as those who coin Money without the King's Authority are guilty of Treason; so are those that have Authority to do it, if they make it of greater Alloy, or less Weight than they ought. 3 Inst. 17. 2 Inst. 577. H. P. C. 20. Treason in making Stamps, Dyes, &c. for coining and colouring Metal, &c. See 8 & 9 W. 3. and Coin. Bringing False Money into this Kingdom, counterfeited like the Money of England, knowing it to be false, is Treason by the 25 Ed. 3. In this Case it must be counterfeited, according to the Likeness of English Money, and is to be knowingly brought over from some foreign Nation, not from any Place subject to the Crown of England; and must be uttered in Payment. 3 Inst. 18. The Killing of the King's Chancellor, Treasurer, Justices of either Bench, &c. declared to be Treason, relates to no other Officers of State besides those expressly named; and to them only when they are in actual Execution of their Offices, representing the Person of the King; and it doth not extend to any Attempt to kill, or Wounding them, &c. 3 Inst. 18, 38. H. P. C. 17. See Mispri-son.

Petit Treason; Is where one, out of Malice, takes away the Life of a Subject to whom he owes special Obedience: And is called Petit Treason, in respect to High Treason, which is against the King. 3 Inst. 20. It may be committed where a Servant kills his Master, a Wife her Husband, or a Secular or Religious Person killeth his Prelate or Superior. 25 Ed. 3. c. 2. And Aiders, Abettors, and Procurers, are within the Act; but if the Killing is upon a sudden falling out, or Se Defendendo, &c. it is not Petit Treason; for Persons accused of Petit Treason shall be adjudg'd Not guilty, or Principal and Accessary, according to the Rules of Law in other Cases. H. P. C. 24. Petit Treason is committed against the Head, though not against the supream Head; and if a Servant kills his Mistress, or the Wife of his Master, she is Master within the Letter of the Statute, and it is Petit Treason: But this Statute is so strictly construed, that no Case which cannot be brought within the Meaning of the Words of it, shall be punished by it; and therefore if a Son kill his Father, he shall not be tried for Petit Treason, except he served his Father for Wages, &c. in which Case he shall be indicted by the Name of a Servant; and yet the Offence is more heinous by far in a Child than a Servant. 3 Inst. 20. H. P. C. 23. 11 Rep. 34. A Servant procured another to kill his Master, who killed him in the Servant's Presence; this was Petit Treason in the Servant, and Murder in the other; if the Servant had been absent, the Crime would not have been Petit Treason, but Murder, to which he would have been accessary. 3 Inst. 20. Mocr. 91. Where a Servant intended to kill his Master, and laid in Wait for that Purpose while he was his Servant, but did not do it 'till he had been a Year out of his Service; it was adjudged Petit Treason. H. P. C. 23. A Maid-Servant and a Stranger conspired to rob the Mistress, and in the Night the Servant opened the Door and let in the Stranger into the House, who killed her Mistress, she lighting him to her Bed, but neither saying nor doing any Thing, only holding the Candle; and this was held Murder in the Stranger, and Petit Treason in the Servant. Dyer. 128. If a Wife and a Stranger kill the Husband, it is Petit Treason in the Wife, and Murder in the Stranger: And so it is of an Ecclesiastick Person; if he kills his Prelate, or Superior. Dalt. 337. If a Wife and her Servant conspire to kill the Husband, and appoint Time and Place for it, but the Servant alone in the Absence of the Wife killeth him; it shall be Petit Treason in both: And if the Wife procure a Servant to kill the Husband, both are guilty of Petit Treason; also if a Stranger procures a Wife or Servant to kill the Husband or Master, he may be indicted as accessary to Petit Treason. Dyer. 128, 332. Crompt. 41. Where the Wife and another who was not her Servant, conspired the Death of the Husband, the Indictment was that the Wife Pro-ditorie, and the other Person Felonice gave him Poison, &c. whereof he died: And the Wife being acquitted on the Indictment, she brought an Action against her Son-in-Law for a malicious Prosecution, and recovered Damages; but afterwards he brought an Appeal of Murder against her, upon which she was convicted in B. R. and carried down into the County where the Fact was done, and there executed. Cro. Car. 331, 382. Mod. Ca. 217. 3 Nelf. Abr. 372. In Petit Treason, it is said that two Witnesses are required to the Indictment; and not to the Trial of it, for it is not within the Stat. 7 W. 3. 2 Hawk. P. C. 258. Petit Treason implies Murder, and is the highest Degree thereof: And an Attempt by a Wife to kill her Husband; Piracy by a Subject, &c. were Petit Treason by the Common Law. 1 Hawk. 87, 88. This Kind of Treason gives Forfeiture of Lands by Escheat to the Lord of the Fee, &c. and a Man is drawn and hanged for it; and a Woman burn'd. 1 Inst. 37.

Treasure, (Thesaurus) Signifies Riches and Wealth; and as the King's Treasure is the Honour and and Safety of the King, for this Reason Mines of Gold and Silver belong to the King.

Treasurer, (Thesaurarius) Is an Officer to whom the Treasure of another is committed to be kept, and truly disposed of: The Chief of these with us is the Lord Treasurer of England, who is a Lord by his Office, and one of the greatest Men of the Kingdom. This great Officer holds his Place Durante beneplacito, and is instituted by the Delivery of a White Staff to him by the King; and in former Times he received his Office by Delivery of the Golden Keys of the Treasury: He is also Treasurer of the Exchequer, by Letters Patent; and by 31 Ed. 3. in Writs of Error the Lord Chancellor and Lord Treasurer shall cause the Record and Process of the Exchequer to be brought before them, who are Judges; but the Writ is to be directed to the Treasurer and Barons, who have the Keeping of the Records. Under the Charge and Government of the Lord Treasurer, is all the King's Wealth contained in the Exchequer; he has the Check of all the Officers employ'd in Collecting the Customs and Royal Revenues; all the Offices of the Customs in all the Ports of England are in his Gift and Disposition; Eccheators in every County are nominated by him; and he makes Leases of all the Lands belonging to the Crown, &c. But the high and important Post of Lord Treasurer has of late Years, like some other great Offices, been esteem'd too great a Task for one Person, and been generally executed by Commissioners. And see more belonging to this Office. Stat. 20 Ed. 3. c. 6. 31 H. 6. c. 5. 4 Ed. 4. c. 1. 17 Ed. 4. c. 5. 21 H. 8. c. 20. and 1 Ed. 6. c. 13. 4 Inst. 104. Besides the Lord Treasurer, there is a Treasurer of the King's Household, who is of the Privy Council, and with the Controller, &c. has great Power. Stat. Westm. 2. c. 1. A Treasurer of the Navy or War. 35 Eliz. c. 4. Treasurer of the King's Chamber. 33 H. 8. c. 39. A Treasurer of the Wardrobe. 25 Ed. 3. c. 21. And there are Treasurers of Corporations, &c.

Treasurer in Cathedral Churches, An Officer whose Charge was to take Care of the Vestments, Plate, Jewels, Relicks, and other Treasure belonging to the said Churches; and at the Time of the Reformation, the Office was extinguished as needless in most Cathedral Churches, but it is still remaining in those of Salisbury, London, &c.

Treasurer of the County, Is he that keeps the County Stock: There are Two of them in each County, chosen by the major Part of the Justices of the Peace, &c. at Easter-Sessions; they must have 10 l. a Year in Land, or 150 l. in Personal Estate, and shall not continue in their Office above a Year; and they are to account yearly at Easter-Sessions, or within ten Days after to their Successors, under Penalties: The County Stock, of which this Officer hath the Keeping, is raised by Rating every Parish yearly; and is disposed of to Charitable Uses, for the Relief of maimed Soldiers and Mariners, Prisoners in the County Gaols, paying the Salaries of Governors of Houses of Correction, and Relieving poor Alms-houses, &c. And the Duty of these Treasurers, with the Manner of raising the Stock, and how it shall be disposed of, is set forth particularly in the Statutes of 43 Eliz. c. 2. 7 Jac. 1. c. 4. 11 & 12 W. 3. c. 18. 5 Ann. c. 32. 6 Geo. cap. 23.

Treasure-trove, (Thesaurus inventus) Is where any Money is found hid in the Earth, but not lying upon the Ground, and no Man knows to whom it belongs; then the Property thereof belongs to the King, or the Lord of the Manor by special Grant or Prescription: But if the Owner may any Ways be known, it doth not belong to the King or Lord of the Liberty, but such Owner: By the Civil Law, Treasure-trove is given to the Finder, according to the Law of Nature; but the Law of England gives it to the King by his Prerogative, or some other claiming under him, &c. Bract. lib. 3. 3 Inst. 132. Kitch. 80. Nothing is said to be Treasure-trove, but Gold and Silver; and it is every Subject's Part as soon as he has found any Treasure in the Earth, to make it known to the Coroners of the County, &c. and Concealing Treasure found is punished by Fine and Imprisonment. Briton, c. 17. S. P. C. 25. Coroners ought to inquire of Treasure-trove, being certified thereof by the King's Bailiffs or others, and of who were the Finders, &c. 4 Ed. 1. And Seizures of Treasure-trove, 'tis said, may be inquired of in the Sheriff's Turn. 2 Hawk. P. C. 67.

Trebuchet, Tribuch, A Tumbrel or Cuckingstool; also a great Engine to cast Stones to batter Walls. 3 Inst. 319.

Treet, (Triticum) Fine Wheat, mentioned in the Statute 51 H. 3.

Tremagium, Tremesium, Tremisium, The Season or Time for sowing Summer-Corn, being about March, the third Month, to which the Word may allude; and Corn sowed in March is by the French called Tremes and Tremois: Tremesium was the Season for Summer-Corn, Barley, Oats, Beans, &c. oppos'd to the Season for Winter-Corn, Wheat and Rye, called Hibernagium, and is thus distinguished in old Charters. Cartular. Glasfou. M.S. 91.

Trenellum, A Word used for Granary, in Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. pag. 470.

Trencheator, (From the Fr. Trancher, to cut) A Carver of Meat at a Table; as in the Patent Rolls Mention is made of a Pension granted by the King to A. B. uni Trencheatorum nostrorum, &c.

Trenchia, A Trench, or Dike newly cut. Peramb. 33 H. 3.

Trental, (Fr. Trentale) An Office for the Dead, that continued thirty Days, or consisting of thirty Masses; from the Ital. Trenta, i. e. Triginta. Stat. 1 Ed. 6. c. 14.

Trespas, (Transgressio) Is any Transgression of the Law under Treason, Felony, or Misdemeanor of either: But it is most commonly used for that Wrong or Damage, which is done by one private Man to another; or to the King in his Forest, &c. In which Signification it is of two Sorts; Trespas general, otherwise term'd Trespas Vi & Armis, and Trespas special, or upon the Case; and there is also Trespas local and transitory, in the former whereof the Place is material, but not in the latter; and Actions of Trespas Quare clausum fregit ought to be local. Broke Trespas. Bract. lib. 4. Trespas supposes a Wrong to be done with Force; and Trespas against the Person of a Man are of several Kinds, viz. By Menacing or Threatning to hurt him; assaulting or setting upon one to beat him; Battery being the actual Beating of another; maiming of a Person so that he loses the Use of his Limbs; by Imprisonment, or restraining him of his lawful Liberty, &c. Trespas against a Man's Property may be committed in divers Cases; as against his Wife, Children, or Servants, or his House and

Goods, &c. and against his Land, by carrying away Deeds and Evidences concerning it, Cutting the Trees, or spoiling the Grass therein, &c. E. N. B. 86, 87. Finch. 198, 201. 2 Roll. Abr. 545. Action of Trespass lies where a Man makes an Entry on the Lands of another, and does Damage: And Trespass Vi & Armis may be brought by him that hath the Possession of Goods, or of a House, or Lands, if he be disturb'd in his Possession; for the Disturbance, besides the private Damage, is also a Breach of the Publick Peace. 1 Inst. 57. 2 Roll. Abr. 572. 2 Lill. Abr. 596. Entry into a House against a Man's Will is Trespass; but a Man may lawfully come into the House of another Person, to demand or pay Money, and if Trespass be brought he may plead it specially. 2 Lill. Abr. Trespass lies generally for Breaking a Man's Close, for chasing Cattle, whereby they die or are injured, Taking away Pales, and Breaking of Fences, or of Doors or Windows of a House, for Driving a Cart and Horses over the Ground of another where there is no Way for it, Fishing in another Person's Pond, and for Breaking the Pond, for Earing the Corn of another with Cattle, and Digging in any Man's Coal-Mines, and carrying away Coals; for Taking away so much of the Plaintiff's Money, Tearing a Bond, &c. 1 Bro. 338. 1 Saund. 220. 2 Cro. 463. Latch. 144. Upon a Recovery of Lands in Action of Trespass and Ejectment, the Plaintiff may afterwards bring an Action of Trespass against the Defendant for the mean Profits of the Land. 2 Lill. Abr. 596. And where a Person has only the Crop and Vesture, or Pasture of the Land, he may maintain Trespass. Moor 456. 2 Lutw. In Trespass for taking Goods, the Plaintiff must alledge a Property in himself; because in such Case there may be two Intendments, one that they were the Defendant's own Goods, and then the Taking is lawful; and the other that they were the Goods of the Plaintiff, when the Taking will be wrongful; but where-ever the Construction is indifferent, it shall always be most strong against the Plaintiff. 2 Lev. 20. Yelv. 36. If the Defendant makes the Place where the Trespass was done material by his Plea, he must shew it with great Certainty; but if it be a Trespass Quare clausum fregit, in B. and the Defendant pleads that the Place where is his Freehold, if Issue be taken thereon, the Defendant may give in Evidence any Close in which he hath a Freehold; though if the Plaintiff had replied and given the Close a Name, the Defendant must have a Freehold in that very Close. 2 Salk. 453. A Plaintiff may make a New Assignment of the Place where, &c. and then the Defendant may vary from his first Justification; as for Instance; In Action of Trespass assign'd to be done generally in D. the Defendant justified the Taking Damage-feasant; and the Plaintiff in his Replication made a new Assignment, upon which the Defendant justified for a Heriot, and it was adjudg'd good. Moor 540. 3 Nelf. Abr. 381. The Defendant in his Plea may put the Plaintiff to the new Assignment; and every new Assignment is a new Declaration, to which the Defendant is to give a new Answer, and he may not traverse it, but must either plead or demur; yet where Trespases are alledged to be done in several Places, and the Defendant pleads to some, and agrees to the Places wherein the Plaintiff alledged the Trespases to be done, there the Plaintiff may answer that Part of the Plea by a Traverse, and shew a new Assignment as to the Rest. Cro. Eliz. 492, 812. One Action of Trespass may be brought for a Trespass committed in Lands which lie in several Towns or Villages, if they are in one and the same County; for else they cannot receive one Trial, as they are local Causes of Action triable in the County where done. 2 Lill. Abr. 595. A Man may have one Action of Trespass for several Trespases: And if divers Actions of Trespass are brought for one and the same Cause, the Defendant may get them joined into one, if brought to vex him; but the Trespases must not be of several Natures, which may not be tried in one Action. M. b. 24 Car. B. R. All Persons accessory to Trespases may be charged as Principals; as where one commands, persuades, or procures another to commit a Trespass, &c. and Trespases continued may be laid with a Continuando diversis diebus & vicibus; but Things must lie in Continuance, and not terminate in themselves, or it will not be good: And where a Trespass is alledg'd with a Continuance, that cannot be continued, the Evidence ought only to be to the first Act. 2 Salk. 638, 369. The best Way to declare for such Trespases which lie in Continuance, is for the Plaintiff to set forth in his Declaration, that the Defendant, between such a Day and such a Day, cut several Trees, &c. and not to lay a Continuando Transgressionem from such a Day to such a Day; and upon such Declaration, the Plaintiff may give in Evidence a Cutting on any Day within those Days. 3 Salk. 360. When a Trespass is done before the Day mentioned in the Declaration, it is good enough; because being once a Trespass, it is always a Trespass. Cro. Eliz. 32. In all Trespases there ought to be a voluntary Act, and also a Damage; and though in Detinue and Trover, where the Thing it self is in Demand, it ought to be particularly named, 'tis not so in Trespass where Damages only are to be recovered: But if Trespass be laid in a Declaration for Taking of Goods, without expressing the Quantity and Quality of them, or the Value, &c. it is bad upon a general Demurrer; though as to the Omission of the Value, it hath been held to be good after Verdict. Latch. 13. Style 170. 2 Lev. 230. Lutw. 1384. Sid. 39. If the Defendant in Trespass Quare clausum fregit, disclaim any Title to the Land, and the Trespass is involuntary or by Negligence, he may be admitted to plead a Disclaimer and Tender of Amends before the Action brought, &c. And if it be found for the Defendant, the Plaintiff shall be barred. 21 Fac. c. 16. Where a Defendant justifies for a Trespass, he must confess it, or it will be ill: And a Defendant shall never be excused in Trespass, unless upon an inevitable Necessity. 3 Nelf. Abr. 379. In a Trespass Quare clausum fregit, where there is only a Force in Law, the Party must be required to go out before Hands may be laid on him; for every Imposition of Hands is an Assault which cannot be justified upon the Account of a Force or Breaking a Close in Law, without Request to be gone; but 'tis otherwise where there is an actual Force. 2 Salk. 644. Trespass for Breaking the Plaintiff's Close, and Beating his Servant; the Plaintiff had a Verdict, but could never get Judgment, because he did not declare per quod Servitium amisit: The Servant himself may have an Action of Trespass for the Beating, though his Master cannot, unless it be so great that he loses his Service, without which it is no Damage to the the Master. 5 Rep. 10. 9 Rep. 111. Action of Trespass may be brought for Taking away a Man's Servant; but not for the Taking away of a Man generally. 5 Mod. 191. Trespass quod cepit & abduxit lies not for the Father for Taking and Carrying away any of his Children, except for Taking of a Son or Daughter who is Heir. Cro. Eliz. 769. A Man committed Adultery with a Woman in Southwark, where they both dwelt, and the Woman went to Ratcliff in Middlesex, from whence the Man brought her to Richmond in Surrey; the Husband brought an Action of Trespass de Uxore Rapta & abducta cum bonis Viri; and it was a Doubt, whether upon this Matter given in Evidence, the Defendant could be found guilty in London, but the Jury found him guilty generally, and gave the Plaintiff 300 l. Damages. Dyer 256. Executors may bring Trespass for Goods taken out of their Possession, or for Goods and Chattels taken in the Life of the Testator; also Administrators shall have it for Goods of Intestates; and an Ordinary may bring Action of Trespass for Goods in his own Possession to administer as Ordinary, &c. If any Person shall maliciously maim, wound, or hurt any Cattle, or destroy any Plantation of Trees, or throw down Inclosures, he shall forfeit treble Damages in Action of Trespass. 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 7. But in Action of Trespass, if the Jury give not 40 s. Damages, the Plaintiff shall have no more Costs than Damages, except the Title come in Question, or something of the Plaintiff's be carried away, &c. Stat. 23 Car. 2. c. 9. The Plaintiff where the Trespass is wilful and malicious, shall recover Damages and full Costs, by 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 11. A Court, which is not a Court of Record, cannot hold Plea of Trespass Vi & Armis. F. N. B. 85. Writs of Trespass lie either to the Sheriff to determine the Matter in the County-Court, or returnable in B. R. or C. B. And the Words Vi & Armis shall be in the returnable Writs, but not in the others: Though in Writs of Trespass upon the Case, those Words must not be inserted, if returnable in B. R. &c. F. N. B. 86, 190. Trespass quare Vi & Armis clausum fregit was brought, wherein the Plaintiff laid Damage to the Value of 20 s. and the Defendant demurred for that Cause, alledging that B. R. could have no Cognizance at Common Law, or by the Statute of Gloucester, to hold Plea in an Action where the Damages are under 40 s. But it was adjudg'd, that Trespass Quare Vi & Armis will lie in this Court, be the Damages what they will. 3 Mod. 275. The Process in Writ of Trespass is an Attachment and Distingas, and upon a Return of a Nihil by the Sheriff, a Capias, Alias, and Pluries shall issue; and then Exigent and Process of Outlawry, &c. New Nat. Br. 193, 203. See Action on the Case, and Traverse.

Trial, (Triatio) Is the Examination of a Cause, Civil or Criminal, before a Judge who has Jurisdiction of it, according to the Laws of the Land: It is the Trial and Examination of the Point in Issue, and of the Question between the Parties, whereupon Judgment may be given. 1 Inst. 124. Finch 36. And there are many Manners or Kinds of Trials; as of Matters of Fact, which shall be tried by a Jury; Matters of Law, that are triable by the Court; and Matters of Record tried by the Records themselves; also some Things shall be tried by the Bishop's Certificate; and some by Inspection, &c. 2 Litt. Abr. 602. In criminal Cases, it is usual to ask the Criminal how he will be tried; which was formerly a very significant Question, though it is not so now, because antiently there were Trials by Battel, by Ordeals, and by Fury; and when the Offender answered the Question, By God and his Country, it shewed that he made choice to be tried by a Fury: But now there is no other Way of Trial of Criminals. Blount's Dict. It is ordained by Magna Charta, that no Person shall be condemn'd on any Accusation without Trial by lawful Judgment of his Peers, or by the Law. 9 Hen. 3. cap. 29. And the most general Rule has been, that every Trial shall be out of that Town, Precinct, &c. within which the Matter of Fact triable is alledged, or the nearest thereunto, for the better Cognizance of the Fact committed; and not to have Things tried in Foreign Counties, where the Jury are Strangers to the Parties, to the Witnesses, and the Point in Issue. 1 Inst. 125. But when an Indictment is found against a Person in the proper County, it may be heard and determined in another County by special Commission, &c. 3 Inst. 27. If a Subject of England be killed in a Foreign Kingdom, by an Englishman, he may be tried by the Constable and Marshal; or by Commissioners in any County. 3 Inst. 48. An Issue being joined in B. R. of a Matter triable in Ireland; this shall be sent into Ireland to be tried, and after Trial be remanded. 1 Danv. Abr. 248. Though if an Issue be thus joined of a Thing in Wales, the Record shall not be sent there to be tried; but it shall be tried in the next County of England adjoining thereto. Ibid. If a foreign Issue which is local should happen, it may be tried where the Action is laid; and for that Purpose the Plaintiff may enter a Suggestion on the Roll, that such a Place in such a County is next adjacent; and it may be tried in B. R. by a Jury from that Place, according to the Laws of that Country, which may be given in Evidence: Adjudged in Action of Debt for Rent, upon a Lease made in London of Lands in Jamaica; and it was held, that where the Lessor declares upon the Privy of Estate, the Action must be brought where the Lands are; but 'tis otherwise when the Action is founded on the the Privy of Contract, the one being local and the other transitory, as in this Case. 2 Salk. 651. In Covenant, the Action was laid in London, and Issue joined upon a Feoffment in Oxfordshire, of Lands in that County, and the Cause was tried in London; after Verdict, it was objected that the Trial ought to have been in Oxfordshire, but resolved that by the Stat. 17 Car. 2. it was well tried in the County where the Action was brought: But though the Words of that Statute are, that it shall be good, if tried by the County where the Action is laid, it hath been adjudged, that must be understood of a Trial by the County where the Matter in Issue doth arise; for otherwise it would destroy the whole Law concerning Trials by Juries. 3 Salk. 364. And by a late Statute, the Venire for the Trial of any Issue in a civil Cause, shall be awarded of the Body of the County where the Issue is. 4 & 5 Ann. On civil Causes grown to Issue, if they are to be tried in London or Middlesex, and the Defendant live not forty Miles from London, eight Days Notice of Trial is to be given; and if the Defendant lives that Distance or further, he must have fourteen Days Notice from the Plaintiff, before he tries his Cause; but eight Days Notice of Trial is good at the Assises, let the Defendant live where he will, except on an old Issue; as where a Cause hath remained four Terms without Prosecution, in which Case a Term's Notice is to be given: Upon due Notice of Trial, the Defendant must generally go to Trial, or Judgment will pass against him by Default; and where the Plaintiff proceeds not to Trial after Notice, and there is no Countermand, the Defendant shall have Costs for Attendance, &c. or the Defendant may give a Rule to try the Cause by Proviso; and on Notice given the Plaintiff bring it to Trial, that he may discharge himself of the Action, and herein he may recover Costs. 2 Lill. Abr. 609, 613. 23 Hen. 8. cap. 15. If a Cause to be tried, be not enter'd in the Judge's Book, two Days before the Time of Trial, a Ne Recipiat may be enter'd, that it be not set down to be tried that Time; but this will not be admitted in Sittings after the Term. Hill. 22 Car. B. R. To proceed to Trial, in the Courts at Westminster, when the Declaration is drawn, and the Appearance of the Defendant made, it must be delivered with an Imparance to the Defendant's Attorney; then it is to be enter'd upon the Prothonotaries Roll and docketted that Term, and the Term following Rule must be given with the Secondary for the Defendant to plead by such a Day, or the Plaintiff to have Judgment: The Defendant having pleaded, a Copy of the Issue is to be made out and delivered the Defendant's Attorney, giving him Notice of Trial; in Order to which, the Venire facias must be had and return'd by the Sheriff, and then is sued out the Habeas Corpora, the Record is made up, and the Parties go to Trial: But if the Defendant neglects to plead, and lets it go by Default, on entering Judgment, a Writ of Enquiry of Damages is to be awarded, returnable the next Term, of the Execution whereof the Defendant's Attorney shall have Notice; which being executed, and the Damages inserted in a Schedule annexed to the Writ return'd by the Sheriff, a Rule is to be given upon it, and Costs are taxed by the Prothonotary; and lastly, it is carried to the Clerk of the Judgments, who on giving him the Number-Roll and Term, when the Judgment was enter'd, he will make out a Writ of Execution, either a Capias ad satisfaciend. or Fieri facias, for the Damages and Costs, &c. Practif. Attorn. Edit. 1. pag. 99. At the Assises, when a Cause comes on to Trial, first a Distringas of the Jury is to be return'd by the Sheriff, and then the Record must be delivered to the Judge's Marshal; and the Record being put into the Hands of the Marshal, Briefs prepared by the Counsel, and all Parties ready, the Marshal delivers the Record to the Judge, and the Crier calls over the Jury: The Jury are sworn, and bid to stand together and hear their Charge; after which, the Counsel on both Sides open the Case, first of the Plaintiff, the Proof lying on his Side, and looking over their Breviates argue the Matter in Contest according to Law, producing Witnesses to prove the Facts alledged; and when the Counsel have done, the Judge sums up the Evidence, and the Clerk of Assise, or his Associate, delivers a Copy of the Jury's Names, and the Issue they are to try, to the Jury; and a Bailiff being sworn to keep them without Meat, Drink, &c. till they are agreed, they depart from the Bar; and when they are all agreed, they return to give in their Verdict: Then the Plaintiff is called, and if he do not appear, a Nonfuit shall be recorded; but if he appears, the Clerk asks the Jury who they find for, and what Costs and Damages, and so enters it on the Back of the Panel, and repeats it to the Jury, which finishes the Trial: And after the Trial is over, the Associate delivers to the Party recovering the Record with the Distringas, and the Names of the Jury annexed, on the Back of which he indorses the Substance of the Verdict, and the Costs given by the Jury; and then upon the Back of the Record is ingrossed the Possea, which is delivered to the Clerk of the Rules, and he makes out a Four-Days Rule for Judgment; and when the Rule is out, if Judgment be not arrested, further Costs are taxed, and the Judgment is fit to be entered: But in Trials at the Assises, the Record and Distringas are usually kept by the Associate till the next Term, when he is to be called upon for the Possea, and you proceed to have it marked, make out a Rule, and sign Judgment; and Judgment being entered, Execution is thereupon awarded, and Writs of Ca. sa. Fieri fac. Elegit, &c. lb. 100, 101. If a Trial be had the last Day of Term, or at the Sittings after the Term, or the Assises, Judgment cannot be given thereon, till the first Day of the next Term. 2 Lill. 610, 616. When a Defendant is not prepared to try his Cause, upon Petition and Affidavit of the Reasons, the Judge will order the Cause to be stay'd till another Day the same Assises; or in London till the next Term, on Payment of Costs: And in Case at a Trial, the Court sees that one of the Parties is surpris'd, through some Casualty, and not by any Fault of his own, they may in their Discretion put off the Trial to another Time, until such Party is better prepared. Ibid. 609. If the Matters contested are of great Value, or the Title in Question is difficult or intricate, on Motion the Judges will order a Trial at Bar, for the better Satisfaction of the Parties; though it is not usual to grant Trials at Bar the same Term moved for, but the next Term after, except special Reasons be given for it: And these Trials are appointed by the Stat. Westm. 2. where the Cause requires Magnam Examinationem; also Officers of the Court, and Barristers at Law, may insist upon upon a Trial at Bar ; after which, a new Trial is not to be granted. 2 Salk. 648, 651, 653. New Trials may be granted in several Cases, viz. where the Defendant had not sufficient Notice given him of the former Trial ; if excessive Damages are given, a Verdict is against Evidence ; there was any Fraud, &c. But a new Trial ought not to be granted for want of Evidence at the former Trial, which the Party might then have produced : And it has been denied, where the Defendant forgot to bring a Settlement at the Trial ; so likewise where very large Damages were given, on the Report and Opinion of the Judge who tried the Cause, that he believed the Jury gave a Verdict according to their Consciences ; and it is a Rule that no new Trial shall be granted for too small Damages ; unless where Action of Covenant is brought for a Sum certain, and the Jury give Damages under the same, &c. The Reason of granting new Trials upon Verdicts against Evidence at the Assises is, because the Trials are subordinate to the Courts ; and 'tis plain that such new Trials have been anciently granted, as 'tis a good Challenge to a Jurymen to say that he hath been a Juror before in the same Cause : Adjudged that a new Trial cannot be granted in an inferior Court. 2 Salk. 647, 648, 649, 650. 3 Nelf. Abr. 414, 417. After a Motion in Arrest of Judgment, the Party shall not move for a new Trial ; but after Motion for a new Trial, he may move in Arrest of Judgment. 2 Salk. 647. A new Trial is never granted in Criminal Cases, where the Defendant is acquitted, if some Fraud or Trick be not proved in the Case. Ibid. But on Conviction, a new Trial may be granted upon Cause ; so if a Trial on Indictment be by a wrong Venue ; and in Cases where Appeal may be brought. 2 Lill. 606, 613. If the Issue tried in any Cause is not joined, it is not a good Trial ; except it be an Issue in Chancery in the Petty Bag Side, which is to be sent from thence to be tried in B. R. Hill. 22 Car. It is a Mis-trial for a Thing to be tried before a Judge, who hath Interest in the Thing in Question ; and if a Cause is tried by a Jury out of a wrong County, or there be any Error in the Process against the Jurors, or it is directed to a wrong Officer, &c. it is a Mis-trial ; likewise where Matter of Record is tried by a Jury, it will be a Mis-trial ; but if the Matter of Record be mix'd with Matter of Fact, Trial by Jury is good. Hob. 124. On a Mis-trial, Judgment may not be given ; but shall be arrested, &c. But a Mis-trial is help'd by the Statute of Jeofails. See Issue, Nisi prius, &c.

