Term. Paschæ,

Preced. in Chan. 589.

ONE feised in Fee devises his Lands to his Grandaughter (being his Heir at Law) for her Life, Remainder to his own right Heirs Male for ever, and dies leaving his Grandaughter his Heir at Law, and also leaving a deceased Brother's Son, being the next in the Male Line; which Nephew brought this Bill against the Grandaughter, to perpetuate the Testimony of the Will, and for the Writings, and to stay Waste.

One feised in Fee devised Land to his Grandaughter for Life, Remainder to his right Heirs Male for ever, and dies leaving his Grandaughter his Heir at Law, and his deceased Brother's Son his next Heir Male; the Devise of the Remainder is void.

The Defendant demurred, for that by the Plaintiff's own shewing, he had no Title to the Reversion or Inheritance of the Premises.

Against the Demurrer it was objected, that it being the declared Intention of the Testator, that his Grandaughter his Heir should have an Estate for Life, it was the same, as if it had been said by the Will,

Vol. II.

that the said Heir at Law should have but an Estate for Life; and the Remainder being limited to the right Heirs Male of the Testator, this was a Description of the next Heir Male, or of such Person, as at the Testator's Death, should be next Heir Male of his Name; that agreeable thereto, the Case of Brown and Barkham (a) had been determined by Lord Comper*, where the Notion of Lord (b) Coke, "That he, who takes as Heir Male by Purchase, must be compleatly Heir, as well as Heir Male", was denied; and the Case in 1 Vent. 372. of Pybus and Mitford was cited, as also the Case there cited by Lord Hale; where a Man having three Daughters, and a deceased Brother's Son, by his Will gave 2000*l.* to his Daughters, and devised his Land to his Heir Male, with a Condition, that the Daughters, who were his immediate Heirs, should forfeit their Legacies, in case they should give the Heir Male any Disturbance as to the Land; upon which it was resolved, that the Devisor taking Notice that the others were his Heirs, the Limitation to his Brother's Son, by the Name of Heir Male, was a good Name of Purchase.

But Lord Chancellor interrupted the Plaintiff's Counsel, saying, that he would not suffer the Bar to dispute what was the Foundation and Land-mark of the Law; and tho' what was contended for, might be reasonable, if it were to be then first adjudged, yet, whatever the Law was, provided it were (c) certain and known, it would be well for the Subject, tho' in some particular Instances it might seem unreasonable; that in the Case of Ford and Lord Ossulston, the Remainder was limited by the Will to the Heirs Male of Sir Edward Ford, and this was determined to be void, at Trials at Bar, in every Court in Westminster-Hall,

(c) See Vol. I.
Goodright
versus Wright; & post Wag-
staff versus
Wagstaff.

* Note; There is now (Mich. 1739.) a Bill of Review pending to reverse that Decree.

Hall, and appeared to be so very plain a Case, that in the King's Bench, the Plaintiff's own Counsel would not ask a special Verdict.

That the Words [Heirs Male] must be intended Heirs Male of the Body, and would never extend to an Heir Male of any collateral Line; and it not being said in the Will, Heir Male of his Body, or of his Name, the Granddaughter, who was his Heir at Law, might have an Heir Male, tho' not of his Name.

As to the Case of Brown and Barkham, that was merely of a Trust; but the principal Case is that of a legal Estate, where the Rule of Law, that has so long prevailed, and been taken for granted, must be observed, (viz.) that he, who claims as Heir Male by Purchase, must be Heir, as well as Heir Male.

Besides, this differed from the Case of Brown and Barkham, the Remainder being there limited to the Heirs Male of the Body of Sir Robert Barkham the Grandfather; whereas here the Devise was to the Heirs Male, without saying, of any Body; wherefore allow the Demurrer.

Constructions and Resolutions relating Case 2. to Papists.

BY the Statute of the 11 & 12 W. 3. cap. 4. sect. 4. By Stat. 11 & 12 W. 3.
for preventing the Growth of Popery, it is enacted, " That after the 29th of September 1700. every A Papist is not only disabled from purchasing Lands himself, but also from taking either by Devise or Settlement.
" Person educated in or professing the Popish Religion,
" who shall not, within six Months after their attain" ing their Age of eighteen Years, conform, as therein
" is mentioned, shall, in respect of himself and her" self only, and not in respect of his or her Heirs, or " Posterity

“ Posterity, be disabled and made incapable to inherit “ or take by Discent, Devise, or Limitation, in Posses“ sion, Reversion, or Remainder, any Lands, Tene“ ments or Hereditaments, and that during the Life “ of such Person, or until he or she shall conform, the “ next of such Person’s Kindred, which shall be a Pro“ testant, shall have and enjoy the said Lands, Tene“ ments and Hereditaments, without accounting for “ the Profits thereof; but in Case of any wilful “ Waste committed upon the Premises by the next “ Protestant Heir, or by any other by his Licence or “ Authority, the said Protestant Heir shall be liable to “ answer treble Damages to the Person disabled, to be “ recovered by the Person disabled, against the next “ Protestant Heir, his Executors or Administrators.

“ Also, after the 10th of April 1700, every Papist, “ or Person making Profession of the Popish Reli“ gion, shall be disabled, and incapable to purchase “ in his Name, or in the Name of any Person in “ Trust for him, any Manors, Lands or Tenements, “ or Profits out of the same, but all such Estates, “ Terms or Interests shall be void. *

(a) Mich.
11 Annæ.

13 Annæ.

Upon the Construction of these two Clauses, in the Great Case of Roper and Ratcliffe, it was decreed for the Papist by Lord Harcourt (a), assisted by the two Chief Justices, the Master of the Rolls, and Mr. Justice Powel; (C. J. Parker strenue opponente;) but that Decree was afterwards reversed in the House of Lords (b), and it was determined against the Papist, (viz.) That a Papist above the Age of Eighteen and a Half is not capable of taking Lands by a Devise; and that the Word [Purchase] in the latter Clause, is used in Contradistinction to the Word [Descent;] notwithstanding it was urged, that the Expression of [Purchased by a Papist,] especially when the Words following, viz. [in his own Name, or in the Name of another in Trust for him,] must be intended, where such Papist is active, and does something for himself; whereas in Case of a Devise to him, or Settlement upon him, there the Person taking is merely passive, and may know nothing of the Matter before it is done: However, it is now settled by the House of Peers, That either a Devise or Settlement to a Person professing the Popish Religion, of above Eighteen Years and a Half, is void, and the Person not capable of Taking; the Act intending utterly to disable the Papist of that Age to take any new Acquisitions, or what was not his ancient Inheritance.
 I standing

In the same Case of Roper and Ratcliff it was determined, that if Lands are devised to be sold in Trust, in the first Place to pay Debts and Legacies, and to pay the Surplus to J. S. a Papist, J. S. is rendered incapable by the latter Clause of this Statute to take the Surplus, forasmuch as it is a Profit arising out of Land, and such Devisee, by laying down the Money, may prevent the Sale; and if such Contrivances were to prevail, the Statute would signify little or nothing; so tho' this Surplus be made payable to a Person at a future Day, (viz.) at Twenty-one or Marriage, with a Devise over, if the first Devisee should die before Twenty-one, or Marriage.

So if Land descend to a Roman Catholick above the Age of Eighteen and a Half; this being a Descent, is not within the latter, but is within the first Clause, and such Papist shall not be capable of Taking, until he doth conform; but he, by the Words of the Act, is disabled to take in Respect of himself only, and not in Respect of his Heir.

For further Particulars on this Statute, see the following Case.

Case 3.

Hill versus Filkin.

ANNE Stephenton a Papist, having a Grandaughter Frances, about Fourteen Years, and a Grandson John, about Twelve Years of Age, devised her Lands, (being about 70 l. per Ann. in Lincolnshire) and all her Personal Estate, to three Trustees and their Heirs, (two of which were Papists) in Trust to sell, to pay her Debts and Legacies, and to pay the Surplus to her Grandaughter Frances, at her Age of Twenty-one or Marriage, if such Marriage should be with the Consent of the two Popish Trustees; and if the said Grandaughter should die before such Age of Twenty-one, or marry without Consent, that then such Residue should go, and be paid to the said Testatrix's Grandson.

There was a Petition to the late Lord Comper for the educating of this Grandaughter under Protestant Guardians, or at a Protestant School; and upon an Order made by the Court, for her being sent to a Protestant School, and the Person who had the Care of her going with her out of Court, and telling her, He hop'd she would be in a little Time sensible of the Errors and Superstitions of the Popish Religion; she thereupon said, I turn Heretick? I would sooner be torn to Pieces by wild Horses.

And now the Plaintiff Hill, as Grandson and Heir at Law, and Devisee over of this Trust-Estate, brought his Bill, in order to compel the Trustees to execute a Conveyance unto him, proving, that he, tho' educated a Papist, was turned Protestant, and had conform'd. Whereupon the only Question was, Whether, in Regard the Grandaughter Frances, who was admitted to be a Papist at the Time of making the Devise, and at the Death of the Testatrix, and also at the Time of her Marriage; (for she had been married twice, viz. Once at the Romish Chapel, being the Chapel of the Emperor's Resident, and after the Manner of the Papists, and this was with the Consent of the Trustees; afterwards she was married in a Protestant Church, according to the Manner of the Church of England; upon which last Marriage, and before her Age of Eighteen, she conform'd, and turn'd Protestant;) Whether she was intitled to take the Trusts of the real Estate? for it was admitted she had a good Right to the personal Estate.

And for her Taking, it was insisted, that the Act against the Growth of Popery, (viz.) the Statute of 11 & 12 W. 3. cap. 4. upon which the present Question was grounded, had these Views, 1st, To shew a Tenderness to Infants, whose Judgments being immature, and more easily deluded, the Prejudice of Education, or any weak Arguments, might induce them, in their tender Years, to imbrace the Popish Religion.

But, 2<sup>dly</sup>, It was said the Act did not design that this should be so fatal upon such Infants, as for ever to make a Forfeiture of their Inheritance: But that if such Infant Papists should, within six Months after their respective Ages of Eighteen, conform, they should be restored to their Inheritance; nay, tho' they had forfeited it, for Want of a Conformity within six Months after Eighteen, yet still, upon Conformity, they should be restored to it.

3<sup>dly</sup>, That as this Statute punished the Papists, so, on the other Hand, it intended to encourage those who should conform, by inviting them in, upon the prevailing Motives of Interest, even the Restitution of their Inheritance; otherwise it must be thought a hard Thing in the Legislature, that those, who, under the Age of Eighteen, or Eighteen and a Half, for ever so good a Consideration, could not dispose of one Foot of their Estate, should yet, if through the Immaturity of their Judgment, they were seduced to the Romish Religion, forfeit all their Inheritance, without being able to retrieve it afterwards by their Conformity.

And indeed the first Clause, enacting that every Papist, or Person professing the Popish Religion, unless they conform'd within six Months after attaining their Age of Eighteen, should not be capable of taking by Descent, Devise or Limitation, implied, that if they did so conform, they should be capable of Taking by Descent, Devise or Limitation; and therefore to make these two Clauses, which seemingly confound each other, agree, they must be construed to mean, that all Papists, or Persons professing the Popish Religion, should not be capable of taking by Descent, Devise or Limitation, except such Papists as should be under Eighteen and a Half at the Time their Title accrued to them, and that these should have an Opportunity of retrieving their Inheritance by conforming.

That an Act of Parliament was usually construed like a Will, according to the Intent; and therefore, if One by his Will devises all his Lands whatsoever, to J. S. in Fee, and afterwards by the same Will devises Blackacre to J. N. in Fee; this Will may seem to be contradictory, by devising all to one, and yet a Part to another: However, such seeming Contradiction is thus reconciled, (viz.) the Testator gives all but Blackacre to J. S. and disposes of Blackacre to J. N.

Or in the principal Case, the two Clauses might be thus construed, (viz.) All Papists, under Eighteen and a Half at the Time of, &c. and who shall conform, shall by that Means be re-intituled to their Estates; but such Papists as are above that Age, and whose Conversion it may be to no Purpose to expect, these are to be under a total Disability: Which Construction would free the Legislature from that Imputation of Hardship it might otherwise seem to have incurred; and would, at the same Time, both punish the Papist, and encourage the Convert.

Lord Chancellor: By the Words and Intent of the latter Clause, the Defendant, the Granddaughter Frances, is disabled to take by Purchase; because at the Time, viz. at the Death of the Testatrix, she was a Person professing the Popish Religion.

And as to Taking by Devise, that is a Taking by Purchase, as was adjudged by the Lords in the Case of Roper and Ratcliffe, which must not now be disputed.

With Respect to the Objection, That the Words, "Every Papist, who shall not conform within six Months after Eighteen, shall be disabled to take by Descent, Devise, or Limitation," imply, that if the Papist does conform within that Age, such Person shall be capable to take by Descent, Devise, or Limitation, that seems to be a Non sequitur: An affirmative Clause may imply a Negative; but the saying, That a Papist, unless he does conform, shall not take by Devise, does not necessarily imply, that if he does conform, he shall take by Devise, &c.

[Qu. autem, If Acts of Parliament are not to be construed like Wills? And if I devise that J. S. shall not have my Lands, unless he pays to such a Person 100*l.* surely, upon the Paying of the 100 l. he shall have my Lands.]

Now these two Clauses are agreeable and reconcilable: The first regards old subsisting Estates, in Respect to which, it lays a temporary Disability on such as would have taken them, removeable by Conformity. The latter Clause disables any Person professing the Popish Religion, from taking any new Acquisitions by Purchase, and (as has been observed before) taking by Devise, is taking by Purchase; so all Persons taking by Devise are thereby utterly disabled, if they are Persons professing the Popish Religion, tho' under Eighteen and a Half, and being within the latter Clause, where there are no Words that give them a Power of retrieving themselves by Conformity, they are for ever barred; they are disabled by the latter Clause, and not within the former.

(a) See the Case of Carteret versus Carteret, post.

But if the Infants are (a) so young, as that at the Time of the accruing of their Title (be it by Devise or Limitation) by Reason of the Tenderneſs of their Years, they are incapable of embracing any Religion, then they are aided by the first Clause, and not otherwise.

As if a Devise be to the Child of a Roman Catholic of the Age of one or two Years, such Child, by Reason of the Tenderneſs of his Age, being incapable of professing any Religion, shall therefore take within the first Clause; but must take Care to conform before the Age of Eighteen and a Half; else he forfeits to the next Protestant Heir; but it being a Disability only within

within the first Clause, 'tis only until he himself conforms, and bars not his Heir.

So as to the Word [Limitation] in the first Clause: If in a Settlement of an Estate, the Land be limited to a Papist for Life, Remainder to Protestant Trustees during his Life, to support contingent Remainders, Remainder to the first Son of the Papist in Tail Male, and so to every other Son successively: This first Son shall take by Limitation, because it is to vest in him, upon his Birth, and at that Time such first Son cannot be said to be a Person professing the Popish, or any other Religion; but still he must take Care to conform in Time, (viz.) before Eighteen and a Half, else he forfeits; but this Forfeiture being only within the first Clause, it is but a Temporary Disability, and only until he shall conform, without extending to bar his Heir.

But in the principal Case, the Party, at the Time when the Estate was to vest in her, was a Person professing the Popish Religion, and therefore within the latter Clause, and perpetually disabled to take any Thing by Purchase, and consequently by Devise: That she was a Person professing the Popish Religion is plain, first by her chusing to be married in the Popish Manner, in a Popish Chapel, and more particularly by her having said, That sooner than she would be a Heretic, she would be torn to Pieces by wild Horses.

'Tis very true, there may be a Difficulty attending this Opinion; I mean, that of fixing the Boundary of Time when a Person may be said to profess the Popish Religion; and in such a Case, where any Doubt appears, it is reasonable that the Scale should fall on the Infant's Side, and in Favour of the Party who would otherwise suffer; but, in the present Case, by Reason

Reason of the Instances already mentioned, the Defendant Frances the Grandaughter plainly appears to have been a Person professing the Popish Religion, when this Estate was to have vested in her, by the Death of the Testatrix; the Consequence of which is, that she is disabled by the second Clause, and they who are disabled by the second Clause, were never intended to be aided by the first; they are for ever disabled, without a Possibility of retrieving themselves by any Conformity.

Also it is my Opinion, that the first Clause in relation to a Papist's taking by Descent, (which is in no Sort within the second Clause,) does extend to those who take by Descent, tho' they be past the Age of Eighteen and a Half at the Time when their Title accrues, so as to lay them under a temporary Disability, viz. until they conform.

Then as to equitable Circumstances, I cannot see any in Favour of the Grandaughter; it seems plain, that she, being the Elder of the two Grandchildren, had given the greater Hopes of her being a Papist, and, for that Reason, was preferred to her Brother, the Heir of the Testatrix, which was an Hardship upon him, as it was an Hardship upon an Heir, who is favoured in all Courts both of Law and Equity; on the contrary, it cannot be a Hardship, that the Grandaughter should lose that Estate which was plainly given her as a Reward for being a Papist, when she is turned Protestant; if that be so.

I own, for my Part, I cannot but believe there was some private Trust lodged in the Trustees, that the Grandson should have the Estate, if he were a Papist; also some secret Terms, on this Marriage of the Grandaughter with Filkin, that she should enjoy her Religion, gion, &c. else why so much Hastē to marry a Girl of fifteen to one, who, having no Estate, could make no Settlement upon her? Therefore let the Bill be amended, and both the Trustees, and the Defendant Filkin the Husband shall answer to these Matters.

And then I will have the Assistance of the Judges; as was done in the Case of Radcliff and Roper; for tho' the Estate in Question be small, yet (probably) it is a Contrivance of the Papists to bring this Point to a Determination, which in some Aspects may seem favourable to them, and has not yet been settled.

And as (I presume) this is intended to be carried elsewhere, for that Reason, let it appear with all its Circumstances; and in regard both Sides pretend great Poverty, and this Suit may be chargeable, let each Party have 40 l. paid by the Trustees out of the Profits*.

Case 4.

ROGER Pomeroi, seized in Fee of the Capital Messuage, called Sandridge, and Lands in Devonshire, did by Indenture dated 29 May 1651. and by Fine, pursuant to his Marriage-Articles, settle the Premises in Question to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder, as to Part, to his Wife for Life, for her Jointure, Remainder, as to the whole, to the first, &c. Sons of the Marriage, in Tail Male, Remainder to Trustees for 120 Years, for raising Portions for Daughters of the Marriage, on Failure of Issue Male, Remainder to himself in Fee.

A Trust-Term for raising Daughters Portions, if it direct a particular Method of raising the Portions, it implies a Negative, that they shall not be raised any other Way.

shall not be raised any other Way.

Vol. II.

E

The

* This Case came on afterwards, (viz. in June 1725.) to be heard upon the amended Bill, before Lord Chancellor King, who decreed in Favour of the Defendant, contrary to the Opinion of Lord Macclesfield.

A Trust-Term to raise Portions out of Rents Issues and Profits, as well by Leasing for three Lives or twenty-one Years, at the old Rent ; this extends only to raise the Portions by annual Profits or by Leasing, and not by Mortgage or Sale: And if the Trustee in such Trust-Term, mortgages for the Portion, the Mortgage is void, when the Portion might have been raised by the Profits.

The Trust of the Term of 120 Years for Daughters Portions was, that the Trustees should raise and pay out of the Rents and Profits of the Premises, as well by Leases for one, two, or three Lives, or for any Number of Years determinable thereon, or for twenty-one Years absolutely, at the old Rent, 1500*l.* for Daughters Portions, to be paid to the only Daughter of the Marriage, if but one, and to be divided amongst them, if more than one.

There was but one Child by the Marriage that lived, and that was a Daughter, called Joan, who married Humphrey Gilbert, the Defendant Gilbert's Father ; but the Portion was not paid on the Marriage, nor raised till after the Father's Death.

Roger Pomeroy the Father, who had made this Marriage-Settlement, and upon which he had reserved the Fee to himself, having no Son, and having a Nephew of his Name, (Hugh Pomeroy),

By Indentures of Lease and Release dated 29th and 30th of May 1706. settled the Reversion in Fee, expectant on his own Death without Issue Male, and subject to the Term of 120 Years, to the Use of Trustees for ten Years, Remainder to his Nephew Hugh Pomeroy for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder to John Gilbert, Son of his Daughter Joan, for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder to himself in Fee ; the Trust of the ten Years Term was, that in case his Son-in-Law Gilbert and his Wife would release the 1500*l.* Portion secured by the 120 Years Term, then the Trustees of the ten Years Term should raise 1900*l.* (viz.)

(viz.) 1500 l. of it to be laid out in a Purchase of Land, for the Benefit of the Son-in-Law and Daughter Joan, and 400 l. Residue of the 1900 l. to be paid to his Son-in-Law himself.

In July 1708. Roger Pomeroy the Father died without Issue Male, leaving his Grandson, the Defendant John Gilbert, his Executor; but his Daughter Joan's Portion had not been yet paid, tho' she had been long married.

Upon the Death of Roger Pomeroy the Father, his Nephew Hugh entered, by Virtue of his Estate for Life given by the voluntary Settlement, subject to the 120 Years Term for Daughters Portions, but for four Years afterwards the Daughter's Portion was unpaid, and the said Hugh Pomeroy all the while in Possession.

In 1712. Application was made by the Family to the Plaintiff's Father, to advance the 1500 l. being the Daughter Joan's Portion, on the Assignment of the Trust-Term for 120 Years, created for the raising thereof, who, being advised this was a good Title, being an absolute Term, advanced the Money to the Defendant's own Father for his Mother's Portion.

Accordingly by Indenture the 8 May 1712. the Defendant's Father Humphrey Gilbert, and his Mother Joan, to whom the Portion was due, and who had taken Administration to the surviving Trustee of the 120 Years Term, and the Remainder-man Hugh Pomeroy the Nephew, join in assigning the 120 Years Term, to the Plaintiff's Father Jonathan Ivy.

October 1715. Hugh Pomeroy the Nephew, who had the Remainder for Life, subject to the 120 Years Term for raising Daughter's Portions, died without Issue Male, having enjoyed the Premises from the

Upon the Death of Hugh Pomeroy the Nephew, the Defendant John Gilbert entered and took the Profits; and upon the Plaintiff the Mortgagee's bringing a Bill of Foreclosure, the Question was, whether by the Words of this Trust, the Portion could be raised by Mortgage, or any other Way, than by annual Profits or Leasing?

Objected for the Plaintiff, 1st, That here was an honest Mortgagee, and the Term of 120 Years a subsisting Term in Law; that the Defendants claimed under a voluntary Settlement; and the Power to raise the Portion being by Rents, Issues and Profits, the Word [Profits] when not expressly called annual Profits had been frequently understood to signify any Profits that the Land would yield, either by Leasing, Selling or Mortgaging.

That the Words [as well by Leasing, &c.] were only additional, and not restrictive; and if the Portion were to be raised only by leasing, then it could not be raised by annual Rents until Leasing; that to say, all the Profits should be applied to the Portion, during the Life of Hugh Pomeroy, who was the Remainder-man for Life, would be a great and undesigned Hardship upon Hugh Pomeroy, by defeating him of the whole Benefit of his Estate for Life; it would be to starve the Tenant for Life, and this for the Benefit of a remote Remainder-man, who was to have nothing, until after the Death of the Tenant for Life without Issue Male; which was a Construction against all Rules of Equity.

As if one were to devise Lands for the Payment of Debts, and afterwards to A. for Life, Remainder to

I

B. in Fee ; here, tho' A.'s Estate would be only after Debts paid, yet should he not bear the whole Burden of the Debts ; in regard, this would intirely defeat the Devise as to him, which would be to destroy Part of the Will.

But especially it would be harder in this Case, considering Roger Pomeroy's chief Regard seemed to have been for his Kinsman Hugh Pomeroy, who was both of his Name and Blood, and who might well be thought to have been named by him first in the Will, with an Intention of preferring him to the Persons to whom the subsequent Limitations were made ; and as this would be an Hardship on the Tenant for Life, to pay it out of the Profits, so, on the other Hand, it would be prejudicial to the Daughter to receive that Portion by Dribblets, which ought to be advanced at once, and in a Gros Sum, on her Marriage.

2dly, It was observed, that a Child claiming a Portion, was favoured in Equity, even as much almost as a Creditor ; nay, that here the Daughter was actually a Purchaser of her Portion, it being in Consideration of a Marriage, and the Mother's Portion ; and therefore, if the Words would any ways bear it, the Court should assist it with the most favourable Construction ; consequently, as the Word [Profits] would extend to a Mortgage, it should be taken in that Sense ; and the rather, where the next Limitation in the Settlement, to the Term for securing the Portion, was a Remainder in Fee to the Heirs at Law of Roger Pomeroy who made the Settlement ; and if on the Death of Roger Pomeroy, the Heir had entered and taken the Profits, these Profits so taken by the Heir at Law, would never have gone in Discharge of the Portion ; that if the Heir at Law could never have defended himself against the Daughter, to whom the Portion was due, so neither could the Persons under the second Settlement; forasmuch as they claimed under the Limitation to the Heir at Law.

3dly, It was insisted, that the Sense was imperfect: (viz.) The Trust of the Term of 120 Years, was to raise the Portion out of the Rents, Issues and Profits, as well by leasing the Premises for one, two, or three Lives, or for any Number of Years, determinable on one, two, or three Lives, or for twenty-one Years absolutely, reserving the ancient Rent; so that there was nothing to answer these Words [as well] no Correlative.

Now the Words understood, might be, to raise the Portions by Rents and Profits, as well [as] by Leasing, and the Words [as well as by Leasing] being usually inserted in Cases of Western Estates, where Fines are commonly raised by Leasing, the same might here have been used in majorem cautelam, to empower the Trustees to make Leases, notwithstanding that the general Word viz. [Profits] included that Power; and it was common to say, in those Kind of Settlements, In Trust to raise the Portion by Rents, Issues, and Profits, or by Sale, Lease or Mortgage, tho' all this had been before implied by the Word [Profits].

Lastly, It was represented as very hard for a Court of Equity to decree the Loss of an honest Debt, in a Case where such Debt would be safe at Law, and to put the Mortgagee to follow the Personal Assets of Hugh Pomeroy the Remainder-man, for the Payment of his Debts; especially when the Executor of Hugh, who was made a Party to the Suit, has denied Assets; and as to the subsequent Settlement, this could not alter or prejudice the former Security, made by the first Settlement for the Portion.

Lord Chancellor: It will be very material to know the yearly Value of the Premises charged with this Portion, in Order to see within what Time the Portion could be raised; tho' it seems as if, the second Settlement made by Roger Pomeroy, having created a Term of ten Years only of the Premises for securing 1900 l. the Parties thought that the same would, in a reasonable Time, be a proper Fund or Security for the Raising of this lesser Portion of 1500 l.

I take it to be a Rule, that where a Trust of a Term for raising Portions for Daughters, does direct a particular Method for raising them, it implies a Negative, that they shall not be raised any other Way; and when the Trust of the Term, in the present Case, is to raise the Portion, by leasing for one, two, or three Lives, or for any Term of Years, determinable upon one, two, or three Lives, or for twenty-one Years absolutely, it shall not be raised by any other Way; and it is considerable, that even by this Way, (viz.) of Leasing, it could not be raised, but by making such Leases upon which the old Rent was reserved.

The natural Meaning of raising a Portion by Rents, Issues, and Profits, is by the yearly Profits; but, to prevent an Inconvenience, the Word [Profits] has, in some (a) particular Instances, been extended to any Profits, which the Land will yield, either by Sale or Mortgage; but where there are subsequent Words to explain and restrain it, as by Leasing, I have not heard of any Case, which has said, that any other Method shall be made Use of for the raising of it.

The natural Meaning of the Word Profits is annual Profits, tho' for Necessity, in some Cases, it has been construed to extend to any Profits, that can be made by Sale or Mortgage. (a) Vide the Case of Traford versus Ashton, Vol. I.

It is as much the Intent of the Settlement, to confine the Manner of raising this Portion to Leasing, as to secure any Portion at all; and consequently it would be a plain Breach of Trust, to raise it any other Way.

And at the Time of making this Settlement, (which was in 1657.) I do not think that the Word [Profits] was extended to signify the Profits, which might be made of Land by Sale or Mortgage.

(a) See for this in the Case of Evelyn versus Evelyn, post.

Where a Portion is to be raised by annual Profits or Fines, if no Time be appointed, the Portion is not due, till such Time as it might be so raised.

Here is no Time appointed for the raising of this Portion; and therefore the Portion in this Case is due, when the (a) Profits can raise it; and it carries no Interest; but when the Sum of 1500*l.* is, or might have been raised by the Profits, then it becomes due, and the Land is discharged, as having born its Burden.

if no Time be appointed, the Portion is not due, till such Time as it might be so raised.

The Profits received by Hugh Pomeroy, are as received by the Mortgagee Ivy, because it is said in the last Clause in the Mortgage-Deed, that it should be lawful for Hugh Pomeroy to take the Profits without Account, until Default of Payment; so that he, by this Clause, is Tenant at Will to the Mortgagee, which makes it to be the same Thing, as if the Mortgagee had let it to any other Person; therefore this Mortgage made to the Plaintiff is not pursuant to the Trust, and so much of the Profits, as have been received, must go towards the Payment and Sinking of the Portion; only here having been a Power of Leasing, and the Intention having been to charge the Land as far as may be,

Let the Master see, how far the Land might have been charged by Leasing, and whether any Lives were vacant, and reserve the Consideration, how far the Estate shall be chargeable thereby; and let the Representative of Hugh Pomeroy pay the Mortgage-Money and Interest, as far as the Assets will extend.

This Decree was afterwards affirmed in the House of Lords, tho' thought a very hard Case. Feb. 1723.

Harvey versus Harvey.

At the Rolls.

ONE seized of a real Estate, and possessed of a personal Estate, and having several Children, devises all his real and personal Estate to his eldest Son, charging the same with 1000*l.* a-piece to all his younger Children, payable at their respective Ages of twenty-one, but in the Will no Notice is taken of Maintenance for the younger Children in the mean Time.

A Father gives a Legacy to an Infant payable at twenty-one; in what Case, and in what Manner the Court will allow Maintenance to the Infant out of the Legacy, before it is due

The younger Children bring their Bill, in order to recover Interest, or some Maintenance during their Infancy.

Upon which, the Master of the Rolls, having taken Time to consider of the Case, and having been also attended with Precedents, decreed, that the younger Children should recover Maintenance.

His Honour observed, that these being vested Legacies, and no Devise over, it would be extream Hard that the Children should starve, when intitled to so considerable Legacies, for the Sake of their Executors or Administrators, who, in case of their Deaths, would have the said Legacies.

That in this Case, the Court would do what, in common Presumption, the Father, if living, would, nay, ought to have done, which was, to provide Necessaries for his Children.

(a) Vide
Vol. I. Pier-
Lord Cheyne.

That a Court of Equity would make hard Shifts for the Provision of Children: As where younger Children were left destitute, and the eldest an Infant, Equity would make such a liberal (a) Allowance to the Guardian of the Eldest, as that he might thereout be enabled to maintain all the Children; and for the same Reason, the Court would likewise take a Latitude in this Case; that since Interest was pretty much in the Breast of the Court, tho' the Will were silent with Regard to that, yet it should be presumed that the Father who gave these Legacies, intended they should carry Interest, if the Estate would bear it; for every one must suppose it to have been the Intention of the Father, that his Children should not want Bread during their Infancy.

Nay, that for this Reason it had been held, that tho' a Legacy were devised over in case of the Legatee's dying before twenty-one, yet the Infant Legatee ought to have Interest allowed him during his Infancy, in order for his Maintenance, with this Difference only, that where the Estate has appeared to be small, the Court, in whose Discretion it always lies to determine the Quantum of Interest, has ordered the lower Interest.

The Court cited 1 Chan. Rep. 2vo 265. Glyde versus Wright, 1 Chan. Cases 60. Rennesey versus Parrot, 1 Chan. Cases 249. Leech versus Leech; where a Distinction was taken between a vested Legacy, and a Legacy devised over, (viz.) in the former Case, to allow a Maintenance tho' the Legacy was not payable, but to give no Maintenance where the Legacy was devised over; and his Honour said, that of late it had been the Practice to allow Maintenance even in Case of Legacies that were not vested; also he cited 2 Vent. 346. Browne versus Tynte, (tho' the Name does not there appear,) a strong Case of Interest being allowed for an Infant's Legacy, before the same became payable.

But it seems, that if one not a Parent, gives a Legacy to an Infant, payable at twenty-one, without any Devise over, and the Infant has nothing else to subsist on, the Court Will order Part of this Legacy, in order to provide Bread for the Infant, to be paid presently, allowing Interest for the same to the Person paying it, out of the remaining Principal; tho' this is done very sparingly.

Attorney General versus Robins.

ONE Robins a Clergyman, having some personal Estate, and about 400 l. of it in South-Sea Stock, which at the Time of the making of his Will, (viz. in June 1720.) was valued at about 1000 l. per Cent. made his Will, and thereby gave 60 l. a-piece to his Executors, for their Care and Pains, and 3 l. a-piece to the Poor of three several Parishes, and 5 l. a-piece to his Servants, besides several other Charities; and at the latter End of his Will said, that he apprehended there would be a considerable Surplus of his personal Estate beyond what he had before given away in Legacies, for which Reason he gave several further Legacies.

At the Rolls.

One by Will gives several Legacies, and afterwards in the same Will, apprehending that there will be a Surplus, therefore gives further Legacies; the Legacies in the former Part of the Will shall have Preference in Case of a Deficiency.

After this, the Testator made a Codicil, whereby he gave several other Legacies, amounting in all to 160 l. and then provided in his Codicil, that in Case there should be any Deficiency, then 200 l. which the Testator had given by his Will for re-building a Chapel for St. John's College in Cambridge, should not take Effect,

One makes a Will, then a Codicil, and gives Legacies by both; on a Deficiency they shall all come into Average.

Effect, saving only, that as much as should be thought necessary for that Purpose, should be laid out in Beautifying the old Chapel there, and soon afterwards the Testator died.

There happened to be a great Deficiency, by Reason of the Fall of the Value of South-Sea Stock, which the Testator had computed at 1000 l. per Cent'.

Upon which, it was decreed by the Master of the Rolls, that the Legacies given at the latter End of the Will being upon a Presumption that there would be a Surplus, and there happening to be no Surplus, the former Legacies in the Will should have a Preference, and those Legacies given in the latter End of the Will should be lost.

However, as to the Legacies given by the Codicil, it was objected, that a Codicil was as a latter Will, which should prevail over a former, and therefore the Legacies in the Codicil ought to be preferred to the Legacies in the Will.

Sed per Cur' : The Codicil must be taken as Part of the Will, so that if there be a Deficiency to pay both all the Legacies in the Will, and likewise those in the Codicil, constant Experience shews, that there shall be an Abatement in Proportion; but here, when the Testator in the latter End of his Will said, that in regard he apprehended there was a considerable Surplus, therefore he gave additional Legacies, the same Apprehension of a Surplus must be intended to continue in the Testator at the Time of his making his Codicil, and the Legacies in the Codicil should take Place only out of the supposed Surplus, were it not for the latter Part of the Codicil, (viz.) That the Legacies in the Codicil should be paid out of the 200 l.
given

given for the Rebuilding of the Chapel, and out of the Remainder of what might be thought necessary to be laid out in beautifying the old Chapel.

Also, tho' 'twas objected, that the Charity-Legacies should be preferred to the other Legacies, yet it was decreed, and said to have been formerly so ruled (a), That Charity-Legacies, being but Legacies, must, on a Deficiency, abate in Proportion, notwithstanding that by the Civil Law, Charity-Legacies have the Preference to all others.

In Case of a Deficiency, Charity-Legacies, as well as others, shall abate in Proportion; but three Pounds to the Poor of the Parish, shall be taken as Part of Funerals, and so no Abatement. (a) Ante Vol. I. Tate versus Austin, Masters versus Masters, and Attorney General versus Hudson.

With Respect to the 3 l. given to the Poor of three several Parishes, these the Court looked upon as Part of the Funeral, and as Doles at the Funeral; and therefore held, that no Abatement ought to be made out of them.

But as to the 5 l. a-piece given to the Servants, tho' these had been paid by the Executors, who desired an Allowance on Account thereof, yet the Master of the Rolls said, he could not break into the Rule, for then there would be no knowing where to stop; wherefore these Legacies were to abate in Proportion.

Lastly, It was urged, that the 60 l. a-piece given to the Executors being said to be for their Care and Pains, the same became a Debt: And the Executors, virtute officii, being intitled to a Preference, might pay such their own Debt first.

60 l. Legacy to an Executor, for Care and Pains, in Case of a Deficiency, shall abate in Proportion.

Sed per Cur': The Executors, if they please, may renounce; and the Legacies to them are but Legacies, and shall abate in Proportion (b): It cannot be a Debt, in Regard that can never be a Debt to the Executors, that was not so to the Testator.

Case 7.

*Maxwell versus Wettenhall.*Lord Macclesfield.IN this Case the following Points were resolved:

Where and from what Time a Legacy shall carry Interest. If a Legacy be given out of Land, it carries Interest from the Death of the Testator, because Land yields Profits.

1st, If one gives a Legacy charged upon Land which yields Rents and Profits, and there is no Time of Payment mentioned in the Will, the Legacy shall carry Interest from the Testator's Death, because the Land yields Profit from that Time.

If out of personal Estate, it yields Interest from a Year after Testator's Death; but if a Time of Payment be mentioned, then Interest from that Time.

2dly, But if a Legacy be given out of a Personal Estate, and no Time of Payment mentioned in the Will, this Legacy shall carry Interest only from the End of the Year, after the Death of the Testator; and Lord Chancellor, upon a Debate from what Time Interest should commence, said, That he took this to be the settled Difference.

If a Legacy be given only out of a Reversion or

3dly, If a Legacy be given charged upon a dry Reversion, here it shall carry Interest only from a Year after after the Death of the Testator, a Year being a convenient Time for a Sale.

4thly, If a Legacy be given out of a Personal Estate, consisting of Mortgages carrying Interest, or of Stocks yielding Profits half-yearly, it seems, in this Case, the Legacy shall carry Interest from the Death of the Testator.

If out of a Personal Estate, consisting of Mortgages, or Funds carrying Interest, then it shall carry Interest from the Death of the Testator.

5thly, If a Legacy be brought into Court, and the Legatee has Notice of it, so that it is his Fault not to pray to have the Money, or that the Money should be put out, the Legatee, in such Case, shall lose the Interest from the Time the Money was brought into Court; but if the Money was put out, the Legatee shall have the Interest, which the Money put out by the Court, did yield.

If a Legacy be brought into Court, Legatee shall lose the Interest while the Legacy remains in Court; but if the Legacy is by the Court placed out at Interest, Legatee to have such Interest.

6thly, A Legatee or Creditor coming in before the Master, and not party to the Cause, shall have his Costs; for it was in his Power to have brought a Bill for his Legacy, or Debt, which would have put the Estate to further Charge.

Legatee or Creditor coming in before a Master for his Legacy or Debt, shall have his Costs.

7thly, Lord Chancellor said, that 'twas the daily Practice, if a Man devised his Lands for the Payment of his Debts, this Devise makes the Land as a Security or Mortgage, for all the Testator's Debts, as well those by simple Contract, as otherwise, and the simple Contract Debts shall carry (a) Interest, as the Land, which is the Fund, yields annual Profits.

If one by Will charge his Land with the Payment of his Debts, this is like a Mortgage for his Debts, and will make the simple Contract Debts carry Interest.

Gore versus Gore. B. R.(Argument for Edward Gore the Plaintiff.)

A. seized in Fee has two Sons B. and C. both unmarried, and devises his Lands to Trustees for 500 Years, in Trust to pay 50*l.* per Annum to his eldest Son B. for Life, with Power of Distress, and on several other Trusts, (some of which are remote) Remainder to the first, and every other Son of B. in Tail, Remainder to C. the second Son for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail, Remainder over. By the better Opinion, this a good executory Devise to the first Son of B.

The Testator William Gore had several Sons, Thomas and Edward Gore, &c. and several Daughters; and being seized in Fee of diverse Manors and Lands, did, by his Will dated 14th July 1718. devise these Lands, &c. to Trustees for 500 Years, and after the Determination of that Term, to the first Son of his eldest Son Thomas (who was then a Bachelor) to be begotten in Tail Male, and so to every other Son of the Body of Thomas to be begotten in Tail Male successively;

Remainder to the Testator's second Son Edward for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male successively, with diverse Remainders over.

The Trust of the Term of 500 Years was, to pay the Testator's Debts and Legacies, which were considerable, and likewise to pay 50*l.* per Annum Annuity to the Testator's eldest Son for his Life, with a Power for his said eldest Son to distrain for the same, if in Arrear, with a Power to the Testator's younger Son Edward to charge the Premises with 1000*l.* a piece for his younger Sons or Daughters, payable at twenty-one, and with a Maintenance for them in the mean Time, not exceeding the Interest of their Portions; the Trustees to raise such Portions, and Maintenance out of the Term for 500 Years, and when all the Trusts of the Term were performed, then the Term to attend the Inheritance.

Also the Testator declared, that the Reason why he gave his eldest Son Thomas no more than 50*l. per Annum*, was, because his said eldest Son had stood him in a great deal of Money, and was to have 400*l. per Annum* in Lands in Wiltshire, immediately after his [the Testator's] Death.

In the February following the Testator died, leaving his eldest Son Thomas then a Bachelor, who afterwards married, and had a Son.

The first Question was, whether the Devise to the first Son of Thomas (the Testator's eldest Son) was good?

2*dly*, In whom the Freehold of the Premises did vest at the Death of the Testator?

And I argued before the Judges, in Behalf of the younger Son Edward Gore

As to the Points in Question, the Case may be put in very few Words, and is but this:

The Testator William Gore, seized in Fee of the Premises in Question, devises them to Trustees and their Heirs, to the Use of the said Trustees for 500 Years, upon several Trusts yet subsisting, and likely long to continue, and from and after the Determination of that Estate, then to the Use of the first and every other Son to be begotten of the Body of the Testator's eldest Son Thomas Gore, in Tail Male successively, Remainder to the Use of the Testator's second Son Edward Gore for his Life, with Remainders over. The Testator dies, and at his Death, his eldest Son Thomas had no Son, but afterwards the Testator's eldest Son Thomas has a Son,* (the now Defendant William Gore,) upon which the Question is, whether this Son of Thomas Gore, born after the Testator's Death, be intitled to the Premises?

And I humbly take it, that the Son of Thomas Gore, born after the Death of the Testator, is not intitled to the Premises in Question.

I cannot say, nor can the other Side insist, that at the Time when the Testator William Gore made his Will, whereby he devised the Premises to Trustees for 500 Years, Remainder to the first Son of the Body of his eldest Son Thomas Gore, to be begotten in Tail Male, that the Devise over of this Remainder, to such first Son of Thomas Gore, was in all Events, void at the Time of the making this Will. No; by Possibility it might have been a good Devise: It might have been a good Devise, even by way of Remainder, because it was, at the Time of making the Will, possible, that this Thomas Gore the Testator's eldest Son, might have a Son born after the making the Will, and before the Testator's Death; and tho' this may, in some Respects, be said to be no Will until the Death of the Testator, yet after the Death of the Testator, in case of a Devise of Land, (which is the present Case,) a Will, in many Respects, relates to the (a) Time of the making; and therefore, if I devise all my Lands, and afterwards purchase more Lands, this Will so far relates to the Time of making it, as not to pass the after-purchased Lands; nay, tho' the Testator signifies his express Intention that his after-purchased Lands should pass; or if the Testator devises all the Lands which he shall die seized of, yet this will not pass Lands purchased chafed fubfequent to the making of the Will ; as was adjudged in this Court in the Cafe of Bunter and Cook, 1 Salk. 237.

* Wm. Gore is mention'd improperly in this Place, his Birth having happen'd some Time afterwards, (vide post 64.) and occasioned the Reporter's arguing the Case a second Time in B. R. The Reader will perceive this Mistake has arisen by transcribing the Case as stated in the second Argument.

It is true, it is fhewn in this Cafe, that the Will is dated the 14th of July 1718. and that the Teftator's Son Thomas Gore was then a Bachelor, and that the Teftator died in February following ; yet as it is wholly uncertain when any Perfon living is to die, fo at the Time when the Teftator made this Will, it was then wholly uncertain, how long afterwards the Teftator might live. It could not be then known, but that the Teftator might live fo long after the making the Will, as that his eldeft Son Thomas Gore might have a Son born in the faid Teftator's Life-time, and the fubfequent Event, or what happened afterwards, will not alter what the Law was at the Time of making this Will.

Then I would fuppose, that after the making this Will, the Teftator's eldeft Son Thomas Gore had had a Son born in the Life of the Teftator, how would this Son have taken, whether by way of Remainder expectant upon this 500 Years Term, or by way of executory Devife?

Plainly fuch Son would have taken by way of Remainder, and not by way of executory Devife ; for then the Cafe would have been but this: The Teftator devifes Lands to Trustees for 500 Years, Remainder to the firft Son of the Teftator's eldeft Son Thomas Gore, to be begotten in Tail Male, Remainder to the Teftator's fecond Son Edward Gore for his Life, and Thomas Gore the Teftator's eldeft Son, has no Son born at the Time of making the Will, but afterwards (and in the Life-time of the Teftator) has a Son, and then the Teftator dies; it feems there can be no Doubt, but that this Son of Thomas Gore, born after the making the Will, and in the Life-time of the Testator, would have been intitled to the Premises, and would have taken by way of Remainder, and not by way of executory Devise.

Wherefore, since in the present Case it was possible, at the Time of making this Will, that the Devise over of the Premises to the first Son of Thomas Gore, might have taken Effect by way of Remainder, by the Birth of a Son in the Life-time of the said Testator, and after the making the said Will; and since it is laid down as a Rule in the Case of Purefoy and Rogers, (2 Saund. 388.) that where a Devise might ever take Effect as a contingent Remainder, in such Case, it shall not operate as an executory Devise; if, where a Devise over might operate but as a contingent Remainder, which is but a precarious Estate, and at the Mercy of the Tenant for Life to destroy when he pleases, I say, if even in that Case the Devise over shall not take Effect as an executory Devise, I submit it to your Lordships, whether the present Case is not within that Rule, and to receive the like Construction.

But for Argument-sake, taking this Point to be against me, still the principal Case is for me.

First, I may take this for granted, that in the present Case, where the Devise is to the Trustees only for 500 Years, with Remainder to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male, and Thomas Gore has no Son born in the Life of the Testator :

That this Remainder cannot operate as a contingent Remainder, because there is no Freehold to support it, and that therefore, as a contingent Remainder, this is void.

So that the only Way to make good this Devise over to the first Son of Thomas Gore, must be to construe it an executory Devise.

And in Favour of this Construction, it has been much insisted upon, that in the Devise over to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten, these Words [to be begotten] import a future and executory Devise, and make the Case different from what it would have been, if such Devise over had been to the first Son of Thomas Gore begotten.

Now the Words begotten and to be begotten, procreatis and procreandis, have been always held to be the very (a) same, as is expressly said in 1 Inst. 20. b.

(a) Vide
Vol. I.
Hewit ver-
fus Ireland.

And tho' it may be objected, that admitting the Words begotten and to be begotten, may be the same in Case of a Deed, yet that it will be otherwise in Case of a Will, which is the present Case:

Yet that these Words are exactly the same in Case of a Will, as in the Case of a Deed, has been determined in the Court of Chancery. 2 Vern. 545. Cook versus Cook, Paschæ 1700. Where the Devise being to the Issue of J. S. begotten, the then Lord Keeper, in the Determination of that Cause, declared, that the Words begotten, or to be begotten, make no Manner of Difference, but are the same, as well in Construction of Wills, as Settlements, and take in all the Issue afterwards begotten.

In the present Case, where the Devise is to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten, suppose Thomas Gore had had a Son born before the making of this Will, and never had any other Child; surely according to these Authorities, such Son, tho' born before the making of the Will, would have taken the Premises, and that by Virtue of the Words to be begotten.

I would beg Leave to put this Case a little further:

Suppose the Testator had one Son born before the making of the Will, and had devised his Lands to his first Son to be begotten, and then had a Son born after the making of the Will, which of these two Sons should take?

Why surely the eldest Son, and that by Virtue of the Devise to the Testator's first Son to be begotten, tho' he was born before the Will.

And if this be so, it is a Demonstration, that the Words begotten and to be begotten are the very same.

Accordingly as they have been, and are, frequently used promiscuously in most Deeds or Wills, where an Estate-tail is created, and are now become almost technical Words:

It might be at this Time of Day of dangerous Consequence, to put upon them a new and different Construction from that which the uniform Resolutions, as well of the Courts of Law, as Equity, have agreed to give them.

But for Argument-sake, taking this Point to be also against me,

Still I humbly insist, that the Devise in the principal Case, being to the Trustees for 500 Years, and from and after the Determination of that Estate, to the first Son of the Body of Thomas Gore to be begotten, this Devise over to the first Son of Thomas Gore in Tail, cannot be good by way of executory Devise, for these Reasons :
 I this

First, Because the Devise over to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten, is not limited to take Effect within the Compass of Time which the Law allows for that Purpose ; for though Thomas Gore had a Son afterwards, yet that Son does not take a legal and alienable Estate, until the precedent Term of 500 Years is determined.

And in the next Place, this Devise over to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail, and which is expectant only on a Term for Years devised to the Trustees, cannot be good as an Executory Devise, because the Freehold of the Premises cannot, in this Case, descend to the Heir at Law of the Testator, there to wait, until the Executory Devise takes Effect, without which such Executory Devise cannot be good.

Now I say, the Freehold, in this Case, cannot descend to the Testator's Heir at Law, because it is devised over by this Will from the Heir at Law, to several Persons in esse for their Lives successively.

Thirdly, Another Reason, why this Devise over to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten cannot operate as an executory Devise, is, because it is devised to this first Son as a Remainder, and therefore cannot take Effect as an executory Devise.

First, Then I take it, that this Devise being to Trustees for 500 Years, and afterwards to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male, the same is too remote a Devise over to take Effect as an executory Devise.

And

And here I would not enter into that large Field of Learning of executory Devises ; I would not trace out their Original, when they began, nor would I examine into the Progress they have made ; only this I may say, they obtained from the Court their first Commencement not without great Difficulty ; and as to their Progress, it has not been allowed without great Reluctancy, hardly without continual Entries of Protestations, (if I may be permitted to say so) that the Court would not go one Jot further than the former Resolutions had carried them, and had almost repented of having gone so far.

I would just beg Leave to mention some Expressions made use of by Lord Chief Justice Treby, in the Delivering of his Opinion in the Case of Scattergood and Edge,

(a) Vide Salk. 230.

“ (a) That his Lordship had observed these executory “ Devises had introduced many intricate Questions
 “ not known to the Plainess of the Common Law ;
 “ that for this Reason he would be always against the “ least Enlargement of that Time, to which former “ Resolutions had confined them, and that he would “ do nothing in Favour of so inconvenient an Estate.

So that I take it for granted, if it can be made appear, that the allowing of this executory Devise will be to carry it any Thing farther than has been yet done, this alone will be a sufficient Argument against it.

Having said thus much, I would not repeat what the Learned * Counsel on my Side insisted upon in his Argument, “ That every executory Devise must be “ confined to one or more concurrent Life or Lives, or “ else it would be void ; and that this executory Devise “ might exceed that Time, in regard Thomas Gore might “ die

“ die without a Son, and leave his Wife privement ensient
“ with a Son, who might be born nine or ten Months
“ after the Death of his Father Thomas”; it would be tedious, and take up too much of your Lordships Time, to repeat those several Authorities which he cited, and what he urged upon that Head; I take it, all that can be said, has been said upon that Part of the Subject, and hope it will have its Weight with your Lordships.

What I shall insist upon, is, that this Devise being to the Use of Trustees for 500 Years, and from and after the Determination of that Estate, to the Use of the first Son to be begotten of the Body of Thomas Gore in Tail Male, this Devise over to the first Son, &c. is a void Devise, because it cannot take Effect until after the Determination of the Term of 500 Years, and and will not vest upon the Birth, of this first Son of Thomas Gore, so as to become a legal and transferable Estate, until the 500 Years Term is determined.

But before I come to this Point, I would speak a Word with Regard to this Term of 500 Years devised to the Trustees, and which is limited precedent to the Devise over to the first Son, &c. As to this Term of 500 Years, if a Court of Law were to take Notice of the Nature of the Trusts declared thereof, (which methinks they should not, being a Matter merely of Equity,) but if a Court of Law will take Notice of Trusts in Equity, they may see, that the Trusts of this Term are such, as (for ought appears to the contrary) may last as long as the Term itself; the Trusts are not only to pay several Annuities for Lives, but to pay several great Debts, and considerable Portions to the Testator's younger Children, with Interest, and also additional Portions given by the Codicil.

But besides this, by the Will, the two younger Sons of the Testator, when they shall be in Possession, have a Power to charge this 500 Years Term with Portions for their younger Children, payable at their Ages of twenty-one, and to their Daughters at twenty-one or Marriage, with Maintenance in the mean Time, not exceeding the Interest of their Portions, and the like Power for the Testator's eldest Son to charge the Term with Portions to his younger Children.

So that the Children, who are to take these Portions to be charged upon this 500 Years Term, may not be yet born, not born for these many Years, and after their Birth, they are not to receive their Portions till twenty-one, neither is there any Proviso for making void the Term, even upon the Payment of all these Debts, Portions, and Annuities.

There is indeed a Proviso, that if the Person next in Remainder after this Term of 500 Years, shall, to the good liking of the Trustees, secure the Payment of these Annuities, Debts, and Portions, then the Term shall attend the Reversion.

But whether the next Person in Remainder ever will, or ever can, or ever shall think it worth his While to give such Security, does not appear.

Tho' surely in the Case of a Trust, and such a Trust, so likely to continue for so very long a Duration, it is not probable a Court of Law will take Notice of such a Trust, or how long the same is to last; here it is made Part of the Case, that it is not yet determined, and it does not appear when it will.

So that I take it, this Term of 500 Years must be looked upon in a Court of Law, as an absolute Term for so long a Time, and that the Trusts thereof are quite out of the Case.

Then the Case is no more, than that the Testator devises the Premises to A. for 500 Years, and from and after the Determination of that Estate, then to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male, with a Remainder to Edward Gore, second Son of the Testator, for his Life, &c.

And here it seems to me, that the Devise over cannot, by Way of executory Devise, (as the other Side would have it operate) pass, or vest any legal or transferable Estate in this first Son, until the Determination of the 500 Years Term.

As to this, the Nature of an executory Devise is to be considered.

Now every executory Devise is to be considered as an original Devise, not depending upon any precedent Estate given by the Will, but is an Estate which is to arise and spring up in Possession at the Time appointed for that Purpose, and then, and not till then, to take Effect as a legal and alienable Estate.

In the mean while, the Devise is rightly and properly called an executory Devise.

Perhaps a Term so long as five hundred Years may look a little shocking; and in (a) antient Times these long Terms were not usual; Terms for Years, tho' never so long, were formerly but little regarded in Law, as they were at the Mercy of the Remainder-man, or Reversioner

(a) Vide
Vol. I. Wind

versioner to destroy them; for these Termors could not falsify, in case of a feigned Recovery suffered by the Remainder-man or Reversioner, until this was remedied by Stat. 23 H. 8. cap. 15.

In the present Case, instead of this long Term of five hundred Years, I would put the Case of a Term of five Years only, for the Alteration of the Term can make no Alteration of the Law, as to this Point of the Estate's vesting.

Suppose then the Testator, in the principal Case, had devised the Premises to A. for five Years, and after the Determination of that Term, to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male.

And suppose that after the Death of the Testator, and within this Term of five Years, Thomas Gore had had a Son born, yet I take it that, until the five Years had determined, no legal or alienable Estate had vested in this first Son of Thomas Gore.

If any legal Estate would have vested in such first Son, &c. upon his Birth, it must have vested in him as a Remainder, that is, the Trustees must have been possessed of the Term for five hundred Years, (or for five Years, as I would now call it,) Remainder to the first Son of Thomas Gore (being born) in Tail Male.

But, with Submission, that Estate which at the first, at the making of this Will, and at the Death of the Testator, was an executory Devise, can never afterwards be turned into, or become a Remainder, nor can it be claimed as a Remainder, but must continue an executory Devise, until it takes Effect in Possession.

This Point would appear in a clearer Light, if I might suppose, that at the Time of the Testator's making his Will, this Thomas Gore had had a Son born.

In regard that then, by the Devise of the Premises in Question to the Trustees for 500 Years, and from and after the Determination of that Estate, to the first Son of Thomas Gore, &c. this had been a common plain vested Remainder in such first Son of Thomas, &c.

But it happening, in the present Case, that Thomas Gore had no Son born at the making of the Will, nor at the Death of the Testator, and the precedent Estate being only a Term for Years, and consequently unable to support a contingent Remainder, and therefore this being void as a Remainder, for this Reason, say they on the other Side, we do not claim the Premises by way of Remainder, for as such it would be void, but our Title is by way of executory Devise.

The Consequence of which must be, that they will be obliged to abide by this as an executory Devise, and it can never afterwards operate as a Remainder.

Whereas, if the Estate in the Premises were to vest in the first Son of Thomas Gore upon his Birth, as a legal Estate, it must be in him as a Remainder expectant upon the Term for 500 Years in the Trustees.

But tho' I do insist, that no legal Estate can vest in the first Son of Thomas Gore upon his Birth, until the Determination of the precedent Term, either by way of Remainder, or otherwise, yet if this precedent Term were but for five Years instead of five hundred, or for any Term not too long for an executory Devise to wait and expect, I might admit, that if the Testator in the present Case had devised the Premises to Trustees for five Years, or for thirty Years, and afterwards to the first Son of the Body of Thomas Gore to be begotten, and Thomas Gore had had a Son born within the Term of thirty Years, that a Sort of Right or Possibility might have vested in such Son upon his Birth, and such a Possibility as would have descended to the Heirs Male of his Body, tho' such Son had died before the Determination of the Term, and yet this would be no legal Estate.

But this is no new Notion, being exactly agreeable with another Case settled and adjudged of an executory Devise too, and that is, where a Man possessed of a Term for 1000 Years devises to A. for Life, Remainder to B. his Executors and Administrators during the Residue of the Term, and dies.

Here A. the first Devisee has, during his Life, the whole Interest in the Term, and B. the Devisee over, notwithstanding the manifest Impossibility that A. should outlive these 1000 Years, has, in Notion of Law, but a Possibility; wherefore, tho' it was for sometime held, that such Interest would not so much as go to Executors, (Moore 831. Price versus Almory,) which Difficulty is now got over, and the Law altered in that Point, yet it is still held and resolved, that B. the Devisee over of the Term, has no (a) legal Interest therein, and that he has but a Possibility, which he can neither assign, grant over, or devise. So is 4 Co. 66. b. Fulwood's Case, 10 Co. 47. b. Lampet's Case, 1 Sid. 187. Cooke versus Bellamy.

(a) See the Case of Wind ver. Alborne Vol. I. ubi supra.

From hence it is manifest, that one may have an Interest or Possibility, and yet no legal Estate; and in Case the precedent Term in the present Case were but for five, or thirty Years, with Remainder to the first

Son of Thomas Gore, such first Son, if born within the five, or within the thirty Years, might, on his Birth, have an Interest or Possibility, but no legal Estate, until the Determination of the precedent Term.

But in the principal Case, the precedent Term being for so long a Time as 500 Years, this is too long for an executory Devise to wait, and therefore void, by Reason of the Remoteness of its Commencement.

Besides, as in the present Case I have said, that every executory Devise is an original Devise, and independent upon any precedent Term, it seems the same, as if the precedent Term were out of the Case, in every Respect, except to denote and ascertain the future Time when the executory Devise is to take Effect.

And therefore I would mention some Cases in the Books of executory Devises without any Term limited before them, or any Contingency attending them.

In 1 Lut. 798. Clark versus Smith, this Case is mentioned by the Court, and admitted to be Law: A. seized of Land in Fee, devises to B. in Fee, to commence and take Effect six Months after the Testator's Death, this is plainly a good executory Devise, and will take Effect at the End of six Months after the Testator's Death.

But it is expressly held there, that during those six Months, the Estate descends, and continues in the Heir at Law of the Testator.

Consequently it does not vest in the Devisee during the six Months; for one and the same Estate cannot be at

at the same Time intirely in two different Persons, (viz.) in the Heir, and in the Devisee, and as the Freehold and Inheritance is in the Heir, and out of the Devisee, so the Devisee, for these six Months, cannot alien, or assign over such Estate.

And as six Months was the Time mentioned in that Case, the Law will be the same, were the Devise to take Effect six Years after the Testator's Death; for during that Time, no legal Estate being vested in the Devisee, the Ownership of the Estate would be wholly lock'd up.

Of the same Nature with this, is another Case solemnly adjudged upon a special Verdict, in Cro. Eliz. 878. Pay's Case: One seized in Fee devised Lands to J. S. for five Years from Michaelmas then next, Remainder to the then Plaintiff in Fee, and the Question was, Whether this was a good Devise of the Remainder in Fee to the Plaintiff?

Obj. It was not a good Devise of such Remainder, because the same could not vest in the Devisee upon the Death of the Testator; and it being a Remainder in Fee, expectant upon a Lease for Years, the Freehold would be in Abeyance, which the Law would not suffer; and that the Freehold or Remainder in Fee would not vest before Michaelmas then next after the Testator's Death, because the particular Estate devised for five Years was not to begin or take Effect until that Time.

But adjudged, that this was a good Devise of the Remainder in Fee; for tho' it was admitted, that a Freehold could not expect, or be in Abeyance, yet in that Case, the Freehold and Fee-simple descended, and vested in the Heir at Law till Michaelmas, and so was not in Abeyance, and this made the Devise of the Fee-simple after Michaelmas good.

Now both these Cases manifestly shew, that in such executory Devises, the legal Estate descends to the Heir at Law, till the Time appointed comes for the executory Devise to take Effect in Possession, and that, in the mean Time, there is no legal Estate in the Devisee; the plain Consequence of which is, that he cannot grant over any legal Estate, but that, during that Time, the Ownership of the Estate is locked up, and become unalienable.

Then the Question comes to be, how long the Law will allow that the Ownership of an Estate shall be thus intirely locked up, or for how long Time an executory Devise will be permitted to wait and expect?

And this Question seems in a great Measure to have been determined in the Case of Scattergood and Edge, Salk. 229. where it is said by the Court, that twenty, nay thirty Years have been allowed a reasonable Time for the Commencement of an executory Devise, which seems to imply, that no more than thirty Years would be allowed.