Troper,

Troper, (Troperium) Is a Book of alternate Turns or Responses in singing Mass; called Liber sequentiarum, by Lindewode. Hoved. Hist. p. 283.

Trophy Money, Signifies Money yearly raised and collected in the several Counties of England, towards providing Harnes and Maintenance for the Militia, &c. Stat. 15 Car. 2. 1 Geo. See Militia.

Trover, (From the Fr. Trouver, i. e. invenire) Is an Action which a Man hath against one, that having found any of his Goods, refuseth to deliver them upon Demand: Or if another hath in his Possession my Goods, by Delivery to him, or otherwise, and he sells or makes Use of them without my Consent, this is a Conversion for which Trover lies; so if he doth not actually convert them, but doth not deliver them to me on Demand. 2 Lill. Abr. 618. It is called Trover and Conversion, and is a special Action of the Case, brought to recover Damages to the Value of the Goods, &c. In this Action, the Plaintiff surmisseth that he lost such and such Goods, and that the Defendant hath found them, and converted them to his own Use at such a Place; but the Losing is but a mere Suggestion, and not material: For if the Plaintiff delivered the Goods to the Defendant; or if the Defendant take the Goods in his Presence, &c. this Action lies against him, if there be a Conversion; which is the Point of the Action, and therefore must be particularly alledged: If a Man finds Goods, he may take Possession of them, and no Action lies; but he ought not to abuse or use them, for therein lies the Offence: And where a Man finds my Goods, and refuseth to deliver them upon Demand, it is a Conversion in Law; but if he answers that he knows not whether I am the true Owner or not, and therefore denies to deliver them; this is no Conversion if he keeps them for me. 1 Danv. Abr. 21, 22, 23. If in Trover, an actual Conversion cannot be proved, then Proof is to be had of a Demand made, before the Action brought, of the Thing for which the Action is commenced, and that the Thing demanded was not delivered; and in this Case, though an actual Conversion may not be prov'd, a Demand, and Refusing to deliver the Things demanded, is a sufficient Evidence to the Jury that he converted the same, till it appears to the contrary. 10 Rep. 56, 491. 2 Lill. 619. Where a Defendant comes to the Possession by finding, Denial is a Conversion; but if he had the Goods, &c. by Delivery, there Denial is no Conversion, but Evidence of a Conversion: And in both Cases, the Defendant hath a lawful Possession, either by Finding or by Delivery; and where the Possession is lawful, the Plaintiff must shew a Demand and a Refusal, to make a Conversion: Though if the Possession was tortious, as if the Defendant takes away the Plaintiff's Hat, the very Taking is a sufficient Proof of the Conversion, without proving a Demand and Refusal. Sid. 264. 3 Salk. 365. By Holt Chief Justice, the Denial of Goods to him, who hath a Right to demand them, is a Conversion; and after a Demand and Refusal, if the Defendant tender the Goods, and the Plaintiff refuse to receive them, that will go only in Mitigation of Damages; not to the Right of the Action of Trover, for the Plaintiff may have that still. Mod. Caf. 212. 3 Nels. Abr. 424, 425. An Action of Trover and Conversion may be brought for Goods, although the Goods come into the Possession of the Plaintiff before the Action brought; which doth not purge the Wrong, or make Satisfaction for that which was done to the Plaintiff by detaining the Goods: If a Man takes my Horse and rides him, and afterwards delivers him to me, Trover lies against him; for this is a Conversion, and the Redelivery is no Bar to the Action. 1 Danv. Abr. 21. 2 Lill. 618. If Goods are delivered to one, to deliver over to another, and he to whom they were first delivered do afterwards refuse to deliver them over, and converts them to his own Use; he is liable to Action of Trover, not only by him who first delivered them, but also by him to whom they were to be delivered: And a Plaintiff may chuse to have his Action of Trover against the first Finder of Goods; or any other who gets them afterwards by Sale, &c. 1 Bulstr. 68. 1 Leon. 183. If a common Carrier has Goods deliver'd to him to carry to a certain Place, and a Stranger takes them out of his Possession, and converts the Goods to his own Use; Action of Trover and Conversion lies for the Carrier against him. 1 Mod. 31. Trover doth not lie against a common Carrier for Negligence in losing Goods; though it doth for an actual Wrong, if he take the Goods out of a Box, to sell them. 2 Salk. 655. And if Goods are stolen from a Carrier, he may not be charged in Trover and Conversion; but Action upon the Case on the Custom of the Realm, &c. If upon a Fieri facias the Sheriff takes Goods in Execution, and before the Sale of them, a Stranger takes them away out of his Possession, and converts them to his own Use; the Sheriff may have an Action of Trover and Conversion, as he had a lawful Possession, and is answerable for them. 2 Sand. 47. And an Executor may have Trover for the Goods of the Testator; the Law gives him a Property, which draweth the Possession to it, though there be not an actual Possession. Latch. 214. There must be a Right or Property in the Goods, or a lawful Possession, &c. which is to be proved by the Plaintiff in Trover, before the Goods came to the Defendant's Hands: And if a Man finds his Goods lost in the Hands of another, if he bought them in open Fair or Market; this alters the Property, and he cannot recover them. 1 Inst. 498. 1 Danv. 23. The Plaintiff declared on a Conversion of his own Goods; the Defendant justified, for that the Property of the Goods was in A. B. who sold them to him; adjudged this was no good Title to justify the Conversion without a Traverse, unless the Goods had been sold in a Market. 1 Leon. 221. In Trover, the Plaintiff may declare upon a devenerunt ad manus generally; or specially per Inventionem devenerunt: And the Plea on the Defendant's Part is commonly Not guilty, on which the special Matter may be given in Evidence, to prove the Plaintiff hath no Cause of Action; or to intitle the Defendant to the Thing in Controversy: If the Defendant pleads a special Plea, he must confess and avoid, or traverse the Title of the Plaintiff. 2 Bulstr. 313. Wood's Inst. 540. The Defendant in Trover may plead Not guilty, and give in Evidence, that he distrained the Goods, and detained them till he was paid; but he cannot plead specially that he took the Goods by Distress, or that he detained them as a Host till paid for Horses standing, &c. for the Conversion being lawful, none is confess'd; though if he pleads a Matter which confesses a Conversion, and avoids it, it, 'tis good. Yelv. 198. 2 Salk. 654. A Man puts out Cattle to pasture at so much per Week, and then sells them to the Plaintiff, who demands the Cattle, but the Defendant refuses to let them go till paid for; Trover well lies, and the Defendant's Remedy must be by Action for the Money due to him for depasturing the Cows; and he may not detain them for the Money, as in Case of an Innkeeper, or a Taylor, of Things in their Custody. Cro. Car. 27. 2 Lill. 622. In Trover for a Bond, the Plaintiff need not shew the Date; for the Bond being lost or converted, he may not know the Date; and if he should set out the Date, and mistake it, he would fail in his Action. Cro. Car. 262. If the Defendant find the Bond, and receive the Money, Action of Account lieth against the Receiver, and not Trover. Cro. Eliz. 723. The Plaintiff in Action of Trover alledged, that such a Day and Year, he required the Defendant to deliver the Goods, but he refused and converted them to his own Use; though he shewed no Day or Place of the Conversion, as the Day and Place were alledged of the Request and Refusal, it was held sufficient. Cro. Car. 262. But the Place of Conversion must be generally mentioned in Trover, or it will be naught. Cro. Eliz. 78, 97. And yet where the Trover of Goods is in one County, and the Conversion in another County, the Action brought for these Goods may be laid in the County where the Conversion was, or in any other County, as it is only a transitory Action; and neither the Place of Trover, nor Conversion, are traversable. Pasch. 23 Car. B. R. If there be Trover before the Marriage of the Plaintiff, and a Conversion afterwards; the Husband and Wife may join, and it will be good. 2 Lev. 107. Trover lies against Baron and Feme, setting forth that they converted the Goods to the Use of the Husband; for the Feme may be a Trespasser, and convert them to the Husband's Use, or the Use of a Stranger, but not to her own Use; and if the Conversion be laid ad usum of her self and Husband, or ad usum proprium, &c. it will not be good. Cro. Car. 494. Action of Trover, or of Detinue, at the Plaintiff's Election, may be brought for Goods detained; for it is but Justice that the Party should have his Goods detained if they may be had, or else Damages to the Value for the Detaining and Conversion of them. 2 Lill. Abr. 619. And Trespass, or Trover, lies for the same Thing; tho' they cannot be brought in one Declaration: And the Allegation of the Conversion of the Goods in Trespass, is for Aggravation of the Damages, &c. Cro. Jac. 50. Lutw. 1526. Trover lieth not for any Part of a Freehold; but if Doors fix'd are removed and converted, it will lie. Wood's Inst. 540. In Trover, the Defendant may not wage his Law, as he may in Detinue; wherefore it often takes Place of that Action. See Detinue.

Troy-Weight, (Pondus Trojae) A Weight of twelve Ounces to the Pound, having its Name from Troyes, a City in Champaign, whence it first came to be used here.

Truce, (Treuga) A League, or Cessation of Arms; and anciently there were Keepers of Truces appointed, as King Edw. 3. constituted by Commission two Keepers of the Truce between him and the King of Scots, with this Clause, Nos volentes Treugam predictam quantum ad nos pertinet observari, &c. Rot. Scot. 10. Ed. 3. Vide Conservators of the Truce.

Trug-Corn, (Truga frumenti) Is a Measure of Corn; and at Leominster, at this Day the Vicar hath Trug-Corn allowed him for officiating at some Chapels of Ease within that Parish. Liber Niger Heref.

Truncus, A Trunk set in Churches, to receive the Oblations of pious People; of which, in the Times of Popery, there were many at several Altars and Images, like the Boxes which since the Reformation, have been placed near the Doors of Churches for receiving all voluntary Contributions for the Poor: And the customary Free-will Offerings that were drop'd into these Trunks, made up a good Part of the Endowment of Vicars, and thereby oftentimes render'd their Condition better than in later Times. — Vicarius habebit Oblationes quasunque ad Truncos tam in dicta Ecclesia, &c. quam alibi infra Parochiam ipsius Ecclesie factas. Ordin. Vic. Lancast. Anno 1438.

Trussa, A Truss or Bundle of Corn, mentioned among the customary Services done by Tenants. Cartular. S. Edmund. M.S.

Trust, (Ejducia, Confidentia) Is a Confidence which one Man repofes in another; and if a Person in whom a Trust is repofed, breaks or doth not perform the same, the Remedy is by Bill in Chancery, the Common Law generally taking no Notice of Trusts. 2 Lill. Abr. 624. A Trust and a Use were all one at Common Law, till the Stat. 27 H. 8. which distinguished them: The Method of making Conveyances by Way of Trust, was invented to evade the Statute of Uses; and these Conveyances are not so much favoured in Law, as plain and direct Conveyances of Estates. Pasch. 23 Car. B. R. Declarations and Creations of Trusts, of Lands, Tenements or Hereditaments, are to be in Writing, sign'd by the Party empower'd to declare such Trust, &c. 29 Car. 2. In the Explanation of this Statute, it is provided, That this shall not extend to resulting Trusts, or Trusts arising by Implication or Construction of Law; which shall be of like Force as before that Act. 4 & 5 Ann. And there is a Statute by which Infants seised or possessed of Estates in Fee in Trust, may make Conveyances of such Estates, by Order of Chancery. 7 Ann. A Fine and Recovery of Cestuy que Trust shall bar and transfer a Trust, as it should an Estate at Law, if it were upon a Consideration. Chanc. Rep. 49. A Termor grants his Lands in Trust for himself for Life, and to his Wife for Life, and after to his Children for their Lives, and then to A. B. This Trust to A. B. is good; though if it had been to the Heirs of their Bodies, it would be otherwise: And a remote Trust of a Term, which tends to a Perpetuity, has been decreed a void Limitation. Chanc. Rep. 230, 239. If a Husband makes a Lease for Years, in Trust for his Wife, he may sell it, and it will bind her: But when a Trust is created for a Wife bona fide, he cannot sell it, unless she join in a Fine. Ibid. 307, 308. It hath been adjudged, where a Term is settled in Trust for a Jointure on a Wife, or in Pursuance of Marriage-Articles, or if the Term of the Wife be assigned by her before Marriage; the Husband can neither charge or sell it, &c. though if the Assignment is made after Marriage in Trust for the Wife, 'tis then voluntary and fraudulent. Ibid. 225. A Trust to pay Portions, Legacies, &c. out of the Rents and Profits of the Lands, at a Day prefix'd, gives the Trustees Power to sell; if the annual Profits will not do it within that Time, then they may sell, being within the Intention of the Trust; and they cannot sell to raise the Money, except it be to be paid at a certain Time. Ibid. 176. A Trustee for Sale of Lands for Payment of Debts, paying Debts to the Value of the Land, thereby becomes a Purchaser himself. Ibid. 199. Trust of a Fee-simple Estate, or Fee-tail, is forfeited by Treason, but not by Felony; for such Forfeiture is by way of Escheat, and an Escheat cannot be but where there is a Defect of a Tenant; and here is a Tenant. Hard. 495. A Trust for a Term is forfeited to the King in case of Treason, or Felony; and the Trustees in Equity shall be compelled to assign to the King. Cro. Jac. 513. If a Bond be taken in another's Name, or a Lease made to another in Trust for a Person, who is afterwards convicted of Treason or Felony, they are as much liable to be forfeited as a Bond or Lease made to him in his own Name or in Possession. 2 Hawk. 450. Execution may be sued, and Lands held in Trust delivered, where any Person is seised or possessed in Trust for another; by the Stat. of Frauds. 29 Car. 2. cap. 3. there is a Breach of Trust in Servants, going away with their Masters Goods delivered them, &c.

Tun, (Tunellum) A Vessel of Wine and Oil, being four Hogsheads: A Tun of Timber is a Measure of forty solid Feet, cut to a Square. 1 R. 3. c. 12. 12 Car. 2. c. 14.

Tunnage, (Tunnagium) Is a Custom or Impost granted the Crown for Merchandise imported or exported, payable after a certain Rate for every Tun thereof. Stat. 12 Hen. 4. c. 3. 6 Hen. 8. cap. 14. 1 Ed. 6. c. 13. 12 Car. 2. cap. 4. See Customs.

Turbagium, The Liberty of digging Turfs. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. p. 632.

Turbary, (Turbaria, from Turba, an obsolete Latin Word for Turf) Is a Right to dig Turfs on another Man's Ground. Kitch. 94. Also it is taken for the Ground where Turfs are digged: And Turbus hath been used for the Turfs; and Turbarius for the Turfary.

Turking, A Kind of Sky-colour'd Cloth, mentioned in the Stat. 1 R. 2. c. 8.

Turn, Is the King's Leet through all the County; of which the Sheriff is Judge, and this Court is incident to his Office; wherefore it is called the Sheriff's Turn: And it had its Name originally from the Sheriff's taking a Turn or Circuit about his Shire, and holding this Court in several Places; for the Word Turn properly taken, doth not signify the Court of the Sheriff, but his Perambulation. Crompt. Jurisd. 230. 4 Inst. 260. 2 Hawk. P. C. 55. The Turn is a Court of Record; and by the Common Law, every Sheriff ought to make his Turn or Circuit throughout all the Hundreds in his County, in order to hold a Court in every Hundred for the Redressing of common Grievances, and Preservation of the Peace; and this Court might be holden at any Place within the Hundred, and as often as the Sheriff thought fit: But this having been found to give the Sheriff too great Power of oppressing the People, by holding his Court at such Times and Places, at which they could not conveniently attend, and thereby increase the Number of his Amercements; by the Stat. of Magna Charta, c. 35. it was enacted, That no Sheriff shall make his Turn through a Hundred but twice in a Year, viz. once after Easter, and once after the Feast of St. Michael; and at the Place accustomed: Also a subsequent Statute ordain'd, That every Sheriff shall make his Turn yearly, one Time within the Month after Easter, and another Time within the Month after Michaelmas; and if they hold them in any other Manner, they shall lose their Turn for that Time. 37 Ed. 3. cap. 15. Since these Statutes, the Sheriff is indictable for holding this Court at another Time, than what is therein limited, or at an unusual Place: And it hath been held, That an Indictment found at a Sheriff's Turn, appearing to have been holden at another Time, is void. Dalt. Sher. 390, 391. Dyer 151. 38 Hen. 6. At Common Law, the Sheriff might proceed to hear and determine any Offence within his Jurisdiction, being indicted before him, and requiring a Trial, till Sheriffs were restrained from holding Pleas of the Crown, by Magna Charta, c. 17. But that Statute doth not restrain the Sheriff's Turn, from taking Indictments or Presentments, or awarding Process thereon; though the Power of awarding such Process being abused, was taken from all the Sheriffs, (except those of London) by the 1 Ed. 4. cap. 2. and lodg'd in the Justices of Peace at their Sessions, who are to award Process on such Indictments delivered to them by the Sheriffs, as if they had been taken before themselves, &c. 2 Hawk. 57, 70, 71. The Sheriff's Power in this Court is still the same as anciently it was, in all Cases not within the Statutes above-mentioned; he continues a Judge of Record, and may inquire in his Turn of Treasons and Felonies, by the Common Law; as well as the lowest Offences against the King, such as Purprestures, Seisures of Treasure-Trove, of Waifs, Estrays, Goods wreck'd, &c. All common Nuisances, and Annoyances, and other such like Offences; as selling corrupt Victuals, breaking the Assise of Beer and Ale, or keeping false Weights or Measures, are here indictable; also all common Disturbers of the Peace, Barrenors, and common Oppressors; and all dangerous and suspicious Persons, &c. And the Sheriff in his Turn may impose a Fine on all such as are guilty of Contempts in the Face of the Court; and upon a Suitor to the Court making Default, or refusing to be sworn on the Jury; or on a Bailiff not making a Panel; on a Tithing-man neglecting to make his Presentment; or a Person whose Constable refusing to be sworn, &c. and he may amerce for Offences; which Fines and Amercements are leviable and recoverable by Distress, &c. Ibid. 58, 60, 67. But notwithstanding this, it has been observ'd that great Part of the Business of the Turn and Leet, hath for several Years past, through the Negligence of Sheriffs and Stewards, devolv'd on the Quarter-Sessions. Wood's Inst. See County Court and Court-Leet.

Turno Miercomitum, Is a Writ that lieth for those that are called to the Sheriff's Turn out of their own Hundred. Reg. Orig. 173.

Turny, (Fr. Turney) Mentioned in the Stat. 24 H. 8. c. 13. See Tournament.

Tutors, The Statute relating to, 13 & 14 Car. 2. cap. 4.

Waste, Signifies a Wood grubbed up, and converted to arable Land. Co. Lit. 4.

Three Night Cell, (Hospes duarum Noctium) Was a Guest at an Inn a second Night; and if he did any Injury to any Person, he was to answer for it himself; and not his Host, as in case of a Third Night's Awne-binde. Sax. Leg.

Twelve Men, (Duodecim homines legales) Is a Number of twelve Persons or upwards, by whom and whose Oath as to Matter of Fact all Trials pass, both in Civil and Criminal Causes, thro' all Courts of the Common Law in this Realm: They are otherwise called the Fury or Inquest. See Fury.

Twylfthi, (Sax.) Were Men valued at 200 s. according to which a pecuniary Mulct was inflicted on them for Crimes, &c. Leg. Alfred. cap. 12.

Tyrtan, An Accusation, Impeachment, or Charge of any Trespas or Offence. Leg. Ethelred. cap. 2.

Tylwith, (Brit. derived from Tyle, i. e. locus ubi stetit Domus vel locus edificandæ Domui aptus, or from Tylth, Trabs, tignus) Signifies a Place whereon to build a House, or a Beam in the Building: And it is applied to Familia, a Tribe or Family branching forth of another, which in the old English Heraldry is called Second or Third Houses; so that in case the great paternal Stock brancheth it self into several Tylwiths or Houses, they carry no younger House farther; and the Use of these Tylwiths was to shew not only the Originals of Families as to Pedigree, but the several Distinctions and Distances of Birth, that in case any Line should make a Failure, the next in Degree may claim their Interest according to the Rules of Descent, &c.

Vacant, Vacant, Free, that is, at leisure; also void. Litt.

Vacaria, A void Place, or waste Ground: — Dedimus omnia Dominica nostra Vacariis, & Forestis, &c. Mem. in Scacc. Mich. 9. Edw. 1.

Vacation (Vacatio) Is all the Time betwixt the End of one Term and the Beginning of another; and it begins the last Day of every Term as soon as the Court rises. The Time from the Death of a Bishop, or other Spiritual Person, till the Bishoprick or Dignity is supplied with another, is also called Vacation. Stat. Westm. 1. cap. 21. 14 Edw. 3. cap. 4.

Vacatura, An Avoidance of an Ecclesiastical Benefice; as prima Vacatura, the first Voidance, &c.

Vaccary, (Vaccaria) Is a House or Place to keep Cows in; a Dairy-House, or Cow-Pasture. Fleta. lib. 2.

Vaccarius, The Cow-herd, who looks after the common Herd of Cows.

Vadium, Is to take Security, Bail, or Pledges for the Appearance of a Defendant in a Court of Justice. — Præcipimus tibi quod ponas Vadium & salvos Plegios Johannem de B. &c. Reg. Orig.

Vadium Mortuum, A Mortgage or Pawn of Lands so engaged to the Creditor, that he hath a Right to the mean Profits for the Use of his Debt. Glanvil. lib. 10. cap. 8.

Vagabond, (Vagabundus) One that wanders about, and has no certain Dwelling; an idle Fellow: And Rogues, Vagabonds, and sturdy Beggars, are mentioned in divers Statutes. See Vagrant.

Vagrants, (Vagantes) Are described by Statute to be such as pretend to be Patent-gatherers, or Collectors for Prisons, and wander abroad for that Purpose; all Fencers, Bear-wards, common Players of Interludes, Minstrels, Juglers; Persons pretending to be Gypsies, or wandering in the Habit or Form of counterfeit Egyptians, or that pretend Skill in Physiognomy, Palmestry, or like crafty Science, or to tell Fortunes; such Persons as use any subtil Craft, unlawful Games or Plays; or being able in Body, that run away and leave their Wives or Children to the Parish; those who not having wherewith otherwise to maintain themselves, use Loitering, and refuse to work for the usual Wages; and all other idle Persons wandering abroad, and begging, &c. Stat. 12 Ann. cap. 23. And if any such Vagrants shall be found in any Parish (for whom Searches are to be made) the Constable, &c. is to apprehend them, and carry them before a Justice of Peace, who shall examine them on Oath as to their Condition, Place of Abode, &c. and send them by Pass, directed to the Constable, to their last legal Settlement; or if that cannot be found, to the Place of Birth; and in Case that may not be known, to the Parish where last found Begging, &c. and passed unapprehended: And Vagrants refusing to be examined, shall be deemed incorrigible Rogues, and be punished accordingly. The Justice is to give the Constable a Certificate, ascertaining how the Vagrants shall be conveyed, and in what Time, and what Allowance he shall have; and if the Place whither the Vagrants are sent be out of the County, then the Constable is to deliver them with the Pass to the Constable of the first Town of the County named in the Pass, taking his Receipt for such Delivery; and the next Constable is to cause the Vagrants to be whipp'd, and convey them forward by a new Order and Certificate from a Justice of the proper County; and so from one County to another, until brought to the Place whither ordered to be sent: And the Parish to which conveyed, shall employ them in Work, till they betake themselves to Service, &c. Justices at their Quarter-Sessions are to appoint Rates for passing of Vagrants at so much a Mile; and cause such Sums of Money to be rais'd for that Purpose as shall be necessary, to be quarterly paid to the chief Constables, who are to pay the petty Constables what shall be allowed on the Justice's Certificate for passing of Vagrants, &c. Those Vagrants as have begg'd for two Years, may be transported to the Plantations for seven Years: And Vagrants brought from Ireland, or the Plantations, are to be apprehended by Constables where found wandering and begging, and be whipp'd, and reconvey'd, &c. at so much per Head as the Justices in Sessions shall appoint; and Masters of Ships importing such Vagrants, or refusing to transport them them on a Justice's Warrant, or Order, shall forfeit 5*l.* Constables failing of their Duty in apprehending Vagrants, or any Persons hindering the Execution of this Act, incur a Forfeiture of 20*s.* to be levied by Distress, &c. This Statute reduces all the Laws relating to Vagrants, Vagabonds, &c. into one Act of Parliament.

Valer, Malet, or Maletet, (Valetus vel Valecta) Was anciently a Name specially denoting young Gentlemen, though of great Discent or Quality, but afterwards attributed to those of lower Rank, and now a Servitor, or Gentleman of the Chamber. Cambd. Selden's Tit. Hon. Eraft. lib. 3. In the Accounts of the Inner-Temple, it is used for a Benchers Clerk, or Servant; and the Butlers of the House corruptly call them Varlets.

Valentia, The Value or Price of any Thing. See Value.

Vallethria, Signifies the Kindred of the Slain, one on the Father's side, and another on the side of the Mother, to prove that a Man was a Welshman: It is mentioned in Stat. Wallie 12 Ed. 1. cap. 4.

Value, (Valentia, Valor) Is a known Word; and the Value of those Things wherein Offences are committed, is usually comprised in Indictments, which seems necessary in Theft to make a Difference from Petit Larceny, and in Trespass to aggravate the Fault, &c. But in other Cases a Distinction has been made between Value and Price. If a Plaintiff Declares in an Action of Trespass for the Taking away of live Cattle, or one particular Thing, he ought to say that the Defendant took them away Pretii so much; if the Declaration be for taking of Things without Life, it must be alledg'd ad valentiam, &c. so that live Cattle are to be prized at such a Price, as the Owner of them did esteem them to be worth; and dead Things to be reckon'd at the Value of the Market. Of Coin not current it shall be Pretii; but of Coin current it shall be neither said Pretii nor ad valentiam, for the Value and Price thereof is certain; tho' the Difference between Pretii and ad valentiam may proceed from the Rule in the Register of Writs, which shews it to be according to the ancient Forms used in the Law. West. Symb. part 2. 2 Lill. Abr. 629. A Jewel 'tis said is not valuable in Law, but only according to the Valuation of the Owner of it, and is very uncertain: But there seems to be a certain Value for Diamonds among the Merchant Jewelers, according to their Weight and Lustre, &c. Hill. 21 Car. B. R. 2 Lill. Abr. 628. A Man cannot say that another owes him so much, when the Value of the Thing owing is uncertain; for which Reason Actions in these Cases are always brought in the Detinet, and the Declaration ad valentiam, &c. 1 Lutw. 484.

Value of Land, May be intended such as it was anciently, and not adjudg'd according to its improv'd Value. 2 Leon 117. Lutw. 1304. See Purchase.

Value of Marriage, (Valore Maritagii) Was a Writ that lay for the Lord, having proffered Marriage to an Infant without Disparagement, if the Man refus'd to take the Lord's Offer, to recover the Value of the Marriage. Reg. Orig. 164. See the Statute 12 Car. 3. cap. 24.

Variance, (Variantia, from the Fr. Varier, i. e. Alterare) Signifies any Alteration of a Thing formerly laid in a Plea, or where the Declaration in a Cause differs from the Writ, or from the Deed upon which it is grounded, &c. 2 Lill. Abr. 629. If there is a Variane between the Declaration and the Writ, it is Error; and the Writ shall abate. And if there appear to be a material Variance between the Matter pleaded and the Manner of the Pleading it, this is not a good Plea; for the Manner and Matter of Pleading ought to agree in Substance; or there will be no Certainty in it. Cro. Jac. 479. 2 Lill. 629. But when the Pleading is good in Substance, a small Variance shall not hurt. 3 Mod. 227. Where the Original Writ varies from the Declaration, 'tis not remedied by any Statute of Feoffails. 5 Rep. 37. There was a Variance between the Writ and Declaration, in Action of the Case, the one being for more than the other, and tho' the Plaintiff had a Verdict, he could not get Judgment: It was held, that it was not help'd by the Stat. 18 Eliz. for that Statute helps when there is no Writ, not where there is one that varies in Substance from the Declaration. 2 Cro. 829. In Ejectment, the Original was Teste 24 Jan. And the Ejectment suppos'd to be 31 Jan. in the same Year; the Plaintiff had a Verdict, and this was assign'd for Error, viz. That the Original was taken out before there was any Cause of Action, and being certified to be between the same Parties, and of the same Land, in the same Term, it was adjudg'd ill, and not to warrant the Declaration; and thereupon the Judgment was reversed. Cro. Car. 98, 205. Tho' a Verdict in Ejectment was for a Messuage next the Messuage of A. B. and the Judgment for a Messuage next another Messuage in the Occupation of A. B. This is no material Variance, but is amendable by the Statute 16 & 17 Car. 2. cap. 8. Which Enacts, That all Omissions, Variances, &c. not being against the Right of the Matter of the Suit, shall be amended. Raym. 398. 3 Salk. 368. The Original Writ in C. B. concluded *ad dampnum 40*l. and the Declaration was *ad dampnum 100*l. The Jury gave 12*l.* Damages; and on a Writ of Error brought this Variance was assign'd; it was held that this had been a good Objection in the Original Action on a Demurrer to the Declaration; but it is not so after Verdict, not being Matter in Point of Judgment, especially as the Jury found only 12*l.* Damages; but if the Verdict had found more Damages than what was mentioned in the Writ, tho' less than what was set forth in the Declaration, it had been ill, because there was no Writ to warrant such Damages. 2 Cro. 629. 1 Bulst. 49. If a Defendant pleads a Variane between the Writ and Declaration, he is to crave Oyer of the Writ before he shall have any Advantage of the Variance, because the Writ and Declaration are not upon the same Roll; and therefore if the Defendant plead to it without demanding Oyer, on Demurrer Judgment may be for him to answer over, &c. 2 Salk. 658. If in the Imparlance Roll the Declaration is in Debt, and in the Plea Roll 'tis in Trespass; this is such a Variane that if the Plaintiff hath Judgment it shall be reversed. 3 Bulst. 229. When a Contract is intire, intire, an Action of Debt cannot be brought for Part of the Money, without shewing how the other is satisfied; if it be, this Variance from the true Debt will make it ill. 3 Nelf. Abr. 440. In Writ of Error in the Exchequer Chamber to remove a Record out of B. R. of a certain Trespass the Husband and Wife had done, the Record certified was of a Trespass done by the Woman alone, and for this Variance the Writ was abated, and the Record not removed. Sid. 269. 3 Salk. 369. Variance in the Number of Acres or Persons, between a Fine and an Indenture to lead the Uses; if the Party avers, there was not any other Consideration, or new Agreement, but that the Fine was levied according to the Uses and Intents mentioned in the Indenture, it is good. 5 Rep. 25. Variance in Names, &c. how supplied by Averment, that a Man is the same Person, and Inquest of Office, &c. see Averment and Pardon. Vassal, (Vassallus) A Tenant or Feudatary; also a Slave or Servant: Vassallus is quasi Bassallus, i. e. inferior Servus, as the Vassal is inferior to his Master, and must serve him; and yet he is in a Manner his Companion, because each of them is obliged to the other. Skene.

Velum quadragesimale, A Veil or Piece of Hangings, drawn before the Altar in Lent, as a Token of Mourning and Sorrow. — Item ad quodlibet Altare, &c. Velum quadragesimale, Velum Nuptiale, Palla Mortuorum, &c. Synod. Exon. Anno 1217.

Venaria, Are those Beasts which are caught in the Woods by hunting. Leg. Canut. c. 108.

Venatio, In the Statute of Charta de Foresta signifies Venison, in Fr. Venaison: It is called Venaison, of the Means whereby the Beasts are taken, quoniam ex Venatione capiuntur, and being hunted are most wholesome: And they are termed Beasts of Venery, (not Venery) because they are gotten in Hunting. 4 Inst. 316.

Venditioni exponas, Is a judicial Writ, directed to the Sheriff, commanding him to sell Goods which he hath formerly taken into his Hands, for the Satisfying a Judgment given in the King's Court. Reg. Judic. 33. Stat. 14 Car. 2. cap. 21. If a Superfedeas be not delivered to the Sheriff till he hath in part executed a Writ of Execution, he may afterwards be authorized to go through with it by a Venditioni exponas; as he may also in the like Case after a Writ of Error. Dyer 98. Cro. Eliz. 397. 1 Roll. Abr. 864.

Venditor Begis, The King's Salesman; being the Person who exposed to Sale Goods and Chattels seized or distrained to answer any Debt due to the King: This Office was granted by King Ed. 1. to Philip de Lardimer, in the County of York, Ita quod ipse vel certus suus Attornatus ibit ad Mandatum Vicecomitis de loco in locum infra Com. pred. sumptibus suis ad Venditiones faciendas, & capiat de unaquaque Venditione pro Feodo suo xxxii. den. But the Office was seized into the King's Hands for the Abuse thereof. Anno 2 Ed. 2.

Venia, Is used for a Kneeling or low Prostration on the Ground, by Penitents. Walsingh. 196.

Venire facias, A Writ judicial awarded to the Sheriff to cause a Jury of the Neighbourhood to appear, when a Cause is brought to Issue, to try the same; and if the Jury come not at the Day of this Writ, then there shall go a Habeas Corpora, and after a Distress until they appear. Old Nat. Br. 157. But where a Venire omits Part of the Issue to be tried, or any of the Parties; if a Juror is named in the Habeas Corpora, by a Name different from that in the Venire; or a Juror return'd on such a Panel is omitted in the Habeas Corpora; or a Venire or Distringas are issued without any Award on the Roll to warrant them; it will be ill, and is said to be a Discontinuance. 2 Hawk. P. C. 298, 299. A Venire facias ought to be de aliquo Vicineto; and a Venire de Vicineto Civitatis, is good without naming of the Parish within the City out of which the Jurors are summoned. 2 Lill. 633, 636. Though it hath been held, that the Venire facias may be of a Town, Parish, Manor, or any Place known, called a Lieu Conus; but not of a City, or County. Cro. Eliz. 260. And yet where a Venue cannot come from a Vill, Hamlet, &c. there it might be de Corpore Comitatus, to prevent Failure of Justice, before the Statute 4 & 5 Ann. By which Act, a Venire facias may be from the Body of the County, &c. In an Information against a County for not repairing a Bridge, it was held, that the Attorney General might take a Venire to any adjacent County; and that it might be Corpore of the Whole, or de Vicineto of some particular Place therein next adjoining. Trin. 3 Ann. 3 Salk. 381. The Plaintiff in Assumpsit declared upon a Promise made at Maidstone in Kent; and upon Non Assumpsit pleaded, the Venire facias was de Vicineto Villa & Parochiae de Maidstone, and a Trial was had: But it was resolv'd to be an insufficient Trial, because the Venire ought not to be of a larger Precinct, than the Plaintiff himself had alledged in his Declaration. Tetu. 104. And it will be Error if the Venire be short; as a Defendant in Trespass prescribed for a Footway leading from Hinton so far as the Footway of Horn-Castle, &c. Issue was taken upon this Prescription, and the Venire facias awarded de Vicineto de Hinton only, when it should have been of Hinton and Horn Castle; and the Judgment was reversed. Moor 257, 412. So if in Ejectment Lands are laid in A. B. and C. and try'd for the Plaintiff by a Visse out of A. only; this is insufficient. 5 Rep. 36. Tho' in Action of Trespass, &c. for rescuing a Distress for Rent, setting ting forth that the Plaintiff made a Lease of Lands to the Defendant lying in three several Places; the Plaintiff having a Verdict, it was moved in Arrest of Judgment that the Trial was insufficient, because the Venire was from one Place, when it ought to be from all three Places where the Lands lie; but adjudged, that this Action being brought against a wrong Doer, and not upon the Lease it self, the Venue may be laid in that very Place where the Wrong was done. Lutw. 213. One Venire facias is sufficient to try several Issues, between the same Parties, and in the same County. 2 Cro. 550. And where an Action was brought against two, they both joined Issue, and one died; and after the Venire facias was awarded to try the Issue between both, which was done; and held to be no Error, though it issued against a dead Person, because one of the Defendants was living. Cro. Car. 308. 3 Nels. Abr. 444. If a Venire facias is return'd by the Coroner, on Objection to the Sheriff, &c. when it ought to be return'd by the Sheriff, the Trial is wrong, and not remedied by any Statute of Jeofails. 5 Rep. 36. In all Cases, where there is to be a special Jury, the Venire must be special: If the Matter to be tried be within divers Places, in one and the same County, the Venire facias shall be general; and if in several Counties, it shall be special. 2 Lill. Abr. 635. If a Matter of Law be depending undetermined, and an Issue also joined in the Cause, there is to be a special Venire awarded, tam ad Triandum Exitum, quam ad Inquirendum de Dampnis, &c. as well to try the Issue, as to find the Damages both upon the Issue and the Matter put in Judgment of the Court. Ibid. 636. The Plaintiff's Attorney ought to give a Copy of the Jury return'd upon a Venire facias to the Defendant's Attorney, before the Trial; and it is to be filed. Paf. b. 24 Car. B. R. At a Trial at Nisi prius, the Plaintiff changed the Venire facias, and Panels, and had a Jury the Defendant knew not of; and ruled, that the Defendant cannot be aided, if the first Venue was not filed: And a Difference was taken when the first Venire was not filed, that he cannot be aided, because he may resort to the Sheriff, and have a View of the Panel, to be prepared for his Challenges; but if the first Venire was filed, then the Defendant shall have a new Trial. Raym. 79. A Venire facias after filed, cannot be altered, without Consent of Parties: Tho' where a Verdict is imperfect, so that Judgment cannot be given upon it, there shall be a new Venire facias to try the Cause, and find a new Verdict. 2 Lill. 634, 635. And if a Plaintiff be nonsuit on a Mistake in the Nisi prius, and the Paper-Book and Roll are right, the Nonsuit may be set aside, and a Venire facias de novo awarded, and the Issue tried, &c. Cro. Jac. 669. A Venire facias may be amended by the Issue Roll, when that is right, in some Cases. 3 Nels. 446.

Venire facias, Is also the common Process upon any Presentment, being in Nature of a Summons for the Party to appear; and is a proper Process to be first awarded on an Indictment for any Crime, under the Degree of Treason, Felony, or Maim, except in such Cases wherein other Process is directed by Statute: And if it appear by the Return to such Venire, that the Party has Lands in the County whereby he may be distrained, the Distress infinite shall be awarded till he do appear; and he shall forfeit on every Default, so much as the Sheriff returns upon him in Issues: But if a Nihil be return'd, a Capias, Alias, and Pluries, shall issue, &c. 2 Hawk. 283. The Venire facias ad Respondendum may be without a Day certain, because by an Appearance the Fault in this Process is cured; but a Venire facias ad triand. exitum must be returnable on a Day certain, &c. 3 Salk. 371.

Venire facias tot Patronat. Is mentioned in Lambard's Eiren. lib. 4. See Ventre inspiciendo.

Venitane, Is the Book of Ecclesiasticus, so called, because of the Venite Exultemus Domino, Jubilate Deo, &c. It often occurs in the History of our English Synods; and is called Venitarium. Mon. Angl. Tom. 3. p. 332.

Venter, Signifies the Belly, or the Child that a Woman goes with; and in Law there is a first and second Venter, &c. of Children by several Wives; and how they shall take in Descents of Lands, vide Fee-simple.

Ventre inspiciendo, Is a Writ to search a Woman that saith she is with Child, and thereby withholdeth Lands from the next Heir: The Trial whereof is by a Jury of Women. Reg. Orig. 227. The Law hath provided this Writ for the Benefit of right Heirs, contra Partus suppositiofas; and it is sued out of Chancery, and returnable in the Common Pleas, &c. And if a Man having Lands in Fee-simple, or Fee-tail, dieth, and his Wife soon after marries again, and feigns her self with Child by her former Husband; in this Case, tho' she be married, the Writ de Ventre inspiciendo doth lie for the Heir against her. 2 Lill. Abr. 631. Thomas de Aldham of Surry, Brother of Adam de Aldham, Anno 4 Hen. 3. claimed his Brother's Estate; but Joan Widow of the said Adam pleaded she was with Child, whereupon the said Thomas obtained the Writ Ventre inspiciendo directed to the Sheriff. — Quod assumptis te um discretis & legalibus militibus & discretis & legalibus mulieribus de Comitatu tuo in propria Persona accetas ad ipsam Joannam, & ipsam a predictis mulieribus coram prefatis militibus videri facias, & diligenter tractari per ubera & per Ventrem, & Inquisitionem factam Certificari facias sub sigillo tuo & sigillo duorum militum Justiciarius nostris apud Westm. &c. And in Easter Term 29 Eliz. this Writ was sued out of the Chancery into C. B. at the Prosecution of Perival Willoughby, who had married the Eldest of the five Daughters of Sir Francis Willoughby, who died without any Son, but left a Wife named Dorothy, that at the Time of his Death pretended her self to be with Child by Sir Francis, which if it were a Son, all the five Sisters would thereby lose the Inheritance descended unto them; which Writ was directed to the Sheriffs of London, and they were commanded to cause the said Dorothy to be viewed by 12 Knights, and searched by 12 Women, in the Presence of the 12 Knights, Et ad tractandum per ubera & ad ventrem inspiciendum, whether she were with Child, and to certify the same to the Court of Common Pleas; and if she were with Child, to certify for how long, in their Judgments, Et quando sit paritura; upon which the Sheriffs accordingly caused her to be searched, and returned that she was twenty Weeks gone with Child, and that within twenty Weeks more, suit paritura: Thereupon another Writ issued out of C. B. requiring the Sheriffs safely to keep her in such a House, and that the Doors should be well guarded; and that every Day they should cause her to be viewed by some of the Women named in the Writ, and when she should be delivered, that some of them them should be with her to view her Birth, whether it be Male or Female, to the Intent that there should be no Falſity: And upon this Writ the Sheriffs return'd, That they had cauſed her accordingly to be kept and view'd, and that ſuch a Day ſhe was delivered of a Daughter. Cro. Eliz. 566. In the 22d Year of K. James 1. the Widow of one Duncomb married within a Week after the Death of her firſt Husband, and his Couſin and Heir brought the Writ Ventre Inſpiciendo directed to the Sheriff of L. who return'd that he had cauſed her to be ſearched by ſuch Matrons who found her with Child, Et quod paritura ſuit within ſuch a Time; and thereon it was pray'd that the Sheriff might take her into his Cuſtody, and keep her till ſhe was delivered, but becauſe ſhe ought to live with her Husband, they would not take her from him; but he was ordered to enter into a Recognizance not to remove her from his Dwelling-houſe, and a Writ was awarded to the Sheriff to cauſe her to be inſpected every Day, by Two of the Women which he had return'd had ſearched her, and that Three of them ſhould be preſent at her Delivery, &c. Cro. Jac. 685. Theſe two Caſes are notable Precedents of the Form of Proſecuting theſe Writs: And where Women condemn'd for Crimes, who plead their Bellies, pretending to be with Child, are to be viewed and try'd by a Jury of Matrons, ſee Reprivee.

Venue, (Vicinetum, or Viſnetum) Is taken for a neighbouring Place, Locus quem Vicini habitant: It is the Place from whence a Jury are to come for Trial of Cauſes. F. N. B. 115. In Actions of Treſpaſs and Ejeſtment, the Venue is to be from the Vill or Hamlet, where the Lands in Queſtion do lie: And in all Real Actions, the Venue muſt be laid in that County where the Thing is for which the Action is brought. 2 Lill. Abr. 634, 635. But the Judges may, in all tranſitory Actions, alter the Venue from the Place where by the Law it otherwiſe ſhould be, if they believe through any juſt Cauſe there cannot be an indifferent Trial in the County the Venue was firſt laid in; though if a Defendant will move to change the Venue, he muſt make Affidavit that the Cauſe of Action (if any be) did ariſe in the County where he would have the Venue to be, or elſewhere, and not in the County where the Plaintiff hath laid his Action. And if upon a Motion the Court orders the Venue to be altered, the Plaintiff is to alter his Declaration, and lay his Action in the other County, &c. Mich. 22 Car. B. R. Motion to change a Venue muſt be within eight Days after the Declaration delivered; but this Rule is not ſtrictly obſerv'd: It is never granted after the Rules for Pleading are out; and 'tis a Rule not to change a Venue, where neceſſary Evidence ariſes in two Counties to ſupport the Action, if the Plaintiff will be bound to give ſome material Evidence in the County where he laid his Action. 2 Salk. 668, 669. If the Defendant is a Barrifter or Attorney, on Motion the Venue ſhall be changed into Middleſex; and where an Attorney is Plaintiff, and lays his Action in Middleſex, there the Venue ſhall continue. Ibid. The Want of a Venue is only curable by ſuch a Plea which admits the Faſt, for the Trial whereof it was required to lay a Venue. 3 Salk. 381. Vide Venire facias.

Verderer, (Viridarius, from the Fr. Verdeur, i. e. Cuſtos Nemoris) Is an Officer of the King's Foreſt, whoſe Office is properly to look to the Vert, and ſee it well maintained; and he is ſworn to keep the Affiſes of the Foreſt, and view, receive, and inrol the Attachments and Preſentments of Treſpaſſes of Vert and Veniſon, &c. Manwood, par. 1. pag. 332.

Verdict, (Verdictum, quasi dictum Veritatis) Is the Answer of a Jury given to the Court, concerning the Matter of Faſt in any Cauſe committed to their Trial; wherein every one of the Twelve Jurors muſt agree, or it cannot be a Verdict: And the Jurors are to try the Faſt, and the Judges to adjuſt according to the Law that ariſeth upon it. 1 Inſt. 226. Verdicts are either General, or Special: A General Verdict is that which is brought into the Court in like general Terms to the General Iſſue; as if a Defendant pleads Not guilty, or no Wrong, then the Iſſue is general, whether he be guilty, or the Faſt be a Wrong, or not; which being committed to the Jury, they, upon Conſideration of the Evidence, ſay for the Plaintiff, that the Defendant is guilty of a Wrong, or for the Defendant, that it is no Wrong, &c. A Special Verdict is where they find the Matter at large, according to the Evidence given, that ſuch a Thing is done by the Defendant; and declaring the Courſe of the Faſt, as in their Opinions it is proved, pray the Judgment of the Court as to what the Law is in ſuch a Caſe. S. P. C. 1 Inſt. 227. And a Faſt may be found ſpecially, viz. Where a Perſon is indiſted of Murder; the Jury may bring him in guilty of Manſlaughter, &c. or they may leave the Matter to the Judges, in which Caſes ſometimes it is reſerr'd to the Lord Chief Juſtice of B. R. and all the Judges to determine it; wherein 'tis ſaid a Recorder of London who tried a Priſoner hath given his Opinion, and the King himſelf, to whom the Matter was reported. 3 Lev. 255. 2 Nelf. Abr. 97. There are likewiſe Publick and Privy Verdicts: Publick, when given in open Court; and Privy, which is given out of the Court, before any of the Judges thereof, and is called Privy, being to be kept ſecret from the Parties till affirm'd in Court. 1 Inſt. 227. But a Privy Verdict is in Strictneſs no Verdict; for it is only a Favour which is allowed by the Court to the Jury for their Eaſe: The Jury may vary from it, and when come into Court give a contrary Verdict; but this muſt be before the Privy Verdict is recorded. 5 Mod. 351. 1 Inſt. No Privy Verdict can be given in criminal Matters, which concern Life, as Felony, &c. but it muſt be openly in Court; becauſe the Jury are commanded to look upon the Priſoner, when they give their Verdict, and ſo the Priſoner is to be there preſent: But in criminal Cauſes, where the Defendant is not to be perſonally preſent at the Time of the Verdict, and in Informations, a Privy Verdict may be given. Raym. 193. 1 Vent. 97. A Special Verdict may be given in criminal, or civil Caſes; and where the Court directs the Jury to find a Special Verdict in a civil Cauſe, one of the Counſel on each Side agree upon Notes for it, and draw them up and ſet their Hands to them; and then they are to be delivered to the Jury in convenient Time, or the Court will take a General Verdict: If at the Prayer of the Plaintiff or Defendant, a Special Verdict is ordered to be found, the Party praying it is to proſecute the Special Verdict, that the Matter in Law may be determined; and if either Party delay to join in drawing it up, and pay his Part of the Charges, or if the Counſel for the Defendant reſuſes to ſubſcribe:

subscribe the Special Verdict, the Party desiring it shall draw it up and enter it Ex parte. 2 Lill. Abr. 645, 653. Where the Parties disagree, or the Special Verdict is drawn contrary to the Notes agreed upon, the Court on Motion will rectify it; and the Court may amend a Special Verdict, to bring the Special Matter in Question: Though if a Matter of Fact be left out in the Notes of the Special Verdict drawn by Counsel, this cannot be amended afterwards. Ibid. 646. The Plaintiff and Defendant are both of them to appear in Court to hear a Special Verdict, and the Jury is to be called and to have the Special Verdict read unto them by the Secondary; and upon the Reading of it, if there be any Mistake in the Drawing it up, the Counsel on either Side may except against it; and when the Counsel is agreed, then the Secondary demands of the Jury, whether they agree to find it so; and if they answer they do, the Verdict is found: And it is to be afterwards entered, &c. Pasch. 23 Car. B. R. 2 Lill. 646. A Special Verdict, though agreed to by the Counsel, &c. is not a Special Verdict 'till allow'd by the Court. Ibid. In all Cases and all Actions, the Jury may give a General or Special Verdict; and the Court is bound to receive it, if pertinent to the Point in Issue, and if the Jury doubt they may refer themselves to the Court, but are not bound so to do. 3 Salk. 373. Though the Plaintiff and Defendant in a Cause consent to have the Jury find a Special Verdict, yet they may find a General Verdict; but this is not usual: And if the Jury will take upon them to find, against the Directions of the Court, any Thing in Matter of Law, the Court will receive the Verdict; but if they give a false Verdict, they are liable to Attaint. Pasch. 23 Car. The ancient Course of laying a Fine on Jurors, barely for giving a Verdict contrary to the Directions of the Court, is condemn'd as illegal and disus'd: And it is the same if the Verdict be given against Evidence; for the Jury may give it against Evidence, if they know the Fact themselves. Kel. 50, 58. If Jurors eat or drink any Thing at the Charge of him for whom they give their Verdict, before they are agreed; or if by Casting of Lots, they find for the Plaintiff or Defendant; if any Writing, Letter, &c. be delivered by the Plaintiff, or any in his Behalf to the Jury, concerning the Matter in Issue, after the Jury are gone from the Bar, and the Verdict is found for the Plaintiff; or if either of the Parties, their Attornies or Solicitors, speak any Thing to the Jury before agreed on their Verdict, which relates to the Cause; as that 'tis a clear Cause, or I hope you will find for such a Person; or if any Witness be sent for by the Jury, after gone from the Bar, and he repeats his Evidence again, &c. In these Cases the Verdict shall be void and set aside: But tho' where the Jury eat and drink at the Charge of the Plaintiff, and the Verdict being found for him, it is void; it is not so if given for the Defendant: And if the Plaintiff, after the Jury are gone from the Bar, deliver any Writing to any of the Jurors, although the Verdict shall be void if given for the Plaintiff; it is otherwise if given for the Defendant, and sic e converso, &c. Also if the Jury have eat or drank after they went from the Bar, and before they gave their Verdict, this ought to be shewed before the Verdict is given. 1 Inst. 227. 1 Ventr. 125. 2 Lev. 140. Moor. 17. 3 Nell. Abr. 454. A Jury-man withdrawing from his Fellows, or keeping them from giving their Verdict, without giving good Reason for it, shall be fined; but if he differ from them in Judgment, he shall not: And although Jury-men are punishable for Misdemeanors, every Misdemeanor of the Jury before they give their Verdict, is not a sufficient Cause to make void the Verdict. Dyer 53. 2 Lill. Abr. 647. If one of a Jury that found a Verdict, were outlawed at the Time of the Verdict, it is not good: And where a Verdict is given by thirteen Jurors, it is said to be a void Verdict; because no Attaint will lie. 2 Lill. 644, 650. In capital Cases, a Verdict must be actually given; and if the Jury don't all agree upon it, they may be carried in Carts after the Judges, round the Circuit 'till they agree; and in such Case they may give their Verdict in another County. 1 Inst. 227, 281. 1 Ventr. 97. The Court may set aside a Verdict that convicts a Man contrary to Evidence in a criminal Cause; but they cannot set aside a Verdict which acquits him. Wood's Inst. 648. If the Jury acquit a Person of an Indictment of Felony against Evidence, the Court, before the Verdict is recorded, may order them to go out again and re-consider the Matter; but this hath been thought hard, and of late Years is not so frequently practis'd as formerly: There are Instances where Defendants acquitted of Crimes contrary to Evidence, have been bound to the Good Behaviour. 2 Hawk. P. C. 442. When a Verdict in a Civil Action is given against Evidence, it shall be set aside, and a new Trial had, &c. If the Fact upon which the Court was to judge, be not found by the Verdict, a new Venire facias shall be granted. 1 Roll. Abr. 693. A Verdict being given where no Issue is joined, there can be no Judgment upon it; but a Repleader is to be had. Mod. Ca. 4. And if a Verdict be ambiguous, insufficient, repugnant, imperfect, or uncertain, Judgment shall not pass upon it. 1 Saund. 154, 155. Verdicts must in all Things directly answer the Issue, or they will not be good; and if a Verdict finds only Part of the Issue, it may be ill for the Whole. 3 Salk. 374. But there is a Difference between Actions founded on a Wrong, and on a Contract; for where 'tis founded on a Wrong, as on a Trespass, or Escape, &c. 'tis maintainable if any Part of it is found: So in Debt for Rent, a less Sum than demanded may be found by the Verdict, because it may be apportioned; but where an Action is founded on a Contract, there 'tis intire, and otherwise. 2 Cro. 380. If several Persons are indicted, or jointly charged in an Information, a Verdict may find some of the Defendants guilty, and not others: And if the Substance of an Issue be found, or so much as will serve the Plaintiff's Turn, although not directly according to the Issue, the Verdict is good. 1 Lev. 142. Hob. 73. 1 Mod. 4. According to Glyn Ch. Just. if an Action be brought for 500*l.* the Jury may find Part paid against the Plaintiff, and Part unpaid against the Defendant, and so divide the Verdict. Trin. 1658. 2 Lill. Abr. 649. If the Jury find the Issue and more, it is good for the Issue, and void for the Residue: And where a Jury find a Point in Issue, and a superfluous Matter over and above, that shall not vitiate the Verdict. 2 Lev. 253. Yet if a Man brings an Action of Debt, and declares for 20*l.* and the Jury, upon Nil debet pleaded, find that the Defendant owed 40*l.* this Verdict is ill; for the Plaintiff cannot recover more than he demands; and in this Case he may not recover what he demands, because the Court cannot cannot sever their Judgment from the Verdict. 3 Salk. 376. A Plaintiff failing to prove his Issue, the Verdict ought to be found for the Defendant; and the Court will give Judgment for the Defendant, where it appears that the Plaintiff hath recovered by Verdict without Cause of Action. 2 Lill. 644, 651. A Verdict found against a Record, which is of a higher Nature than any Verdict, is not good: But where a Verdict may be any Ways construed to make it good, it shall be so taken, and not to make it void. Ibid. No Verdict will make that good, which is not so by Law, of which the Court is to judge; Judgment is to be given on Verdicts, that stand with Law; and what both Parties have agreed in the Pleading, must be admitted so to be, though the Jury find otherwise, it being a Rule in Law. Hob. 112. 2 Cro. 678. 2 Mod. 4. The Statute of Jeofails helps after Verdict; as it supposes the Matter left out was given in Evidence, and that the Judge directed accordingly. 1 Mod. 292. If there be no original Writ, it is held by a Verdict by the Statute of Jeofails; but not if there be a bad Writ: A Declaration that is not good, is in many Cases help'd after Verdict; but not where the Declaration doth not make it appear that the Plaintiff had some Cause of Action, to warrant his Declaration, &c. A Verdict may make an ill Plea good, by Intendment, &c. But a Verdict will not help, where there is no Issue: And what is good after Verdict, would be ill on Demurrer; also in criminal Cases, Real Actions, or Actions Quintum, if there be any Errors in the Proceedings, they are not help'd after Verdict, by the Stat. of Jeofails. 2 Lill. Abr. 644, 647. 2 Bulst. 41. 2 Salk. 644. 3 Mod. 161. Where a Verdict is found for the Plaintiff, and he will not enter it, the Defendant may compel him to do it, on Motion; or the Defendant may enter it himself. 2 Lill. After a Verdict is return'd in Court, it cannot be amended; but if there be any Misprision, it is to be suggested before: And a Mistake of the Clerk of the Assises appearing to the Court, was ordered to be amended. Cro. Eliz. 112, 150. On Return of Verdicts, in Civil Causes, given at the Assises, to the Courts at Westminster, Judgment is had thereon; and generally if the Judgment differ from the Verdict, it may be reversed, &c. See Issue, and Judgment.