But can it ever be maintained, that a Devise of Lands to J. S. and his Heirs, to commence and take Effect 500 Years after the Death of the Testator, would be allowed? or, to bring it nearer to the principal Case, that a Devise to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male, to commence and take Effect 500 Years after the Death of the Testator, would be good?

Surely, if a Devise to a Man in Esse in Fee, to take Effect and commence 500 Years after the Death of the Testator, be void, a Devise in Fee, or in Tail to the first Son of Thomas Gore then not born, to commence 500 Years after the Testator's Death, must be at least equally void.

And yet, in Effect, this is the present Case, with this Difference only, that in the principal Case, the first Son of Thomas Gore (if the Devise to him were good) would have his Chance of coming to his Estate sooner, in case the Trustees for the precedent Term of 500 Years should ever forfeit their Term; whereas in the Case I last put, the executory Devise must wait until the 500 Years Term shall have ended by Effluxion of Time.

Though certainly these very unlikely and improbable Accidents for the Shortning of a Term of 500 Years, will never be so far regarded, as to make good such remote executory Devises to commence 500 Years after the Death of the Testator, upon a Supposition, that such foreign Contingencies might happen; and that during all the whole Term of 500 Years, the Ownership of the Estate is to be unalienable, until that foreign Contingency of the Termors forfeiting their Term does happen.

To bring the Case still nearer, if the Law be, as I humbly insist it is, that every executory Devise is to be taken as an original Devise, intirely independent on any precedent Term or Estate given by the Will:

Then the Case will be the same, as if the precedent Term of 500 Years given by the Will to the Trustees, had been of other Lands; wherefore I would beg Leave, upon that Supposition, to put the Case thus: (viz.) That the Testator, in the principal Case, had been seised in Fee of the two Manors of Dale and

Sale, and had devised his Manor of Dale to Trustees for 500 Years, and by the same Will had devised his Manor of Sale to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male, to commence and take Effect, from and after the Determination of the 500 Years, which the Testator had before devised to the Trustees in the Manor of Dale.

In this last Case, the first Son of Thomas Gore, and Devisee of the Manor of Sale, would have the Benefit of the Contingency of the Trustees forfeiting the 500 Years Term; but surely the Devise in this Case to the first Son of Thomas Gore in Tail, though with the Benefit of the Chance of the Trustees forfeiting their Term, would be void nevertheless, as having too remote a Commencement.

So that (as I apprehend) in the principal Case, no legal or alienable Estate vesting in the first Son of Thomas Gore until the Determination of the 500 Years Term, and during the Continuance of such whole Term the Estate of the Premises, and the Ownership thereof, being intirely locked up, this is a plain Perpetuity, and a void executory Devise to the first Son of Thomas Gore.

Besides, there is another Reason, why this Devise cannot take Effect as an executory Devise; and that is, that in this Case, the Freehold of the Premises cannot descend to the Heir at Law of the Testator, there to wait until the executory Devise takes Effect. The only Reason, and only Foundation of Reason, that can be given for the maintaining of these executory Devises of a Freehold or Inheritance, where there is no Disposition by the Will of the Freehold, in the mean Time, and until the executory Devise shall take Effect, is, That the Freehold and Fee-simple of the Premises are in the mean Time to descend to the Heir at Law of the Testator.
in

And this is the Answer, the only Answer made to the Objection against executory Devises, and which otherwise would be a fatal one; for otherwise, and were it not for this Answer, where the Devise is to one for Years, with Remainder to an unborn Person in Tail or in Fee, there the Freehold of the Premises would be in Abeyance, which the Law will not permit.

But in the principal Case, the Freehold of the Premises cannot descend to the Heir at Law of the Testator, because it is devised away from such Heir at Law, to the Testator's second Son, Edward Gore.

And, the Freehold of the Premises being actually vested and fixed in the said Edward Gore, it cannot be divested and fetched back again out of him, and carried to the first Son of Thomas Gore, when born: And therefore,

In this Case the executory Devise to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten, is void.

Now, as to this Point, I would not suppose the Devise, in this Case, by the Testator to the Trustees, to be for so long a Term as 500 Years, but I will take it to be for some shorter Term, after which an executory Devise may commence; as for Instance, a Term for five Years only.

And then the Case would be thus: The Testator devises the Premises in Question to Trustees for five Years, and from and after the Determination of that Term, to the first and other Sons of Thomas Gore, to be begotten in Tail Male, successively, Remainder to

Edward Gore the Testator's second Son for his Life, and so to his first Son, &c. with Remainder to several other Persons for their Lives, and to their Sons in Tail, with Remainder to the right Heirs of the Testator.

Now when the Testator has devised the Premises in Question to Trustees for a Term of Years, and from and after the Determination thereof, to the first, &c. Son of Thomas Gore, to be begotten, in Tail Male :

As an Estate-tail is as much a particular Estate (since the Statute De donis) as an Estate for Life is, I take it, that the Testator has in such Case a Power to devise or dispose of by his Will, the Remainder in Fee expectant upon this executory Devise in Tail, in the same Manner, as if the executory Devise to the first Son Thomas Gore, &c. had been for his Life only ; and in this Case, the Testator having by his Will devised over the Remainder expectant upon this executory Devise in Tail, unto Edward Gore the Testator's second Son, for his Life, with several Remainders over, this not only prevents the Estate from descending to the Heir at Law, in Aid of the executory Devise, but it seems pretty clear, that the Remainder over devised to Edward Gore for his Life, is a vested Remainder, and a fixed Estate of Freehold in him, which by Virtue of the Will he takes by Purchase ; and, if so, then this Remainder and Freehold being once vested in Edward Gore the Testator's second Son, cannot be devested, or fetched back, or give Way, on the Birth of the first Son of Thomas Gore.

I look upon this Case to be the same, as if the Devise had been to the Trustees for a Term of Years, and from and after the Determination thereof, to the first Son of Thomas Gore, to be begotten, in Tail Male, with Remainder to Edward Gore, the Testator's second Son, in Fee, instead of for Life only.

In which Case no Estate whatsoever could descend to the Testator's Heir at Law, in Aid of, and to make Way for, the executory Devise to the first Son of Thomas Gore, at the Time he should be intitled to the same.

And I do not see any Difference, as to this Point, whether the Fee-simple, or only the Freehold, is devised away from the Heir at Law; for in either Case, the executory Devise to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten will fail.

I would own, if the Testator had devised the Premises to the Trustees for five Years, and from and after the Determination of that Estate, to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten, in Fee-simple, instead of an Estate-tail, here no Remainder could have been limited over, and the Fee-simple would have descended to the Heir at Law of the Testator, in Aid of the executory Devise, and to give Way to it, when at the Time appointed, it should take Effect.

So if the Devise had been to the Trustees for the Term of five Years, and from and after the Determination thereof, to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male, without devising any Remainder over; here also the Fee-simple would have descended to the Heir at Law of the Testator, in Aid of the executory Devise, when it should take Effect.

So if the Devise over had been to the right Heirs of the Testator, which would be a void Devise, because the Heir, in such Case, would be in by Descent.

But it is quite otherwise where, after this executory Devise in Tail, the Remainder for Life is devised over to one in esse, and capable of taking, as here it is to Edward Gore the Testator's second Son, in Regard the Freehold being thereupon once vested in him, cannot be fetched back again, or give Way to the after-born Son of Thomas Gore.

This is the known Difference, as to this Point, betwixt an Estate vested by Purchase, and an Estate vested by Descent: As if Lands were granted to A. for Life, the Remainder to the right Heirs of B. and B. has Issue a Daughter, and dies leaving his Wife ensient with a Son who is afterwards born, the Daughter claiming by Purchase shall retain the Lands against the posthumous Son.

But if these Lands had been granted to B. and his Heirs, and B. had died leaving a Daughter, and his Wife ensient with a Son who is afterwards born, her Title being by Descent, shall give Way to that of the Son. 1 Co. 95. Shelly's Case, 3 Co. 61. b. Lincoln's College Case.

So in the present Case, where the Reversion in Fee descends to the Heir at Law, it shall give Way to the executory Devise, whenever the Son of Thomas Gore shall become intitled; but on the other Hand, where the Remainder, after this executory Devise to the first Son of Thomas Gore in Tail, is devised over, and vested as by Purchase, such Remainder cannot be fetched back, nor will it give Way to an executory Devise on a subsequent Birth.

Nor do I know any Precedent or Case adjudged, where there is a Devise for Years, and afterwards an

executory Devise in Tail or for Life, and after that a Remainder over for Life, or in Fee, to a Person in esse, where such an executory Devise is allowed good.

In the Case of Scattergood versus Edge (Salk. ubi supra) the Devise is to one for eleven Years, and afterwards an executory Devise in Tail, (as was endeavoured to be made out) but the Remainder was there to the right Heirs of the Testator, so that the Reversion in Fee descended to the Heir at Law, in Aid of, and to give Way to the executory Devise: Whereas,

Here the Remainder is devised from the Heir at Law, and given to Edward Gore the Testator's second Son; and if no Case has gone so far, the Court will not (I presume) carry this Case further than any former Case of the like Nature, in Favour (as has been said) of so inconvenient an Estate.

But further, there is, in the principal Case, another Reason why there should not be any Construction made for the Descending of the Freehold of the Premises to the Heir at Law, there to wait until the executory Devise to the first Son of Thomas Gore shall take Effect, (viz.) because if the Freehold of the Premises, upon the Testator's Death, shall be construed to descend to his Heir at Law (who is the Testator's eldest Son Thomas Gore.)

This will merge and destroy the Rent-charge of 50 l. per Annum, devised to this eldest Son by the same Will, and out of the same Lands.

And as to this the Case in short is, The Testator devises his Lands to Trustees for 500 Years, in Trust to pay 50 l. per Annum to his eldest Son Thomas Gore for his Life, but with an express Power to his faid eldest Son, to distrain upon Part of the Premisses for this 50 l. per Annum Rent-Charge, and after the Determination of the 500 Years Term, then to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male.

Now it cannot be said, that this Rent-charge of 50 l. per Annum to Thomas Gore, is only a Trust on the 500 Years Term, because, as there is an exprefs Power given by the Will to Thomas Gore to distrain upon the Premisses for this 50 l. per Annum, these Words alone make it a Rent-charge to him issuing out of the Lands; so in Lit. (Sect. 218.) it is said, that granting a Power to one to distrain on Land for any annual Sum, creates a Rent-charge.

Then the Testator's eldest Son Thomas Gore having a legal Title to this Rent-charge of 50 l. per Annum, if the Freehold of the same Land out of which the Rent-charge issues, be construed to descend to him, this will merge, and destroy the Rent-charge created by the same Will; for it is wholly inconsistent, for the same Person to have the Land itself, and the Rent issuing out of the Land; and I take it, that the legal Estate of the Land being devised to Trustees for Years only, will not prevent the Merger of the Rent, but as the Freehold of the Land is in him that claims the Rent, the latter must be extinct: As if the Case were, that A. has a Rent of 20 l. per Annum issuing out of Land, and the Owner of the Land were to devise the Land to J. S. for Years, Remainder to A. (that had the Rent) for Life, if A. agrees to and accepts this Devise, the Rent is gone, for the Freehold of the Rent is merged, so that A. cannot have an Estate for Life in the Rent; and other Estate he cannot have therein, in Regard no other Estate was granted him, and he cannot have an Estate without a Donor or Grantor, and so the Rent is gone.

Wherefore this Construction of the Freehold of the Premises descending to the Testator's eldest Son and Heir, and thereby merging the Rent-charge of 50*l.* per Annum given by the same Will, should be avoided, without an absolute Necessity for it; and here is no Necessity for it, forasmuch as the Land may very properly and reasonably be construed to go over to the Testator's second Son the next Remainder-man, a Person in esse, and capable of taking.

So that, in the present Case, there seems to be no Foundation to suppose the Freehold of the Premises in Question to descend to the Testator's Heir at Law, there to wait, till the executory Devise shall take Effect.

And without such Descent, there is as little Foundation to maintain this Devise over to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male, to be good as an executory Devise.

I shall insist only on one other Reason, why this Devise over of the Premises to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten, cannot operate as an executory Devise; and that is, because it is devised by way of Remainder.

The Devise is to Trustees for 500 Years, and from and after the Determination of that Estate, then to the Use of the first, &c. Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male, successively.

This is a plain Devise of a Remainder, a Devise by way of Remainder to the first Son of Thomas Gore, &c.

Now there are the plainest Differences between the Nature of a Remainder, and that of an executory Devise.

1st, There cannot be a Remainder without a particular Estate; but there may be an executory Devise without any particular or precedent Estate.

2<sup>dly</sup>, A Remainder is subject to be discontinued, de-vested or displaced by Feoffment or Fine, or to be barred by a Recovery.

But an executory Devise cannot be barred by Recovery, nor discontinued, nor so much as displaced, or turned to a Right by any Feoffment or Fine; for wheresoever the Land which is subjected to this executory Devise is conveyed, it passes with this Clog chained to it; so that it is very reasonable to insist, that where an Estate is conveyed as, or by way of a Remainder, there it shall not operate as an executory Devise, especially, if there be, (as in this Case there was) at the Time of making the Will, a Possibility that it might vest as a Remainder, by the Birth of a Son in the Life-time of the Testator, and after the making the Will.

And in this Objection I am warranted, tho' not by any Resolution, yet by an Opinion, and that a very great one; it is that of Lord Chief Justice Holt, and the rest of the Judges, in a Case which has been cited, but I think this Part of it not taken Notice of; I mean the Case of Goodright and Cornish, reported (tho' but shortly) in 1 Salk. 226. The Case, as there reported, is thus:

One Knowling, seized in Fee of Lands, devises them to his eldest Son John for fifty Years, if he so long live, live, and then follow these Words, “ And as for my “ Inheritance after the Term, I do devise the same to “ the Heirs Male of the Body of my eldest Son John,

 “ and for Default of such Issue, to my youngest Son “ Richard”. Resolved, that the Devise of the Remainder to the Heirs Male of the Body of the Testator’s eldest Son John was void as a Remainder, for want of a Freehold to support it.

And the Lord Chief Justice Holt, together with the rest of the Judges, likewise held, that this Devise to the Heirs Male of the Body of the Testator’s eldest Son John, expectant on this Term of fifty Years, could not operate as an executory Devise; and one of the Reasons given for it was, * because it was devised as a Remainder; indeed another Reason added to it was, because it was limited per verba de presenti; so that each of them was held for a Reason why the Devise in that Case could not operate as an executory one, and one of them was, because it was devised by Way of Remainder.

Besides, this I may observe upon the Case as reported by Salk. (and which in Fact were the Words of the Will in that Case,)

That the Words there insisted upon, to make an executory Devise to the Heirs Male of the Body of the Testator’s Son John, are much more proper, and much more adapted for an executory Devise, than the Words of the Will in the principal Case: In the Case of Good- right and Cornish, the Testator devises his Lands to his eldest Son John for fifty Years, if he so long live; then follow these Words, “ And as for my Inheritance after
 2 “ the

* Sed Vide 1 Salk. where the Opinion of the Court, as to this Point, is laid down with some Uncertainty.

“ the said Term, I do devise the same to the Heirs Male of my eldest Son John:” Now these Words in the Will are proper Words to introduce a new original executory Devise; and yet it was resolved that they should not operate as an executory Devise; and one of the Reasons given was, for that they imported a Devise of a Remainder: Whereas,

In the principal Case, where the Devise is to Trustees for 500 Years, and from and after the Determination of that Estate, then to the first Son of the Body of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male, surely no Words can be more proper, no Words more natural to express a Limitation of a Remainder, than to say, from and after the Determination of the precedent Estate for Years.

And if the Words of the Will, in the Case of Goodright and Cornish, shall be looked upon so much to import a Limitation of a Remainder, as for that Reason to hinder the Devise from ever operating as an executory Devise,

The Words in the principal Case much more plainly import a Limitation of a Remainder, and therefore, according to the Opinion in Salk. are not to be construed to operate otherwise than as a Remainder. For which Reason, in my Apprehension, this Devise over, in the principal Case, to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male, is void, and cannot take Effect as an executory Devise.

I shall only add one Thing more, and that is touching the Intention of the Testator in this Case, which has been pretty much insisted upon by the other Side, as well in this Court, as in the Court from whence the Case comes.

It is objected, that the Intention of the Testator in this Case, and in his Will too, is in Favour of the Sons of his eldest Son Thomas Gore, and that these Sons of the Testator's eldest Son should have Preference to the Testator's younger Sons.

And perhaps this might be the Testator's Intention; nay, supposing it was, yet every Man's Intention in a Will, as well as in a Deed, must be conformable to the Rules of Law, or else it is to be rejected.

If the Testator (as here he seems to have done) intended to devise his Estate in such a Manner, as that the Freehold thereof should be in Abeyance; this Intention is contrary to the settled Rules of Law, and must be rejected.

If the Testator intended (as here he seems to have done) to make an executory Devise, which is not to take Effect within that Compass of Time which the Law prescribes for that Purpose; this is contrary to Law, and such an Intention must not take Place.

If the Testator intended (as here he plainly did) that the Freehold, vested in a Remainder-man, (the Testator's second Son Edward Gore) should, after it was thus vested and settled, be divested and fetched back again, to give Way to a subsequent Birth of a prior Remainder-man; this Intention is contrary to the established Rules of Law, and therefore must not prevail.

I would suppose the Facts in the present Case to have happened thus: As the Devise is to Trustees for 500 Years, and afterwards to the first, &c. Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male, successively, with Remainder to the Testator's second Son Edward Gore for Life, with Remainders over prout the Will;

I would suppose, for Argument Sake, that this first Son of Thomas Gore should take, and that he had entered upon, and enjoyed the Estate, subject to the 500 Years Term, and that afterwards the first Son of Thomas Gore should die without Issue, and without leaving any Brother then in Being, so that then Edward Gore the second Son of the Testator, as being the next Remainder-man, had entered, and that afterwards Thomas Gore the Testator's eldest Son had had another (posthumous) Son:

There would be no Colour, nor would it be contended for, if this were the Fact, that this second Son of Thomas Gore, so born out of Time (as I may say) born after his Brother's Death without Issue, and after the Freehold is gone over to the next Remainder-man, should, notwithstanding, be intitled to this Estate.

And yet, in that Case, the Intention of the Testator is as plain, and by the same Words is expressed to be, as much in Favour of the second Son of Thomas Gore, as of his eldest Son, and that every Son of Thomas Gore should take in his Turn, in Preference to the younger Sons of the Testator.

But still this Intention being contrary to Law, is not to be regarded.

But as this Will is penned, there is very little Room to argue from the Intention of the Testator, in Favour of the Sons of Thomas Gore the Testator's eldest Son; because he, that argues for the Intention of the Testator tor in this Part of the Will, must argue against what is the plain Intention of the Testator in another Part of the Will; he that argues to make this a good executory Devise, in Favour of the first Son of Thomas Gore, must, in order to make good this executory Devise, endeavour to prove, that the Premises, on the Death of the Testator, did descend to his Heir at Law, (viz.) his eldest Son Thomas Gore, to wait there, until the executory Devise should take Place.

But nothing can be more against the Intention of the Testator than this would be: For the Testator in his Will declares his Intention, in the plainest Manner, and in the most express Words, to be that his eldest Son and Heir Thomas Gore shall only have a Rent-charge of 50 l. a Year out of his Lands.

Nay, not only says so by his Will, but gives his Reasons for it, viz. that his eldest Son Thomas Gore would have another Estate upon his Death, of 400 l. per Annum in Wilts: Also for that the Testator had, before that Time, supplied his Son and Heir with divers Sums of Money.

Now when the Testator has expressly said by his Will, that his eldest Son and Heir shall have no Part of his Lands:

The other Side, who at the same Time must admit they argue for the Intention of the Testator, must insist, contrary to this Intention, that the Freehold and Fee-simple of all the Testator's Land shall descend to him at the Testator's Death; and while the Testator says, that his eldest Son shall have a Rent-charge of 50 l. per Annum out of his Estate, the other Side who are still maintaining the Intention of the Testator, must say, that the eldest Son of the Testator cannot have this Rent-charge of 50 l. per Annum, that being merged by the Descent of the Land upon him. All which are Inconsistencies, and therefore doubtless, whatever was the Intention of the Testator in this Case, it must be rejected, not only as repugnant to the Rules of Law, but indeed as inconsistent with itself.

As to the other Question, which is likewise sent to your Lordships for your Opinion, (viz.) in whom the Freehold of the Premises vested upon the Death of the Testator?

I take this to be intirely depending upon the former Question; for if the Devise over of the Premises expectant upon this Term of 500 Years to the first, &c. Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten, be a void Devise, as we have endeavoured to prove it is, then it necessarily follows, that the next Remainder subsequent to this void Devise, which is the Devise to the Testator's second Son Edward Gore, must take place, and consequently the Freehold of the Premises, upon the Testator's Death, must then vest in the Testator's second Son Edward Gore; this is so plain a Consequence, that I shall give your Lordships no Trouble about it.

Upon the whole Matter; if, at the Time of making of this Will now in Question, it was possible that the Devise over to the first Son of Thomas Gore to be begotten in Tail Male, might operate and take Effect as a Remainder, as it plainly might, in case the first Son of Thomas Gore had been born in the Lifetime of the Testator, which at the Time of making this Will was possible:

If the Rule in Discountenance of these executory Devises be, that whenever a Limitation of an Estate might by any Possibility take Effect as a contingent Remainder, there it shall not operate as an executory Devise. As I take this to be the Rule :

If there be no Difference in the legal Acceptation of the Words begotten or to be begotten, as I take it to be settled, that there is not :

If this executory Devise cannot take Effect or vest as a legal and alienable Estate upon the Birth of a Son of Thomas Gore, but must wait and expect until the Term of 500 Years is determined, as I conceive it must :

If an executory Devise to take Effect on the Determination of a Term of 500 Years be a Perpetuity, and therefore a void Devise, as most plainly it is :

If the Rule be, that an executory Devise of a Freehold, expectant on a Lease for Years only, cannot be good, unless in Cases where the Freehold may Descend to the Heir at Law of the Testator, there to wait until the executory Devise takes Effect, as I humbly apprehend this to be the Rule :

If in the present Case, the Freehold of the Premises cannot descend to the Heir at Law of the Testator, the same being devised over to a third Person in esse, as plainly it cannot :

If it be a Rule in Law, that a Freehold once vested by Purchase, cannot be afterwards divested, and fetched back again, to make Way, and give place on the Birth of a nearer Remainder Person, as surely this is the Rule :

If in Case of a Devise over, where it is limited by Way of Remainder, it shall not operate as an executory Devise, which is so held in the Case I have cited:

If the Courts both of Law and Equity have all declared, that they would not advance an executory Devise one single Step further than former Resolutions had carry'd them :

And if what the other Side now labour at, would be to extend them further than ever yet they have been carried, as I presume it would be :

If any one of these several Points be for us, and we submit whether they be not all for us :

Then we hope that your Lordships Opinion will be also for us,

And pray your Judgment accordingly for the Plaintiff.

Whereupon all the four Judges of the King's Bench that then were, (viz.) Pratt C. J. Powis, Eyre, and Fortescue Aland, Justices, certified their Opinions under their Hands, " That the Devise to the eldest Son of Thomas Gore was void; that it could not be good as a Remainder, for Want of a Freehold to support it; and that it could not take Effect as an executory Devise, because it was too remote, (viz.) after 500 Years". But Lord Macclesfield expressed some Dissatisfaction at this Opinion of the Judges, saying, that tho' the Law might be so, yet the Term of 500 Years being but a Trust-term, and to be considered in Equity as a Security only for Money, was not to be so far regarded (at least in Equity) as to make the Devise over void.

After

After which the eldest Son Thomas Gore and his Brother Edward came to an Agreement, which was confirmed by the Court.

Afterwards Thomas Gore had a Son and died, and the Son of Thomas Gore bringing this Matter over again in Chancery, Lord Chancellor King sent it a second Time to the Court of King's Bench, where Lord Hardwicke C. J. Page, Probyn and Lee, Justices, certified their Opinion against the Opinion of their Predecessors, (viz.) " That this was a good executory Devise, and " not too remote ; for that it must in all Events, one " Way or other, happen, upon the Death of Thomas " Gore, whether he should have a Son or not, and " either upon the Birth of the Son, or upon his Death " without Issue Male, the Freehold must vest".

Lord Raymond also was of this last Opinion.

The two Certificates were in the Words following :

We have heard Counsel on both Sides on the Question above-specified, and having considered the same, are of Opinion, that the Devise of the Manors above-mentioned to the first Son of Thomas Gore is void, because he cannot take by Way of Remainder, for that there is no Freehold to support it ; nor can he take by Way of executory Devise, because it is not to take Place within that Compass of Time which the Law allows ; and we are also of Opinion, that the Freehold of the same Manors, on the Death of the Devisor, vested in Edward the second Son.

Upon Hearing Counsel on both Sides, and Consideration of this Case, we are of Opinion, that the Devise of the Manors of Barrow and Southley to the first Son of Thomas Gore is good by Way of executory Devise, and that the Freehold of the said Manors, on the Death of the Devisor, vested in his Heir at Law.

Case 9.

THE Plaintiff courted one of the Daughters of Sir Thomas Haslewood, and treated with the Father about the Marriage; the Father consents to the Marriage, and writes to his Daughter, intimating, that he had met the Plaintiff Mr. Ayliffe, and had agreed to give him as a Portion 3000*l.* which the Plaintiff (he said) seemed fully to assent to, and that they were to meet the next Day, when the Affair was to be fully concluded; and subscribed his Name to the Letter.

A Letter from a Father to his Daughter, by which he agrees to give her 3000*l.* Portion, and this not shewn to the Man who afterwards married the Daughter, does not take the Promise out of the Statute of Frauds.

Accordingly they met and agreed to the Marriage, and the Father gave Money to the Daughter to buy her Wedding-Cloaths, and the Wedding-Day having been appointed, the Father died before that Day, having made his Will long before this Treaty of Marriage, and given his Daughter only 2000*l.*

The Daughter did not shew this Letter to the Plaintiff her intended Husband, whom she afterwards married, and the 2000*l.* Legacy was paid to the Plaintiff the Husband ; but he did not, neither was he required to make any Settlement on his Wife, but was a Merchant and Freeman of London.

Lord Chancellor : This being no more than a Communication, has no Ingredient of Equity ; the Husband made no Settlement ; he did not know of this Letter, it being wrote to the Daughter, and therefore cannot be supposed to have married in Confidence of the Letter :

Then he accepted of the 2000*l.* Legacy as the Portion, and at that Time demanded no more, and the other Daughter had but 1500*l.* Portion.

several Orders of Court to pay the Residue by such a Day, and in Default thereof to give up the Articles, and lose what he had before paid : Court will relieve, tho' these Orders have not been complied with.

There had arose some Difficulty about the Title, and the Plaintiff insisting that the same was not good, without an Act of Parliament, the Defendant's Father procured an Act of Parliament ; upon which the Plaintiff paid Part of the Money, but making Default in Payment of the Residue, the Defendant's Father brought a Bill to have the Residue of the Money, or to be discharged of the Articles.

Just before that Bill was ready for Hearing, the Plaintiff and Defendant's Father entered into an Order by Consent, signed by both Parties, and reciting the Articles, by which the Plaintiff agreed to pay the Money by such a Day, or in Default thereof the Articles to be delivered up and cancelled, and the Defendant's Father to hold the Premises discharged of the Articles.

Then the Plaintiff paid 1000*l.* in Part, but made Default in Payment of the Residue, and entered into another Order by Consent signed by both Parties, whereby a further Day was given, when, if the Money was not paid, the Plaintiff agreed to lose all the Money which he had advanced before, and to lose the Benefit of the Articles, which were to be put into the Hands of Mr. Cox the Counsel, and deliver'd over to the Defendant's Father in Default of Payment, and in Case of such Default, the Defendant's Father to hold the Premises discharged of the Articles.

The Plaintiff Vernon, having again made Default, now brought this Bill to have the Purchase completed, on Payment of what was due, with Interest, and to be relieved against these Orders.

Lord Chancellor: Here have been solemn Agreements that ought not slightly to be got over; but however, if the Defendant has his Money, Interest and Costs, he will have no Reason to complain of having suffered; on the contrary, it would be a very great Hardship on the Plaintiff, to lose all the Money which he has paid; Lapse of Time in Payment may be recompenced with Interest and Costs; and as to these Agreements, they were all intended only as a Security for Payment of the Money, which End is answered by the Payment of Principal Interest and Costs.

In

In 1720. when the Money was to have been paid, there was a great Scarcity of Money, they, in whose Hands it was, locking it up; also, at that Time, the Defendant's Father was dead, which was the Act of God, and his Executors not acting, it was some Time before the Defendant took out Administration with the Will annexed of his Father, which was the Default of the Party; so that the Plaintiff's Payment of the Money at the exact Time was dispensed with.

Let the Plaintiff be relieved upon Payment of Principal Interest and Costs.

One having a Wife and three Daughters, devises 900 l. to his three Daughters equally, payable at their respective Ages of twenty-one or Marriage, and if all die before their Legacies were payable, then the whole to the Mother; if two of the Daughters die before their Shares become due, the surviving Daughter is intitled to the whole.

The Wife pays the 900 l. to J. S. and marries a second Husband, (viz.) the Defendant Bargeman; the two eldest Daughters die under Age and unmarried; the youngest Daughter attains twenty-one; and the Question being, whether she was intitled to all, or what Part of the 900 l.?

Lord Chancellor: The youngest Daughter is intitled to the whole 900 l. by Virtue of the Clause in the Will, which says, “ If all the three Daughters shall die “ before their Age of twenty-one or Marriage, then “ the Wife shall have the whole 900 l.” for this plainly excludes the Mother from having the 900 l. or any Part of it, unless these Contingencies shall have happened, and the Share of 300 l. a-piece did not vest absolutely in any of the three Daughters under Age, so as to go, according to the Statute of Distributions, to their Representatives, in regard it was possible all the three Daughters might die before their Ages of twenty-one or Marriage, in which Case the whole 900 l. is devised over to the Mother; consequently the whole 900 l. does now belong to the surviving Daughter the Plaintiff.

Case 13.

Blackhall versus Combs.( Upon an Appeal from a Decree at the Rolls. )

Where a Bankrupt, after Certificate allowed, is sued for a Debt due before his Bankruptcy, the Court, on the Circumstances of the Case, will relieve, though it will not relieve on a Matter purely of Mis-pleading.

THE Defendant Anne Combs lent the Plaintiff Blackhall's Brother 120 l. for which the Brother, together with the Plaintiff Blackhall, was bound to the Defendant in a Bond for the Payment of this 120 l. and Interest.

Afterwards in March 1711. the Plaintiff Blackhall, the Surety in the Bond, became a Bankrupt, and on a Commission issued out against him, was accordingly found a Bankrupt.

In Easter Term 1715. the Defendant Combs arrested the Plaintiff on his Bond, and on the 28th of June following, a renewed Commission of Bankruptcy issued out against the Plaintiff, who being found a Bankrupt surrendered his Effects, and submitted to be examined by the Commissioners; but his Certificate not being then allowed, he pleaded Non est factum to the Bond, whereupon a Verdict and Judgment was obtained against the Bankrupt, and Proceedings being also had against the Bail, the Bankrupt surrendered himself in Discharge of his Bail.

After this the Commissioners of Bankruptcy, and four Fifths in Number and Value of the Creditors, signed the Certificate, and on Notice in the Gazette to the Creditors, on the 11th of November 1715. the Bankrupt's Certificate was allowed and confirmed by the then Lord Chancellor.

Upon which, this Matter being disclosed to the Court of King's Bench, and Affidavit made, that the Cause of Action in the Bond was before the Bankruptcy, that Court made a Rule that the Bankrupt should be discharged out of Prison, nisi causa, and no Cause being shewn, the Rule became absolute.

In Easter Term 1719. the Defendant Combs brought a Scire facias upon the Judgment against the now Plaintiff the Bankrupt, who pleaded the Act of the 5th of the late Queen for preventing Frauds by Bankrupts, and that the Cause of Action accrued before the Defendant's Bankruptcy; and Issue being joined on this, the Jury found a Verdict against the then Defendant the Bankrupt, he (as was alledged) not being able to get the Commission, or a Copy thereof to produce at the Trial; after which the Plaintiff in the Action had Judgment.

On this the now Plaintiff the Bankrupt brought a Bill to be relieved against the Proceedings at Law, and Lord Chancellor, on Motion, granted an Injunction.

Not long after, the Cause came to a Hearing before his Honour the Master of the Rolls, who dismissed the Bill, in Regard the Act of Parliament touching Bankrupts and their Discharge, was to be pleaded, and taken Advantage of at Law; and this having been accordingly pleaded, and found against the Bankrupt, there was no Equity in the Case, but it was all at Law; for which Reason the Court, with great Clearness, dismissed the Bill.
was

From this Decree the Bankrupt appealed to Lord Chancellor, before whom, in Support of the Decree, it was objected, that the said Act had prescribed in what Manner the Bankrupt was to take Advantage of his Discharge and Certificate, (viz.) by pleading it; and if the Bankrupt had not pursued this Method, it was his own Fault; that the Defendant being a just Creditor on Bond for Money lent, and which (as 'twas represented) she had earned at Service for her Livelihood, she had, at least, an equal Equity with the now Plaintiff; that this Court ought not to assist against such a Creditor, who had the Law on her Side, especially in a Matter which seemed to be all at Law; and a Case (a) ex parte Goodwin was cited, where Lord Com(a) 2 Vern. 696. & vide 2 Vern. 325. accord. Sed vide 2 Vern. 147. contra.
per, upon a Petition, refused to relieve the Bankrupt against whom Judgment had been recovered purely upon a Matter of Mis-pleading.

However Lord Chancellor, in the principal Case, reversed the Decree made by the Master of the Rolls, and relieved the Bankrupt against this Judgment at Law.

His Lordship seemed to admit, that were the Case only Matter of mispleading, Equity should not relieve; but said, it weighed with him, that this Matter had been examined in the King's Bench, and the Bankrupt discharged there; and by the same Reason that one Determination in a proper Court, and in a proper Method, would not bind, so also if there were eight, or ten, or twenty Determinations, they would not be conclusive.

That as to the mere Merits, it was most plain, the Bankrupt was one intended to be relieved within the Act; the Debt was incurr'd long before the Bankruptcy; tho' this being a Scire facias upon the Judgment, the Judgment might be said in Law, to be the Cause of the Action, and that was after the Bankruptcy.

That the Certificate not being obtained and made absolute, when Non est factum was pleaded to the Bond, this might excuse such Plea.

That here had been a long Acquiescence by the Obligee herself, who had slept under the Discharge made by the Court of King's Bench many Years; and her Suit upon the Scire facias seem'd to be the Undertaking of some enterprizing Solicitor, who had engaged to help her to this desperate Debt.

Then it was of Weight, that the Plaintiff the Bankrupt, had upon Oath given up his All, and his Examination had been no ways falsified; and if nothing was left to the Bankrupt, what was the Plaintiff at Law contending for?

Let the now Plaintiff be relieved, and have a perpetual Injunction against the Defendant.

Case 14.

Lord Mac-
clesfield.

THE Plaintiff brought a Bill to redeem, setting forth, that his late Father being seised in Fee of Lands in Pembrokeshire of 50 l. per Annum, made a Mortgage thereof to J. S. and that the Defendant desired the Plaintiff's Father would consent that

port made and confirm'd thereon, if the Suggestion of Fraud be not denied.

this Mortgage should be assigned to the Defendant, who would help the Plaintiff's Father to a Place, and be willing to take his Interest out of the Profits of the Place.

That thereupon this Mortgage was by the Plaintiff's Father's Consent assigned to the Defendant, who never helped the Plaintiff's Father to any Place, but instead thereof, the Defendant, the next Term after the Mortgage was forfeited, brought an Ejectment against the Plaintiff's Father, and turned him out of Possession, and the Term next following, the Defendant brought a Bill against the Plaintiff's Father, who put in an Answer to the Bill, and then the Defendant got a common Bailiff, one of a scandalous Character, to make an Affidavit, that the Plaintiff's Father had left his Habitation, and (as he believed and was credibly informed) was gone beyond Sea; upon which Affidavit, the now Defendant got an Order, that Service of the then Defendant's Clerk in Court might be good Service; whereas the Plaintiff's Father was then living, and publicly appeared in the next County with his Wife's Relations; but upon this false Affidavit, and Order made thereupon, the Cause was heard ex parte, and the Report made ex parte, and confirmed absolutely, by which Means the Plaintiff's Father became absolutely foreclosed, altho' the Estate was of much greater Value.

The Defendant pleaded this Decree and Report, and both made absolute, signed and inrolled.

Lord Chancellor: All these Circumstances of Fraud ought to be answered; which the Defendant has been so far from doing, that he only pleads that Decree and Report as a Bar, which the Plaintiff seeks to set aside; and the Decree being signed and inrolled, the Plaintiff has no other Remedy; and if these Matters of Fraud laid in the Bill are true, it is most reasonable that the Decree should be set aside.

Wherefore over-rule the Plea, and let it not stand for an Answer: And tho' it was objected, that according to this Rule, a Decree might be set aside by an original Bill:

His Lordship replied, such a gross Fraud as this was an Abuse on the Court, and sufficient to set any Decree aside.

Memorandum, 9th August 1722. it was said by the Master of the Rolls to have been determined by the Lords of the Privy Council, upon an Appeal to the King in Council from the Foreign Plantations,

An uninhabited Country newly found out, and inhabited by the English, to be governed by the Laws of England.

1st, That if there be a new and uninhabited Country found out by English Subjects, as the Law is the Birth-right of every Subject, so, wherever they go, they carry their Laws with them, and therefore such new found Country is to be governed by the Laws of England; tho' after such Country is inhabited by the English, Acts of Parliament made in England, without naming the Foreign Plantations, will not bind them; for which Reason, it has been determined that the Statute of Frauds and Perjuries, which requires three Witnesses, and that these should subscribe in the Testator's Presence, in the Case of a Devise of Land, does not bind Barbadoes; but that,

2<sup>dly</sup>, Where the King of England conquers a Country, it is a different Consideration: For there the Conqueror, by saving the Lives of the People conquered, gains a Right and Property in such People; in Consequence

A conquered Country to be governed by such Laws as the Conqueror will impose: But until the Conqueror gives them new Laws, they are to be governed by their own Laws, unless where these last are contrary to the Laws of God, or totally silent.

quence of which he may impose upon them what Laws he pleases. But, 3dly, Until such Laws given by the conquering Prince, the Laws and Customs of the conquered Country shall hold Place; unless where these are contrary to our Religion, or enact any Thing that is malum in se, or are silent; for in all such Cases the Laws of the conquering Country shall prevail.

Case 16. Hildyard versus South-Sea Company and Keate.

Lord Mac-
clesfield.

One transfers Stock by Virtue of a forged Letter of Attorney;
the Transfer to be void, and the right Owner not hurt; and the Dividends received under this forged Letter of Attorney, together with the Stock, to be taken back from the Affignee, and restored to the right Owner.

THE Plaintiff Hildyard was possessed of 700*l.* South-Sea Stock, and one Rofs brought a forged Letter of Attorney to the South-Sea Company, empowering him the said Rofs, as Attorney to the Plaintiff Hildyard, to transfer this Stock to the Defendant Keate; the Transfer was for a valuable Consideration, and this Letter of Attorney attested by two Witnesses.

Whereupon the South-Sea Company transferred this 700*l.* Stock to Keate, and paid the next Dividend to him.

Afterwards the Company were informed by the Plaintiff Hildyard, that this Letter of Attorney was forged; upon which they stopped Payment, and the Plaintiff Hildyard brought his Bill to have this Stock transferred back, and also to have the Dividend, which had been paid to the Defendant, accounted for to him.

Objected for the Defendant Keate, that he was a fair and innocent Purchafor, and whatever Advantage the Plaintiff could have at Law againſt him, there was certainly no Reason for Equity to lend any Aſſiſtance; that it would be an extreme Hardſhip, if the Defendant ſhould run the Risk of ſuch Letter of Attorney; eſpecially after the South-Sea Company had purſuant thereto, transferred the Stock to him, as in this Caſe they actually had done; and with Regard to the Dividends, it was ſaid to be ſtill more unreaſonable, that theſe, when once paid to him, ſhould by the Aid of a Court of Equity be afterwards taken from him.

Sed per Cur': When the Defendant Keate bought by Letter of Attorney, it was incumbent upon him, and at his Peril, to ſee that ſuch Letter of Attorney was a true one; it was more his Concern and in his Power to inquire into the Reality of this Letter of Attorney, than of any other Perſon, ſo that the Rule of Caveat emptor is in this Caſe properly applicable to him.

On the other Side, it is plain, that tho' the Defendant Keate has been in Fault, yet here can be no Pretence of Fault or Neglect in the Plaintiff Hildyard; and therefore it would be moſt apparently unjuſt to let him ſuffer; a forged Letter of Attorney was, as to him, the ſame as no Letter of Attorney; conſequently his Stock which has been transferred from him, without any Authority at all, ought to be reſtored to him.

Then as to the Company, they were but Inſtruments and Conduit-Pipes; or like the Lord of a Manor, in Caſe of a Surrender of a Copyhold, where, if there ſhould be a forged Letter of Attorney, empowering one of the Copyholders to ſurrender to the Uſe of

J. S. and thereupon the Attorney, in the Name of the Copyholder, should surrender to the Use of J. S. who should be accordingly admitted by the Lord, yet this Admittance would be void; and so is the Transfer of this Stock to the Defendant Keate; and it would be of Publick Use, that those who accept of a Transfer of Stock under a Letter of Attorney, should be obliged to take strict Care of the Validity and Reality of such Letter of Attorney, for no other Person can be so properly concerned to do it.

Let the Company take this 700 l. South-Sea Stock from the Defendant Keate, and restore it to the Plaintiff Hildyard; and let the Defendant Keate, and not the Company, pay back the Dividend, which he has without a good Authority received, to the Plaintiff, and let the Defendant Keate, who has been in Default in this Case by Reason of his Neglect, pay both to the Company and the Plaintiff their Costs.

Case 17.

MR. William Pierpoint of Nottingham, upon his Marriage with Mrs. Darcy, settled his real Estate on himself for Life, Remainder to his Wife for Life, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of this Marriage in Tail Male, Remainder to his own right Heirs.

Mr. Pierpoint had two Sons by this Marriage, and having a small Estate in Fee-simple unsettled, by his Will devised his Wife's Jewels to her, and likewise the Use of the Plate to her for her Life; after which, by his said Will he devised all his real Estate, subject to his Debts and Legacies, and after his Debts and Legacies paid, to his Kinsman the Marquess of Dorchester, Grandson and Heir apparent of the Duke of Kingston, and in 1706. the Testator died leaving two Infant Sons.

At the Time of the Testator's Death, the real and personal Assets were not sufficient for the Payment of his Debts; whereupon the Creditors insisting to be paid, the Testator's Widow gave up her Jewels, and her Plate, and twenty-five Guinea Purfes (being her Dowry Money) which were all applied towards the Debts: But in the Decree obtained for the Sale of the real Estate, and for an Account of the personal, as well as real Assets, the Widow's Claim of her Jewels, Plate, and Dowry Money was saved to her.

In 1719. the Testator's two Sons died under Age, and without Issue, whereby the Estate-tail of the settled Lands expired, and the Reversion in Fee falling in, became liable by the Will to the Debts. And now these Points were determined by the Lord Chancellor.

1st, That as to the Dowry-Money claimed by the Widow, it could not be bona paraphernalia; for these are confined to the Ornaments of her Person; nor could it (as had been urged) be Part of her separate Estate, it being given to herself, and not to her Trustee, and the Wife cannot have a (a) separate Property in a personal Thing without a Trustee; but this Dowry-Money, in the Nature of it, was rather a Gift to the Church, the said Dowry-Money being to be laid upon the Book. See Gibson's Codex Juris Ecclesiastici, Part I. p. 519.

Dowry-Money cannot be claimed by the Widow against Debts.

(a) Tho' see the Case of Bennet versus Davis, post.

2<sup>dly</sup>, That with Respect to the Claim of the Jewels, as bona paraphernalia, the Widow could have no Title to them, and that this Case differed from that of Tipping versus Tipping, (b) Regard being to be had here to the Time of the Death of the Testator, when the real and personal Assets were not sufficient for the Payment of

Bona Paraphernalia not allowed to the Widow, where there are not Assets at the Death of her Husband, tho' contingent Assets afterwards fall in; but a specific Legacy shall.

of the Debts; nay, at the Time when these Jewels were applied to the Debts, there was a Deficiency of Affets, real and personal, for the Payment thereof; and tho' afterwards upon a remote Contingency (such as was not to be presumed or waited for, (viz.) a Death without Issue, Affets had fallen in, yet that this should not alter the Case as to the Bona Paraphernalia; for the same might not have happened until twenty or thirty Years after the Death of the Testator, nor (possibly) until after the Death of the Widow, when the End and Design of the Widow's Wearing her Bona Paraphernalia, in Memory of her Husband, could not have been answered; and therefore it was reasonable, that this should be reduced to a Certainty, (viz.) That if there should not be Affets real or personal at the Testator's Death, or, at least, at the Time when the Jewels were applied to Debts, then the Jewels should be liable.

But, 3dly, If the Creditors, by Judgment of the Testator, should after his Death have taken the Jewels in Execution, when the Heir, or Executor, or Trustees, had other Affets to have paid such Debts, this would have been a Default in the Trustees, for which the Widow ought not to suffer, as to her Bona Paraphernalia; but in the present Case here was no Default, nor any Thing done, but what ought to have been, in Regard the just Creditors of the Testator were not to be kept out of their Debts, nor the Jewels, which were legal Affets, detained from them, in Expectation of that which might never happen; a subsequent Contingency of Affets falling in, must not exempt the Jewels from Debts, which, at that Time, both at Law and in Equity, they were liable to answer.

4thly, However, in the present Case, forasmuch as there was an express Bequest of the Jewels to the Widow, notwithstanding that, at the Time of the Death of the Testator, there were not Assets, either real or personal, yet since afterwards, tho' by a remote Accident, Assets had happened, the Court held there could be now no Inconvenience to any Creditor or others, and that this Legacy should be paid, and the Intention of the Testator performed, and the rather, for that here the real and personal Assets were by the Will made liable to the Debts and Legacies.

Especially it being the constant Rule, that a Legatee, where the real Estate is made liable to pay Debts, on the Creditors exhausting the personal Assets, shall stand in the Place of the Creditors, and be paid out of the Land; and that this was stronger in the Case of a specific Legacy (the principal Case) which was to be preferred in Payment before a pecuniary Legacy.

If a Creditor by Bond exhausts the personal Estate, a Legatee shall stand in his Place, and be paid out of the real Estate.

Also, in the principal Case, all the Legatees were decreed to be paid, before the residuary Legatee (the Marquess of Dorchester) took any Thing.

Case 18.

*Powell versus Hankey and Cox.*Lord Mac-
clesfield.

The Wife,
after the Death of her Husband, not admitted in Equity to recover the Arrears of her separate Estate. Vide
ver. Bennet.

THE Wife before her Marriage, by the Consent of her then intended Husband, conveyed her real Estate to Trustees to such Uses, as she, notwithstanding her Coverture, should appoint, and assigned all her Mortgages and Bonds to her separate Use ; besides which she had 200*l.* Exchequer-Annuities assigned by her intended Husband to her Trustees, in Trust for herself for her Jointure.

After the Marriage she constantly permitted her Husband to receive the Interest of all these Securities and Bonds, without making any Complaint, either to the Debtors that paid the Money, or to her Trustees.

Also the Wife consented to sell 10*l.* a Year, Part of her Land of Inheritance, for 200*l.* which the Husband having received, therewith founded a Charity for poor Widows, and gave a Bond for it to the Wife's Trustees, to be paid to them within three Months after the Wife's Death, for the Benefit of her Executors.

About ten Years after the Marriage the Husband died, and his Executors subscribed the 200*l.* Exchequer-Annuities into the South-Sea, without the Privity of the Wife, who was then in the Country; but she afterwards having Notice thereof, and when the Affairs of that Company were in their Prosperity, insisted upon having a Proportion of the Benefit of that Subscription:

Decreed by Lord Chancellor, 1st, That as to any Part of the principal Money due upon any of the Mortgages and Securities, the Husband's Executors ought, out of the Assets, to make that good with Interest from the Death of the Husband. But,

2<sup>dly</sup>, That with Regard to any of the Interest on the Mortgages and Securities received by the Husband during the Coverture, as it was against common Right, that the Wife should have a separate Property from the Husband, (they being both in Law but as one Person) so all reasonable Intendments and Presumptions were to be admitted against the Wife in this Case; and forasmuch as she had, for ten Years together, permitted the Husband to receive this Interest, without making the least Objection either to the Husband, or to the Debtors who paid the Money, or to her own Trustees, it should be therefore intended, that she consented to the Husband's Receipt of this Interest; that the contrary Construction might have been a Hardship upon the Husband, who (probably) depended on the Wife's permitting him to receive this as a Gift; and on such a Presumption might have lived in a more plentiful Manner, the Comfort whereof the Wife must have shared in: And if she, ten or twenty Years afterwards, wards, should be allowed to make her Husband a Debtor for all this Money, (which she might do by the same Reason, as now after his Death to charge his Executors,) this might ruin the Husband, or, in case of his Death, prove equally prejudicial to his Children.

And tho' it had been pretended, that the Wife was kept in Awe, and hindered from making her Demand, by Reason of the Husband's passionate Temper, yet the Court observed, that this was not proved; and tho' that were really the Case, still the Wife might have applied, and complained to her own Trustees, whom she must be supposed to have had a Confidence in, as Persons who would have protected her against any Resentment of her Husband, had there been Occasion; whereas nothing of this was done.

3dly, As to the Case of separate Maintenance, the Court took Notice, that the Husband's maintaining the Wife, barred the Wife's Claim in Respect thereof; so if there should be a Provision for the Wife's separate Use for Cloaths, if the Husband finds those Cloaths, the Wife's Claim will be thereby barred; that in Case of the Wife's separate Maintenance, if this be not demanded by her, she will be concluded, even where she has no other Person to demand it of but her Husband, which probably she might be afraid to do; but that the principal Case was not so strong, in regard there the Wife might have demanded it from her own Trustees; neither was it material, whether the Allowance or Maintenance-Money was provided out of that Estate which was originally the Husband's, or (as in the principal Case) out of what was the Wife's own Estate, for that in both Cases, the Wife's not having demanded it for several Years together, should be construed a Consent from her, that the Husband should receive it; and as to this Point of the Arrears of separate Maintenance

nance not being demanded by the Wife in his Lifetime, the Case of Judge (a) Dormer and the Bishop of Salisbury was cited. <sup>(a) Hill. 1712.</sup>

As to the fourth Point, (viz.) the Wife's accepting this Bond for the Payment of 200 l. within three Months after her Death, for the Use of her Executors, the Court held, this should bind the Wife, and was a waiving of the Interest of the 200 l. during her own Life; for that it was impossible to misapprehend so plain and express Words as were in the Condition of the Bond, (viz.) to be paid within three Months after her Death; and if she would avoid this Bond, it was incumbent upon her to prove, that some Fraud was made Use of in gaining her Acceptance thereof; that this being her separate Estate, she must primâ facie be looked upon as a Feme Sole; and it was, as if a Feme Sole had accepted such Bond, which would have bound her; also it was a reasonable Thing to suppose, that the Wife contributed to this Charity, it being to Widows, consequently to her own Sex, and by this Manner of contributing to it, what she gave was of very little Value, it being but out of her Life, after her Husband's; which, if she had not happened to survive, would have amounted to nothing at all, so that there was the more Reason she should be bound by this Bond.

With Respect to the other Point, the Court held the Wife to be bound by the Subscription of these Exchequer Annuities into the South-Sea; the same being done by the Executors, who had the legal Estate; (for the Assignment of such Annuities upon the Plaintiff's Marriage had never been registred in the Exchequer, and consequently were void,) wherefore this Subscription by the Executors was to be looked upon as of equal Force with a Subscription made by Guardians, which would bind an Infant; but then it being done without the Consent of the Widow, the same should be made good out of the personal Estate of the Testator; nay, and if that should prove Deficient, out of his real Estate; forasmuch as he had covenanted for himself and his Heirs, to make good these Annuities of 200*l.* a Year to his Wife; and this was so ordered, notwithstanding she was represented, as having insisted afterwards, upon receiving the imaginary Benefit of this Subscription; for that that looked rather like loose Discourse, than any Thing else, at least, it would be too hard, for that Reason, to deprive her of the Provision, which was stipulated for her, on her Marriage.

6 Geo. 1.
23.

His Lordship admitted, there was a Clause (a) in the Act of Parliament, for making good all Subscriptions made by Trustees, Executors or Guardians; but this was (he said) for the Benefit, Quiet and Security of the South-Sea Company, which this Decree would not break into; on the other Hand, the Executors themselves offering by their Answer to make this good to the Wife, notwithstanding that two of the residuary Legatees were Infants, and so could not be bound by the Consent of the Executors, yet such Way of answering by the Executors, shewed plainly enough what was the Intention of all Parties touching the Subscription of the Annuities, (viz.) that the Wife should not be deprived of the Benefit of her Settlement, who did not seem to have had any Means of compelling the Executors to let her into the Benefit of the Subscription of these Annuities, had there been any.

Anonymus.

IT was moved to suppress an Answer as irregular or improper, in Regard it wanted the general Traverse at the End, (viz.) “without that, that any other Matter in the Bill contained is true”; and it was objected, that without this Traverse, there was no Issue joined.

Sed Cur' contra: It does not appear, but that in the principal Cafe the whole Bill, and every Clause in it is fully answered, and then the adding the general Traverse is rather impertinent than otherwise; and if Issue is taken upon this general Traverse, it is a Denial only of every other Thing not answered before by the Answer.

And Lord Chancellor said, that this general Traverse seemed to him to have obtained formerly, and in ancient Times, when the Defendant used only to set forth his Cafe in the Answer, without answering every Clause in the Bill; and for that Reason it was the Practice for the Defendant to add at the End of the Answer this general Traverse.

his Wife, and the Trustee residing in England; the Annuity shall be paid in England, and the Estate bear the Charge of the Return.

Insisted on, that the Fund for this Payment being Lands in Ireland, and no Place appointed where the Money is to be paid, this 80*l.* per Ann. Annuity ought to be paid in Irish Money, which is less in Value than English Money, (our Shilling going there for 14*d.*) and by the same Reason there ought to be a Deduction for the Charge of remitting the Money from Ireland to England.

But by Lord Chancellor: The Will being made in England, and the Husband, and Wife, and Trustee all living in England, and this being a Provision for a Wife too, the 80*l.* per Annum shall be intended 80*l.* per Annum of that Country where the Will was (a) made ; it cannot be conceived that the Testator thought of sending his Wife every Year to Ireland to fetch her Annuity.

(a) See Phipps ver. Earl of Anglesea, Vol. I.

If one by Will made in England gives a Legacy of 80*l.* it must be intended English Money ; and it will be the same Thing tho' charged on Land in Ireland ; and by the same Reason that a single Payment of 20*l.* will be taken to be English Money, so shall an annual Payment of 80*l.* receive such Construction.

So if one in England gives by Will a Legacy out of Lands in Ireland, the Legacy shall be paid in England, and in English Money.

And this is still stronger, in Regard it appears on the Proofs that the Testator had made Leases of Part of his Irish Estate, reserving just so much Rent to be paid in London free from Taxes, as would be sufficient to pay all the Annuities given by the Will.

Wherefore the Plaintiff had a Decree to be paid her 80*l. per Annum* Annuity in English Money, without any Charge of Remittance, and with Costs.

ter which he would come in as a Creditor for the whole 100*l.* out of A.'s Effects ; B. permitted to come in as a Creditor for 60*l.* and the Matter directed to see whether the other 40*l.* was paid out of A.'s Effects in C.'s Hands, or out of C.'s own Effects ; if the latter, then C. is a Creditor for this 40*l.* also ; but if out of A.'s Effects, then 40*l.* of the 100*l.* is paid off.

Vol. II.

A a

And

And now some of the Creditors of Mrs. Cock petitioned Lord Chancellor, that they might come in as Creditors of Mrs. Cock for the whole 100*l.* alledging, that tho' this should be granted them, yet the Effects of Mrs. Cock would not extend to satisfy them their just Debt of 100*l.* even including the 40*l. per Cent.* which they had before received out of Vandermasb's Estate.

Obj. The Creditors by this Bill of Exchange having received 40*l. per Cent.* out of Vandermasb's Estate, there remains but 60*l. per Cent.* due, and therefore such Creditors ought not to come in any otherwise, than as Creditors for 60*l.* in Regard 40*l.* of the Debt has been paid off and discharged; and it cannot be material, whether this was paid off by Vandermasb the Drawee, or by Mrs. Cock the Drawer, forasmuch as there remains but 60*l.* due upon the said Bill of Exchange; and if the Construction were otherwise, it would disappoint the Intention of the Statutes of Bankrupts, which order an equal Distribution of the Bankrupt's Estate among all the Creditors.

Lord Chancellor: It is material, whether this Payment of 40*l. per Cent.* made by the Assignees of the Commission against Vandermasb, was out of the Effects which Mrs. Cock had in Vandermasb's Hands; for if so, it would be, as if paid by Mrs. Cock herself; and if paid by Mrs. Cock herself, then there can be but 60*l. per Cent.* due, and consequently the Creditors of Mrs. Cock shall come in for no more than this remaining 60*l.*

On the other Hand, if the 40*l. per Cent.* paid by the Assignees of Vandermasb's Estate, was really paid out of Vandermasb's Effects, then Vandermasb's Estate is as a Creditor for this 40*l.* and the Creditors of Mrs. Cock's Estate must come in Creditors for the whole 100*l.* and to be taken as Trustees for the 40*l.* Debt paid out of Vandermasb's Effects.

To make this plainer, suppose A. was Principal in a Bond, and B. Surety in the said Bond, for the Payment of 100*l.* and A. and B. becoming Bankrupts, A. had paid 40*l.* the Creditors of A. or B. would come in only for the remaining 60*l.* but if B. the Surety had paid the 40*l.* or if it had been paid out of the Effects of the said Surety, then B. the Surety, or his Estate, had been Creditor for this 40*l.* and consequently the Creditors or Assignees under the Commission of Bankruptcy against A. the Principal, tho' the 40*l.* had been paid by the Surety, yet must have come in for the whole 100*l.* and as to the 40*l.* they must have been accountable to B. the Surety.

Therefore in this Case, let the Creditors of Mrs. Cock come in for the 60*l. per Cent.* and let it be inquired out of whose Effects the 40*l. per Cent.* was paid by Vandermasb's Assignees; and if the 40*l. per Cent.* shall appear to have been paid out of Vandermasb's own Effects, then let the Creditors of Mrs. Cock come in for the whole 100*l.* out of which they must answer 40*l. per Cent.* to the Creditors of Vandermasb.

Case 22.
Lord Mac
clesfield.

SIR William Wolesly acknowledged a Statute-Staple before the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas to Sir William Jolliff for 22000*l.* to be paid at Candlemas then next.

Where Cognizee of a Statute extends Lands in one County, which Ex-
other Coun-

rent is afterwards returned and filed, yet all the Lands of the Cognizor, tho' in ties, shall be made liable upon Application in Chancery.

On

On this Statute-Staple an Extent was sued out, directed to the Sheriff of Staffordshire, by Virtue of which, and of an Inquisition taken thereon, the said Sheriff extended diverse Lands of the Cognizor in Staffordshire, and this Extent was returned and filed in the Petty-Bag Office.

Afterwards Sir William Folliff sued out another Extent upon this Statute-Staple, directed to the Sheriff of Nottinghamshire, who, upon Inquisition, extended other Lands, and thereupon a Liberate was sued out and returned, and Sir William Folliff brought an Ejectment.

Upon which, there being a full and perfect Extent before, and the same being filed, it was held that this was a Satisfaction, and no new Extent could be afterwards made upon the same Statute; and it was said to be the Folly of the Cognizee to file his Extent, until he knew he had Lands sufficient, for which were cited the following Authorities. 1 Inst. 290. 1 Vent. 41, 42. Hob. 52. Forster versus Jackson, Stat. 32 H. 8. cap. 5. Cro. Jac. 338, 339. 1 Lev. 92. 1 Roll's Rep. 8, 9, 10. Godbolt 257. 2 Bulstrode 97. 3 Lev. 269. Cro. Eliz. 9, 10.

But on a Petition to Lord Chancellor, his Lordship gave Leave that a special Prayer should be entered upon the Record of Extent, shewing, that the Cognizor of the Statute, Sir William Wolesley, died seized in Fee of several Lands in several Counties, (viz.) in Staffordshire, Nottinghamshire, &c. and praying, that the Cognizee Sir William Folliff might be at Liberty to sue out Extents upon the Lands in all these Counties.

And his Lordship said he would give the Cognisee of the Statute Liberty to enter upon the Record what Prayer he pleased; for that the Intention and Agreement of the Cognizor who gave this Security, was, that all his Lands (were they in ever so many Counties) should be bound by the Statute, and consequently it would be most unreasonable to confine the Cognisee to the Lands of the Cognizor in any one County; for this would be to defeat that Security which the Party himself had agreed to give, and had actually given.

Whereupon this special Prayer was entered: And the Cognisee recovered the Land in Nottinghamshire, notwithstanding his former Extent filed of the Land in Staffordshire; and tho' afterwards there was another Petition preferred to set aside this Order, insisting, that the Defendant, against whom the Ejectment was brought for the Land in Nottinghamshire, was a Mortgagee, and without Notice, tho' subsequent to the Statute, yet his Lordship affirmed the first Order with great Clearness, saying that the Law was the rather nice upon an Elegit on a Judgment, because of the Word [Elegit;] but that this Word was not made Use of in an Extent; and had it not been insisted on, that the Defendant was poor, and an honest Creditor of the Cognizor, the Court was inclinable to have given Costs upon the second Petition.

Lord Mac-
clesfield.

THIS was a Bill brought by the Plaintiff and his Wife, for his Wife's Portion of 3000*l.* and a Maintenance secured in a Marriage-Settlement, by a

Vol. II.

B b

Term

The Trust of a Term was for raising a Portion for a Daughter, in Default of Issue Male, payable at Eighteen or Marriage, or as soon after as the same might conveniently be raised; the Mother died leaving no Son, and leaving only one Daughter; the Court was of Opinion, that the Portion could not be conveniently raised by Sale of the Reversion.