A Charge by Verdict of Felony, found against a Person, in Action of Trespas for taking Goods, is equivalent to an Indictment, to put the Defendant to answer, &c. But it is said no Verdict ought to be taken in the Trespas, 'till the Party is tried for the Felony. 2 Hawk. 211, 440.

Veronica, A Word mentioned by our Historians, having its Original from this, That as our Saviour was led towards the Cross, the Likeness of his Face was formed on his Handkerchief in a miraculous Manner, which is still preserv'd in St. Peter's Church at Rome, and called Veronica. Mat. Paris. Anno 1216. pag. 514. Brompt. 121.

Vert, (Fr. Verd, i. e. Viridis, otherwise called Green-bue) In the Forest Laws signifies every Thing that beareth a Green Leaf within a Forest, that may cover a Deer; but especially great and thick Coverts. Of Vert there are divers Kinds; some that bear Fruit, which may serve for Food, as Chesnut-Trees, Service-Trees, Nut-Trees, Crab-Trees, &c. For the Shelter of the Game, some called Haut-boys, serving both for Food and Browze; and for the Defence of them, as Oaks, Beeches, &c. and for Shelter and Defence, such as Ashes, Poplars, Maples, Alder, &c. Of Sub-boys, some for Browze and Food of the Game; of Bushes and other Vegetables, some are for Food and Shelter, as the Hawthorn, Blackthorn, &c. And some for Hiding and Shelter, such as Brakes, Gorse, Heath, &c. But Herbs and Weeds, although they be Green, our legal Vert extendeth not to them. 4 Inst. 327. Manwood divides Vert into Overt-vert and Nether-vert; the Overt-vert is that which the Law-Books term Haut-boys; and Nether-vert, what they call Sub-boys: And into Special Vert, which is all Trees growing within the Forest that bear Fruit to feed Deer; called Special, because the Destroying it is more grievously punish'd than of any other Vert. Manw. par. 2. pag. 33. And Vert is sometimes taken for that Power which a Man hath by the King's Grant to cut green Wood in the Forest.

Vervise, A Kind of Cloth, mentioned in the Statute 1 R. 3. c. 8. See Plonkets.

Very Lord and very Tenant, (Verus Dominus, & verus Tenens) Are they that are immediate Lord and Tenant one to another. Broke. In the Taking of Leases, there is to be a very Lord and very Tenant; and a Man is not a very Tenant, until he hath attorned to the Lord by some Service, &c. Old Nat. Br. 19 H. 7. c. 15.

Vested, If an Estate in Remainder is limited to a Child before born, when the Child is born the Estate in Remainder is vested, &c. 2 Leon. 219.

Vestry, A Place adjoining to a Church, where the Vestments of the Minister are kept; also a Meeting at such Place: And sometimes the Bishops and Priests sat together in Vestries, to consult of the Affairs of the Church; in Resemblance of which ancient Custom, the Minister, Churchwardens and Chief Men of most Parishes, do at this Day make a Parish Vestry. By Custom there may be Select Vestries, or a certain Number of Persons chosen to have the Government of the Parish, make Rates, and take the Accounts of Churchwardens, &c. And when Rates are made, the Parishioners must have Notice of a Vestry held for that Purpose, and then all that are absent shall be concluded by a Majority of those that be present, who in Construction of Law are the whole Parish. Wood's Inst. 90. Vestrymen are a Select Number of the chief Parishioners in every Parish within the City of London and Suburbs, and elsewhere, who yearly chuse Officers for the Parish, and take Care of its Concernments, &c. by Statute 15 Car. 2. c. 5. On erecting Parishes for the New Churches to be built in or near London and Westminster, the Commissioners for Building the Churches were im-habitants of each new Parish to be Vestry-men; and on their Deaths or Removal, the Majority of the Parishioners to chuse others, &c. And the Parish-Officers, with the Vestry or Principal Inhabitants of the new Parishes, are in Easter-Week to assess the Rates for the Poor, &c. 9 Ann. c. 22. Vestries of Parishes are to be consulted by Parish-Officers, and give their Assent, on Hiring of Houses for the better Employing and Maintaining of the Poor. 9 Geo.

Vestura, A Crop of Grass or Corn; and Mention is made of Prima Vestura, and Secunda Vestura, &c. Cartular. Abb. St. Edmund. M.S. fol. 182.

Vesture, (Vestura) Signifies a Garment; but in the Law it is metaphorically applied to a Possession or Seisin. Stat. Westm. 2. cap. 5. And in this Signification it is borrowed of the Feudists, with whom Investitura imports a Delivery of Possession, and Vestura Possession it self. Hotom. Vesture of an Acre of Land is the Profit of it; and it shall be inquired how much the Vesture of an Acre of Ground is worth, and how much the Land, &c. 4 Ed. 1. 14 Ed. 3.

Vetitum namium, Is where the Bailiff of a Lord distrains Beasts or Goods of another, and the Lord forbids his Bailiff to deliver them when the Sheriff comes to make Replevin: The Word Namium signifying a Taking or Distress, and vetitum forbidden; and the Owner of the Cattle may demand Satisfaction for the Injury, which is called Placitum de vetito Namio. Divers Lords of Hundreds and Courts-Baron, had Power to hold Plea de vetito Namio: Matilda de Morton clamat in Manerio de M. duos Law-Days, & Placito de Namio vetito, sine Brevi Domini Regis, &c. 2 Inst. 140. Record. in Thesaur. Scacc. See Naam.

Uffingi, The Kings of the East-Angles were so term'd from King Uffa, who lived in the Year 578. Matt. Westm.

Via Regia, Is the Highway, or common Road, called the King's Way, because authorised by him, and under his Protection: It is also denominated Via Militaris. Leg. Hen. 1. cap. 80. Braët. lib. 4.

Vicar, (Vicarius, quasi vice fungens Rectoris) The Priest of every Parish is called Rector, unless the Predial Tithes are appropriated, and then he is stiled Vicar; and when the Rectories are appropriated, Vicars are to supply the Rectors Places. At first a Vicar was a meer Curate to the Impropiator of the Church, temporary, and removable at Pleasure; as those who are now Parish-Priests, in antient Times when there were no particular Parishes, were only Curates to the Bishops; but by Degrees the Vicars got a settled Maintenance of Glebe, and some Kind of Tithes, and now claim their Dues either by Endowment or by Prescription: And where the Vicar is endowed, and comes in by Institution and Induction, he hath Curam animarum actualiter, and is not to be removed at the Pleasure of the Rector, who in this Case hath only Curam animarum habitualiter; but where the Vicar is not endowed, nor comes in by Institution and Induction, the Rector hath Curam animarum actualiter, and may remove the Vicar. 1 Ventr. 15. 3 Salk. 378. In every Church appropriated, one is to be ordained perpetual Vicar, and be canonically instituted and inducted, and also endowed at the Discretion of the Ordinary; which Endowment is a Part of the Rectory, set out by the Patron, Parson, and Ordinary, for Maintaining the Vicar: The Institution and Induction, &c. of Vicars is done in the same Manner as that of Rectors; and over and above, they are to take an Oath of perpetual Residency, but this the Bishop may dispense with; the Statutes concerning Pluralities, Dilapidations, &c. relate to them as well as to Parsons. 4 H. 4. 2 Roll. Abr. 337. Upon Endowment, the Vicar hath an Equal, though not so great an Interest in the Church as a Rector; the Freehold of the Church, Church-yard and Glebe is in him; and as he hath the Freehold of the Glebe, he may prescribe to have all the Tithes in the Parish, except those of Corn, &c. Many Vicars have a good Part of the great Tithes; and some Benefices, that were formerly severed by Impropiation, have, by being united, had all the Glebe and Tithes given to the Vicar: But Tithes can no other Way belong to the Vicar than by Gift, Composition, or Prescription; for all Tithes de jure appertain to the Parson; and yet generally Vicars are endow'd with Glebe and Tithes, especially small Tithes, &c. And the Endowment of Vicarages have been always favour'd in Law, the Vicars for the most Part having the Cure of Souls. 2 Roll. 335. Comp. Incumb. 347. March Rep. 11.

Vicarage, (Vicaria) Of Places did originally belong to the Parsonage or Rectory, being derived out of it: The Rector of common Right is Patron of the Vicarage; but it may be settled otherwise, for if he make a Lease of his Parsonage, the Patronage of the Vicarage passes as incident to it. 2 Roll. Abr. 59. If the Profits of the Parsonage or Vicarage fall into Decay, that either of them by it self is not sufficient to maintain a Parson and Vicar, they ought again to be reunited: Also if the Vicarage be not sufficient to maintain a Vicar, the Bishop may compel the Rector to augment the Vicarage. 2 Roll. 337. Parf. Counsell. 195, 196. Stat. 29 Car. 2. c. 8. On Appropriation of a Church, and Endowment of a Vicar out of the same, the Parsonage and Vicarage are two distinct Ecclesiastical Benefices: And it hath been held, That where there is a Parsonage and Vicarage endow'd, that the Bishop in the Vacation may dissolve the Vicarage; but if the Parsonage be impropiated, he cannot do it; for upon a Dissolution the Cure must revert, which it cannot into Lay Hands. Comp. Incumb. 2 Cro. 518. Palm. 219. Though for the most Part Vicarages were endowed upon Appropriations, sometimes Vicarages have been endowed without any Appropriation of the Parsonage; and there are several Churches, where the Tithes are wholly impropiated, and no Vicarage endowed, and there the Impropiators are bound to maintain Curates to perform Divine Service, &c.

Vicountiel, or Vicontiel, Is an Adjective from Vicount, signifying any Thing belonging to the Sheriff; as Writs Vicontiel are such Writs, as are triable in the County or Sheriff's Court, of which Kind there are divers Writs of Nuisance, &c. mentioned by Fitzherbert. Old Nat. Br. 109. F. N. B. 184. Vicontiels are certain Farms, for which the Sheriff pays a Rent to the King, and he makes what Profit he can of them: And Vicontiel Rents usually come under the Title of Firma Comitatus; and the Sheriff hath a particular Roll of them given in to him, which he delivers back with his Accounts. 33 & 34 H. 8. c. 16. 3 Ed. 6. c. 4. 22 Car. 2. c. 6.

Vicountiel Jurisdiction, Is that Jurisdiction which belongs to the Officers of a County, as to Sheriffs, Coroners, Escheators, &c.

Victuals, (Victus) Sustenance, and Things necessary to live by, as Meat and Provisions. Victuallers are to sell their Victuals at reasonable Prices, or forfeit double Value: And Victuallers, Fishmongers, Poulterers, &c. coming with their Victuals to London, shall be under the Governance of the Lord Mayor and Aldermen; and sell their Victuals at Prices appointed by Justices, &c. 23 Ed. 3. c. 6. 7 R. 2. 13 R. 2. No Person during the Time that he is Mayor, or in Office in any Town, shall sell Victuals on Pain of Forfeiture, &c. But if a Victualler be chosen Mayor, whereby he is to keep the Assise by Statute, two discreet Persons of the same Place who are not Victuallers, are to be sworn to assise Bread, Wine, and Victuals, during the Time that he is in Office; and then, after the Price assessed by such Persons, it shall be lawful for the Mayor to sell Victuals, &c. 6 R. 2. c. 9. 3 H. 8. c. 8. If any one offend against these Statutes, the Party grieved may sue a Writ directed to the Justices of Assise, commanding them to send for the Parties, and to do right; or an Attachment may be had against the Mayor, Officer, &c. to appear in B. R. selling of corrupt Victuals, or exposing them to Sale, is punishable by Statute 1 R. 3. c. 1. The Prices of Victuals in all Places, except Corporations, shall be assessed by the King's Justices, &c. And Victuals is not to be transported, by 25 Hen. 8. c. 2. See Forestallers.

Vi & Armis, Are Words used in Indictments, &c. to express the Charge of a forcible and violent Commission of any Crime or Trespas: But in Appeal of Death, on a Killing with Weapon, the Words Vi & Armis are not necessary, because they are implied; so in an Indictment of Forcible Entry, alledged to have been made Manu forti, &c. 2 Hawk. P. C. 179. 1 Hawk. 150, 220. And where the Omission of Vi & Armis, &c. is help'd in Indictments, vide the Stat. 4 & 5 Ann.

View, (Fr. Vene, i. e. Visus) Is generally where a Real Action is brought, and the Tenant doth not know certainly what is in Demand; in such Case he may pray that the Jury may view it. Briton, cap. 45. F. N. B. 178. This View is for a Jury to see the Land or Thing claim'd, and in Controversy; and lies in Ejectment, Waste, Assises of Novel Disseisin, &c. where at least Six of the Recognitors must have the View before the Assises. 2 Lill. Abr. 655. Stat. 13 Ed. 1. c. 48. 12 Ed. 2. And though formerly there could not have been a View in a Personal Action, but upon withdrawing of a Juror after they were sworn, and Consent of the Parties by a Rule of Court; now by the Act for the Amendment of the Law, it may be granted in any Action brought in the Courts at Westminster, where necessary the better to understand the Evidence upon the Trial; in which Case the Courts may order special Writs of Distingas or Habeas Corpora to the Sheriff, requiring him to have Six of the Jurors, or a greater Number of them, at the Place in Question, some convenient Time before the Trial; who shall have the Matters shewn to them by two Persons named in the Writ of Distingas and appointed by the Court; and the said Sheriff executing the Writ is specially to return the View made accordingly, &c. 4 & 5 Ann. c. 16. Upon a View, the Thing in Question is only to be shewn to the Jury, and no Evidence can be given on either Side. 2 Lill. 656. But where in Waste, several Places are assign'd, and the Jury hath not the View of some of them, they may find no Waste done in that Part which they did not view; and in Waste for Wasting a Wood, if the Jury view the Wood without entering into it, it is good; also Waste being assign'd in every Room of an House, the View of the House generally is sufficient. 1 Leon. 259, 267. If a Rent, or Common is demanded; the Land out of which it issues must be put in View. 1 Leon. 56. And if a View be denied, where it ought to be granted; or granted, where it ought not to be, &c. it is Error. 2 Lev. 217. See Viewers, or Viewers, Assise, &c.

View of Frank-pledge, (Visus Franci Plegii) Signifies the Office which the Sheriff in his County-Court performs in looking to the King's Peace, and seeing that every Man be in some Pledge, &c. or it is a Power of Holding a Court-Leet, in which Court, formerly all Persons, at the Age of Fourteen, were bound with Sureties or Pledges for their Truth to the King, and the Steward was to certify on View. Bract. lib. 2. And there is a Writ to exempt a Person from coming to the the View of Frank-pledge, who is not resident within the Hundred; as Men are bound to this View by Reason of their Habitation only, and not of Lands held where they dwell not: Which Writ is called Visu Franci Plegii. Reg. Orig. 175. See Frank-pledge.

Vigil, (Vigilia) Is the Eve, or next Day before any Solemn Feast, because then Christians were wont to watch, fast, and pray in their Churches. Stat. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 19.

Vi Laica Removenda, A Writ that lies where two Parsons contend for a Church, and one of them enters into it with a great Number of Laymen, and holds out the other Vi & Armis; then he that is holden out shall have this Writ directed to the Sheriff, that he remove the Force: But the Sheriff ought not to remove the Incumbent out of the Church, whether he is there by Right or Wrong, but only the Force. F. N. B. 54. 3 Inst. 161. and see 5 R. 2. c. 2. And the Writ Vi Laica removenda ought not to be granted, until the Bishop of the Diocese where such Church is, hath certified into the Chancery such Resisting and Force, &c. though according to the New Natura Brevium, it lieth upon a Surmise made by the Incumbent, or by him that is grieved, without any such Certificate of the Bishop. New Nat. Br. 121. A Restitution was awarded to one who was put out of Possession by the Sheriff upon a Vi laica amovenda. Cro. Eliz. 466. 5 Mod. 443.

Vill, or Village, (Villa) Is sometimes taken for a Manor, and sometimes for a Parish, or Part of it: But a Vill is most commonly the Outpart of a Parish, consisting of a few Houses, as it were separate from it. — Villa est ex pluribus Mansionibus vicinata, & collata ex pluribus Vicinis. 1 Inst. 115. Fleta mentions the Difference between a Mansion, a Village, and a Manor, viz. a Mansion may be of One or more Houses, but it must be but one Dwelling-place, and none near it; for if other Houses are contiguous, it is a Village; and a Manor may consist of several Villages, or of one alone. Flet. lib. 6. cap. 51. And according to Fortescue, the Boundaries of Villages, is not by Houses or Streets; but by a Circuit of Ground, within which there may be Hamlets, Woods, and Waste-Ground, &c. Fortesc. in Laud. Leg. Angl. cap. 24. When a Place is named generally, in legal Proceedings, it is intended to be a Vill, because as to Civil Purposes the Kingdom was first divided into Vills; and 'tis never intended a Parish, that being an Ecclesiastical Division of the Kingdom to Spiritual Purposes, though in many Cases the Law takes Notice of Parishes as to Civil Purposes. 1 Mod. 250. 3 Nels. Abr. 57. A Vill and a Parish by Intendment shall be all one; and in Proccs of Appeal, a Parish may be intended a Vill. Cro. Jac. 263. 3 Salk. 380. If a Venue be laid in Grays Inn, which is no Parish or Vill; the Defendant must plead there is no such Vill as Grays Inn, or it shall be intended a Vill after Verdict, &c. 3 Salk. 381. See Parish, and Venire facias.

Villa Regia, A Title given to those Country Villages, where the Kings of England had a Royal Seat, and held the Manor in their own Demesne, having there commonly a free Chapel, not subject to Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction. Paroch. Antiq. 53.

Villain, (Villanus, (Fr. Vilain, i. e. Villis) Signifies a Man of servile or base Condition, a Bondman, or Servant. Of these Bondmen or Villains there were two Sorts in England; one term'd a Villain in gross, who was immediately bound to the Person of the Lord, and his Heir: The other, a Villain regardant to a Manor, being bound to his Lord as a Member belonging and annexed to a Manor, whereof the Lord was Owner. And he was properly a pure Villain, of whom the Lord took Redemption to marry his Daughter, and to make him free; and whom the Lord might put out of his Lands and Tenements, Goods and Chattels at his Will, and chastise, but not maim him: For if he maimed his Villain, he might have Appeal of Maihem against the Lord; as he could bring Appeal of the Death of an Ancestor against his Lord, or Appeal of Rape done to his Wife. Bract. lib. 1. cap. 6. Old Nat. Br. 8. Terms de Ley 574, 575. Some were Villains by Title or Prescription, that is to say, that all their Blood have been Villains regardant to the Manor of the Lord Time out of Mind: And some were made Villains by their Confession in a Court of Record, &c. though the Lord might make a Manumission to his Villain, and thereby infranchise him: And if the Villain brought any Action against his Lord, other than an Appeal of Maihem, &c. And the Lord, without Protestation, made Answer to it, by this the Villain was made free. Terms de Ley 576. Villain Estate was contradistinguished to free Estate, by the Statute 8 H. 6. c. 11. And the Villani were such as dwelt in Villages, and of that servile Condition, that they were usually sold with the Farm to which they respectively belonged; so that they were a Kind of Slaves, and used as such: And Villanage or Bondage, 'tis said, had Beginning among the Hebrews, and its Original of Chanaan the Son of Cham, who because he had mock'd his Father Noe to scorn, was punish'd in his Son Chanaan with Penalty of Bondage. Ibid. 455. Villanage cometh of Villain, and was a base Tenure of Lands or Tenements, whereby the Tenant was bound to do all such Services as the Lord commanded, or were fit for a Villain to perform: The Division of Villanage, by Bracton, was into Purum Villanagium a quo prestatur Servitium incertum & indeterminatum, & Villanagium Soccagium; which was to carry the Lord's Dung into his Fields, to plough his Ground at certain Days, sow and reap his Corn, &c. and even to empty his Jakes, as the Inhabitants of some Places were bound to do, though afterwards turn'd into a Rent, and that villanous Service excused. Every one that held in Villanage, was not a Villain or Bondman; for Tenure in Villanage could make no Freeman Villain, unless it were continu'd Time out of Mind; nor could free Land make a Villain free. Bract. lib. 2. c. 8. Copyhold Tenures seem to be sprung from Villanage. F. N. B. 28. And the Slavery of this Custom hath been long ago taken off; for we have hardly heard of any Case in Villanage since Crouche's Case in Dyer's Rep. There are not properly any Villains now; and the Title and Tenure of Villanage are abolish'd by the Stat. of Car. 2. See Neif.

Villanous Judgment (Villanum Judicium) Is that which casts the Reproach of Villany and Shame upon him against whom it is given, as a Conspirator, &c. And the Judgment in such a Case shall be like the ancient Judgment in Attaint, viz. That the Offender shall not be of any Credit afterwards, nor shall it be lawful for him to approach the King's Court, and his Lands and Goods shall be seized into the King's Hands, his Trees rooted up, and Body imprisoned, &c.

Staundf.

Staudf. P. C. 157. Lamb. Eiren. 63. Stat. 4. Hen. 5. And the Punishment at this Day appointed for Perjury, may partake of the Name of Villanous Judgment; as it hath somewhat more in it than corporal, or pecuniary Pain, i. e. the discrediting the Testimony of the Offender for ever.

Vis, (Lat.) Is any Kind of Force, Violence, or Disturbance relating to a Man's Person, or his Right in Lands, &c. See Force.

Viscount, (Viccomes) A Degree of Nobility next to an Earl; which Camden says is an old Name of Office, but a new one of Dignity, being never heard of among us 'till the Reign of King Hen. 6th, who in his eighteenth Year in Parliament created John Lord Beaumont, Viscount Beaumont. Camb. Britan. 170. Selden's Tit. Hon. 761. Viscounts had their Name from being formerly Governors of Counties; and they are now made by Patent, as an Earl; but their Number is small in this Kingdom in Comparison with the other Degrees of Peerage.

Visitation, (Visitatio) Is that Office which is perform'd by the Bishop of every Diocese once every three Years, or by the Archdeacon once a Year, by visiting the Churches and their Rectors throughout the whole Diocese; Ut populus illorum curæ commissus salubriter a Pastoribus & Ordine gubernetur: Et ne quid detrimenti capiat Ecclesia, &c. Reform. Leg. Eccl. pag. 124. And when a Visitation is made by the Archbishop, all Acts of the Bishop are suspended by Inhibition, &c. A Commissary at his Court of Visitation, cannot cite Lay Parishoners, unless it be Church-wardens and Sides-men; and to those he may give his Articles, and inquire by them. Noy. 123. 3 Salk. 379. Proxies and Procurations are paid by the Parsons whose Churches are visited, &c. Ibid.

Visitor, Is an Inspector of the Government of a Corporation, &c. The Ordinary is Visitor of Spiritual Corporations; but Corporations in-tuted for private Charity, if they are Lay, are Visitable by the Founder, or whom he shall appoint, and from the Sentence of such Visitor there lies no Appeal. 3 Salk. 381. By Implication of Law, the Founder and his Heirs are Visitors of Lay Foundations, if no particular Person is appointed by him to see that the Charity is not perverted. Ibid. And where Founders are Visitors of Hospitals, &c. see Stat. 39 Eliz. cap. 5. 43 Eliz. cap. 4.

Visitor of Mannors, In ancient Time was wont to be the Name of the Regarder's Office in the Forest. Manwood par. 1. pag. 195.

Visne, (Visnetum) Signifies a Neighbour-place, or Place near at Hand. 19 R. 2. cap. 6. See Venue.

Visus, View, or Inspection; as Wood is to be taken per Visum Forestarii, &c. Hoved. 784.

Vitæ pecunia, Anciently applied to Cattle and other live Goods.

Vivary, (Vivarium) A Place by Land or Water, where living Creatures are kept: And in Law it is most commonly used for a Park, Warren, Piscary, &c. 2 Inst. 100.

Vitæ voce, Is where a Witness is examined personally in open Court. See Deposition.

Vitæ, A Hulk or Ship of Burden. Leg. Etheld. cap. 23.

Village, Is when there is a Want of Measure in a Cask, &c.

Village, The same with Alnage. Vide Alnage.

Vina ferrea, Is the Standard Ell of Iron, kept in the Exchequer for the Rule of Measure. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. pag. 383.

Umpire. (Arbiter) One chosen by Compromise to deal indifferently between both Parties. Litt.

Umpirage, Is where there is but one Arbitrator of Matters submitted to Award; and is usually when the Parties submit themselves to the Arbitrament of certain Persons; and if they cannot agree, or are not ready to deliver their Award in Writing before such a Time, then to the Judgment of another as Umpire: And this is often the Effect of Bonds of Submission to Arbitration. 1 Roll. Abr. 261, 262. See Arbitration.

Umpire, Signifieth fine Linen, in the Statute 3 Edw. 4. cap. 5.

Unceasath, (from the Sax. Un, a Negative Particle, i. e. Sine, Ceas, litis, and At Oath) Is an obsolete Word used where one killed a Thief, and made Oath that he did it as he was flying for the Fact, and thereupon Parentibus ipsius occisi juret unceasath, viz. That his Kindred would not revenge his Death; or they swore that there should be no Contention about it. Leg. Ina cap. 37.

Unia terræ, Often occurs in the Charters of the British Kings for some Measure or Quantity of Land: It was the Quantity of 12 Modii, and each Modius possibly 100 Foot square. Mon. Angl. Tom. 3. pag. 198, 205.

Uncoze pass, Is a Plea of a Defendant in Nature of a Plea in Bar, where being sued for a Debt due on Bond at a Day past, to save the Forfeiture of the Bond, he says that he tendered the Money at the Day and Place, and that there was none there to receive it, and that he is also still ready to pay the same. This will save the Defendant from the Penalty of his Obligation; and if the Plaintiff now refuseth to receive the Money, but takes Issue upon the Tender, and it is found against him, he loseth his Money.

ney for ever. 7 Edw. 6, 6. 9 Rep. 79. Pract. Attorn. Edit. 1st. pag. 82, 83.

Uncuth, A Saxon Word signifying as much as Incognitus, i. e. unknown; and is used in the old Saxon Laws for him that cometh to an Inn Guest-wise, and lies there but one Night. Braet. lib. 3.

Unde nihil habet, A Writ of Dower, for which see Dote unde nihil habet.

Under-Sheriff, (Sub-Viccomes) See Sheriff.

Undertakers, Are such as the King's Purveyors employ'd as their Deputies: And those as undertake any great Work, as draining of Fens, &c. Stat. 2 & 3 P. & M. cap. 6. 43 Eliz. cap. 11. 12 Car. 2. cap. 24.

Under-Treasurer of England, (Vice-Treasarius Angliæ) An Officer first created in the Time of King Hen. 7th, but some think he was of an ancient Original: His Business was to chest up the King's Treasure at the End of every Term, to note the Content of Money in each Chest, and see it carried into the King's Treasury for the Ease of the Lord Treasurer, as being a Thing too mean for him, but fit to be perform'd by a Man of great Trust and Secrecy: And in the Vacancy of the Lord Treasurer's Office, he did all Things in the Receipt, &c. This Officer is mentioned in several Statutes, and named Treasurer of the Exchequer 'till the Reign of Queen Eliz. when he was termed Treasurer of England. 39 Eliz. cap. 7.

Underage, A Word used for Minors, or Persons under Age; not capable to bear Arms, &c. Fleta, lib. 1. cap. 9.

Untrid, One that hath no Quiet or Peace. Sax.

Ungeld, A Person out of the Protection of the Law, so, that if he were murdered, no Geld or Fine should be paid, or Composition made by him that killed him. Leg. Æthelred.

Uniformity (Uniformitas) One Form of publick Prayers and Administration of Sacraments, and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England, prescribed by Statutes, to which all must submit. 1 Eliz. cap. 2. 14 Car. 2. cap. 4. But see Dissenters.