Term of 500 Years commencing in Default of Issue Male of the Bodies of the Plaintiff's Wife's Father and Mother, for providing Portions for the Daughters of the Marriage, to be raised by Rents and Profits, or by Sale or Mortgage, and to be paid at the Daughter's attaining the Age of Eighteen or Marriage.

Provided that no Maintenance shall commence, until the Death of the Father, but the same to begin at the first Quarter-Day after.

Provided that if all the Daughters die before Eighteen or Marriage, then the 500 Years Term to be void.

With Power to the Father, with Consent of the Trustees, to revoke all the Uses.

The Mother died without leaving a Son, and leaving only one Daughter, who married the Plaintiff without her Father's Consent, and with her Husband brought this Suit for the Recovery of her Portion of 3000 l. praying a Sale or Mortgage of the reversionary Term in her Father's Life-time for the raising the same.

For which Purpose the Cases of Greaves and Madison in Raym. and 2 Jones, and particularly that of Sandys and Sandys (a) were cited; and it was moreover urged, that the Settlement expressly saying that the Portion should be paid at Eighteen or Marriage, which should first happen, the same was plainly due.

(a) Vide
Vol. I.

That the Trust being to raise the Portions by Mortgage or Sale, this reversionary Term must be either mortgaged or sold.

As also the Proviso having said, that if the Daughter should die before her Age of Eighteen or Marriage, then the Portion was not to be raised; this was a strong Indication, that if the Daughter lived to Eighteen or Marriage, she should be intitled to her Portion.

That if the Settlement had intended the reversionary Term should not be sold, it would certainly have been so expressed, especially when there was a Provision therein, that no Maintenance should be raised in the Father's Life-time.

Then it was observed, that the Daughter was here a Purchaser of her Portion, by the Mother's Marriage, who appeared to have brought 2500*l.* and for 2500*l.* paid so long since, it was but a reasonable Bargain, to be bound to pay 3000*l.* at so distant a Time from the Marriage, as this Portion became due; and it must be supposed to have been the Contract or Bargain made by the Wife's Relations, that this Portion, with the Addition of 500*l.* at such a Distance of Time, should be paid back to the only Child of the Marriage, if a Daughter, at her Age of Eighteen or Marriage.

That as the chief End of securing the Portion, was to prefer the Daughter in Marriage, so if this was not done at a seasonable Time, (and which the Settlement had fixed at Eighteen,) it might prove wholly insignificant; for the Father might (and probably would) marry again, and neglect his Daughter by his first Wife, who might also grow to be fifty Years old in the Life-time of her Father, and consequently past Marriage before such Time as she would become intitled to her Portion.

Lastly,

Lastly, As to the Power of Revocation, it was insisted, that when the Portion became actually due, (as here it was) it would be then too late for the Power of Revocation to divest what was actually vested.

Attorney General contra: This Case is not the same with Sandys and Sandys, but extremely different; but if it were, the Court finding the growing Mischief that has proceeded from the Resolutions intitling the Daughters to their Portions at eighteen, (out of these reverfionary Terms) by tempting them to Disobedience, to throw of all their Dependance upon their Fathers, and to ruin themselves by rash and unequal Matches, ought at length to make a Stand against such Mischief.

Tho' the Deed of Settlement says, that the Portion is payable at eighteen, yet this is not all which is said in the Deed, for the other Parts thereof shew, that the Portion was not intended to be raised until after the Father's Death, and the Settlement is to be taken and considered all together, and with all the Contingencies.

One of the Proviso's is, that if there shall be no Daughter living at the Father's Death, and the Wife not ensient, then the Term for raising Portions is to be void; now one of these Contingencies has happened, (viz.) the Wife was not ensient at his Death, the other may happen, (viz.) there may be no Daughter living at the Time of the Death of the Father; and therefore this Portion must not be raised, until this latter Contingency be also determined; and the Proviso means no more, than that if there shall be no Daughter living, or in Ventre sa mere, at the Father's Death, then no Portion shall be raised.

It is true, it may be thought a hard Case, supposing the Daughter should marry, and die before the Father, leaving several Children, that yet she should have no Portion; but this must be left to the Breast of the Father, who cannot be supposed to be unkind to his own Child.

On the other Hand, in the present Case, there is an Instance of Disobedience in the Daughter, by her having married without her Father's Consent, an Instance, which, probably, proceeded from her Dependence upon being able to recover her Portion in Despair of her Father.

And this Contingency, (viz.) whether or no a Daughter shall be living at the Time of her Father's Death, makes the Case to be exactly like the Case of Corbet and Maidwell (a).

As to the Case of Sandys and Sandys, there was no Proviso that the Term should be void, if no Daughter living at the Death of her Father, nor any such Power of Revocation, as in the present Case, and the Father is to be considered as much a Purchaser of this Power of Revocation, by making the Limitations of the Settlement, as the Daughter a Purchaser of her Portion.

Mr. Talbot on the same Side: As to the Inconvenience of the Daughter's staying an unreasonable Time for her Portion, the same Inconvenience must have been, if the Mother had lived, as well as the Father, there being no Pretence to say, that if the Father and Mother had been both living, then the Portion could have been raised.

The whole Deed must be taken together, else you will have the Intention of the Party by Halves.

Besides, the Words of the Clause for paying the Portion are, “ that the same shall be paid at the “ Daughter’s Age of Eighteen or Marriage, or as soon “ after as conveniently may be,” so that it is consistent with the Deed, if the Portion be paid as soon after the Daughter’s Age or Marriage as conveniently may be, and surely it cannot be said to be conveniently paid, when there is no other Way proposed for doing it, but by selling a reversionary Term, to the Ruin of the Family.

The Payment of the Maintenance must, in the Course and Nature of it, precede the Payment of the Portion, and no Maintenance being to be paid until after the Death of the Father by the express Words of the Settlement, there consequently can be, before that Time, no Payment of the Portion.

The Hardship in this Case, on the Family, is so visible, that if it were but a doubtful Point, or in any Sort unsettled, or varying from former Resolutions, the Court (’tis apprehended) will strain hard to make a Distinction, in order to preserve the Family.

To which it was replied by Mr. Lutwyche, That as to the Case of Hardship, and that what was prayed by the Plaintiffs would tend to the Ruin of the Family, the same might be, and in Fact had been urged in all Cases where the Court had decreed the Sale of Reversionary Terms for raising Portions for Daughters, in the Life-time of the Father.

But that it would be as much a Hardship to take it the other Way, (viz.) if the Daughter should marry fuitably, and die in the Father's Life-time, leaving many Children, that this Daughter should have no Portion provided for her by the Settlement.

That it had been very easy, had the Parties so intended it, to have inserted a Proviso in the Settlement, that the Portion should not be raised in the Father's Life-time, especially, when (as observed before) it was provided that no Maintenance should be raised in the Father's Life-time.

Lord Chancellor: The Case of Greaves versus Maddison is a strange one, and not common Sense; I will go just as far, and not one Jot further, than former Resolutions have gone, for raising Portions for Daughters by the Sale of reversionary Terms; and whenever such a Case happens, (I mean when a Daughter applies in order to have the Portion raised in the Father's Life-time) I will study and labour to find out a Difference between that Case and the former, in order to discountenance such Suits; the Sense of the Nation seems to be with me, in this Case, by there being generally, (a) now a-days, a Clause inserted in Settlements, to prevent the Sale of a Term for raising Portions, in the Life-time of the Father.

The Court will not go further than warranted by Precedents, in selling reversionary Terms to pay Portions.

(a) Vide Vol. I. in the Case of Butler versus Duncomb.

It is hard, that a Court of Equity should encourage a Daughter, just when she comes to fourteen, or perhaps twelve Years of Age, to say to her Father, "come, I am fit for my Portion, pray pay it me, or " I will marry, and then I can compel the raising of " it by the Sale of your Estate".

What

What Difobedience will this breed in a Daughter? What rash and unequal Marriages will this produce? Accordingly I have observed, that in most of these Cafes (as in the principal Cafe) the Daughter has married without the Consent of the Father, which surely is fit to be prevented.

But it is objected, the Father will not in a reasonable Time raise this Portion.

Resp. But of the two which is fittest to be trusted, the Father, or his Infant Daughter? doubtless he must be presumed, out of his natural Affection to his Daughter, to be willing to do her Right.

But the present Cafe differs from the former Cafes where the Portion has been recovered by Sale of Reversionary Terms, this Portion being to be paid at Eighteen or Marriage, or as soon after as the same shall or may be conveniently raised, so that it is not to be raised, until it can be done with Conveniency; now in my Opinion, it cannot conveniently be raised by selling a Reversion, which will incommode the Family to that Degree as to ruin the Estate; for which Reason I think it cannot be conveniently raised until the Death of the Father.

Besides, there is a Provifo which makes this contingent during the Father's Life-time, and that is another Reason why it cannot be raised, (viz.) a Provifo, that if the Father dies without leaving a Daughter, or his Wife ensient with a Daughter, then the Portion is not to be raised; which Provifo imports no more, than that if, at the Death of the Father, there shall be no Daughter born, or in Ventre sa mere, then no Portion is to be raised.

It is true, so far has happened, that there can be no Daughter in Ventre sa mere at the Father's Death, no Posthumous Daughter; but still there may be no Daughter living at the Father's Death; so that there is a Contingency still subsisting, which prevents the Portion from becoming due, and makes this Case resemble that of Corbet and Maidwell.

As to the Proviso which says, that if the Father provides for the Daughter a Portion equal to what is secured by the Settlement, then the Term to be void; by this, it seems, it must be intended, if the Father provides such Portion payable at such Time as the Portion by the Settlement is made payable, (viz.) at Eighteen, if the Portion be construed to be then payable.

With Respect to the Power of Revocation, it is still a subsisting Power, and consequently suspends, and prevents the Portion from being as yet payable, because the Father, by Consent of the Trustees, may yet revoke; he may revoke at any Time before the Portion is raised, and paid; and it can be no Objection to say, that the Right to this Portion is vested in the Daughter; for suppose there had been a Son born, then a Right to the Remainder would have vested in such Son, and yet there can be no Doubt, but that the Father, with the Consent of the Trustees, might have revoked this vested Remainder, and by the same Reason may he with Consent, &c. revoke this Term which secures the Portion; and if the Term falls, all the Trusts thereof must fall also, and consequently the Trust for raising the Portion.

Where there is a Power in the Trust-Term to raise Portions, for the Husband with Consent of Trustees to revoke all the Uses, this suspends the Portion.

Indeed it has been objected, that it would be a Breach of Trust in the Trustees to join in such Revocation.

But I think it may not be only a justifiable, but commendable Thing in the Trustees, under some Circumstances, to consent to such Revocation; as suppose the Daughter should be drawn in to marry some very unworthy Man, who should use her in a most barbarous Manner, and the Daughter should afterwards die without Issue, upon which the Husband should sue for the Portion; in this Case, it would be very reasonable in the Trustees, to join with the Father in revoking these Uses; or suppose the Daughter should have left Children by such Marriage, it would be reasonable for the Trustees, by consenting to a Revocation, to prevent the Portion's going to the Husband, and (if practicable) to carry it to the Children of the Daughter, so that this Power seems to be still a subsisting Power, which there may be hereafter very good Reason to put in Execution.

For these Reasons, I think the Portion remains as yet liable to a Contingency, and therefore not to be raised until this Contingency is out of the Case; which cannot be during the Life of the Father.

This Decree was afterwards affirmed by the House of Lords.

Case 24.
Lord Mac-
clesfield.

Mr. Justice Eyre versus Countess of Shaftsbury.

A Guardianship devised to three, without saying, and to the Survivors or Survivor of them, yet the Survivor shall have it.

THE late Earl of Shaftsbury, by his Will dated 10. November 1710. devised the Guardianship of the Person and Estate of his Infant Child (the present Earl) to Mr. Justice Eyre and two others (since deceased) without saying and to the Survivor of them; and

and this Devise of the Guardianship was until the Child should come to twenty-one Years of Age.

Lord Shafisbury died beyond Sea, and the Infant Earl was now twelve Years of Age, when Mr. Justice Eyre, perceiving that his Lordship had not a proper Governor provided for him by the Countess his Mother, and that the Person who was ordered to attend him as his Gentleman, was not a fit Person for that Purpose, petitioned the Lord Chancellor, that he, as sole surviving Guardian, might have the Ordering, as he should think proper, of such Governor, Gentleman and other Servants to attend the said Infant Earl, and that the Person of the said Infant Earl might be delivered over to the Petitioner.

On the Behalf of the Countess it was insisted by the Solicitor General, Mr. Lutwiche, Mr. Comper, and Mr. Talbot, that the Guardianship being devised to three, without saying and to the Survivor of them, the same did not survive; that it was but a bare Authority, and no Interest, in Regard no Profit could be made thereof; that if a Power were given to three, and one of them should die, the Survivor could not execute such Power; that if two were made Committees of a Lunatick, on the Death of one of them, the Commitment would determine; that this was a Trust annexed to the Person, and not assignable, nor was it reasonable it should survive, forasmuch as the Testator might think it proper to trust three, but not to invest a smaller Number with a Charge of that Importance.

Also it was said, that if the Infant Earl should die without Issue under Age, in such Case the late Earl by his Will had given an Annuity of 500 l. per Annum to Mr. Justice Eyre, which made it improper, that he alone should be intrusted with the Person of the Infant

Infant Earl, who would be a Gainer on his dying without Issue and under Age; that the Will having appointed three Guardians to the Infant, it was the same Thing, as if the Testator had appointed those three jointly, and then it was plain, that if one should die, the Survivors could not act; that according to Auditor Curl's Case, (11 Co. 2. b.) where an Office is granted to two, on the Death of one of the Grantees the Office determines.

And tho' it might be attended with some Inconvenience, were such Guardianship or Authority to determine on the Death of one of the Persons intrusted, yet it must be allowed to have been in the Power of the Testator to have prevented this Inconvenience, by limiting the Guardianship to the Survivor by express Words. Salk. 465.

(a) Vol. I.
Duke of Beaufort
versus Berty, & Frederick versus Fre- derick.

It was moreover urged, that this was a Matter of Trust, for every Guardianship was a (a) Trust; that the Crown, as Parens patriæ, was the Supreme Guardian and Superintendant over all Infants; and since this was a Trust, it was consequently in the Discretion of the Court, whether or no they would do so hard a Thing, as to take away an Infant under thirteen Years of Age, from so careful a Mother as the Countess was; that the tender Calls of Nature were on the Mother's Side; and then there were two Physicians, (Doctor Robinson and Doctor Friend,) who both testified, that the Infant Earl was of a tender and sickly Constitution; so that at least the Court might refuse to grant this in a summary Way, or otherwise than upon a Bill.

Also with Regard to the Servants, it was represented to be a very hard Thing to turn away such as the Countess had experienced to be good Servants, and to take Persons in their Room, whom she had no Experience of, particularly, that Dr. Stubbs the Governor came in at first, with the Approbation of Mr. Justice Eyre, and that he was a Man of Learning, Probity, and Piety, and a Clergyman.

On the other Side it was said, that this Guardianship was not devised to three jointly, but to three until the Infant Earl should come to twenty-one; that a Guardian had not only a bare Authority, but also an Interest, for he might bring a Writ of Ravishment of Ward, or might make a Lease during the Minority of the Infant, as was determined in the Case of Shopland versus Rydlar, Cro. Jac. 55, 98. so that Guardians had an Interest coupled with their Authority, and consequently the Office would survive.

It was true, it could not be granted over; no more could the Office of Executorship; but yet there could be no Question, but that if there were two Executors, and one should die, the other would take the whole Executorship as Survivor.

And as to the Objection, that there was no Profit in the Guardianship, and therefore it should not survive, the same Way of Reasoning would hold in the Case of an Executorship, for that was barely a Trust, and no ways profitable; notwithstanding which, being a legal Interest, it would survive. It was likewise said, that in Case where three Guardians were appointed, if this were supposed to be but a joint Authority, and consequently not to survive, it would prove a great Inconvenience, and in a good Measure frustrate the Intention of the Person appointing them.

As to what was held in Auditor Curl's Case, (viz.) where an Office has been usually granted to two, and one of them dies, that this is a Determination of such Office, the Reason must be supposed to be, because they both make but one Officer, as in the Case of the Sheriffs of Middlesex.

That with Regard to the 500*l. per Annum* given to Mr. Justice Eyre, in Case of the Infant's Death without Issue, and under Age, that could be no Objection in Case of a Testamentary Guardian appointed by the Party himself, whatever it might be where the Guardian was to be appointed by the Court; for where the Testator himself says, that J. S. shall be Guardian of his Son, and by the same Will also declares, that the said Guardian shall have the whole Estate, in Case the Child should die within Age, surely that would be good; much more shall the Devise in our Case, which is but of a small Part of the Estate.

Then as to the Objection of Hardship, from the Guardian's being impowered to impose Servants, Governors, &c. who, when put upon the young Lord by such Guardian, would probably not regard the Countess, as having no Dependance upon her, this might be as well turned the other Way, (viz.) That if they were put in by the Mother, they would have no Regard to the Guardian, who yet was intended by the Will to be in loco Parentis, and to supply the Father's Place.

That Doctor Stubbs the Governor might be a good Scholar, and a pious Man, and yet it would not necessarily follow, that he was a proper Governor to attend the young Earl to Court, or to noble Families, or at the Exercises of Dancing and Riding, which it was fit his Lordship should be acquainted with.

Besides, it was of great Consequence, in Regard such Servants are apt to flatter their young Masters, and to entertain their Thoughts with such Things as would be rather pleasing than useful to them.

Lastly, With Respect to the Tenderness of the young Lord's Constitution, that was, however, of late grown stronger, and he being now upwards of twelve Years of Age, this was the proper Crisis for forming his Mind, and instilling into him a Taste of those noble Qualities, and that Spirit, which became a Person of his high Station, in order to make him useful to his Country; and this being the proper Time, surely it was reasonable to trust Providence in these Cases, and to send the young Nobleman to some publick School.

Lord Chancellor: The Father by the (a) Statute has a (a) 12 Car. 2. cap. 24. Right to dispose of the Guardianship of his Child until twenty-one, and having done so here, it will be binding, unless some Misbehaviour be shewn in the Guardian, in which Case it being a Matter of Trust, this Court has a Superintendency over it.

But as to the Objection, that this Right of Guardianship does not survive, because it is not said in the Will in express Terms, that it shall go to the Survivor, there seems to be no Colour for it, because where several Guardians are appointed by a Will, each of them seems to be a compleat Guardian, like the Case where there are two or three Church-Wardens of a Parish, each of them is a distinct Church-Warden; and it would be mischievous, and of very ill Effect, if where there are several Guardians appointed by a Will, and some refuse to act, that the rest should not be able to do any Thing; and yet this must be the Consequence sequence, if a Guardianship devised to several should be taken to be one joint naked Authority; such Construction would make the Act of little Force; a Guardian has an Authority coupled with an Interest, and may bring a Writ of Ravishment of Ward on the Infant's being taken from him; and tho' it is true, that the Damages recovered shall by the Statute go towards the Benefit of the Ward, yet the Declaration must lay it ad dampnum of the Guardian the Plaintiff.

The Reason of Auditor Curl's Case, where, on the Office of Auditor being granted to two, without saying and to the Survivor, such Office on the Death of one, was held to be determined, was, because in such Case both made but one Officer, as the two Sheriffs of Middlesex make, as to their Office, but one Person. In the present Case, here is a plain Right placed and vested in Mr. Justice Eyre as the surviving Guardian, and who, every one is assured, will well execute such Trust, which it will be impossible for him to do, without being allowed to place and chuse the Governor, Gentleman, &c. to attend upon and take Care of this young Nobleman.

And tho' Dr. Stubbs may be a good, learned, and pious Man, yet he may not be so fit to attend the young Earl to all Places, for Instance, to Courts, Places of Exercise, and Diversions, &c. at which it may be proper for his Lordship to appear.

But I must differ from Mr. Justice Eyre, as to sending the Infant to a publick School, which may be thought likely to instill into him Notions of Slavery.

Wherefore per Cur': Discharge Dr. Stubbs from being Governor, as also Mr. Bennet from being Gentleman, and deliver the Infant into the Hands of his Guardian Mr. Justice Eyre, who desired the young Earl might dine with him.

But Lord Chancellor said, that this was in Confidence that the Judge should return him to his Mother the Countess at Night, for that as yet, the Court would not make any Order touching the Custody of the Earl's Person.

Afterwards on the Great Seal's being taken from the Earl of Macclesfield, and placed in the Hands of three Lords Commissioners, on 18. March 1724. Mr. Justice Eyre (lately made Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer) exhibited his Petition to the Lords Commissioners, setting forth the former Proceedings, and that the Infant Earl, who was now just fourteen Years of Age; and had been married to Lady Susanna Noel, Daughter to the Countess of Gainsborough, was detained from the Petitioner; that such Marriage was without the Consent or Privity of the said Lord Chief Baron the surviving Guardian; therefore the Petitioner thought it his Duty to lay these Things before the Court, praying, that the Custody or Tuition of the Infant Lord might be granted to him, and that the Court would make such Order touching this Matter, as they should think proper.

Upon this the Countess Dowager of Shaftsbury petitioned the Lords Commissioners, that the Order of the late Lord Macclesfield, declaring the Right of Guardianship to belong to the Lord Chief Baron Eyre, and directing the Person of the Infant Earl to be delivered to the said Lord Chief Baron, might be set aside.

Also the Infant Earl petitioned the Lords Commissioners, insisting, that the Guardianship of his Lordship given by the Will, was determined by the Death of two of the Guardians, and praying that his Lordship, being now of the Age of fourteen Years, might be at Liberty to chuse his Guardian.

On hearing these Petitions, the Court ordered a Sequestration, unless Cause, both against the Countess [Dowager] of Shaftsbury, and against the Countess of Gainsborough, for their Contempt in contriving and effecting this Marriage without the Consent of the Guardian, and without applying to the Court.

And the Person of the Infant Earl was ordered to be restored by the Countess [Dowager] of Shaftsbury to the Lord Chief Baron, it being the Opinion of the Court, that tho' the Declaration made by the late Lord Chancellor, that the Right of Guardianship did belong to the Lord Chief Baron as surviving Guardian, and the Order made thereupon, was ever so erroneous, yet that the same was a good Order until reversed, and consequently it was a Contempt to break it.

On the 15th May, the three Lords Commissioners, (viz.) Sir Joseph Jekyll Master of the Rolls, Mr. Baron Gilbert, and Mr. J. Raymond, having heard this Matter solemnly argued by Counsel on both Sides, gave their Judgment, which was delivered by the Lord Commissioner Jekyll, that the Court were all of Opinion, the Sequestration against the Countess of Shaftsbury ought to be absolute.

The Marriage of a Ward without the Consent of the Guardian, is a Ravishment of the Ward, 2 Inst. 440. and aggravated in this Respect, that after such Ravishment by Marriage, the Ward cannot be restored to such Condition as he was in before, it being rendered impossible by the Wrong of the Ravisher.

By the Statute of Westminster 2. cap. 35. 'tis enacted, that if one be guilty of Ravishment, either of a Male or Female Ward, if the Ward be restored, tho' not married, the Ravisher shall be punished with two Years Imprisonment; but if the Ward be not restored, or if he be restored and be married, the Party guilty of such Ravishment (if he cannot make Satisfaction for the Marriage) shall be punished by Imprisonment for Life, or by abjuring the Realm, at the Discretion of the Court where he is tried; so that a Ravishment of Ward became an Offence not only against the Guardian, but against the King: And whereas, on the Ward's being married, the Ravisher was to be punished by perpetual Imprisonment, or by abjuring the Realm; this shews the Greatness of the Offence, by the Grievousness of the Punishment.

The Punishment inflicted by the Law on such as married a Ward without the Consent of the Guardian.

And the Matter of marrying Infants without the proper Consent of Guardians, is provided against, both at Law and in this Court, especially the latter, it being notorious, that a Court of Equity entertains no greater Jealousy of, nor shews more Resentment against any Thing, than the unlawful Marriage of Infants.

In the Case of the Marriage of a Lunatick, (viz.) that of Mr. Packer's marrying Mrs. Ash, the Court (a) committed Mr. Packer, the Parson, and others that were their Agents, and Packer continued in Custody for a considerable Time, and Infants and Lunaticks may be compared together, both of these being unable to take Care of themselves.

(a) Vide Preced. in Chan. 412.

In

On this Court's committing the Custody of an Infant to the Care of any one, such Committee enters into a Recognizance, that the Infant shall not marry without Leave of the Court.

(a) Vide Vol. I. Dr. Davis's Case.

In Case where an Infant is committed by the Court to the Custody or Care of any one, such Committee gives a (a) Recognizance, that the Infant shall not marry without Leave of the Court, which Form is very rarely altered, and on special Circumstances; so that if the Infant marries, tho' without the Privity, or Knowledge, or Neglect of the Committee, yet the Recognizance is, in Strictness, forfeited, whatever Favour the Court, upon Application, may think fit to shew to such Committee, when he appears not to have been in Fault.

In Lord Sommers's Time, Mr. Goodwin married an Infant (Mrs. Knight) and was committed, and this Commitment was followed by an Act of Parliament for dissolving the Marriage.

(b) 22 Maii, 12 Annæ Regiæ, Hannes ver. Waugh, at Knights-Bridge. See the Discourse of the Judicial Authority of the Master of the Rolls, pag. 104.

So on (b) Sir Edward Hannes's Daughter and Heir who was an Infant being inveigled from her Guardian Dr. Waugh, and married to one Willis, tho' Mrs. Hannes was not taken from a Guardian assigned by the Court, yet, in that Case, both Mr. Willis, and the Parson, and the Agents, were all committed by the Master of the Rolls, Sir John Trevor, and the Order afterwards confirmed by Lord Harcourt; and as this Court punishes the Instruments where such Marriage is had without the Consent of the Guardian, so, if there be only an Apprehension, that the Infant will be married unequally, either by the Guardian, or by his Neglect, a Court of Equity will interpose, and send for the Infant, and commit him to the Custody of a proper Person, or Relation, in order to prevent such Danger; as was done in the Case of the Infant Lady Catbarie Annesley by Lord Chancellor Harcourt, and likewise in another Case, (viz.) that of Mr. Vernon of Staffordshire, by Lord Macclesfield.

But the present Case is still of a higher Nature, as it is the Case of a Peer of the Realm, in whose Education the Publick is interested; and where the Guardianship of him is devised by a Peer of the Realm, (viz.) by the Will of the late Lord Shaftsbury.

As to the Objection that has been made to the Order of this Court, that there are no Words therein, that the Infant shall not be married without the Consent of the Guardian:

Resp. The Court could not suppose, or foresee, that any Person would marry the Infant without the Guardian's Consent; and for that Reason, there was no express Provision against it in the Order; but still this Prohibition is implied, (viz.) that no Person, without the Leave of the Guardian, should marry this Infant: Besides, by the same Reason that these Words ought to be inserted, the Order should likewise have provided, that no Person should take away, or ravish this Ward from the Guardian, &c. all which Things are surely implied; but further, it is a sufficient Answer to this Objection, that such Negative Words are never inserted in the Order.

But then it is objected, here is no Disparagement in this Marriage; forasmuch as the Birth of the Noble Lady, to whom Lord Shaftsbury is married, and also her Quality, are equal to those of her Husband; and she has had the Advantage of being educated under the Countess of Gainsborough her Mother, a Lady of great Honour, Virtue, and Quality.

Resp. Admitting all this to be so, yet it may be reasonably supposed, that if the Infant Earl had stayed till he had attained his Age, and could have made a Jointure and Settlement, in such Case his Lordship might have had a better Portion.

But in Reality, tho' there be no Disparagement, yet this is only by Way of Extenuation, and can never be urged as a Justification; for it is the Marriage without the Consent of the Guardian, that constitutes the Offence, so that such Marriage having been to one of equal Degree and Fortune, can at most tend but to extenuate.

And it is observable, that the Disparagement of the Ward was not where such Ward without the Guardian's Consent married one of Inferior Degree, as a Villein, Citizen, or Burgefs, but where the Guardian himself married the Ward to one of Inferior Degree, for which see the Statute of Merton, cap. 6 & 7. 2 Inst. 89, 92.

Object. The Punishment of this Ravishment of Ward by Sequestration, or otherwise, would be fruitless, since the Marriage having been once solemnized and perfected, the same cannot be afterwards rescinded or dissolved.

Resp. The like Objection might be made, tho' the Marriage were ever so much to the Disparagement of the Ward; but in all these Cases the Reason of inflicting Punishments is for Example's Sake, and to deter others from the like Offence of Ravishment of Wards.

Object. This Marriage is by the Countess the Mother of the Infant Earl, who is Guardian by Nature and Nurture, and so cannot be guilty of a Ravishment of Ward.

Resp. The Right of a testamentary Guardian takes Place of a Guardianship by Nature; by the express Words of the Act of Parliament the Guardian by Will takes place of all other Guardians, and his Authority, by that Law, is a Continuation of the Paternal Authority.

Object. There is no Instance of any one Case, where a Complaint has been against an Infant's Mother, for taking away her own Child.

Resp. The Lords Selkirk and Orkney Guardians of the Infant Duke of Hamilton, petitioned against the Duchess of Hamilton for taking away the Infant Duke out of their Custody, and their Complaint was received; upon which the Court would have proceeded against the Mother, but the Guardians could not make out their Right of Guardianship, by Reason of some Defect in the Instrument under which they claimed.

So that all these Objections being answered, the Court are of Opinion, that the Sequestration against the Countess [Dowager] of Shaftsbury ought to be made absolute.

As to the Case of Lady Gainsborough, that seems to differ; and here the Question is, whether the Countess of Gainsborough's consenting that her Daughter should be married to the Infant Earl, be not a Contempt?

8 Edm. 3. pag. 52. The Case was, a Writ of Ravishment of Ward was brought against four Men and a Woman Woman, the Men took away the Ward, and the Woman, knowing that the four Men had taken away the Ward, married the Ward to her Daughter; upon which Hirle C. J. gave the Rule, that the Woman was equally guilty with the four Men, of the Ravishment of the Ward, the Marriage of the Infant, without the Consent of the Guardian, constituting the Offence; and tho' the Guardian be not appointed by the Court, nor any Commitment made by the Court of the Infant, yet have those been punished, who have married the Ward without the Consent of the Guardian, as appears from the above cited Case of Mrs. Hannes, where the Case was nothing more than that of marrying the Infant without the Consent of the testamentary Guardian, and the Decree was only for an Account of Sir Edward Hannes the Father's personal Estate, and for an Allowance of Maintenance for the Infant.

Whereas in the principal Case, the Decree goes something further, as it directs that the Will of the late Earl of Shaftsbury should be performed, Part of which Will is, that the Infant Earl should be under the Care and Guardianship of the Persons named therein.

In 3 Co. 38. (Ratcliff's Case) it was resolved, that every Ancestor, whether Male or Female, might bring an Action of Trespass or Ravishment of Ward, against any one for taking away his Heir apparent, Male or Female, and for marrying such Heir, and that it is not material, of what Age such Heir then was; and as the Ancestor might bring such Action for taking away and marrying the Heir, so also might the Guardian for taking away and marrying the Ward.

It does not appear, that the late Earl of Gainsborough left any Testamentary Guardians of his Children, so that as the Countess was Guardian of them by Nature, the Marriage of her Daughter belonged to her, consequently, it is to be presumed, that she married her Daughter to the Infant Earl, at least, if she did not, she may purge herself by Oath.

But it is material, that the Lord C. B. Eyre, the Guardian of the Infant Earl, has not in his Petition, made out any direct Charge, or prayed any Thing against the Countess of Gainsborough, and possibly, the Court may not be bound, ex officio, to punish for a Ravishment of Ward, where there is no Complaint.

This Court has the Care, but not the Guardianship of Infants, and the Lord C. B. Eyre is not a * Guardian appointed by the Court, but by the Will of the Father, in which Respect the Court is the less concerned.

* Vide the Case of Goodall ver. Harris, post.

And tho' the Stat. 12 Car. 2. c. 24. says, that a Testamentary Guardian may maintain an Action of Ravishment of Ward, if the Infant be taken from him, yet the Statute does not injoin him to do it, but refers the same to the Discretion of the Guardian.

So that in this Case, forasmuch as the Testamentary Guardian has not complained of, or prayed any Redress against Lady Gainsborough, the Court will do nothing against her, but discharge the Order of Sequestration with Respect to her.

And now we come to the Petition of the Infant Earl of Shaftsbury, where it is first objected, that tho' the Court might, upon a Petition, make a provisional Order for the taking Care of an Infant, yet that they ought not to make an Order determining the Right of Guardianship, unless the Matter be brought judicially before them, by Bill, Answer, and Proofs.

Resp. In this Case, here are a Bill and Answer, and both the Will, and the Devise of the Guardianship, are set out by the Bill, whereupon the Decree says, That the Trusts of the Will shall be performed, one of which said Trusts is the Guardianship of the Infant.

That Right, which the King has as Pater Patriæ, to take Care of his Subjects in Cases of Charities, Ideots, Lunaticks and Infants, falls under the Direction of the Court of Chancery, which in Consequence thereof hath used, upon Petition only, without any Bill or Decree, to make Orders touching the Determination of such Right.

It is not material that the Earl was defendant, for so it was in the Case of Mrs. Hannes, who was married to Mr. Willis, without the Consent of the Guardian; and this Court may, upon Petition only, without any Bill or Decree, make an Order to determine the Right of Guardianship, in Regard the Care of all Infants is lodged in the King as Pater Patriæ, and by the King this Care is delegated to his Court of Chancery.

In F. N. B. 232. the King is bound, of common Right, and by the Laws to defend his Subjects, their Goods and Chattels, Lands and Tenements, and by the Law of this Realm, every loyal Subject is taken to be within the King's Protection, for which Reason it is, that Ideots and Lunaticks, who are incapable to take Care of themselves, are provided for by the King as Pater Patriæ, and there is the same Reason to extend this Care to Infants.

This is the Reason given in the Writ de Ideotâ Inquirendo, which the King issues out to take Care of him, who Regimini sui ipsius, & bonorum, & terrarum suarum, minimè sufficit, which Reason also appears in the Writ de Lunatico Inquirendo, and in 4 Rep. (Beverley's Case) Infants, as well as Ideots, are said to be under the Care and Protection of the Crown, as Persons equally unable to take Care of themselves.

In like Manner, in the Case of Charity, the King, pro bono publico, has an original Right to superintend the Care thereof, so that, abstracted from the Statute of Eliz. relating to charitable Uses, and antecedent to it, as well as since, it has been every Day's Practice to file Informations in Chancery in the Attorney General's Name for the Establishment of Charities.

Also in the Case of (a) Berty and Lord Falkland, the Lord Sommers, in delivering his Opinion, takes Notice, that several Things are under the Care and Superintendency of the King, as he is Pater patriæ, and instances in all Charities, Ideots, Lunaticks and Infants. (a) 2 Vern. 333.

Indeed several Acts of Parliament have made Alterations in some Cases of this Nature, which so far stand altered, and no further; but unless there be express Words in an Act of Parliament for that Purpose, the original Jurisdiction of this Court remains as before; but there is not any one Act that has taken away the original Jurisdiction of this Court with Respect to this Care and Superintendency in the Case of Infants, Charities, Ideots and Lunaticks. Since the Statute which took away the Court of Wards, the Jurisdiction of Wardship (b) returns to the Court of Chancery; and it appears by the Register 21. b. 198. that a Writ may issue out of this Court to remove the Guardian of an Infant, and to put another Guardian in his Stead. (b) 2 Vern. ubi supra.

The Law is particularly favourable to, and careful of an Infant's Interest, and tho' the Infant himself cannot bring an Account against the Guardian, until his Tho' an Infant cannot bring an Account against his Guardian until his coming of Age, yet a third Person may bring such Bill for an Account, even during the Minority of the Infant.

his coming of Age, yet a third Person may bring a Bill for an Account against the Guardian, even during the Minority of the Infant.

So in all Decrees against Infants, even in the plainest Cases, a Day must be given them to shew (a) Cause when they come of Age.

Lord Sommers has often said, that this Court should be always open for Petitions; and Orders on Petitions, in regard to the Guardianship of Infants, have not only been provisional, but in some Cases decisive, as to the Right of Guardianship.

Thus in the Case of Lord Tenham and Barret, there was no Bill depending in this Court, but only a Petition, desiring that Lady Tenham the Mother, being a Papist, might not have the Guardianship of the Infant, and (b) determined on Petition against the Mother; upon which an Appeal was brought to the House of Lords, before whom it was never objected, nor once thought of, that this Court could not, on a Petition only, determine the Right of Guardianship; and on the Appeal the (c) Lords also determined the Right against the Mother.

1724.

Also in the Case of a testamentary Guardian, such Guardian having a plain legal Right upon the Words of the Will, and the whole Case arising thereon, there can be no need of a Bill in Equity, no Proofs of either Side are requisite, or can avail; and therefore the Matter is properly determinable upon a Petition without a Bill.

But

(a) Vide Vol. I. Fountain versus Caine & al<sup>s</sup>; where it appears that an Infant on his coming of Age, and before the Decree made absolute, may put in a new Answer. See also the Case of Sir John Napier versus Lady Effingham, post.

But in the last place it is objected, that upon the Wording of this Will, the Lord Chief Baron has no Right to the Guardianship, the same being devised to him and two others, without saying and to the Survivor of them, and that this is a joint personal Confidence wherewith three are intrusted, wherefore by the Death of any one, the Guardianship is determined; and to prove that a Guardianship is personal, it has been urged, that it is not assignable, nor will it go to Executors or Administrators.

Resp. I admit a Guardianship is not assignable, neither will it go to Executors or Administrators; but for all that, it is coupled with an Interest, and is not a naked Authority: I admit also it has been said, that where a naked Authority is given to two, if one dies, the Survivor cannot act; but the same Book, (viz.) 1 Inst. 112, 113. says, that where an Authority is coupled with an Interest, it does survive. In the Case of Gardiner and Sheldon, (Vaughan 182.) the Case of a Guardian is compared to that of an Executor or Administrator, which is not assignable, but yet survives; and tho' a Guardian be not in all Respects to be compared to an Executor, in regard the latter may continue his Executorship, by appointing an Executor by his Will, yet the Case of a Guardianship devised to two, is strictly like the Case of an (a) Administration granted to two, (especially where the Debts amount to as much as the Assets;) for in that Case, as well as in the Case of two Guardians, an Administrator cannot assign his Administratorship, it will not go

Vol. II.

I i

to

(a) See 2 Vern. 514. Adams versus Buckland, where on an Administration being granted to two, and one dying, it was held to survive to the other; and more particularly the Case of Hudson versus Hudson, 30 July 1735. where Lord Talbot determined accordingly on hearing Civilians.

to his Executors or Administrators, but to the surviving Administrator; such an Administrator is accountable to the Creditor for every Thing, as much as the Guardian is to the Infant; such an Administrator can make no Profit.

And that a Guardianship is coupled with an Interest is most apparent, in that a Guardian may bring an Action and avow in his own Name, may make (a) Leases during the Minority of the Infant, and may grant Copyholds (b) even in Reversion, as Dominus pro tempore.

(a) 2 Roll.
Abr. 41.
pl. 3.
(b) Ibid.

A Guardianship is not properly an Office, nor to be resembled (for Instance) to the Office of a Parkership; for the former has an Interest in the Infant's Estate; but a Parker has no Right or Interest in the Park, or Land inclosed therein, and the Owner of the Land may determine such Office by disparking the Park, or killing the Deer; and whereas in Pop. 204. it is said, that where the Lord Grey committed the Custody of his Son to four, and one of them died, the Authority determined; this Case is put upon the Clause of the Statute of 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. cap. 8. which says, " That whosoever takes a Damsel unmarried, and under the Age of sixteen, out of the Custody of their Father or Mother, or any such Person to whom the Father in his Life-time, or by his Will, or by any Act in his Life-time has appointed the same, shall be subject to the Pain of two Years Imprisonment, or to the Payment of such Fine as the Court shall appoint". So that by that Act, as to this special Purpose, the Father might by Will or Deed appoint the Custody of his Daughter, but such Appointee had not the like Interest as the Guardian has, he had but a bare Authority.

As to Auditor Curl's Case, that depended upon the Statute of the 32 H. 8. cap. 46. but in the principal Case, when the now Infant Earl was so very young as not to be above a Year old, and the Testator had appointed him three Guardians, it was hardly probable, that the Testator himself could imagine, that all those three Guardians should live until the Child's Age of twenty-one; and then to say, that the Guardianship shall determine by the Death of any one of the Guardians, would be to affirm, that the more Care the Father takes of the Child's Education, the less it shall profit the Child, because by the Death of any one of these Guardians the Child shall be without a Guardian, and the more of them were appointed by the Father, the less Likelyhood there would be that they all should live till the Child should arrive to twenty-one.

Lord Commissioner Gilbert was of the same Opinion with Lord Jekyll, observing further, that the Court of Chancery has an original Jurisdiction of the Right of Guardianship, and as formerly the Lord by Priority, (i. e.) that Lord of whose Manor the Lands which were first in the Family were held, had a Right to the Guardianship, so the Court of Chancery could determine touching that Priority.

And tho' Tenures in Chivalry be taken away, yet the Jurisdiction which the King had, as Pater patrie, remains.

It appears from Bracton, lib. 3. cap. 9. and Fleta cap. 2. and Stamford fo. 37. that the King is Protector of all his Subjects; that in Virtue of this high Trust, he is more particularly to take Care of those who are not able to take Care of themselves, consequently of Infants, who by Reason of their Nonage are under Incapacities ; from hence natural Allegiance arises, as a Debt of Gratitude, which can never be cancelled, tho' the Subject owing it goes out of the Kingdom, or swears Allegiance to another Prince.

It has been objected, that this is a Matter of Right, and must be determined by a Decree on Bill and Answer.

But possibly then it will be too late ; and when this Right depends upon the plain Words of a Will, why should the Infant be delayed, or put to the Charge of a Decree ?

This is an Authority coupled with an Interest, and no Pretence that the Guardians are obliged to act jointly. The Actions given by the Law plainly shew, that the Guardian has an Interest. The Remedies are, ist, Trespass if one takes away the Ward, and the Guardian has got Possession of him again, or if the Ward is still detained, then a Writ of Ravishment of Ward.

And as to the Objection, that the Guardian can make no Profit of his Guardianship, if this be for the Service of the Family, (as surely it is) why should it not be as valuable, as if the same could have been turned to his own Advantage ?

The Father may bring an Action against any Person for taking away his Heir, and so might any Ancestor against any Person, except against the Lord of whom the Lands were held in Chivalry, before such Tenure was wholly taken away.

The Case in Popb. was only, where the Parties having the Custody of the Infant given to them, were invested with a bare Authority for a particular Purpose, and so the Death of one of the Guardians determined this joint Authority; whereas the Statute of 12 Car. 2. (which was drawn by Lord Chief Justice Hale) gives the Guardian an Authority coupled with an Interest.

Such Testamentary Guardian takes Place of all other Guardians, and his Interest is for the Good and Honour of the Family; as the Father was the Head of the Family, so the Statute puts him in loco Patris.

Wherefore he agreed with Lord Jekyll in toto, as did also Lord Commissioner Raymond.

Attorney General versus Ruper.

Case 25.

At the Rolls.

ONE by Will gave 500*l.* to his Wife for Life, Remainder to the Parish Church of St. Helens, London, which is an Impropriation; upon this the Question was, whether the Vicar or Stipendiary of this Church, should be intitled to this 500*l.* after the Testator's Widow's Death, or whether it should go to the Church-Wardens for the Repairs and Improvements of the Church? -

One devises 500*l.* to the Church of St. Helens, this is good, and belongs to the Church-Wardens, and to be employed in the Repairing and Adorning the Church.

The Master of the Rolls took Time to consider of the Case, and afterwards pronounced his Decree, that this 500*l.* should not go to the Vicar or Stipendiary of the Church, but did belong to the Church-Wardens for the Reparations of the Church, and the Improving and Adorning the same.

Parson a Corporation for the Taking of Land for the Benefit of the Church, as the Church-Wardens are for Personal Things.

His Honour took Notice, that Money or Charity given for repairing a Church, is one of the Charities mentioned, preserved, and established, by the Stat. 43 Eliz. c. 4. That as on the one Hand the Parson of the Church is a Corporation for the Taking of Land for the Use and Benefit of the Church, and not capable of taking Goods, or any Personalty on that Behalf; so on the contrary, the Church-Wardens are a Corporation to take Money, or Goods, or other Personal Things for the Use of the Church, but are not enabled to take Lands.

That Goods given or bought for the Use of the Church are all Bona Ecclesiæ, for the Taking whereof the Church-Wardens may bring Trespafs, F. N. B. 91 K. and may bring Trespafs for the Taking of these Goods, as well in the Time of their Predecessors, as in their own Time.

Wherefore the Court decreed this 500 l. to be applied towards the Repairing and Adorning the Church.

Case 26.

At the Rolls.

BARON in Right of the Wife seised in Fee of a Share of the New River Water, Baron and Feme make a Mortgage by Way of Lease for 1000 Years by Deed without Fine, reserving a Pepper-Corn Rent.

Husband seised, in Right of his Wife, of a Share of the New River Water, the Wife cannot be barred sans Fine; and where they both without a Fine mortgage such Share, and the Wife after the Husband's Death pays Interest, this will not affirm the Mortgage.

The Baron died, upon which the Feme received the Profits, and paid the Interest; and now the Mortgagee brought this Bill to foreclose the Wife, insisting, 1st, That this Lease being not actually void, but only voidable by the Feme after the Baron's Death, and the Feme having, when discoverd, paid the Interest, the same amounted to an Election in her to affirm the Lease.

Or, 2dly, That if the Mortgage were not affirmed, yet the Decree of Foreclosure which was desired, would better the legal Title of the Mortgagee, and not prejudice the Feme.

Master

Master of the Rolls: A Fine may be (and usually is) levied of (a) New River Shares, by the Description of so much Land aqua coopert', and in this Case there ought to have been a Fine, it being the Inheritance of the Wife; if there had been a Rent reserved, the Acceptance of such Rent by the Wife, when discovert, would have affirmed the Lease; but here is no Acceptance, and the Lease is of an incorporeal Thing, out of which Rent could not well be reserved.

Wherefore the Lease expiring by the Death of the Husband, the Mortgage is also thereby determined, and nothing remaining to foreclose. And tho' the Court will not narrowly look into the Title, yet when all this is admitted on both Sides, and appears upon the Opening, why should I pronounce a vain Decree?

Dismiss the Bill, but without Costs.

Stoppage no Payment at Law, nor in Equity, unless under special Circumstances, and in Case of mutual Demands, where the Balance only is the Debt.

Robert Jeffs the Plaintiff's Father and Testator, having a Nephew the Defendant Wood, received him when an Infant, on his Father's Death, into his (the said Jeffs's) Family, and provided him with Cloaths, and sent him to School; after which he took him Apprentice in the Trade of a Wine Cooper, and as to all Expences of Cloaths, Learning, and Board, kept an Account in his Books; but after he became an Apprentice, then the Board was omitted in the Account.

Afterwards

(a) And wherever a Fine and Recovery are necessary for the Cutting off the Entail and Remainder of such Shares, in Regard the New River runs through three Counties, (viz.) Hertford, Middlesex and London, there must be three several Fines and Recoveries passed as to any of these Shares, (viz.) a Fine and Recovery in each County.

Then Jeffs the Father by his Will gave 500 l. to the Defendant his Nephew, and made his Son the Plaintiff Jeffs his Executor and residuary Legatee and died.

The Plaintiff Jeffs the Son gave the Defendant Wood Credit for Wine, and intrusted him to receive Monies; so that the Defendant Wood became further indebted to the Plaintiff.

On the Defendant Wood's suing the Plaintiff Jeffs the Executor, in the Spiritual Court, for this 500 l. Legacy, the Plaintiff Jeffs brought his Bill first against Wood, and he becoming a Bankrupt, against the Assignees under the Commission, to have an Allowance made him, out of the Legacy, for the Money which the Bankrupt the Legatee owed to the Testator, and likewise to the Plaintiff Jeffs; and on the other Hand the Assignees brought their Cross Bill against Jeffs for the Legacy.

Master of the Rolls: It is true, Stoppage is no Payment at Law, nor is it, of it self, a Payment in Equity, but then a very slender Agreement for discounting or allowing the one Debt out of the other, will make it a Payment, because this prevents Circuitry of Action and Multiplicity of Suits, which is not favoured in Law, much less in Equity.

But it may be a Doubt, whether an insolvent Person may in Equity recover against his Debtor, to whom he at the same Time owes a greater Sum; tho', I own, it is against Conscience that A. should be demanding a Debt against B. to whom he is indebted in a larger Sum, and would avoid paying it.

(a) Vide
1 Vern. 122.
2 Vern. 428.
Chan. 582.

However, it seems that the least Evidence (a) of an Agreement for a Stoppage will do; and in these Cases Equity will take hold of a very slight Thing to do both Parties right. And it is still more reasonable, that where the Matter of the mutual Demand is concerning the same Thing, there the Court should interpose, and make the Ballance only payable.

Now in the principal Case, the Defendant's the Legatee's Demand is in respect of the Testator's Assets, without which the Executor is not liable; and it is very just and equitable for the Executor to say, that the Defendant the Legatee has so much of the Assets already in his own Hands, and consequently is satisfied pro tanto; and forasmuch as it is probable the Spiritual Court will not allow of this Discount, therefore the Suit here is very proper, in order to have such an Allowance.

So that if the Legatee himself had brought the Bill for his Legacy, it had been very proper for the Executor to have insisted, that the Legatee owing so much to the Testator, and having already so much in his Hands of the Testator's Assets, was consequently paid so far.

In the present Case, the Assignees of the Commission of Bankruptcy against the Defendant Wood bring their Bill for the Legacy, and standing in the Place of the Legatee, can be in no better Case; and therefore, as the Legatee, had he brought his Bill for the Legacy, might have been told by the Executor, that having so much of the Assets in his Hands, he was consequently paid so much of his Legacy, surely the same Thing may now be insisted upon against the Assignees, who stand in the Place of, and represent the Legatee.

Then it was objected, that this Demand of the Defendant Wood, or of the Assignees, was not a Debt but a Legacy, and a Matter demandable in the Spiritual Court where it was sued for, till such Suit was stopped by Injunction; and that the Statutes of Bankrupts mention only Debts due from and to the Bankrupt.

But to this it was answered and resolved, that a Legacy due from an Executor who admits Assets, (as in the present Case) is in Equity a Debt due from such Executor, and an equitable Demand is a Debt within the Statutes of Bankrupts.

3<sup>dly</sup>, As to the Money or Goods lent or delivered to the Defendant Wood by the Plaintiff the Executor, this was held by the Court to be in Part of Payment, and that it must necessarily be so taken; otherwise the Plaintiff would have credited the Defendant Wood therewith; and by the same Reason that if the Legatee had sued in Equity, the Executor might have said and insisted, that the Plaintiff had received so much of the Legacy by Money and Goods, and that the Defendant was ready to pay the rest, so the Assignees claiming the Legacy could not be in a better Condition than the Legatee himself.

4<sup>thly</sup>, The Court took Notice, that it was not material that the Defendant was an Infant when the Cloaths and Education were provided for him by his Uncle; for an Infant may become indebted for these as well as a Person of full Age for Money lent; and the Testator's having kept an Account, as between Debtor and Creditor, of all these Charges, fully shewed they were not intended as Gifts but Loans.

5<sup>thly</sup>, That

5thly, That there could be no Pretence to say, because the Testator gave a Legacy of 500 l. to the Defendant Wood, therefore this was an Argument or Evidence, that the Testator intended to remit the former Debt; but if a Man gives a Legacy to his Creditor to the Amount of his Debt, this has been construed a Payment or (a) Satisfaction of the Debt, because a Man must be supposed to be just before he is bountiful.

Decree an Account, and let the Plaintiff pay only the Surplus, after having deducted what is due from the Legatee, as well to himself as to the Testator, but no Costs on either Side.

Carteret versus Carteret.

LADY Carteret, being seised in Fee of some Lands in Middlesex, Part of which were Freehold, and Part Copyhold, and having surrendered the Copyhold to the Use of her Will, devised all her said Freehold and Copyhold Lands to Trustees and their Heirs, to the Use of the eldest Son of Sir Charles Carteret for two Years next after her Death, and if the said eldest Son within these two Years should become a Protestant, then the Trustees were to stand seised to the Use of such eldest Son in Tail Male, and for Want of such Conformity, then to the Use of the second, and every other Son of the said Sir Charles Carteret being a Protestant, and to the Heirs Male of their Bodies being Protestants; and for Want of such Conformity in any of the Sons, or if they should die without Issue Male, then to the Use of the eldest Daughter of Sir Charles Carteret, being a Protestant, and the Heirs of her Body being Protestants, Remainder to the second, &c. Daughter of Sir Charles Carteret, being a Protestant in Tail, Remainder to the eldest Son of Sir Christopher Hale, who was afterwards Sir Edward Hale, and actually a Protestant and born of Protestant Parents.

Sir Charles Carteret had several Sons that were all Papists, and continued so, but his eldest Daughter being above the Age of eighteen Years and six Months did conform, and now brought her Bill against the Trustees, to compel them to join with her in suffering a common Recovery of the Premises.

1st Obj. The eldest Daughter being above the Age of eighteen and six Months, her Conformity afterwards is of no Avail, she being disabled by the Statute from Taking.

Cur'. No Estate or Right is to vest in any of the Sons or Daughters of Sir Charles Carteret until they conform, and become Protestants; their Conversion to the Protestant Religion is a Condition precedent to their taking the Estate, and the Act of the 11 & 12 W. 3. against Papists, does not affect this Case; for this Devise is not to a Papist, but on the contrary is exclusive of a Papist; and therefore if this eldest Daughter of Sir Charles Carteret be a sincere Convert to the Protestant Religion, she is intitled to take; but in Regard there may be some Doubt of the Sincerity of her Conversion, let it stand over.

Cestui que Trust in Tail brings a Bill against the Trustees, to the Intent they should join in a Recovery, this is not proper; but it is proper to pray, that the Trustees may convey the Premises to Cestui que Trust in Tail, who may then suffer a Recovery; tho' if the Trustees are also Trustees for any Annuity subsisting, they are not compellable to part with the legal Estate out of them to the Cestui que Trust in Tail.

2d Obj. The Plaintiff's Bill being to compel the Trustees to convey the legal Estate, in order to have a common Recovery suffered thereof, this is an idle Prayer; because the Devise, being to the Use of the first, &c. Son of Sir Charles Carteret, and so to the eldest Daughter of Sir Charles successively in Tail, is an Use executed; for a Devise to an Use is as much an Use executed, as any other Conveyance to an Use.

Cur': If this be a Doubt, it is reasonable that the Trustees should be decreed to convey; and if they have no legal Estate, it will not hurt them.

3d Obj. Supposing the Trustees have the legal Estate, yet the Bill prays, that they should join in a common Recovery, which is, in Effect, by compelling the Trustees to join in destroying all the Remainders created by the Will, to make them join in disappointing the Will.

Cur': So far the Bill seems proper, that as the Plaintiff has a Right to the Estate-tail in the Trust, so the Trustees should convey to the Plaintiff an Estate-tail in the Lands, and after the Plaintiff has gained this Estate-tail, none can prevent her from having a Power to suffer a Recovery of this Estate, it being incident to Tenant in Tail to suffer a Recovery; but the Devise being to Trustees to pay several Annuities out of the Estate to several of the Brothers and Sisters, if any of these Annuities are still subsisting, I do not think that, without the Consent of the Annuitants, the legal Estate can be forced out of the Trustees, they being Trustees, as well for the Annuitants with Regard to their Annuities, as for the Plaintiff in Respect to the Residue of the Profits of the Land.

But it being said, that the Brothers and Sisters of the Plaintiff, to whom these Annuities are given, are Papists, let the Master inquire what Age they were of at the Time of the Death of the Testatrix, and when these Annuities were to vest: If they shall appear to have been above the Age of eighteen Years and six Months, then the Devise to them is void; but (a) if they were so very young, as not to be above the Age of one, two, three or four Years, and consequently incapable of professing the Popish Religion, in such Case, they shall retain these Annuities until their Age of eighteen Years and six Months, from which Time the Annuities are to go to Protestant Kindred, until the Death or Conformity of the Annuitants; but if the Infants were thirteen or fourteen at the Time of the vesting of these Annuities, it is my Opinion, that then they might be looked upon as capable of professing the Popish Religion; and if in Fact they did profess the same, they were thereby incapable of taking, and the Devise to them of their Annuities was void.

(a) See the Case of Hill and Filkin, ante.

An Infant under the Age of eighteen, professing the Popish Religion, cannot take a real Estate; secus if so young as not to be able to chuse or understand any Religion.

Also the Court said, that such Brothers or Sisters could not release their Right to any Intail given them by the Will; forasmuch as without a Fine they could not bar their Issue.

Harris versus Bishop of Lincoln.

Case 29.

Lord Macclesfield.

TALBOT Barker being seised in Fee of a real Estate as Heir on the Part of his Mother's Mother, and being also seised in Fee of a very small Estate of 4 l.

One seised in Fee as Heir of the Mother's Mother, devises the Land to Trustees in Fee, in Trust to pay several Annuities, and the Residue to go to the Testator's right Heirs of his Mother's Side for ever; the Heir of the Mother's Mother's Side intituled to the Estate and Surplus of the Profits after the Annuities paid.

4*l. per Annum*, as Heir to his own Father, devises all these Lands to Trustees and their Heirs, in Trust to pay several Annuities and Charities; after Payment of which, he devises the Residue of the Rents and Profits of the Premises to his own right Heirs of his Mother's Side for ever; and the Question was, who should be intitled to the Residue of the Rents and Profits, whether the Heir of the Mother's Father, or the Heir of the Mother's Mother?

1*st*, It was insisted, that parol Proof should be read as explanatory of the Testator's Intention.

To which it was answered, that tho' parol Proof might be in some Cases allowed as to personal Estate, as was done in the Case of Fane versus Fane (a), yet in the Case of Land, where the Statute requires that the Will should be in Writing, there ought not to be any Parol Proof; and therefore in the Case of Strode versus Lady Russel & al' (b) where the Devise was of Lands out of Settlement, the House of Peers would not allow any Parol Proof, for that the Title of the Devise must depend upon the Words of the Will, otherwise no Counsel that should see the Will, would be able to give Advice thereon.

III. fol. 90.

Heir of the Mother's Mother's Side, or the Heir of the Mother's Father's Side.

But Lord Chancellor said, that the Reason of this was, because the Settlement should be produced; without the producing of which, the Lands were to be presumed free from any Settlement; and tho' Fane's Case was only of a personal Estate, yet the same being above the Value of what one might by Parol dispose of (for it was a great Personal Estate) it seemed within the Reason of a Devise of Land.

However, that in this Case Parol Evidence of what the Testator said, or directed, when he ordered the Will to be made, might be admitted, as where one having two Sons, (a) both named John, devised Land to his Son John, there parol Proof was admitted to shew which Son John the Testator meant, and yet additio probat minoritatem; so if there were two Persons both named J. S. of Dale, and I should devise my Land to J. S. of Dale, parol Evidence would be admitted, in such Case, to prove which J. S. of Dale was intended by me; and for the same Reason, in the principal Case, there being two Heirs of the Mother's Side, (viz.) one who was Heir of the Mother's Father, and the other Heir of the Mother's Mother, the Court might well admit parol Evidence to shew which Heir of the Mother's Side was intended.

Upon which two Witnesses were read, proving, that at the Time of making the Will, the Testator declared the Heir of his Mother's Mother should have his Estate, because it came from thence.

Then it was objected, that if the Will should be construed in such Manner as to intitle the Heir of the Mother's Mother to the Estate, such Will would be void and nugatory, and the Testator, all this while, would be doing of nothing, because, without any Will, the Premises would go to the Heir of the Mother's Mother, who was the Heir at Law to this Estate, the Heir of the Mother's Father having none of the Blood of the first Purchaser (b).

To which the Court said, that the Testator giving by his Will several Annuities and Charities, and then saying, that the Residue of the Profits should go to the right Heirs of the Mother's Side, it was the same Thing as if he had said, " So far I dispose of my Estate, and let so much of it go from my Heir, who otherwise would have had it; but I will not

Vol. II. N n " dispose “ dispose of it any further from the Heirs at Law “ of the Mother’s Side whence it came, and where “ it would go, in case I should not give it a “ way”.

Also there might be Reason to use these Words; and they are not nugatory, because otherwise the Trustees might be intitled; it is true, if I devise Lands to Trustees to pay Debts, or devise a Term for Years to pay Debts, here being a Devise for a particular Purpose, when such Purpose is answered, the Devisee shall be but a Trustee for the Heir at Law, and the Term shall be attendant on the Heir at Law who has the Inheritance; but the present Case differs, as the Devise is only of Annuities and Charities, without any particular Words expressing the Devisees to be Trustees only; so that the Devisees, had it not been for these latter Words, might themselves, and in their own Right, have been intitled to the Premises.

Obj. The express Devise, Gift or Declaration, that the Premises should go to the Heirs of the Mother’s Side, is a special Declaration of an Use, and like the Case in Hobart 31. where a Man seized of Land as Heir of the Mother’s Side, makes a Feoffment without a Consideration, and declares expressly the Use to be to himself and his Heirs; and there it is said, that the express Declaration of the Use carries it to the Heirs of the Father’s Side; whereas had the Feoffor been silent, and left the Use to result by Implication, it had been the old Use, and would have gone to the Heir of the Mother’s Side.

But Lord Chancellor denied this Case in Hob. to be Law; saying, that the contrary had been determined in 3 Lev. 406. Godbolt versus Freeftone, and in Salk. 591. Abbot versus Burton, in both which Cases it was solemnly adjudged, that the Use, whether expressly declared by the Feoffor, or permitted to arise by Implication, was the same Thing, and would go to the Mother's Side.

One seized in Fee as Heir of the Mother's Side, levies a Fine, and declares the Use thereof to himself in Fee; this is the old Use, and no Diversity one implied.

betwixt an express Declaration of an Use, and

But (as his Lordship observed) here was very little to be said for the Heir of the Mother's Father, who in this Case was neither the Heir General (for the Heir General must be Heir of the Father's Side, and not of the Mother's Father) nor the Heir quoad hoc, (viz.) as to these Lands; for the Heir as to these Lands was the Heir of the Mother's Mother, from whom they descended; so that the Heir of the Mother's Father was neither Heir simpliciter, nor quoad hoc, to the Party that last died seized, (viz.) to this Talbot Barker.

From all which it seemed to be a clear Case, without laying any great Strefs upon parol Proofs; and tho', it being a Matter of Law, his Lordship said, he would not deny sending it to the Judges, if insisted upon, yet he himself had no Doubt about it.

But it being insisted upon, that this was a bare Trust, and therefore not properly determinable by the Judges, with Regard to the Question, in whom the legal Estate was vested? the Court took upon themselves to determine it, and decreed in Favour of the Heir of the Mother's Mother's Side, from whom the Estate came.

In

In the last Place, it was made a Question, to whom the Land of the Value of 4 l. per Ann. which came by the Father's Side, should go?

With Regard to which it was said, that the Will directing that the Residue of the Rents and Profits should go to the right Heirs of the Testator's Mother's side, it was thereby intended they should all go together, and not to different Persons; that the same Words could not operate several Ways, and intitle different Persons to different Parts of the Estate.

Yet Lord Chancellor was of Opinion, that the same Words might be taken (a) distributively; (viz.) That the Lands which came by the Mother's Mother, should return to the Heirs of the Mother's Mother; and on the other Hand, that the Lands which descended from the Father, should return to the Heirs of the Father, in the same Manner, as if there had been no Disposition made thereof, and they had been left to descend; at least so far was clear, that this small Estate of 4 l. per Annum, which came to the Testator as Heir to his Father, must contribute in Proportion to the Charities and Annuities.

Forth versus Chapman,
Vol. I.

But this last mentioned Estate being of so small Value, the Counsel did not insist upon having the Opinion of the Court about it, nor was the Heir general of the Testator a Party to the Suit.

Beaumont versus Fell.

Case 30.

At the Rolls.

ONE by Will devised a Legacy of 500 l. to Catharine Earnley; the Person's Name who claimed this Legacy was Gertrude Yardley; and it was insisted by her, and admitted, that no Person named Catharine Earnley claimed this Legacy; but by the Proof it appeared, that the Testator's Voice, when he made his Will, was very low and hardly intelligible; that the Testator usually called the Legatee of this 500 l. Gatty, which the Scrivener, who took Instructions for drawing the Will, might easily mistake for Katy, and that the said Scrivener not well understanding who this Legatee of the 500 l. was, or what was her Name, the Testator directed him to J. S. and his Wife to inform him further, who afterwards declared that Gertrude Yardley was the Person intended.

Legatee's both Christian and Surnames mistaken, yet the Legacy good

It was moreover proved, that the Testator in his Life-time had declared, that he would do well for her by his Will.

Obj. The Statute of Frauds requires, that a Will of a personal Estate above such a Value should be in Writing; and a Will in Writing giving a Legacy to Catharine Earnley, cannot be a Writing to intitle Gertrude Yardley to this Legacy, for that both the Christian and Surname are intirely different; and by the same Reason it may be maintained, that a Legacy given to A. B. is a good Legacy to C. D.

Upon this Case the Master of the Rolls took Time to consider and give his Resolution, at the first Hearing inclining that the Legacy was void.

But afterwards, at another Day, his Honour gave his Opinion, that the Legacy was a good Legacy to Gertrude Yardley, tho' the same was given by the Will to Catharine Earnley.

It is true, if this had been a Grant, nay, had it been a Devise of Land, it had been void, by Reason of the Mistake both of the Christian and Surname.

In 1 Inst. 3. a. it appears, that special Care ought to be taken of the Name of Baptism, because (as it is said there) a Man cannot have two Names of Baptism; tho' in the same Place it is allowed, that in some Cases the Mistake of a Christian Name may be helped; as if a Grant or Devise be to William Earl of Pembroke, or William Bishop of Salisbury, and his Name be John, it is in such Case good, there being a sufficient Certainty without the Christian Name, for that there can be but one Person Earl of Pembroke or Bishop of Salisbury; wherefore the mistaken Christian Name shall be rejected as Surplusage.

And in the principal Case 'tis alledged to be much worse, neither the Christian or Surname being right, nor any Addition of Certainty to help it, and by the Common Law, as well as by the Statute, the Devise of Land ought to be in Writing; and there would have been no Writing to intitle Gertrude Yardley, had this been a Devise of Land.

However, this being a Bequest of a personal Thing, a Chattel Interest, makes it a different Case, and as, originally, a Bequest of a Legacy was governed by, and construed according to the Rules of the Civil Canon Law, so shall it be after Making the Statute of Frauds, provided there be a Will in Writing.

Now here is a Will in Writing, and the Claim in the present Case is founded upon it; in Swinburn 389. it appears, that where a Man intends to give a Legacy to J. S. and he gives the same to J. N. there neither J. S. or J. N. shall take the Legacy, forasmuch as J. N. is not the Person intended, and J. S. is not the Person named; but (says the Book) if the Testator does err in the Name, and not in the Person, such Error shall not hurt.

Now, in the principal Case, the Name, and not the Person is mistaken; and it is very material, that here is no such Person as Catharine Earnley claiming this Legacy, which, together with the Proofs of the Testator's having a very low Voice, when he made the Will, and of his having usually called the Plaintiff Gatty instead of Gertrude, and often declared he would do well for her, is sufficient to intitle the Plaintiff to this Legacy.

Case 31.

At the Rolls.Norton versus Turvill.

Feme Covert having a separate Estate borrows Money and gives a Bond; the Bond not void; nor if six Years pass, barr'd by the Statute of Limitations.

A Feme Covert before her Marriage, with the Consent of her then intended Husband, conveyed an Estate to her separate Use, and after her Marriage she borrowed 25 l. upon her Bond; ten Years afterwards she made her Will, thereby giving several specific Legacies, and made A. and B. Executors; on her Death her Husband possessed himself of Monies which she left, to the Amount of 24 l. after which the Obligee in the Bond brought a Bill against the Executors and the Husband; and one of the Executors confessed Assets; but the Husband insisted upon the Statute of Limitations.

1st, Objected for the Husband, that the Bond given by his Wife is void, and not like a Bond given by an Infant, which is voidable only; but a Feme Covert may plead Non est factum, the Bond as to her being merely void; and if so, then the Matter rests only upon the Loan of this Money to the Feme Covert, which Demand is barred by the Statute of Limitations; and tho' the Statute be not pleaded, but only insisted upon upon by the Answer, yet the same Advantage ought to be made thereof, as if pleaded.

2dly, It was insisted, that one of the Executors having in this Case confessed Assets, the Plaintiff, at least in the first Place, ought to proceed against him.

Master of the Rolls: It is true, that the Bond given by the Feme Covert is merely void, and in that Respect differs from a Bond given by an Infant, which is only voidable.

It is likewise true, that the Defendant insisting upon the Benefit of the Statute of Limitations by Way of Answer, shall, at the Hearing, have the like Benefit of the Statute, as if he had pleaded it.

But in this Case, all the separate Estate of the Feme Covert was a Trust-Estate for Payment of Debts, and a Trust (a) is not within the Statute of Limitations.

(a) Post

of Strafford.

From whence it seems as if the Plaintiff ought to be at Liberty to prosecute all the Defendants, in order to be paid out of the separate Estate left by the Feme Covert, to which Purpose such Part of the separate Estate, as is undisposed of by the Will, ought to be first applied; in the next Place, if that be not sufficient, the Creditors are to be paid out of any Money-Legacies given by the Feme Covert; and lastly, supposing there is still a Deficiency, all the specific Legatees ought to contribute in Proportion.

Neither can it be material, so as to excuse the other Defendants, that one of the Executors of the Feme Covert has admitted Assets; for he might admit Assets, and yet have none, nor any Estate of his own. And it would not be reasonable, that this should prevent the Plaintiff the Creditor from prosecuting the other Executor, or the Husband, who may have possessed themselves of Part of the separate Estate, and ought to be responsible.

For which Reasons, let all the Executors account for what they respectively have in their Hands of the Feme Covert's Personal Estate, or the Produce thereof, and let the same be liable in the Order aforesaid, reserving Costs.

Case 32.

Lady Whetstone versus Sts. Bury.

At the Rolls.

On a Marriage-Settlement Lands were conveyed to Trustees and their Heirs, to the Use of the Trustees and their Heirs, to the Use of the Husband for

THERE was a Settlement before Marriage, by Lease and Release to Trustees and their Heirs, to the Use of them and their Heirs, to the Use of the Husband for Life, Remainder to the Use of Trustees and their Heirs, during the Life of the Husband, to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to the Use of the Wife for Life, Remainder to the Use of the first, &c. Son of the Marriage in Tail Male.

Life, Remainder to the Use of the Wife for Life, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of the Marriage. These Limitations to the Husband for Life, &c. are Trusts only, and not Uses, and when the Husband and Wife levied a Fine to a Mortgagee to raise Money, tho' the Fine would have been a Forfeiture of the Wife's Estate for her Life, had she had the legal Estate, against which Equity would not relieve; yet decreed, that a Trust-Estate was not forfeited by a Fine.

There was Issue a Son by the Marriage.

The Husband concealed the Settlement, and together with his Wife, by Deed and Fine, mortgaged the Premises in Fee to the Plaintiff, the Son being at that Time an Infant.

On the Husband's Death, the Mortgagee brought a Bill against the Wife and the Son (who was then come of Age) praying, that the Premises mortgaged might be sold, and the Plaintiff the Mortgagee relieved against the Forfeiture created by the Fine, in which the Wife joined, and thereby (as was alledged) had forfeited her Estate for Life.

The Son pleaded the Settlement, by which he was a Purchaser of the Remainder in Tail, in Consideration of his Mother's Marriage and Portion, and insisted, that by the Fine without his Concurrence his Mother had forfeited her Estate for Life; and this being a Forfeiture at Law, Equity ought not to relieve.

The Plea was argued and allowed, and on Motion to dissolve the Injunction, Lord Chancellor said, that his Opinion must be well enough known in this Case, his Lordship having refused Relief, even in the Case where a Copyholder (a) made a Lease of his Copyhold beyond what the Custom would allow, and the Lord had entered for a Forfeiture.

(a) See the Case of Sir H. Peachy versus D. of Somerset, Precedents in Chancery 568.

But the Cause coming on to be heard before the Master of the Rolls, his Honour observed, that the Use and legal Estate were vested in the Trustees, and the Limitations to the Husband, Wife and Sons, were but Trusts, and a Trust for Life was not forfeited by a Fine; wherefore this Plea was false, not being warranted by the Settlement.

However, notwithstanding it was proved, that the Son, after he came of Age, had said, he would see the Mortgage paid, for that the Money had been advanced for for the Benefit of the Family: In Regard there was no Evidence in Writing of this, and it appeared to have been said voluntarily, but especially, forasmuch as the Defendant the Son was an Infant at the Time when this Money was lent, all the Court would do, was, to decree that the Plaintiff the Mortgagee should hold and enjoy the mortgaged Premisses, during the Life of the Wife.

Case 33.

Ewer versus Corbet.

At the Rolls.

One possessed of a Term devised it to A. and makes

ONE possessed of a Term for Years, devised it to A. and died indebted, having made B. his Executor.

B. his Executor, and leaves some Debts. If the Executor sells the Term, the Purchaser shall hold it against the Devisee. Secus if sold at an under Value, or if the Purchaser knew there were no Debts, or that the Debts were or could be paid, without breaking in upon this specific Legacy.

The Executor sold the Term, upon which the Devisee of the Term brought a Bill against the Purchaser, insisting, that the Term being devised to the Plaintiff, the Executor was but a Trustee for him, and that the Purchaser must have Notice of this Trust, the Term having been bought of the Executor, and consequently must be taken subject to the Trust.

Master of the Rolls: I remember it to have been once ruled, that an Executor could not make a good Title to a Term to a Purchaser, and that was in the

444. where it appears that a Mortgage made of a Term by an Executor, was by this Court held to be good, and that a residuary or specific Legatee had only their Remedy against the Executor: But that Decree was, on Appeal, reversed by the House of Lords.

But since that, I take it to have been resolved, and with great Reason, that an Executor, where there are Debts, may sell a Term, and the Devisee of the Term has no other Remedy, but against the Executor, to recover the Value thereof, if there be sufficient Assets for the Payment of Debts.

As for the Notice of the Will, and of the Devise of the Term to a third Person, that is nothing; for every Person buying of an Executor, where he is named Executor, must, of Necessity, have Notice, so that if Notice were to be an Hindrance, then, of Consequence, no Executor might sell.

It is not reasonable to put every Purchaser of a Lease from an Executor, to take an Account of the Testator's Debts; nor has he any Means to discover them.

On the contrary, as the whole personal Estate of the Testator is liable to the Debts, this Lease must (inter alia) of Necessity be liable, and therefore may be sold by the Executor.

If Equity were otherwise, it would be a great Hindrance to the Payment of Debts and Legacies; and would lay an Embargo upon all Personal Estates in the Hands of Executors and Administrators; which would be attended with great Inconveniencies.

I admit, if an Executor should sell a Term for an under Value, or to one who has Notice that there are no Debts, or that all the Debts are paid, this might be another Consideration: But there being no such Ingredient in the present Case, Dismiss the Bill. See the following Case.

Case 34.

At the Rolls.

Vide supra.

Burting versus Stonard.

A Freeman of London possessed of several Leasehold Houses, among other personal Estate, by Will made in 1699. devised one Third of all his personal Estate to his Wife, another Third to his Child, and his own testamentary Third to his Wife for Life, Remainder to such of his Children as should be living at his Wife's Death, and having left his Wife Executrix, appointed J. S. Overseer of the Will, giving him 10*l.* for his Care in seeing the Will performed.

Soon after the Testator died, and his Wife sold all the Leasehold Houses to J. S. the Overseer of the Will.

In 1709. the Wife died, upon which the Plaintiff, who was the only Child living at the Death of her Mother, brought her Bill to have the Benefit of the Term.

And for the Plaintiff it was insisted, that this differed from the former Case, in regard the Purchaser here was the Overseer of the Will, and had a Legacy given him for his Care in seeing the Will performed; that he had inventoried and appraised the Estate, by which he must have been sensible, that the Debts were much less than the personal Estate came to, and consequently it was a Breach of Trust in the Purchaser.

That if the Purchaser of a Lease knows the Debts to be all paid, or that they can be all paid, without the Sale of these specific Legacies, he ought not to take Advantage of such a Purchase; and as to the Length of Time, that was taken off, by the Widow's living to 1709.

Upon which the Master of the Rolls took the Inventory in his Hand, and casting up the Particulars, found thereby, that the Debts could not be paid without the Sale of Part of the Leasehold Houses, and therefore dismissed the Bill.

But the Court said, this Case was not so strong as the last preceding Case, because here nothing specific, nor any particular Lease was devised to the Children, as in the former Case, but only a third Part of his personal Estate in general.

Uvedale versus Halfpenny.

Case 35.

At the Rolls.

IN a Settlement the Lands were limited to the Husband for Life, Remainder, as to Part, to the Wife for Life, Remainder of the whole, to the first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder to Trustees for 500 Years, to raise Portions for younger Sons and Daughters of the Marriage; and the Trust of the Term was declared to be, to secure Maintenances for the younger Sons and Daughters from the Husband's Death, and to pay the Portions of the younger Sons at twenty-one, and of the Daughters at twenty-one or Marriage, which should first happen.

In a Marriage-Settlement, a Term for Years for securing younger Children's Portions is, by Mistake, made subsequent to the Estate-tail limited to the Sons; this helped in Equity.

There was also a Covenant to surrender Copyhold Lands to Trustees, in Trust by Rents, Issues and Profits, to raise the said Portions for the younger Sons and Daughters of the Marriage, at such Times and Ages as aforesaid, and as an additional Security for the same.

A Bill was brought to rectify the Mistake in the Settlement, in placing the Term after the Limitation
in

in Tail to the Sons; whereas the Term should have come in before such Limitation in Tail.

The Husband was dead leaving several Daughters, one of whom was married to the Plaintiff Uvedale; and the eldest Son, as to such Part of the Premises of which he was Tenant in Tail in Possession, had suffered a Common Recovery.

Objected for the Defendant: What is asked by the Bill is, that the Court should make a new and different Settlement, which it is not in the Power of the Court to do, especially, in this Case, where there is a competent Provision for the Daughters and younger Children out of the Copyhold Estate; and if the Term should take place before the Limitation to the Sons, it would greatly Distress the eldest Son and Heir.

Master of the Rolls: I would not destroy the Settlement, but set it right, according to the Intention and Agreement of the Parties; and by the Declaration of the Trust of the Term, the Intention and Agreement of the Parties manifestly appears to be, that the Land should be charged with the Payment of Portions for the younger Sons and Daughters at certain Ages, (viz.) for the Sons at twenty-one, and for the Daughters at twenty-one or Marriage, and Maintenance to begin from the Death of the Husband; and this appearing, I do not regard the Placing of the Term, but will help the Mistake, which would otherwise prevent the Agreement of the Parties from taking Effect; and this I am the rather induced to do, as it is in the Case of a Settlement made pursuant to Articles before Marriage, so that the younger Children and Daughters are as much Purchasers of their Portions, as the eldest Son of his Estate-tail limited to him by the Settlement.

Besides, younger Children, as to their Provisions, tho' by a Will, are looked upon in Nature of Creditors; and the Agreement being to charge the Land with Portions payable at certain and the usual Times, with Maintenance from the Husband's Death, until the Portions should become payable; it is very plain, that Equity will charge the Land according to the Intention and Agreement of the Parties, and will effectuate the same; nor is it reasonable to say, that the Provision by the Copyhold shall be all that the younger Children are to have, when by the express Words of the Settlement, the Surrender of the Copyhold is intended but as an additional Security, and to come in Aid only of the Freehold Estate.

It is a further Demonstration that the Limitation in Tail to the first, &c. Son, previous to the Term for making Provisions for younger Sons, &c. is a Mistake, because the Remainder in Tail to the younger Sons must be spent, before the Portions for these very younger Sons can take place.

And in regard the Wife, who is the Mother of these younger Children, consents to the raising of the Portions, let her (if she agrees thereto) make a conditional Surrender of her Estate for Life, to be void on Non-payment of 40,000 l. in six Months; and let a new Term be raised for 500 Years, for securing the Maintenance and Portions as they become due.

And since the Recovery, as to Part of the Lands, has already barred the Limitations in Tail, with regard to those Lands, (subsequent to the Term for 500 Years,) let the Remainder in Fee be limited to the eldest Son.

But with Respect to the Lands in Jointure, of which no Recovery has been as yet suffered, let there be a new Settlement made thereof to the Sons in Tail, subsequent to the Term of 500 Years for raising the Portions.

The Costs to go out of the Estate.

Case 36. Colt & al' versus Woollaston and Arnold.

At the Rolls.

Bill in Equity lies to recover back Money paid on a Bubble.

THE Plaintiffs brought their Bill to be repaid the two several Sums of 120 l. and 120 l. which they had paid to the Defendants, as Managers and Projectors of a Bubble, called the Land Security and Oil Patent.

The Defendant Woollaston had (it seems) invented a Project for extracting Oil out of English Radishes, and got a Patent for the sole Exercise of this Invention; and having bought an Estate for 31,800 l. called Sutton Marsh in Lincolnshire, formerly the Estate of Lady Cornbury, which was then in Mortgage for 28,000 l.

In June 1720, this Woollaston made publick this Project and assigned his Oil Patent to the Defendant Arnold, in Trust for all the Contributors towards the Project, which he divided into five Thousand Shares, valuing every Share at 20 l. in order to raise 100,000 l.

And as an Encouragement and Security for all the Contributors, Woollaston conveyed his Purchase of Sutton Marsh to the Defendant Arnold and his Heirs, in Trust, in the first Place, to pay off the two Mortgages, being 28,000 l. and afterwards to pay to himself (the said Woollaston) 57,200 l. in all 85,200 l. and as to the Surplus which the Estate would raise, it was to be for the Benefit of the Contributors; the Project or Bubble was to be called the Land Security and Oil Patent, and was represented by the Defendants to be a most advantageous Project without any Hazard, there being Land Security given for the Benefit of the Contributors.

The Plaintiffs paid in to the Defendant Arnold the several Sums of 120 l. and 120 l. for six Shares a-piece, for which Arnold gave them Receipts, and the Projectors sold about 1000 Tickets amounting to 20,000 l.

In August 1720 the Project failed, no Oil having ever been made, or Radishes sowed on the Premises.

Whereupon the Contributors, with some Repentment, called upon the Projectors for their Money, which occasioned the Projectors to advertise, that in six Months Time, they would return the Money with Interest; but afterwards this was refused.

Insisted for the Defendants, that the Plaintiffs being acquainted with this Security as to the Lands, they ought to resort thither; that there could be no Imposition in this Case, because the Parties had Notice; and the extracting Oil out of Radishes having had the Sanction of a Patent, could not be thought a Cheat; and as to the Advertisements, it was pretended they were gained by Threatnings; and that the Parties, admitting they were aggrieved, had their Remedy at Law.

Master

Master of the Rolls: This is an Imposition, to propose the Surplus of the Value of an Estate which cost but 31,800 l. (after 85,000 l. charged upon it, which is much more than double the Value) as a Security to the Contributors who laid out their Money upon this Project; it is giving them Moonshine instead of any Thing real, and the Proof is very slight, whereas it ought to have been extremely strong; it is hard to believe, that any Person would consent to be so imposed upon. And what makes it worse is, that this great Sum of 57,200 l. is reserved to the Defendant the Projector himself.

The Gaining the Patent can be no Sanction to the Cheat, because the Patent does not secure the Patentee, if it is not a new Invention, but others may use the same, or if it be not the first Patent, the Patentee is not secure from an Action; and Patents of new Inventions, as well as Grants of other Things, may be obtained by Surprise and false Suggestions.

If this were a Fraud against any private or single Person, a Court of Equity would relieve; a fortiori, where it is a Fraud against great Numbers, against Multitudes, where the Mischief is more extensive, and many Families thereby ruined.

All Frauds cognizable in Equity as well as at Law.

(a) Post Stent versus Bailis, and Stephenton v. Gardiner.

It is no Objection, that the Parties have their Remedy at Law, and may bring an Action for Monies had and received for the Plaintiffs own Use; for in Cases of (a) Fraud, the Court of Equity has a concurrent Jurisdiction with the Common Law, Matter of Fraud being the great Subject of Relief here.

Accordingly Cafes of this Nature have frequently met with Relief in this Court, as in Aaron Hill's Cafe, which was a Patent for extracting Oil out of Beech, which was also divided into Shares, (as this is) and a Security propofed and agreed to be made of Lands, which came out to be Terra incognita betwixt the Degrees of Latitude 50 and 57; and in the principal Cafe, the Land, after the 85,000*l.* paid, feems be worth as little as Aaron Hill's.

And as to the Pretence of gaining the Advertisements by Force, the Contributors were angry, and had Reason to be fo, and one of the Contributors (tho' it does not appear to have been either of the Plaintiffs) threatened to cut the Defendants Throats; but this all ended in an Arrest of one of the Defendants, which was a lawful Proceeding, and after all thefe Threatnings were over, the laft Advertisement was given out by the Defendants on the 19th of September 1720.

Further, It is juft that the Defendant Arnold, as well as the Defendant Woollaston, fhould be charged; for as Woollaston was the firft Projector and Procurer of the Patent, and Purchafer of the Land, fo Arnold was his Truftee, accepted the Conveyance, was the Treafurer, received the Money, and gave the Receipts, was Partner in the Fraud, and plainly particeps criminis.

Therefore decree both the Defendants to pay back to the Plaintiffs their Principal, Interest and Cofts.

Note; the fame Decree was made in the Cafe of Spackman verfus Woollaston, which was the next Cafe in the Paper, of the fame Nature, againft the fame Defendants, and on the fame Project.

Case 37.

Rachfield versus Careless.(Before Mr. Justice Powis, in the Absence of my Lord Chancellor.)

One by Will gives his Executor 5 l. for his Care in performing the Will, and makes no Disposition of the Surplus; but

MARY Smallman, possessed of some personal Estate, by Will gave to her nearest Relations 5 l. a-piece, and made the Defendant Careless, who was not related to her, sole Executor, giving him 5 l. for his Care in fulfilling her Will, and made no Disposition of the Surplus, and died.

parol Proof made of the Intention and Direction of the Testator to the Scrivener, that the Executor should have the Surplus; yet the Surplus decreed to the next of Kin.

There was some flight Proof for the next of Kin, who now sued for the Surplus of the personal Estate; as that the Testatrix had declared her Intentions were, to give the Surplus of her Personal Estate to her next of Kin, in the same Manner as her Husband had disposed of the Surplus of his personal Estate to his next of Kin.

But the Person who drew the Will swore, that the Testatrix, at the Time of the making thereof, declared her Intention to be, that if she left any Surplus, her Executor, who had been her very good Friend, should have it; for that her Relations had been ungrateful to her; and this Person swore, that the Testatrix had directed him to give the Surplus to her Executor, and that he would accordingly have done this by express Words, but that he thought it would be unnecessary, the Law implying as much.

For the Plaintiffs it was argued, that here was an express Legacy given to the Executor, which implied

he should have no more ; that it plainly imported a Negative, otherwise the Executor would have all and some ; and that it was still stronger, by the Legacy's being given to the Executor expressly, for his Care in fulfilling the Will, which was a Declaration of a Trust in the very Words of the Will, and tantamount to calling him Executor in Trust ; that the Cases of Littlebury versus Buckley, and Lady Granville versus Duchess of Beaufort, were not so strong, (viz.) in those Wills, the Legacies were not given to the Executors for their Care and Pains.

And lastly, that in the Case of May versus Lewin <sup>(a)</sup>, Lord Chancellor Parker had decreed in Favour of the next of Kin, purely on Account of the Legacy's being given to the Executors for their Trouble in the Execution of the Will.

1720.

On the other Side it was said, that the Evidence of the Scrivener who drew the Will was very strong, proving, that the Testatrix, at the Time when her Will was made, declared her Executor, and not her Relations, should have the Surplus ; that these parol Declarations had been always admitted for Evidence, when they were agreeable to the Disposition made by the Law in such Cases, and only rebutted and barred a Trust, which, as the next of Kin pretended, resulted for their Benefit ; and Mr. Talbot observed, that in the Case of Ball and Smith, the Legacy of Plate to the Wife who was made Executrix, was construed not to bar her of the Surplus, merely from a Presumption that the Husband had a greater Kindness for his Wife, than to leave her little more than a troublesome Executorship ; a fortiori, where there was Evidence of the Testator's express Declaration, that his Executor, and not his next of Kin, should have the Surplus, he should be intitled thereto ; that the Case of Littlebury and Buckley, as also that of the Duchefs of Beaufort, were Decrees in Point, in the Higheft Court of Juftice, which had been followed by many others, particularly that of Heron verſus Newton, decreed laſt Term by the Maſter of the Rolls, where, tho' a Legacy was given to the Executor, who was no Relation, yet was the Surplus alſo decreed to him, upon Proof read of the Teſtator's Intention that it ſhould be ſo.

Mr. Juſtice Powis: The Opinion of the Great Seal has been various and uncertain in this Point; but I do not like parol Evidence of the Intention, and here we have parol Evidence on both Sides; however, the Words of the Will ſeem to declare a Truſt, by giving the 5 l. Legacy to the Executor for his Care in fulfilling the Will; and this goes beyond all parol Proof; ſo that my Thoughts at preſent are, that the next of Kin are intitled to the Surplus; but forasmuch as this has been determined different Ways, I would take further Time to conſider of it, and to look into Precedents.

On the 2 July 1722. Mr. Juſtice Powis ſat again to give his Opinion; he ſaid, this had been vexata Quaſtio, Chancellors having differed about it from the Houſe of Lords, and alſo from one another; he took Notice, what various Turns the firſt Caſe, (viz.) that of Fofter and Munt had met with; how Lord Jefferys had decreed in it for the next of Kin, after which his Decree was reverſed by the Lords Commiſſioners, and their Decree reverſed by the Houſe of Lords; ſo in the Caſe of the Duchefs of (a) Beaufort, and that of (b) Littlebury verſus Buckley, the Decrees in Favour of the next of Kin were, on parol Proof, reverſed above.

I

But

(a) Decreed by Lord Cowper, in Feb. 1709. Revers'd by the Lords in the Decemb. following. (b) Decreed in the Mayor's Court by Sir Peter King, Recorder, in April 1711. and Revers'd by the Lords in the May following.

But in the principal Case, he said, there were Words in the Will declaring the Executor to be but a Trustee; 5*l.* being given him for his Care in fulfilling the Will, which would amount to a Declaration of the Trust; especially considering it is a fundamental Rule in a Court of Equity, that an Executor is but a Trustee, and on his dying Intestate, so much of the Testator's personal Estate, as remains unadministered, must go to the Testator's next of Kin, (viz.) to the Administrator de bonis non, &c. and not to the Administrator of the Executor; that if a Man marries an Executrix, and she dies Intestate, the Testator's personal Estate must go to the Administrator de bonis non, and not to the Husband; that Mr. Harcourt married Lady Astry, who was Executrix to Sir Samuel Astry, and when she died Intestate, Sir Samuel's personal Estate which remained unadministered, was determined to go to Lady Astry's next of Kin, and not to Mr. Harcourt the Husband; that a Plaintiff Executor pays no Costs; but this not by any express Words of the Statute (a), but only by an equitable Construction thereof, because what he recovers, is not for himself, but in Trust for his Testator; he did not deny, but that where there was an express Legacy given to the Executor, and no further Words, nothing given for his Care and Pains, parol Evidence might, in such Case, be admitted of the Testator's Intention; but this was not to be minded, where Words followed declaring a Trust, as where the Legacy appeared to be given to him for his Care in fulfilling his Will; that if Money were to be granted or devised for the doing of any Thing, this, in Equity, would create a Trust, and here the Legacy was given to the Executor for his Care, &c.

8. cap. 15.

That indeed here was the Evidence of the Person who drew the Will, tending to prove that the Surplus was designed for the Executor, which nevertheless was contradicted by Evidence on the other Side; however, less Regard ought to be had to Evidence of this Kind, in Cases of Wills, than of Deeds, it being very usual for many, under such Circumstances, to play the Volpone, and to speak what they do not really intend, to get every one's Favour.

That in the Case of May versus Lewin, where there was 50 l. a-piece given to the two Executors for their Trouble, (in which Case there was also some parol Proof of the Testator's Intention in Favour of the Executors, but not clear,) Lord Parker decreed a Distribution, which was an Authority in Point, and being the latest, was the greatest Authority, because it must be supposed to have been adjudged after Consideration had of all the former Decrees; besides, that the Defendant, in the principal Case, was made Executor in the same Clause which gave him the Legacy, whereby it should seem, that the Legacy was annexed to the Executorship, as all the Reward intended for it.

Reserve Costs till after the Account taken, but decree a Distribution amongst the next of Kin.

Case 38.

Hall versus Hoddesdon.

At the Rolls.

Bill to perpetuate the Testimony of a Will, if brought to hearing, to be dismissed with Costs.

THIS Bill was brought by a Devisee of Land, to perpetuate the Testimony of a Will, and to establish the Will; and upon opening thereof, the Master of the Rolls dismissed the Bill with Costs; declaring that this Cause being only for perpetuating the Testimony, ought not to have been set down for hearing.

And upon Mr. Mead's praying, on Behalf of the Plaintiff, that the Dismission might be without Prejudice to the Plaintiff's making use of the Depositions,

His Honour replied, there was no need of this, because the Plaintiff would at Law have the Benefit of these Depositions, tho' the Bill were dismissed.

One by Will gives an Annuity out of his personal Estate; if the Executor has misbehaved

It happened that J. N. the Executor had said some rash Words, as "that he would go to Gaol, and leave the Legatees unpaid;" and tho' the Annuity was by the Will made payable quarterly, yet it was three Years in Arrear.

Insisted, 1st, for the Annuitant, That these Arrears should carry Interest.

Sed Cur' cont': This is only done, where there are great Arrears; but it is not usual to compute Interest for so small a Sum.

2<sup>dly</sup>, It was prayed, that the Executor should give Security for the Payment of the Annuity.

To which it was answered, that the Testator not ordering any Security, but wholly trusting to the Executor, the Legatee of the Annuity must do so too.

Sed

Sed per Cur': Since the Executor has by his Answer submitted it to the Court, whether he should give any Security, and appears to have expressed himself in Words threatening to defeat the Annuity, let the Master see a sufficient Part of the personal Estate set apart and assigned to a Trustee, in Trust to secure the Annuity.

500 l. in a

Goldsmith's Hands on his Note, and afterwards orders Part out again, and then devises the 500 l. in the Goldsmith's Hands to J. S. this good for the whole 500 l. Secus if the Testator had, after the making the Will, drawn out Part of this Money, for this had been an Ademption pro tanto.

THE Testator gave to the Plaintiff his Sister Susanna Crockat the Sum of 550 l. which was then in Mr. Ellis's Hands, and made the said Mr. Ellis Executor in Trust for the said Testator's Brother, and died soon after the making of the Will.

It seems the Testator, before making of the Will, had left in Mr. Ellis's Hands 550 l. for which Mr. Ellis had given a Note to the Testator, payable to him or Order, and the Testator had, before the Making the Will, drawn some Bills on Ellis, ordering him to pay several small Sums of Money, which, in all, had reduced the 550 l. to 430 l.

But the Testator had left in Mr. Ellis's Hands an Exchequer Order, for the Payment of 36 l. per Annum to the Testator for thirty two Years, and left Assets for the Payment of all his Legacies, including the whole Legacy of 550 l. to his Sister Susanna.

Insisted, the Plaintiff Susanna Crockat shall have no more than 430 l. of her Legacy of 550 l. there being no more than 430 l. left in Mr. Ellis's Hands.

Where a Testator by his Will gives a Legacy of 500 l. which is in the Hands of J. S. and after the making of the Will calls it in, or orders J. S. to pay to himself or others, Part of the Money; which is accordingly done; this is an Ademption of such Part of the Legacy; and the Diversity is, where the Party who had the Money pays it in of his own Choice, and uncalled for, and where the Testator himself (a) calls for it in; for it must be the Testator's own Act, and not the Act of a third Person, which is to revoke his Will.

But in the principal Case, these Payments out of the 550 l. in the Hands of Mr. Ellis having been all ordered by the Testator before the making of his Will, this cannot be said to be an Ademption of the Legacy, but is an express Indication of the Testator's Intention, that as the Note for the full Sum of 550 l. was still standing out, notwithstanding he had ordered the Payment in of Part of the Note, yet he renounced all those Payments, and willed that the whole 550 l. should be the Legacy which he gave to his Sister Susanna.

But I take it, that the 550 l. Legacy shall not be made good out of the Exchequer Order for the thirty-two Years Annuity, the Legacy given being a Legacy of 550 l. in Money.

Let the Plaintiff have the whole 550 l. Note, and Interest from the Time of filing the Bill.

(a) But the Diversity between a voluntary and compulsory Payment, seems not to have been approved of by Lord Macclesfield, since the latter might be with an Intent to secure the Legacy in all Events. See the Case of Earl of Thomond versus Earl of Suffolk, ante Vol. I. 561. See also the Case of Ford versus Fleming, decreed by Lord Chancellor King, Trin. 1728. Abr. of Eq. 302. & post.

Case 41. Trenchard and Ippsey versus Wanley.

A Goldsmith, without any Orders from the Proprietors, subscribed Lottery Orders into the South-Sea, indemnified by the Act of Parliament.

THE Plaintiff Mrs. Ippsey, the Sister of the other Plaintiff Trenchard, had Money in the Hands of the Defendant Wanley the Goldsmith, for which she had the said Wanley's Note.

The Plaintiff Trenchard, by his Letter to the Defendant Wanley, ordered him to invest the Money in Lottery Orders, but did not direct in whose Name those Lottery Orders should be taken.

Accordingly the Defendant Wanley did invest the Money in Lottery Orders, and took them in his own Name; afterwards Wanley subscribed the Orders into the South-Sea, with other Orders of his own, and of his Customers, amounting to a considerable Sum, of the same Specie, but did not give Notice that he had made this Subscription, until two Months afterwards.

Upon this the Plaintiffs brought their Bill for Relief, (viz.) in order to compel the Defendant to procure for them Lottery Orders, to the Amount of those which the Defendant, without their Consent, had subscribed into the South-Sea.

And for the Plaintiffs it was insisted, that the Defendant had made himself a Trustee for them without any Authority from them: And after he had thus made himself their Trustee without their Consent, he then subscribed their Orders into the South-Sea, and by concealing so long from them what he had done, he thereby shewed his Intention, that if the Subscription had been profitable, then the Orders subscribed were to have been his; if unprofitable, then they were to be placed to the Plaintiffs Account.

Master of the Rolls: The Rule of Law as to Fraud is also a good Rule in Equity, (viz.) that Fraud is never to be presumed; but it is true, that may be a Fraud in Equity, which is not so at Law.

The Confusion and Hurry that Goldsmiths and other People were then in, may account for the Defendant the Goldsmith's not giving Notice sooner of his having subscribed those Orders into the South-Sea; and it may with the same Force be retorted against the Plaintiffs, as the Reason, why they did not come sooner to the Defendant to demand the Orders, or forbid the subscribing them into the South-Sea; tho' I think that by the Words of the Act of (a) Parliament empowering all Trustees, Guardians, Executors and Administrators, to subscribe Lottery Orders into the South-Sea, tho' the Cestui que Trust had in this Case expressly forbid the Trustee to subscribe, yet by Virtue of the express Authority given to Trustees, &c. to subscribe, (in which Authority given by Parliament the Consent of every Proprietor and Cestui que Trust is included, notwithstanding such Prohibition as aforesaid,) the Subscription would be good, and the Trustees justified; and it would be a very unjust Thing in the Parliament, if it were to be construed, that the Act had made the Subscription good, and yet left the Trustee liable to be sued; and to be answerable for the same to the Cestui que Trust.

23.

But the principal Case does not go so far, here being no Prohibition from the Cestui que Trust.

The

The Occasion of the Defendant the Goldsmith's buying the Orders in his own Name might be, because he was always in the Way to accept them, and there was no Direction from the Plaintiffs to buy the Orders in any other Name; and by the same Reason, that the Plaintiffs trusted the Defendant with the Money, they might likewise intrust him with the Taking of the Orders in his own Name.

Then from the Time of the Defendant the Goldsmith's taking the Orders in his own Name, he became a Trustee, and being a Trustee, the Act of Parliament alone, without any Authority from the Party, impowered him to make this Subscription. And the Case is the stronger, in that the Defendant subscribed other Orders of his own, as well as those that belonged to the Plaintiffs; and it would be enough for the Defendant who dealt for the Plaintiffs as for himself, and acted for him as he did for himself, to bear his own Loss, without having the additional Loss of the Plaintiffs also put upon him.

It is to be taken, as the general Sense of the Nation took it at the Time when the Subscriptions were made, (viz.) that this was a beneficial Thing, as is evident from those Lottery Orders, that were subscribed, selling for more than Lottery Orders unsubscribed. So that nothing but Fraud in this Case of subscribing Lottery Orders, &c. can make the Trustee answerable to his Cestui que Trust.

Besides, the subsequent Statute of 7 Geo. 1. cap. 1. sect. 3. very much strengthens the Case, "By giving

Which Words were intended to bind down the Proprietors of any redeemable Subscription, and to give them a Recompence for their being bound down; and as it bound down the Trustees, so likewise did it conclude the Cestui que Trust.

And this Act of Parliament intended to quiet all Matters.

Also his Honour laid great Stress upon a Decree which he himself had made about a Year since, when he sat at Westminster for the Lord Chancellor, in the Cause of Bluck versus Nichols, and which he said was not so strong for the Defendant as the principal Case; for there Lottery Tickets payable to the Bearer, and which were left with the Banker or Goldsmith only for safe Custody, were subscribed by him into the South-Sea; upon which the Proprietor, who left them with him, brought a Bill against the said Goldsmith; and his Honour dismissed the Bill: For that it was a hard Case, that the Goldsmith who was but a Trustee should suffer for doing what was then thought to be for the best; and if the Plaintiff was wronged, he was at Liberty to take his Remedy at Law.

Which Decree the Court had the greater Regard to, forasmuch as the Parties acquiesced under it, and brought no Appeal.

But the principal Case the Master of the Rolls thought much stronger, and therefore dismissed the Bill with Coſts, (viz.) that with Reſpect to the Defendant, both the Plaintiffs ſhould be liable, and therefore the Diſmiſſion ſhould be general, as to both of them; but that if the Plaintiff Trenchard thought it worth his while to apply, the Court would, on Petition, order that the other Plaintiff the Ceſtui que Truſt ſhould pay all the Coſts.*

Alſo a parcel Direction for the Payment of it, ſeems to be good. So if the Money is ordered or deviſed to be laid out in Lands, and ſettled to the Uſe of A. in Tail, Remainder to to a third Perſon. Alſo tho' by a voluntary Contract Money is agreed to be laid out in Lands, the Court will execute ſuch Agreement in Favour of the Heir.

As to the 10,000 l. it was agreed by all the Parties, that the ſame ſhould be laid out in Land, and ſettled in like Manner as the Manor of Kensington had been ſettled, and in the mean Time, until ſuch Purchase could be found, the 10,000 l. was to be placed out upon Securities, and the Intereſt ariſing therefrom, to go and be paid to ſuch Perſons as ſhould be intituled to the Rents and Profits of the Manor of Kensington.

This

This Edward Lord Warwick died, leaving Issue by the Countess Charlotte, one Son, (viz.) Edward-Henry, the last Lord Warwick, who being thus intitled to the Manor of Kensington in Tail, Remainder to himself in Fee, levied a Fine of the said Manor to the Use of himself in Fee, and soon afterwards died without Issue, and intestate; upon whose Death the Manor of Kensington descended to the Plaintiff Lady Elizabeth Edwards, Wife of the Plaintiff Mr. Edwards, who, as she was become intitled to the Manor of Kensington in Possession in Fee, now brought her Bill to have the Mortgage, upon which the 10,000*l.* had been placed out, assigned to her.

This was opposed by the Defendant the Countess Dowager of Warwick, who insisted, that she was intitled to the same, as Administratrix of the last Earl her Son, and that this 10,000*l.* being as yet in itself Money, ought, by the Statute of Distribution, to be divided betwixt herself, as the Mother of the Intestate, and his half Sister Mrs. Charlotte Addison; and for this Purpose it was argued, 1st, That all the Ends and Views of the Settlement, (viz.) the Provision for the Issue of that Marriage, being determined by there being no Issue left of the Marriage, and in Regard this was in Fact Money, a Court of Equity, whose Assistance was necessary to realize it, would not, now the Husband was dead without Issue, turn this Money into Land, in Favour of an Heir, who was not within the View of the Settlement.

2<sup>dly</sup>, That this Money thus agreed to be laid out, was not, in all Respects, to be taken as Land; for it might be devised as Money, by a Will not attested by three Witnesses; also, if the last Earl of Warwick had granted or devised it, by the Description of the Ten thousand thousand Pounds agreed by his Father to be laid out in Land, it would have passed by such Description; it could not be denied but the last Earl might, if he had pleased, have so disposed of it.

3<sup>dly</sup>, That as to the Settlement of the Remainder of the Kensington Estate to the right Heirs of Earl Edward the Father, the same was a mere voluntary Limitation, as was also the Agreement, that the Money should be laid out in Land, and settled in like Manner; and then it was no more, than if one, without any Consideration, should covenant to lay out Money in the Purchase of Lands, to the Use of himself in Fee; which being a mere voluntary Contract, Equity would not compel the Execution thereof.

4<sup>thly</sup>, That it was unreasonable for this Court to interpose to take the Money from the Mother and the half Sister, in order to give it to a remoter Relation; on the contrary the Mother, who had the legal Interest of this Mortgage, on which the Money was lent, ought to be assisted, at least not deprived of it, by a Court of Equity.

5<sup>thly</sup>, That if the last Lord Warwick had applied to the Court to be paid the Money, he would have obtained an Order for that Purpose. Nay, though he had not levied the Fine, but had continued Tenant in Tail, Remainder to himself in Fee, and had desired the Money, the Court would have ordered it to him, as had been done in the like Cases (a); (which Lord Chancellor admitted,) in regard the last Lord had both the Estate-tail and the immediate Remainder to himself in Fee; so that a Fine without a Recovery would have barred the Estate-tail and Remainder, and a Fine might be levied at any Time, as well in Vacation, as in Term.

(a) See the Case of Short and Wood, Vol. I.

And laſtly, It was urged, that the laſt Earl of Warwick having levied a Fine of the Manor of Kenſington, to the Uſe of himſelf and his Heirs, this had extinguished the Limitations in Tail created by the Settlement, and had, as it were, put the Settlement out of the Caſe; and as the Settlement, as to the Manor of Kenſington was out of the Caſe, ſo the Trusts of the 10,000 l. which were to attend the Settlement of the Manor of Kenſington, were at an End alſo.

For all which Reaſons it was infiſted, that the Plaintiff, tho' intituled to the Manor of Kenſington, had not, however, any Right to the 10,000 l. or to compel the laying out of this Money in Land.

Lord Chancellor: If there had been ſo much as a parol Direction from the laſt Lord Warwick, for the Payment of this 10,000 l. to his Mother the Counteſs Dowager, I ſhould have had a Regard to it; being of Opinion, that it was in the Election of the laſt Earl to have made this Money, or to have diſpoſed of it as Money.

As to the late Earl's levying a Fine of the Manor of Kenſington, that is immaterial; for he had as good a Power before the Fine, to diſpoſe of the ſaid Manor, or of the 10,000 l. in Money, againſt all but his Iſſue, as he had after the Fine; and Iſſue he never had.

To ſay, that this Fine, as it comprized the Manor of Kenſington, ſo did it alſo the Trusts of this 10,000 l. (tho' it ſeems abſurd to talk of levying a Fine of Money) will do the Defendant no Service; nay, if admitted, it would make againſt her; becauſe by the Deed of Uſes the Uſe of the Fine is declared to be to the Conuſor and his Heirs, and consequently would intitle the Plaintiff the Lady Betty Edwards to this Money.

But when I admit that the last Lord Warwick had an Election to make this 10,000 l. Money, still I conceive he must do something to determine such Election, which he has not done in the present Case; and then, in a Court of Equity, the Heir is ever preferred (a) to an Administrator.

(a) See the Case of Lingen versus Sowray, Vol. I.

This appears by the common Case, that if a Man dies indebted by Bond, in which he has bound himself and his Heirs, and leaves real and personal Assets, of each enough to pay the Bond, and the Obligee, as he has an Election to come upon the real Assets, does accordingly sue the Heir, and recovers the Debt against the Heir, yet the Heir shall recover back the Money against the Executor out of the personal Estate.

As to the Objection, that the Plaintiff claims under a voluntary Limitation, it has been held, (b) that the Consideration for the precedent Limitations in a Marriage Settlement, has been applied even to the subsequent ones; as where, in Consideration of a Marriage, and Portion, Land has been settled on the Husband for Life, and then to the Wife for Life, Remainder to the Children, with Remainder to a Brother, these Considerations have extended to the Brother; and the Reason is, because it may be very well intended, that the Husband, or his Parents, would not have come into this Settlement, unless all the Parties thereto had agreed to the Limitation to the Brother.

(b) See the Case of Ofgood versus Strade, post.

But admitting that the Limitation of the Remainder in Fee was voluntary, yet this will not alter the Case; because because I take it to be clear, that if I voluntarily, and without any Consideration, covenant to lay out Money in a Purchase of Land, to be settled on me and my Heirs, this Court will compel the Execution of such Contract, tho' merely voluntary; for in all Cases, where it is a measuring Cast betwixt an Executor and an Heir, the latter shall, in Equity, have the Preference.

Tho' all the Interest due upon this Mortgage at the Time of the Death of the last Earl, must go to the Countess of Warwick, as his Administratrix.

And (as I understood his Lordship) tho' the last Earl died in a broken Part of the Half Year, this Interest should (he said) not be taken as (a) Rent, but should be apportioned, and a Proportion thereof go to his Administratrix.

But as to all the Interest due since the Death of the late Earl, the same was decreed to belong to the Plaintiff the Lady Betty Edwards, the Heir.

And on these Terms, the Security for the 10,000*l.* was ordered to be assigned to the Plaintiff the Lady Betty Edwards, and no Costs on either Side.

Afterwards, on an Appeal brought by the Countess of Warwick, this Decree was affirmed in the House of Lords.

(a) Equity does not apportion Rent in Point of Time, any more than the Law; vide ante Vol. I. Jenner versus Morgan. See also where the Court apportioned Maintenance-Money, in the Case of Hey versus Palmer, post.

Earl of Suffolk versus Howard.

Case 44.

Lord Mac-
clesfield.

THE late Earl of Suffolk and Bindon, having no Issue, but having two Brothers, (viz.) the present Earl, and the Defendant Charles Howard who had a Son, and conceiving his next Brother the present Earl to be extravagant, the late Earl cut off the Entail by a Recovery, and by Deed and Will settled the Estate on his Brother the Defendant Charles Howard, for Life, with Remainder to his first Son (then in Being) for Life, with Remainder to Trustees to preserve the contingent Remainders, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of that first Son in Tail Male, charging the Estate only with 100 l. per Annum Annuity to his next Brother the present Earl, and died without Issue.

A Peer dit-inherited by his Ancestor is intitled to the Favour of the Court, and on Bill and Answer, to have the Family Deeds brought before the Master, in Order to see whether any Thing can be discovered for his Advantage.

The present Earl brought a Bill to discover the Defendant's Title, setting forth the old Entail, under which he was Heir Male; and praying that the Writings might be produced, and that the Arrears of the Annuity might be paid him.

The Defendant shewed by Answer, that the late Earl had by Deed inrolled made a Tenant to the Præcipe, and had suffered a Recovery to the Use of himself in Fee, and afterwards made a Settlement as above; that as to the pretended Arrears of the Annuity, he had paid the Plaintiff the present Earl, more than those Arrears came to, by about 12 l. and tho' he had taken no Receipt for them, he intended those Payments in Part of the Annuity.

And on a Motion to be paid the Arrears of the Annuity, and to have all the Writings produced before the Master,

Lord Chancellor : This is a hard Case ; Equity even for younger Children, supplies the Want of a Surrender of a Copyhold, and puts them on a Level with Creditors, taking it to be a Debt by Nature from a Father to provide for all his Children, as well the youngest as the eldest,

But is it not a stronger Case, where the King has bestowed an Honour on a Family, whereby the Heir of the Honour is Consiliarius natus, and sits as a Judge in the highest Court, the House of Lords? Surely it is incumbent on the Ancestor to leave some Provision for the Maintenance of the Honour, and looks like Want of Gratitude to the Crown, (from whence this Honour did arise,) to leave it naked, especially where the Ancestor had a great Estate in his Power, and has given it from the Earldom, leaving such a Trifle as only 100 l. a Year to the present Earl.

Ingratitude
Crown for a Peer to devise away the Estate from the Honour.

Therefore more ought to be done in this Case for the Plaintiff than in a common Case; here is no Purchaser, and there seems no Necessity to bring the Cause to a Hearing; for that would be only putting both Sides to great Charges, which would be still harder on the Earl, as he is so little able to bear it.

Let the Defendant bring before the * Master all Deeds and Writings, and let the Plaintiff the present
I Earl,

* In the Case of Sir Edward Bettison versus Farrington & al<sup>s</sup>, about Hill. 1735, where the Plaintiff claimed by Virtue of a Remainder in Tail expectant on an Estate-Tail, and was Heir Male of the Family, and the Defendants were Sisters, and the Heirs General of the Tenant in Tail, and by their Answer shewed that their Brother, the Tenant in Tail, had suffered a Recovery, and declared the Use to himself in Fee, referring to the Deed in their Custody; Lord Talbot, before the Hearing, ordered the Defendants to leave with their Clerk in Court the Deeds making the Tenant to the Præcipe, and declaring the Uses of the Recovery.

Earl, either by himself or Agents, have the Inspection of them, that if any Thing has slipped the Conveyance, or if the Entail be not well docked, he may have the Benefit thereof.

And the Answer not being positive, as to the Payment of the Arrears of the Annuity, or that the Payments which were made to the Plaintiff, were in Part of the Annuity, (it being only said that the Defendant intended them so, which Intention none could know, since he did not then declare it,) and because the Defendant has not taken or insisted upon any Receipts from the present Earl, and the late Earl has been dead two Years, let the Defendant pay the Plaintiff 200 l. being two Years Arrears of the Annuity, subject to the Order of the Court.

Ravenhill versus Dansley.

clesfield.

UPON the Marriage of William Dansley with the Daughter of Sir Francis Russel, there was a Term of 500 Years limited to Trustees, to raise Portions for Daughters, in case of no Issue Male by the Marriage.

A reversionary Term raised for securing Maintenance and Portions for Daughters, shall, in Cases of Necessity, be mortgaged to pay either, and when fallen into Possession shall pay all the Arrears of Maintenance incurred before it came into Possession.

The Trust of the Term was to raise two thousand Pounds a-piece for the Daughters of the Marriage, payable at their Ages of eighteen, with Maintenance-Money at the Rate of 40 l. per Annum to each Daughter from the Deaths of their Father and of Sir Francis Russell their Grandfather by the Mother's Side, until their Portions should become payable.

The

The Husband William Dansey died, leaving two Daughters, one eight and the other nine Years old; the Term did not commence in Possession until the Death of the Father-in-Law of this William Dansey, which happened sometime afterwards.

The Trust of the Term was to raise the Portions by Sale, Mortgage, or Profits; but the Trust to raise the Maintenance was by Rents and Profits, so that there was a Difference in the Deed, between the Manner of raising the Portions, and that of raising the Maintenance.

Whereupon it was objected, that the Maintenance should not begin until the 500 Years Term commenced in Possession, at which Time only the same could be raised by Rents and annual Profits.

(a) Vide
Vol. I. Pierpoint
Lord Cheyne.

Lord Chancellor: It is (a) against my Opinion to raise a Portion or Maintenance by selling a reversionary Term, and this under Colour of the Word [Profits]; but it has been ruled before my Time, that Profits shall extend to any Advantage which shall be made of the Land by Sale or Mortgage, as well as Rents; especially in Cases of Necessity, and when the Daughter has had no other Maintenance, it has been decreed to be raised by a Mortgage of a reversionary Interest of a Term.

But the present Case is much stronger; for here the Trust-Term for raising this Maintenance and Portion is come into Possession, so that, at present, the Maintenance-Money may be raised out of the annual Profits; it is like a Rent granted out of a Reversion to commence presently, in which Case, tho' the Reversion does not fall into Possession until many Years after, yet when it does fall, it shall answer all the Arrears.

So let the Arrears of the Maintenance-Money from the Time the same became payable by the Settlement, be raised out of this Term.

Then it was objected, that the Daughters had another Provision by the Will of their Father, and also by Descent from him.

But Lord Chancellor held this not to be material, as long as by the Settlement there was no other Provision, except this Maintenance-Money until the Portion should become payable, and any Matter subsequent to the Settlement ought not in Justice to vary the Construction thereof.

Vide Vol. I. the Case of Sandys versus Sandys.

Craven versus Wright.

IF the Plaintiff refers the Answer for Scandal and Impertinence, and the Master finds the Answer neither scandalous nor impertinent, the Plaintiff on excepting to the Master's Report, must in his Exceptions shew wherein, in what Line or Page, and how far, the Answer is scandalous or impertinent, in order that such Part of the said Answer may be expunged by the Master, and it is not sufficient in the Exceptions to say in general, that the Answer is scandalous and impertinent.

Case 46.

Lord Macclesfield.

On an Answer's being reported not scandalous or impertinent, if the Plaintiff except to the Report, he must shew specially wherein it is scandalous or impertinent.

It seems to be a stronger Case, where Exceptions are taken to an Answer for Insufficiency, and the Master reports it sufficient, that the Plaintiff in his Exceptions to the Master's Report, should shew wherein the Answer is insufficient.

Also if a Bill or Answer be referred for Scandal, and reported by the Master to be scandalous; if the Master has once expunged this Scandal, the Party cannot then except to the Report, because when the Scandal is expunged, it cannot be made appear by the Record what that Scandal was, and it was the Party's own Fault, that he did not except to the Report sooner.

Beckley versus Newland.

THE Plaintiff Simon Beckley, and Sir George Newland, married two Sisters who were Cousins and presumptive Heirs of Mr. Turgis a very rich Man; and Beckley and Newland had been for many Years Partners in the Business of a Scrivener; and Mr. Turgis had made and revoked several Wills, but at length made a Will in Favour of Sir George Newland, whereby he left a great real and personal Estate to Sir George, but gave only a small real Estate to Mr. Beckley.

Before the Execution of this Will, the Plaintiff Beckley and Sir George Newland entered into Articles, whereby they agreed, that whatsoever should be given to either of them, should be equally divided.

And the Words of the Articles were plain as to the equal Division of the personal Estate of Turgis, which should be given by the Will to either Beckley, or Sir George Newland; but as to the real Estate, the Words of the Articles were doubtful, and seem'd rather not to extend thereto; however, the Plaintiff Beckley brought a Bill against the Executors of Sir George Newland, for an Account of the real and personal Estate which came to Newland by Turgis's Will.

Obj. These Articles are unfair, and not to be encouraged, (viz.) to agree to divide a Man's Estate, while the Man is living, and to share that in which the Parties at the Time of making the Agreement, had no Manner of Right, and possibly might never have; and it is to disappoint the Will of the Testator, who, in all Probability, would have given nothing to either of the Parties to this Agreement, in case he could have foreseen that his Disposition should be frustrated as soon as ever he should die, nay, in his Life-time was agreed to be divided.

Lord Chancellor: A Performance of these Articles ought to be decreed, tho' there was no other Consideration for them, than the mutual Benefit of the Chance; the Agreement to share, &c. is not disappointing the Intent of the Testator, for he did not design to put it out of either of the Devisees Power to dispose of the Estate after it should come to him; but on the contrary, where the Testator gave it to either of them, he by Implication gave that Person a Power to dispose of the said Estate when it should come to him.

And it seems to have some Weight, that if there had been no such Agreement for the Sharing of the said Turgis's Estate, yet by Law in Right of their Wives, (who were Heirs presumptive to the said Turgis) these Persons would have come in for equal Shares; and to covenant to do that which the Law would of itself have done had the Party died Intestate, cannot be unreasonable,

unreasonable, for that would be to say, that the Law itself is unreasonable, or unjust.

Suppose there were two Daughters, and the Father should leave almost all the Estate to the eldest, and nothing or very little, to the youngest; if there should be such an Agreement as in the principal Case, surely it would have been no more than what every one would have wished for; tho' I am far from grounding my Decree only upon this Circumstance.

As to the Articles for sharing the Land, if it could be proved, that after entering into them Sir George Newland had procured the Testator to devise any Lands to some third Person in Trust for the said Sir George Newland, this would have been taken as a Devise to Sir George himself, and would have become liable to be shared within the Articles.

2dly, But then in the present Case it was insisted upon by the Plaintiff Beckley, that after these Articles entered into, Sir George Newland prevailed with the Testator to devise the greatest Part of his Lands to the Sons of Sir George Newland, who were then Infants, and that as soon as the Sons were come of Age, Sir George got his two Sons, to whom Mr. Turgis left the Bulk of his real Estate, to convey the Lands to Sir George and his Wife for their Lives with Remainder to Trustees for a Term of Years, in Trust to raise 3000 l. a-piece for Portions to his two younger Sons that were not provided for by Mr. Turgis's Will; so that in Effect Sir George had the Management and Disposal of this Estate in the same Manner, as he would have had, if the Estate had been his own and given to himself in Fee.

Lord Chancellor: If this Estate had continued in the Sons of Sir George, I would not have compelled them to convey a Moiety to the Plaintiff Beckley according to the Articles, there being no Writing to manifest the Trust, as the Statute of Frauds and Perjuries requires; but if the Sons should convey the Estate left them by Mr. Turgis, to their Father Sir George without any Consideration, then I think I may justly decree, that Sir George Newland the Father should convey a Moiety of the Premises to the Plaintiff Beckley agreeable to the Articles.

However, where one of the Sons (as in the present Case) has settled the Premises left him by Mr. Turgis, on his own Wife and the Issue of the Marriage, and such Settlement is either previous to the Marriage, or pursuant to Marriage Articles, I cannot reach these Lands which are now (as it were) in the Hands of a Purchaser.

But upon reading and considering the Articles, by which it was agreed, that all Legacies and Sums of Money, which should be given by the Will of Mr. Turgis to either of them the said Sir George Newland, or the Plaintiff Beckley, should be equally divided betwixt them, notwithstanding it was afterwards said, that all Benefit or Advantage accruing to either of them by the said Will, should be also divided; yet it being here said, that the same should be divided between them their respective Executors and Administrators; and forasmuch as, tho' there was some small Parcel of Land devised by the Will of Turgis to Mr. Beckley and his Heirs, yet as he did not offer by his Bill, to divide this, his Lordship took it, that these Articles did not extend to any Part of the real Estate devised by the Testator Turgis.

3dly, It was observed, that tho' the Testator Turgis had by his Will devised all those Lands to the Sons of Sir George Newland, yet he had limited the Premises to Sir George Newland himself, until the youngest of his Sons should attain twenty-one, for and towards the Maintenance of his said Sons; from whence it was urged, that so much of the Profits of these Lands, as did exceed their Maintenance, would be for the Benefit of Sir George, and consequently should fall within the Articles, and be divided between him and the Plaintiff Beckley.

And there was Proof that Sir George Newland took it so, and had declared the same to Beckley; and then, notwithstanding it had been pretended, that this was only a Trust for the Sons of Sir George Newland, and that their Father would be accountable to them for the Surplus beyond what their Maintenance would come to, yet it was hoped, that the Court would construe this to be a beneficial Devise to Sir George, and that it could not be understood otherwise, since it enabled him out of this Fund, to educate his own Sons, which of Course he would have been obliged to have done, tho' no such Estate had been left them.

But by Lord Chancellor : By the same Reason that the Articles are construed to extend only to Money and personal Estate, they shall not extend to this Devise of the Land to Sir George Newland, tho' but during the Minority of the Sons; for tho' the Word [Legacy] be usually taken for the Bequest of a personal Thing and on the contrary a Gift of Land by Will be commonly (and more properly) called a Devise, yet the Word [Legacy] may, in an extensive Sense, be understood to comprehend any Kind of Estate, Estate, real, as well as personal left by the Testator's Will to any Person.