Union, (Unio) Is a Combining or Consolidating of two Churches into one: Also it is when one Church is made subject to another, and one Man is made Rector of both; and where a Conventual Church is made a Cathedral. Lyndewode. In the first Signification, if two Churches were so mean that the Tithes would not afford a competent Provision for each Incumbent, the Ordinary, Patron, and Incumbents might unite them at Common Law, before any Statute was made for that Purpose; and in such Case, it was agreed which Patron should Present first, &c. for though by the Union the Incumbency of one Church was lost, yet the Patronage remain'd, and each Patron might have a Quare Impedit upon a Disturbance to present in his Turn. 3 Nelf. Abr. 480. The Bishop, Patron, and Incumbent, may unite Churches, without License from the King, by the Statute 37 H. 8. The License of the King is not so necessary to an Union, as 'tis to the Appropriation of Advowsons; for an Appropriation cannot be made by them without the King's License, because that is a Mortmain, and the Patronage of the Advowson is lost, and by Consequence all Tenths and First Fruits. Dyer 259. Moor 409, 661. By Assent of the Ordinary, Patron, and Incumbent, two Churches lying not above a Mile distant from the other, and whereof the Value of the one is not above six Pounds a Year in the King's Books of First Fruits, may be united into one. Stat. 37. H. 8. cap. 21. And by another Statute, in Cities and Corporation Towns, it shall be lawful for the Bishop, Patrons, and Mayors, or Chief Magistrates of the Place, &c. to unite Churches therein; but where the Income of the Churches united exceeds 100 l. a Year, the major Part of the Parishioners are to consent to the same; and after the Union made, the Patrons of the Churches united shall Present by Turns, to that Church only which shall be Presentative, in such Order as agreed; and notwithstanding the Union, each of the Parishes united shall continue distinct as to Rates, Charges, &c. though the Tithes are to be paid to the Incumbent of the united Church. 17 Car. 2. cap. 3.

Union of England and Scotland, When and how brought about, and the Laws relating to it, see Scotland.

Unity of Possession, (Unitas Possessionis) Is where a Man hath a Right to two Estates, and holds them together jointly in his own Hands; as if a Man takes a Lease of Lands from another at a certain Rent, and after he buys the Fee-simple, this is an Unity of Possession, by which the Lease is extinguished, because that he who had before the Occupation only for his Rent, is now become Lord and Owner of the Land. Terms de Ley. A Lessee for Years of an Advowson, on the Church becoming void, was presented by the Lessor, and instituted and inducted; and it was held, that this was a Surrender of his Lease, for they cannot stand together in one Person, and by the Unity of Possession one of them is extinguished. Hutt. 105. No Unity will extinct or suspend Tithes, but notwithstanding any Unity they remain, &c. tho' a perpetual Unity 'till the Dissolution, shall be a Discharge of the Payment of Tithes, by the Statute 31 H. 8. cap. 13. 11 Rep. 14. 2 Lill. 658. Unity of Possession extinguisheth all Privileges not expressly necessary; but a Way to a Close, or Water to a Mill, &c. are not extinguished, because they are thus necessary. A Way of Ease is destroy'd by Unity of Possession; and a Rent, or Easement, do not exist during the Unity, wherefore they are gone. Latch. 153, 154. 1 Ventr. 95. Trin. 7. W.

Univerſity, (Universitas) Is taken for those two Bodies which are the Nurseries of Learning and liberal Sciences in this Kingdom, viz. Oxford and Cambridge. And by the 13 Eliz. it is Enacted, That each of the Universities shall be incorporated by a certain Name, though they were ancient Corporations before; and that all Letters Patent and Charters granted to the Universities, shall be good and effectual in Law; That the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of either of the said Universities, shall enjoy all Manors, Lands, Liberties, Franchises, and Privileges, and all other Things which the said incorporated Bodies have enjoyed, or of Right ought to enjoy, according to the Intent of the said Letters Patent; and all Letters Patent, and Liberties, Franchises, &c. shall be established and confirm'd, any Law, Usage, &c. to the contrary notwithstanding. The Universities have the Keeping the Assize of Bread and Beer, and are to punish Offences concerning it: Also they have have the Assise of Wine and Ale, as well as the Custody thereof: And the Chancellor, his Commissary, and Deputy, are Justices of Peace for the Vill of Oxon, County of Oxon, and Berks, by Virtue of their Offices. See the Stat. 51 H. 3. 31 Edw. 1. 7 Edw. 6. 2 W. & M. and the Chart. 29 Edw. 3. 14 H. 8, &c. And by Letters Patent, Anno 11 Car. 1. granted to the University of Oxford, the old Privileges are explained, and larger granted. The Privilege of the University is allowed to Scholars and Servants, &c. See Courts of the Universities.

Uilage, A Saxon Word, denoting a wicked or unjust Law; in which Sense it is used in Leg. Hen. 1. cap. 34.

Unlawful Assembly, (Illicita Congregatio) The Meeting of three Persons or more together, by Force, to commit some unlawful Act. Lamb. Vide Assembly.

Unques pist, Always ready to perform a Thing. Kitb. 243.

Utrum, A Saxon Word, signifying a weak and infirm Man. Sax. Dict.

Ucriferatio, An Out-cry, or Hue and Cry. Leg. Hen. 1. cap. 12.

Uoidance, (Vacatio) Is a Want of an Incumbent upon an Ecclesiastical Benefice. Vide Avoidance.

Void, and Voidable. In the Law some Things are absolutely void, and some are voidable. A Thing is void which is done against Law at the very Time of the Doing of it, and it shall bind no Person: But a Thing which is only voidable, and not void, altho' it be what he that did it ought not to have done, yet when it is done the Doer cannot avoid the same; though in some Act in Law it may be made void by his Heir, &c. 2 Lill. Abr. 653. Where a Grant is void at the Commencement, no Act afterwards can make it good: If a Lease is absolutely void, Acceptance of Rent will not affirm it; it is otherwise when a Lease is voidable, there it will make it good. 3 Rep. 64. A Lease for Life, which is voidable only, must be made void by Re-entry, &c. Ibid. A Deed of Exchange, entered into by an Infant, or one Non sane memoria, is not void; but may be avoided by the Infant when arrived of Age, or by the Heir of him who is Non sane memoria. Perk. 281. But it hath been adjudg'd, that a Bond of an Infant, or of one Non Compos, is void, because the Law hath not appointed any Thing to be done to avoid such Bonds; for the Party cannot plead Non est factum, as the Cause of Nullity doth not appear upon the Face of the Deed. 2 Salk. 675. 3 Nels. Abr. 486. A Deed being voidable, is to be avoided by Special Pleading; and where an Act of Parliament says, that a Deed, &c. shall be void, it is intended that it shall be by Pleading, so as 'tis voidable, but not actually vacated. 5 Rep. 119.

A Judgment given by Persons who had no good Commission to do it, is void, without Writ of Error: But an erroneous Attainder is not void, but voidable by Writ of Error, &c. 2 Hawk. P. C. 459. 321.

Voir dire, (Fr. Veritatem dicere) Is when it is pray'd upon a Trial at Law, that a Witness may be sworn upon a Voir dire; which is, that he shall on his Oath speak the Truth, whether he shall get or lose by the Matter in Controversy; and if it appears that he is unconcern'd, his Testimony is allow'd, otherwise not. Blount. On a Voir dire, a Witness may be examined by the Court, if he be not a Party interested in the Cause, as well as the Person for whom he is a Witness; and this has been often done, where a busy Evidence, not otherwise to be excepted against, is suspected of Partiality. Terms de Ley 581.

Volumus, Is the first Word of a Clause in the King's Writs of Protection and Letters Patent; of Protections, some are cum clausula Volumus. 13 R. 2. cap. 16. Co. Lit. 199.

Voluntas, Is when a Tenant by Lease holds Lands at the Will of the Lessor; or a Copyholder holdeth his Lands at the Will of the Lord, by Copy of Court-Roll, according to the Custom of the Manor, &c.

Votum, A Vow or Promise, used by Fleta for Nuptia; so Dies Votorum, the Wedding Day. Fleta lib. 4.

Voucher, Is a Word of Art, when the Tenant in a Writ of Right calls another into the Court who is bound to him to Warranty, and is either to defend the Right against the Demandant, or yield him other Lands to the Value, &c. and it extends to Lands or Tenements of Freehold or Inheritance, and not to any Chattel, Real, Personal, or Mixt: He that voucheth is called the Voucher, (vocans) and he that is vouched is called the Vouchee, (warrantatus) and the Process whereby the Vouchee is called, is a Summoneas ad Warrantizandum, on which Writ, if the Sheriff return that the Party hath nothing whereby he may be summoned, then goes out another Writ called sequatur sub suo periculo, &c. Co. Lit. 101. There is also a foreign Voucher, when the Tenant being impleaded within a particular Jurisdiction, as in London, voucheth one to Warranty in some other County out of the Jurisdiction of that Court, and prays that he may be summoned, &c. 2 Rep. 50. In a Writ of Entry in the Degrees, none shall vouch out of the Line: And in Writs of Right and Possession, it is a good Counterplea, that neither the Vouchee nor his Ancestors had ever Seisin of the Land. Stat. 3. Edw. 1. cap. 40. And the Demandant may aver a Vouchee to be dead, and that there is no such Person, where the Tenant voucheth a Person deceased to Warranty. 14 Edw. 3. cap. 18. Single, double and treble Voucher. See Recovery.

Voucher, Is used for a Leiger-Book, or Book of Accounts, wherein are entered the Acquittances or Warrants for the Accomptant's Discharge. Stat. 19 Car. 2. cap. 1.

Vor, Vocem non habere, A Phrase made use of by Bracton, signifying an infamous Person, one who is not admitted to be a Witness. Bract. lib. 3.

Upland, High Ground, or Terra firma, as it is called by some, contrary to marshy and low Ground. Ingulph.

Ufa, Is the River Isis, which River was term'd Isis from the Goddess of that Name; for it was customary among the Pagans to dedicate Hills, Woods, and Rivers, to favourite Goddesses, and to call them after their Names; and the Britons having the greatest Reverence for Ceres and Proserpina, who was also called Isis, did for that Reason name this River Isis: And she being the Goddess of the Night, from thence they computed Days by Nights; as Seven-night, &c. Blount.

Ufage, Differs from Custom and Prescription: No Man may claim a Rent, Common, or other Inheritance by Ufage; though he may by Prescription. 6 Rep. 65. See Prescription.

Ufance,

Uſance, A Calendar Month, as from May 20, to June 20, and double Uſance, is two ſuch Months; Words uſed in Bills of Exchange. Merch. Diſt.

Uſe, (Uſus) Is in Application of Law, the Profit or Benefit of Lands and Tenements; or a Trust and Confidence repos'd in a Man for the holding of Lands, That he to whoſe Uſe the Trust is made ſhall take the Profits thereof. West. Symb. par. 1. 1 Inſt. 272. An Uſe is only a Trust or Confidence which one Man puts in another; and therefore 'tis not a Thing iſſuing out of the Land, but collateral to it, and annexed to the Privy of Eſtate between them, (viz.) That he to whom the Uſe is made ſhall have the Profits; and that the Tenant of the Land ſhall make an Eſtate as he ſhall direct: But the Ceſtui que Uſe hath neither jus in Re or ad Rem, his only Remedy being in Chancery to compel the Ceſtui que Trust to execute the Uſe. 3 Neſſ. Abr. 487. The Limitation of an Uſe was at the Common Law but a Matter of Equity: But now Feoffments to Uſes, &c. have the ſame Acceptation as Deeds at Common Law; and Uſes limited by any Conveyance, are govern'd and directed according to the Rules of the Law. 2 Lil. Abr. 664. There were two Inventors of Uſes; Fear in the Time of Trouble and Civil War, for the ſaving of Inheritances from Forfeiture; and Fraud in Time of Peace, to defeat Debts, Eſcheats, &c. And it is ſaid, the Original of Uſes was the Statute of Mortmain, which cramp'd the Clergy ſo much that they were forced to take Shelter under the Laity, and made uſe of them to purchaſe Lands in Trust for them and to their Uſe. Afterwards the Wars between the Houſes of York and Lancaster coming on, Trusts and Uſes increas'd more than ever; and although the Common Law could take no Cogniſance of them, yet there were always, until King Hen. 8th Reign, Clergymen Chancellors, who were ready upon all Occaſions to decree the Performance of the Trust and Uſe. 2 Lil. 662, 663. It hath been obſerv'd by ſome Writers, that there were no ſuch Things as Uſes at Common Law; the Reaſon was, becauſe the Feoffee was always taken as the Owner of the Land; and it was very inconvenient and abſurd that there ſhould be two ſeveral Fees, and Owners of the ſame Land ſimul & ſemel; therefore by the Common Law the Feoffees to Uſes were the very Tenants, &c. But the Statute of Uſes hath united the Eſtate to the Uſe, ſo that now the Feoffees to Uſes have no Eſtate or Intereſt at all, but in reſpect of the contingent Eſtates and Uſes limited in the Deed. 3 Salk. 386. Becauſe in Time many Deceits were invented, by ſettling the Poſſeſſion in one Man, and the Uſe in another, inſomuch that the Poſſeſſion and the Uſe were divided, which open'd a Gap for Frauds: To avoid theſe Inconveniencies, the Statute of 27 H. 8. gives the Poſſeſſion to him who has the Uſe, and as before the Statute the Poſſeſſion ruled the Uſe, ſo now the Uſe governs the Poſſeſſion; for this Reaſon in Conveyances it is ſet down in the Habendum to whoſe Uſe the Lands are conveyed, and whatever Eſtate a Man hath in the Uſe, the ſame he has in the Poſſeſſion at this Day. 1 Rep. 121. 2 Leon. cap. 25. The Stat. 27 H. 8. cap. 10. Enacts, That where any are or ſhall be ſeiſed of Lands, to the Uſe of any other, by reaſon of any Bargain and Sale, Feoffment, Fine, Recovery, Contract, Agreement, or Will, &c. he to whoſe Uſe the Lands are ſettled in Fee-ſimple, Fee-tail, for Life, Years, or otherwiſe, ſhall be eſteemed in Poſſeſſion of the Land to all Intents and Purpoſes: And where one is ſeiſed of Lands to the Uſe or Intent that another ſhall have an yearly Rent out of the ſame, Ceſtui que Uſe ſhall be deemed in Poſſeſſion and Seiſin of the ſaid Rent, and of like Eſtate as in the Uſe, &c. And if there are any Uſes limited in a new Manner, they are void. 1 Rep. 129, 138. But there are Uſes that are not executed by this Statute; as if Lands are granted to others in Trust, that the Feoffees ſhall take the Profits, and deliver them to the Feoffor and his Heirs; alſo Leaſes for Years of Lands in Uſe, (which Leaſes had their Being before, and are granted over in Uſe and Trust) where the Leſſee is poſſeſſed only of his Term, and not ſeiſed of any Freehold, &c. and there ſtill remains an Uſe of Goods and Chattels Perſonal, which is properly a Chancery Trust, wherein the Uſe and Poſſeſſion are divided; tho' in other Caſes the Statute executes Agreements as the Chancery would have done before. Wood's Inſt. 256, 257. All Lands of Inheritance, Liberties, Franchiſes, viſible or local, may be convey'd by Way of Uſe: But Inheritances Perſonal, which have no Relation to Lands or local Hereditaments, cannot be conveyed by Way of Uſe. And ſome Queſtions having been made, out of what an Uſe ſhall ariſe, it hath been held, That Uſes ſhall be raiſed only out of a Freehold, that they cannot be raiſed out of a Chattel, nor out of an Uſe, or a bare Right or Power, nor out of an intended Purchaſe, &c. Moor 509. 1 Leon. 148. 3 Salk. 386. In Uſes there ought to be Privy of Eſtate to erect the Uſe upon: And there are four Things required to the Execution of a Uſe within the Statute, viz. There muſt be a Perſon ſeiſed; but the King, or a Corporation, an Alien, &c. cannot be ſeiſed to the Uſe of another: There is to be a Ceſtui que Uſe in Being; for the Words of the Act are, Stand and be ſeiſed to the Uſe of any Perſon or Perſons: There muſt be an Uſe in Eſſe, in Poſſeſſion, Remainder, or Reverſion; and the Eſtate of the Feoffees, &c. out of which the Uſes ariſe, is to be veſted or transferred to Ceſtui que Uſe; and if any of theſe fail, the Uſe will not be executed. 1 Rep. 126. 1 Inſt. 19. 2 Cro. 50, 401. Uſes are in Eſſe, either in Poſſeſſion, Remainder, or Reverſion; or in Contingency, which by Poſſibility may fall into Poſſeſſion, or in Reverſion, &c. A Uſe is alſo expreſs, or implied; Expreſs, as when a Feoffment is made of Land to A. B. and his Heirs, to the Uſe of C. D. and the Heirs of his Body, &c. Implied, where the Uſe is not declared between the Parties, but is left to the Conſtruction of the Law: And if a Man ſeiſed of Lands makes a Feoffment in Fee, without any Conſideration, and it is not declared to whoſe Uſe, by Implication of Law it ſhall be to the Uſe of the Feoffor, &c. It hath been adjudg'd, that if by Feoffment, or Leaſe and Release, a Man conveys any particular Eſtate mediate or immediate to another Perſon, there the Reſidue of the Eſtate ſhall by Implication remain to the Uſe of the Party himſelf; but where no Eſtate is limited to another, the whole Conveyance is to no Purpoſe, if the Party be conſtrued to have the reſulting Uſe in him; indeed upon a Fine or Recovery, they may have their particular Eſtates in other Reſpects, as barring upon Non-claims or Remainders.

1 Rep. 121. 2 Roll. Abr. 781, 782. 2 Salk. 678. 3 Salk. 587. An Use may be raised two manner of Ways, 1st, By Transmutation, or departing with the Possession of the Estate. 2dly, Without Transmutation of the Estate, by keeping the Land in a Man's own Hands, and making the Possession be to the Use of another: Those Uses that arise by Transmutation of Estate, are by Feoffment, Fine, Recovery, &c. And those which arise without Transmutation, being by Bargain and Sale introlled, and covenant to stand seised to Uses. 1 Plowd. 301. 1 Inst. 271. Conveyances to Uses are of three Sorts; a Covenant to stand seised; a Feoffment, Fine, or Recovery to Uses, and a Bargain and Sale; by which last, a contingent Use cannot be supported, though by the two First it may; and there is a Difference between a Feoffment to Uses, and a Covenant to stand seised, because the Feoffor departs with his whole Estate, but the Covenantor departs with no more than what is actually vested in the Cestui que use. 2 Sid. 64, 129. In Bargains and Sales, and Covenants to stand seised, some Consideration is necessary to make those Deeds operate to Uses; the Consideration of Money in a Bargain and Sale, and natural Affection, Blood, Affinity, Marriage, &c. in the Covenant to stand seised: And they may be good to a Man's Wife or Family, without any Consideration, but not to others. Plow. 301. Dyer 169. 3 Lev. 306. The Consideration, or a Reservation of 12 d. a Penny, or a Pepper-corn, are sufficient Considerations to raise an Use. 2 Mod. 251. 3 Salk. 387. If a Man covenants in Consideration of Marriage, or of a Sum of Money paid to him, that the Covenantee shall have such Lands; the same shall change the Use immediately; for these are good Considerations either to change or raise Uses, Dyer 6. But a Person covenanteth to, make an Estate to certain Persons to certain Uses, in Consideration of Marriage; no Use arises by such bare Covenant, unless the Estate be made accordingly: So where upon Marriage there is a Covenant to levy a Fine, except the Fine be levied; but if a Fine be levied, it shall be to the Uses. Dalif. 112. 3 Lev. 306. Cro. Eliz. 401. An Use arises when declared by Estate executed, which needs no Consideration: A Fine it self without any Consideration, doth raise Uses, where a Marriage is intended; but in other Conveyances, the Consideration of Marriage will not raise an Use, if the Marriage take not Effect; because the Consideration must be executed before the Use shall arise. 1 Leon. 138. Uses may be made to a Man and the Wife he shall marry, or to his first, second, or third Wife, &c. And if Parties to a Deed declare, that one of them shall make a Feoffment, or levy a Fine to the Use and Intent that one shall hold the Land for Life, and after his Death another in Tail, and after that a Third in Fee-simple, &c. the Estate settlenth according to the Uses declared by the Deed. 1 Rep. 13, 121. A Devise may be to an Use, and be so executed: A Man makes a Feoffment to the Use of his Will, he hath the Use in the mean Time; and when the Feoffor by Will limits the Estate pursuant to his Power, the Estate takes Effect by the Feoffment, and the Use is directed by the Will. Lutw. 323. 6 Rep. 17, 18. If Uses are settled upon Condition, the Condition must first be performed; and a future Use may well rise on the Non-performance of a Condition. 2 Lill. Abr. 668. There may be a future springing Use, without a precedent Estate to support it; as a Man covenants to stand seised after his Death to the Use of his Kinsman and his Heirs, the Estate in the mean Time is in him, 2 Lev. 77. An Use is construed as favourably as may be, to comply with the Intent of the Party: Intention is the Foundation of Uses, but it ought to be out of the Words of the Deed, to be agreeable to Law, and collected and taken from the intire Deed. 1 Mod. 98. Lutw. 700, 790. If the Meaning of the Party doth appear, that he intended to pass his Estate by way of raising an Use; there the Words, Give, Grant, &c. shall enure as a Covenant to stand seised: But where it doth not appear, that he intended to pass it by way of Use; but by Conveyance at Common Law, no Use is raised. March. 50. Lands being once sold and settled to Uses, the Party that makes the Use may not create any further Uses: Where the Estate out of which an Use ariseth is gone, the Use is gone likewise; and Uses may be made void by Release, or Power of Revocation. Dyer 186. 1 Inst. 237. No Use will prevent Dower of a Woman, after her Husband's Death, &c. See Covenant to stand seised.

Superstitious Uses. By Statute, a Devise of Lands or Goods to Superstitious Uses, is where 'tis to find or maintain a Chaplain or Priest to pray for the Souls of the Dead, or Lamp in a Chapel, a Stipendiary Priest, &c. These, and such like, are declared to be Superstitious Uses; and the Lands and Goods so devised are forfeited to the King. 1 Ed. 6. cap. 14. But a Man devised Lands to Trustees and their Heirs, to find a Priest, or pray for his Soul, so long as the Laws of the Land would permit; and if the Laws would not permit it, then to apply the Profits to the Poor, with Power to convert the Profits to either of the said Uses; adjudged, this was not a Devise to any Superstitious Use. 3 Nels. Abr. 259. And where certain Profits arising out of Lands are given to Superstitious Uses, the King shall have only so much of the yearly Profits, which were to be applied to the Superstitious Use; tho' when the Land it self is given by the Testator, declaring that the Profits, without saying how much, shall be employed for such Uses, in this Case the King shall have the Land it self. Moor 129. If a Sum certain is given to a Priest, and other Goods which depend upon the Superstitious Use, all is forfeited to the King; yet if Land, &c. is given to find an Obit or Anniversary, and for another good Use; and there is no Certainty how much shall be employ'd to the Superstitious Use, the Gift to the good Use, shall preserve the Whole from Forfeiture. 4 Rep. 104. 2 Roll. 205. It has been held, that where a Superstitious Use was void, so that the King could not have it; that it was not so absolutely void, as to result to the Heir at Law; and therefore the King may apply it to Charity. 1 Salk. 163. See the Stat. 23 Hen. 8. under Mortmain; and the 1 Geo. Title Forfeiture.

Uter de Action, Is the Pursuing or Bringing an Action, in the proper County, &c. Broke 64.

Usher, (Fr. Huissier, a Door-keeper) Is an Officer in the King's House, as of the Privy Chamber, &c. And there are Ushers of the Courts of Chancery and Exchequer.

Ufucaption, (Ufucaptio) Signifies the Enjoying by Continuance of Time; a long Possession, or Prescription. Terms de Ley.

Usufructuary, (Usufructuarius) One that hath the Use, and reaps the Profit of a Thing.

Usurpation, (Usurpatio) Is the Using that which is another's; an Interruption or Disturbing a Man in his Right and Possession, &c. The Usurpation of a Church Benefice is, when one that hath no Right, presenteth to the Church, and his Clerk is admitted and instituted into it, and hath quiet Possession six Months after Institution before a Quare Impedit brought: It must commence upon a Presentation, not a Collation; because by a Collation the Church is not full, but the right Patron may bring his Writ at any Time to remove the Usurper. 1 Inst. 277. 6 Rep. 30. And by Usurpation, the Fee of an Advowson may be gained, as well as the Avoidance upon which the Usurpation is made; and the true Patron cannot remove the Incumbent to gain the Possession, without a Writ of Right of Advowson, which he is driven to for recovery of the Inheritance. 6 Rep. 49. At Common Law the Patron in Fee was put out of Possession by an Usurpation, and to recover the Advowson it self by a Writ of Right; but he hath no Remedy for the Presentation hac vice, nor if another Avoidance happen, unless he bring his Writ of Right of Advowson, and recontinue the Advowson: If the Patron had the Advowson in Tail, or for Life, this Turn and also his whole Advowson was gone. 3 Salk. 388. An Usurpation upon a Lessee for Years, gains the Fee-simple, and puts the true Patron out of Possession; and tho' by the Stat. Westm. 2. he in Reversion after the Determination of the Lease for Years, may have a Quare Impedit when the Church is void, or may present; and if his Clerk is instituted and inducted, then he is remitted to his former Title; yet till that is done, the Usurper hath the Fee, and the Writ of Right of Advowson lies against him. Hutt. 66. 3 Salk. 389. Upon the Statute 1 Eliz. if an Usurpation be on a Bishop, it shall bind him; but his Successor may present to the next Avoidance, or bring a Quare Impedit, altho' he is out of Possession: All Usurpations shall bind the Bishop who suffers them; not their Successors. 1 Leon. 80. 2 Cro. 673. No one can usurp upon the King; but an Usurpation may dispossess him of his Presentation, so as he shall be obliged to bring a Quare Impedit; tho' it will not so devert his Estate in an Advowson, as to bind his Inheritance, and put him to a Writ of Right. 3 Salk. 389. If one presents to a Church in Time of War, the Presentment shall not put the rightful Patron out of Possession: And a Presentation which is void in Law, as in Case of Simony, or to a Church that is full, &c. makes no Usurpation. 2 Rep. 93. Wood's Inst. 160. Also by a late Statute, no Usurpation on any Avoidance, shall displace the Estate or Interest of any Person intitled to an Advowson; or hinder him to present upon the next Avoidance, or to maintain a Quare Impedit to recover Possession, &c. 7 Ann. c. 18.

Usurpation of Franchises and Liberties, Is when a Subject unjustly uses any royal Franchises, &c. And it is said to be an Usurpation upon the King, who shall have the Writ of Quo Warranto against the Usurpers. See Quo Warranto.