Nevertheless, in the present Case, for the Reasons aforesaid, decree only the personal Estate given by Turgis's Will to either of them the said Sir George Newland or Beckley, to be equally divided.

Hereupon it being said, that Sir George Newland had died insolvent, and tho' it should be admitted that these Articles would let in the Plaintiff Beckley as a Creditor by Specialty, yet there would not be enough to pay him:

Lord Chancellor ordered, that (if as was suggested) any of the Mortgages of the Testator Turgis were yet standing out, and the Property thereof unaltered, and in case it should appear that Sir George Newland had received more than his Moiety of the Testator Turgis's personal Estate, then the Plaintiff Beckley should be let in to receive out of the said Turgis's personal Estate, or the subsisting Mortgages, so much as to make up his Receipts equal with those of Sir George Newland, before Sir George's Representatives should be admitted to receive any Thing further.

MR. Gardiner of Pishobury in Hertfordshire made his Will, wherein he began thus: As to my worldly Estate, I dispose of the same as follows, After my Debts

A Will says in the Beginning, After Testator's Debts and Legacies paid; and then the Will gives several Legacies and Portions to the Testator's Daughters; and then says, that after Legacies paid, the Surplus of the personal Estate shall go to the Son. After which follows a Devise of Land to the Son; but if he dies without Issue in the Life of any of the Daughters, then to the Daughters. There is out of the personal Estate a Sufficiency to pay great Part, tho' not all of the Legacies: In such Case the Deficiency is not chargeable upon the Land.

Debts and Legacies paid; then he gave several Legacies; after which he bequeathed 1500 l. a-piece to his five Daughters, payable at twenty-one or Marriage, if with Consent of his Executors; and then followed these Words, After all my Legacies paid, I give the Residue of my personal Estate to my Son, (having one only Son;) then he devised his Fee-simple Lands to his Son and his Heirs, and if his Son should die without Issue in the Life-time of any of his Daughters, he devised his real Estate to his Daughters, to whom he ordered Interest to be paid at 5 l. per Cent. by his Executors for their Portions, until the same should become due, and appointed his Son, and one Serle, Executors.

The personal Estate was not sufficient to pay all the Portions, but was enough to pay much the greatest Part of them.

Upon which it was objected, that the real Estate ought to be charged therewith, because by the Words of the Will, his Debts and Legacies were to be paid, and the Devise to the Son of the Lands in Fee followed afterwards.

That Portions for Children ought to be favoured; and if the Words would bear a Construction whereby these Portions might be charged on the Land, (as they would well do in the present Case) they ought to be taken in that Sense.

Lord Chancellor: As plain Words are necessary to disinherit an Heir, so Words equally plain are requisite to charge the Estate of an Heir; for a Charge, so far as the Value of it amounts, is, pro tanto, a Disinheriton.

In the present Case, as to the Expression after my Debts and Legacies paid I dispose of the same as follows, &c. the Word [Legacy] is there improper, in Regard the Disposition in the Words that immediately follow is of several Legacies; so that it says, after my Legacies are all paid, I will then that my Legacies shall be paid, which is absurd.

The Testator in saying by his Will, that after all his Legacies paid the Residue of his personal Estate should go to his Son, shews, that he had no Apprehension but that there would be a Surplus of his personal Estate; and consequently could not think of charging his Land with his Legacies, or that there would be the least Occasion for it. And tho' every one, primâ facie is supposed to know what he himself is worth, that Presumption will not hold in the present Case, it appearing that the Testator was therein mistaken. I admit the Portions might be charged on the real Estate, had the Devise of the Land been to the Son in Fee absolutely, for without such Construction the Devise would have been void, and the Son would have taken the Land by Descent; so that the Will must, in such Case, have signified nothing as to the Land, unless it were to operate so as to charge the Land with the Legacies, and to intimate, that the Heir was not to take until after the Legacies paid. But,

Here the Will devises the Land to the Son and his Heirs, and if the Son die without Issue in the Lifetime of any of the Daughters then to the Daughters, so that the Son is named in the Will only for the Benefit of the Daughters; and it is no more than if the Testator had said, I give my Lands to my Daughters and their Heirs, if my Son dies without Issue living the Daughters or any of them.

It is also material, that the Interest of the Daughters Portions is ordered to be paid by the Executors without mentioning the Heir; besides here is not such a Deficiency of the personal Assets, as to leave the Daughters destitute.

For which Reason the Court decreed the real Estate not liable.

Note; If in the preceding Case there had been a Want of Assets for the Payment of the Testator's Debts, it seems the Lands would have been charged therewith by Virtue of the Words, After my Debts and Legacies paid, I give, &c.

So if the Testator had owed a Debt, for which his real and Leasehold Estates were mortgaged, Equity would in this Case have charged all this Debt on the real Estate, in order to have enlarged the Fund for the Payment of the (a) Legacies as well as Debts.

Hobson versus Trevor.

Case 49.

Lord Mac-
clesfield.

THE Plaintiff Hobson was a younger Son to Lady Hobson, and put Apprentice to a Linen Draper, and under Age ; the Defendant Trevor was the eldest Son of Sir John Trevor late Master of the Rolls, but had incurred his Displeasure and was not admitted to his Presence, and it was uncertain whether he would inherit any Part of his Estate.

An Agreement in Marriage-Articles to convey to the Husband a third Part of what shall come to the Father of the Wife on the Death of his Father ; this good and Equity will compel an Execution.

The Defendant Mr. Trevor encouraged the Plaintiff Hobson to court his Daughter without the Privity of Lady Hobson the Plaintiff's Mother, and the Defendant Trevor before the Marriage, gave a Bond to the Plaintiff Hobson dated 8 Nov. 1716. in the Penalty of 5000 l. and in the Condition the then intended Marriage betwixt the said Plaintiff and the Defendant's Daughter was recited, and that the Defendant had agreed, in Consideration of the said intended Marriage, to settle and assure one third Part of all such real Estate, as should descend or come to him the said Tre-

vor by and upon the Decease of his said Father the Master of the Rolls, to the Use of the Plaintiff Richard Hobson for Life, Remainder to the Use of Elizabeth the Defendant's Daughter for her Life, Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of the said Elizabeth by the said Plaintiff Hobson, the Remainder to the right Heirs of the said Defendant Trevor after which came these Words, [Now the Condition of the Obligation is, that if the said Marriage shall take Effect, and the said Edward Trevor, shall within three Months after the Death of his said Father, settle and assure one Third of all such real Estate as shall descend or come to him after his Father's Death, then the Bond to be void.]

The Marriage took Effect; and soon after Sir John Trevor dying intestate, whereby a great real Estate came to the Defendant as eldest Son and Heir of his Father, the Plaintiff and his Wife brought their Bill for a specific Performance of this Agreement.

Objected, The Plaintiff shall have no more than the Penalty of 5000 l. and it is a dangerous Precedent to suffer an Heir apparent to enter into any Agreement to dispose of his Father's Estate before he has it; besides, the Plaintiff in this Case makes no Settlement, and it is in the Discretion of a Court of Equity, whether they will execute this or any Agreement that is brought before them.

But by Lord Chancellor; This is an Agreement made upon a valuable Consideration, That of the Marriage of a Child, and therefore fit to be executed in Equity. And

It seems the more reasonable, in regard it extends to no more than a third Part of the real Estate that was to come to the Defendant from his Father, and this was very hazardous; for if the Defendant Trevor had died in the Life-time of his Father, or if there had been a Will, the Defendant, who was so well known to be under the Displeasure of his Father, had but an indifferent Prospect, so that it might be reasonably thought that the Plaintiff at that Time, had the worst of the Bargain.

As to the Plaintiff's making no Settlement, it appears he was an Infant and the Defendant knew him to be so, and consequently that he could at that Time make no Settlement; probably the Plaintiff depended upon his Success in Trade, as he had been an Apprentice to a Linen-Draper and was left a Portion of upwards of 1000*l.* by his Father.

Then it can be no Argument to say, that the Defendant ought only to pay the Penalty of 5000*l.* because the Agreement is recited in the Bond, and such Agreement was not to be the weaker but the stronger for the Penalty; and by the same Reason, that had the Penalty been higher and beyond the Value of a third Part of the real Estate, in such Case the Defendant would not have been bound to pay it, so now the Penalty being beneath the Value of a third Part of the real Estate, the Plaintiff is not bound to accept it; besides, it is to be a Settlement for the Benefit of the Issue of the Marriage, and the Payment of the 5000*l.* to the Husband would not answer the End, nor provide for such Issue.

Wherefore let the Agreement be executed in Specie; saving that a third Part of the real Estate, which came to the Defendant from his Father Sir John Trevor, must be settled upon the Plaintiff Hobson and his Wife for their Lives, Remainder to their first, &c. Sons in Tail

Male, Remainder to their Daughters in Tail General, Remainder to the Defendant Trevor in Fee; and let the Defendant account to the Plaintiff for the mesne Profits from the End of three Months after his Father's Death, and be examined upon Interrogatories touching his Father's real Estate, and produce all Books, Papers and Writings upon Oath, and pay Costs.

7. S. after the Devise of several Parts of his real and personal Estates to several Persons, devifes the Interest and Produce of the Surplus of his real and personal Estate to his Grandchildren, until their Age of twenty-one, this will pass the absolute Right and Property of the real and personal Estate to the Grandchildren after that Age.

MR. Shephard a Druggist having a Daughter an only Child, to whom he gave 7000 l. Portion, and married to the Plaintiff Newland, eldest Son of Sir George Newland, and Mr. Newland having Issue by her three Children, Mr. Shephard made his Will, by which having disposed of some Part of his real Estate, and of some Legacies, he devised the Residue of his real and personal Estate unto Trustees their Heirs Executors and Administrators in Trust, to pay and apply the Produce and Interest thereof for the Maintenance and Benefit of such of his Grandchildren by his said Daughter Newland as should be living at the Time of his Decease, until his said Grandchildren should come to the Age of twenty-one Years; and he went no further, nor made any other Disposition of his Estate, only directed, that if all his Trustees should die, in such Case his Son-in-law Newland should be a Trustee.

Obj. The Surplus of this real and personal Estate, being undisposed of by the Will, ought after the Grandchildren should have attained their Age of twenty-one, to go in the same Manner as if there had been no Will; and consequently the real Estate must descend to the Heir at Law of the Testator, and the personal Estate be distributed amongst the next of Kin, according to the Statute of Distribution; and tho' the Testator's Intention might have been, nay (probably) was otherwise, yet there must be Words, as well as an Intention, to pass away any Estate, especially with Regard to a real Estate.

Lord Chancellor: The Intention is most plain that the Grandchildren should have the Surplus both of the real and personal Estate, after their Age of twenty-one; it is true there is a Provision for the Children by the Marriage Settlement, but that is not to take Place until after their Father's Death.

In this Case the Testator Shephard did not care to trust his Son-in-law with providing for his Children out of his own Estate, not only during the Time when their Maintenance would be least expensive, (during their tender Years, and when every Parent is bound to provide for his Children,) but even here he takes a Care which seems unnecessary, and can it be imagined, that the Testator would shew a Concern for his Grandchildren when they did not want it, and leave off that Care at the only Time when they could be supposed to stand in Need of it, (viz.) as soon as they should come of Age and be marriageable? Besides, it is plain the Testator gives all from the Heir at Law by vesting the whole Estate in Fee, as well as the legal Property of the personal Estate, in Trustees, which would not have been done had any Thing been intended to remain to the Daughter and Heir; not only the Interest, but the Produce of the real and personal Estate is to be applied by such Trustees; and to help this plain Intention of the Testator, the Word [Produce] shall be taken in the larger Sense, and then it will signify whatever the Estate will yield by Sale or otherwise.

And

And this Case is the stronger, in Regard the Son-in-law the Plaintiff Newland is to be a Trustee in case the other Trustees shall all die, but it cannot be intended that the Plaintiff Newland is to be a Trustee for himself, or for what himself would be intitled to should it come to his Wife.

The Case cited (a) in King and Melling, 1 Vent. 230. is applicable to the present Case, where the Court construed a Will against the express Words, in Order to make it take Effect according to the Intention, (viz.) A Man devised an Estate to his eldest Son and the Heirs of his Body, and if he died living his Mother, the Remainder to the second Son, and because it could not be supposed that the Father intended to prefer his second Son before the Issue of the eldest where the eldest had died in the Life of the Mother leaving a Son, the Court adjudged the Issue of such eldest Son to take, and understood the Devise, as if it had been, if the eldest Son should die without Issue living the Mother, Remainder to the second Son.

Hyde versus Skinner.

Lessor covenanted to renew the Lease at the Request of the Lessee within the Term; Lessee did not request, but Executors do within the Term; Lessor is compellable to renew.

SKINNER possessed of a long Term for Years of a House in Enfield with the Appurtenances, leased the same to the Plaintiff's Testator Hyde for five Years, and covenanted for himself and his Executors, to renew the Lease at the same Rent and on the same Covenants upon the Request of Hyde within the Term. Hyde the Lessee died within the Term, having laid out a considerable Sum of Money in improving the Premises, and the Executors within the Term requested the Defendant the Lessor to make a new Lease to them for fifty Years at the old Rent.

Obj. This Request ought to have been made by the Lessee Hyde and not by his Executors, who may be insolvent Persons, and consequently the Lessor in Danger of losing his Rent.

Lord Chancellor: The Executors of every Person are implied in himself, and bound without naming; (a) and the Meaning of this Covenant was to the End the Lessee might be reimbursed the Money which he had laid out in the Improvement of the Premises, for which Reason it is immaterial whether the Testator or the Executors require the Renewal of the Lease, it need not be personal.

(a) See
Vol. I. Frederick versus Frederick.

But then the Request for the making of a new Lease for fifty Years is too much; for it might have been as well for 100 or 200 Years; but the usual Term for leasing being for twenty-one Years, let the Defendant demise the Premises to the Plaintiff for twenty-one Years, or for any lesser Term as the Plaintiff shall elect.

And tho' the Lease is to be made on the same Covenants, yet that shall not take in a Covenant for the Renewing this new Lease; forasmuch as then the Lease would never be at an End.

As to the Objection, that the Executors might be insolvent Tenants, and such as the Defendant would not care to trust; to this it may be answered, That there is to be a Clause of Re-entry in the Lease, and the Value of the Premises being doubled by the Improvements of the original Lessee, such Clause of Re-entry will secure the Landlord against any Insolvency of the Tenant.

Therefore let the Defendant pay Coſts in this Court; and alſo at Law for the Ejectment which he brought againſt the Plaintiff, and in which he has recovered Judgment.

Caſe 52.

Marlow verſus Smith.

One makes his Will, and ſays, As to ſuch Eſtate as God hath bleſſed me with, I de- viſe in Man- ner following; after which he gives Part to J. S. and his Heirs, &c. and deviſes the reſt of his Eſtate to his Wife in Fee: This paſſes a Trust-E- ſtate.

SIR Charles Pitfield ſeiſed in Fee of the Manor of Hoxton near Shoreditch in Middleſex, on the Mar- riage of his Son Alexander with Elizabeth Waller, by Indentures of Leaſe and Release dated the 14th and 15th of April 1680. conveyed the ſaid Manor of Hox- ton to Trustees Sir John Buckworth and Francis Moore and their Heirs, to the Uſe of the ſaid Sir Charles Pit- field for Life, Remainder to the Uſe of his Son the ſaid Alexander Pitfield for ninety-nine Years, (if he ſhould ſo long live,) Remainder to the Uſe of the ſaid Trustees and their Heirs during the Life of Alexander Pitfield, in Trust to preſerve contingent Remainders, Re- mainder to the Uſe of the firſt, &c. Son of Alexander Pitfield by the ſaid Elizabeth in Tail Male ſucceſſively, Remainder to Trustees for 500 Years, to raiſe Portions for Daughters of the Marriage, Remainder to the Uſe of the Heirs of the Body of the ſaid Alexander Pitfield, (who is ſtill living,) Remainder to the Uſe of the right Heirs of Sir Charles Pitfield.

Sir Charles died; Alexander Pitfield had Iſſue Charles Pitfield, who taking ill Courſes runs in Debt, and en- deavouring to ſell this Eſtate in his Father's Life-time, prevailed with the Heir of Moore the ſurviving Trustee for ſupporting contingent Remainders, to join in a Deed of Bargain and Sale inrolled, for the making a Tenant to the Præcipe; and a Recovery was ſuffered to the Uſe of Charles Pitfield in Fee, who deviſed all his Eſtate to Trustees to pay his Debts.

But it happened that Francis Moore the surviving Trustee had by his Will devised in Manner following, “As to such Estate as the Lord had bestowed upon him he devised Part to J. S. and his Heirs, and all the rest of his real Estate he devised to his Wife and her Heirs.”

Charles Pitfield died leaving an Infant Son, and Alexander Pitfield had Issue one Daughter.

Upon a Bill brought by the Creditors of this Charles Pitfield, it was decreed, that this Reversion of Hoxton should be sold before the Master to the best Purchaser, for Payment of the Debts of Charles, and Mr. Swinfen was allowed the best Purchaser at a South-Sea Price, in Trust for Serjeant Mead, who deposited 500*l.* Part of the Purchase-Money.

Whereupon it being referred to a Master to state the Title, the only Question was, Whether the Will of Moore the surviving Trustee in the Settlement for preserving contingent Remainders, did pass his Interest in the Premises, being a Freehold descendable and made devisable by the Statute of Frauds? For that if the Will of Moore passed this Estate, then the Joining of his Heir would not make a Tenant to the Præcipe, and so the Recovery was void, the Consequence of which would be, that the Purchaser having no Title made him, must be discharged from the Purchase and have back his Deposite.

For the Creditors it was insisted, that when Moore the Testator devised all the rest of his Estate, he must be intended to have meant his own Estate, and not an Estate of which he was but a bare Trustee; for such Estate was really, truly and in Equity the Estate

Estate of the Cestui que Trust; and this Construction appeared to be the more reasonable, from the Words which the Testator had used in his Will, (viz.) “As to such Estate as the Lord had bestowed upon me,” for they must be supposed to have been made Use of with an Eye to such Estate of which the Testator was to have the Benefit: Now he was to be never the better for the Trust-Estate, nor to have any Advantage therefrom.

That if an Executor should grant omnia bona sua, this would not pass the Goods which he has as Executor, especially if at the same Time such Executor had any Goods in his own Right; from all which it followed, that the Devise would not pass the Trust-Estate.

On the other Side it was said, that Moore's Devise of all his Lands, passed these Lands of which he was but a Trustee; for in Law they were his Lands; and it is at Law that the Operation of this Will must be determined; at Law he was the only Person who could recover them.

That if the Testator had by his Will devised all the Land of which he was seised, it must undoubtedly have passed these Lands; for it was most plain the Testator was the Person seised thereof.

That had the Testator been attainted or outlawed for Treason or Felony, he would have forfeited these Lands; so that if the Lands in Question were the Testator's Lands to forfeit, they were consequently his Lands to grant or Devise, for forisfacere est alienum facere; and that in this Case there was a manifest Diversity betwixt an Estate which a Trustee has in Trust, and the Interest which an Executor or an Administrator ministrator has in Goods as Executor or Administrator; for if an Executor or Administrator be attainted of Treason or Felony, the Goods which he has as Executor or Administrator would not be thereby forfeited; whereas the Lands which a Man is seised of as Trustee would in such Case be forfeited.

But if there was the least Doubt of the Title, (which it was made to appear there was by the Opinion of Serjeant Hooper and Mr. Webb,) it would by no Means be proper for the Court of Chancery to compel the Party to accept the Title; for in such Case, if the Purchaser should be sued, where could he have Recourse to for Redress? And here the Court was compelling the Party to purchase a Special Verdict or a Suit.

Master of the Rolls: Tho' this be a Trust-Estate, yet the legal Estate being in the Devisor in the Eye of the Law, it is his Estate and his Property, and therefore passes by the Devise of his Estate; and if he had devised all the Land which he had been seised of, these Lands would certainly have passed: Neither can there be any Inconvenience in such Construction; for as the Testator himself was a Trustee, so shall his Devisee also be a Trustee to preserve these Remainders; and there being the Opinion of learned Men against the Title, (viz.) that the Will of the Testator did pass this Trust-Estate, I will not, nor do I think it reasonable, that a Court of Equity should compel the Purchaser to accept the Purchase; and therefore he must have back his Deposit.

The Court will not compel a Purchaser under a Decree to accept a doubtful Title.

Note; In this Case Mr. Talbot insisted, that tho', when all the Remainders were vested Remainders in Tail, the Trustees might join in making a Tenant to the Præcipe in order to the suffering a Recovery, yet if any Remainder was in Contingency, the Trustees who were appointed to preserve all the contingent Remainders, ought not to join in suffering a Recovery to bar any such Remainders, if they did, it would be a Breach of Trust.

That accordingly in the principal Case, the Remainder to the Use of the Heirs of the Body of Alexander Pitfield (who was still living) being a contingent Remainder, and the said Alexander having Issue a Daughter, if the Infant Son of Charles Pitfield should die without Issue in the Life of Alexander, Alexander's Daughter might be Heir of his Body, and if this should be a Breach of Trust in the Heir of the Trustee, the Purchaser having Notice of such Trust might be liable to the same, and then for this Reason also it could not be a good Title.

Mr. Clavering's Case.

UPON a Motion for a Supplicavit at the Suit of Mr. Gray of New-Castle Barrister at Law, upon Articles filed on Oath of Assault and Battery against Mr. Clavering, and that he went in Fear of his Life,

Lord Chancellor granted the Writ, which commanded the Party complained of to find Sureties for the Peace for a Twelve-month, and ordered it to be indorsed for 4000*l.* which the Party and his Sureties should be bound in.

Afterwards Mr. Solicitor General and Mr. Mead moved to discharge this Order, or at least to lessen the Sum, Mr. Clavering being only Tenant for Life of his Estate, and mentioned the Statute (a) which gives Cofts

(a) 21 Jac.
cap. 8.

in Case of a groundless and vexatious Complaint of this Nature.

Lord Chancellor : I will not discharge the Order, for then Mr. Clavering may kill the Man; the Court interposes in this Case to prevent Mischief and to save Life, and it is an Order of Course; if the Party complains of Vexation, he comes too soon, let him stay till the Year is out, and behave himself quietly all that Time; it seems that Mr. Clavering is a Man of a turbulent and dangerous Spirit, that his Friends or Neighbours are afraid to be bound for his quiet Behaviour, and if the Sum be too great for his Circumstances, there ought to be an Affidavit to prove this Inability.

Wherefore deny the Motion.

It seems the Master of the Rolls generally refuses to grant this Writ, directing the Party grieved to apply elsewhere, (viz.) to the Justices of the Peace.

Clarkson versus Hanway & al.

Case 54.

At the Rolls.

THE Bill was brought by the Plaintiff a Pauper, to set aside a Conveyance made by Simon Hanway the Plaintiff's Kinsman (and to whom the Plaintiff was Heir at Law) to the Defendants Jonas Hanway and Box and their Heirs.

A Conveyance by a weak Man for a small Consideration set aside.

The Conveyance was by Indentures of Lease and Release dated 20 and 21 March 1717. in Consideration of an Annuity of 20 l. a Year to be paid to the said Simon Hanway for his Life, and a Fine was levied to the Uses of the Deed.

And

And by another Deed dated 22 March 1717. between the Defendants Box and Hanway of the one Part and Simon Hanway of the other Part, reciting that 20*l.* a Year for the Life of Simon Hanway was to be secured to Simon as the Consideration of the Conveyance, the Defendants Box and Hanway severally covenanted for the Payment of this 20*l.* a Year to the said Simon.

In September 1719. being two Years after the Conveyance, Simon Hanway died aged seventy-four, and consequently was seventy-two Years old when he bought this Annuity.

Objected for the Defendants, that Jonas Hanway was a Kinsman of the Grantor Simon and of his own Name, and the Grantor had often declared he would rather that his Kinsman the Defendant Hanway should have the Estate for this Annuity, than any other Person for a more valuable Consideration, and that he was willing to give the Premises to his Kinsman.

Master of the Rolls: Here is Proof that Simon Hanway was a weak Man and easily to be imposed upon. And tho' the Name and Blood had been a sufficient Consideration for granting the Premises to the Defendant Hanway, yet the Deed itself, and the Deed of Covenants dated after the Conveyance to the Defendant, and likewise the Answer, all put the Defence on another Foot, making the 20*l.* per Annum to be the sole Consideration for the Purchase; and indeed the Consideration of Blood could not be the Inducement for the

A different Consideration from what is expressed in the Deed not to be averr'd; and tho' the Consideration of Blood be a good Consideration, yet that not to be regarded, if Money or the Grant of an Annuity be expressed in the Deed. Also a good Objection, that the Grant is to two, and only one of Kin.

the Conveyance, because the Defendant Box, tho' no Relation, was thereby to have a Moiety of the Estate; and it would be of mischievous Consequence, and liable to the Danger of Perjury, which the Statute of Frauds intended to prevent, to suffer parol Evidence, to prove Blood and Kindred to have been the Consideration of this Conveyance.

All which more particularly appears from the Contradiction of this parol Evidence, for Part of it says, that Simon Hanway declared he would give this Estate to the Defendant Hanway, at the same Time another Part of the same Evidence tends to prove, that the said Simon sold it him in Consideration of the Annuity.

Neither has there been the least Evidence read of any Instructions given by Simon Hanway to the Drawer of the Deed for the preparing thereof, tho' the Man has been examined who drew the same. On the contrary it is confirmed, even by the Answer, that the Defendant Jonas Hanway alone gave Instructions for the preparing of the Deed; nor does it appear that at the Time of executing the Deed it was read over to Simon Hanway.

Evidence of Fraud, when no Proof that any Instructions were given for the Deed by the Grantor, or when the Deed was not read to the Grantor.

Taking it then, (as is admitted by Part of the Answer,) that Simon Hanway intended to sell this Estate, it seems clearly to be a very weak Bargain, to sell an Inheritance of 40*l. per Annum* for an Annuity of 20*l. per Annum*; and this Annuity secured by a Covenant only, instead of a Mortgage of the same Estate; and this to a Person at that Time seventy-two Years old, and who had not the Deed itself in his Hands.

All this is Fraud apparent ; and judging upon the Face of a Deed is judging upon Evidence which cannot err ; whereas the Testimony of Witnesses may be false.

Therefore let the Defendants Box and Harway reconvey the Estate, and deliver up the Writings, and pay back the Rents which they have received from the Premises, beyond what they have paid for the Annuity, and let them do this in a reasonable Time ; within a Month, or else to pay Costs.

This Decree was affirmed on an Appeal to Lord Chancellor Macclesfield.

Afterwards, on Sir Stephen Evans's becoming a Bankrupt, the Assignees under the Commission brought a Bill against the Company, shewing that the said Sir Stephen Evans had 1500 l. in their Stock, and praying an Account of the Profits and Dividends thereof.

The Defendants the Company insisted, that Sir Stephen Evans was indebted to J. S. their Trustee in the Sum of ——— and that Sir Stephens's Stock ought to be liable to pay that Debt.

Objected for the Plaintiffs (by Wearg Solicitor General) That this By-Law of the Company was void, (viz.) That the Stock of the Company should be liable to any one Debt in Preference to another: For that all Debts ought to be paid according to Course of Law, and no By-Law could be made to the Prejudice of a third Person, who might be a Creditor, so as to postpone him; that it was as if two Copartners, on their entering into Copartnership, should covenant that the Stock of each Partner should be first liable to the Debts which he should owe to the other Partner, before the Debts which he should owe to any other Person.

So a By-Law of a Company to feize a Member's Stock for a Debt due from a Member to the Company, is good; but if this Debt be not due to the Company but to their Trustee, then the By-Law will not extend to it.

Lord Chancellor: This is a good By-Law; for the legal Interest of all the Stock is in the Company, who are Trustees for the several Members, and may order that the Dividends to be made shall be under particular Restrictions, or Terms; and by the same Reason, that this By-Law is objected to, the common By-Laws of Companies, to deduct the Calls out of the Stocks of the Members refusing to pay their Calls, may be said to be void.

As to the other Part of the By-Law, empowering the Company to detain and seize the Stock of such Member, that is also good; but then there ought to be some Act done by the Company, to order or declare, that the Stock of such Member is seized for the Debt due to the said Company; but this being a By-Law, to the Prejudice of other Creditors, it shall be taken strictly, and not to extend to such Debt as the Member does not owe in Law, but only in Equity; and in the present Case this is in Law a Debt due to J. S.

A Corporation has an implied Power to make By-Laws; but where the Charter gives the Company a Power to make By-Laws, they can only make them in such Cases, as they are enabled to do by the Charter; for such Power given by the Charter implies a Negative, that they shall not make By-Laws in any other Cases.

A Company without any Power by their Charter may of Course make By-Laws; but if they have a particular By-Laws for Power to make By-Laws for the Management of their Trade, they cannot make carrying on Projects foreign to the Affairs of the Company.

Thus, where the Company, in the principal Case, have a Power given them by the Charter to make By-Laws for the Management of their Trade to Hudson's Bay, this Power implies a Negative, that they cannot make any other By-Laws; a fortiori they cannot make By-Laws in Relation to Projects and Insurances, which by (a) Act of Parliament are declared to be illegal.

Cafe 56. Duke of Rutland & al' verſus Duchefs of Rutland & al'.

clesfield.*

One makes a Will and an Executor, and gives a Legacy of 500 l. to the Executor, but makes no Diſpoſition of the Surplus; Pa-rol Evidence of the Intention and Declaration of the Teſtator touching the Surplus admitted.

LADY Rachel Manners, Siſter to the Plaintiff the Duke of Rutland, having a Portion left her by her Father the late Duke, and being intituled to other Money which in the whole amounted to about 10,000 l. and was either ſecured by Mortgages or charged upon Land, made her Will, in the Beginning of which mentioning of what her Eſtate conſiſted, and that ſhe intended to diſpoſe of the ſame by her Will, ſhe gave to every one of her Brothers and Siſters, and alſo to her Half Brothers and Siſters, pecuniary Legacies, particularly to her eldeſt Brother the Plaintiff the Duke 500 l. after which ſhe made no Diſpoſition of the Surplus of her perſonal Eſtate, but left the Duke ſole Executor.

There were three Witneſſes to the Will, the Duchefs of Devonſhire, Mr. Vernon a Clergyman, who drew the Will, and one ——— a Servant.

Mr. Vernon the Witneſs ſaid, That the Teſtatrix the Lady Rachel Manners did not give any expreſs Inſtructions for leaving the Surplus to the Plaintiff the Duke; but that he underſtood and ſuppoſed, that his Grace was to have the Surplus of her perſonal Eſtate; and that for the Reaſons following, becauſe ſhe had made him ſole Executor, alſo for that when the Teſtatrix had given ſeveral Legacies, he asked her whether ſhe would give more Legacies, To which the Teſtatrix replied, No; That then he (the Witneſs) asking her, whom ſhe would make Executor, ſhe replied, ſhe would make the Duke her Brother ſole Executor; and that ſhe hoped his Grace would not take it ill, that she had given so much away from him; and that the next Day afterwards the Testatrix sent to the Duke, desiring him to take Care of a Legacy of 100 l. which she had directed to be paid to the Poor.

The Duchess of Devonshire swore, that to the best of her Remembrance, the Testatrix being asked at the Time of making the Will, whether she intended that the Surplus of her personal Estate should go to the Duke her Executor, answered, Yes.

The Servant, who was the third subscribing Witnesses deposed, that the Testatrix being asked who she designed should have the Surplus of her personal Estate, expressly answered, The Duke her Brother.

To all which it was on the Opening of the Cause objected, that Parol Evidence relating to the Declarations of the Testatrix, who she intended should have the Surplus of her personal Estate, ought not to be read; in Regard this would introduce all the Mischief and Inconvenience, which the Statute of Frauds and Perjuries was made to prevent.

Sed per Cur': Let the Evidence be read, and we will judge of it afterwards; and the said Evidence being accordingly read, and after hearing Counsel on both Sides, Lord Chancellor proceeded to give his Opinion as follows :

As I have several Times <sup>(a)</sup> decreed it, so I think it grounded on the greatest Reason and Justice, that where there is an express Legacy given to an Executor, and no Devise of the Surplus, such Surplus shall go according

(a) See the Case of Farrington versus Knightley, Vol. I. Generally speaking,

if there be an express Legacy to the Executor, and no Devise of the Surplus, the Executor shall not have the Surplus; but the same shall be distributable according to the Statute.

according to the Statute of Distribution to the next of Kin. As to the Executor's being intitled thereto, it might with equal Reason be said, that where the Spiritual Court grants Administration to a Person, this shall intitle the Administrator to the Surplus after Debts paid; whereas neither Executor nor Administrator have any legal Interest in the personal Estate, but are vested only with a legal Power over it, just as every Trustee has a legal Power over his Trust-Estate.

If an Executor or Administrator had any legal or beneficial Interest in the personal Estate, they would by Consequence have a Power of devising it by Will; but it is plain they cannot devise it.

Nay, it is demonstrable, that an Executor has no legal Interest; because when an Executor dies intestate, whatever is his, will go to his Administrator; whereas all the personal Estate of his Testator will belong to the Administrator de bonis non, &c. and not to the Administrator of the Executor.

Secus, If the Executor be also a residuary Legatee, which shews that whatever the Executor has as Executor, is only jure alieno; and it is no Argument to say, that as when I make such a one my Heir, I give him my real Estate; so by the same Reason, by making him Executor, I give him my personal Estate; for the Heir is sued in the Debet & Detinet; but the Suit against the Executor must be in the Detinet only; and the Assets are said to be bona Testatoris, and not bona Executoris; and the appointing one Executor, is only appointing him to (a) execute the Will of the deceased.

(a) Vide the Case of Farrington ver. Kilgobbin, ubi supra.

The Difficulty would be to maintain, that if one should make a Man Executor without either disposing of the Surplus, or giving an express Legacy to the Executor, such Executor should have the Surplus.

But it having been held, that where no express Legacy has been given to the Executor, he will be intitled to the Surplus; and on the other Hand, that the having given a Legacy to the Executor implies he shall have no more, for that otherwise he would have all and some; I will not alter these Resolutions.

Giving to the next Kin express Legacies, even tho' it be to all the next of Kin, will not exclude them from coming in for the Surplus upon the Statute of Distribution; and there is still much less Reason for it, where the Legacies to the next of Kin are unequal.

It is very necessary that the Rule of Property should be known, fixed, and certain, that People may know which Way to steer.

And it is true, that the Court has frequently shewn this Favour to the Executor, to allow Parol Evidence in Proof of the Intention of the Testator, to rebut that Equity which otherwise would be in Favour of the next of Kin.

Thus in the Case of Lady (a) Gainsborough versus Lord Gainsborough, where the Testator directed the Scrivener to give the Surplus to the Executrix, which the Scrivener omitted to do, conceiving the same to be implied by making the Wife Executrix; this was a Piece of Obstinacy in the Drawer of the Will, for which the Executrix ought not to suffer.

(a) 2 Vern.
Vol. I. 116.

But here the Evidence is very strong, that the Testatrix intended the Surplus to the Executor, and this is Evidence of the Declaration of the Testatrix at the Time of making the Will.

It is material, that the Testatrix, reciting her personal Estate in the Beginning of the Will, declares her Intention to dispose of it; which must be understood of her Intention to dispose of the Whole.

Also when the Will-Maker (Mr. Vernon) asked the Testatrix, whether she would give any more Legacies? she said No; and thereupon Mr. Vernon said, Who then will you make your Executor? To which she replied, My Brother the Duke.

Testatrix saying that she hoped her Executor would not take it ill that she gave so much from him, an Evidence that the Executor

Again, the Testatrix declared, that she hoped her Brother would not take it ill that she had given so much from him; which is an Argument, that she thought the Legacies which were given, were to the Prejudice of her Executor and not of her next of Kin; as it would have been, were the next of Kin to have the Surplus.

should have the Surplus.

The Duchess of Devonshire's Evidence is, that the Testatrix declared the Duke should have the Surplus.

Moreover the Servant positively swears, that the Testatrix declared the Executor the Duke should have the Surplus, which Mr. Vernon the Will-Maker might not mind, he being at that Time otherwise employed (videlicet) in writing the Will.

It is further material, that the Testatrix sent to her Executor and not to her next of Kin acquainting him him, that she desired 100*l.* should be given out of her Estate to the Poor; which, tho' it be a void Legacy, (because not in Writing) yet is an Evidence of her Intention, or of her considering her Executor as the only Person concerned in the Surplus; and therefore gave him Notice of what she desired might be done.

After all I own, that the Allowing Parol Evidence is exceedingly dangerous and not to be done, in Case of Discourses at a different Time from that of making the Will. But yet abstractedly from that Case, parol Evidence has been admitted.

Thus 1st in (a) Cheney's Case, where one had two (a) 5 Co. 68. Sons of the same Name, it was held necessary that parol Evidence should be given to ascertain which of the Sons was meant, else the Will must have been void.

2<sup>dly</sup>, In the Case of (b) Litton versus Litton, where Sir William Litton devised all his Lands out of Settlement, Lord Comper allowed parol Evidence to be read, though it is true (c) one of the Judges who were Assistants to him at that Time, was of Opinion against the Reading it; in which Case the Fact was, that some Lands were out of all Settlement, some were in Settlement, but the Limitations were spent, and other Lands were in Settlement, but the Reversion in Fee was in the Testator.

(b) Reports in Chan. Part III. fol. Edit. 2 Vern. 621. & vide ante 136.
(c) Mr. Just. Tracy, as said in Vern. but by Reports in Chancery the Judges appear to have been unanimous for reading it.

3<sup>dly</sup>, In (d) Ball and Smith's Case it was held, that where a Wife was made Executrix, and had an express Legacy (d) 2 Vern. 675. and the Case of Fur- rington versus Knightley, ubi supra.

Where the Wife has been Executrix, and at the same Time has had an express Legacy, yet she has under some Circumstances been held intitled to the Surplus; a fortiori where the Executor bears the Title or Honour of the Family.

Legacy given to her, she should nevertheless be intitled to the Surplus, because it was the Case of a Wife; and if a Wife is to be so regarded, I take the principal Case to be stronger, where the Head of the Family the Duke who bears the Honour of the Family, is made Executor, and who may be justly thought to be above the Drudgery of being a bare Executor, consequently I will rather suppose that something beneficial was intended him.

And I am the rather induced to be of this Opinion, in regard the Duchess of Rutland, tho' she claims to be let in for an equal Share with the rest of the Defendants, yet being but a Mother-in-law to the Testatrix, if the Surplus had been distributable, she as not being of the Blood of the Testatrix, could have claimed no Part upon the Statute of Distribution.

In all which Points Lord Chancellor was very clear.

Stent versus Bailis.

Case 57.

At the Rolls.

THE Bill was to be relieved against a Contract in Writing for the Sale of eleven Shares of the Luftring Company at 58*l.* a Share, with the 10*l.* per Cent. which the Company had called in, and which the Defendant the Seller had agreed to pay.

One articles to pay 58*l.* a Share for eleven Shares of the Luftring Company at the next opening of the Books ; the Books never after opened ; the Vendee relieved in Equity from paying.

The Articles of Agreement were dated 10 Aug. 1720. and the Money to be paid on the then next opening of the Company's Books, at which Time the Defendant was to transfer the Shares to the Plaintiff.

The Scrivener drew the Articles according to these Instructions ; but at the Meeting of the Parties in order to seal, the Defendant the Seller of the Stock insisted that he would not sell, unless the Plaintiff would agree to pay the Purchase-Money at all Events at such a Day certain, whether the Books did then open or not ; and the Stock being then risen, the Plaintiff consented to execute an Indorsement on the Articles to that Purpose, which Articles and Indorsement were executed at the same Time in a Tavern.

(a) 6 Geo. I.
cap. 18.

On the 20th of August a Scire Facias issued to repeal the Patent granted to this Company, and at the same Time a Proclamation was published to forbid proceeding in Transfers, and an (a) Act of Parliament afterwards passed making it a Præmunire to have any Dealings with those Bubbles.

The Company remitted the Call of 10*l. per Cent.* and in lieu thereof accepted 2*l. per Cent.* but never afterwards opened their Books, nor (as their own Secretary deposed) were they ever likely to do so.

The Defendant Bailis brought an Action on the Articles, to which the Plaintiff had pleaded Non est factum, and on a Verdict for Bailis at Law, Stent sued out a Writ of Error, and on bringing a Bill in this Court, obtained an Injunction.

At the Hearing of this Cause, it was objected for the Defendant,

1st, That tho' this was an hard Case on the now Plaintiff, yet that it had been likewise hard on the Defendant, who was not a Contriver of the Project but a Sufferer by it, having himself bought Stocks at high Rates.

2<sup>dly</sup>, That Equity ought in such Cases to stand Neuter, and to let the Hardship rest where the Law had cast it, and at Law the now Defendant had a Verdict.

3<sup>dly</sup>, That it could not be pretended here was any Fraud on the Defendant's Side, who from the Time of the Contract made was a Trustee for the Buyer, at whose Risk any Accident which had fallen upon the Stock from the Time of the Contract, must be ; and that this was not unreasonable, since he would have been intitled to the Benefit of it, had it rose in the Price ; and that tho' the Books had been shut up for some Time, yet it was impossible to know but that they might open again, and that in a little Time.
I of

4thly, As to the Calls of 10 l. per Cent. to be paid by the Buyer, tho' these were afterwards countermanded, and instead thereof 2 l. per Cent. had been accepted, this was said to be done in Purfuance of Orders and By-Laws made by the Company, to which every Purchaser and Proprietor must submit ; and all that the Defendant Bailis was to sell, was his Right, which, let it have been what it would, the Plaintiff was to pay so much Money for it ; and if the Act of Parliament had made this Matter criminal, or the Dealing in it a Præmunire, the now Plaintiff might have taken Advantage of it at Law.

5thly, That if the Money had happened to have been paid, surely Equity would not have compelled it back again. And as Equity would not perhaps have helped the Defendant to the Debt, had it turned out a losing Bargain, so there was as little Reason for it to interpose or deprive the Defendant of the Advantage which he had now gained at Law by the Verdict.

Master of the Rolls : It is against natural Justice, that any one should pay for a Bargain which he cannot have ; there ought to be quid pro quo, but in this Case, the Defendant has sold the Plaintiff a Bubble or Moonshine.

Against natural Justice that any one should pay for a Bargain which he cannot have.

It

It is impossible that this Bargain should ever be made good to the Plaintiff, for here is Proof by the Company's own Secretary, of his having advised with three eminent Counsel, who all agree that the Company cannot justify accepting any more Transfers, and the Money cannot be said to be due in Conscience, supposing the Plaintiff to be incapable of coming at what he contracted for, and in Consideration whereof he was to pay his Money.

If I article to buy an House, and the House is burnt down before the Day of Payment, I am not bound to pay the Money.

If I should buy an House, and before such Time as by the Articles I am to pay for the same, the House be burnt down by Casualty of Fire, I shall not in Equity be bound to pay for the House, and yet the House may be built up again; but I doubt it will be impossible to set up the Company again, as in the other Case the Seller may do the House.

It is considerable, that the Contract was made in 1720, which being near four Years since, and the Books having never been opened since, it is to be presumed they never will.

(a) Ante
Colt versus Wollaston & Arnold.
Post Stephen-ton versus Gardiner.

As to the Objection, that the Plaintiff here might have defended himself at Law, he was particeps criminis, and therefore could not (I doubt) have taken Advantage of the Statute; besides, Matters of Fraud are cognizable (a) in Equity, as well as at Law. The original Contract was to pay the Purchase Money upon the Transfer, both which were to be made simul & semel; and the Meaning of the Indorsement is no more, than that if the Books should not open on the very Day that was appointed for that Purpose, the now Plaintiff would not insist upon the precise Time, but would pay the Money.

But still he must be supposed to have been under an Expectation, that in a reasonable Time the Books would open, and a Transfer be made to him; certainly it cannot be imagined, that the Plaintiff would ever have been prevailed upon to covenant for the Payment of the Money at a precise Day, had he entertained the least Apprehension, that the Books would never have opened. The Seller in this Case is the chief Actor, he went to Market with the Bubble; and since no Transfer can be made, let there be a perpetual Injunction, and let the Defendant at the Plaintiff's Charge enter Satisfaction on the Judgment.

Afterwards in Michaelmas Term 1725, there was a Rehearing of this Cause before Lord Chancellor King, when it was insisted for the Plaintiff Stent, that it was indeed very reasonable the Plaintiff should run the Risque of the Falling of the Stock, were it to fall ever so low; but though it were fallen, yet ought he still to have some Stock for his Money.

On the other Side it was said, that in this Case the Plaintiff and Defendant must both be intended to know what they were trafficking in, (viz.) in a Matter of a very precarious Nature, in Stock, which was in the Power of the Company, in Regard they could stop any further Transfers, and shut up the Books at their Pleasure, and the last Agreement between both Parties being, that the Defendant should have his Money in all Events, whether the Books opened or not, and since there was no Fraud to be imputed to the Defendant, who had himself been a fair Purchaser of his Stock, and not the first Projector or Inventor, the Loss ought to rest where the Law had laid it, and each Side having equal Equity, there could be no Room for the Court to interpose.

Lord Chancellor King: I cannot divide the Loss, but would recommend it to both Parties to treat together, and share the same, and for that Purpose a Day was given to the Parties, who (as I hear) agreed the Matter.

Cafe 58. Countess Dowager of Coventry versus William Earl of Coventry, & Sir William Carey & ux.

Tenant for Life with Power to make a Jointure, Remainder over, Tenant for Life covenants to make a Jointure to a Wife in Consideration of a Marriage by Virtue of his Power, or otherwise, of 500 l. per Annum, and dies before making the Jointure; Equity will make it good.

THE Countess Dowager of Coventry's Bill was for a specific Performance of Articles made on the Marriage of Gilbert late Earl of Coventry with the Plaintiff the Countess Dowager, by which Articles Gilbert late Earl of Coventry, who was but Tenant for Life, with Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder to the Defendant William now Earl of Coventry, covenanted to make a Jointure of 500 l. per Annum upon his Lady the Plaintiff, pursuant to a Power given him by his Father's Will.

The Cafe was thus: Thomas Earl of Coventry being seised in Fee of diverse Manors and Lands of about 8000 l. per Annum, and having Issue Thomas Lord Deerhurst his eldest Son, and Gilbert his second Son, by his Will dated 24 March 1698. devised divers Manors, &c. unto his eldest Son (the Lord Deerhurst) for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder to Gilbert his second Son for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder der to the Defendant William Coventry for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainders over, with a Power given to any of the Devisees for Life (when seized) by any Writing to settle any Part of the Premises not exceeding 500*l. per Annum*, upon any Wife which they should respectively marry, for her Jointure, so as such Wife brought a Portion equivalent to such Jointure.

The Testator Earl Thomas died, having survived Lord Deerhurst, who left an Infant Son afterwards Earl of Coventry, but he dying an Infant and without Issue, the Honour and Estate came to Gilbert the second Son.

Gilbert Earl of Coventry on his Marriage with the Plaintiff Anne only Daughter of Sir Strensham Masters, in Consideration of the Marriage and of 10,000*l.* Marriage Portion, by Articles previous to the Marriage dated 23 June 1715. covenanted with Trustees, at the Request of Sir Strensham Masters, according to the Power given to Earl Gilbert by the said Earl Thomas's Will, or otherwise, to settle Lands of the Value of 500*l. per Annum* upon the said Anne his then intended Wife for Life as her Jointure; Earl Gilbert also covenanted, that 5000*l.* Part of the said 10,000*l.* Portion, should be laid out in Land and settled on the said Anne for her Life, and further, that the Heirs and Executors of the said Earl Gilbert should pay 250*l. per Annum* to the said Anne for her Life, to commence after Earl Gilbert's Death, and this 500*l. per Annum* to be settled pursuant to the Power, and the 5000*l.* covenanted to be laid out in Land, and the 250*l. per Annum* covenanted to be paid, was to be in full of the Plaintiff Anne the Countess of Coventry's Jointure.

The

The Marriage soon afterwards took Effect; and,

Earl Gilbert, being requested by Sir Strensham Masters to make a Jointure of 500 l. per Annum pursuant to the Power, did accordingly direct the Jointure to be made, and Lands were set apart for that Purpose of 500 l. a Year within the Power, and the Draught of the Jointure was drawn and ingrossed, but laid by for some Time unexecuted. After which Earl Gilbert died suddenly at the Bath without Issue Male, and leaving Lady Anne Carey Wife of Sir William Carey, his only Daughter, and residuary Legatee, and the Estate and Honour came to the Defendant the Remainder Man William the present Earl of Coventry.

On whose Behalf it was objected, 1st, that the said Earl the Defendant claiming by Way of Remainder, did not derive any Title under Earl Gilbert, and therefore was not to be bound by his Covenant.

2<sup>dly</sup>, That the Covenant for the making this Jointure of 500 l. per Annum was only, that Earl Gilbert should make this Jointure, by Virtue of this Power, or otherwise, so that (as was insisted) here was no specific Lien on any of the Lands within the Power; but if Earl Gilbert had purchased Lands of 500 l. per Annum, and had settled the same upon his Countess for her Life, this had been a Performance of the Covenant.

3<sup>dly</sup>, That in this Case the Defendant the Countess Dowager was not without Remedy, and that she ought to resort to the personal Estate of Earl Gilbert, and sue her Covenant against the personal Estate, at least that the personal Estate ought first to be applied towards Satisfaction of this Covenant.

This Case being spoke to before Lord Chancellor Macclesfield, his Lordship conceived that the Plaintiff the Lady Coventry ought to be relieved, she claiming under a very valuable Consideration; but whether against the Remainder-man, or out of the personal Estate of Earl Gilbert, remained a Question with his Lordship, and therefore he desired to be attended with Precedents, and to have the Assistance of the Judges.

Accordingly the Court was attended with Precedents, and the Case spoke to before Lord Chancellor, Master of the Rolls, and the Barons Gilbert and Price. When it was urged on Behalf of Sir William Carey and his Lady who was the only Issue, Executrix and residuary Legatee of Earl Gilbert, that this Jointure of 500 l. per Annum ought to be made good out of the real Estate of the late Earl Gilbert, according to the Draught drawn and ingrossed by his Lordship's Direction, and that the personal Estate of Earl Gilbert should not, to the total Disappointment of the Will, be applied towards Satisfaction of the Covenant, the said personal Estate not being sufficient for this Purpose and also for the Payment of the other Debts of the Testator.

That if the Case had intirely depended on Earl Gilbert's Marriage-Articles, these Articles would alone in Equity have made a good Appointment of the Jointure.

Also that if the Articles were out of the Case, yet the Draught of a Jointure drawn and ingrossed by the Direction of Earl Gilbert, wherein the Parcels amounting to 500 l. per Annum were set out and expressed, and the said Earl being taken away by a sudden Death, these in a Court of Equity would have amounted to a good Jointure.

Then as to the Power itself for the making of this Jointure, it was created by Will, the Construction of which is always favoured beyond any other Conveyance; created by the Will of him who was Owner of the Estate, and for enabling the several Branches of this Noble Family to make a Jointure, consequently to promote them in Marriage, which was the only Means by which the Family could be preserved and continued.

That the Defendant the present Earl ought not to think much of this Power, in regard the same Will that created it did likewise create and limit his Remainder; so that he, as well as the Jointress, claimed under the same Will, and had there been no Will or Settlement, Earl Gilbert would have been seised in Fee, and the Plaintiff the Countess would at least have had her Dower, and the Defendant the present Earl would not have had the Remainder, but the same would have descended to Lady Anne Carey the Daughter and Heir of Earl Gilbert, from whom the Defendant the present Earl was now endeavouring to take the small Surplus of the personal Estate and apply it towards making good the Articles for this Jointure.

And what made this still the harder was, that Earl Gilbert being Tenant for Life without Waste, might have cut down three Times the Value of this Jointure in Timber growing in the Park and in other Lands belonging to this Estate.

That this Power of making a Jointure being raised by the Owner of the Estate, and for the continuing of the Family by Marriage, any Words tho' ever so improper, ever so unartfully expressed, yet if they would go so far as to shew the Intention of the Party, if the Court could from such Words spell out the Party's Meaning, and that he intended thereby to make a Jointure, this would be effectual for that Purpose.

But the Case was much stronger, when such Writing was made for a valuable Consideration; and surely it would be difficult to say, what could be a more valuable Consideration than this was, the Consideration of Marriage, and a Marriage-Portion of 10,000 l.

That if any of the Circumstances requisite by the Power should be wanting, where the Jointure was made for a valuable Consideration, yet Equity would supply it; as for Instance, if the Jointure was made by a Deed-Poll instead of an Indenture; if the Deed were sealed and not signed; or if there were but two Witnesses instead of three.

It was admitted, that if there should be a total Non-Execution (a) of the Power, Equity would not supply it, it being against the Nature of a Power, when the Party has reserved to himself a Liberty of doing or not doing a Thing, for a Court of Equity to construe the Act as done when there is no Evidence of the Intention of the Party to do it; but in the present Case the Intention of the Party that this Jointure should should take place, sufficiently appeared by Earl Gilbert's directing the Draught and the Parcels, and by the Draught's being ingrossed, and his Lordship's being prevented only by sudden Death from compleating it.

It was said to have been admitted by the other Side, that if the late Earl Gilbert had covenanted to settle a Jointure of 500 l. per Annum pursuant to the Power, upon the Plaintiff Anne for her Life, this had been good, but the Covenant being that the said Earl should by Virtue of the said Power or otherwise, settle this Jointure on his Countess, from hence it was objected, that this Word [otherwise] left the Matter at large, left the Covenantor at Liberty to settle other Lands, and therefore prevented this from being a specific Lien upon this Land, and spoiled all.

But this was observed to be maledicta expositio que corrumpit textum; it was intended in Favour of the Jointress, that one way or other she should in all Events be sure of her Jointure of 500 l. per Annum, either by Virtue of the Power or otherwise, and it would be very hard, that these Words which were designed in her (a) Favour should be construed to her Disadvantage.

(a) Vide post
Edwards
versus Freeman.

That the Jointress was in all Events to have a Jointure of 1000 l. per Annum, 500 l. per Annum by Virtue of the Power, 250 l. per Annum out of the Lands to be purchased with the 5000 l. and 250 l. per Annum secured by Virtue of the Covenant.

And it would be very unreasonable, that the Plaintiff the Countess should be defeated by the present Earl of her Jointure which the late Earl had a full Power of making, and for so valuable a Consideration had agreed and intended to make.

That Precedents had gone further than the principal Case; as in the Case of (a) Lady Clifford ver. Lord Burlington, decreed 28 June 1700. by Lord Keeper Wright,<sup>(a) 2 Vern. 379.</sup> where Lord Clifford who by his Family Settlement was Tenant for Life, with Power to make a Jointure not exceeding 1000 l. per Annum, on his Marriage with Lady Arethusa Berkeley, covenanted to settle Lands in Ireland upon her of 1000 l. per Annum; and accordingly after the Marriage he settled Part of the Manor of — in Ireland (being Part of the Premises within the Power) on his Lady for Life, with a Covenant that they were of the yearly Value of 1000 l. and afterwards died, but these Lands coming out to be but of the Value of 400 l. per Annum, on a Bill brought by the Widow, there being Lands of the Value of 1000 l. per Annum within the Power, it was decreed that a Commission should be awarded to add Lands to those formerly settled, so as to make up 1000 l. per Annum.

The next Precedent was that of Hollinshead versus Hollingshead, decreed the 4 June, 1 Annæ, by the then Lord Keeper, and was as follows: One Samuel Motterhead by Will devised Lands to the Use of himself in Tail, Remainder to Francis Hollingshead for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder over; with a Power to the several Tenants for Life when in Possession to make a Jointure, so as such Jointure did not exceed a Moiety of the Estate, and by the same Will the Testator gave a Legacy to this Francis Hollingshead.

Samuel Hollingshead the first Tenant in Tail died without Issue, and during the Infancy of Francis Hollingshead there was a Treaty for his Marriage, which being agreed, his Mother and he (the Infant) covenanted with the Wife's Relations, that within six Months after Francis's coming of Age he should settle so much of the Land as should amount to 100 l. per Annum upon his then intended Wife for her Life.

The Marriage took Effect, and they had Issue a Daughter, and the Husband Francis dying afterwards without making the Joinrure, the Widow brought her Bill against the Remainder-man for making good the same; in which Case it was objected, 1st, That this Covenant was made by an Infant who could not covenant. 2dly, No Land in particular was covenanted to be settled, but only so much as should amount to 100 l. per Annum.

But decreed by Lord Keeper, That this Covenant was in Equity a good Execution of the Power; wherefore a Jointure of 100 l. per Annum ought to be made good to the Wife, and that if a Moiety of the Premises which the Husband had a Power to settle would not make up 100 l. per Annum, the same should be made good out of 1000 l. Legacy given to Francis the Husband by the Will. Which Decree shewed that the Land, if it might be had, was to be the Fund; but if the Land could not be had, then and not otherwise Satisfaction was to be made out of the personal Estate.

So in the Case of Alford versus Alford decreed 5 Dec. 8 Annæ, by Sir John Trevor Master of the Rolls; where one Gregory Alford settled Land on himself for Life, Remainder to his Wife for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder to Francis Alford for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male successively, Remainder to Edward Alford in like Manner, with Power to Francis Alford, after the Death of Gregory Alford and Anne his Wife, or any after-taken Wife of Gregory, to settle so much of the Premises not exceeding 100 l. per Annum in Jointure to a Wife.

Francis Alford in the Life-time of Gregory covenants in Consideration of Marriage to settle Lands of 100 l. per Annum upon his then intended Wife, and afterwards Gregory Alford and his Wife died without Issue, and then Francis Alford who gave this Covenant for a Jointure, died without Issue, whereby the Premises came to the Remainder-man Edward Alford. And the Widow of Francis Alford having brought her Bill against the Remainder-man to make good her Jointure,

It was decreed on considering many Precedents, (as it is there expressed) that the Covenant to make this Jointure was a good Execution of the Power, and that the Wife was well intitled to this 100 l. per Annum, and to all the Arrears from her Husband's Death.

Now that was the Case of a Remainder-man as well as the present Case, but in all other Respects infinitely stronger, in regard that at the Time of the said Francis Alford's covenanting to make this Jointure, he had not the Power vested in him, it being to commence after the Death of Gregory and his Wife without Issue Male, and Francis made this Covenant in the Life-time of Gregory; however, Gregory and his Wife dying without Issue in the Life-time of Francis and his Wife, such Covenant was allowed a good Execution of the Power in Equity, tho' it might be reckoned a Sort of Strain to call this an Execution of the Power before the very Commencement thereof; but it shewed how much these Powers and the Execution of them are favoured when for a valuable Consideration.

That these Cases were all stronger than the principal Case, and answered all the Objections which had been made.

It was true the Covenant in the present Case was not in all Events to settle any certain Lands, but only to make a Settlement of 500 l. per Annum of Lands within the Power or otherwise.

Why so it was in the Cases before cited.

It was to be admitted, that in the principal Case the late Earl Gilbert might have settled other Lands of 500 l. per Annum, and this had been a Satisfaction, but this was not done; it would be likewise admitted on the other Side, that if the Covenant had been to settle any certain Lands within the Power, it had been good.

Now in this Case the Draught drawn and ingrossed by the Direction of Earl Gilbert reduced the Land to a Certainty, in which Respect the principal Case was stronger than the Cases cited, and afterwards the Execution of this Deed was prevented by the sudden Death of Earl Gilbert.

Besides, the Articles made the plainest Difference betwixt the 250 l. per Annum, Part of this intended Jointure of 1000 l. per Annum, and this 500 l. per Annum that could be; 250 l. per Annum was to continue secured out of the personal Estate by the Covenant, but the 500 l. per Annum was intended to be secured out of the Lands within the Power, unless the said Earl had made some other Jointure upon his Lady, which he never did.

Upon the whole Matter, if any Regard was to be had to the several valuable Considerations on which the Covenant for the making this Jointure was founded :

If the Intention, or the Agreement of the Party, an Agreement to do what was admitted to be absolutely in his Power, was to be considered :

If any Allowance to be made for the Accident which happened and prevented the Execution of the ingrossed Deed which was to execute this Power :

It was conceived that the Plaintiff the Jointress ought to have her Jointure made good out of the Lands within the Power, and according to the Draught, and that the small Surplus of Earl Gilbert's personal Estate ought to go as intended to his only Daughter, who was also his Executrix and residuary Legatee.*

Accordingly it was so (a) decreed with the Concurrence of the Judges Assistants, (viz.) That the Defendant the Earl of Coventry should during his Life confirm and make good the Jointure. <sup>(a) 16 May 1724.</sup>

Manaton versus Manaton.

ONE seized of Lands in Fee, and being indebted to several Persons in Bonds in which his Heirs were bound, devised his Lands to A. for Life, Remainder to Trustees during the Life of A. to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of A. in Tail Male successively, Remainder over, with Power to A. the Tenant for Life to make Leases of the Premises for one two or three Lives at the old Rents, which were very small, and conventional Rents the Lands lying in the West of England.

Bill brought by the Bond-Creditors, the Court will not decree the Devisee for Life to account for the Profits, but only to keep down the Interest: Also the Court will decree a Sale to satisfy the Bonds, tho' the Lands be not devised for Payment of Debts.

The Devisee for Life took the Profits and raised considerable Sums by leasing the Premises out for Lives, and by taking of Fines, and had a Son born who was now Twenty-one.

And the Creditors by Bond bringing a Bill for recovering the Money due to them,

The Master of the Rolls decreed, 1st, An Account of the personal Estate, and then that the Devisee for Life, should account for the Rents and Profits of the real Estate.

But the Devisee for Life appealing from this Decree, and praying a Sale,

Lord Chancellor doubted whether there could be a Sale decreed, there being no Devise of the Land for the Payment of Debts, and took Time to consider of it.

And at another Day, the Cause being in the Paper for Judgment, they who prayed a Sale insisted, that the Court had often decreed a Sale against the Heir for the Payment of Bond-Debts; for that the Land descended was Assets, and as such ought to be sold; and that it had been so decreed in the Cases of Trevor and Trevor, and Meller versus Edisbury.

That with Respect to the Money arising by the Taking of Fines, these were temporary Sales; and tho' the Tenant for Life were not to account for the Profits, nor do more than keep down the Interest out of the Profits, yet he should account for all the Fines which he had raised by leasing.

Lord Chancellor: It is sufficient that the Devisee for Life should keep down the Interest; and therefore the Decree, that he shall account for all the Rents and Profits of the Premises is not right.

As the Testator in this Case died seised of different Kinds of Estates, one usually let for Lives at conventional Rents, and the other at Rack-Rents, let the Master

Master first order the Sale of the Lands let at Rack-Rents, and if those be not sufficient, then so much is to be sold as is requisite, of the Lands granted out for Lives, and on which the small Rents are reserved, and in such Case, in regard the Fines taken by the Devisee for Life, must have lessened the Sum for which such Lands will sell, the Devisee for Life if any of these Lands are sold, must account for the Fines, which shall here be taken as Part of the Purchase-Money.

But if the Sale of the Lands let at Rack-Rent can produce Money sufficient for the Payment of the Debts, then (I take it) that the Devisee for Life shall not account for the Fines which he has received, because the Devisee in Remainder will have the same Benefit of raising what Money he can by Fines, and so every one in his Turn will enjoy the like Liberty.

Case 60. Elizabeth Whitchurch & al' versus Joseph Whitchurch & al'.

At the Rolls.

A. possessed of a Term of 500 Years in Blackacre, afterwards purchases the Fee-simple in B.'s Name, and devises Blackacre to

J. S. in Fee, but the Will is not attested by three Witnesses: The Term shall not pass, because attendant on, and Part of the Inheritance.

Edward Whitchurch took a Mortgage of Batcomb-Lodge from one Bisse for 500 Years to commence from the Making, for securing the Sum of two hundred Pounds and Interest, and afterwards took another Security of the same Lands from Bisse the Mortgagor for one thousand Years in the Name of another Person, but in Trust for himself, to commence also from the Making.

After this Edward Whitchurch purchased the Inheritance of the Premises in his own Name, and having no Wife or Issue Male made his Will all of his own Hand-writing, whereby he devised the Premiffes to his Nephew, being the Son of his younger Brother Joseph Whitchurch, for his Life, Remainder to his Son Edward Whitchurch and to the Heirs Male of his Body for ever, and made his Brother Joseph Whitchurch his Executor and refiduary Legatee.

It happened that this Will, tho' intended to be perfected as a Will, by Reason of the Testator's sudden Death had neither a Date or Name fubfcribed thereto, neither was it attested, but the Executor proved the fame in the Spiritual Court, and affented to the Devife to the Nephew ; whereupon the elder Brother's Daughter, who was Heir to the Testator brought this Bill in order to compel the Executor and the Devifee to affign over the Term to her.

Objected for the Defendants, that the Executor had affented to the Devife, and the Will, tho' not attested by three Witneffes was however good at Law to pafs this Term of 500 Years, which was a fubfifting Term and not merged in the Inheritance, by Reason of the intermediate Term, and which intermediate Term operated as a Grant of the Reverfion and not as a Grant of a future Intereft, (for it was admitted that a future Intereft would not prevent a Merger) but this Grant of 1000 Years being to commence from the making did pafs the Reverfion for 1000 Years ; quod fuit concessum per Cur'.

Then if this would pafs the Term at Law, and was agreeable to the Intention of the Party, it was faid to be very hard that Equity fhould interpofe in Difappointment of the Will, efppecially when it was in Favour of fo near a Relation as a Nephew of the Testator and one of his own Name, and all this for the Sake of one not more nearly related, of one who on her Marriage would (probably) part with her Name ; that in all Cafes betwixt Volunteers (as the Heir and Devisee were here) he that had the Law on his Side used to prevail.

But decreed by Master of the Rolls, That as this was a Term which would have attended the Inheritance, and in Equity have gone to the Heir and not to the Executor, in which Respect it was to be considered as Part of the Inheritance, so the Will which was not attested by three Witnesses, as the Law required it to be when Land was to pass, should not carry this Term.

That tho' it was true, such a Will as in the present Case would be sufficient to pass a Term in Gross, yet should it not pass a Trust of a Term attendant on an Inheritance, nor consequently the Term it self.

That a Will not attested as the Statute of Frauds requires, should not pass any Estate of which the Heir, as Heir, would otherwise have had the Benefit.

That if the Devisee of the Land had brought a Bill against the Executor and Heir to have compelled the Executor to consent to this Devise, a Court of Equity would not have decreed it for the Devisee; and if so, the voluntary Act of the Executor's consenting would not alter the Case, for at that Rate it would be in the Power of the Executor to make it a good or a void Devise, just as he should think proper.

Besides, the Court observed that it was the Intention of the Testator in the present Case not to pass the Term only, but also to convey the Inheritance which was expressly disposed of by the Will, to the Nephew for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail.

Tho' as to this it was said to be extremely hard, that because quite so much as was intended could not pass, therefore the Devisee should be deprived of that which might lawfully pass, and which was a less Estate than was intended him, or because all could not pass therefore nothing should.

However, for the abovesaid Reasons the Court decreed the Devisee and Executor to join in assigning the Term to the Plaintiff the Testator's Heir at Law ; but no Costs on either Side. This Decree was afterwards affirmed on an Appeal by the Lords Commissioners Gilbert and Raymond.

A. and B. had no Sons, and C. one of the Sisters died without Issue, by which the Heir of the Grantor, as to one Moiety of the Premises, had the first Estate of Inheritance.

A. having cut down Timber sold it and threatened to open the Mines; the Heir of the Grantor being seised of one Moiety ut supra by the Death of one of the Sisters without Issue, brought this Bill for an Account of the Moiety of the Timber and to stay A.'s opening of any Mine.

1st Obj. As to the Plaintiff's Claim of the Moiety of the Monies arising by Sale of the Timber, in regard the Plaintiff comes into Equity for the same, it would be more agreeable to the Rules of Equity, that the Monies produced by the Timber should be brought into Court and put out for the Benefit of the Sons as yet unborn and which may be born. That these contingent Remainders being in gremio legis and under the Protection of the Law, it would be most reasonable that the Monies should be secured for the Use of the Sons when there should be any born; but as soon as it became impossible there should be a Son, then a Moiety to be paid to the Plaintiff; and the Case would be the same if there were a Son in Ventre sa mere; or the Plaintiff might bring Trover, and then what Reason had he to come into Equity?

Cur': The Right to this Timber belongs to those who at the Time of its being severed from the Freehold were seized of the first Estate of Inheritance, and the Property becomes vested in them.

As to the Objection that Trover will lie at Law, it may be very necessary for the Party who has the Inheritance to bring his Bill in this Court, because it may be impossible for him to discover the Value of the Timber, it being in the Possession of and cut down by the Tenant for Life. This was the very Case of the Duke of Newcastle versus Mr. Vane, where at Welbeck (the Duke's Seat in Nottinghamshire) great Quantities of Timber were blown down in a Storm; and tho' there were several Tenants for Life, Remainder to their first and every other Son in Tail, yet these having no Sons born, the Timber was decreed to belong to the first Remainder-man in Tail.

Neither do I think the Defendant ought (as he insists) to be allowed out of this Timber what Money he has laid out in Timber for Repairs, since it was a wrong Thing to cut down and fell the same, and shews quo animo it was done, not to repair but to fell.

One seized in Fee conveys the Lands and all Trees and Mines to Trustees in Fee, to the Use of A. for Life, Remainders over; A. cannot open the Mines or cut down the Trees.

2dly, It was urged, that the Mines being expressly granted by this Settlement with the Lands, it was as strong a Case as if the Mines themselves were limited to A. for Life, and like Saunders's Case in 5 Co. 12. where it is resolved, that on a Lease made of Land together with the Mines, if there be no Mines open, the Lessee may open them; so in this Case, there being no Mines open, the Cestui que Use for Life might open them.

But Lord Chancellor contra: A. having only an Estate for Life subject to Waste, he shall no more open a Mine than he shall cut down the Timber-Trees, for both are equally granted by this Deed; and the Meaning of inserting Mines Trees and Water, was, that all should pass, but as the Timber and Mines were Part of the Inheritance, no one should have Power over them but such as had an Estate of Inheritance limited to him.

Of which Opinion was Lord Chancellor King on a Rehearing.

Cafe 62.

Lord Mac-
clesfield.

A Feme sole was seised in Fee of Land of about 10*l.* per Annum, and designing to marry, agreed with her intended Husband, that she upon the Marriage would convey her Lands to the Husband and his Heirs; and for that Purpose, previous to the Marriage, she gave a Bond of 200*l.* Penalty to the intended Husband, in which the intended Marriage was recited, and the Condition was, that in Case the Marriage took Effect, she would convey all her said Lands to the Husband and his Heirs.

Feme gives a Bond to her intended Husband, that in case of their Marriage she will convey her Lands to him in Fee; they marry, the Wife dies without Issue, and then the Husband dies; the Bond tho' void in Law, yet is good Evidence of the Agreement in Equity; and the Heir of the Husband shall compel a specific Performance against the Heir of the Wife.

The Marriage took Effect, and there was Issue of the Marriage, and the Wife made her Will reciting her said Bond, and devised all her Land to her Husband in Fee and died.

The Issue of the Marriage died without Issue; after which the Husband enjoyed the Land during his Life, and on his Death the Heir of the Husband brought a Bill against the Heir of the Wife, to compel him to convey the Lands of the Wife to the Heir of the Husband.

Obj. This Bond given by the Wife became void upon the Intermarriage, because it was then suspended; and a personal Action once suspended is extinct: Besides, wherever no Action lies at Law to recover Debt or Damages, there no Suit in Equity lies to compel a specific Performance, which specific Performance is given in Equity only in Lieu of Damages; and 1 Chan. Cafes 21, (Lady Darcy's Cafe) was cited, proving, that that where a Woman on a Treaty of Marriage agrees with a Man, or a Man with a Woman, there the subsequent Intermarriage determines the Agreement.

Lord Chancellor: The Impropriety of the Security, viz. a Bond from a Woman to a Man whom she intends to marry, or the inaccurate Manner of Wording such Bond, is not material; for it is sufficient that the Bond is a written Evidence of the Agreement of the Parties, that the Feme in Consideration of Marriage agrees the Man shall have the Land as her Portion; and this Agreement being upon a valuable Consideration shall be executed in Equity. It is unreasonable that the Intermarriage, upon which alone the Bond is to take Effect, should itself be a Destruction of the Bond, and the Foundation of that Notion is, that in Law the Husband and Wife being one Person, the Husband cannot sue the Wife on this Agreement; whereas in Equity it is constant Experience, that the Husband may sue the Wife or the Wife the Husband, and the Husband might sue the Wife upon this very Agreement in the principal Case. Neither is it a true Rule which had been laid down by the other Side, that where an Action cannot be brought at Law on an Agreement for Damages, there a Suit will not lie in Equity for a specific Performance, as is plain from this Case, suppose a Feme Infant seized in Fee, on a Marriage with the Consent of her Guardians, should covenant in Consideration of a Settlement to convey her Inheritance to her Husband; if this were done in Consideration of a competent Settlement, Equity would execute the Agreement, tho' no Action would lie at Law to recover Damages.

But in Regard this Bond was a very stale one (being given so long since as in 1678) and the Husband had for so long a Time omitted to sue upon it in Equity, the Court ordered a Trial at Law to see whether this Bond was executed or not, and all other Matters to be respited till after the Trial.

Lawrence the Son and his Wife died without Issue Male, leaving two Daughters, the Defendant Mary Wife of the Defendant Strode, and Eleanor (since dead) married to one Coxwell, who left Issue the Defendant John Coxwell.

Old Lawrence Head the Father afterwards by Indenture of Settlement in 1676 settles the Premisses to several Uses, (subject to the Charge of 1300*l.* to his two Grandaughters) with a Power of Revocation and Limitation of new Uses.

Afterwards by Indorsement on the said Indenture of Settlement, (the Indorsement being dated the 23d February 1690.) old Lawrence Head revoked the old Uses, and limited a new Use to his Son Edward Head in Fee; but old Lawrence Head continued in Possession, neither had he (for ought appeared) any other Estate save this of Winterton.

Afterwards old Lawrence paid the two Daughters of his eldest Son Lawrence, the Defendant Mary and the said Eleanor 650 l. a-piece, (in all 1300 l. being their Portions secured on the Premises) and took a Receipt from each of them in Writing: Subsequent to which,

On a Treaty of Marriage betwixt Edward Head then eldest Son of old Lawrence Head with Elizabeth Pockock, by Marriage Articles dated 29 May 1697. in Consideration of the said intended Marriage and 500 l. Portion paid to the said Edward Head the Son, old Lawrence and Edward Head both covenanted with the Trustees within a Month after the Marriage to convey the said Manor of Winterton to the said Trustees and their Heirs, to the Use and Intent that Elizabeth the intended Wife of Edward Head should have a Rent-Charge of 60 l. per Annum issuing out of the Premises for her Life for her Jointure, and that Lawrence Head the Father should have a Rent-Charge of 50 l. per Annum out of the Premises for his Life.

And that subject to these Rent-Charges the Premises should be settled on Edward Head for his Life, Remainder to his first and every other Son in Tale Male by that Marriage, then with a Provision for pecuniary Portions charged on the Premises for the Daughters of that Marriage, Remainder to Lawrence Head a Grandson to old Lawrence by another deceased Son and his Heirs Male (who is since dead without Issue) Remainder to his Grandson John Osgood Son of Grace Osgood the eldest Daughter of old Lawrence and his Heirs Male, Remainder to the right Heirs of old Lawrence Head the Father.

Lawrence the Father died within three Days after the Articles, having continued in Possession of the Premises till his Death. The Wife of Edward Head the Son died without Issue; and on the 27 October 1722 the said Edward died without Issue, but by his Will devised the Premises to the Defendants his Heirs at Law.

And now the said John Osgood brought his Bill against Strode, Mary his Wife, and John Coxwell, who were the Heirs at Law, as well of Lawrence Head the Father, as of Edward Head the Son, to compel a Conveyance of the Premises to the Plaintiff John Osgood in Tail Male pursuant to the Articles, all the precedent Estates being determined.

Against which it was objected for the Defendants, that tho' the Limitations in the Articles to the Wife of Edward for her Jointure of 60*l. per Annum*, and of her Husband Edward's Estate for Life, and the Remainder to the Issue Male of the Marriage, were all Limitations made on valuable Considerations, and must be supposed to be stipulated for by the Friends of the Wife, or by the Wife, in Consideration of the Marriage and Portion: Yet

The subsequent Limitation to the Plaintiff John Osgood was merely voluntary, and out of the Consideration of the Marriage or Portion, and purely the Bounty of him from whom the Estate moved; that it had been often determined that one and the same Settlement might be on good Consideration in Part, and voluntary and fraudulent as to the rest, and so might Articles be.

Then

Then if the Limitation to the Plaintiff Osgood in the Marriage Articles were merely voluntary, (as they insisted it was) it had never been known that a Court of Equity did compel an Execution of a voluntary Agreement.

That the Reason why on Articles for a Purchase where the Money was paid, a Court of Equity compelled an Execution of such Articles was, for that it was unreasonable the Covenantor, who had received the Money, should retain the Land; but as upon a nudum pactum there was no Remedy at Law, so neither was there any in Equity.

And tho' in Case of a Covenant or Agreement by Deed there was no Consideration requisite, the Covenant being good without any, yet at Law such a Covenantor would recover but 3 d. or such like Damages, and Matters of so slight a Value were beneath the Dignity of this Court.

Also several Cases were cited of Copyholds being devised without any previous Surrender, under which Circumstances Equity would never supply the Want of a Surrender, unless in Case of Debts, for younger Children, or a Provision for a Wife.

475.

So in the Case of (a) Sturzacre and Robinson, where when a Man made a defective Conveyance of some Copyhold or Customary Land to his Bastard, with a Covenant for further Assurance, yet this being a voluntary Conveyance (tho' to his own natural Child) this Court would not compel the Heir of the Covenantor to make further Assurance.

And Mr. Talbot cited and much relied on the Case of Sir James Bellingham versus Lowther, 1 Chan. Ca. 243. where Sir H. Bellingham on his Marriage with Catherine Lowther covenanted to settle certain Freehold Lands to the Use of himself and Catherine his intended Wife for their Lives, Remainder to the Heirs Male of his Body by her, Remainder to the Heirs Male of his own Body, Remainder to his Brother Allen Bellingham in Tail, Remainder to the Heirs of Sir Henry, and covenanted to settle certain Copyhold Lands to the same Uses. Sir Henry Bellingham was travelling to make a Surrender of his Copyhold Lands pursuant to his Covenant, but fell sick by the Way; however he made a Letter of Attorney to others to make this Surrender, but dying before it was done the Copyhold descended to his Daughter as Heir general. And

The Brother Allen Bellingham who was the Remainder-man in the Articles, brought his Bill to have this Covenant executed by the Heir at Law, for the conveying of the Copyhold to him in Tail prout the Articles; and there it was said that the Covenant was voluntary as to the Brother Allen Bellingham, he being no Party to the Articles nor within the Consideration of the Marriage or Marriage Portion, and that the Articles might be fraudulent as to the Brother tho' good as to the Wife and Issue of the Marriage, and a voluntary Conveyance to a younger Brother ought not if defective at Law to be made good in Equity against an Heir; for which Reason the then Lord Keeper dismissed that Bill, and would not compel an Execution of such voluntary Articles; which Mr. Talbot said came very near the principal Case, but was stronger by Reason of the Accident of Death.

Also it was insisted, that in this Case in the Covenant for settling this Estate the Heirs of the Covenantor were not named, and consequently not bound, and it was a constant Rule, that in a Covenant or Warranty if the Heir was not named he was not bound.

Besides, that in this Case it appeared not to have been Edward's Intention that Osgood should have the Premises after his Death, he having by his Will given the same to his Heirs at Law.

To all which it was answered, that this Bill did not seek to defeat a Purchaser or hurt a Creditor; that it was only to compel an Heir who was pars antecessoris to perform the Articles of his Ancestor, an Heir whom any voluntary Conveyance would bind, and this in a Court of Equity too where Articles amounted to a Conveyance.

That this was not a voluntary Limitation as to the Plaintiff Osgood, who in the Articles was named the Grandson of old Lawrence Head, and consequently it was Part of the Marriage Agreement, and the Marriage was the Consideration and Occasion of the Limitation in the Articles. That Upon the Circumstances of this Case old Lawrence Head the Father must be intended to be the Owner of the Estate, or at least that it was in Trust for him.

That it could not be supposed (tho' by the Inducement of a Power of Revocation he had limited the Premises to his Son Edward in Fee) but that this was in Trust for himself, because it could not be intended that he would strip himself of all that he had; which Notion was still farther confirmed by his Continuance in the Possession of the Premises to the Time of his Death. So likewise by the Limitation in the Articles of 50*l. per Annum* Rent-Charge to old Lawrence for his Life, with an Estate for Life only to Edward Head, Remainder in Tail to his Sons by that Marriage, Remainder to the Plaintiff Osgood, with Remainder in Fee to the right Heirs of old Lawrence; for it would be difficult to imagine that Edward Head the Son would ever have accepted of those Limitations to himself, or have agreed to the Limitations to his Father, if he had been then Owner of the Estate.

Then taking old Lawrence Head to have been Owner of the Estate, it might be reasonably believed that when he was desired by his Son Edward or the Wife's Relations to come into this Settlement, he consented to it on Terms, and might say, "I will part with " my Estate upon your Marriage, but it shall be so " settled, that if you my Son Edward die without " Sons it shall then go to my Grandson John Osgood
" and his Issue Male; nay, I will have the Estate so " firmly secured to my Grandson John Osgood, that it " shall not be in the Power of you to bar that Re" mainder, but that you shall be only Tenant for " Life, neither shall your Issue Male by any other
" Wife be preferred to my said Grandson." And if this were so, then plainly that part of the Articles whereby the Limitation was made to the Plaintiff Osgood could not be termed voluntary, since without that it was probable old Lawrence Head would not have entered into any Articles at all.

Also I cited Hard. Rep. 395. Jenkins versus Kemish, and 1 Lev. 150, 237. where Sir Nicholas Kemish on the Marriage

Marriage of his Son Charles Kemish with Blanch Mansell, in Consideration of this Marriage and of 2000 l. Marriage Portion, settled the Premises to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder to his Son Charles and the Heirs of his Body by that Marriage, Remainder to the Heirs of his Body by any other Wife, with a Power to Sir Nicholas Kemish the Father by Deed to charge the Premises with 2000 l.

Sir Nicholas borrows 2000 l. and secures it by a Mortgage by Way of Lease and Release of the Premises in Fee.

Afterwards Sir Nicholas dies, and his Son Charles dies without Issue by that Wife, but leaving a Son by an after-taken Wife, and on a special Verdict in Ejectment it was resolved, that this Mortgage in Fee was not a good Execution of the Power for raising the 2000 l. in Regard this, if good, would be a Dislodging of all the Estates.

But then it was objected, that the Issue Male who would avoid the Mortgage, being not by this Marriage, on which the Settlement was made, but by a subsequent Marriage, the Limitation to him was voluntary, and as against this Mortgagee fraudulent.

But the very Words of that great Man Lord Hale, in Hardres are, "That the Consideration of the Marriage " and the Marriage Portion will run through all the " Estates raised by the Settlement, tho' the Marriage
" be not concerned in them, so as to make them good " against Purchasers, and to avoid a voluntary Con" veyance;" which Case came afterwards into this Court, and is in 1 Chan. Cases 103.

And that it appeared by a Note in the Margin in 1 Lev. 152. that the Lord Keeper Eridgeman was of the same Opinion, That the Consideration of the Marriage and Marriage Portion ran through and extended itself to all the Limitations in the Settlement.

Now if this Case was so, as this Authority (which was a very great one) proved it to have been, it was stronger than the principal Case; and shewed that the Consideration of Marriage makes all the Limitations good, even against a Purchaser or Mortgagee; whereas they (the Plaintiffs) were contending only against an Heir, whom the most voluntary Settlement would bind; and what would make a valuable Consideration in Case of a Settlement, would make a valuable Consideration in Case of Articles for the making a Settlement.

That it was not necessary the Consideration Money should be paid by the Party to whom the Conveyance was made, but if a third Person paid it, that would be sufficient to prevent the Conveyance or Articles from being voluntary, and consequently in the present Case, the Portion which was paid to Edward Head was a Consideration for all the Limitations in the Marriage-Articles; also in these Articles John Osgood was called the Grandson of old Lawrence Head who made the Settlement, and then the Consideration of Blood was a sufficient Consideration against an Heir, tho' (perhaps) not against a Purchaser.

Or if the Estate were construed to move from Edward Head, the Plaintiff Osgood was Nephew to him, and that Blood was as to him a sufficient Consideration.

It was sufficient to raise an Use, and what was so, would be a sufficient Consideration also to raise a Trust in Equity.

For suppose a Man had before the Statute of Hen. 8. of Uses, covenanted to stand seised to the Use of his Grandson or his Nephew, this certainly would have raised a Use, and such as a Court of Equity would have compelled the Execution of. And

By the same Reason, if a Man in Consideration of Blood were to covenant to settle Lands upon his Grandson or Nephew, this would raise a Trust, and a Court of Equity would look to the Execution thereof, which was the principal Case expressed in the very Articles; and this differed from the Case of * Sturzacre and Robin-son, where in a defective Conveyance a Covenant to make further Assurance to a Bastard was held not good, in Regard there was no Blood, and a Covenant to stand seised to the Use of a Bastard would be void.

* Or Furfa-ker.

As to the Objection that the Heirs were not expressly named in these Articles, it seemed to be wholly immaterial; for if the Consideration were good to raise a Trust (as on the Part of the Plaintiff it was contended to be) then the Ancestor from the Time of the Execution of the Articles, was a Trustee for all the Trusts therein; and supposing the Ancestor to be a Trustee, his Heir who stood in his Place must be a Trustee also.

And it would be a plain Case, if a Man for Money by him received should covenant to convey Lands to J. S. but should not covenant for his Heirs, yet the Receipt of the Money would make him a Trustee, and he being so, his Heir after his Death must be a Trustee also.

That with Respect to the Will of Edward Head, by which he undertook to devise the Premises from the Plaintiff Osgood, that was likewise immaterial, his Intentions as to this Case must be all immaterial, he and his Father old Lawrence having bound the Estate by their Articles, and put it out of their Power to devise or give it away to any other Person.

Lastly it was insisted, that if the Court would not help the Plaintiff, it ought not to help the Heir, nor would it then compel the Trustee of an old Term for 500 Years which was yet standing out to transfer that Term to the Heir at Law.

Lord Chancellor: This last Argument implies that the Trustee should keep the Estate himself, whereas it is plain he shall not, but shall be a Trustee for him to whom the Reversion shall be adjudged to belong. The Marriage and Marriage Portion supports only the Limitation to the Husband and Wife and their Issue, this is all that is presumed to have been stipulated for by the Wife or her Friends.

A. seized in Fee on his Marriage covenants to settle the Premises on himself and Wife, and on the Issue of the Marriage, Remainder to his Nephew in Fee; the Remainder in Fee is voluntary, and not supported by the Consideration of that Marriage or of the Marriage Portion.

But as to the Case cited in Hardress and Levinz, where there was a Limitation to the Heirs of the Body of the Husband by any other Wife, that tho' not made for a valuable Consideration, was not however fraudulent, for there was a fair and honest Occasion for the making of such Settlement, (viz.) the Marriage; it could not well be intended to have been made to cheat a Creditor, unless the Person making the same were then in Debt; the very Remoteness of the Limitation to a Brother, or to the Issue by an after-taken Wife, was an Evidence that such Limitation was not intended to cheat Creditors.

A. the Father and B. the Son on the Marriage of B. articted to settle Land on B. and his Wife for their Lives, Remainder to their Issue, Remainder to the Nephew in Fee; if A. had the sole Interest, the Limitation to the Nephew is voluntary; secus if the Father and Son had each some Interest.

If old Lawrence the Father had the whole Estate, I do not see with whom he could contract, except with his Son's Wife and her Friends, which will only make a good Consideration for the Husband and Wife and their Issue.

But what very much helps this Case is, the Appointment of the Estate by old Lawrence by the Indorsement to his Son Edward in Fee, which gave the Son Edward the legal Estate; and also old Lawrence's having paid to his two Granddaughters Mary and Eleanor 650 l. a-piece, taking their Receipt for this Money, whereby old Lawrence obtained an Interest in Equity in this Estate, at least a Trust for the raising 1300 l. upon it, and it cannot be intended, but that there was some Trust betwixt old Lawrence and his Son Edward, for that the former would not part with all he had in his Life-time to his Son Edward, which is rendered still clearer by his continuing in Possession after his Appointment to his Son, and by the Son's submitting to accept such Limitations as are made him by the Articles.

Wherefore each of them, the said old Lawrence Head and Edward Head having an Interest in the Premises, so that the one without the other could not make a Settlement thereof; here is now a proper Person for old Lawrence the Father to stipulate with, viz. his Son Edward, and it may be well intended, that old Lawrence Head did stipulate with his Son Edward, that he the said Lawrence would come into those Articles and join therein, on Terms that the Estate should, in Case of Edward's dying without Issue Male by that Marriage, Marriage, and young Lawrence Head's dying also without Issue Male, then go to the Plaintiff Osgood; and this probably was Part of the Marriage Agreement and of the Terms on which it was made, tho' the leaving out the Sons of Edward by any other Marriage might be a Mistake.

But since this might be, and probably was, nay appears to have been the Terms of this Marriage Agreement, and the Inducement to old Lawrence to join therein, Equity ought to decree a Performance of it, but I will give no Costs.

And because the Limitation by the Articles is to Edward for Life, Remainder to his first &c. Son in Tail Male, tho' the Limitation to the Plaintiff Osgood be to him and his Heirs Male, which may seem to have been designedly distinguished by the Parties from the former Limitation, yet it being in Case of Articles, where a Latitude is given to a Court of Equity to expound the same, I will construe it to be intended to the Plaintiff Osgood and his Sons in Tail Male, so that the Premises shall be conveyed to him for Life, but it shall be sans Waste, with Power to make such Leases as Tenant in Tail may, with Trustees to support contingent Remainders, Remainder to his first &c. Son in Tail Male, with the like Remainder to the next Person, viz. Southby for his Life sans Waste, with Remainder to Trustees to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to his first &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder to the right Heirs of old Lawrence, who are the Defendants Mary Strode and John Coxwell.

Note; In December 1725. this Cause was reheard before Lord Chancellor King, who after long Debate took Notice, that several material Things had been said against the Decree; however, in Cases where he himself was not fully satisfied, he would never reverse his Predecessor's Decree; and that here his Lordship was not so well satisfied; that it appeared to him old Lawrence Head had an Interest (at least an equitable one) in the Premises; and it was considerable, that by these Articles in Question he had provided for every Branch of the Family, and as it seemed to be a very reasonable Agreement for a Settlement, his Lordship affirmed the Decree for carrying the same into Execution.

JOHN Wagstaff seized of Lands in Fee conveyed them by Lease and Release to Trustees and their Heirs, to the Use of them and their Heirs, in Trust that (after such Monies raised as therein mentioned) the Trustees should convey the Premises to *J. devises these Lands by a Will attested but by two Witnesses; the Will void, and will not operate as an Appointment.

The Monies were raised, and J. S. by Will attested only by two Witnesses devised the Premises to J. N.

Obj. The Trust being that the Trustees should convey the Premises to such Persons as J. S. his Heirs or Assigns should direct, this Will, tho' not good by Way of Devise, shall however be effectual as an Appointment, like a Copyhold surrendered to the Use of a Will, which may be devised by a Will attested by two Witnesses, or one Witness only.

Copyhold

a Will attested

But Lord Chancellor interrupted the Counsel, and said this was a very plain Case; that as to the Case which had been put of a Copyhold surrendered to the Use of a Will, and afterwards devised by a Will attested by one or two Witnesses, this had been adjudged to be good, and (a) his Opinion was never to shake any settled Resolutions touching Property or the Title of Land, it being for the common Good, that these should be certain and known, however ill grounded the first Resolution might be; but if that had not been settled, it might be more reasonable to say, when I have surrendered my Copyhold to the Use of my Will, a Will of this Copyhold shall be so executed, and in such a Manner, as by the Act of Parliament a Will of Lands (b) ought to be executed, but this Case having been ruled otherwise, he would not shake it, however he was not for carrying it one Jot further.

(a) See Vol. I. the Case of Goodright and Wright, & ante that of Daws and Ferrers.

(b) See Vol. I. the Case of Longford versus Eyre, towards the End of the Case.

That in the other Case the Copyhold passed by Surrender, and not by the Will, which was only a Declaration of the Use of the Surrender; whereas in the principal Case it was no more than a common Trust of Lands in Fee-simple, (viz.) in Trust for J. S. his Heirs and Assigns, or such Person or Persons as he or they should appoint; now these last Words were no more than what was implied before, & expressio eorum quae tacite insunt nihil operatur; where a Trust is limited to A. and his Heirs, A. may appoint the Trust to J. S. and J. S. is then the Assignee of A. Now,

There could be no Question but that a Trust of an Inheritance could not be devised otherwise than by a Will attested by three Witnesses in the same Manner as a legal Estate; for if the Law were otherwise it would introduce the same Inconveniences as to Frauds and Perjuries, as were occasioned before the Statute by a Devise of a legal Estate in Fee-simple.

That

(a) Vide
2 Vern. 597.
Devise of Lands to a Charity attested by two only void.

That in the Case of (b) Dr. Johnson, where a Man seized of Lands in Fee devised them to a Charity by a Will attested only by two Witnesses, Lord Comper had decreed the same to be void, notwithstanding it was there objected, that the Will might operate as an Appointment according to the Statute of 43 Eliz. of Charitable Uses.

2dly, Besides, the principal Case was much stronger against the Will, as the same did not refer to the Deed of Trust, but J. S. had undertaken to devise the Land as Owner thereof without any Relation had to the pretended Power; which made it like the Case put 1 Inst. 111, 112. where, after the Statute of H. 8. enabling People to dispose by Will of two Thirds of their Lands held by Knights-Service, a Man so seized made a Feoffment in Fee to the Use of such Persons and for such Estates as he should by Will appoint; here the Fee by Operation of Law was held to continue in the Feoffor, on whose limiting the Estates by his Will by Force and in Pursuance of his Power, the Uses and Estates growing out of the Feoffment would be good for the whole, and the Will would be but directory; but in case the Feoffor had devised the Land as Owner thereof, without any Reference to the Feoffment or Power thereby given, there the Land passing by the Will, such Will would be good only as to two Thirds.

Wherefore it was adjudged in the principal Case that the Will was void, and that the Trustees should convey the Premises to the Heir at Law of the Testator. See the next Case.

MEMORANDUM, In Hill. Vacation 1727. in a Cause at the Rolls, his Honour admitted it to be settled that where a Copyhold in Fee is surrendered to the Use of one's Will, such Will though executed in the Presence of one or two Witnesses only is good, because it passes by the Surrender and not by the Will, which is only a Declaration of the Use of the Surrender; but that if a Copyholder be seised only of the Trust or Equity of Redemption of the Copyhold, and devises such Trust or Equity of Redemption, there must be three Witnesses to the Will; for here can be no precedent Surrender to the Use of the Will to pass this Trust, and the Trust and Equity of Redemption of all Lands of Inheritance are within the Statute of Frauds and Perjuries, otherwise great Inconvenience would arise therefrom; and it is no Prejudice to the Lord of the Manor to comprise the Trust of a Copyhold within that Statute, because the Person who has the legal Estate of the Copyhold is Tenant to the Lord, and liable to answer all the Services.*

Tho' where a Copyhold is surrendered to the Use of a Will there need not be three Witnesses to such Will, because the Copyhold passes by Surrender and not by the Will; yet a Trust or Equity of Redemption of a Copyhold cannot pass by a Will unless attested by three Witnesses.

Case 65.

Lord Macclesfield.

UPON a Motion for a Sequestration against the Defendant's real and personal Estate in Ireland, it was alledged that the Plaintiff had here in England proceeded to a Sequestration, and that it would be vain to take out a Sequestration here, the Defendant having no Estate any where but in Ireland; that a Sequestration had been granted in the like Case, as in that of (a) Lord Arglafs versus Muschamp, where the Court granted a Sequestration into Ireland, nay, that such Process had been awarded to the Governor of North-Carolina.

The Court of Chancery in England may grant a Sequestration against the Defendant in Ireland, but it must be after a Sequestration taken out here and Nulla bona returned.

Lord

* But in the Case of Tuffnell versus Page, Pasch. 1740. the Lord Hardwicke was of Opinion, that the Trust of a Copyhold would pass by a Will not attested according to the Statute of Frauds, as a Copyhold surrendered to the Use of a Will would do; for that Equity ought to follow the Law, and make it at least as easy to convey a Trust as a legal Interest. And decreed accordingly.

(a) Vol. I.

Chapter of

Lord Chancellor: The Plaintiff ought at least first to take out a Sequestration here, and upon Nulla bona returned I will grant a Sequestration which shall affect the Defendant's Estate in Ireland; the Courts of Justice here have a Superintendant Power over (a) those in Ireland, and therefore Writs of Error lie in B. R. in England to reverse Judgments in B. R. in Ireland. [Sed quære to whom the Sequestration against the Defendant's Estate in Ireland is to be directed, and if it should not be by an Order from Lord Chancellor reciting the Proceedings here, and directing the Chancellor of Ireland to issue out a Sequestration there for the Benefit of the Plaintiff, and towards Satisfaction of his Demands.]

Application ought to be made to the King in Council for a Sequestration to the Foreign Plantations.

But as to the Sequestration mentioned to be directed to the Governor of North-Carolina, or any other of the Plantations, the Court doubted much whether such Sequestration should not be directed by the King in Council, where alone an Appeal lies from the Decrees in the Plantations, for which Reason it seemed that in such Case the Plaintiff ought to make his Application to the King in Council, and not to this Court.

Mr. Justice Dormer's Case.

SIR William Dormer Bart. Nephew of Mr. Justice Dormer was found a Lunatick in March 1693. whereupon their late Majesties King William and Queen Mary granted the Custody of his Estate to his Uncle the now Mr. Justice Dormer, who is the next Remainder-man in Tail of the principal Part of the Family Estate, but the Person of the Lunatick was granted to another.

Afterwards these Grants were upon the Demises of the Crown frequently renewed, the Custody of the Estate being always granted to Mr. Justice Dormer, and that of the Person of the Lunatick to the other.

But in Truth it appeared that the other Person was only nominal and in Trust for Mr. Justice Dormer, who all along had the Lunatick in his own Custody, and lived with his whole Family in the Lunatick's House in the County of Bucks, and it was in Proof that Sir Robert Jenkinson who was the nominal Committee for the Person of the Lunatick declared he knew nothing of the Matter, or how the Lunatick was managed, but that the Lunatick was under the Conduct and in the Custody of Mr. Justice Dormer.

Whereupon Mr. Sheldon who was the Lunatick's deceased Sister's Son petitioned, that the Custody of the Estate might be taken from Mr. Justice Dormer, and that likewise the Custody of the Person might be removed, the same being now in Effect in Mr. Justice Dormer, tho' in the Name of Sir Robert Jenkinson.

And it having been ordered that 200 l. per Annum Part of the Income of the Lunatick's Estate in Gloucestershire, which was subject to a Mortgage of 850 l. should be set apart to pay off the Mortgage, and that the Residue of the Profits should be applied towards the Maintenance of the Lunatick and the Management of his Estate; the Lunatick's said Nephew complained in his Petition, that this Maintenance was excessive and to the Prejudice of the next of Kin, to whom would belong what the Lunatick should leave at his Death.

Lord Chancellor : I found this Order made for the Commitment of the Custody of the Estate to Mr. Justice Dormer, and of the Person to Sir Robert Jenkinson whom I take to be a nominal Person for Mr. Justice Dormer, and that the Person of the Lunatick has in Fact been all along with Mr. Justice Dormer; and that such Allowance has been made to the Judge for the Maintenance of the Lunatick and Management of his Estate, is beyond Dispute.

Surely the Maxim, that the next of Kin to whom the Land cannot descend is to be Guardian in Socage, is not grounded upon Reason, but prevailed in barbarous Times before the Nation was civilized; for what can be more usual now, than where one has Infant Children to make one's Brother their Guardian? and it seems no less reasonable that where a Man dies Intestate, the Law should dispose of the Guardianship of his Children in the same Manner as the Intestate would be supposed to do, had he lived to make a Will.

It is very shocking to think that any Brother or Uncle would commit Murder upon his own Brother or Nephew to get his Estate; but in the present Case here has been the strongest Proof that there is not any Ground for that cruel and barbarous Presumption in Mr. Justice Dormer, who for these thirty-two Years last past has maintained his Nephew in the most tender and careful Manner, and who, if he could have been supposed to have any ill Designs upon his Nephew the Lunatick, might have executed them long since; this Experience of the Judge's Tenderness towards his Nephew is the strongest Argument of his being the proper Guardian for him; and as to the Petitioner's Complaint that the Maintenance is too much, he seems to be taking more Care of himself than of the Lunatick in this Case.

I think the Improvements made of the Lunatick's real Estate are very commendable; the Lunatick may recover, and then to see his Estate in good Condition and Plight may be greatly to his Comfort; and tho' he has been so long in this unhappy Condition, yet a Lunatick in the Eye of the Law is never looked upon to be desperate, but always at least in a Possibility of recovering: It is his Benefit and Comfort I am to take Care of where no Creditor complains, and not to heap up Wealth for the Benefit of his Administrators, or next of Kin.

A Lunatick is never to be looked upon as irrecoverable.

The Lunatick's Comfort to be regarded, and not his Administrators, or next of Kin.

Therefore I will not lessen the Allowance nor alter the Committee of the Person; besides, No-body can tell who will be the Lunatick's next of Kin at his Death, for he may live to bury all the next of Kin that are so now.

Case 67.

Lords Commissioners
Gilbert and Raymond.

Dr. Martin and Lady Arabella Howard his Wife } Plaintiffs ;

Nutkin & al'Defendants.

The Plaintiff's House being so near the Church that the five o'Clock Bell rung in the Morning disturbed her, the Plaintiff came to an Agreement in Writing with the Church-wardens and Inhabitants at a Vestry, that the Plaintiff would erect a Cupolo and Clock at the Church, and in Consideration thereof the five o'Clock Bell should not be rung in the Morning; this a good Agreement, and decreed to be binding in Equity.

THE Bill was brought against the Defendants the Church-wardens, and against the Parson and Overseers and several of the Inhabitants of the Town of Hammersmith, to stay the Ringing of the five o'Clock Bell of the Town of Hammersmith, which usually had been rung at Five of the Clock in the Morning from Michaelmas to Candlemas, except upon Holy-Days, and the twelve Days at Christmas.

The Case was, the Plaintiffs Doctor Martin and Dame Arabella Howard his Wife had a House at Hammersmith very near the Church, and Lady Howard being of a sickly and weak Constitution, was much disturbed sturbed and disquieted by the Ringing of this Bell at five of the Clock in the Morning, and was about parting with her House and removing to another Parish, when it was intimated to her on Behalf of the Parish, that she might purchase her Quiet at a reasonable Sum to be laid out for the Benefit of the Parish.

Upon which it was proposed on Behalf of the Plaintiffs, that they should build a Cupolo to the Church, and erect a Clock and new Bell, provided that during the Lives of the Plaintiffs and of the Survivor of them, the five o'Clock Bell should not be rung; and accordingly, on a Sunday after Morning Service, Notice was given at the Church that the Vestry would meet upon the Occasions of the Parish. In Consequence of which they did meet; when this Proposal was made and agreed to, and an Entry being made of it in the Parish Vestry-Book, the same was signed by the Parson, Church-wardens, Overseers, and several of the Inhabitants; after which the Plaintiffs and the Defendants the Parson, Church-wardens, Overseers and some other of the Inhabitants executed Articles reciting the Proposal and Agreement at the Vestry, and the Plaintiffs thereby covenanted to erect a new Cupolo Clock and Bell, and the Defendants on their Parts covenanted, that the five o'Clock Bell should not be rung during the Lives of the Plaintiffs, or the Survivor of them; after this the Plaintiffs caused the Timber to be brought into the Church-yard for the erecting of the Cupolo, which was publickly seen, and the Plaintiffs were at the Charge of erecting the Cupolo, Clock and Bell, and the five o'Clock Bell was silenced for about two Years.

But the Defendant Nutkin an Ale-house Keeper being since chosen Church-warden, a new Order of Vestry was obtained for the Ringing again of the five o'Clock Bell, which occasioned the Plaintiffs to bring their Bill to injoin the Ringing of this Bell; and on Motion Lord Chancellor Macclesfield granted an Injunction to stay the Ringing until the Hearing.

And now the Cause came on before the Lords Commissioners Gilbert and Raymond, who decreed that the Injunction should continue during the Lives of the Plaintiffs and the Survivor of them; for that here was a meritorious Consideration executed on the Plaintiffs Side; that the Church-wardens were a Corporation, and might sell the Bells or silence them, and make a reasonable Agreement beneficial for the Parish, and thereby bind the Parishioners and their Successors as also the succeeding Church-wardens; that the Ringing the five o'Clock Bell did not seem to be of any Use to the Parish, tho' of very ill Consequence to the Plaintiff the Lady Howard, and ample Recompence had been made to the Parish by the Plaintiffs both in the Expence of the Cupolo, Clock and Bell, and also of 1500*l.* laid out in improving the Plaintiffs own House, which otherwise they would have left; and it moreover appearing that the Majority and better Part of the Parish continued willing to abide by this Agreement and protested against the new Order,

The Court thereupon decreed an Injunction against the Ringing of this five o'Clock Bell accordingly.

A. Was indebted to B who out-law'd A. and C having Goods of A in his Hands, B. brings a Bill against C. to discover what Goods of A. C. had in his Hands; C. demurs in regard B. does not shew any Title to these Goods; and in Support of the Demurrer it was urged that by the Bill it did not appear that B. the Plaintiff had any Grant of these Goods, or of the Debt from the Crown, until which Grant the Property remained in the Crown in Consequence of the Outlawry.

A. is indebted to B. B. outlaws A. and C. having Goods of A.'s in his Hands, B. brings a Bill against C. to discover what Goods of A. C. has in his Hands, C. may demur, for that

B. makes no Title to the Goods as having no Grant from the Crown; also for that the Attorney General ought to be a Party.

On the contrary I insisted that it was proper to know what these Goods were and the Value of them, before the Party took out such Grant, the Expence of it being considerable; and that in the mean Time the Crown was but as a Trustee for the Plaintiff who was at the Expence of the Outlawry.

But by Lord Commiffioner Gilbert, the Crown is not a Trustee for the Plaintiff, but it is merely out of Grace that the King makes fuch Grant of the Goods of Persons outlawed to the Plaintiffs who have no Manner of Right in these Goods, until the Grant obtained from the Crown, so that the Plaintiff comes too soon, it being before he has any Title.

IN this Cause it was faid by Lord Commiffioner Jekyll that there was a Difference betwixt a Deed and a Will gained from a weak Man and upon Misrepresentation or Fraud ; for if a Will be gained from a weak Man, and by false Representation, this is (a) not a fufficient Reason to fet it afide in Equity, as was determined in the Case of the late Duke of Newcastle's Will betwixt Lord Thanet and Lord Clare, and in the Case of Bodvil and Roberts ; but where a Deed (which is not revocable as a Will) is gained from a weak Man upon a Misrepresentation and without any valuable Consideration, the fame ought to be fet afide in Equity.

Case 70.

Lords Commissioners Jekyll and Gilbert.

ONE having several Daughters and being seised in Fee of Lands, by Will charges the Premisses with the Payment of his Daughters Portions, 1000 l. a-piece to each Daughter at her Age of twenty-two Years or Marriage which should first happen, and if any of his said Daughters should die before her Portion became payable, the Share of her so dying to go to the Survivors.

One has several Daughters, and being seised in Fee charges his Lands with 1000 l. a-piece to his Daughters payable at Twenty-two or Marriage; and if any die, then to the Survivors, but no Time limited when the additional Portion should be paid to the surviving Daughters. If one dies unmarried before Twenty-two, the additional Portion shall not be paid to the surviving Daughters until the deceased Daughter should have come to Twenty-two.

One of the Daughters dies before twenty-two or Marriage, and another of the Daughters attains twenty two Years of Age.

Insisted that there being no Time appointed when the Portion accruing by Survivorship should be paid, it ought to be paid presently.

Lords Jekyll and Gilbert: This Portion arises out of Lands, and it would be an Hardship on the Heir (whom Equity favours) to make it payable before the Time it was intended.

Now there can be no Reason to make the additional Portion payable before the original one, wherefore, as the Heir is to suffer by the raising of these Portions, it may reasonably be presumed in Favour of him, that the Testator might compute within what Time they might be paid, so that this additional Portion shall not be paid before such Time as the Daughter

ter to whom it was given should have come to the Age of twenty-two Years if she had lived.

And (as I understood) the Court also declared that the other Daughters should not have their Shares of the Portion so accruing by Survivorship, until they respectively should have attained their Age of twenty-two or be married, it not being the Intention of the Testator to trust any of his Daughters with their Portions until twenty-two or Marriage.

EEdward Belitha* who was a Freeman of London had two Daughters, viz. Hannah and Elizabeth, and one Son the Defendant William.

Freeman of London, upon receiving a suitable Portion, may release to his Father his Orphanage Part; yet if the Child or the Husband of such Child covenants to release to the Executors after the Freeman's Death, this is good, and Equity will execute the Covenant.

The Plaintiff Cox married the eldest Daughter the Plaintiff Hannah, without the Consent of her Father, however after the Marriage the Father Belitha gave a Portion to his said Daughter of 4000*l.* 1400*l.* in Money, and the rest in a Leasehold and Freehold Estate, which was settled by the Consent of the Husband for the separate Use of the Wife, and afterwards to her Children, and thereupon the Plaintiff Cox the Husband released to his Father-in-law Belitha, " All
" his Right and Interest which he had or might have “ to any Part of his personal Estate by Virtue of the “ Custom of the City of London or otherwise, ex“ cept such Part as his Father-in-law should give to “ him or his Wife by Will or otherwise;” and by the said Deed of Release the Plaintiff Cox covenanted at any Time after the Decease of his Father-in-law Belitha, “ To do any further Act for the Releasing of any “ Right which he might have by the Custom of Lon- “ don, to the Executors or Administrators of the said “ Edward Belitha the Father.

Obj. The Interest which a Child has in the Orphanage Part by the Custom of London, is a mere Contingency, and no present Right; consequently it can no more be released, than an Heir may release before his Father's Death his Right to his Father's real Estate.

Nevertheless the Court seemed inclined to think that the Release being for a valuable Consideration, purported an Agreement to quit the Right to the Orphanage Part, and to be binding (a) in Equity; but tho' this might not be so clear, yet where the Husband for a valuable Consideration had covenanted thereafter to release the said future Right, and the Defendant having brought a cross Bill to compel the Plaintiff in the original Cause to make such Release to him, as Executor to the Freeman, and it being in Proof that the Executor had before the bringing the said Suit tendered such Release, and that the Son-in-law had refused to execute it, the Court decreed a specific Performance of the Covenant by executing the said Release to the Executor of the Freeman.

(a) See the Case of Blunden and Barber, Vol. I.

2dly, The Court held, that where a Daughter was advanced in Part, and the Freeman the Father had settled some Leasehold Estate to the separate Use of the Daughter the Feme Covert, this ought to be brought into Hotchpot, it being in the strictest Sense an Advancement of the Child pro tanto.

Any Lands of Inheritance settled by a Freeman on a Child, no Advancement; secus of a Lease for Years; but if Lands of Inheritance are given as an Advancement, and in Bar of the Custom, and accepted as such, this will bind in Equity.

3dly, It was held that any Land of Inheritance settled by the Freeman upon his Children is (a) not to be called an Advancement either in Part or in the whole within the Custom of London, in regard Lands of Inheritance are not within the Custom which affects only the personal Estate (b) of the Freeman; secus of a Lease for Years; but if Lands of Inheritance be given to a Child by the Freeman in Bar of the Orphanage Part and accepted as such, it will be binding, or at least the Child cannot have both.

4thly, In this Case the Freeman had left to his other Daughter Elizabeth 3500 l. as a Legacy by the Will, but it appeared to the Court that the said Elizabeth was but a weak Woman and about forty Years old and not like to marry, and it was positively sworn by the Answer of the Defendant the Son, that the Father after the making of the Will had desired the Defendant his Son to secure an Annuity of 250 l. per Annum to his Sister the Plaintiff Elizabeth in Satisfaction of her Legacy; and accordingly Elizabeth after the Death of her Father (in a publick Manner with the Consent of her Relations and Friends, by a Deed to which the Plaintiff Cox and his Wife Hannab and the Trustee in the Father's Will were Witnesses) re-being the Father's Executor agrees with his Sister then Forty Years old, to give, and does settle an Annuity of 250 l. per Annum on his Sister in Lieu of her Portion; the other Sister's Husband is Witness to the Deed, and the Agreement made by the Consent of the Relations. Bill brought by the other Sister's Husband to set aside this Agreement, dismissed with Costs.

(a) Note; Lands of Inheritance given by a Father to a younger Son is an Advancement within the Statute of Distributions. (b) See the Cases of Babbington versus Greenwood, and Blunden versus Barker, Vol. I.

leased the said Legacy of 3500*l.* and all her Right to her Father's personal Estate by the Custom of London, to the Defendant her Brother; and in Consideration thereof the Defendant the Brother by Mortgage secured an Annuity of 250*l.* per Annum payable quarterly to his said Sister Elizabeth free from all Taxes.

And it was now objected by the Plaintiffs that this Annuity was not of equal Value with the Legacy; that the Sister was hereby disabled from marrying, and that the same could be no Consideration for the releasing the Orphanage Part.

Sed per Cur': It is a very ill Thing in the Plaintiff to endeavour by a Bill to fet aside that Deed which he himself before supported by being a Witness thereto; besides, according to the positive Oath of the Son by the Answer which was read (and ought to be regarded) this was done by the Son and accepted of by the Daughter in Piety to the Directions of the Father, and out of Regard to his Memory; it was done by the Consent and Privity of the whole Family and of the Trustee in the Father's Will, as thought better for the Sister being a weak Woman and not likely to marry, and was plainly for the Benefit of the Sister, it being a certain and plentiful Provision to her for her Life; whereas the Money might be lost, which seems here to be sought after by Cox the Brother, who probably brought his Sister-in-Law into this Cause in Hopes of making some Advantage of her. And as to the Objection that the Annuity is not equivalent to the Legacy; it is possible the Sister might intend to be kind to her Brother, betwixt whom there was the Consideration of Blood alone sufficient to raise an Use even of a real Estate, and the Court will not be nice in weighing the Consideration betwixt Brother and Sister.

Wherefore

Wherefore let the Bill be dismissed and Cox only pay the Costs, and let him be decreed in the Cross Cause to release his Right to the Customary Part in Purfuance of the Covenant, and to pay Costs there also.

If I secure a Portion to a Child by Deed payable at twenty-one out of Land, and the Child dies before twenty-one, the Portion shall sink into the Land and

ONE has two Sons Richard and Thomas, and being seized in Fee of the Manor of Blackacre (which Manor was in Mortgage) makes his Will thereby devising 1000 l. to his younger Son Thomas (being then about a Year old) to be paid to him when he should have arrived at his Age of twenty-one, out of the Manor of Blackacre, with a Power to the Executor by felling of Timber growing on the Estate to raise such Monies as his personal Estate should fall short of, for the Payment of his Debts and Legacies.

not go to the Executor. So if I devise a Portion to a Child out of Land payable at twenty-one, and the Child dies before twenty-one, the Portion shall sink. Also the Portion shall sink as well for the Benefit of the Hæres factus as of the Hæres natus. So tho' the Money given to the Child be not said to be for a Portion; if it appears to be so in Fact. If by the Will the Portion be given out of a real and personal Estate payable to the Child at twenty-one, and the Child dies before twenty-one, then so much as will arise out of the personal Estate shall go to the Executor or Administrator, but what would arise out of the Land must sink.

The younger Son Thomas dies about the Age of two Years, and the eldest Son dies about the Age of six, upon which the Estate comes to the Uncle, and the Mother having administrated to the younger Son claims the 1000 l. Legacy.

Against which it was objected, that this 1000 l. being charged upon Lands, and being also for a Child's Portion, tho' not by express Words mentioned to be for a Portion, yet the Fact appearing to be so, and the Child dying before such Portion became payable, it ought to sink in the Land, and not to go to the Administratrix of the Child, for which Purpose the Case of (a) Poulet versus Poulet was cited.

(a) 2 Vent.
366.
321.

On the other Side it was answered, that tho' it might be a true Rule that where a Portion is secured by a Deed out of Land for a Child, and the Child dies before the Day of Payment, such Portion shall sink into the Land for the Benefit of the Heir; yet it was otherwise in Case of a Will, and that in the principal Case by the Wording of the Will, this 1000 l. was debitum in presenti tho' solvendum in futuro, for the Bequest is immediate, viz. I do give my second Son Thomas 1000 l. and the future Time is (b) annexed only to the Payment and not to the Legacy. Otherwise where I give a Legacy to J. S. at Twenty-one, for here the Time being annexed to the Legacy itself, if J. S. dies before Twenty-one, it cannot go to his Executors.

(b) Vide

Lord Commissioner Jekyll: It was determined about the latter End of Lord Sommers's Time in the Case of (c) Yates and Fettiplace, that where one by Will gave a Portion to a Child out of a real Estate, payable at a future Time, and the Child died before that Time, the Portion should sink; nay that it should sink as well for the Benefit of (d) an Hæres factus as of an Hæres natus, for the former is substituted by the Testator in the Place of the latter; and the true Reason is, that the Legacy being given as a Portion, when the Child dies before the Portion is payable, there is no Occasion for it, and Equity will not countenance the Loading of an Heir for the Benefit of an Administrator.

Then

(d) So an Hæres factus is intitled to have the personal Estate applied in Exoneration of the real Estate as well as the Hæres natus. Precedents in Chan. 2.

Then it was objected that tho' this might be true as to a Portion given out of a real Estate, yet here the Legacy was a Charge also upon the personal Estate, and therefore (it was said) that if the real Estate was not sufficient for the Payment of the said Legacy, yet the personal Estate should be liable; and that this was the plainer from the Executor's being impowered to fell Timber for the Payment of such of the Legacies as the personal Estate was not sufficient to pay.

Cur': This must be intended such of the Legacies as the personal Estate was liable to pay, it is true were the Legacy chargeable on the personal as well as real Estate, then so much thereof as the personal Estate would extend to pay, should go to the Executors or Administrators of the Child, but this is a Charge only upon the Land.

3dly, It was contended, that the Guardian of the Son who was in Possession ought out of the Profits to have kept down the Interest of the Mortgage, like the Case where a Man mortgages Land and devises to A. for Life, Remainder to B. in Fee, A. must keep down the Interest.

Cur': That is not like the present Case; for in the Case cited, a third Person the Remainder-man and one not claiming under the Tenant for Life, would suffer by Non-payment of Interest; otherwise here, where the Son was intitled to the whole Fee-simple, and might when of Age charge or alien the Whole; and if a Devisee in Fee of a mortgaged Estate be of Age, and suffers the Interest to grow greatly in Arrear, his Executor shall not be bound out of the Rents to keep down the same; but this being in the Case of an Infant and a Guardian, it would be a great Inconvenience, if the Guardian might ruin the Inheritance (which it is his Duty to preserve) by letting the Interest run on, and this to increase the personal Estate, which (possibly) he may be in Expectation of; wherefore let the said Guardian or his Executor (in Case of his Death) answer the Interest out of the Profits.

Note; Lord Commissioner Jekyll said, he took this to be a new Case, and wondered it had not been before determined.

Term. S. Trinitatis,

1725.

Case 73.

Lord Chancellor King.

Barker versus Giles.

A Devise of Lands to A. and B. and the Survivor of them and their Heirs, equally to be divided betwixt them Share and Share alike ;

A. and B. are Jointenants for their Lives, and have several Inheritances.

ONE devises his Lands to be sold for Payment of Debts and Legacies, and the Surplus of the Money arising from the Sale to be laid out in Lands, and to be settled to the Use of the Testator's two Nephews Ferome and Robert Barker, and the Survivor of them and their Heirs, equally to be divided between them Share and Share alike.

Ferome Barker one of the Devisees and Nephews of the Testator dies in the Testator's Life-time, and then the Testator dies leaving Penelope Wife of John Blake his Heir at Law.

The Question was, what should become of the Devisee Ferome Barker the Nephew's Moiety, whether it should descend as a lapsed Devise and undisposed of to the Testator's Heir at Law, or go to the surviving Nephew and Devisee the Plaintiff Robert Barker ?

This Cause was argued before the Lords Commissioners Gilbert and Raymond, who not agreeing, adjourned it over as a Case of Difficulty, and so it was the first Cause that came on before Lord Chancellor King.

And it was agreed that Money directed by Will or Articles to be laid out in Land should be taken as Land, wherefore it was the same Thing in this Case as if the Devise had been of Land itself (a).

(a) See the Case of Legate versus Sewall, Vol. I.

But on one Side it was argued that if Jerome Barker the Nephew and Devisee had survived the Testator, he would have been Tenant in common in Fee and not Jointenant with the other Devisee Robert Barker.

That Jointenancy was an odious Title in Equity, there being no Reason that because a Man lived longest, and had the better Constitution, therefore he should be intitled to the whole Estate.

That the Intention of this Will was to provide not only for the Testator's two Nephews personally, but also for their Posterity; that the Words [equally to be divided] were tantamount with saying, "I devise my Lands to my two Nephews in equal Parts;" or the same Thing as to say in Moieties, viz. one Moiety to one and the other Moiety to the other, which is an express Tenancy in common created by the most proper Words for that Purpose; and to this Lord Commissioner Gilbert had agreed. See also Lit. Tenures, sect. 298. and the Case of Blisset and Cranwell, 1 Salk. 226. and 3 Lev. 373. in Point.

Then taking it that the Nephews of the said Testator would have been Tenants in common, it was plain that upon one of these two Devisees dying in the Testator's Life-time, his Share became as a void Devise, and lapsed to the Testator's Heir at Law as an Estate undisposed of by the Will.

On the other Side it was urged, that the Words [equally to be divided] and [Share and Share alike] were but an implied Tenancy in common in a Will, and would not make a Tenancy in common in a Deed; and that it was for some Time a (a) Question whether they would make a Tenancy in common even in a Will; but still as it was but an implied Tenancy in common, the Word [Survivor] creating an express Jointenancy must prevail and take place, for which were cited 2 Ro. Abr. 90. pl. 5. and Styler 211. in Point; and that it would be against the Rules of Exposition to reject Words in a Will, especially so significant a Word as Survivor was.

(a) See
Vol. I. the Case of Fisher and Wigg.

But to this it was replied, that some Words must be rejected either Way, and there would be a Necessity to reject more upon the other Construction to make it a Jointenancy; for then the Words [equally to be divided] and [Share and Share alike] must all go for nothing; and Blisset and Cranwel's Case was much relied upon as being the last Resolution in which the former Cases in Styler and Rolle were cited and considered.

Lord Chancellor: It is a certain Rule in the Exposition of Wills especially, that every Word shall have its Effect, and not be rejected if any Construction can possibly be put upon it; and here I think there may; the first Part of the Devise being to two and the Survivor of them, makes them plainly Jointenants for Life, and therefore they shall be so taken; and then, as to the next Words [and to their Heirs equally to be divided between them Share and Share alike] these are plainly Words importing a Tenancy in common, and shall operate accordingly, so as to make them Tenants in common of the Inheritance, by which Construction of the Will every Word takes Effect; wherefore the two Nephews would have been Jointenants for Life, with several Inheritances to them in common: But one of them dying in the Life of the Testator, by that Means the surviving Nephew becomes intitled to the whole for Life; and the Inheritance being devised in common, the one Moiety whereof having lapsed by the Death of one of the Devisees in the Life of the Testator, for this Reason tho' the surviving Nephew shall have the whole for his Life, a Moiety of the Inheritance expectant upon the surviving Nephew's Death shall descend to the Testator's Heir at Law, and the other Moiety of the Fee shall go to the surviving Nephew's Heir; and his Lordship said that if the Bar were not satisfied with this Opinion, he would take Time to consider of it until the next Morning; but it seems his Lordship delivered his Thoughts with so much Clearness that both Sides acquiesced, and thereupon the Cause was decreed as above.

This Decree upon an Appeal to the House of Lords was affirmed.

THIS came upon Exceptions to a Decree made by Commiſſioners of charitable Uſes, where the Governors of the Free-School of St. Olaves in Southmark joined in making a long Leaſe for Years of fix Houſes belonging to the School at 5*l. per Annum* Rent, whereas the Houſes were worth 50*l. per Annum.*

The Lords Commiſſioners decreed the Aſſignee of this Leaſe to ſurrender it back, and ordered the Leſſee and the Governors to pay 70*l.* Coſts.