Usury, (Usura) Is Money given for the Use of Money, the Interest of it; and is particularly defined to be the Gain of any Thing by Contract above the Principal, or that which was lent, exacted in Consideration of the Loan thereof, whether it be of Money, or any other Thing. 3 Inst. 151. The Lending Money out at Interest, or upon Usury, was against the Common Law; and in former Times, if any one after his Death had been found to be a Usurer, all his Goods and Chattels were forfeited to the King, &c. And according to several antient Statutes, all Usury is unlawful; but at this Time neither the Common or Statute Law, absolutely prohibit Usury. 3 Inst. 151, 152. Tho' excessive Usury is liable to the Forfeiture of treble Value of the Money taken, by Statute; and if Judgment cannot be given on the Statute, if it be found that a Person took Money for Forbearance by corrupt Agreement, Judgment may be given against him at Common Law, which is Fine and Imprisonment. 3 Salk. 391. Reasonable Interest may be taken for the Use of Money at this Day; tho' it hath been decreed in Equity, that if on a Bond-Debt, the Interest hath out-run the Penalty, it shall not carry Interest beyond it. 1 Salk. 154. The Stat. 27 Hen. 8. cap. 9. allowed 10 l. per Cent. for Money lent on Mortgages, &c. The 13 Eliz. c. 8. ordain'd 8 l. per Cent. And the 21 Jac. 1. cap. 17. the like Interest. The 12 Car. 2. cap. 13. lowered the Interest of Money to 6 l. per Cent. And the 12 Ann. cap. 16. to 5 l. per Centum per Annum. But it is said, that the Statutes 13 Eliz. and 21 Jac. 1. allow not Usury, but punish the Excess of it; and the 12 Ann. is called the Statute against Excessive Usury. By the Stat. 12 Ann. c. 16. no Person shall take directly or indirectly, for Loan of any Money, or other Thing, above the Value of 5 l. for the Forbearance of 100 l. for a Year, and so proportionably for a greater or less Sum; and all Bonds, Contracts, and Assurances made for Payment of any principal Sum to be lent on Usury, above the Rate of 5 l. per Cent. shall be void: And whoever shall take, accept and receive by way of corrupt Bargain, Loan, &c. a greater Interest, shall forfeit treble the Value of the Money lent; and Scriveners, Solicitors and Drivers of Bargains, are not to take above 5 s. for the Procuring the Loan of 100 l. a Year, on Pain of forfeiting 20 l. &c. It hath been adjudged on this Statute, that a Contract for 6 l. per Cent. made before the Statute, is not within the Meaning of it; and therefore that it is still lawful to receive such Interest, in respect of any such Contract: And if a Man, when Interest was at 6 l. per Cent. lent Money on that Rate, and after the Statute comes and sinks the Interest to 5 l. per Cent. if he continues the old Interest on that Bond, the Bond shall not be void as usurious; but it is said the Party shall be liable to forfeit treble Value. 1 Hawk. 246. 1 Mod. 69. The Receipt of higher Interest than is allowed by the Statute, by Virtue of an Agreement subsequent to the first Contract, doth not avoid an Assurance fairly made; and a Bond made to secure a just Debt, payable with lawful Interest, shall not be avoided by a corrupt usurious Agreement between others, to which the Obligee was no way privy: Nor shall Mistakes in drawing Writings make void a fair Agreement. Ibid. A Fine levied, or Judgment suffered as a Security for Money, in Pursuance of an usurious Contract, may be avoided by an Averment of the corrupt Agreement; as well as any common Specialty, or parol Contract: And it is not material, whether the Payment of the Principal and the usurious Interest, be secured by the same, or by different Conveyances, veyances, for all Writings whatsoever for the Strengthening such a Contract are void; also a Contract reserving to the Lender a greater Advantage than allowed, is usurious, if the Whole is reserv'd by way of Interest, or in Part only under that Name, and in Part by way of Rent for a House, let at a Rate plainly exceeding the known Value; so where Part is taken before the End of the Time, that the Borrower hath not the Profit of the whole Principal Money, &c. 1 Hawk. P. C. 248. 3 Nelf. Abr. 509. It is not Usury, if there be not a corrupt Agreement, for more than Statute Interest; and the Defendant shall not be punish'd, unless he receive some Part of the Money in Affirmance of the usurious Agreement. 3 Salk. 390. There can be no Usury, without a Loan; and the Court hath distinguished between a Bargain and a Loan. 1 Lutw. 273. Sid. 27. If a Man lend another 100*l.* for two Years, to pay for the Loan 30*l.* and if he pays the Principal at the Year's End, he shall pay nothing for Interest; this is not Usury, because the Party may pay it at the first Year's End, and so discharge himself. Cro. Jac. 509. 5 Rep. 69. And it is the same where a Person by special Agreement, is to pay double the Sum borrowed, by way of Penalty, for Nonpayment of the principal Debt; the Penalty being in Lieu of Damages, and the Borrower might repay the Principal at the Time agreed, and avoid the Penalty. 2 Inst. 89. 2 Roll. Abr. 801. A Man surrenders a Copyhold Estate to another upon Condition that if he pays 80*l.* at a certain Day, then the Surrender to be void; and after it is agreed between them that the Money shall not be paid, but that the Surrenderor shall forfeit, &c. In Consideration whereof, the Surrenderee promises to pay to the Surrenderor on a certain Day 60*l.* or 6*l.* per Ann. from the said Day pro usu & Interesse of the said 60*l.* till that Sum is paid: This 6*l.* shall be taken to be Interesse Damnum, and not Lucri, and but limited as a Penalty for Nonpayment of the 60*l.* as a Nomine pœne, &c. 2 Roll. Rep. 469. 1 Danv. Abr. 44. If one hath a Rent-charge of 30*l.* and another asketh what he shall give for it, and they agree for 100*l.* this is a plain Contract for the Rent-charge, and no Usury. 3 Nelf. 510. The Grant of an Annuity for Lives, not only exceeding the Rate allowed for Interest, but also the Proportion for Contracts of this Kind, in Consideration of a certain Sum of Money, is not within the Statutes against Usury; and so of a Grant of an Annuity, on Condition, &c. Cro. Jac. 253. 2 Lev. 7. Where Interest exceeds 5*l.* per Cent. per Annum on a Bond, if possibly the Principal and Interest are in Hazard, upon a Contingency, or Casualty; or if there is a Hazard that one may have less than his Principal, as when a Bond is to pay Money upon the Return of a Ship from Sea, &c. these are not Usury. 2 Cro. 208, 508. 1 Cro. 27. Shou. 8. One hundred Pounds is lent to have 120*l.* at the Year's End, upon a Casualty; if the Casualty goes to the Interest only, and not to the Principal, it is Usury: The Difference in the Books is, that where the Principal and Interest are both in Danger of being lost, there the Contract for extraordinary Interest is not usurious; but when the Principal is well secur'd, 'tis otherwise. 3 Salk. 391. If a Person secure the Interest and Principal, and it is at the Will of the Party who is to pay, it is no Usury. Cro. Jac. 509. And a Lender accepting a voluntary Gratuity from the Borrower, on Payment of Principal and Interest; or receiving the Interest before due, &c. without any corrupt Agreement, shall not be within the Statutes against Usury. 2 Cro. 677. 3 Cro. 501. On an Information upon the Statute of Usury, he who borrows the Money may be a Witness, after he hath paid the Money. Raym. 191. In Action for Usury, the Statute against Usury must be pleaded; and a corrupt Agreement be set forth: It is not sufficient to plead the Statute, and say that for the Lending of 20*l.* he took more than 5*l.* per Cent. without setting forth a corrupt Agreement or Contract. Lutw. 466. 2 Lill. 672. 3 Nelf. 514. And in pleading an usurious Contract by way of Bar to an Action, the whole Matter is to be set forth specially, because it lay within the Party's own Privy; but in an Information on the Statute for making such a Contract, it is enough to mention the corrupt Bargain generally, by Reason Matters of this Kind are supposed to be privily transacted; and such Information may be brought by a Stranger. 1 Hawk. 248. The Word Corruptive is necessary in a Declaration for Usury, &c.

Utas, Octava, Is the eighth Day following any Term or Feast; as the Utas of St. Michael, &c. And any Day between the Feast and the Octave is said to be within the Utas: The Use of this is in the Return of Writ; as appears by the Stat. 51 Hen. 3.

Utensil, Is any Thing necessary for Use and Occupation; Household-stuff. Cowel.

Uroziun, A Mulct or Fine paid for not marrying. Litt. Dist.

W.

Wade, (Vado) To wade or ford over a River. Litt.

Wastors, (Wastores) Are Conductors of Vessels at Sea; King Edw. 4. constituted certain Officers with naval Power, whom he stiled Custodes, Conductores and Wastores, to guard our Fishing Vessels on the Coasts of Norfolk and Suffolk. Pat. 22 Ed. 4.

Wage, (Vadiare, from Fr. Gage) Signifies the Giving of Security for Performance of any Thing; as to wage or gage Deliverance, to wage Law, &c. Co. Litt. 294.

Wager of Law, (Vadiare Legem) Is where an Action of Debt is brought against a Man, upon a simple Contract between the Parties, without Deed or Record; and the Defendant swears in Court in the Presence of his Compurgators, that he oweth the Plaintiff nothing in Manner and Form as he hath declared: And the Reason of Waging of Law is, because the Defendant may pay to the Plaintiff his Debt in private, or before Witnesses which may be all dead, and therefore the Law allows him to wage his Law in his Discharge; and his Oath shall rather be accepted to discharge himself, than the Law will suffer him to be charged upon the bare Allegation of the Plaintiff. 2 Inst. 45. The Manner of Waging of Law is thus: He that is to do it, must bring six Compurgators with him into Court, and stand at the End of the Bar towards the Right-hand of the Chief Justice; and the Secondary asks him, whether he will wage his Law? If he answers that he will, the Judges admonish him to be well advised, and tell him the Danger of taking a false Oath; and if he still persists, the Secondary says, and he that Wageth his Law repeats after him: Hear this ye Justices, That A. B. do not owe to C. D. the Sum of, &c. nor any Penny thereof in Manner and Form as the said C. D. hath declared against me: So help me God. Though before he takes the Oath, the Plaintiff is called by the Crier thrice; and if he do not appear he becomes nonsuited, and then the Defendant goes quit without taking his Oath; but if he appear, and swears that he owes the Plaintiff nothing, and the Compurgators do give in upon Oath that they believe he swears true, the Plaintiff is barred for ever; for when a Person has waged his Law, it is as much as if a Verdict had passed against the Plaintiff: If the Plaintiff do not appear to hear the Defendant perform his Law, so that he is nonsuit; he is not barred, but may bring a new Action. 1 Inst. 155. 2 Lill. Abr. 674. In an Action of Debt on a By-Law, the Defendant waged Law; a Day being given on the Roll for him to come and make his Law, he was set on the right Corner of the Bar, and the Secondary ask'd him if he was ready to wage his Law; who answering that he was, he laid his Hand on the Book, and then the Plaintiff was called: Then the Judges admonished him and his Compurgators not to swear rashly; and thereupon he made Oath, That he did not owe the Money modo & forma as the Plaintiff had declared; and then his Compurgators, who were standing behind him, were called, and each of them laying his Right-hand upon the Book, made Oath that they believed what the Defendant had sworn was true. 2 Ventr. 171. 2 Salk. 682. The Defendant cannot wage his Law in any Action, but personal Actions, where the Cause is secret; and Wager of Law has been denied, on hearing the Case, and the Defendant been advised to plead to Issue, &c. Also this Wager of Law being abused by the Iniquity of the Times, the Law was forc'd to find another Way to do Justice, and that was by turning Actions of Debt on simple Contract, &c. into Action upon the Case by Indebitat. Assumpsit, which hath ousted the Defendant of his Ley-Gager. 2 Lill. 675, 676.

Wagers. By Statute, all Wagers laid upon a Contingency relating to the late War with France, and all Securities, &c. therefore were declared to be void; and Persons concerned to forfeit double the Sums laid. 7 Ann. cap. 17.

Wages, Is what is agreed upon by a Master to be paid to a Servant, or any other Person which he hires to do Business for him. 2 Lill. Abr. 677. The Wages of Servants, Labourers, &c. is to be assessed by Justices. 5 Eliz. cap. 4. 1 Fac. 1. cap. 6. See Servants. Wages of Seamen, vide Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. 1. Geo. c. 25.

Waggons. The 22 Car. 2. enacted, That Waggons should not be drawn with more than five Horses in Length, under certain Penalties. By the 6 Ann. cap. 29. Waggons were to be drawn with six Horses, and no more, on Pain of 5 l. But Carriages for drawing Hay, Straw, Coal, Timber, Ammunition, &c. were excepted out of the Statute. And by 5 Geo. cap. 12. Waggons travelling for Hire, shall not be drawn with more than six Horses; and no Cart with above three Horses, on Pain of forfeiting all supernumerary Horses; also Travelling Waggons are to have their Wheels bound with Iron, two Inches and a Half broad, at least, or all the Horses shall be forfeited above the Number of Three, &c.

Waifs, (From the Sax. Wafian, Fr. Chose guaiue, Lat. Bona Waviata) Are Goods which are stolen and waved, or left by the Felon, on his being pursued, for fear of being apprehended; which are forfeited to the King or Lord of the Manor. Kitch. 81. If a Felon in Pursuit waves the Goods, or having them in his Custody, and thinking that Pursuit was made, for his own Ease and more speedy Flight, flies away and leaves the Goods behind him; then the King's Officer or the Bailiff of the Lord of the Manor, within whose Jurisdiction they are left, who hath the Franchise of Waif, may seize the Goods to the King or Lord's Use and keep them, except the Owner makes fresh Pursuit after the Felon, and sue an Appeal of Robbery within a Year and a Day, or give Evidence against him whereby he is attainted, &c. In which Case, the Owner shall have Restitution of his Goods so stolen and waved. 21 H. 8. cap. 11. 5 Rep. 109. Goods waved by a Felon, in his Flight from those who pursue him, shall be forfeited: And though Waif is generally spoken of Goods stolen; yet if a Man be pursued with Hue and Cry as a Felon, and he flies and leaves his own Goods, these will be forfeited as Goods stolen; but they are properly Fugitives Goods, and not forfeited till it be found before the Coroner, or otherwise of Record, that he fled for the Felony. 2 Hawk. 450. 5 Rep. The Law makes a Forfeiture of Goods waved, as a Punishment to the Owner of the Goods, for not bringing the Felon to Justice: But if the Thief had not the Goods in his Possession, when he fled, there is no Forfeiture: If a Felon steal Goods and hide them, and afterwards flies, these Goods are not forfeited; so where he leaves stolen Goods any where, with an Intent to fetch them at another Time, they are not waved; and in these Cases the Owner may take his Goods where he finds them, without fresh Suit, &c. Cro. Eliz. 694. 5 Rep. 109. Moor 785. Waifs and Strays are said to be Nullius in bonis, and therefore they belong to the Lord of the Franchise where found. Briton, cap. 17. We read of Placita Corona & Waif, in the Manor of Upton, &c. in Com. Salop.

Wain, (Plaustrum) A Cart, Waggon, or Plough to till Land.

Wainable, i. e. That may be ploughed or manured; Land tillable. Chart. sine dat.

Wainage,

Wainage, (Wainagium) According to Sir Edw. Coke, signifies the Contenement of a Villain; or the Furniture of his Cart or Wain. 2 Inst. 28. And the Villain of any other, if he fall into our Mercy, shall be amerced saving his Wainage. Magn. Chart. c. 14. Wainage has been also used for Tillage. Mon. Ang. Tom. 2. pag. 612. Wales, (Wallia) Is part of England on the West-side formerly divided into three Provinces, North-Wales, South-Wales, and West-Wales, and inhabited by the Off-spring of the ancient Britains, chased thither by the Saxons, called in to assist them against the Picts and Scots; but now they are incorporated to England. Lamb. Stat. Wallie, 12 Ed. 1. The Stat. 28 Ed. 3. c. 2. annexed the Marches of Wales perpetually to the Crown of England; so as not to be of the Principality of Wales: And by the 27 Hen. 8. c. 26. Wales was incorporated and united with England; and all Persons born in Wales shall enjoy the like Liberties as those born in England, and Lands descend there according to the English Laws: The Laws of England are to be executed in Wales; and the King to have a Chancery and Exchequer at Brecknock and Denbigh: Officers of Law and Ministers shall keep Courts in the English Tongue: And the Welsh Laws and Customs to be inquired into by Commission, and such of them as shall be thought fit continued; but the Laws and Customs of North Wales are saved. By 34 & 35 Hen. 8. cap. 26. A Division of Wales was made into twelve Counties; and a President and Council, shall remain in Wales and the Marches thereof, with Officers, &c. Two Justices are to be assign'd to hold a Sessions twice every Year, and determine Pleas of the Crown, and Assises; and Justices of Peace shall be appointed as in England, &c. The 18 Eliz. cap. 8. enacts, That the King may appoint two other Persons learned in the Laws, to be Judges in each of the Welsh Circuits, which had but one Justice before; or grant Commissions of Association, &c. An Office for Inrollments was erected, and the Fees and Proceedings regulated in passing Fines and Recoveries in Wales, by 27 Eliz. cap. 9. Jurors return'd to try Issues in Wales, are to have 6 l. a Year of Freehold or Copyhold, above Rerprises: And none shall be held to Bail in Wales, unless Affidavit be made that the Cause of Action is 20 l. or upwards. 11 & 12 W. 3. cap. 9. Waltham Blacks. In the Reign of K. Geo. 1. there sprung up a Set of desperate Villains call'd Waltham Blacks, headed by one whom they stiled K. John; who blacking their Faces, and using other Disguises, robb'd Forests, Parks, and Warrens, destroy'd Cattle, levied Money on their Neighbours, by Threats and Menaces to fire their Houses, and committed divers other Violences and Outrages, to the great Terror of the People; but they were suppressed, and declared Fellons, by Stat. 9 Geo. c. 22.

Wang, (Sax.) We use for the Cheek, or Jaw wherein the Teeth are set: Hence Chaucer called the Cheek-Teeth or Grinders, Wangs or Wang-Teeth; which is recorded in this old Way of sealing Writings:

I bite the Wax with my Wang-tooth.

Wanlafs, Or driving the Wanlafs, is to drive Deer to a Stand, that the Lord may have a Shoot; which is one of our ancient customary Tenures of Lands. Blount's Ten. 140.

Wapentake, (From the Sax. Weapen, i. e. Armatura, & tac, tactus) Is all one with what we call a Hundred; specially used in the North Counties beyond the River Trent. Bract. lib. 3. Lamb. The Words seem to be of Danish Original, and to be called so for this Reason; when first this Kingdom, or Part thereof, was divided into Wapentakes, he who was the Chief of the Wapentake or Hundred, and whom we now call a High Constable, as soon as he enter'd upon his Office, appeared in the Field on a certain Day on Horseback with a Pike in his Hand, and all the chief Men of the Hundred met him there with their Lances, and touch'd his Pike; which was a Sign that they were firmly united to each other, by the Touching their Weapons. Hoveden. Flea, lib. 2. But Sir Thomas Smith says, That anciently Mustlers were made of the Armour and Weapons of the several Inhabitants of every Wapentake; and from those that could not find sufficient Pledges for their good Abearing, their Weapons were taken away, and given to others; from whence he derives this Word. *Rep. War, (Bellum) A Fighting between two Kings or Princes, in Vindication of their just Rights; also the State of War, or all the Time it lasts. By our Law, when the Courts of Justice are open, so that the King's Judges distribute Justice to all, and protect Men from Wrong and Violence, it is said to be a Time of Peace: But when by Invasion, Rebellion, &c. the peaceable Course of Justice is stop'd, then it is adjudged to be a Time of War: And this shall be tried by the Records and Judges, whether Justice at such a Time had her equal Course of Proceeding or no? For Time of War gives Privilege to them that are in War, and all others within the Kingdom.

dom. 1 Inst. 249. In the Civil Wars of K. Char. 1. it was computed that there were not fewer than 200,000 Foot and 50,000 Horse in Arms on both Sides; which was an extraordinary Host, considering it compos'd of Britains, sufficient to have shaken Europe, though it was otherwise fatally employ'd. And in ancient Times, when the Kings of England were to be serv'd with Soldiers in their Wars, a Knight or Esquire that had Revenues, Farmers and Tenants, would covenant with the King by Indenture inrolled in the Exchequer, to furnish him with such a Number of military Men; and those Men were to serve under him, whom they knew and honoured, and with whom they must live at their Return. 1 Inst. 71. This was an excellent Institution; but we have had many Statutes which have alter'd this Method of recruiting the Army, by introducing the Lifting of Soldiers, and retaining them by Virtue of Money paid and advanced, &c. See Laws of Arms, and Soldiers.

Wara, A certain Quantity or Measure of Ground. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. p. 128.

Ward, (Custodia) Is variously used in our old Books: A Ward in London is a District or Division of the City, committed to the special Charge of one of the Aldermen; and in London there are Twenty-six Wards, according to the Number of the Mayor and Aldermen, of which every one has his Ward for his proper Guard and Jurisdiction. Stow's Surv. A Forest is divided into Wards; according to Manwood, par. 1. p. 97. And a Prison is called a Ward. Lastly, The Heir of the King's Tenant, that held in Capite, was term'd a Ward, during his Nonage. 32 Hen. 8. cap. 46. But this Wardship is taken away by the Stat. 12 Car. 2. c. 24.

Warda, The Custody of a Town or Castle; which the Inhabitants were bound to keep at their own Charge. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. p. 372.

Wardage, (Wardagium) Seems to signify to be free from Wardship, &c.

Warden, (Gardianus, Fr. Gardein) Is he that hath the Keeping or Charge of any Persons or Things by Office; as the Wardens of the Fellowships or Companies in London. 14 H. 8. c. 2. Wardens of the Lands contributory to Rocheſter Bridge. 18 El. cap. 7. Wardens of the Marches of Wales, &c. 4 Hen. 7. cap. 8. Wardens of the Tables of the King's Exchange. 2 Ed. 3. cap. 7. Warden of the Armour in the Tower. 1 Ed. 4. cap. 1. Wardens of the Rolls of the Chancery. 1 Ed. 4. c. 5. Warden of the King's Writs and Records of his Court of Common Bench. Ibid. Warden and Minor Canons of St. Paul's Church, London. 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 2, &c. See Guardian.

Wardmote, (Wardmotus) Is a Court kept in every Ward in London; ordinarily called the Wardmote-Court. Chart. K. Hen. 2.

Wardpeny, Money paid and contributed to Watch and Ward. Domesday.

Wards, Was a Court first erected in the Reign of King Hen. 8. and afterwards augmented by him with the Office of Liveries; wherefore it was filed the Court of Wards and Liveries, now discharged by the 12 Car. 2.

Ward-Staff, The Constable or Watchman's Staff: And the Manor of Lambourn in Essex is held by the Service of watching the Ward-Staff, in an extraordinary Manner, when it is brought to the Town of Aibridge. Camd.

Wareſtare, To plough up Land design'd for Wheat in the Spring, in order to let it lie fallow for better Improvement; which in Kent is called Summer Land: Hence Wareſtabilis campus, a Fallow Field, Campus ad Wareſtam, Terra Wareſtata, &c.

Wargus, A banished Rogue. Leg. Hen. 1. cap. 83.

Warniſſura, Is used for Garniture, Furniture, Provision, &c. Pat. 9 Hen. 3.

Warnoth. It is an ancient Custom, if any Tenant holding of the Castle of Dover failed in paying his Rent at the Day, that he should forfeit double, and for the second Failure treble: And the Lands so held are called Terris Cultis & Terris de Warnoth. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. p. 589.

Warrant, A Precept under Hand and Seal to some Officer to bring an Offender before the Person granting it: And Warrants of Commitment are issued by the Privy Council, a Secretary of State, or a Justice of Peace, where there hath been a private Information, or a Witness has depos'd against an Offender. Wood's Inst. 614. But a Constable ought not to execute a Justice's Warrant, where the Warrant is unlawful, or the Justice hath no Jurisdiction; if he doth, he may be punished. Plowd. 394. If any Person abuse by throwing in the Dirt, &c. or refuse to execute a lawful Warrant; it is a Contempt of the King's Process, for which the Offender may be indicted and fined. Cromp. 149. See Constable.

Warrant of Attorney, Is an Authority and Power given by a Client to his Attorney, to appear and plead for him; or to suffer Judgment to pass against him by confessing the Action, by Nil dicit, Non sum Informatus, &c. And although a Warrant of Attorney given by a Man in Custody to confess a Judgment, no Attorney being present, is void as to the Entry of a Judgment; yet it may be a good Warrant to appear and file Common Bail. 2 Lill. Abr. 682. A Warrant of Attorney which warrants the Action, is of Course put in by the Attornies for the Plaintiff and Defendant; so that it differs from a Letter of Attorney, which passes ordinarily under the Hand and Seal of him that makes it, and is made before Witnesses, &c. Though a Warrant of Attorney to suffer a common Recovery by the Tenant, is acknowledged before such Persons as a Commission for the Doing thereof directs. West's Symb. par. 2. Vide Stat. 4 & 5 Ann.

Warranty, (Warrantia) Is a Promise or Covenant by Deed made by the Bargainor, for himself and his Heirs, to warrant or secure the Bargainee and his Heirs, against all Men for the Enjoying of the Thing granted. Braſt. lib. 2. & 5. West's Symb. par. 1. A Warranty is Real or Personal; Real, when it concerns Lands or Tenements, granted in Fee, or for Life, &c. And real Warranties are either in Deed, as by the Word Warrantizo expressly; or in Law, by the Word Dedi, &c. And a Deed of Gift, and Exchange, have a Warranty in Law implied. Litt. 697. Sir Edw. Coke defines a real Warranty to be a Covenant Real annex'd to Lands, whereby a Man and his Heirs are bound to warrant the same to some other and his Heirs; and that they shall quietly hold and enjoy the Lands, and upon Voucher, or by Writ of Warrantia Charta, to yield other Lands and Tenements to the Value of those that shall be evicted by elder Title: And Warranty being a Covenant real, bindeth to yield Lands in Recompence. 1 Inst. 365, 384. Warranty is also of three Sorts, viz. Warranty Lineal, Warranty Collateral, and Warranty that that commences by Disseisin: Warranty lineal is where a Man seised in Fee makes a Feoffment and binds himself and his Heirs by the Deed to Warranty, and hath Issue a Son and dies, and the Warranty descends to his Son and Heir; for if no Deed with Warranty had been made, then the Right of the Lands should have descended to the Son as Heir to his Father, and he would have convey'd the Descent from Father to Son: This Warranty binds the Right of Fee-simple; but not the Right of an Estate-tail, unless the lineal Warranty be with Affets in Fee-simple. Litt. 697, 703. 1 Inst. 374. Collateral Warranty is when the Party upon whom the Warranty descends, cannot convey the Title which he hath in the Land from him that made the Warranty, or shew that he is his Heir, &c. as if Tenant in Tail discontinues or alienates the Lands, and then dieth, leaving Issue, and the Uncle of the Issue releases to the Discontinuee with Warranty, and dies without Issue; this is a collateral Warranty to the Issue in Tail, and bindeth his Right, without Affets, it descending upon him, and he can't make a Title to the Intail from his Uncle. Litt. 704. 1 Inst. 373, 376. Warranty by Disseisin, is where one that hath no Right to the Freehold of another, entereth and conveyeth it away with Warranty; which shall not bind or bar the Person disseised: And if where Tenant for Life, Remainder in Tail, leases for Years with Agreement with the Lessee, that he shall make a Feoffment of the Land, and then he will release with Warranty, which is done accordingly; adjudged that this collateral Warranty commencing by Disseisin, shall not bind the Heir in Tail, upon whom it descended. Litt. 698. Noy's Max. 83. Cro. Car. 483. Accomp. Conv. 1. Vol. 56. All Warranties before the Statute of Gloucester, which descended to those who were Heirs to the Warrantors, were Bars to the same Heirs to demand any of the Lands; except the Warranty began by Disseisin: That Statute hath ordain'd, that the Warranty of the Father shall be no Bar to his Son for the Lands which come by the Heritage of the Mother; nor the Warranty of the Mother be binding to the Son for the Lands which come by the Heritage of the Father; but neither the Statute 11 H. 7. c. 20. or any other Statute hath provided any Remedy against a collateral Warranty, therefore such Warranty is yet in Force, and shall be a Bar to the Issue in Tail. Litt. Terms de Ley 370, 371. But by the 4 & 5 Ann. for Amendment of the Law, Warranties made by Tenant for Life, of any Lands, coming or descending on him in Reversion or Remainder, shall be void; and all collateral Warranties made of any Lands, &c. by any Ancestor, who hath not an Estate of Inheritance in Possession therein, shall be also void against the Heir. A Warranty according Law is intire, and extends to all the Lands, and is a Bar to every Person on whom it descends; and where several have a Right, jointly or severally, every one of them are barred: Though there is this Difference as to Warranties; where the Entry is gone, and only a Right of Action is left, there a Warranty descending upon the Heir at Law, shall bind: And where there is a Right of Entry, it shall not bind. 8 Rep. 54. 2 Lill. Abr. 684. And if any Person make a Deed with Warranty, by which his Heir should be barred, and after the Warrantor is attainted of Felony; his Heir shall not be bound by such Warranty, for it cannot descend upon him, the Blood being corrupted. Litt. If a Warranty descend upon an Infant, it shall not bind him, in Case his Entry into the Lands be lawful; but he must take Care not to suffer a Descent after his full Age, before he hath made his Re-entry. 1 Rep. 140. Poph. 71. Warranty may be added to any Conveyance of Lands, Tenements, or Hereditaments; and the Form of a Warranty is in this Manner — Et Ego prefatus A. B. & heredes mei predicti. Messuag. & decem acras terra cum pertinentiis suis, prefato C. D. hereditibus & assignatis suis contra omnes gentes Warrantizabimus in perpetuum per presentes, &c.

Warranty of Goods sold, vide Action on the Case, and Sale.

Warrantia Charta, Is a Writ that lieth where a Man is infeoff'd of Lands with Warranty, and then he is sued or impleaded. If the Feoffee be impleaded in Assise, or other Action, in which he cannot vouch, he shall have this Writ against the Feoffor, or his Heirs, to compel them to warrant the Land unto him; and if the Land be recovered from him, he shall recover as much Lands in Value against the Warrantor, &c. But the Warrantia Charta ought to be brought by the Feoffee depending the first Writ against him, or he hath lost his Advantage. F. N. B. 134. Terms de Ley 372, 588. And if a Person doth infeoff another of Lands by Deed with Warranty, and the Feoffee maketh a Feoffment over, and taketh back an Estate in Fee, the Warranty is determined; and he shall not have the Writ Warrantia Charta, because he is in of another Estate: Also where one makes a Feoffment in Fee with Warranty against him and his Heirs, the Feoffee shall not have a Warrantia Charta upon this Warranty against the Feoffor or his Heirs, if he be impleaded by them, but the Nature of it is to rebut against the Feoffor and his Heirs. Dal. 48. 2 Lill. Abr. 684. This Writ may be sued forth before a Man is impleaded in any Action, but the Writ doth suppose that he is impleaded; and if the Defendant appear and say, that he is not impleaded, by that Plea he confesseth the Warranty, and the Plaintiff shall have Judgment, &c. and the Party shall recover in Value of the Lands against the Vouchee, which he had at the Time of the Purchase of his Warrantia Charta; and therefore it may be good Policy to bring it against him before he is sued, to bind the Lands as he had at that Time; for if he have aliened his Lands before the Voucher, he shall render nothing in Value. New Nat. Br. 298, 299. If a Man recover his Warranty in Warrantia Charta, and after he is impleaded; he ought to give Notice to him against whom he had recovered, of the Action, and pray him to shew what Plea he will plead, to defend the Land, &c.

Warrantia Diei, Is an ancient Writ lying where one having a Day assign'd personally to appear in Court to any Action, is in the mean Time employ'd in the King's Service, so that he cannot come at the Day appointed: And it is directed to the Justices to this End, that they neither take nor record him in Default for that Time. Reg. Orig. 18. F. N. B. 17.