And now Lord Chancellor King affirmed the Decree as to the Surrendring the Leaſe; but mitigated the Coſts by reducing them to 50*l.* ſaying there was no Reaſon that the Charity ſhould pay the Coſts; on the other Hand it was juſt, that the Owner of the Lease who was to have the Benefit of the Breach of Trust, should pay Cofts; and as to the Governors, though they were to gain nothing by this and were not guilty of any Corruption, yet they had been extremely negligent in their Trust, for which they ought to be punished with some Cofts.

Case 76.

LADY Bidulph as Devisee of Lands of Inheritance under Sir — Bidulph, brought a Bill in Equity against the Heir to perpetuate the Evidence of the Will; the Defendant the Heir answered, and put the Plaintiff to prove the Will, who examined Witnesses for that Purpose, and the Heir on his Part cross-examined one of the Witnesses to disprove the Will.

Bill by Devisee against an Heir to prove a Will, the Heir cross-examines the Plaintiff's Witnesses and refuses to release his he examines Right, yet the Heir shall have his Cofts given him on Motion; otherwise if Witnesses of his own.

And now the Heir the Defendant moved for his Cofts, in regard the Plaintiff the Devisee had made the like Motion, and a Day being given to shew Cause why the Plaintiff should not pay Cofts, Mr. Mead urged that the Defendant the Heir should not have Cofts, because he had put the Devisee to some Cofts extraordinary by cross-examining the Witnesses, and then there could be no Reason that the Devisee should pay those Cofts.

Lord Chancellor: This is the Case of an Heir disinherited, and it is unreasonable that he should be at any Charge for the establishing of that Will which is to his own Prejudice; on the other Hand it is for the Advantage and Benefit of the Devisee to prove and perpetuate the Testimony of this Will; but tho' the Heir be at Liberty to ask Questions of the Plaintiff's Witnesses, it may be reasonable he should not have Coſts, where he examines Witnesses of his own.

Memorandum, That in the Caſe of Angell and Brown where there was a Motion of the like Nature, and not long after the Caſe above reported, it was objected that the Heir would not release his Right to the Premiſſes; to which it was answered by the Court that this was not material, for that ſtill the Devisee had the Fruit of his Suit and the Benefit of perpetuating the Teſtimony of his Witnesses; and that therefore the Heir ſhould have his Coſts, notwithstanding his having croſs-examined the Plaintiff's Witnesses, and that it was reasonable the Heir ſhould have ſuch Power of croſs-examining, otherwiſe the Plaintiff would be at Liberty to prove what he pleaſed.

Defendant has Leave to plead answer and demur, but not to demur alone. The Defendant demurs and answers only by denying Combination or ſome ſuch trifling Matter; Demurrer ſet aſide.

A Bill was brought to ſet aſide a Will relating to a perſonal Eſtate only, and to ſtay the Probate thereof, ſetting forth that the Will was gained by Fraud, by miſrepreſenting the Plaintiffs who were the Half Brothers and Siſters of the Teſtatrix, and alledging that the Will was falſly read to her, and ſetting forth divers Inſtances of Fraud on the Part of the Defendants in procuring this Will.

The Defendants (two of which were the Executors) had an Order to plead, answer and demur, but not to demur alone, and as to that Part of the Bill which ſought to ſet aſide the Will and to ſtay the Probate, they demurred to the Jurisdiction, forasmuch as upon the Face of the Bill it appeared that the Plaintiffs tiffs were improper to sue here, in regard the Spiritual Court had the proper Cognizance of Wills relating to personal Estates, and could determine Fraud concerning them; and for Answer said that they did not know the Plaintiffs were the Half Brothers and Sisters of the Testatrix, and denied Combination.

After which, Motions were made before the Lord-Commissioners and Lord Chancellor King for an Injunction, for that the Demurrer confessed the Fraud, and Fraud was cognizable in Equity as well as in the Spiritual Court.

Cur' contra: (a) The Spiritual Court has Jurisdiction of Fraud relating to a Will of personal Estate, and can examine the Parties by Way of Allegation touching this Fraud, and if the Will was falsely read to the Testatrix then it is not her Will. So deny the Injunction.

(a) See the Case of Plume and Beale, Vol. I. The Court will deny an Injunction on a Bill brought to set aside a Will of a personal Estate for Fraud.

But afterwards it was moved, that the Defendants had not complied with the Order, for they ought not to have demurred alone, and this in Effect was demurring alone; for denying Combination was nothing; and saying that they did not know the Plaintiffs were Half Brother and Sister was immaterial, and in Effect no Answer.

Wherefore for this Reason the Demurrer on Motion was discharged, as not complying with the Order of the Court, it being in Effect a Demurrer only.

delity, the Son imbezils 200 l. which the Father pays, but desires the Master not to trust his Son any more with the Cash, the Master does trust the Apprentice again with the Cash, and is negligent in calling him to Account, the Son imbezils 1000 l. more; the Father is liable, but not to answer more in the whole than 1000 l. including the first 200 l.

THE Plaintiff placed his Son an Apprentice for seven Years with the Defendant who was a Merchant at Bristol, and was bound in a Bond of 1000 l. Penalty for his Son's Fidelity.

The Son was bound an Apprentice in 1712. and in 1715. imbeziled 203 l. of the Master's Cash, of which the Master gave Notice to the Plaintiff the Father demanding the Money, and the Father paid this 203 l. to the Defendant the Master, but at the same Time sent him a Letter, desiring, that since the Apprentice had been so ill a Manager of the Cash, he (the Master) would not for the future trust the Apprentice with any Cash, at least that he would do it very sparingly.

However, the Master having no other Apprentice, and being a great Dealer in the receiving and returning of Money, still continued to intrust the Plaintiff's Son with the receiving of his Cash; and about a Year after called upon the Apprentice for his Accounts, when the Apprentice in stating the Account appeared to be indebted upon the Ballance 300 l. but said he had Bills sufficient to answer this, tho' he did not produce them, nor did the Master make up the Account with the Apprentice, until near two Years after the Expiration of the Apprenticeship, and during that Time got the Apprentice to sign a Memorandum, whereby he acknowledged he had imbeziled 2750 l. of the Master's Cash.

The Apprenticeship expired the 12th of February 1719. and the Memorandum signed by the Apprentice confessing the last Imbezilment was dated 24 Feb. 1719. but the Apprentice still continued with the Master, and the Master gave no Notice of this Imbezilment until about the Middle of July 1721. and the Defendant the Master putting this 1000 l. Bond in Suit against the Father, the latter brought his Bill in Equity to be relieved against the Bond.

Objected for the Plaintiff, Here has been an apparent and gross Neglect in the Master, who, after he had discovered the Dishonesty of the Apprentice, and after the Father had satisfied him for the first Imbezilment, being 203 l. after the Father had sent a Letter of Caution to the Master, desiring for the future that he would not trust the Apprentice with the Cash, and when the Master had in the Year 1716. discovered the Apprentice to be indebted to the Cash 300 l. still continued to intrust him to receive the Cash, and had been so very remiss, as not to make up his Account, until after the End of the Apprenticeship, or to make any Demand against the Father until near two Years after that; whereas had the Master given earlier Notice, the Father might have called Home his Son and prevented any further Imbezlement; wherefore the latter Imbezilment being occasioned by the Master's Neglect, he ought to be the Sufferer thereby; at least, if the Father was to pay for this latter Imbezilment, still the Bond being but in 1000 l. Penalty, and the Father having paid 203 l. before, he ought not to do more than make up the whole 1000 l.

Lord Chancellor: The Father having given this Bond for his Son's Fidelity, tho' there was an Imbezilment, Vol. II. 4 E and

and tho' the Father sent this Letter to the Master desiring him not to trust the Son with receiving' Cash any longer, yet the Father continued bound, and ought not to have satisfied himself with sending the Letter and taking no further Care of the Matter, but should have endeavoured to have made some End with the Master, and to have got up the Bond; wherefore he must continue liable to answer some Imbezilments, unless there should appear Fraud in the Master.

But at the same Time, the Father having given his Bond of 1000 l. Penalty, seems to shew his Intention and Agreement to be, that the utmost Extent of what he was to answer, was but 1000 l. and having paid 203 l. before, he ought only to pay so much more as will make up the whole 1000 l. so that the 203 l. shall be taken as Part, otherwise it might be hard; as supposing the former Imbezilment had been 900 l. and had been paid by the Father, in such Case the Father, instead of answering but 1000 l. must have been liable for 1900 l.

To which it was replied, that the Bond being forfeited at Law, the Master could there recover the whole 1000 l. and since the same would be recovered at Law, if the Master had really had so much of his Cash imbezilled by the Son, it was reasonable that the Son's Father who was bound in this Bond should pay the whole 1000 l.

But per Lord Chancellor: The Father seems to have intended not to make himself liable beyond the 1000 l. and considering the Circumstances of the gross Neglect of the Master in this Case, and that he thereby was partly the Occasion of this Loss, it is reasonable that the 203 l. paid by the Father for the Son's Imbezilment should be taken as Part of the 1000 l. Penalty.

Let the Parties go before the Master, and let the Father pay to the Master what he proves to have been imbezilled by the Son during the Apprenticeship, not exceeding the 1000 l. Penalty of the Bond, but the 203 l. already paid is to be taken as Part of that 1000 l. so that now the Father at most is to pay 797 l. and this being on a Rehearing from a Decree by his (a) Honour the Master of the Rolls, sitting in Court for Lord Chancellor Macclesfield, who ordered that the Father should pay the whole 1000 l. if so much should prove to be imbezilled, without any Abatement for the 203 l. before paid on Account of the former Imbezilment, let the 10 l. Deposit be divided, the Plaintiff having prevailed but in Part upon this Rehearing.

Coppin versus Coppin.

Cafe 79.

FFrancis Coppin* the younger Brother of the Defendant John Coppin, having been unsuccessful in the former Part of his Life and contracted several Debts, and failed in the World, and compounded his Debts at 10 s. in the Pound, by the Assistance of his elder Brother the Defendant John Coppin, at length got an Interest in the East India Company, who employed him as one of their Supercargoes to Persia, where having gained a very considerable personal Estate, he wrote to his elder Brother to find out a Purchase for him.

A younger Brother beyond Sea having contracted to buy a real Estate of his elder Brother, makes his Will charging his Estate with great Legacies, but the Will is attested only by two Witnesses; afterwards the Testator dies without Issue, leaving his elder Brother Executor and Heir: The Heir may retain out of the Assets the whole Purchase-Money, tho' intitled again to the Land as Heir.

Upon which the Defendant his elder Brother proposed to sell him an Estate of his own at Emberton in Bucks for 4000 l. and the said Francis Coppin to enter upon the Premises as at Michaelmas 1718, which Proposal posal by several subsequent Letters was accepted by Francis Coppin.

Afterwards Francis Coppin made his Will, whereby he gave several considerable Legacies, and then came the following Words, viz. “ Whatsoever shall remain in “ Money, Lands and Goods, I give the same to my “ Brother John Coppin, who thereout is to pay what I “ owe to my Creditors at Aleppo, who have been so “ kind as to compound my Debts with me at 10 s.
 “ in the Pound, and they to be paid without In“ terest.” After which he made the said Defendant John Coppin his Executor and residuary Legatee, but the Will had but two Witnesses, and was made beyond Sea in the said Francis Coppin’s Return from Persia.

The Purchase before agreed upon was in the Lifetime of the Testator Francis executed, and the Defendant John Coppin the Vendor gave a Receipt for the 4000*l.* Purchase-Money upon the Back of the Purchase-Deed; but he swore that at that Time nor any Time afterwards he received no Part of the Purchase-Money, other than such Sum as appeared on the Account set forth by him; and this seemed admitted by the Letter of the Testator Francis Coppin, who died beyond Sea in his Return from Persia without Wife or Issue, and leaving the Defendant John Coppin his elder Brother and Heir.

And now three Bills were brought; one by the Legatees for the Recovery of their Legacies, (of which the Executor the Defendant John had paid about a Moiety) the said Legatees suggesting, that this Purchase was made by the Defendant John Coppin for his Brother, in which the Defendant (as was objected) acted both as Vendor and Vendee, and the Deeds of Purchase having continued in his Hands to the Time of the said Testator's Death, was a fraudulent Purchase as against the Legatees.
 1 Purchase

The second Bill was brought by the compounding Creditors, upon a Suggestion that their Demands being originally Debts, and what the Testator thought in his Conscience he was still obliged to pay, they continued to be Debts in a conscientious View, tho' in Law released, and therefore were superior in their Nature to Legacies, for which Reason they prayed that these might have the Preference in Payment, insisting further it was not material that these Debts were in Law released, if the Testator thought them Debts in Conscience, and would not take the Advantage of the Release made to him by his said Creditors, which he was not bound to do.

The third Bill was preferred by John Coppin the Heir and Executor, alledging that he had paid the Legatees more than the Assets would extend to pay, merely upon a Misrepresentation of the Value of the Testator's personal Estate, which had suffered unexpected Losses, and therefore insisting, that if he, through Importunity or Kindness to several of the Legatees that were his Relations, had made Payment of Legacies beyond the Assets, such Over-payments should be refunded.

As to the first Point (which was the chief and of the greatest Value) it was urged, that admitting the Words in the Will of Francis Coppin to have been sufficient to charge the Land with the Legacies, yet there being but two Witnesses thereto, the Will as to the Land must be void, and it made no Difference that the Will was made beyond Sea, the same being of Lands in England, which if they pass by Will, must pass by such a Will, and so circumstanced and attested, as the Laws of England require, especially it being by an Englishman born in England, who must be presumed to know the Laws of his own Country, or if he did not, Ignorantia juris non excusat; that as to the Purchase, it appeared by mutual Letters betwixt the Testator Francis Coppin and the Defendant John Coppin, that it was a compleat one; that the first Proposal came from the Testator Francis Coppin; that the Time from which the Purchaser was to receive the Rents, and the Sum to be paid were both settled, and the Purchase fully agreed to and accepted by the Testator Francis; that the Tenants had Notice of their having a new Landlord, that the Defendant John Coppin being applied to by others to sell the Estate to them, had refused, declaring he had sold it to another, and tho' the Defendant John Coppin did continue after this Sale to receive the Rents as formerly, yet that appeared by one of Francis Coppin the Testator's Letters to have been done at the Request of the said Francis the Testator, who desired the Defendant to continue the Management of this Estate as before, until his Return from beyond Sea.

On the other Hand, as to the Receipt indorsed for the Purchase-Money (and upon which Lord Chancellor laid some Strefs) this was represented to be a hard Case, where the Defendant was taking Advantage of the Will not being executed according to the Statute by three Witnesses, that as the Deeds of Purchase were all along in his Power and Custody, and produced by the Defendant himself, it was hoped the Court would presume that all the Purchase-Money had been paid pursuant to the said Defendant's own Receipt, and the rather for that the Defendant had examined no Witnesses to prove that at the Time of giving the Receipt no Money was paid; and what made this still the harder was, that the Defendant the elder Brother claimed the Land discharged of the Legacies as Heir to his Brother, and tho' he had the Land, yet he also claimed to be paid for it by the Testator, and consequently demanded so much of the Purchase-Money as was yet unpaid (which was pretended to be much the greater Part) as a Debt which would prevent there being Assets for the Payment of the Legacies, and consequently for the fulfilling of his Brother's Will.

But at Length it appearing by the Testator Francis Coppin's own Letters, as well as by the positive Oath of the Defendant John Coppin, that the Purchase-Money was not paid, and there being no Pretence of any Proof of Payment when the Deeds were executed or at any Time before, and the Defendant offering to submit this to any Examination, Lord Chancellor passed over this Point, saying that since the Law gave the Defendant this Land by Descent as the Testator's Heir at Law, the Court could not take it from him, nor subject the Land to any other Charges than those which the Testator by his Will had effectually charged it with, and which in this Case was nothing, the Will being attested but by two Witnesses.

Receipt indorsed signed by the Seller for the Purchase Money, if the Money be not really paid, is of no Avail.

That the only Matter which made the Difficulty in this Case was, that here happened to be one and the same Person both Heir and Executor of the Testator and likewise Vendor of the Land; but this must be considered in the same Light as if there were several Persons, & cum duo jura in unâ personâ concurr', aequum est ac si essent in diversis, and then taking it that they had been several, one the Heir the other Executor, and the Defendant John Coppin a third Person, neither

When several Rights concur in the same Person, to be considered as if in several.

ther Heir nor Executor, but Vendor, the Person who was Heir would have a plain Title to the Land purchafed, the Person that was Executor must out of the Testator's personal Affets have paid the Residue of the Purchase-money to the Defendant John Coppin the Vendor, who would have as plain a Title to receive it; under these Circumstances every Thing had been so plain as to have admitted of no Dispute, and in Justice and Reason it ought to make no Difference, (the Facts being clear) that the same Person happens to be the Vendor, and afterwards the Heir and Executor of the Vendee.

One by Will gives several Legacies, & inter al' to such of his Creditors with whom he had formerly compounded their Debts;

As to the second Point, the Court thought that the compounding Creditors having once released their Debts, which were thereby become extinct, they were out of the Case as Creditors, and must now claim as voluntary Legatees, and could have no other Title than to Legacies in such Manner as given by the Will.

this but a Legacy and not to be preferred to other Legacies.

(a) Ante Attorney General versus Robins, & Vol. I. Masters versus Masters.

That the Testator might easily and by express Words have given them the Preference, if he had so intended; but it would be dangerous to make a Construction beyond the Words of the Will, that being to make a new Will for the Testator; that if one gives a Legacy to (a) a Charity, it is not to be preferred to other Legacies, unless expressly so directed by the Will.

Executor pays beyond Affets, he cannot make the Legatees refund.

As to the last Point, viz. The Defendant John Coppin's cross Bill, by which he prayed to be repaid the Legacies which through Misrepresentation he had paid, his Lordship took Notice, that there did not appear to have been any Fraud or Misrepresentation made Use of by the Legatees to whom these Payments had been made, and there being much more Reason to think, that the Defendant John Coppin the Executor was cognizant of and informed concerning the Testator's Circumstances, than the Legatees, therefore he would order no Refunding, and it being a hard Case,

No Cofts on either Side.

An Infant by Prochein Amy brings a Bill and never stirs in it after he comes of

The Court directed an Issue, which was found afterwards against the Plaintiff.

The Prochein Amy died before the Cofts taxed, and the Infant came of Age, but never afterwards proceeded one Step; and the Cause being now set down purely upon the Cofts reserved, it was objected by Mr. Talbot, that where an Infant sues by Prochein Amy, it is the Prochein Amy only who is to pay the Cofts, for any one may bring a Bill in the Infant's Name, and if it be an insolvent Amy, the Defendant may apply to the Court in order to have a solvent Prochein Amy named, which if the Defendant does not do, it is his own Fault, and it would be an Hardship upon the Infant who is not supposed to be capable of judging of the Right, Propriety, or Justice of a Suit, to be subject to the Cofts of it, or to be put to his Remedy over against his Prochein Amy; that it was plain in the present Case, the Infant had no Remedy over against his Prochein Amy, he being dead.

Lord Chancellor : At Law the Infant is liable to pay the Coſts if the Judgment be againſt him ; as if an Infant brings an Action of Battery and has a Verdict againſt him, he muſt pay the Coſts ; and if the Common Law be ſo, why ſhould it not be ſo in Equity ? otherwiſe an Infant would be left at Liberty to plague Mankind as he thinks fit.

And the Court being informed by the Register and Clerk in Court, that the Courſe was to diſmiſs the Infant's Bill generally with Coſts, without mentioning who ſhould pay them,

His Lordſhip ſaid he would diſmiſs this Bill with Coſts ; and (as he apprehended) upon a general Diſmiſſion the Defendant had his Election whether he would ſue the Infant or Prochein Amy for ſuch Coſts.

to retain this 100 l. out of the Assets, which created a Deficiency to pay the Plaintiff his 120 l.

Obj. The Defendant the Executrix cannot retain this 100 l. the Bond being made to a Trustee and not to the Executrix herself, indeed she might give Judgment to her Trustee ƒ. S. on this Bond, but the Executor's Right of Retainer is where he cannot sue, and therefore for Necessity shall retain; so that here the Debts are to be paid in Average, as has been often decreed by the Master of the Rolls.

Lord Chancellor: It is true in Strictness of Law the Executrix in the present Case cannot retain, the Bond not being made to herself; but since she may pay what Bond she pleases first, and as it would be a vain Thing for her to pay the 100 l. to her own Trustee with the one Hand, and take it back from him with the other,

Therefore this Bond made to her Trustee shall be the same in Equity as if made to herself. Accordingly it was ruled that the Executrix was intitled to this 100 l. by which Means but 5 l. remained to the Plaintiff. *

Where the Sheriff has the Amercements, as in London, the Course was for the Court to grant a Messenger to bring in the

Case 85.

One has a House in which he lives and Household Goods, and has also a House at Gosport near Portsmouth for invalid Seamen, with a vast Number of Beds, Sheets, and Household-Stuff, and by Marriage Articles it was agreed, that his Wife should on his Death have no Claim upon his personal Estate except his Household-Goods and Household-Stuff: This Exception to extend only to the Goods which he had in the House in which he lived, and not to such as were in the Hospital and made Use of by the Government.

UPON the Marriage of Nathanael Jackson a Freeman of London with the Defendant his Wife, Articles were executed by both of them before Marriage, by which it was agreed, that in Consideration of a Provision made for her by the intended Husband, the Defendant the Wife should have no Claim out of his real or personal Estate, “ Provided this should not “ extend to what he the said intended Husband should “ or might leave her by Will, nor to all or any of the “ Household-Goods, or Utensils, or Household-Stuff, &c. “ of him the said Nathanael Jackson at the Time of his “ Death, all which she was to receive and enjoy.”

Jackson the Husband at the same Time, besides the House at London wherein he resided, had an House at Gosport near Portsmouth, called Fortune's Hospital, which was used by the Government as an Hospital, and Jackson provided there a great Number of Beds and Sheets with other Furniture in Proportion for the great Number of Seamen who were Invalids, and who by the Direction of the Government were received and taken Care of in this House.

Jackson afterwards died without Issue, and his Wife claiming these Beds and Sheets, &c.

The Question was, Whether the Wife was intitled to these Beds, Sheets, &c. as Household-Goods or Utensils or Household-Stuff within the Intent of the said Articles?

Against this Demand it was objected, that the Household-Goods intended by these Articles must be only such Household-Goods as the Testator himself used, and not these Beds and Sheets which were in Nature of a Stock in Trade, and used at a Place where Mr. Jackson himself never lived, but the Furniture was provided and the Undertaking carried on by Agents and Servants only.

That if an Upholsterer or Pewterer should devise all his Household-Goods, the Beds or Pewter in his Shop would not pass, tho' in some Sense these were Household-Goods; but here only such Goods would pass as were generally made Use of as Household-Goods in his own House, and not his Stock in Trade.

Lord Chancellor: Where the Meaning is uncertain, the safest Way is to follow the Letter, and not to wander from thence, which creates the utmost Uncertainty, and gives a Latitude for the Court to make Constructions never perhaps intended to be made by the Parties.

The Goods in Question being Beds and Sheets are properly Household-Goods; the Husband was as well Owner of these Goods as of the Goods in his own House; and there being nothing in the Deed which confines the Household-Goods that were to pass to those those in his own House, I therefore have no Warrant to construe them in that Sense.

Then as both the Words and the Letter extend to all Household-Goods, and the Intention not appearing to have been otherwise, and it being in Favour of so near a Relation as a Wife, I will take the Meaning to be as large as the Words; so let the Wife have the Beds, Sheets and other Furniture used in the Hospital.

But upon an Appeal to the House of Lords, this Decree was (a) reversed.

Bill to compel a Performance of an Agreement for transferring 5000 l. York-Buildings Stock at 7 l. 5 s. per Cent. Defendant demurred, but Demurrer over-ruled, for the Cafe may be attended with such Circumstances as may make it just

Colt versus Nettervill.

THE Bill was for a specific Performance of an Agreement for transferring of some York-Buildings Stock, and set forth that the Defendant Nettervill pretending to be possessed of a great Quantity of York-Buildings Stock, and recommending the same to the Plaintiff as a rising Stock, on the 28 Sep. 1724 agreed to sell to the Plaintiff 5000 l. York-Buildings Stock at 7 l. 5 s. per Cent. being the then Market-Price, and the Defendant agreed to transfer it to the Plaintiff on the 25th of March next, on the Plaintiff's paying the Money, and that the Plaintiff agreed to pay 7 l. 5 s. per Cent. and to accept the Transfer, and did thereupon pay to the Defendant Sixpence Earnest.

to decree a specific Performance of the Parties own Agreement, or at least to pay the Difference.

Also that on the same 28th of September 1724 the Plaintiff did agree with the Defendant to buy another 5000 l. York-Buildings Stock at 7 l. 10 s. per Cent. Premium, and to transfer it to the Plaintiff on the same 25th of March next, on the Plaintiff's paying for the

the same, that the Defendant did agree to make the said Transfer accordingly, and the Plaintiff also paid Sixpence Earnest in Part of this Bargain.

That before the 25th of March then next this York-Buildings Stock rose to 20 l. per Cent', so that the Difference beyond what the Plaintiff was to pay for the same came to above 1300 l. Wherefore the Bill was to compel the Defendant either to transfer the Stock to the Plaintiff, or pay the Difference.

The Defendant as to such Part of the Bill as would compel him to transfer 5000 l. York-Buildings Stock at 7 l. 5 s. per Cent. according to his Agreement, demurred, in regard that Part of the Bill contained no Equity, for that the Plaintiff might bring his Action at Law, and on making proper Proof would recover his Damages, and with the Money thus recovered, might himself go to Market and buy Stock; that one Parcel of York-Buildings Stock was as good and valuable as another, and not like the Case of Articles for the Purchase of Lands, where one Parcel of Land might be more convenient, and consequently more valuable to the Purchaser than another, for which was cited the Case of Cud and Rutter (a), where it was so decreed by Lord Macclesfield on an Appeal from a Decree at the Rolls, tho' Mr. Talbot said this appeared to be a very hard Case, where the Stock was risen to quadruple the Value, and even rose pending the Appeal.

(a) See this Case reported Vol. I.

Lord Chancellor : I do not know but this Case may at the Hearing appear to be attended with such Circumstances that may make it just to decree the Defendant either to transfer the Stock according to his express Agreement, or at least to pay the Difference; therefore I will not allow this Demurrer.

As to the other Part of the Bill, which sought to compel the Defendant to transfer to the Plaintiff 5000*l.* York-Buildings Stock at 7*l.* 10*s.* per Cent', the Defendant pleaded the Statute of 29 Car. 2. cap. 3. sect. 17. against Frauds and Perjuries, whereby (inter al') it is enacted, "That no Contract for any Goods, Wares or Merchandizes of the Value of 10*l.* or upwards shall be good, unless the Buyer accepts of Part of the Goods, and actually receives the same, or gives something in Earnest, or unless there be some Note in Writing signed by the Party;" and the Defendant averred, that he did not accept or receive Sixpence or any other Money whatsoever, in Part or as Earnest, and that no Part of the Stock was delivered or Note given.

Whereupon it was argued, that the York-Buildings and other Stocks were within the Words and Meaning of the Statute of Frauds, so as to require either Part of the Thing contracted to be sold, to be delivered, or a Note in Writing, or Money to be paid as Earnest; For

That 1st, This Clause of the Statute mentioned expressly contracts for the Sale of any Goods, or Merchandizes, and that the Word Goods was of a very extensive Signification.

2<sup>dly</sup>, That if one having Stock should commit Felony, This without Question would be a Forfeiture of his Stock, a Forfeiture to those who should have a Grant of Bona Felonum, so that Stock was within the Words Bona or Goods.

3dly, At least it was within the Word Merchandize, for every vendible Thing was Merchandize; now Stock was a Thing vendible, and in the Year 1720. was the most usual Merchandize which People dealt in.

4thly, It could be no Objection that at the Time of making the Statute of Frauds there was no such Stock as York-Buildings Stock; for suppose the said Statute, instead of being made in King Charles's Time, had been enacted in the Reign of Philip and Mary, since which Time Hops came in, and the Bargain had been made for Hops to the Amount of above 10*l.* in Money, without Writing or Earnest; surely such Contract had been void; besides this was most plainly within the Meaning and Mischief of the Statute, which intended to prevent rash and precipitate Bargains for above the Value of 10*l.* and to restrain such Bargains as were of Value, to the Circumstances either of paying Earnest, or reducing them to Writing.

5thly, It was insisted, that Lord Comper had determined such a Contract for Stock to be within the Statute of Frauds, and that if it exceeded 10*l.* the same ought to be in Writing, in regard Stocks are Goods and Merchandizes within that Statute.

On the other Side it was said, that whereas the Statute enacts, that no Contract shall be good for the Sale of Goods Wares and Merchandizes of 10*l.* Price, unless Part of the Goods be delivered, or Earnest paid, or a Note in Writing, this shewed that such Goods were intended as were capable of an actual Delivery, something that was corporeal, and not Stock which was incorporeal, nor was there any such Thing as York-Buildings Stock at that Time.

Lord

The Judges equally divided on this Question, Whether a Contract for

Stock be within the Statute of Frauds, which mentions Goods, Wares and Merchandizes, so as to require the Contract to be in Writing, or Earnest-Money to be paid?

Lord Chancellor : This Question was before all the Judges of England, who were equally divided upon it; six against six, and therefore it is a Point too difficult for me to determine upon a Demurrer.

It is considerable, that after one Wolstenholm was declared a Bankrupt as having East-India Stock, this was reversed by an (a) Act of Parliament, declaring that neither he nor any other Person should be liable to Bankruptcy, in respect of their having East-India Stock, so that Stocks or the Dealing in them will not make a Man liable to Bankruptcy, nor do they seem to be Wares, Goods or Merchandizes within the Intent of that Clause.

But further, this Plea is not well pleaded; because the Bill says, that the Plaintiff did pay 6 d. as Earnest, and the Plea only says, that the Defendant did not receive or accept it as Earnest; now it is not material how or in what Manner the Defendant received or accepted it, but how the other paid it, for quicquid solvitur solvitur ad modum solventis, and so is Pinnel's Case, 5 Rep. 117. wherefore the Plea was likewise overruled.

tors, one whereof dies, and the other renounces, and Administration is granted to A. who brings a Bill against the Heir to compel a Sale; Whether the renouncing Executor, in whom the Power of Sale collateral to the Executorship was vested, ought not to be made a Party?

Annuity of 100 l. per Annum to Jane Styles for her Life, out of which she should also maintain her Children, and gave 30 l. to each Child to be raised out of the said Annuity and the personal Estate he should die possessed of, and the Overplus of his personal Estate he gave to Jane Styles, and made B. and C. Executors.

The Testator died, and Jane Styles the intended Annuitant died within three Months after him; B. and C. the Executors renouncing, Administration with the Will annexed was granted to the Plaintiff who was also the Administrator of Jane Styles (the intended Annuitant) and with the Children of Jane brought this Bill against the Heir of the Testator, to compel him to join in a Sale of these Lands in Dale.

For the Defendant it was objected, that there wanted Parties, in Regard the Executors ought to have been made Defendants, for notwithstanding they had renounced yet the Power of Sale continued in them, and was altogether collateral to their Executorship.

But there being only a Power and no Estate devised to the Executors, this Objection was over-ruled, (tamen Q.)

The Plaintiff's Counsel then proceeding upon the Merits, it was contended on Behalf of the Heir, that as nothing but a bare Power of Sale was given to the Executors, so such Power was for a particular Purpose, to buy an Annuity for Jane Styles, and forasmuch as that Purpose could not now be answered, Jane Styles being dead, there ought not to be any Sale.

One devises that his Executors shall sell his Lands, and invest the Money in purchasing an Annuity for Jane Styles; the Testator dies, and the Annuitant dies three Months after the Testator; yet the Administrator of the Annuitant shall compel a Sale, and shall have the Money arising therefrom, and also the Rents and Profits till Sale.

That this was within the Reason of the Case, where one devises Lands for the raising Portions for Daughters, and the Daughters die before they are marriageable, the Lands ought not to be sold, but go to the Heir at Law; so where Lands are devised for Payment of Debts, and the Testator himself lives to pay his Debts, in such Case there shall be no Sale; that here it was the same as if the intended Annuitant had died in the Life of the Testator, in which Case there should have been no Sale, and by the same Reason there ought to be no Sale now.

That neither Jane Styles or her Children would be any Sufferers by this Construction, since if there had been a Sale of the Lands, and out of the Money arising thereby an Annuity had been purchased for Jane Styles, the same had determined by her Death; and the Children could be no Sufferers, because they were to have their Maintenance only out of the said Annuity, which would now have been at an End had it been bought.

That out of a very large Estate of the Testator this Farm in Question, which was not above 20*l.* per Annum, was all that was left for the Heir, and if any Act of Chance or Providence should have thrown any Pittance upon the Heir, it would be hard for the Court to interpose to the Prejudice of him who is the Favourite of all Courts both of Law and Equity.

But by Lord Chancellor: The Intention of the Will was to give all away from the Heir, to turn this Land in Question into personal Estate, and this must be taken as it was at the Death of the Testator, and ought not to be altered by any subsequent Accident.

Then it was insisted that the Estate in Question descended to the Heir at Law, for which Reason he ought to have the Rents till the Sale.

But the Court denied this, it being by the Will changed into personal Estate; and said that if the Executors had sold the Land within three Months after the Testator's Death, and before the Death of Jane Styles the intended Annuitant, then (probably) the Executor of Jane Styles should on her Death have had the Money, or (perhaps) she might in her Life-time have come into Equity, and have prayed that at least Part of the Money should have been kept for the Children, and not invested in the Annuity; nor ought the Delay of the Executors in not selling the Land in Question within the said three Months to hurt Jane Styles the intended Annuitant or her Children. So decreed the Land to be sold, and the Money arising by the Sale as personal Estate to be paid to the Plaintiff, he paying the Children's Legacies.

But the Heir at Law was ordered his Costs. *

port that the Answer was scandalous, the Defendant got an Order on Petition, to refer the Bill for Scandal; and upon the Plaintiff's Motion to set aside this Order,

It was objected that though it has been the constant Practice, not to refer a Bill for Impertinency after Answer, in regard the Defendant by submitting to answer had waved the Impertinence, yet as to Scandal, the (a) Court it self was concerned to keep its Records clean, and without Dirt or Scandal appearing thereon, and therefore a Bill for Scandal might be referred, not only after Answer, but after Hearing, and even by a third Person not Party to the Suit, and especially in this Case where both the Matters alledged for Scandal were relative to the same Thing, and the Plaintiff proposed that both the Scandals should be waved.

Lord Chancellor : If the Course has been for so long a Time to refer a Bill for Scandal after the Defendant has answered, it is Time now to alter it, as occasioning great Delays ; besides, in the Reason of the Thing it ought not to be, for when the Defendant has submitted to answer the Bill, why should he after that procure the Bill to be altered, and by that Means to be made a new Bill?

And tho' his Lordship seemed to be influenced a little by the Objection, that both Matters of Scandal were relating to Things of the same Nature, and so properly to be set one against the other, yet he discharged the Order for referring the Bill for Scandal, intimating that that it should be observed as a Rule for the future not to refer a Bill for Scandal after the Defendant had submitted to answer it; tho' it was said by Mr. Talbot that it was an Argument, the Defendant did not move to refer the Bill for Delay, when he first answered the Bill, before he moved to refer it for Scandal.

A. B. and C. were bound jointly and severally in a Bond to J. S. C. dies, J. S. brings a Bill against the Executors of C. for a Discovery of his personal Estate, and for an Account thereof, and to be paid out of Assets.

Two Obligors in a Bond bound jointly and severally, and one dies,

The Defendant demurred, and shewed for Cause, that it appeared the Bond was a joint Bond (which was a Mistake, it being joint and several), also for that the other Obligors ought to be Parties to the Suit, and to the Account that was to be directed of what was due upon the Bond; for perhaps the (a) other Obligors might have paid the Whole, or at least Part of the Bond, and there ought to be but one Account taken, otherwise there might be a Multiplicity of Suits, and the Defendant liable to a double Account.

Lord Chancellor : This appears to have been a Bond, as well several as joint; and as the Obligee may sue it severally at Law, so may he also in Equity; if it were not so, there would be no Difference in Equity betwixt a joint Bond and one joint and several; and if any of the Obligors have paid all or Part, the Obligor who is sued, or his Representative, must bring a Bill and have it allowed, and it must also lie upon him to compel the other Obligors to contribute towards Payment of the Debt; the Creditor lent his Money upon Terms to have a Security upon which he might sue the Obligors severally if he thought fit, and indeed if it were otherwise, that which was intended to strengthen the Security would tend to hurt it extremely, for I might not be able to find them all out, and by the same Reason that all the other Obligors are to be sued, if any are dead, their Heirs as well as Executors are to be made Parties, and then, as it would be difficult to commence the Suit, so the Suit when commenced would be subject to continual Abatements, which would be a great Difficulty on an honest Creditor who has fairly lent his Money.

The Husband and Wife died, and the Administrator bringing an Action upon the Bond against the Trustee, recovered Judgment for the 200 l. Penalty, and had the Money paid him, but yet afterwards brought this Bill against the Trustee, to compel him to surrender the Copyhold to the Use of the Plaintiff.

Insisted for the Defendant, that this Bill did not lie, in regard the 200 l. the Penalty of the Bond, was as a stated Damage for the Breach of Trust, and that the Plaintiff had his Election either to bring his Bill to have the Copyhold and a specific Execution of the Trust, or might if he pleased sue the Bond and content himself with the Penalty; but that there was no Colour of Reason, that the Plaintiff should recover the 200 l. upon the Bond and the Copyhold too, which he was now endeavouring to do.

Lord Chancellor : There is no Reason that the Plaintiff should have the 200 l. on the Bond and the Copyhold likewise; but the Defendant being a plain Trustee, and continuing a Trustee for the Plaintiff, until he has performed the Trust, must account for the Profits to the Plaintiff, who has in Equity a specific Right to the Land, but in that Account the 200 l. and Interest must be deducted, and the Defendant the Trustee to have an Allowance for the same.

Bennet

Case 91.

Bennet versus Davis.At the Rolls.

One devises Lands in Fee to his Daughter being a Feme Covert for her separate Use, without appointing any Trustees; the Husband is a Tradesman and becomes a Bankrupt, yet the devised Premises not subject to the Bankruptcy.

J. S. having married his Daughter to one Bennet a Tradesman in London, who was extravagant and in Debt, the Father makes his Will, and devises the Premises in Question (being Lands in Fee) to his Daughter (the Wife of Bennet) for her separate and peculiar Use, exclusive of her Husband, to hold the same to her and her Heirs, and that her Husband should not be Tenant by the Curtesy, nor have these Lands for his Life, in case he survived his Wife, but that they should upon the Wife's Death go to her Heirs.

Soon after this the Testator dies, and Bennet the Husband becoming a Bankrupt, the Commissioners assign the Lands in Question (being the Lands thus devised) to the Defendant Davis in Trust for the Creditors; and upon Davis's bringing his Ejectment, the Bankrupt's Wife by her next Friend prefers her Bill against Davis the Assignee and her Husband, in order to compel them to assign over this Estate to her separate Use.

It was objected on Behalf of the Defendant the Assignee, that he being a Creditor, and having the Law on his Side, it would be hard to take the Benefit of the Law from him; and that tho' the Testator might intend these Lands for the separate Use of the Daughter, yet that such his Intention was not executed according to Law; forasmuch as by Law the Husband during the Coverture was intitled to the Wife's Estate in her Right; and tho' the Testator might have devised the Premises to Trustees for the separate Use of the Wife, yet the Question now was, not upon what he might have have done, but upon what in Fact he had done ; and I mentioned the Case of Harvey and Harvey, Vol. I. 125. where a Man had devised Goods of Value to his Daughter a Feme Covert for her separate Use, and it not being to Trustees, Lord Comper apprehended it to be a Case of Difficulty, but declared his present Thoughts were that the Intention of the Testator was against the Rule of Law, and void ; and I urged, that the Case of a Devise of a Legacy, or of a Term to the Wife for her separate Use might be good, because these remained in the Executor until Assent, and Equity would not compel the Executor to assent, whereby the Intention of the Testator should be disappointed, but would continue the Executor a Trustee for the Feme Covert ; whereas in the present Case, the Devise being of Lands in Fee to the Wife herself, who by Virtue of the Will only, had an immediate Title thereto, the Husband must consequently be intitled to the Profits in her Right, and it would be repugnant to the Law to say, that he should not take the Profits.

That here was no Trust, the Testator never having intended to trust the Husband, and the Wife could not be a Trustee for herself ; besides, the Husband could not properly be a Trustee for the Wife, they both being but one Person.

That all this strained Construction was to do that which was against common Right, (viz.) to create a separate Property in a Feme Covert ; and I put this Case :

Suppose I should have a Rent-charge in Fee, and my Son had the Land subject to the Rent-charge, which should amount to near the Value of the Land, after which I should devise the Rent-charge to my Son (who had the Land) and say by my Will, that the Rent should not be subject to the Debts of my Son, in this Case the Rent would be subject to his Debts, in regard it would be merged, and yet this Rent might have been given to Trustees.

On the other Hand the Plaintiff's Counsel would have read parol Evidence to prove, that the Testator did not intend these Lands should be liable to the Husband's Debts.

But the Court would not permit such Evidence to be read, it being in the Case of a Devise of Land, which by the Statute must be all of it in Writing.

As to the chief Point, the Master of the Rolls took it to be a clear Case, that it was a Trust in the Husband, and that there was no Difference, where the Trust was created by the Act of the Party and where by the Act of Law.

If I should devise that my Lands should be charged with Debts or Legacies, my Heir taking such Lands by Descent would be but a Trustee, and no Remedy for these Debts or Legacies but in Equity; so in the principal Case, there being an apparent Intention and express Declaration, that the Wife should enjoy these Lands to her separate Use, by that Means the Husband, who would otherwise be intitled to take the Profits in his own Right during the Coverture, is now debarred, and made a Trustee for his Wife.

And admitting the Husband to be a Trustee, then the Argument of the Creditors having the Law of their Side was immaterial; as if the Bankrupt had been a Trustee for J. S. his Bankruptcy should not in Equity affect the Trust-Estate; and that in this Case, tho' the Husband the Bankrupt might be Tenant by the Curtesy, yet he should be but a Trustee for the Heirs of the Wife.

Also when the Testator had a Power to devise the Premises to Trustees for the separate Use of the Wife, this Court in Compliance with his declared Intention, will supply the Want of them, and make the Husband Trustee; and the Defendant the Assignee, who claiming under the Husband can have no better Right than the Husband, must join in a Conveyance for the separate Use of the Wife.

Which was decreed accordingly.

Case 92.

Doughty versus Bull.

One devises Lands to Trustees in Fee in Trust to apply the Profits until Sale, for the Benefit of all his four Children and the Survivors and Survivor of them equally, and on further Trust, that as soon as the Trustees shall see necessary for the Benefit of the Children, they should sell the Premises and apply the Money for the Benefit of his four Children, equally to be paid at twenty-one or Marriage; A. the eldest of the four Children attained twenty-one, and married and died without Issue Intestate, leaving a Wife. Decreed the Land being in all Events devised to be sold, tho' the Time for Sale was left to the Executors, was personal Estate, and A.'s Widow must have a Moiety of A.'s Share, and the Profits of the Land until Sale must go as the Money arising upon Sale would.

Robert Doughty the Plaintiff's Father being seised in Fee of Lands in Lincolnshire, devised the same to Trustees (his Wife and Son-in-law) and their Heirs in Trust to apply the Rents and Profits thereof until Sale, for the Benefit of all his Children, A. B. C. and D. and the Survivors and Survivor of them equally Part and Share alike, and on further Trust, that as soon as the Trustees should see necessary for the Benefit of the Children, they should sell the Premises, and apply the Monies for the Benefit of his Children Part and Part alike, the Shares of the Sons to be paid at twenty-one, and those of the Daughters at twenty-one or Marriage.

A. the eldest Son attained his Age of twenty-one and died without Issue and Intestate, leaving a Wife, upon which which the Plaintiff B. as Heir brought a Bill against the Trustees, praying that they might convey to the Plaintiff the deceased Brother's Share of the Fee-simple and Inheritance of these Lands, and likewise for a Share of the Rents and Profits of the Premises that had been received by the Trustees.

The Master of the Rolls decreed, that the Lands being devised to be sold were thereby rendered personal Estate, and that all the Children were Tenants in common, as well of the Rents and Profits accrued before the Sale, as of the Money arising by the Sale, and that the Wife of the deceased Son should have a Moiety of the said deceased Son's Share, as well of the Rents received in her said Husband's Life-time as of his Share of the Monies which were to arise by the Sale. Upon which an Appeal was brought before Lord Chancellor King, and it was objected, that as to the Rents accrued in the Life of the eldest Son, who was dead, these Rents being directed to be for the Benefit of all the Children and the Survivors and Survivor of them, they were Jointenants thereof, for which Reason the Widow of the eldest Son should not have a Share upon the Statute of Distribution, and the subsequent Words equally to be divided Part and Share alike, being only Words of Implication, and such as in a Deed would not make a Tenancy in common <sup>(a)</sup> must give Way to the express Words by which these Rents were directed to go to the Survivor. <sup>(a) Vide ante 282.</sup>

Lord Chancellor : The Rents before the Sale were to go in the same Manner as the Monies arising by the Sale, and all was to go in common. (∴ the Direction that it should go to the Survivor is left out in the Devise of the Monies arising by the Sale, tho' inserted in the Devise of the Rents until Sale.* )

* The like Clause of Survivorship in Case any of the Children had died before twenty-one, appears by the Register's Book to have been annexed to the Devise of the Monies arising by Sale.

As to the other Point (which was the chief) it was objected, that this Question was now purely betwixt the Heir and Administrator, Whether upon the Words of the Will this Land was turned into personal Estate or not? That the eldest Son who was dead had left no Creditor, and that the Land was not absolutely and indefinitely directed to be sold, but as soon as the Trustees should see it necessary for the Benefit of the Children; and the Trustees being made Defendants did by their Answer upon their Oaths say, that they thought it was not for the Benefit of the Children, that the Land should be sold; that the rest of the Children were Infants, and could not judge one Way or other; and in Point of Reason it seemed not to be for the Benefit of the Children (at least as yet) to have a Sale; for at present the Children's Provision was safer, while secured by terra firma, than when turned into Money, which might lie dead and yield no Profit; and if put out, might be lost upon an ill Security; whereas while it continued upon Land, it could not be lost; and tho' it was true, that (regularly speaking) Lands devised to be sold are thereby turned into Money, and construed in Equity as personal Estate, yet that was not so in all Cases; as suppose Lands were devised to be sold for Payment of Debts, and on the Testator's Death it should appear, that the Debts might be paid in a reasonable Time out of the Profits, or by a Sale of a small Part only of the Estate; in the one Case no Part of the Land, and in the other but a sufficient Part thereof should be sold, and this in Favour of the Heir; so in the principal Case, in Favour of the Heir and against the Administrator, the Land not being as yet sold, nor thought proper to be sold by the Trustees, nor decreed to be sold by the Court in the Life of the eldest Son, it ought, as to the eldest Son at least, to be esteemed, as in Fact and in Truth it was, a real Estate.

Lord Chancellor: The Rule being, that Lands devised to be sold are thereby made personal Estate, this Case is within such Rule; the Lands are here devised to be sold, and only the Time of the Sale left to the Discretion of the Trustees; wherefore this Case being within the general Rule, must be determined accordingly.

Affirm the Decree.

Stephens versus Stephens.

Case 93.

Lord Chancellor King.

ONE feised of a Leasehold Estate for the Life of A. held of the Church, makes his Will, and after several Legacies devises an Annuity out of the Leasehold Premisses to B. for his Life, and directs that if B. survives A. (the Cestui que Vie in the Lease) then the Testator's Exècutor shall purchase the Leasehold Premisses for the Life of C. the Testator's Kinsman; and then devises that his Executor out of the Surplus of the Leasehold and personal Estate shall keep the Premisses in Repair; but if the Leasehold Premisses could not be so purchased, then he devises the Surplus of the Estate to the Plaintiff, and makes J. S. his Executor in Trust only, giving him a small Legacy.

A Devise that if Cestui que Vie of a Church-Lease which the Testator had should die, the Testator's Executors should purchase the Premisses for the Life of J. S. the Testator's Kinsman; whether J. S. takes any Interest by this Will?

The Executor purchased the Leasehold Premisses for the Life of C. and the Question was, whether the Plaintiff or the Defendant C. was intituled to the Surplus of the Profits thereof?

For the Plaintiff it was urged by the Solicitor General that as, if the Lease could not be purchased for C's Life, the Plaintiff was then to have that Money with with which the Purchase was to have been made, so now the Lease was purchased with the Testator's Money, the Plaintiff ought to have this Lease, and that the Testator must intend so, otherwise he would have given the Money, if not laid out in the Purchase, to the Defendant C. which the Will had not done; that it was a very idle Pretence for C. to claim the Lease for no other Reason but because he was one of the Lives for which the Lease was taken, which could relate only to the Duration of the Lease, and did not import any Benefit to the Defendant. Also if there was no Disposition of the Lease by the Will, then the Testator would have died Intestate as to this Lease, and consequently it must have gone to his next of Kin, according to the Statute of Distribution of Intestates Estates.

Lord Chancellor: The Plaintiff cannot have this Lease, the Devise to him being upon a Contingency which never happened, (viz.) if the Leasehold Premises could not be purchased for the Life of the Defendant, whereas such Purchase has been made by the Executor.

2dly, The Executor cannot claim the Lease he being only Executor in Trust, and having an express Legacy, neither does he in Fact lay claim to the same.

3dly, The next of Kin will not be intitled thereto, it appearing that the Testator did not intend to die intestate as to any Part of his Estate. But,

4thly, The Defendant C. is the Person intitled to the Leasehold Premises, this being the Case of a Western Manor where it is the usual Way to put in a Son's, a Daughter's or a Wife's Life, by which it is meant to give the Estate to such Son or Daughter, &c. and this the rather appears to have been a beneficial Devise, because because in the devising Clause the Testator calls the Defendant his Kinsman, and here slighter Words will serve to give the Leasehold Premises to the Defendant, forasmuch as no other Person can take them, and it is a dark Will.

But afterwards upon a Rehearing (a), for the Reasons given by the Solicitor General, the Chancellor reversed his former Decree, and held that by this Will the Plaintiff was intitled to the Lease.

Lord Chief Baron Gilbert.

The King founds a School, and endows it, and appoints Governors who have the legal Estate of the Endowment vested in them, and there are no express Words appointing them Visitors; resolved a Commission may issue to visit and call to an Account these Governors.

After a Commission had issued under the Great Seal to inspect the Management of the Governors, and all the Exceptions being already heard and over-ruled, it was now objected to this Commission, that the King having appointed Governors, had by Implication made them Visitors likewise, the Consequence of which was, that the Crown could not issue out a Commission to visit or inspect the Conduct of these Governors, according to the express Words of Lord Coke in 10th Report, 31. a. the Case of Sutton's Hospital.

The Matter first came on before Lord Chancellor Macclesfield, and afterwards before Lord King, who desired the Assistance of Lord Chief Justice Eyre, and Lord Chief Baron Gilbert, and accordingly the Opinion of the Court was now delivered seriatim, that the Commission was good.

1st, It was laid down as a Rule, that where the King is Founder, in that Case his Majesty and his Successors are Visitors; but where a private Person is Founder, there such private Person and his Heirs are, by Implication of Law, Visitors.

2<sup>dly</sup>, That tho' this visitatorial Power did result to the Founder and his Heirs, yet the Founder might vest or substitute such visitatorial Right in any other Person or his Heirs.

3<sup>dly</sup>, They conceived it to be unreasonable and of mischievous Consequence, that where Governors are appointed, these, by Construction of Law, and without any more should be Visitors, should have an absolute Power, and remain exempt from being visited themselves. And therefore,

4<sup>thly</sup>, That in those Cases where the Governors or Visitors are said not to be accountable, it must be intended, where such Governors have the Power of Government only, and not where they have the (a) legal Estate and are intrusted with the Receipt of the Rents and Profits, (as in the present Case) for it would be of the most pernicious Consequence imaginable, that any Person intrusted with the Receipt of Rents and Profits, and especially for a Charity, though they

(a) Vide Duke's Charitable Uses, pag. 68. cap. 6. the Case of The Hospital of Sutton-Coldfield, and the like Determination in the Case of Hynshaw and Pydwers versus The Mayor and Corporation of Mowthay, Duke's Ch. 69. which the Chancellor and Chief Baron cited on this Occasion and affirmed to be Law.

misemploy never so much these Rents and Profits, should yet be unaccountable for their Receipts; this would be such a Privilege as might of itself be a Temptation to a Breach of Trust.

5thly, That the Word [Governor] did not of itself imply Visitor; and to make such a Construction of the Word against the common and natural Meaning of it, and when such a strained Construction could not be for the Benefit, but rather to the great Prejudice of the Charity, would be very unreasonable; besides, it would be making the King's Charter operate to a double Intent, which ought not to be.

6thly, Whereas it had been objected that the Commissioners by this Commission had a Power given them to make By-Laws, by Virtue whereof such By-Laws might be made as would destroy even the Directions of the original Founder, and the very End of the Charity:

A Power may be given to Commissioners to make By-Laws to regulate the Charity, but where the Power given to such Commissioners to make By-Laws is too extensive, it will be void only pro tanto.

To this it was answered, That the Power given to these Commissioners for the making of By-Laws must be intended for the better regulating and preserving the Charities given, and not for the perverting or overturning them; and if the Letters of Commission gave any larger Power, they would be void only pro tanto; tho' it was observed with Regard to the Powers given by the present Commission, that they did not differ from several Precedents of the like Nature, which were all penned in the same Manner; as for Instance, in the Cases of Winbourne, Basingstoke, and Plimouth Schools, in all which Governors were appointed, but yet these Schools are, and have been visited; so that the Objection jection was over-ruled, and the Commission under the Great Seal resolved to be well issued.

 Lord Chancellor King.

Admiral Littleton by Will dated 18 March 1713. devised to his Wife six Houses in Bury-street London, in the Possession of ——— in Bar of Dower, and subject to his Legacies devised to his eldest Daughter and her Heirs one Moiety of his real Estate, as also one Moiety of his personal Estate, and devised to his younger Daughter and her Heirs the other Moiety of his real Estate and also of his personal Estate; he devised to his Godson James Masters second Son of Sir Harcourt Masters 500 l. Part of the Money owing to him by Sir Harcourt; the rest of the Money owing to him by Sir Harcourt he gave to and amongst all the rest of the younger Children of Sir Harcourt, the same to remain in Sir Harcourt's Hands until the Children should be capable of receiving it; and the Legacy or Share of any of them dying before such Time, to go to the Survivors and Survivor of them.

Afterwards the Testator married his eldest Daughter to the Plaintiff Sir Barnham Rider, giving with her a Portion of 5000 l. in Money, and previous to that Marriage, by Articles dated the 28th of October 1717. covenanted to settle one Moiety of all his real Estate to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder to Sir Barnham and his intended Wife for their Lives, Remainder to the younger Children of the Marriage in Tail General, Remainder to Sir Barnham in Fee, and also covenanted, that he would stand possessed of one Moiety of all such personal Estate as he should leave at his Death, (subject only to his Debts and such Legacies gacies as should amount to 5000*l.*) in Trust for Sir Barnham and his said intended Wife for their Lives, and afterwards to be paid to their younger Children.

Subsequent to this the Testator made a Codicil to his Will, thereby reciting that he had by Deed dated the same Day, pursuant to a Power, limited a Jointure of 400*l.* per Annum to his Wife for her Life in Bar of Dower, and then gave his South-Sea Stock (being about 3000*l.*) to his youngest Daughter, and confirmed his former Will subject to the Articles made on the Marriage of his Daughter to Sir Barnham Ryder; and the Testator having a Debt due to him from one Batson his Brother-in-law of 300*l.* by his Codicil devised to this Batson the Money owing from him to the Testator.

After the making of this Will and Codicil, the Testator and his Wife mortgaged the said Estate to one Clayton for 3000*l.* about which Time Sir Harcourt Masters, who at the making of the Will was indebted to the Testator in about 1000*l.* did at the Testator's Desire pay in this 1000*l.* unto the Testator.

Also Batson acquainting the Testator that he would pay him in his Debt, the Testator thereupon ordered his Agent to receive the same from Batson, but to take no Interest.

After the making of this Will, and in the Life-time of the Testator, the second Son of Sir Harcourt Masters died, but Sir Harcourt's other younger Sons were then living, and made Plaintiffs in the Cross Cause.

A. having a Debt due to him from J. S. devifes 500*l.* of it to B. and the Refidue of it to C. Hereupon the Questions were, 1st, whether the younger Children of Sir Harcourt Masters were intituled to any Part of the 1000*l.* Debt given them by the Will, but received by the Testator after the making thereof.

but does not mention what the Debt is which is owing from J. S. A. receives the whole Debt in his Life-time, B. dies in the Testator's Life-time: The Testator's receiving in the Debt in his own Life-time is an Ademption of the Legacy, as to the Devise of the Residuum of the Debt; but it may be otherwise as to the certain Legacy given to B. if B. had survived the Testator.

A. devifes 500*l.* Legacy to the second Son of J. S. and devifes other Legacies to the other Sons of J. S. and declares, that if any of the younger Sons of J. S. should die before they are capable of receiving their Share, the Share or Legacy of him so dying shall go to the Survivor; the second Son dies in the Testator's Life-time, this 500*l.* given to the second Son shall not survive. And as to this it was argued, that with Respect to the 500*l.* Part of the said Debt given by the Testator to the second Son of Sir Harcourt, if the second Son had survived the Testator there might have been some Reason, that tho' the Testator after the making of his Will had received the same, yet the second Son of Sir Harcourt should be intituled thereto, because it was a certain Sum of 500*l.* which was given by the Will to the said second Son; and where a certain Sum is given out of any Fund, if the Testator himself in his Life-time receives it, whereby his personal Estate is increased, this must be made good to the Legatee out of some other Part of the personal Estate; but where the Thing given is specific, (viz.) such a Debt, or the Residue of the said Debt, and the Testator himself afterwards receives in this Debt, as the Devise is specific, and the Thing in Specie by the Act of the Testator does not continue to have any Subsistence, this is properly and reasonably an Ademption of the Legacy; and that it is a material Distinction where the Testator (a) himself calls in a Debt which he has devised by his Will, and where the Debtor unprovoked or uncalled upon pays it in; for in the latter Case it cannot be said to be the Act of the Testator, and therefore would be no Ademption nor Revocation of the Will; but in the former Case (and which was the present Case) the Admiral called for the Debt from Sir Harcourt, and having received it, and the Legacy of the Residue to the younger Children of Sir Harcourt being specific, the Testator himself had by his own Act put an End to the Legacy, and extinguished the same.

(a) Quære, and see the Case of the Earl of Thomond versus Earl of Suffolk, Vol. I.

And tho' objected that by this Will it was declared, that if any of the younger Children of Sir Harcourt Masters should die before they were capable of receiving their Share, then the Share or Legacy of him or her so dying should go to the Survivors or Survivor;

Yet the Court took it, that this must be intended if the Legatee should have survived the Testator, so that the Right to the Legacy became vested in him, and that in such Case only the Survivor should take; but that where the Legatee died in the Life of the Testator, as nothing could ever vest in the Legatee, so neither could it survive from him; but at the same Time the Court admitted, that where a Devise is to A. for Life, Remainder to B. and A. dies in the Testator's Life-time, B. shall take presently; or if a Devise be to A. (a) and B. and A. dies in the Testator's Life-time, and then the Testator dies, there B. shall have the whole; for these Cases seem to be within the plain Intention of the Testator; but in the principal Case it was quite a Strain, to support a Legacy given out of a Fund which the Testator himself had by his own voluntary Act put an End to; for which Reason Lord Chancellor declared that all these Legacies to the younger Children of Sir Harcourt Masters were extinct, and should not be made good; and upon this Point were cited Raymond 335. Paulet's Case, Swinbourne 7 Part, cap. 20, 447. and the Case of (b) Orm versus Smith.

B. owes A. a Debt, A. by Will gives the Debt to B. and afterwards receives it himself in his Life-time; this is an Ademption of the Legacy.

(a) 1 Vent. 39. & ante Vol. I. El-list versus Davenport.

2dly, As to the Point, where the Testator devised to Batson the Money which he owed the Testator, and which he afterwards himself received, Lord Chancellor said this also was clear; for though the Evidence was not so strong as to the Testator's calling in the Money, yet there did not appear to have been any Intention in him to forgive any Thing but the Interest of this Debt, and that this was intended to be no more than a Release by a Will, which tho' not in (a) Strictness a Release (for it being by Will could operate only as a Legacy, and must be Assets, and liable to pay the Debts of the Testator) yet it seemed only intended as a Release by his Will, which Intention was altered by the Testator's consenting in his Life-time to receive the Debt himself, and the Will intimated no more than that the Testator's Executors should not after his Death give any Trouble or Molestation to Batson for this Debt; and therefore as to this Legacy claimed by Batson, the Court declared that it was also extinct.

The next Point was concerning the Moiety of the real Estate of Admiral Littleton, which he covenanted to settle to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder to the Use of Sir Barnham Ryder, &c.

A. the two Daughters, B. and C. and devises one Moiety of his real and personal Estate to B. the other Moiety of his real and personal Estate to C.

And it was insisted, and so held by the Court, that tho' this was but a Covenant, and therefore at Law no Revocation of the Will by which the Testator had disposed of his real Estate, yet that the same being for a valuable Consideration, was in Equity tantamount to a Conveyance, and consequently in Equity a Revocation of the Will, as to the Moiety of the six Houses and afterwards A. in Consideration of Marriage covenants to settle a Moiety of his real Estate upon the Husband that marries B. the Husband shall have one Moiety by the Settlement, and the Wife the Moiety of the other Moiety by the Will.

devised by the Testator to his Wife; so that the Plaintiff Sir Barnham Ryder was intitled to one clear Moiety of the real Estate, and to an Account of the Rents and Profits thereof from the Death of the Testator. But,

As to the six Houses devised to the Testator's Wife, it being the Testator's Intention that she should have them, the Court held that she should have a Satisfaction out of the remaining Moiety, and that the Wife should not suffer by the Marriage Articles, there being enough out of the other Moiety to supply and satisfy the Devise of the six Houses to her; altho' on the other Side it was objected, that the Wife having a Jointure of 400*l. per Annum* made to her, there was the less Reason for the Court to strain any Thing in her Favour against the Coheir the youngest Daughter, who was left but indifferently provided for, the Remainder of this 400*l. per Annum* Jointure being to go over, after the Jointress's Death, to collateral Heirs Male.

In the next Place, as to the other Moiety of the real Estate, it was decreed, that the Testator's Widow was to have for her Life six Houses Part thereof, and the Residue of such Moiety subject to the Wife's Estate for Life in the six Houses, to be divided in Moieties, one Moiety thereof to go to the elder Daughter, and the other to the younger; and tho' it was insisted, that it appeared to be the plain Intention of the Testator that both Daughters should have equal Portions by the 5000*l.* in Money given to the eldest Daughter on her Marriage, and the 5000*l.* which the Testator reserved Power to dispose of in Legacies by his Will, and that it was a very (a) common Case, where a Man by Will gives a Portion of 1000*l.* to one of his Daughters, and afterwards lives to marry that Daughter, and the remaining Moiety

(a) 2 Vern. 115. Preced. in

One devises to his Wife six Messuages, and the rest of his real Estate equally to his two Daughters in Fee, and afterwards on the Marriage of his eldest Daughter he covenants to settle one Moiety on her and her Husband; the Devise of the six Houses shall be good, and subsist out of Chan. 183 gives her 1000 l. or some greater Portion, to conſtrue ſuch Portion to go in Satisfaction and Diſcharge of the Legacy, it being as if the Teſtator had himſelf paid his own Legacy in his Life-time; and that it was within the ſame Reason in the preſent Caſe, where the Teſtator by his Will gave a Moiety of his real and perſonal Eſtate to his eldeſt Daughter, and afterwards in his Life-time upon her Marriage, gave her a Moiety of his real and perſonal Eſtate, that this ſhould be a Satisfaction and Payment of the Legacy:

Yet to this the Lord Chancellor ſaid, that tho' it might be the Intention of the Teſtator, it was nevertheless going too far from plain Words; and this Caſe was the ſtronger, in regard that after the Teſtator had entered into theſe Articles for the giving Half his real and perſonal Eſtate to the Plaintiff Sir Barnham Ryder, he executed a Codicil whereby he confirmed his Will ſubject to the Articles; which Confirmation was a Republication of his Will, and as if he had wrote it over again, or had afterwards for a valuable Conſideration aſſigned over a Moiety of his real and perſonal Eſtate to his eldeſt Daughter, by which the ſaid Moiety thus diſpoſed of did no longer continue any Part of the Teſtator's Eſtate, ſo that the Teſtator afterwards by deviſing a Moiety of his real and perſonal Eſtate, muſt be intended to have meant the remaining Moiety only, and to have divided that Moiety into Moieties.

One by Deed and Fine mortgages, this a Revocation of a Will only pro tanto.

5thly, It being urged that the Teſtator Admiral Littleton and his Wife having joined in the Mortgage by Leaſe and Releaſe and Fine, this was a Revocation of the Admiral's Will:

Lord Chancellor replied, that it could only be a Revocation pro tanto.

6tibly, It was contended that this Mortgage being a Debt, must be paid out of the personal Estate, nay that it should be paid out of the personal Estate prior to the specific Legacies, at least before the pecuniary Legacies, and it was said to have been determined (a), that a Mortgage should be paid out of the personal Estate, in Preference to the Customary or Orphanage Part by the Custom of London; which last was admitted by the Court, because the Custom of London cannot take Place till after the Debts paid, however it was afterwards admitted by the Counsel on both Sides, that the Land being made by the Testator himself a Fund for the Payment of the Mortgage-Money, tho' the same should be eased against an Administrator or residuary Legatee, yet it should not be eased so as to disappoint any of the Debts, or even (b) Legacies given by the Will, either specific or pecuniary.

The personal Estate of a Freeman shall be applied to pay Mortgages, preferably to the Customary or Orphanage Part, so against a re-

Chester versus Painter.

Case 96.

At the Council.

UPON an Appeal to the King in Council from a Decree in the Court of Chancery in the Island of Antigua:

One devises a Third of all his Estate whatsoever to his Wife, and two Thirds of all his real and personal Estate to his Son J. S. and his Heirs; the Wife has but an Estate for Life in the third Part of the real Estate, the Word Estate being intended to describe the Thing only, and not the Interest in the Thing, and when the Testator intends to pass a Fee, he adds the Word Heirs to the Word Estate.

The Case was: One John Painter seized in Fee of a real Estate, and possessed of a personal Estate, in June 1711. made his Will, and thereby gave and bequeathed one

(a) This was determined in the Case of Ball versus Ball, by Lord Macclesfield in 1720.

one third Part of all his Estate whatsoever to his Wife Anne, and devised to his Son John Painter and to his Heirs two Thirds of all his real and personal Estate, upon Condition to pay his Debts; and gave to J. S. the Sum of ——— payable at twenty-one, and in the mean Time he to have the yearly Sum of ——— which did not amount to the Interest of the Legacy given to him. J. S. died under twenty-one, and his Executors demanded the Legacy presently.

In the Privy Council were present inter al' the Lord Chief Justice Raymond, Sir Joseph Jekyll Master of the Rolls, and the Lord Chief Justice Eyre; and the Questions were,

1st, Whether the Wife, to whom the third Part of all the Testator's Estate whatsoever was devised, should have an Estate in Fee, or only an Estate for Life?

2<sup>dly</sup>, Whether the Wife should have a third Part of the personal Estate free from the Debts, or only a third Part of so much as should remain after Payment of Debts?

I devise
at his Age of twenty-one,
A. dies before twenty-one,
his Executors shall not had lived.

3<sup>dly</sup>, Whether the Executor of J. S. should be paid this Legacy presently, or wait until such Time as J. S. would, if he had lived, have attained his Age of Twenty-one?

not have the Legacy until such Time as A. should have come to twenty-one, if he had lived.

As to the first, the Chief Justices and the Master of the Rolls without Difficulty held, that by the Devise of a third Part of all the Testator's Estate whatsoever the Land did pass, as well as the personal Estate, by Virtue of the Word [whatsoever;] but they conceived that the Wife should have but an Estate for Life therein, the Word [Estate] being rather a Description of the Thing

Thing itself, than of the Testator's Interest in it; and by the next Clause it appeared, that where the Testator intended to give a Fee, there he took Care to add the Word [Heirs] to the Word [Estate.]*

But as to the two other Points, the Judges and the Master of the Rolls took Time to consider, and having met together, they all agreed, and Raymond C. J. delivered it as their unanimous Opinion with Regard to the second Point, that the Widow should have her Thirds not liable to the Debts, they being by the express Words of the Will fixed upon the other two Thirds, by which the Devise to the Wife was rendered clear; and upon this Point were cited Dy. 59. b. 164. a. Goldsb. 149.

As to the third Point they likewise held unanimously, that the Executors of the Legatee should (a) wait for their Legacy until such Time as their Testator should, in Case he had lived, have attained twenty-one, it being unreasonable that the Executors of J. S. standing in his Place should be in a better Case than J. S. himself would have been, had he been living; and it was to be presumed that the first Testator had made a Computation of his Estate, and considered when the same would best bear and allow of the Payment of this Legacy; and there could be no Reason given why an uncertain Accident should accelerate the Payment of this Legacy before the Time which was at first intended for that Purpose. Case 97.

Lord Chancellor King.

Attorney General versus Hooker,
and Somner versus Hooker.

In the Case of a Will, tho' an express Legacy be given to the Executors, yet if a Legacy is also given to the next of Kin, this is equally a Bar to the next of Kin, as to the Executors; and therefore if the Surplus be not disposed of by the Will, the Executors shall have it. Qu.

THIS Suit (inter al') was for a Distribution of the Surplus of a personal Estate:

The Case was, one having a Sister, who was next of Kin, and having several Sums of Money in the South-Sea and Bank, made his Will, whereby he devised 100 l. per Annum to his Sister for Life, and the Residue of his Bank-Stock to his Executor, and devised — per Annum out of his South-Sea Stock to — Remainder of his said Stocks to — he devised the Furniture of his House to his Executor and the Heirs of his Body, giving an express Legacy of a Sum of Money to his Sister, and making one who did not appear to be any Relation to him Executor; but there was no Disposition of the Surplus of his personal Estate. On the Death of the Testator, the Question was, how the Residue of the personal Estate should go?

Insisted by Mr. Lutwyche and Mr. Talbot on Behalf of the Sister the next of Kin, that here being an express Legacy to the Executor, it necessarily implied that he was to have no more, expressio unius est exclusio alterius, the Executor could not have all and some; and tho' the Sister had an express Legacy as well as the Executor, yet this did not bar the next of Kin from taking (under another Will) by the Statute of Distribution; that in most of the Cases which had been decreed where the Executor had an express Legacy, the next of Kin had one too, which yet was no Objection against letting such next of Kin into a Distribution; they admitted the Case of Ball and Smith in Lord Harcourt's Time, where the Testator marrying the Widow and Executrix of one Atkins, who as Executrix was possessed of a considerable Quantity of Plate, and the Testator Smith by his Will gave to his said Wife all the Plate and Goods which he had with her, and made her Executrix, without disposing of the Surplus; this being in the Case of a Wife, Lord Harcourt decreed the Surplus to her; but they observed at the same Time that the Plate and Goods were what she already had as Executrix of her former Husband, and therefore the Devise thereof to her was in Strictness void; that according to Lord Macclesfield's Opinion every Executor was but a Trustee, and that if an Executor dies intestate, all the personal Estate the Property whereof is not altered, will go to the (a) Administrator de bonis non, &c. and not to the next of Kin to the Executor.

(a) See the Case of the Duke of Rutland versus Duchefs of Rutland, ante 97. & Farrington versus Knightley, Vol. I.

Solicitor General contra: It is a very strange Construction that because the Testator not knowing (perhaps) how far his personal Estate will hold out, gives in all Events an express Legacy to his Executor, therefore the latter shall not have the Residue as Executor! surely he shall; but in this Case it is the stronger, since as to these Stocks out of which particular Annuities are given to some Persons for their Lives, the Remainder is devised to the Executor, which shews that the Remainder of the whole was intended to go to him; and it is like the Case of the Duchefs of (b) Beaufort, where the late Duke of Beaufort gave the Use of his Plate to his Wife for Life, and after her Death gave the Plate to his Grandson (afterwards Duke of Beaufort) and made his Wife Executrix, without disposing of the Surplus of his personal Estate; whereupon, tho' the Court

(b) See Farrington versus Knightley, ubi supra.

Court of Chancery decreed the Surplus to go to the next of Kin, yet the House of Lords reversed that Decree and gave it to the Wife.

Lord Chancellor : I could wish an Act of Parliament was made to reduce this Point to a Certainty, for if it were once settled either Way it would be well enough ; but in the present Case, if the express Legacy to the Executor be allowed to exclude him from taking the Surplus, by the same Reason the express Legacy to the next of Kin will bar her likewise ; and then, here being Exclusion against Exclusion, the Law must take Place, and the Executor have the Surplus as Executor.

As to what has been urged, that if an Executor dies intestate, all the personal Estate, the Property whereof is not altered, shall go to the Administrator de bonis non, &c. and not to the next of Kin of the Executor ; this is true, because from the Time the Executor dies intestate, the first Testator dies intestate also, and it was the Executor's own Fault that he did not, as he might, alter the Property.

But the Law says, and the general Notion of Mankind is, that the making a Man Executor, is giving him (a) all, which is the less to be wondered at, when it is considered that personal Estates were not near so large formerly as they are at present.

(a) See the Office of Executors, Chap. 1. Pages 4th and 5th, express to this Purpose.

Accordingly it was decreed in the principal Case, that the Executor should take the Surplus as Executor ; tho' Mr. Lutwyche said this would shake many Precedents.

Thomas versus Bennet.

UPON a Marriage Settlement Pin-money was reserved for the Wife, (viz.) 50 l. per Annum for her Apparel and private Expences, secured by a Term for Years; the Husband died and soon after the Widow died, upon which her Executors demanded in Equity 500 l. for ten Years Arrears of this Pin-money; but it appearing that the Husband maintained her, and on the other Hand there being no Proof that she had ever demanded the Pin-money, this Claim was disallowed.

Case 98.
Lord Chancellor King.
An annual Sum secured for the Wife's Pin-money for her Apparel and Expences; if they cohabit together and the Husband maintain her, the Arrears of Pin-money are not recoverable. See ante Powell versus Hankey.

2dly, (Inter al') The Case was, that Bennet marrying Mary the Niece of the Testator Thomas, the latter by Marriage-Articles agreed that he would at the Time of his Death leave devise or otherwise convey, Lands and Tenements of the yearly Value of 30 l. to the Heirs of the Body of his Niece Mary Bennet by her said Husband and to their Heirs, provided that if there should be more than one Child of the Marriage, then the Testator Thomas should be at Liberty to dispose of this 30 l. per Annum to such of the Children of the Niece as he should think fit; and in the Beginning of the Articles it was said to be for the better Advancement of Bennet and his intended Wife, and the Issue of the Marriage.

The Testator Thomas died, Bennet and his Wife were living and had seven Children, and demanded for the Children the 30 l. per Annum with the Arrears thereof from the Death of the Testator Thomas, Objected, The 30*l. per Annum* is to be left to the Heirs of the Body of the Niece Mary by Bennet, & nemo est heres viventis, so that this 30*l. per Annum* is not to commence until after the Death of the Niece Mary, at which Time all her Children may be dead, consequently it is uncertain, whether the Niece Mary will then have any Heir of her Body by Bennet, or who will be that Heir.

Court of Equity has a Latitude in the Construction of Articles.
(a) Vide Vol. I. Bale versus Coleman.

Where the Words [Heirs of the Bodies of the Husband and Wife and their Heirs] shall be construed Children.

Lord Chancellor : This is a Case of Articles, in the Construction of which the Court has a much greater Latitude than in the Construction of Limitations of Estates : Thus in the Case of (a) Marriage-Articles to settle Lands on the Husband and Wife for their Lives, Remainder to the Heirs Male of their Bodies, it shall be understood to have been intended the first and every other Son ; so here the Words [Heirs of the Body of the Niece by her Husband] shall be construed Children, and the rather, because it is said just afterwards, and to their Heirs, whereas if there be a Son of the Marriage, it must be his Heirs alone that must take ; and tho' in Case there had been only Daughters, the Words [their Heirs] had been proper, yet here are Sons, and it cannot be intended that the Provision was for Daughters only, when not so expressed, and the proviso that reserves a Power to the Testator Thomas the Uncle, if he thought fit, to give Preference to any of the Children before the rest, shews that all the Children were to take, unless the Testator Thomas the Uncle should think proper to interpose, and make an Appointment of the 30*l. per Annum* to any one of the Children ; moreover the Preamble of the Articles was, that the Issue should be advanced as well as the Husband and Wife, for which Reason all the Children of Bennet by his Wife Mary that were born at the Time of the Testator's Death, ought to take this 30*l. per An-* num, and are intitled to the Arrears from the Death of their Uncle the Testator Thomas.

3dly, There being a Clause in the Testator Thomas's Will, that if the Estate given by his Will to his younger Niece Anne Lewellin, should prove of greater Value than what he had before given to his Niece Mary Bennet, then so much should be taken from his Niece Anne Lewellin, and be refunded to his eldest Niece Mary, as would make them equal ; it was thereupon objected, that what the Children of Mary were intitled to by the said Marriage-Articles could not be taken as given to Mary.

Where there is a Proviso in a Will, that in Case what is left to one Daughter shall exceed in Value what is given to another, the former shall refund pro tanto ; what is given to either of the Daughter's Children is to be looked upon as given to the Daughter.

But Lord Chancellor interrupted the Counsel in this, declaring it to be clearly his Opinion, that what by the Marriage-Articles was provided for the Children of Mary by her Friends, ought to be looked upon as Part of the Provision for Mary, and as done for her ; since it was doing that for her Children which otherwise she or her Husband Bennet would have been obliged to do themselves.

4thly, Here being a Legacy of 100*l.* given to the Executor, and the Testator having afterwards contracted a Debt of 25*l.* with the Executor (who was an Attorney) for Fees and Business done, resolved without Difficulty that this Debt being contracted subsequent to the Will, the Legacy could be (a) no Satisfaction for the same.

A Legacy given to J. S. shall not be taken to be a Satisfaction of a subsequent Debt.

Case 99.

Lord Chancellor King.By the Stat. of 1 Jac. 2.
c. 17. if after the Death of the Father any of his Children
shall die in-Keylway versus Keylway.

Robert Keylway died intestate, leaving a Wife and no Child, and leaving a Mother, three Brothers, a Sister, and two Nieces the Children of a deceased Brother, and possessed of a considerable personal Estate, and the Question being touching the Distribution thereof: intestate without Wife or Children, every Brother and Sister and their Representatives shall have an equal Share with the Mother. The Case was, after the Death of the Father the Son died intestate leaving a Wife, and without Children, but leaving a Mother, Brothers and a Sister, and two Nieces the Children of a deceased Brother. Resolved that this was within the Statute, and that the Intestate's Wife should have but one Moiety; and as to the other Moiety, that the Intestate's Brothers and Sister, &c. should come in for an equal Share thereof with the Mother.

1st, It was admitted by all, that the Intestate's Wife was to have one Moiety of his personal Estate by the Statute of Distribution, 22 & 23 Car. 2. cap. 10. so that the only Difficulty was, as to the remaining Moiety, whether the Intestate's Mother as the next of Kin should have it, or whether the Intestate's Brothers and Sister, &c. should come in for their Shares thereof equally with the Mother?

Objected on Behalf of the Mother, that by the Statute of Distribution the Mother as next of Kin was intitled to this remaining Moiety just as the Father would have been, and that the Brothers and Sister, &c. could not be thought to be of equal Degree of Kindred to the Intestate with the Mother; quod fuit concess' per Cur'.

Then it was insisted, that this Case was not within the Stat. of Jac. 2. c. 17. sect. 7. the Words of which are, "That if after the Death of the Father any of his Children shall die intestate without Wife or Children in the Life-time of the Mother, every Brother and Sister and the Representatives of them shall have an equal Share with the Mother;" for that in this Case the Intestate having a Wife, it was not within this latter Statute, which is to take Place only in Cases where the Mother before the making thereof would have gone away with the whole personal Estate; whereas here she would take but Half.

It was admitted to be true, that the Words of the Statute are in the Disjunctive, (viz.) If after the Death of the Father the Child dies without Wife or Issue, that then every Brother and Sisters, &c. should have their Share equally with the Mother; which Word [or] might be thought to imply, that in either of these Cases the Brothers and Sisters, &c. should be admitted to share with the Mother.

But that was impossible; because if after the Death of the Father the Child should die leaving no Wife, but leaving Children, it was impossible that the Brothers and Sister or the Mother should any of them have a Share of the Intestate's Estate, which would all go to the Intestate's own Children; and therefore the Word [or]

(a) See the Case of Ri- chardson ver-

Vol. I.

should be taken for [and] as is (a) done in a great many Cases; from whence it was concluded, that this Case was not within the Statute of Jac. 2. but rested upon that of Distribution, Car. 2. by which the Mother as next of Kin took one Moiety, and the Wife would be intitled to the other. But

Lord Chancellor decreed the contrary, holding the Intention of the Statute of Jac. 2. to be, that in every Case where after the Death of the Father the Child dies without Issue, if there be no Wife, the Child's Brothers and Sisters shall come in equally with the Mother as to the Whole, and that where the Mother before that Statute came in for Half, there the deceased Child's Brothers and Sisters shall now come in for a Share of that Moiety; and that as the Intention of the Statute of Jac. 2. was in Prejudice of the Mother, so in the Case which had now happened, the Words were plainly against her, they being, "That if after the " Death of the Father any of the Children shall die " without Wife or Children, then the Brothers and " Sisters, &c. shall have their Share with the Mother;" now here one of these Contingencies has happened, and therefore the Brothers and Sister, &c. should come in with the Mother.

He admitted, that if the Intestate should have a Child and no Wife, and a Brother and Mother, in such Case neither the Brother nor Mother would have any Part, but the Child should take all, because originally the lineal Descendants the Children, should be preferred before the lineal Ascendants the Father or Mother; and the lineal Ascendants, the Father and Mother, should be preferred to collateral Descendants, the Brother and Sister. But this being altered by the latter Statute, therefore it was now decreed that the Mother of the Intestate Keylway should come in for no more than her Share of the Moiety of the personal Estate with the Intestate's Brothers and Sister, and the two Nieces the Representatives of the deceased Brother.

This Case was affirmed to be Law by Lord Chancellor Hardwicke, in the Case of Stanley versus Stanley, 15th May 1739. 1 Atk. 455

Webster versus Webster.

Case 100.

At the Rolls.

ONE having by his Will devised the Residue of his personal Estate to three Persons, the Question was, Whether these were Jointenants or Tenants in common?

Devise of a Residue of a personal Estate to three is a joint Devise, and shall survive.

It was urged that by the Civil Law such a Devise of a Residuum would plainly make a Tenancy in common, and tho' by our Law it would as plainly make a Jointenancy, yet all Matters legatory, and relating to personal Estates, were to be construed according to the Ecclesiastical Laws; for the Spiritual Court had the proper Jurisdiction of these Matters, and it would be very inconvenient, if the Legatees by suing here should have one Judgment, and by applying to the Spiritual Court should have another.

On the other Side it was urged, that in this Case it appeared the Executors had assented to the Legacy, from which Time, it having become a legal Property, the same was determinable according to the Rules of the Common Law. See Jones (Tho.) 130. Bastard versus Stukeley, 1 Vern. 482. Lady Shore versus Billingsley. That this was a Case of very great and general Concern, and that it had been constantly taken for granted since the above-mentioned Authorities, that where there was a joint Devise of a Residuum, the residuary duary Legatees were Jointenants, and supposing it to be otherwise, if one of the Legatees should die in the Life of the Testator, his Share would go according to the Statute of Distribution, as undisposed of.

To which it was replied, that tho' what had been said concerning the Legacies becoming a legal Property by the Executor's Assent might be true in the Case of specific Legacies, of such and such particular Chattels, yet when the Devise was of the Residue of the personal Estate after Debts and Legacies and the Charges of the Executorship paid, (as it was in the present Case) tho' the Executor should assent to this Bequest of the Residuum, yet until it appeared that all the Debts Legacies and Charges of the Executorship were paid, it would be impossible to know what the Residuum was, and consequently no Property could vest.

The Master of the Rolls said, this Case was of great Consequence, for which Reason he would take Time to consider of it; and afterwards gave Judgment, that in this Case the Survivor should take the Whole, and retain it in Equity in the same Manner as if it had been the Case of a Grant at Law.

The like Decree was made by his Honour in the

Case 101.

THE Bill was to have the Benefit of Marriage Articles dated 23 December 1685, and made on the Marriage of Richard Errissey with Frances the Daughter of Sir Peter Killigrew, and that the Settlement which (either thro' Mistake or Fraud) was made in a different Manner from what was contained in the Articles, might be set right.

Articles on Marriage to settle Lands on Husband and Wife for their Lives, Remainder to the Heirs
Male of the Body of the Husband by the Wife, Remainder to the Heirs Male of the Body of the Husband by any other Wife, Remainder to the Heirs Female of the Body of the Husband by this Wife. A Settlement is made before the Marriage, and said to be pursuant to the Articles whereby the Lands are limited to the Husband for Life sans waste, and with Power to make Leases, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of the Marriage in Tail Male, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of any other Marriage in Tail Male, Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of the Husband. There are Issue two Daughters, and the Husband suffers a Recovery, and devises the Premises to his Sister; the Daughters may in Equity compel the Devisee to convey the Premises to them.

The two Plaintiffs Mary and Frances West were the Grandaughters and Coheirs of this Richard Errissey and Frances his Wife, and by the said Marriage Articles James Errissey the Plaintiffs Grandfather's Uncle being seized in Fee of divers Manors and Lands in Cornwal and Devonshire, did, in Consideration of the Marriage and Marriage Portion, covenant to settle great Part of the Premiffes (mentioning the Parcels) to the of Ufe Richard Erriffey the Plaintiffs Grandfather (the then intended Husband of Frances) for Life without Wafte, Remainder as to Part to the Ufe of Frances the intended Wife for Life, Remainder of the whole to the Heirs Male of the Body of the faid Richard Erriffey by Frances, Remainder to the Heirs Male of the Body of the faid Richard Erriffey by any other Wife, Remainder to the Heirs Female of the Body of the faid Richard Erriffey by Frances, Remainder over; with Power for the faid Richard Erriffey to make Leafes for three Lives, and to make a Jointure.

Afterwards, and before the Marriage, by Indenture dated the 24th of March in the fame Year 1685, a Settlement was made of the Premiffes, and mentioned to be in Purfuance and Performance of the Articles, by which James Erriffey the Uncle conveyed the Premiffes to the Ufe of Richard Erriffey the Husband for Life fans Wafte, Remainder to Frances his Wife for her Life for her Jointure, Remainder to the firft, &c. Son of the Marriage in Tail Male fucceffively, Remainder to the firft and every other Son of the faid Richard Erriffey by any other Wife in Tail Male fucceffively, Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of the faid Richard Erriffey by the faid Frances, Remainder over.

By which Settlement there was an Omiffion of Trustees for fupporting contingent Remainders, and inftead of limiting a Remainder to the Daughters of the Marriage the Limitation was to the Heirs of the Body of Richard Erriffey by the faid Frances, which plainly gave an Eftate-tail to Richard Erriffey, and confequently a Power to bar the Daughters of that Marriage, and alfo the Remainders over by a Recovery.

Richard Errissey had Issue by the said Marriage one only Daughter Mary ; and

In Trinity Term 1698. taking Advantage of this Mistake, sold Part of the Premises to the Amount of 6000 l. and upwards, and having suffered a Common Recovery of such Part of the Premises as remained unsold, by Indenture of the 16th of February 1709. conveyed the Premises unsold to Trustees (Worth and Herle) and their Heirs, in Trust to himself for Life, Remainder to such Trusts as he should declare by Will.

Afterwards the said Richard Errissey by Will dated the 27th of December 1722. devised the Premises to his Sister the Defendant Mary Errissey and her Heirs, except a small Tenement which he devised to one Bar-rable and his Heirs, and having made the Defendant Mary Errissey Executrix, died in January following.

Mary the Daughter of Richard Errissey by Frances married Col. West, and they had Issue the now Plaintiffs Mary and Frances West both Infants; Mary West the Mother died, and

The two Plaintiffs Mary and Frances West brought their Bill against Mary Errissey, in order to rectify the Mistake in the Settlement, whereby the Premises, instead of being limited in strict Settlement as they ought to have been in Compliance with the Articles and the Intent thereof, were settled in Tail upon the said Richard Errissey ; but as to the Premises sold, the Bill did not seek to disturb the Purchase, only to recover the Purchase-money out of the Assets of Richard Errissey.

The

The Defendant Mary Errissey pleaded the Settlement of 1685. the Common Recovery, the Will of Richard Errissey, and the long Enjoyment of the Premises; and the Plea being argued before the Lord Chief Baron Gilbert and the other Barons, the same was overruled unanimously.

Afterwards the Cause coming on to be heard before Lord Chief Baron Pengelly (who had succeeded to that Place on the Death of Lord Chief Baron Gilbert) and the Barons Hale, Carter and Comyns, the Bill was dismissed (a) without Costs; it being dangerous (as it was said) to set aside a Settlement which seemed to have been deliberately and solemnly made.

That it appeared the Daughters of this Marriage were postponed to the Sons of a subsequent Marriage, and so their Advancement by this Reversion was not so much regarded; that tho' the Case of Trevor and Trevor (b) was an Instance in Point, where Marriage-Articles for settling Lands on the Husband for Life, Remainder to the Heirs Male of his Body by his then intended Wife, had been construed to mean his first and every other Son in Tail Male, yet where there had been another Remainder, whereby the Premises were agreed to be limited to the Heirs Female of the Body of the Husband by the Wife, this had never been construed to mean Daughters, the Sons being more to be regarded than Daughters, as they preserve the Name of the Family; besides, that the Settlement of 1685. had been attested by Sir Peter Killigrew Father of the said Frances.

(b) Vide
Vol. I.

From this Decree an Appeal was brought in the House of Lords, where it was insisted, 1st, That by the Marriage-Articles it was agreed that the Estate should should be limited to Richard Errissey for his Life sans Waste, and that he should have Power to make Leases, which was a plain Evidence that the Estate was intended to be limited in strict Settlement, and that Richard Errissey should be but Tenant for Life, and have no Power to bar either his Sons or Daughters by Fine or Recovery.

2dly, That the Settlement took Notice of the Articles, and was expressly mentioned to be made in Pursuance and Performance thereof, which Words were a Demonstration that the Parties did not design to depart from, or vary the Terms of the Articles, nor had come to any new Agreement for that Purpose, and that it was apprehended the Limitations in the Settlement under which Richard Errissey by Construction of Law became Tenant in Tail, had proceeded from the Mistake or Negligence of the Counsel who drew the same, and not from any Agreement or Design of the Parties to vary the Terms of the Articles; of which Mistake or Neglect, the Omission of the common Limitation to Trustees to preserve contingent Remainders was a plain Proof.

3dly, That the Respondent was a Volunteer under the Will of Richard Errissey, who took Advantage of the Mistakes in the Settlement, and suffered a common Recovery to bar his Issue, altho' Mary his Daughter was then living, which was apprehended to have been a manifest Breach of Trust in him.

Indeed it had been objected, that altho' Courts of Equity had in like Cases decreed an Execution of Marriage-Articles in strict Settlement, in Favour of Sons, yet had they not extended it in Favour of Daughters, who were most commonly provided for by a Term for Years, to raise Portions for them in Case of Issue Male.

But surely the Reason seemed to be as strong, that the Expression of Heirs Female of the Body contradistinguished from Sons, should in Marriage-Articles have the same Construction in Favour of Daughters, as the Expression of Heirs Male in Favour of Sons, since both were equally under the Contemplation of the Parties, and especially since in the present Case there was no other Provision for Daughters besides the Limitation intended them by the Marriage-Articles. And according to the common Course, where a Provision is made for Daughters by a Term for Years, it is always so limited, as to be out of the Power of the Father to bar it.

It had been objected, 2dly, That the Settlement being made before the Marriage, it was to be presumed that the Parties came to some new Agreement to vary the Terms of the Articles, and that the Settlement was made to the Satisfaction of Sir Peter Killigrew, who was a Witness to the Settlement, as he had been a Party to the Articles.

Resp. But (it seems) the Settlement was not only expressed to be in Pursuance and Performance of the Articles, but the Appellants by their Bill charging that the Parties came to no new Agreement after the Date of the Articles to vary the Terms thereof, the Respondent Errissey by her Answer had admitted she never pretended that the Parties after the Articles came to any new Agreement to vary them. And as to Sir Peter Killigrew's being a Witness to the said Settlement, he (as most Gentlemen in like Cases) relied upon his Counsel's framing the Settlement so as to answer the Intent of the Articles, being himself a Stranger to the Forms and Method thereof.

Object. 3dly, But after such a Length of Time and an Acquiescence under the Settlement, the Appellants ought not at this Time of Day to have Resort to the Articles of Marriage.

Resp. The Appellants were Infants, whose Title did not accrue till after the Death of Richard Errissey the Grandfather in January 1722. and they filed their Bill for Relief within a short Time after.

4thly, It had been objected, if the Articles of Marriage should be allowed to control and vary the Settlement, the Purchasers under Richard Errissey would in Consequence be affected.

To which it was answered, that the Appellants Bill was not brought against any Purchaser; since as to those Parts of the Estate which were sold by Richard Errissey, the Appellants only prayed that they might have Satisfaction for the same out of the personal Estate of the said Richard Errissey, which had been principally acquired by those Sales in Breach and Violation of the Trusts; and that by the Conditions in his Will annexed to the trifling and Fruitless Bequests to the Appellants his Granddaughters and Heirs at Law, he seemed to be aware of the Injury he had done them, and that his personal Assets would be liable to their Demands in Respect thereof.

Whereupon the House of Lords reversed (a) this Decree of Dismission, and decreed that the Trustees Worth and Herle and the Respondent Mary Errissey should convey such of the Premises as were comprised in the Articles to Trustees, to the Use of the Appellants Mary and Frances West, and to the Heirs Female

of their Bodies as Tenants in common, with cross Remainders to them in Tail Female; and the Respondents Mary Errissey and Barrable to account for the Profits and to pay the same to the Appellants the Infants; also Mary Errissey the Executrix to account for the Purchase Money that had been received by the said Richard Errissey for such Part of the Premises as he had sold, and pay the Interest thereof to the Appellants Mary and Frances West; and the Respondents to bring their Writings into the Court of Exchequer, and deliver up the Possession to the Appellants the Infants; but as to the principal Monies arising by the said Sales, these were to be laid out in the Purchase of Lands in Fee, to be settled to the same Uses as the Lands unfold were decreed to be conveyed.

Case 102.

Lord Chancellor King.

If the Mother being a Widow advances a Child and dies intestate leaving many Children, the Child advanced shall not bring what he received from his Mother into Hotchpot.

Holt versus Frederick.

IN this Case (inter al') the following Point arose: Martha Frederick who married one Holt and survived him, had three Children, two Sons and a Daughter, and having out of her own Estate given 1000 l. to her Daughter in Marriage, died intestate, leaving those three Children; and the Question was, whether the Daughter who had received this 1000 l. from her Mother, ought to bring it into Hotchpot, before she should receive any further Share of her Mother's personal Estate?

On Behalf of the Daughter it was urged by Dr. Sayer and others, that the Mother was not within the Clause relating to Hotchpot; that the Statute of Distribution was grounded upon the Custom of London, which did not extend to Women, tho' free of the City, but only to Men; that the Statute accordingly says, "If a Man

“ dies intestate leaving a Wife and Children, the “ Wife shall have a Third, and the Children the two “ other Thirds;” which shews, that none are within the Act, but those who are capable of having a Wife; and further, that the Words of the Statute, “ The Children of the Intestate not being Heirs at “ Law, other than such Children as shall have been “ advanced by the Intestate in his Life-time, &c.” are an Argument that this Clause relates only to the Father, and that it is he, and not the Mother, who is to be presumed capable by his Acquisitions of advancing a Child. And lastly, there could not be produced a single Instance, since the making of the Statute of Distribution, of a Child’s bringing into Hotchpot any Advancement that was given him by the Mother.

On the other Side it was replied, that a Mother surviving the Father and dying intestate, was within the Statute as well as the Father; and if within one Part of the Act, why not within every Part? That a Woman was also within the Act where there was no Child; that the Word His took in both Sexes, as Man-kind comprehended both, and Homo was hic vel hęc Homo; that the Act of Parliament intended an Equality among Children, and this favourite Doctrine in Equity ought to be extended as well in Case of a Mother as a Father. A Mother was as much a Parent as a Father, and as much bound by the Law of Nature to provide for her Children; and that the Reason why the Custom of London did not extend to Women was, for that the Custom was originally provided for those who were concerned in Trade, and (generally speaking) were Men, not Women, and all Citizens are presumed to be Traders.

Lord Chancellor: It weighs with me, that this Act of Distribution was grounded on the Custom of <sup>(a)</sup> London, which never affected a Widow's personal Estate; and the Act seems to include those within the Clause of Hotchpot, who are capable of having a Wife as well as Children, which must be Husbands only; and so in this Case, (tho' without much Debate) his Lordship ruled that the Daughter should not bring the 1000 l. which she had received in her Mother's Lifetime, into Hotchpot.

Case 103.

Lord Chancellor King.

If a Parent makes a voluntary Conveyance in Trust for his Children, and keeps it in his own Power, or in the Hands of his Agent, and this is got from him, it ought not to bind him; but where a Feme having Issue by her first Husband makes a suitable Provision for them before her Treaty for a second Marriage, this is good, and not liable to be avoided by a second Husband.

THE Lady Cotton, Widow of Sir Thomas Cotton, had ten Children by her first Husband Sir Thomas, and about a Year after his Death married the Defendant Captain King her second Husband, but before the Treaty for her second Marriage, she being seised in Fee of an House in Cheshire which she herself had purchased, settled this House to the Use of herself during her Widowhood, Remainder to her second Son Stephen by her first Husband Sir Thomas Cotton in Tail, the Remainder over; and being seised of an Estate for Life of about 1000 l. per Annum in other Lands, she demised them to Trustees for ninety-nine Years, if she should so long live, in Trust for herself during her Widowhood, and afterwards in Trust for her said second Son Stephen Cotton by her Husband Sir Thomas; and likewise by an Indenture of the same Date covenanted to transfer 1000 l. South-Sea Stock (of which she was then possessed) to Trustees in Trust for herself for her Life, if she should so long continue a Widow, and afterwards in Trust for her said second Son, but the Stock was never transferred; and all these three Deeds were drawn by one Brereton an Attorney employed employed by her for that Purpose, and were by her delivered into the said Brereton's Hands, with a strict Charge, that he should not part with them, and she herself had oftentimes declared, that she had done this for the Sake of her Children; but Lady Cotton swore, that she never gave Notice of any of these Writings to the Defendant Captain King her second Husband, who also swore that he had no Notice of any of these Deeds before his said Marriage with Lady Cotton, but on the contrary that Lady Cotton before her Marriage delivered to him a Particular of her Estate, wherein were comprised these several Houses and Lands, and this 1000 l. South-Sea Stock, all written with her own Hand, and this Particular was produced and proved to be her Hand, but not proved to have been delivered by Lady Cotton to Captain King before the said Marriage; it moreover appeared, that the Lady Cotton's Jointure was worth 1000 l. per Annum.

The Bill was brought to have these Lands and Stock and the mean Profits since the Marriage, and the Deeds delivered to the Plaintiff the second Son.

It appeared in the Cause that the Deeds, of which there were Duplicates, continued in Brereton's Hands until after the second Marriage, and that afterwards Lady Cotton sent for them, and that she received them and placed them in another Hand, (one Grey's) where they were left, and came to the Executors of the said Grey, who were made Defendants in this Cause.

Lord Chancellor: As to the Lady Cotton, if she had executed these Deeds, and kept them in her own Hands or Custody, and they had been got from thence, I do not think she should have been bound by them; so if they had been placed in the Hands of her Agent, for her Agent's Hands are her Hands, and Brereton seems

of Naldred versus Gil-
ham, Vol. I.

seems to have been her Agent, he having been employed by her to draw these Deeds, and no other Person privy thereto.

But then it is of Weight against Lady Cotton, that there were Duplicates of these Deeds, and that there is Evidence, that she had declared it to be her Intention and Desire to put this out of her Power, so that I should make no Difficulty, if the Lady were the Survivor and the only Defendant in the Cause, to decree against her.

But as to the Husband, who had no Notice of any of these Deeds, and as to whom the Lady Cotton appeared the visible Owner and in Possession, it is hard to decree against him, or do any Thing whereby to expose him to be hurt by these Deeds; such a Settlement made by a Woman before Marriage, without the Privity of the Husband seems to be fraudulent.

As to the Deed of Covenant to transfer the 1000 l. Stock, I would put this Case: Suppose a Woman privately before Marriage gives a Bond without any Consideration to a third Person for 1000 l. and marries one who knows nothing of this Bond, surely Equity would relieve against such Bond; and tho' in Case of a Provision for younger Children, there is the Consideration of Blood and natural Affection, yet all these Deeds, as against a Purchaser, would be fraudulent and void. I incline to give no Relief in this Case.

But then it was said that the Plaintiff desired no Decree against Captain King and his Wife Lady Cotton, only as to the Defendants who had the Deeds in their Custody, and were willing to deliver them up being indemnified, and had really no Right to them, it was hoped these Deeds should be delivered up, for that they belong to the Plaintiff Stephen Cotton, for whose Benefit they were made.

Lord Chancellor : This deserves to be considered, wherefore I will give my Judgment therein to morrow.

Accordingly the next Day his Lordship decreed the Defendants the Executors of Grey to deliver up the Deeds to the Plaintiff, and that the Plaintiff might sue in the Name of the Trustees, without Prejudice to any Relief that the Defendant King might have on his Bill, and the Bill to be dismissed as to the Defendant King and his Wife without Costs. Vide post, King versus Cotton.

Carrick versus Errington.

Case 104.

Son in Tail Male successively, Remainder to William Errington a Protestant for Life, Remainder to Trustees and their Heirs during the Life of William Errington to preserve &c. Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male successively, Remainder to his own right Heirs.

The Statute of the 11 & 12 W. 3. cap. 4. which disables a Papist from purchasing Land, disables him from taking by Purchase, and consequently from taking by Devise.

Edward Errington died without Issue, leaving Sisters who were his Heirs at Law and Protestants, and one of the Questions was, what should become of this Estate, and who should take the Profits thereof during the Life of Thomas Errington the Papist, whether the Heir at Law of Edward the Grantor, or the Remainder-man?

And first it was ruled by Lord Chancellor, and given up by the Counsel on all Sides, that since the great Case of Roper and Radcliffe, which was resolved in the House of Lords, the latter Clause of the Statute of 11 & 12 W. 3. cap. 4. for preventing the Growth of Popery, and which disables a Papist from taking any Land, or Trust or Interest in or out of Land, by Purchase, must not only be understood to prevent a Papist from buying Lands, but also to disable him from taking any Lands by Purchase, and therefore in the aforesaid Case, where the Devise was of Lands to be sold for the Payment of Debts, and the Surplus to the Papist, forasmuch as the Papist would be intitled to the Surplus of the Estate, paying the Debts, this was construed a void Devise, as to the Papist.

Devise to A. 2dly, That if the Case were no more than that a Protestant Lands were limited by Lease and Release to the Use of for Life, Re- A. a Protestant for Life, Remainder to B. a Papist mainder to A. a Protestant for Life, Remainder to C. a Protestant, and A. dies, in B. a Papist such Case the Remainder to B. the Papist being void, for Life, Re- the next Remainder to C. shall take Effect presently, mainder to in the same Manner as if a Remainder were limited
C. a Prote- to a Monk for Life, or to one who refuses to take; stant; A. or if such Remainder-man were dead, and there had dies, B. be- never been such Limitation.
 ing a Papist is disabled to take, and C. shall take presently, in the same Manner as if the Remainder had been to a Monk.

Devise of In the next Place the Court declared, that the said Lands to A. Statute extending to Trusts as well as legal Estates, for Life, Re- I the mainder to B. a Papist for Life, Remainder to Trustees for the Life of B. in Trust to let B. take the Profits and to preserve the contingent Remainders. The Trust to let B. the Papist take the Profits is void; but the Trust to preserve the contingent Remainders good. And in this Case the Grantor and his Heirs being Protestants shall have the Profits during the Life of B. the Papist, and after B.'s Death then they shall go to B.'s Son, being a Protestant.

the Remainder limited to Trustees to preserve contingent Remainders, as to such Part and so much as was declared to be in Trust to let Thomas Errington the Papist take the Rents and Profits during his Life, was a void Trust; but that the Trust to preserve contingent Remainders to the first, &c. Son of Thomas Errington the Papist was good.

3dly, In the principal Case it was held, that in regard if the Estate should go to the subsequent Remainder-man William Errington the Protestant, it could not afterwards go back to any Sons of Thomas Errington the Papist who might be Protestants; and this being an Hardship and Wrong to a third Person, therefore the Rents and Profits of this Estate, during the Life of Thomas Errington the Papist, ought to go back to the Sisters and Heirs at Law of Edward Errington the Grantor, and that these Sisters and Heirs at Law of Edward Errington being Protestants, should have the Rents of the Premises from the Death of Edward Errington the Grantor.

Notwithstanding it was strongly objected, that the Conveyance being by Way of Lease and Release, the whole Estate passed out of the Grantor, and could not return to him again, but must go to the next in Remainder capable of taking; and further, that since this was a Trust in the Trustees during the Life of Thomas Errington the Papist, and a Trust was a Creature of Equity, the Court which had the Power and Direction thereof, ought to let William Errington the next Remainder-man into the Possession of the Premises, and that in Case Thomas Errington the Papist should leave Protestant Sons, then the Court would order the Trust for the Benefit of such Son, and secure the Profits to him.

But

But Lord Chancellor said, this would be making Use of an extraordinary Power of directing and displacing Estates, which he would not take upon himself to do; and that the Intent and Meaning of the Statute was in a more plain and easy Manner complied with, by construing the Estates and Trusts to be void, as to the Papist only, but not to let the next Protestant Remainder-man into Possession before his Time, so as to prejudice or endanger a Third Person, the Son or Sons of Thomas Errington the Papist, &c. wherefore let the Heir at Law of the Grantor take the Estate for so long a Time only, as the same is undisposed of by the Grantor.

If a Papist was above the Age of eighteen and six Months when this Statute of Will. III. was made against Papists, he is out of the former Clause of the Statute.

4<sup>thly</sup>, It was held, that as to the former Clause of this Statute, which disables Papists from taking by Descent, unless they conform within six Months after Eighteen, if they (the Papists) were above six Months after Eighteen before the making the Statute, so as it was impossible to comply with the Statute, then such Persons are not within the Clause, nor shall suffer by it.

(a) May 1722.

This Decree was afterwards affirmed (a) on an Appeal in the House of Lords.

Husband after Marriage purchases a Term to himself and

THE Husband purchased a Term for Years to himself and his Wife, and the Survivor, and the Executors Wife, and the Survivor and the Executors, Administrators and Assigns of such Survivor; Husband assigns the Term in Mortgage, Proviso to be void on Payment of the Money by him or Wife, or the Executors of him or Wife. Proviso that the Husband, his Executors or Administrators shall till Default of Payment quietly enjoy. Husband seven Years after contracts Debts and dies. Decreed, that this Settlement of the Term being after Marriage, in the Power of the Husband, and the Equity of Redemption being reserved to him as well as to his Wife, and being also in the Case of Creditors, was Assets to pay Debts.

ecutors, Administrators and Assigns of such Survivor for the Residue of the Term.

This Purchase was made after the Marriage, and the Husband being a Tradesman, and having Occasion for Money, mortgaged the Term without the Wife's joining (as he might do) and the Proviso for Redemption was, that if the Husband and Wife, or either of them, or their or either of their Executors or Administrators should pay or cause to be paid the Mortgage-Money and Interest at the Day, then the Mortgage should be void.

And the last Proviso was, that until Default of Payment, the Husband, his Executors and Administrators, should quietly enjoy.

The Husband seven Years after contracted Debts, and died, leaving his Wife Executrix, the Mortgage-Money unpaid.

The Question was, whether the Equity of Redemption of this Term was Assets for the Payment of the Husband's Debts, or should go to the Wife as Survivor?

By Talbot Solicitor General, the Proviso is, that upon Payment, whether it be by the Husband or the Wife, or the Executors of the Husband or of the Wife, yet still the Mortgage shall in any of these Cases be void; and if void, then all Things must be in their former State, and consequently the Wife must have it as Survivor; secus if the Proviso had been that upon Payment, the Mortgagee should reassign to the Husband, his Executors or Administrators, for this indeed had been a total Alienation; but in the present Case it was but a conditional Alienation, and so void upon Payment of the Money.

Master of the Rolls: The Settlement of this Term upon the Wife being after Marriage, is a voluntary Conveyance, and being only a Term for Years, it was always in the Power of the Husband to forfeit or alien, and the Mortgage is an Alienation; for tho' if the Mortgage-Money were paid before the Day, the Mortgage would have been void, and consequently all Things would have been in statu quo, yet the Mortgage being forfeited, the Equity of Redemption (always in the Husband's Power) is now become a Creature of Equity, and it being in the Case of Creditors, and the Redemption given as well to the Executors of the Husband, as to the Executors of the Wife, and the last Proviso being that the Husband, his Executors, &c. may enjoy till Default of Payment, Decree the Equity of Redemption of this Term to be Assets.

THE Minutes of an Order in this Cafe were taken differently in the two Registers Books, in Mr. Goldborough's, that the Defendant fhould at the Hearing appear gratis, and pray no Day over, but in Mr. Price's Book it was only, that the Defendant fhould appear gratis, leaving out the latter Part.

The Order was drawn up with the latter Part in it, that the Defendant fhould appear gratis, and pray no Day over; upon which a Petition was exhibited for the leaving out of thefe latter Words, and Mr. Attorney General infifting on the Behalf of the Petitioner, that the Court had given no Order for inferting them,

Lord Chancellor asked Mr. Attorney General, what was the Import of thefe Words, That the Defendant fhall appear gratis?

Mr. Attorney General: Thefe Words are taken to fupply the Want of Service of a Subpœna, that the Defendant fhould be as much bound to appear, as if proved he had been ferved, and are no more than admitting Service.

Lord Chancellor: Confenting to an Order that the Defendant fhould appear gratis muft mean, that he fhould appear, and is not to make Default; fo that the former Words plainly imply the latter.

Case 109.

ONE by Will devised an Annuity of 50*l.* per Annum, and also 100*l.* in Money to A. and his Heirs, and if A. died without Heirs, then to a Charity; A. died without Issue in the Life of the Testator, and then the Testator died, and an Information was brought against the Executors to establish the Charity, to which the Executors demurred.

Lord Chancellor King.

Devise of 100*l.* and of 50*l.* per Annum to A. and his Heirs, and if A. die without Heirs, then to a Charity.

A. dies without Issue, living the Testator; the Will void as to the Whole, and the Charity cannot take.

Insisted for the Demurrer, that this Case came now as fully before the Court as it could do upon a Hearing; and as to the Money, the Devise over after a Death without Issue was void; and with Regard to the Annuity it was urged, that the Words If A. died without Heirs, and not saying Heirs of his Body, but Heirs generally, would be void; and that this was the Difference in (a) Cro. Car. 57. Herne versus Allen, that if the Devisee over was a Brother or Cousin, or any Person that was inheritable, in such Case it being impossible that the first Devisee should die without Heir, while the Devisee over, who was a Brother or Cousin should be living, this shewed the Intention of the Testator to be, that the Words Dying without Heir must be understood, dying without Heir of his Body; Jecus if the Devisee over was a Brother by the Half Blood, or a Stranger.

(a) See also this Distinction settled Vol. I. Nottingham versus Jennings.

2dly, As to A. the Devisee's dying in the Life of the Testator, this was said to be wholly immaterial; for if the Will was void at the making of it, subsequent Accidents would not make it good; quod ab initio non valet, tractu temporis non convalescet.

Mr. Attorney contra: 1st, A Will ought to be taken agreeable to the Intent, and such Intent must be construed according to common Parlance; a Man is said to die without Heirs, or to have no Heir, when he is dead without Issue, and this Construction ought the rather to prevail in the present Case, the Remainder being limited to a Charity.

2<sup>dly</sup>, Supposing the first Devise to be in Tail, since the Devisee in Tail is dead without Issue in the Life of the Testator, the Remainder (which in the present Case is to the Charity) ought to take presently; which the other Side admitted.

3<sup>dly</sup>, The Court ought not to suffer this Matter to be stifled on a Demurrer, since it is possible the Information itself may not have set out the Will truly or fully, all which will appear at the Hearing.

Lord Chancellor: If the Information does not fully set out the Will which gives this Charity, it is your own Fault; besides it will not conclude you, for you may amend your Information.

As to what is said, that the Devise of the Remainder ought to be supported as given to a Charity; supposing it void if given to a common Person, so shall it be also when given to a Charity. The Devise being to A. and his Heirs, and if A. die without Heirs to a Charity, such Devise over is void, and the Word Heirs shall not be construed to signify Heirs of the Body, where the Devisee over is not inheritable.

And the Death of the first Devisee in the Life-time of the Testator can make no Alteration, if the Will was void at the making.

Lastly, This Cause comes before the Court as fully upon the Demurrer as it would do upon the Hearing, and saves Charges to the Parties.

Wherefore allow the Demurrer.

Duke of Chandos versus Talbot & Ux. Case 110.

THE Duke of Chandos brought his Bill against the Defendants Talbot and his Wife, to compel them to perform Articles entered into by the Husband for the Sale of the Manor of Shaws in the County of Berks, being the Wife's Inheritance, and late the Estate of Sir Thomas Doleman, to whom she was Heir. .

Lord Chancellor King, Master of the Rolls.

Regularly the Answer of a Feme Covert, if separate, ought to have an Order to warrant it; but if the Feme Covert's separate Answer be put in without an Order, and the same be a fair and honest Answer, and deliberately put in with the Consent of the Husband, and the Plaintiff accepts of it, and replies to it, the Court will not at the Motion of the Wife, or of her Executors, set it aside.

The Wife answered separately, insisting that she was not bound by the Husband's Articles, however, provided she might have 13,000*l.* of the Purchase-money to dispose of to her separate Use (the whole Purchase-money being 20,000*l.*) and the Timber to be valued, she was willing the Sale should go on.

The Defendant the Husband also answered, and desired that the Articles might be performed; the Plaintiff replied to both the Answers; and some of the Relations of the Wife insisting, that the Wife's Answer was gained by Threats and Fraud, it was by the Court referred to the Master, to examine how and in what Manner this Answer was gained from her; Also

There

There being no Order for the Wife's answering separately, it was referred to the Master, to state whether her Answer was regularly put in or not.

The Master reported, that the Defendant the Feme Covert did advise about the putting in of this Answer, and was fully apprised thereof, and did it with great Deliberation; and as to the Matter of Regularity, he reported, that it being put in separately, in her Favour, at her Desire, and with the Consent of her Husband, and the Plaintiffs having accepted thereof and replied thereto, he conceived it to be regular.

In the mean Time the Wife died, but before her Death, Exceptions to the Master's Report were filed as to the Regularity.

Lord Chancellor called to his Assistance the Master of the Rolls; and on hearing Counsel they both held, that in regard it was reported that the Answer was put in by the Wife deliberately, by good Advice, that she was fully apprised thereof, consented thereto, and that it was done at her Request, with the Consent of her Husband, and that the Plaintiff had accepted of it, and replied to the same, therefore the Feme Covert, or any on her Behalf could not assign that which was done in her Favour, as an Irregularity.

And the Master of the Rolls instanced in the Case of an Essoin being granted to a Defendant, where it ought not to have been, that there the Defendant himself could not assign this for Error, it being done in his Favour; no more could the Defendant the Feme Covert, or any on her Behalf, object to her having put in a separate Answer, when it appeared to have been for her Advantage.

For which Reason, the Feme Covert's Answer was resolved to be regularly put in, and the Exceptions to the Master's Report over-ruled.

Case 111.

Lord Chancellor King.

THE Plaintiff brought his Bill against the Earl of Strafford, as Administrator with the Will annexed of Sir Henry Johnson, to be paid out of Assets, and shewed by his Bill, that he was a Sail-maker, and was imployed by Sir Henry from 1696. to July 1707. to fit Sail-cloths, and other Tackle to Sir Henry's Ships, on which Account Sir Henry was indebted to the Plaintiff in 343*l.* and that in December 1714. the Plaintiff received 50*l.* in Part of his Debt, and that Sir Henry died the 29th of September 1719. having made his Will, and devised his Lands to his Executors in Trust to pay his Debts, and that his Executors renouncing, the Defendant the Earl of Strafford administered with the Will annexed.

One owing a Debt by Simple Contract barred by the Statute of Limitations, devises Lands in Trust to pay his Debts, this Debt tho' barred by the Statute is revived by the Will.

The Defendant pleaded the Statute of Limitations, and that neither the Defendant, nor (as he believed) Sir Henry, made any Promise to pay the Debt in Question within six Years before the Bill brought.

For the Plea it was said 1st, That this Plea of the Statute ought not to be discouraged any more than that of the Statute of Fines; it being made equally for the Quiet and Repose of the Subject, especially in the Case of an Executor or Administrator, as the present Case was, who might not be supposed to be able to prove Payment, as the Intestate, if alive, would have been.

2<sup>dly</sup>, That by the Statute of Limitations the Debt was barred, extinct and become as no Debt, and therefore the Will of Sir Henry Johnson subjecting the Lands to the Payment of his Debts, must be construed to mean such Debts as were then subsisting, not stale Demands barred by the Statute, for that a contrary Construction would give Way for vexatious Demands, and occasion People's raking up old dormant Pretences.

On the other Side it was argued, 1st, That the Statute of Limitations was far from extinguishing the Debt, which was still subsisting, and to be barred only by pleading the Statute, which the Defendant was not bound to do; that it was plain the Debt was not extinguished, because the very Acknowledging of it, would revive and take it out of the Statute.

2<sup>dly</sup>, That in this Case Sir Henry Johnson's having paid 50 l. in 1714. in Part of the Debt was an Acknowledgment that the Rest was due, and that this was taking the Case out of the Statute, Sir Henry dying in 1719.

3<sup>dly</sup>, That the Will of Sir Henry subjecting his Lands to the Payment of his Debts did create a Trust, which was not barred by the Statute of Limitations; and they cited the Case of (a) Staggers versus Welby, where it was decreed by Lord Comper, that such a Will subjecting Lands to the Payment of Debts did raise a Trust, and revive a Debt barred by the Statute of Limitations.

Lord Chancellor: I would be cautious of giving any Relief against an Act of Parliament; but it is plain the Debt is not extinguished by the Statute of Limitations, since the Statute must be pleaded, which the Defendant is not bound to do; and if he afterwards will acknowledge the Debt, it takes it out of the Statute.
2 the

But let me be attended with the Case of Staggers versus Welby; which accordingly was done; and thereupon his Lordship over-ruled this Plea of the Statute of Limitations.

Upon an Appeal brought in the House of Lords this Decree was reversed, and the Plea ordered to stand for an Answer.

On a Bill to settle the Boundaries of a Manor, it was decreed that each Party should give to the other a Note of their Boundaries, and that it should be tried in a feigned Issue. And the Issue being found for the Defendant on the first, second, and third Trial, the Defendant was not only allowed the Cofts of all the Trials at Law, but also the Cofts in Equity, in Regard the Defendant had no Bill, and the Plaintiff might have tried it at Law without coming into Equity. On a Bill of Partition, no Cofts on either Side, because it is for the Benefit of both Parties.

Whereupon a Trial was had, in which the Verdict was for the Defendant, and afterwards a new Trial granted, and after that a third Trial, upon a Certificate of the Judge, that the last was against Evidence; but upon the third Trial also the like Verdict was found for the Defendant, so that the Boundaries appeared to be as they were given in by the Defendant, and contrary to what had been alledged by the Plaintiff's Bill.

And now upon the Equity reserved, it coming on before the Master of the Rolls, it was urged for the Plaintiff, that as to the Coſts of the three Trials, the Plaintiff muſt ſubmit to pay them; but with Regard to the Suit in this Court the Bill ſeemed to be in the Nature of a Bill of Partition, where neither Side pay Coſts, it being for the Benefit of both Parties, to have their Shares in Severalty, and that in the preſent Caſe, there was by this Trial a plain Advantage to the Defendant by the Bounds of his Manor being ſet out by this Verdict, in the ſame Way as they probably would have been in a Bill of Partition; for which Reaſon the Plaintiff ought to pay no Coſts, and the rather in this Caſe, in Regard the Plaintiff had a probable Cauſe of Suit, and it muſt be preſumed that at the Hearing there was Evidence on both Sides; and therefore, to ſatisfy the Conſcience of the Court, it had been ſent to a Trial, under which Circumſtances it would be hard to make the Plaintiff pay the Charge of ſatisfying the Conſcience of the Court, when the Thing was in its Nature doubtful.

But for the Defendant it was ſaid, that the Plaintiff's Bill in this Caſe ought to be diſmiſſed, and the Defendant having no Bill, the Diſmiſſion ought to be with Coſts; otherwiſe an Encouragement might be given for great Vexation, without any Proſpect of the leaſt Recompence.

Maſter of the Rolls: The Objection that this Bill was in Nature of a Bill of Partition, ſeems to be of ſome Weight; but as the Defendant has no Bill here, and the Plaintiff might have tried this Matter at Law, and more eſpecially ſince no Part of the Iſſue is found for the Plaintiff, who is in the Wrong in toto, why

BY a Settlement on the Marriage of the Defendant John Lawton Senior, Lands were limited to his Use for 99 Years, if he should so long live, Remainder to the Defendant Montague and other Trustees (of which Montague was the Survivor) for the Life of John Lawton Senior, to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to his Wife for Life, Remainder to the first and second, &c. Sons of the Marriage in Tail Male successively, Remainders over.

On Marriage, Lands are settled to A. for 99 Years; if he so long live, Remainder to B. and his Heirs during the Life of A. to support contingent Remainders, Remainder to the first,

&c. Son of A. A. has two Sons, C. and D. A. the Father having mortgaged the Premises, he and his Son C. covenant to suffer a Recovery, and to procure B. the Trustee to join, B. the Trustee by Answer submits to the Court: Court will not compel the Trustee to join, unless D. the second Son of the Marriage will consent.

The Wife was dead, and the Defendants Edward Lawton and John Lawton were the only Issue of the Marriage, and the Defendant John Lawton the Father having mortgaged the Premises to the Plaintiff, and the Defendant Edward Lawton the Son being come of Age, the Father and Son entered into Articles with the Plaintiff, and thereby covenanted, that they would suffer a Recovery, and procure Mr. Montague the surviving Trustee to join therein: But,

Mr. Montague refusing to join in making a Tenant to the Precipe, the Plaintiff brought this Bill to compel a specific specific Performance of the Covenant, and that Mr. Montague might join in suffering the Recovery.

Mr. Montague by Answer submitted to do as the Court should direct, and John Lawton the younger Son was made Defendant.

Lord Chancellor asked if the younger Brother would consent that the Trustee should join in making a Tenant to the Præcipe? and being told No; his Lordship said, then he would not decree the Trustee to join, for that he would not take away any Man's Right.

Hereupon it was insisted, that the Court had done the like in the Case of (a) Mr. Winnington the eldest Son of Sir Francis Winnington, upon his Son's Marriage with Mrs. Read, where Mr. Winnington the Father brought a Bill against the Trustee for preserving contingent Remainders (he himself being only Tenant for 99 Years) to compel him to join in making a Tenant to the Præcipe for a common Recovery, and the Court decreed he should do it, in order to make a new Marriage Settlement.

Aaron Kinton being seised of a Leasehold Estate for three Lives, and having upon his Daughter's Marriage settled the same upon Trustees, in Trust to the Daughter for her Life, Remainder to her Husband, Remainder in Trust to her Children, and for Want of such Children, then in Trust to the said Aaron his Executors and Administrators; and the