Warren, (Warvenna, from Germ. Wahren, i. e. Custodire, or the Fr. Garenne) Is a Franchise, or Place privileged, by Prescription or Grant from the King, for the Keeping of Beasts and Fowls of the Warren; which are Hares and Conies, Partridges, Pheasants, and some add Quails, Woodcocks, and Water-Fowl, &c. Terms de Ley

589. 1 Inst. 233. A Person may have a Warren in another's Land, for one may alien the Land, and reserve the Franchise: But none can make a Warren, and appropriate those Creatures that are Fere Natura, without Licence from the King, or where a Warren is claim'd by Prescription. 8 Rep. 108. 11 Rep. 87. A Warren may lie open; and there is no Necessity of Inclosing it, as there is of a Park. 4 Inst. 318. And if any Person offend in a free Warren, he is punishable by the Common Law, and by Stat. 21 Ed. 3. When Conies are on the Soil of the Party, he hath a Property in them by Reason of the Possession, and Action lies for Killing them; but if they run out of the Warren, and eat up a Neighbour's Corn, the Owner of the Land may kill them, and no Action will lie. 5 Rep. 104. 1 Cro. 548. In Waste, &c. against a Lessee of a Warren, the Waste assign'd was for stopping Coney-Boroughs; and it was held, that this Action did not lie, because a Man cannot have the Inheritance of Conies; and Action may be brought against him who makes Holes in the Land, but not against him that stops them, by Reason the Land is made better by it. Owen 66. 3 Nelf. Abr. 530.

Warscot, Was a Contribution usually made towards Armour, in the Times of the Saxons. Leg. Canut.

Wart, Seems to be the same as Ward-pen; a customary Payment for some Castle-Guard. Blount's Ten. 60.

Wash, (Washum) A Shallow Part of a River, or Arm of the Sea; as the Washes in Lincolnshire, &c. Knight 1346.

Wassail, (Sax.) A festival Song, heretofore sung from Door to Door, about the Time of the Epiphany.

Waste, (Vastum) Is where any Spoil or Destruction is made in Houses, Lands, Woods, &c. by Tenants to the Damage of the Heir, or him in Reversion or Remainder: Whereupon the Writ or Action of Waste is brought for Recovery of the Thing wasted, and Damages. Kitch. 168. Waste in another Signification is taken for those Lands which are not in any Man's Occupation, but lie Common; which are so called, because the Lord cannot make such Profit of them as of other Lands, by Reason of that Use which others have thereof in passing to and fro, &c. but upon this none may build, cut down Trees, or dig, without the Lord's Licence. Co. Litt. And Year, Day and Waste is a Punishment or Forfeiture belonging to Petit Treason and Felony. S. P. C. lib. 3. Action of Waste is maintainable against Tenant by the Curtesy, in Dower, for Life, or Years, and treble Damages, recoverable by the Stat. Gloc. 6 Ed. 1. c. 5. And this Action may be brought by the Heir for Waste done in his Ancestor's Time: And be maintain'd by the Reversioner against Tenant for Life or Years, that aliens his Estate; also by one Tenant in Common against another. 13 Ed. 1. 20 Ed. 1. 11 H. 6. c. 5. The Processes in Action of Waste shall be Summons, Attachment, and Distress; and a Writ of Inquiry of the Waste, &c. At Common Law, there is a Writ of Waste for Waste done by Tenants in Dower, or by Guardians; and by Statute, the Action of Waste lies against Tenants for Life, or Years, &c. But not against Tenant by Statute-Merchant, Staple or Elegit, they not being Tenants for Years; though Trespass lieth against them, or Covenant for voluntary Waste: It lies not against Tenant after Possibility of Issue extinct; and the Stat. 13 Ed. 1. extends to Jointenants, but not to Coparceners. 1 Inst. 54, 200. 2 Inst. 299. When Action of Waste is brought against any one in the Tenuit, Damages are only to be recovered, and not the Place wasted; but when brought in the Tener, then both are recoverable. 6 Rep. 44. 3 Nelf. Abr. 532. Tenant by the Curtesy, and the Heir, may join in an Action of Waste; and the Tenant shall have Locum vastum, and the Heir have Damages. 1 Leon. 48. If Tenant by the Curtesy, or in Dower, assign their Estate to another, the Heir shall have Action of Waste against them for Waste done after the Assignment; for notwithstanding the Assignment, the Privy of Estate still remaineth; but if the Heir grant over his Reversion, then the Privy of Estate is gone, and he cannot bring Waste against them. 3 Rep. 9 Rep. 138. Tenant by Curtesy, in Dower, for Life, Years, &c. must answer for the Waste done by themselves, or a Stranger; being left to take their Remedy against the Stranger, if he did Waste. 1 Inst. 54. 2 Inst. 145. If there be Tenant for Life, Remainder for Life, Remainder in Fee, and Tenant for Life commits Waste; the Remainder-man for Life dies, or surrenders his Estate, in the Life-time of Tenant for Life, then and not before, he in Remainder in Fee may bring Waste against Tenant for Life; because there being an intermediate Estate for Life, it is not ad exhereditationem of him in Remainder. 5 Rep. 16. A Man makes a Feoffment in Fee, to the Use of himself for Life, and after his Decease to the Use of A. B. and his Heirs; if the Feoffee commit Waste, it has been held, that the Feoffee shall have a special Writ against him. Hell. 79. In Action of Waste, if the Defendant plead he repaired before the Action brought, 'tis a good Plea; but not afterwards. Jones 144. And this Plea acknowledges a Waste; though by the Plea Non fecit Vastum nothing is admitted. Dyer 276. 2 Lutw. 1539. Where the Defendant in a Writ of Waste, loatheth by Default at the Grand Distress, Inquiry shall be made of the Waste, and to what Damages; but if he loses by Nil dicit, &c. the Waste is acknowledg'd, and it shall not be inquired of. 2 Lill. Abr. 686, 689. Not only voluntary but permissive Waste is punishable; but this Action ought to be brought by one who hath the immediate Estate and Inheritance in Fee-simple, or Fee-tail; and not by Tenant for Life; though a Parson may have it: And if Lessee for Years doth Waste and dieth, an Action of Waste doth not lie against his Executor or Administrator, for Waste done before their Time. Wood's Inst. 304, 548. Waste may be committed in Houses, by pulling them down, or suffering them to be uncovered, whereby the Timber becomes rotten: But if the House was uncovered when the Tenant entered, it is no Waste in the Tenant to suffer the House to fall down. 1 Inst. 53. 2 Inst. 145. To pull down a House, unless the same be ruinous, and in order to rebuild it of the same Dimensions, is Waste: So it is if the Tenant builds a new House; and if he suffer it to be wasted, it is a new Waste. 1 Inst. 53. To permit a House to be burnt by Negligence, &c. if the Tenant do not repair it, 'tis Waste: But if the House be destroy'd by Lightning, Tempests, Floods, or Enemies, without any Possibility of the Lessee's Preventing it, this is no Waste in the Lessee. Kelw. 87. 1 Inst. 53. And if the House fall down by Tempest, or be burnt by Lightning, or or prostrated by Enemies, or the like, without any Default of the Tenant; or was ruinous at his Coming in, and fall down, the Tenant may build the same again with such Materials as remain, and with other Timber, which he may take growing on the Ground, for his Habitation, and it will be no Waste; but he must not make the House larger than it was: If the House be uncovered by Tempest, the Tenant must in convenient Time repair it, or 'twill be Waste; and though there be no Timber growing upon the Ground, 'tis said the Tenant must at his Peril keep the Houses from Wasting. 1 Inst. 53. To convert a Brew-house into Tenements, although of a greater Value, is Waste: And if a Corn-Mill be converted into a Fulling-Mill, &c. it will be Waste in the Lessee; for Things must be used in their natural and proper Manner, and not be altered. 1 Lev. 309. Cro. Jac. 182. The Taking away or Breaking down Wainscot, Doors, Windows, Benches, or Coppers fixed to the House, is Waste: Though a Distinction has been made between outer Doors, and inner Doors, put up by the Lessee, after the Commencement of his Term; the Taking away of one at the End of the Term being adjudg'd Waste, and the other not so. 1 Inst. 53. Moor 177. And altho' where any of these are fixed by the Lessor, it is Waste in the Lessee to take them away; yet when they are set up by the Lessee, it hath been lately held, That they may be taken down by such Lessee before the End of his Term, so as he do not thereby weaken the Freehold, but leave the same in as good Plight as it was at the Time he fixed them. 1 Salk. 368. The Felling of Timber-Trees, whether Oak, Ash, or Elm, or other Trees in some Counties reputed Timber, or Topping them to sell, or any other Intent but for Repairs of the House, it is Waste: It is the same if young Trees are cut where there is other Timber. 1 Inst. 53. Timber is Parcel of the Inheritance, and reserv'd by Law to the Lessor: Therefore if it be cut down by a Lessee, the Lessor may take it away; and the Lessee having an Interest only in Trees while standing, as in the Fruit, Shrow'd, Shadow, &c. on this Account if he cuts down Timber-Trees, or doth any other Act whereby they may decay, it is Waste: And if the Lessee has covenanted to leave the Wood in as good Condition at the End of the Term as he found it, the Lessor shall presently have an Action of Covenant for Cutting down the Timber; for now it is not possible for him to perform his Agreement, or to leave the Wood as he found the same: But 'tis otherwise, if during the Term the Lessee doth Waste in Houses; for those may be repaired before the Term expires. 4 Rep. 62. 5 Rep. 11, 21. 7 Rep. 15. If Timber-Trees be growing in the Hedges of a Field or Close, and the Lessee cutteth them down, the Field shall not be forfeited in an Action of Waste brought against the Lessee; but if the Trees cut did grow scatteringly throughout the Field or Close, the whole Field is forfeited by Cutting them down. 2 Lill. Abr. 686. Where Waste is done in Woods, so much shall be recovered wherein the Waste is done; and so it is in Houses: Though if the Waste is done here and there through the Whole, all shall be recovered. 1 Inst. 54. 2 Inst. 303. To cut Willows, Beech, Maple Trees, &c. standing in Defence of a House, or planted for Fencing a Manſor, is Waste: So the Cutting down of Fruit-Trees, if they grow in an Orchard or Garden, although the same be used in Reparations of the House, &c. But it is not so if they grow in a Field. 1 Inst. 53. A Tenant may cut down Underwood; tho' where the Law hath appointed a Time for Tenant for Life to fell Underwood, and 'tis not done in that Time, if he do it afterwards 'tis Waste: And if a Tenant suffer the young Germins to be destroyed, or stubs it up, it will be Waste; as is likewise Stubbing up a Quick-set Hedge, &c. 1 Inst. 53, 88. 3 Nelf. Abr. 540. Cutting down green Wood, where there is dry; or more Fire-boot than is necessary, is Waste: But Tenants may take sufficient Wood to repair the Pales, Hedges and Fences, and what is called Plough-bote, Fire-bote, and other House-bote. 1 Inst. 53. The Ploughing of Lands that have not been ploughed up Time out of Mind, is Waste; it is also Waste to plough up Woodlands: Though the letting arable Lands lie unplough'd is not Waste. 1 Inst. 53. Dyer 37. It has been observ'd, that if a Tenant converts arable Land into Wood, Wood into arable Land, or Meadow into Arable, Arable into Meadow, or Pasture into Arable; these are Waste: For they not only change the Course of Husbandry, but also the Proof of the Landlord's Evidence of his Estate. 1 Inst. 53. If antient Meadow-Ground, or Brook-Meadow is ploughed up, it is Waste: But where Meadow-Ground hath been at any Time arable, or sometimes Meadow and sometimes Pasture; it will be no Waste to plough it up. 2 Roll. Abr. 814. A Lessee for Years converted a Meadow into a Hop-Ground, and adjudg'd no Waste; because it may be easily made Meadow again: But converting it into an Orchard is Waste; tho' it may be more profitable. 2 Leon. 174. It is Waste to suffer a Wall of the Sea to be in Decay, so that the Meadow-Ground is surrounded with Water, and rendered unprofitable; though if the Land be overflowed suddenly by the Violence of the Sea, occasion'd by Tempest, it is not punishable as Waste: The same Law is as to the Repairs of Banks or Walls against Rivers; where the Meadows receive Damage. 1 Inst. 53. The not Scouring of a Mote or Ditch, by Reason whereof the Grounds of the House are rotten, is Waste. Owen 43. The Digging for Lime, Clay, Brick, Earth, Stone, or the like; or Mines of Metal, Coal, &c. hidden in the Earth, and that were not open when the Tenant came in, is Waste: But the Tenant may dig Gravel, Clay, Earth, &c. for Reparations of the House; as well as he may take convenient Timber. 1 Inst. 54. 5 Rep. 12. Destroying Deer in a Park, Doves in a Dove-house, or Fish in a Pond, or if such sufficient Stores be not left by the Lessee, as he found when he entered on the Land, it is Waste: And so is doing any Thing by which the Lessor is abridg'd of his annual Profits, &c. 1 Inst. 53. Action of Waste lies in any of the foregoing Instances; and before any Waste is done, a Prohibition may be had directed to the Sheriff not to permit it; or he in Remainder, &c. may have an Injunction out of the Chancery to stay the Waste, and enter a House or Lands to see if Waste is committed, &c. F. N. B. 55. 1 Inst. 53. 2 Inst. 146, 306. 11 Rep. 49.

A Lease, without Impeachment of Waste, takes of all Restraint from the Tenant of doing it; and he may in such Case pull up, or cut down Wood or Timber, or dig Mines, &c. at his Pleasure, and not be liable to any Action. Plowd. 155. But though the Tenant may let the Houses be out of Repair, and cut down Trees and convert them to his own Use; where a Tenant in Fee-simple made a Lease for Years, without Impeachment of Waste, it was adjudg'd, that the Lessor had still such a Property, that if he cut and carried away the Trees, the Lessee could only recover Damages in Action for the Trespas, and not for the Trees: Also it hath been held, that Tenant for Life, without Impeachment of Waste, if he cuts down Trees, is only exempt from an Action of Waste, &c. 11 Rep. 82. 1 Inst. 220. 2 Inst. 146. 6 Rep. 63. Dyer 184. And if the Woods are, To hold without Impeachment of any Writ or Action of Waste, the Lessor may seize the Trees, if the Lessee cuts them down; or bring Trover for them. Wood's Inst. 551. The Clause, without Impeachment of Waste, is common in Leases made on Settlements; and on the other Hand it is as common to provide against Waste by Tenants, where it is not allow'd by Condition, Covenant, &c.

Wassel-Bowl, (From the Sax. Waf-beal, i. e. Health be to you) A large silver Cup or Bowl, wherein the Saxons, at their Entertainments, drank a Health to one another, in the Phrase of Waf-beal: And this Wassel or Waf-beal Bowl, was set at the upper End of the Table for the Use of the Abbat, who began the Health or Poculum Charitatis to Strangers, or to his Fraternity: Hence Cakes and fine white Bread, which were usually sopped in the Wassel-Bowl, were called Wassel-Bread. Weights, (Pondera) and Measures, Are used between Buyers and Sellers of Goods and Merchandize, for reducing the Quantity and Price to a Certainty, that there may be the less Room for Deceit and Imposition. There are two Sorts of Weights in use with us, viz. Troy-weight, and Averdupois: Troy-weight contains twelve Ounces to the Pound, and no more; by which are weighed Gold, Silver, Pearl, Jewels, Medicines, Silk, Wheat-Bread, &c. and Averdupois contains sixteen Ounces in the Pound, by which Grocery Wares, Copper, Iron, Lead, Fleth, Cheese, Butter, Tallow, Hemp, Wool, &c. are weighed; and here twelve Pounds over are allowed to every Hundred; so as One hundred and twelve Pounds make the Hundred weight. Dalt. 248. Fleta mentions a Weight, called Trone-weight, being the same with what we now call Troy-weight; and according to the same Author, all our Weights have their first Composition from the Penny Sterling, which ought to weigh thirty-two Wheat-Corns of the middle Sort; twenty of which Pence make an Ounce, and twelve such Ounces a Pound; but fifteen Ounces make the Merchant's Pound. Fleta, lib. 2. c. 12. By Magna Charta, 9 H. 3. c. 25. 14 Ed. 3. c. 12. 25 Ed. 3. c. 10. 27 Ed. 3. &c. There is to be but one Weight, &c. through out the Kingdom; but this is to be understood of the same Species of Goods, otherwise the Troy and Averdupois Weights would not be permitted. Every City, Borough and Town, shall have a common Balance, with common Weights sealed; on Pain of 10*l.* the City, 5*l.* the Borough, and 40*s.* the Town. 8 H. 6. c. 5. But only Cities and Market-Towns are enjoined to have common Balances, Weights and Measures, by 11 H. 7. c. 4. And by this Statute, Weights are to be mark'd by the Chief Officers of Places; and the Mayors and such Officers are once a Year to view all Weights and Measures, and burn and destroy those which are defective; also fine the Offenders, &c. And two Justices of Peace have Power to hear and determine the Defaults of Mayors. See the Statutes 17 Car. 1. c. 19. 22 Car. 2. c. 8. &c. and vide Measure.

Will, or Last Will and Testament, (Testamentum, ultima voluntas) Is the Declaration of a Man's Mind and Intent, (concerning the Disposition of his Lands or Goods) of what he would have done after his Death. Co. Lit. 111. The Common Law calls that a Will when Lands or Tenements are given; and where it concerns Goods and Chattels alone, it is term'd a Testament: In a Will of Goods there must be an Executor appointed; but not of Lands only without Goods, an Executor having nothing to do with the Freehold. 1 Inst. 111. If Lands are given by Will, it is called a Devise; and Goods and Chattels a Legacy: And there is this Diversity between Lands and Goods given by a Will, that when Lands are devised in Fee, or for Life, the

Devisee shall enter without the Appointment of others: In Case of Goods there must be the Assent of the Executor, &c. Swinb. 24. If Lands are given and devised by Will, the Will ought to be proved in the Chancery; and of Goods it must be in the Spiritual Court. A Will both of Lands and Goods may be proved in the Spiritual Court. Ibid. A Will hath not Force 'till after the Testator's Decease; but then without any further Grant, Livery, &c. it gives and transfers Estates, and alters the Property of Lands and Goods, as effectually as any Deed or Conveyance executed in a Man's Life-time; and hereby Descents may be prevented, Estates in Fee-simple, Fee-tail, for Life, or Years, &c. be made: And he that takes Lands by Devise, is in Nature of a Purchaser. Litt. 167. A Devisee is in by Act executed in the Devisee's Life-time, though it be not consummated 'till his Death. Roll. Rep. At Common Law a Man could not devise by Will the Lands which he had by Descent, though he might those which he had by Purchase: Indeed he might devise Lands which he held for a Term of Years, because such an Estate is of little Regard in the Law; but not Lands of which he had the Fee-simple in Possession or Reversion: Yet in certain Borough Towns, the Inhabitants might devise the Houses and Lands which they had by Descent, and this was a Privilege which they claim'd by the Custom of those Places. 3 Nels. Abr. 550. By the Common Law, if a Man sole seised of Lands in Fee, had devised the same by Testament, this Devise was void; unless the Lands were in some City or Borough where Lands were devisable by Custom; but by Statute 32 & 34 H. 8. All Persons having a sole Estate in Fee-simple, of any Lands, Tenements, &c. may give and devise the same by Last Will and Testament, at their free Will and Pleasure, tho' if any Part of the Lands be held in Capite of the King, then the Party can devise but two Thirds of the Whole, the other Third being to descend to the Heir at Law, to answer the Duties of the Crown, &c. One seised in Coparcenary, or as Tenant in Common, in Fee-simple, of Lands, may by Will devise them at their Pleasure by this Statute: But Lands intailed are not devisable, only Fee-simple Lands, and Goods and Chattels; and Wills made by Infants, Feme Coverts, Ideots, Persons of non-sane Memory, are not good in Law. 3 Rep. 30. An Infant makes his Will for Lands, and when of Age he declares it as his Will, yet it is void; tho' an Infant at fourteen Years of Age may make a Will of his Goods and Chattels. 1 Inst. 89. 2 Lill. Abr. 696. A Feme Sole makes a Will, and gives her Lands to A. B. whom she afterwards marries; by this the Will is countermanded, for otherwise she could not after Marriage revoke it; and if she dies in his Life-time, whilst Feme Covert, the Devise is void. 4 Rep. 60. A Feme Covert cannot make a Will; but the Husband may bind himself by Covenant or Bond to permit his Wife by Will to dispose of Legacies, &c. and this will be such an Appointment as the Husband will be bound to perform; though it is properly no Will, nor ought to be prov'd in the Spiritual Court. Of Things in Action, or of what she hath as her own as Executrix, by her Husband's Consent, 'tis said, she may make a Will, and this is a Will in Law. If in other Cases, she disposes of any Thing by the Consent and Agreement of the Husband, the Property passes passes from him to her Legatee, and it is as the Gift of the Husband. Cro. Eliz. 27. Cro. Car. 219, 220. 1 Mod. 211. 2 Danv. Abr. 512. It is not sufficient that the Testator hath his Memory to answer Questions, when he makes his Will; he ought to have a perfect Memory and Understanding: But if some Witnesses swear that the Testator was of good and perfect Mind and Memory, and others that he was not; their Testimony is to be preferred, which depose that he was of sound Memory, for the Support of the Testament. 6 Rep. 23. Cro. Jac. 497. Swimb. 67. The Stat. 29 Car. 2. cap. 3. for Prevention of Frauds, ordains, That all Devises of Lands or Tenements shall be in Writing, signed by the Devisor, or some other by his express Directions, in the Presence of three credible Witnesses at least; and no Will in Writing shall be revoked, but by some other Will in Writing, or by cancelling the same by the Testator himself, or by his Directions, &c. and where Nuncupative Wills by Word of Mouth only, are made for the Disposition of Chattels above 30*l.* Value, they must be declared in the Presence of three Witnesses, in the last Sickness of the Party, &c. It hath been formerly adjudg'd, if a Man bids another make his Will, and before it is done he dies, the Will is not good; but if it be drawing up in his Presence, it might be good for the Devises finished. Plowd. 10. And if an Attorney takes Notes of a Will before Witnesses, when a Person is in his last Sickness, and before the Will is perfected such Person dieth, the Will made from the Instructions may be a good Will, though the Testator did not live to sign it. 3 Nels. Abr. 550. A Man being sick said before Witnesses, that he devised all his Lands to his Wife for Life, &c. and wished that a certain Person was there to make his Will; who being sent for wrote the Will from the Mouth of the Witnesses that heard the Testator declare his Mind; and this Will being lost, a Copy was produced and testified to be of the same Effect: It was held in this Case, that an actual Devise by Word, is not sufficient for a Stranger to write a Will, but that there ought to be a Writing, and not only a Desire; but the writing this Will from the Mouth of the Witnesses, was a good Will in Writing: That if a Will be in Writing after the Death of the Testator, and 'tis lost or burnt afterwards, it is good, if it can be proved by a Copy; otherwise, if lost or burnt before he died, for then 'tis void. Allen 54. 3 Nels. 552. The Testator, if he be at that Time of sane Memory, may desire another Person to set his Hand and Seal to his Will for him; and if he do it the Will is good. 2 Lill. Abr. 693. And since the Statute 29 Car. 2. a Will was made by which Lands were devised, and no Name subscribed to it, but being sealed in the Presence of three Witnesses, was adjudg'd a good Will; for the Will was written by the Party himself, and his Name in the Will, which was held a sufficient Signing. 3 Lev. 1. And it is said a Will in Writing signed may be good to convey Lands, altho' it be not sealed; the Statute of Wills speaking nothing of Sealing. 2 Danv. Abr. 542. If a Man makes a Will in several Pieces of Paper, and there are three Witnesses to the last Paper, and none of them aver they saw the first, this is not a good Will. 3 Mod. 263. As to the Subscribing of Witnesses, it is enough that the Testator might see them; it is not absolutely necessary that he should see them do it; so that it may be in another Room in the View of the Testator, or where the Testator is sick in Bed, and the Curtain drawn. 2 Salk. 688. Lands purchased after making a Will, cannot pass; for the Testator ought to have the Lands at the Time of the Making: But it hath been held, that a new Publication of the Will shall make the Lands pass; and if such Lands are devised for Payment of Debts, &c. Chancery will make the Devise good, without new Publication of the Will. 1 Inst. 111. Plowd. 343. 3 Rep. 25. 2 Chanc. Rep. 144. A Testator devised by Will all Lands, Tenements, and Estate whatsoever, whereof at the Time of his Death he should be possessed; and after this he purchas'd Lands, &c. And it was resolv'd, that a Devise of Personal Things is good, tho' the Testator had them not at the Time of his Will; but a Chattel Real, as a Lease for Years, doth not pass: And a Devise of Lands is not good, if the Testator had nothing in them at the Time of making his Will. Gouldsb. 93. 1 Salk. 237. If one devise to a Person by Will all his Lands and Tenements, not only all the Lands that he hath in Possession do pass, but all those he hath the Reversion of: But where a Man having Lands in Fee, and other Lands for Years, devises all his Lands and Tenements, the Fee-simple Lands only pass; tho' if he hath only Leases for Years, and no Fee-simple Lands, by the Devise of all his Lands and Tenements the Leases for Years pass, otherwise the Will would be to no Purpose. 2 Danv. Abr. 527. The Testator was seised of an House in A. and of an House and Lands in B. and devised to W. R. his House in A. with all and singular his Lands, Meadows, &c. in B. and adjudg'd that this House in B. shall not pass; for though by the Feoffment of Land the Houses will pass, Wills are to be taken according to the Intent of the Testator; and here the particular Devise of the Lands, Meadows, &c. excludes the general Intendment of the Word Terra, which comprehends both House and Lands. 2 And. 123. 1 Nels. Abr. 652. Words in Wills are always construed according to the Intention of the Parties that make them, as near as can be collected; and may have different Construction from those in other Deeds; but the Words and Intent must agree with the Law; and if the Words are insensible and repugnant, they are void. 1 Inst. 25. Plowd. 162. Hob. 34. And the Reason why the Construction of Wills is more favourable in Law than any other Deed or Conveyance, to fulfil the Intent of the Testator, is because the Testator is intended to be inops Concilii, and in a Hurry, and a Devise is not a Conveyance by the Common Law, but by the Statute. The Devises before the Statute were by Custom, and as Custom enabled Men to dispose of their Estates contrary to the Common Law; so it exempted this Kind of Conveyance from the Regularity and Propriety required in other Conveyances: And thus it came to pass that Wills upon the Statute, in Imitation of those by Custom, gained such favourable Construction. 3 Salk. 127, 128. A Devise by Will to a Man and all his Blood passes a Fee-simple: So a Devise to a Person in perpetuum, or to one and his Assigns for ever; but in a Grant it would be only an Estate for Life, for want of the Word Heirs. Lit. 586. Vaugh. 178. Devise of all a Man's Inheritance carries the Fee-simple: Also Lands given to a Person to dispose of at Pleasure, makes a Fee-simple.

Hob. 75. 1 Salk. 228. 2 Nelf. 837. If a Man devises that A. B. shall be Heir of all his Land, and the Devisor hath Fee, he shall have Fee: But if there are no Words of Inheritance in the Will, the Devisee hath no more than an Estate during Life. Mod. cap. 107. 2 Nelf. Abr. 745, 746. By Devise to a Person and his Heirs Male, an Estate-tail is created, tho' such a Gift in any other Conveyance would be a Fee-simple, it not being said of what Body. 1 Inst. 27. A Devise to one who is Heir for Life, Remainder in Contingency, &c. is good: And Devises to Infants in Ventre sa mere are good, and the Land shall descend to the Heir in the mean Time; for the Testator could not intend they should take presently, they must be first in rerum natura. Lutw. 798. Raym. 28. 2 Mod. 292. Where a Term for Years is devised by Will to A. for Life, with Remainder to B. this Remainder is good by way of Executory Devise for the Residue of the Term. Raym. 164. And a Term may be devised to one for Life, with Remainders to several others for Life, where all the Persons are in esse; but if a Devise in Remainder be to one for Life, who is not then in Being, there no Limitation of a Term may be beyond it. 1 Sid. 451. Devise of a Term to one for Life, and if he dies without Issue, to another and his Issue, &c. is void to the Remainder Man. 1 Lev. 290. A Chattel Personal cannot be given to one for Life, with Remainders to others; tho' the Use may be given by Will to one during Life, and the Thing it self afterwards to another. Noy Max. 31, 99. Devises may be to one, to the Use of another, and the Use shall be executed. 2 Leon. Tho' a Condition in a Will that a Man shall not marry a Person, &c. is unlawful and void; and all Conditions in Wills are odious in Law. Mod. cap. 106. A Devise must be not only of a Thing, but to a Person certain, and a Devise to a Man who shall marry my Daughter, or to a Man and his Children, is certain enough. Swinb. 293. If where a Legacy is given by Will, the Legatee dies before it becomes due, the Legacy is extinguished and gone. A Man devises 500*l.* to his Daughter by Will, if she attain 21 Years of Age; in this Case, if she dies before that Age the Legacy is gone: But if the Devise had been to be paid her at the Age of 21, then it is debitum in presenti, & solvendum in futuro, and her Administrator, &c. shall have it, if she die before 21. 1 Lill. Abr. 457. The Testator devised a Sum of Money to a Woman at her Age of 21, or Day of Marriage, and then added these Words, To be paid her with Interest; she died unmarried, and before she was 21 Years old; and it was held that the Money should go to her Administrator; but if these Words had not been added, it would have been otherwise; and so if the Money had been devised to her, when she came of Age, &c. 2 Ventr. 342. A Lease was settled by the Father, with Reference to his Will, in which he gave 500*l.* to each of his Daughters, to be paid at the Age of 21 Years; and if any or all died before that Age, then to others; but devised no Maintenance to them 'till their Portions became payable: Et per Cur. A Maintenance cannot be decreed, because of the Devise over. Ch Rep. 249. If a Man in his Will releases all his Lands in C. to A. B. and his Heirs, it is good; but one cannot release a Debt or Duty by Will, tho' he may give and bequeath it. 1 And. 33. 1 Ventr.

39. The Last Will shall stand in Force; (but if two Wills are made both of one Date, they are both void): And if in a Will there are two Devises of the same Thing, the last Devise shall take Place; for as a latter Will doth overthrow a former, so the latter Part of a Will overthrows the former Part of it. 1 Inst. 112. Plowd. 341. It has been adjudg'd, that where there are several Devises of the same Thing in one Will, the last must take Place: But where the Devise was of Lands to one in Fee, and in the same Will the same Lands were devised to another, this 'twas said made them Joint-tenants; and if a Devise of Lands is to one Person in Fee, and to another for Life, or Years, both may stand. 3 Leon. 11. A Testator having devised all his Lands to A. in Tail, and in the same Will devised Part of his Lands to B. This latter Clause was held an Explanation, viz. That A. should have all the Lands, except those devised to B. who shall take by Way of Remainder after the Death of A. without Issue; but it would not have been so if the Devise had been to A. in Fee simple, and afterwards Part of the Lands was devised to B. in Fee, because one Fee-simple cannot be limited after another. Yelv. 209. 1 Nelf. Abr. 654. In the well-making of a Will, it is good to observe these Rules; That it be done in perfect Memory, and by good Advice; let there be two Parts of it, one whereof to remain in the Hands of the Party as made it, and the other with some Friend, that it may be the less liable to be suppress'd after the Testator's Death; and let the Whole be written in one Hand-Writing, and if it may be, in one Sheet of Paper or Parchment; but if there be more Sheets than one, let the Testator sign and seal every Sheet of the same before the Witnesses present at the Execution, &c.

Form of a Will of Lands, and Goods, Terms of Years, &c.

IN the Name of God, Amen, J. A. B. of &c. being weak in Body, but of sound and perfect Mind and Memory, (Blessed be God) do this Day and Year, &c. make and publish this my Last Will and Testament in manner following, (viz.) Imprimis, I give to my Son J. B. the Sum of 500*l.* Item, I give to my Daughter M. B. the Sum of 400*l.* Item, I give to my dear Wife E. B. the Sum of 300*l.* &c. to be paid unto them respectively, within six Months next after my Decease. Item, I give all that my Messuage or Tenement, with the Appurtenances situate, &c. wherein I now live, to my said Son J. B. To hold to him during his Life, and from and after his Decease I give the same to my Daughter M. B. during the Remainder of my Estate and Interest therein. Item, I give and bequeath unto my loving Brother T. B. of, &c. and L. D. of, &c. all that my Leasehold Estate, situate in, &c. To hold to them the said T. B. and L. D. their Executors, Administrators and Assigns, from and immediately after my Decease, for and during the Rest and Residue then to come, and unexpired of the Term to me granted therein; Upon this Trust and Confidence, that they the said T. B. and L. D. and the Survivor of them, and the Executors and Administrators of such Survivor, do and shall permit and suffer her my said Wife E. B. to have, hold and enjoy all my said Leasehold Estate to them given as aforesaid, and to receive and take to her own Use and Bechoof, the Rents, Issues, and Profits thereof, for and during so much much of the Term to me therein granted, as shall run out and expire in the Life-time of her my said Wife; And after her Decease, upon this further Trust and Confidence, that they the said T. B. and L. D. and the Survivor of them, and the Executors and Administrators of such Survivor, do and shall out of the Rents, Issues, and Profits arising from my said Leasehold Estate, well and truly pay, or cause to be paid unto my said Daughter M. B. or her Assigns, for and during so much of the said Term to me therein granted, as shall run out and expire in the Life-time of her my said Daughter, the yearly Annuity or Sum of 60 l. at the two most usual Feasts, &c. by even and equal Portions; The first Payment thereof to be made at such of the said Feasts which shall first and next happen after the Decease of my said Wife: And upon this further Trust and Confidence, that they the said T. B. and L. D. and the Survivor of them, &c. do and shall permit and suffer my said Son J. B. his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, to have, hold and enjoy all such my said Leasehold Estate, (charged with the said Annuity of 60 l. per Ann. to my said Daughter) and to receive and take the Overplus of the Rents, Issues, and Profits thereof, to his and their own proper Use and Benefit, from and immediately after my said Wife's Decease, for and during all the Rest, Residue, and Remainder of the Term to me therein granted, which shall be then to come and unexpired. Item, I give all those my Freehold Lands in the Parish of, &c. now in the Possession of, &c. to my Wife E. B. To hold to her during her natural Life, she making no Waste or Destruction thereupon; and from and after her Decease, I give and devise the same to my said Son J. B. for the Term of his natural Life; and after his Decease, I devise the same to my Daughter M. B. during her natural Life; and after the Determination of that Estate, I give and devise the same to the said T. B. and L. D. and their Heirs during the Life of my said Daughter M. to the Intent to preserve and support the contingent Uses and Remainders herein after limited; but nevertheless in Trust, to permit my said Daughter M. to receive the Rents and Profits thereof during her Life; and from and after the Decease of my said Daughter M. then to remain to the first Son of my said Daughter M. and the Heirs of the Body of such first Son lawfully issuing; and for Default of such Issue, then to the Use and Beboof of the second, third, fourth, fifth, and all and every other Son and Sons of my said Daughter M. begotten, the Elder of such Son and Sons, and the Heirs of his Body lawfully issuing, to be always preferred, and to take before the Younger of such Sons and the Heirs of his Body; and for Default of such Issue, then I give the same to J. B. for and during the Term of his natural Life; and after his Decease, to remain to his Issue in Tail in such manner as I have limited the same to my Daughter M. and for Default of such Issue, then to remain to, &c. and the Heirs Male of his Body begotten, &c. And for Default of such Issue, to remain to my own right Heirs for ever. Item, All the rest of my Lands and Tenements whatsoever, whereof I shall die seised or possessed, I give to my said Son J. B. his Heirs and Assigns for ever. Item, I give to, &c. ten Guineas apiece to buy them Mourning. Item, I give to my Servant-Man and the two Servant-Maids that shall be living with me at the Time of my Decease, ten Pounds apiece. Item, I give to the Poor of the Parish where I shall die, the Sum of twenty Pounds. Item, All the Rest and Residue of my Goods, Chattels and Personal Estate, I give to my said Wife E. B. and I make and ordain her my said Wife sole Executrix of this my Will, and the said T. B. and L. D. Overseers thereof, to take Care and see the same performed according to my true Intent and Meaning; and for their Pains herein, I give and allot to each of them the Sum of, &c. In Witness whereof, I the said A. B. have to this my Last Will and Testament set my Hand and Seal, the Day and Year above-written,

Signed, Sealed, Published and Declared by the said A. B. as and for his Last Will and Testament, in the Presence of us who were present at the Signing and Sealing thereof, Witte, A Saxon Word, used for Punishment; a Pain, Penalty, Mult, &c. and Witefree is a Term of Privilege or Immunity from Fines and Amercements. Sax. Dist.

Witena

Witena-gemot, (Sax. Conventus sapientum) Was a Convention or Assembly of Great Men to advise and assist the King, answerable to our Parliament, in the Time of the Saxons.

Witens, Were the Chief of the Saxon Lords or Thanes, their Nobles and Wise Men. Sax. Dict.

Withernam, (from the Sax. Wyther. i. e. altera, & Nam, captio) Is where a Distress is driven out of the County, and the Sheriff upon a Replevin cannot make Deliverance to the Party distrained: In this Case the Writ of Withernam is directed to the Sheriff, for the taking as many of his Beasts or Goods that did thus unlawfully distrain into his Keeping 'till the Party make Deliverance of the first Distress, &c. It is a Taking or Reprisal of other Cattle or Goods, in lieu of those that were formerly unjustly taken and esloined, or otherwise with-holden. F. N. B. 68, 69. 2 Inst. 140. Stat. West. 2. 13 Ed. 1. cap. 2. This Writ is granted on the Return of the Sheriff upon the Alias and Pluries in Replevin, that the Cattle, &c. are esloined, by Reason whereof he cannot replevy them; and it appears by our Books, that the Sheriff may award Withernam on Replevin sued by Plaintiff, if it be found by Inquest in the County, that the Cattle were esloined according to the Bailiff's Return, &c. tho' upon the Withernam awarded in the County, if the Bailiff doth return that the other Party hath not any Thing, there shall be an Alias and Pluries, and so infinite, and no other Remedy there: But on a Withernam return'd in the King's Bench, or Common Pleas, if the Sheriff return that the Party hath not any Thing, &c. a Capias shall issue against him, and Exigent and Outlawry. New Nat. Br. 166. In Replevin, &c. the Sheriff returns Averia elongata sunt by the Defendant; thereupon a Writ of Withernam is awarded; and if he return Nihil, the Plaintiff proceeds to Outlawry by Alias and Pluries Capias in Withernam, and so to the Exigent: And there is some Difference where the Defendant appeareth upon the Return of the Pluries Capias, and when he stays longer, and appears on the Return of the Exigent and not before; for in the first Case his Cattle shall not be taken in Withernam, but he must find Pledges to make Deliverance, or be committed; and in the last Case, he shall not only find Pledges for making Deliverance, but shall be fined, and his Cattle may be taken in Withernam: In both Cases, the Plaintiff may Declare for the unjust Taking, and yet detaining of his Cattle, and so go to Trial upon the Right; and if 'tis found for him, then he shall recover the Value of the Cattle with Costs and Damages, or may have the Cattle again by a Retorn. habendo directed to the Sheriff; but if it be found for the Defendant, he shall keep the Cattle, and have Costs and Damages for the unjust Prosecution. 1 Brownl. 180. 3 Nels. Abr. 553, 554. A Defendant in some Cases shall have a Writ of Withernam against the Plaintiff; as if the Defendant hath a Return awarded for him, and he sueth a Writ de retorn. habendo, and the Sheriff return upon the Pluries, quod Averia elongata sunt, he shall have a Sci. Fac. against the Pledges which the Plaintiff put in to prosecute, &c. and if they have nothing, then he shall have a Capias in Withernam against the Plaintiff. Ibid.

And the Cattle taken in Withernam are to be ad Valentiam, i. e. to the Value of the Cattle that were first taken and detain'd; for 'tis to be understood not only of the Number of the Cattle, but according to the full Worth and Value; otherwise he that brings the Replevin and Withernam, will be deprived of his Satisfaction. 3 Lill. Abr. 690. Where Cattle have been taken in Withernam, they have been by a Rule of Court delivered back and restored to the Owner, on his Payment to the Plaintiff of all his Damages, Costs and Expences. Ibid. Cattle taken in Withernam may be milk'd, or work'd reasonably; because they are deliver'd to the Party as his own Cattle, &c. Contra of Cattle distrained. 1 Leon. 302. See Replevin.

Witness, (Testis) Is one that gives Evidence in a Cause; an indifferent Person to each Party, sworn to speak the Truth, the whole Truth, and nothing but the Truth: And if he will be a Gainer or Loser by the Suit, he shall not be sworn as a Witness. 2 Lill. Abr. 700. See Evidence.

Wood. The Statutes 43 Eliz. cap. 7. & 15 Car. 2. cap. 2. provide against Woodstealing, ordaining Recompence to be made, and inflicting a Penalty of 10*s.* &c. Burning Wood, or Underwood, is made Felony: And Persons maliciously cutting or spoiling Timber-Trees, Fruit-Trees, &c. are to be sent to the House of Correction for three Months, and whipt once a Month. 1 Geo. cap. 48. Also where Persons destroy Trees, Woods, or break open Hedges, the Owners shall have Satisfaction from the Inhabitants of the Place, as for Dikes overthrown in the Night by 13 Edw. 1. if the Offenders be not convicted in six Months, &c. 6 Geo. cap. 16.

Wood-corn, A Certain Quantity of Grain, paid by the Tenants of some Manors to the Lord, for the Liberty to pick up dead or broken Wood. Cartular. Burgi S. Petri M.S. 142.

Wood-geld, Is taken to be the Gathering or Cutting of Wood within the Forest; or it signifies to be free from Payment of Money, for taking Wood in any Forest. Crompt. Juris. 157. Co. Lit. 233.

Woodmote, Is the old Name of that Court of the Forest, which is now called the Court of Attachments; and was wont to be held at the Will of the Chief Officers of the Forest, without any certain Time, 'till since the Statute of Charta de Foresta. Manwood, cap. 22. pag. 207.

Wool-plea-Court, A Court held twice in the Year in the Forest of Clun, in Shropshire, for determining all Matters of Wood and Agistments there.

Woodward, Is an Officer of the Forest, whose Office consists in Looking after the Woods, and Vert and Venison, and presenting Offences relating to the same, &c. And Woodwards may not walk with Bow and Shafts, but with Forest-Bills. Crompt. Jurisd. 201. Manwood, par. 1. pag. 189.

Wool, Being a Staple Commodity of the greatest Value in this Kingdom, the Employment of our Poor at home, and our most beneficial Trade abroad, depending in a great Measure upon it; there have been divers good Laws made to preserve the same intirely to our selves, and to prevent its being transported to other Nations. The Stat. 27 Ed. 3. declared it Felony to transport Wool: But the Felony was repealed by 38 Ed. 3. c. 6. By the 12 Car. 2. c. 32. If any Person shall export any Wool, Yarn, &c. he shall forfeit the same, and for every Pound-weight of Goods 3 s. And the Owners of the Ship in which it shall be transported, being privy to the Offence, shall forfeit all their Interest in the said Ship; and the Master and Mariners assisting forfeit all their Goods; and any Persons may seize such Wool, and shall be intitled to one Moiety, and the King to the other Moiety of Forfeitures, &c. The 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 18. made the Transportation of Wool Felony again; though this being thought too severe, the 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 28. a second Time repeals the Felony, and ordains, that exporting Wool beyond Sea shall incur a Forfeiture of the Vessel, and treble Value; and Persons aiding and assisting, to suffer three Years Imprisonment. By the Statute 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 40. the former Laws are explained, and a further Provision is made against Transporting Wool; by obliging Entries to be made of Wool thorn, and Wool not to be carried near the Sea-Coasts but between Sun-rising and Sun-setting, &c. Unlawful Exporters of Wool, where Judgment is obtain'd against them, are to pay the Sum recovered within three Months; or be liable to Transportation for seven Years as Felons. 4 Geo. c. 11.

Wool-buyers, Are such as buy Wool in the Country of the Sheep Owners, and carry it on Horse-back to the Clothiers, or to Market-Towns to sell again. 2 & 3 P. & M. c. 13.

Wool-binders, Those that wind up every Fleece of Wool, intended to be packed and sold by Weight, into a Kind of Bundle, after it is cleansed as required by Statute, to avoid Deceits by Thrusting in Locks of refuse Wool and Thrums to gain Weight: They were sworn to perform this Office truly, between the Owner and the Wool-buyer or Merchant, by Stat. 8 H. 6. c. 22. 23 H. 8. c. 17.

Words, Which may be taken or interpreted by Law in a general or common Sense, ought not to receive a strained or unusual Construction: And ambiguous Words are to be construed so as to make them stand with Law and Equity; and not to be wrested to do Wrong. A Latin Word in Pleading, which signifies divers Things, is well used to express that Thing which is intended to be expressed by it: Uncertain Words in a Declaration are made good and certain by a Plea in Bar, where Notice is taken of the Meaning of them; and Words which are in themselves uncertain, may be made certain by subsequent or following Words. The different Placing of the same Words may cause them to have a different Sense and Construction: A Word which is written short or abbreviated, is not good without a Dash to distinguish it: And senseless Words are void and idle; though they shall not hurt where it is good without them. 2 Lill. Abr. 711, 712, 713, 714. Vide Scilicet.

Wort, or Worthe, (From the Sax. Weorth) A Curtilage or Country Farm. Matt. Westm. 870.

Worthing of Land, Is a certain Quantity of Ground, so called in the Manor of Kingsland in the County of Hereford: And in some Places the Tenants are called Worthies. Consuetud. Maner. de Hadenham in Com. Bucks. 18 Edw. 3.

Wreck, (Wreccum Maris, Wreck de Mer. sometimes writ Wreche, Werec, &c. Seup-werpe, quasi Sea up-werp, i. e. Ejectus Maris) Signifies in our Law such Goods as, after a Shipwreck, are cast upon the Land by the Sea, and left there within some County; for they are not Wrecks so long as they remain at Sea, in the Jurisdiction of the Admiralty. 2 Inst. 167. Where a Ship is perished on the Sea, and no Man escapes alive out of it, this is called Wreck: And the Goods in the Ship being brought to Land by the Waves, belong to the King by his Prerogative, or to the Lord of the Manor. 5 Rep. 106. By the Common Law, all Wrecks belong'd to the Crown; and therefore they are not chargeable with any Customs, and for that Goods coming into the Kingdom by Wreck are not imported by any Body, but cast ashore by the Wind and Sea: But it was usual to seize and forfeit Wrecks to the King, only when no Owner could be found; and in that Case, the Property being in no Man, it of Consequence belongs to the King, as Lord of the narrow Seas, &c. Bract. lib. 2. cap. 5. And by the Statute of Westm. 1. 3 Ed. 1. c. 4. it is enacted, that when a Man, or any living Creature, escape alive out of a Ship cast away, whereby the Owner of the Goods may be known, the Ship or Goods shall not be Wreck; but the same shall be kept a Year and a Day by the Sheriff, to be restored to any Person that can prove a Property in the Goods within that Time; and if no Body comes, then the same shall be forfeited as Wreck. The Year and Day shall be accounted from the Seizure; and if the Owner of the Goods dies within the Year, his Executors or Administrators may make Proof: And when the Goods are Bona peritura, the Sheriff may sell them within the Year; so as he disposes of them to the best Advantage, and accounts for them, &c. 2 Inst. 167. 5 Rep. 106. Wood's Inst. 214. If a Man have a Grant of Wreck, and Goods are wreck'd upon his Lands, and another taketh them away before Seizure, he may bring Action of Trespass, &c. For before they are seized, there is no Property gain'd, to make it Felony. 1 Hawk. P. C. 94. If Goods wreck'd are seized by Persons having no Authority, the Owner may have his Action against them; or if the Wrong-doers are unknown, he may have a Commission to inquire, &c. 2 Inst. 166. Goods lost by Tempest, &c. and not by Wreck if they afterwards come to Land, shall be restored to the Owner. 27 Ed. 3. c. 13. Where a Ship is ready to sink, and all the Men therein, for the Preservation of their Lives, quit the Ship, and afterwards she perishes; if any of the Men are saved and come to Land, the Goods are not lost: A Ship on the Sea was chas'd by an Enemy; the Men therein for the Security of their Lives forsook the Ship, which was taken by the Enemy, and spoil'd of her Goods and Tackle, and then turn'd to Sea; after this by Strefs of Weather she was cast on Land, where it happen'd her Men safely arriv'd; and it was resolv'd, that this was no Wreck. 2 Inst. 167. If a Wreck happens by any Fault or Negligence in the Master or Mariners, the Master must make good the Loss; but if the same was occasion'd by Tempest, Enemies, &c. he shall be excused: And making Holes in Ships, or doing any Thing wilfully tending to the Loss thereof, is Felony, by Stat. 12 Ann. Which Act requires Justices of Peace to command Assistance for preserving Ships in Danger of Wreck on the Coasts; and makes Persons carrying away Goods from such Ships, liable to pay treble Value, &c. 12 Ann. c. 18. See Pilot.

Wreckfree, Is to be exempt from the Forfeiture of ship-wreck'd Goods; which K. Edw. 1. by Charter granted to the Barons of the Cinque Ports. Placit. temp. Ed. 1.

Writ, (Breve, in Sax. Writan, Scribere) In general is the King's Precept, in Writing under Seal, commanding some Thing to be done touching a Suit or Action, or giving Commission to have it done. Terms de Ley. 1 Inst. 73. Of Writs there are divers Kinds, in many Respects; some Writs are grounded upon Rights of Action, and some in Nature of Commissions; some Mandatory and Extrajudicial, and others Remedial; and some are Patent or open, and some Close or sealed up; some Writs issue at the Suit of the Party; some are of Office, some Ordinary, and others of Privilege; and some Writs are directed to the Sheriffs, and in special Cases to the Party, &c. 1 Inst. 289. 2 Inst. 39. 7 Rep. 20. The Writs in Civil Actions are either Original or Judicial; Original Writs are issued out of the Court of Chancery, for the Summoning a Defendant to appear, and are granted before the Suit is begun, to begin the same; and Judicial Writs issue out of the Court where the Original is return'd, after the Suit is begun: The Originals bear Date in the Name of the King; but Judicial Writs bear Teste in the Name of the Chief Justice: And it is observ'd, that a Writ without a Teste is not good, for the Time may be material when it was taken out, and it is proved by the Teste; and if it be out of the Common Law Courts, it must bear Date some Day in Term (not being Sunday) but in Chancery Writs, may be issued in Vacation as well as Term-Time, as that Court is always open; also there are to be fifteen Days between the Teste and Return of all Writs, where the Suit is by Original; but by Statute Delays in Actions by Reason of fifteen Days between the Teste and Return in Personal Actions, and Ejectments, are remedied. F. N. B. 51, 147. 2 Inst. 40. Lutw. 337. 13 Car. 2. cap. 2. Writs in Actions are likewise Real; concerning the Possession of Lands, called Writs of Entry, or of Right touching the Property, &c. Personal, relating to Goods, Chattels, and Personal Injuries; and Mix'd, for the Recovery of the Thing, and Damages. 2 Inst. 39. After the Action is fixed on, for a Wrong done, or a Right detain'd, such a Writ must be taken out as is suitable to the Action; for the Writ is different from the Action, though they are often confounded: The Writ is to be grounded upon the Action, and is the Means to bring the Plaintiff to his Right. Wood's Inst. 560. The King's Writs cannot be denied to the Subject; and it is regularly true that no Man shall be punished for suing of Writs in the King's Courts, be it of Right or Wrong: But Writs may be abated in several Cases, &c. Ibid. An Original Writ defective in Form is abateable; but no Abatement of the Writ is admitted after Judgment in the Cause, the Writ being allow'd by the Pleadings and Proceedings; and a Writ that did not pursue the exact Form of the Register, has been held good. 2 Lill. Abr. 717. Hob. 51. 3 Nelf. Abr. 575. Writs Judicial, if erroneous, may be amended; Original Writs are not amendable, if the Error be by Default of the Party who gave Instructions; yet a new Original may be taken out, where it is not amendable. 2 Lill. 716. Writs may be renewed every Term, until a Defendant is arrested; but in B. R. if the Latitat be not renew'd in five Terms, a new Writ is to be taken out, and the Plaintiff may not renew the old one. The Sheriff's Bailiffs cannot execute a Writ directed to the Sheriff, without his Warrant; and if in a Writ several Persons are included, (for four Defendants may be in one Writ) there must be several Warrants from the Sheriff to execute the same. Comp. Attorn. All Writs are to be return'd and filed in due Time, to avoid Post-terminum; and it is very unsafe to keep Writs unfil'd, because the Filing them is the Warranty for the Proceedings: And where a Writ is issued out directed to the Sheriff, when it comes to his Hands, though the Plaintiff requires the Writ back again, the Sheriff must return and file it in the Court where returnable; unless the Plaintiff procure a Writ of Superseas. 2 Lill. Abr. 720. Attachment lies against Sheriffs, &c. for not executing a Writ, or for doing it oppressively by Force, extorting Money thereon, or not doing it effectually, through any corrupt Practice. Vide 8 Rep. 86. See Arrests, Variance, &c.

Writ of Assistance, Is a Writ issuing out of the Exchequer, to authorise any Person to take a Constable, or other publick Officer, to seize Goods or Merchandize prohibited and uncustomed, &c. And there is a Writ of this Name issued out of the Chancery, to give Possession of Lands. Stat. 14 Car. 2. c. 1.

Writ of Inquiry of Damages, Is a judicial Writ, that issues out to the Sheriff upon a Judgment by Default, in Action of the Case, Covenant, Trespass, Trover, &c. commanding him to summon a Jury to inquire what Damages the Plaintiff hath sustained occasione premissorum; and when this is return'd with the Inquisition, the Rule for Judgment is given upon it; and if nothing be said to the Contrary, Judgment is thereupon enter'd. 2 Lill. Abr. 721. This Writ lies on a Nihil dicit, Non sum informatus, or a Demurrer; but not upon a Verdict: And it is executed before the Sheriff, or his Deputy, at the Time of which both Parties have the Liberty of being heard before the Sheriff, by their Counsel or Attornies, and Evidence may be given on both Sides: It is the Duty of the Jury diligently to inquire what Damages have been sustained by the Plaintiff, and this cannot be without Evidence given them; and if where an Indebitat. Assumpsit is brought for 100 l. for Goods sold, and the Defendant lets this go. by Default, if the Plaintiff at the Executing the Writ of Inquiry gives no Evidence to the Jury of any Goods sold or delivered to the Defendant: In this Case, the Jury must find some Damages, because the Defendant hath confess'd the Action, and admitted that there is Damage; but there not being any proved, they ought to find only a Penny, or some such small Matter. 2 L. l. Abr. 721, 722. If a Writ of Inquiry be executed without giving due Notice thereof to the Defendant, it shall be quashed. 2 Lill. 721. A Judgment shall not be set aside, after a Writ of Inquiry executed. 3 Salk.

Year, (Annus) Signifies properly a Circle; and is the Time wherein the Sun goes round his Compass through the Twelve Signs, viz. Three hundred and sixty-five Days, and about six Hours. A Year is Twelve Months, divided by Julius Caesar: And the Church begins the Year on the first Day of January, called New-Year's Day; but the Civil Account, not till March the 25th. It appears by ancient Grants and Charters, that our Ancestors began the Year at Christmas, which was observed here till the Time of Will. 1. commonly called the Conqueror; but afterwards, for some Time the Year of our Lord was seldom mentioned in Grants, only the Year of the Reign of the King. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. pag. 62. There is a Year of the World, and a Year of Christ: And besides the Annus Solaris, the Lunar Year being the Time in which any of the Celestial Bodies finish their Course; and thirty Days, by which the Egyptians reckoned. Year is also taken for Time in general; and the Age of Man. Litt.

Year and Day, (Annus & Dies) Is a Time that determines a Right, or works a Prescription in many Cases by Law; as in Case of an Estrey, if the Owner challenge it not within that Time, it belongs to the Lord; so of a Wreck, &c. A Year and Day is given to prosecute Appeals; and for Actions in a Writ of Right, &c. after Entry or Claim, to avoid a Fine; and if a Person wounded die in a Year and Day, it makes the Offender guilty of Murder, &c. 3 Inst. 53. 6 Rep. 107.

Year, Day and Waste, (Annus, Dies & Vastum) Is a Part of the King's Prerogative, whereby he hath the Profits of Lands and Tenements for a Year and a Day of those that are attainted of Petr Treason or Felony, whosoever is Lord of the Manor whereto the Lands or Tenements do belong; and the King may cause Waste to be made on the Tenements, by destroying the Houses, ploughing up the Meadows and Pastures, rooting up the Woods, &c. except the Lord of the Fee agree with him for the Redemption of such Waste; afterwards restoring it to the Lord of the Fee. Staundf. Prærog. 44.

Yeoman, A Derivative of the Sax. Geman, i. e. Communis; and Yeomen are a Degree of Commoners, which Camden placeth next in Order to Gentlemen, calling them Ingenuos; and this is agreeable to the Stat. 6 R. 2. cap. 4. Yeomen are chiefly Freeholders, and Farmers; but this Word comprehends all under the Rank of Gentlemen, and is a good Addition to a Name, &c. 2 Inst. 668. Also Yeoman signifies an Officer in the King's House, between the Serjeant and the Groom; as Yeomen of the Stirrop: And there are Yeomen of the Guard, &c. 33 Hen. 8. c. 12.

Proben;

Yeoven, (From the Sax. Ceorian, Dare) Is the same with Given; and it was formerly used at the End of Indentures and other Instruments instead thereof. — Yeoven, the Day and Year above written.

Yew, Is derived from the Greek ἰστω, to hurt, and probably because before the Invention of Guns, our Ancestors made Bows with this Wood, with which they annoy'd their Enemies; and therefore they took Care to plant the Trees in the Church-yards, where they might be often seen and preserved by the People. Minsheu.

Yielding and Paying, (Reddendo & Solvendo) Comes from the Sax. Geldan & Gildan; and in Domesday, Gildare is frequently used for Solvere, Reddere, the Sax. G. being often turn'd into Y.

Yungman, Mentioned in the Laws of King Hen. 1. c. 15. Spelman thinks may be a Mistake for Inglishman, or as we now say Englishman; But perhaps the Yingmen were rather Youngmen, printed for Yeomen and Yemen, in the Stat. 33 H. 8. cap. 10.
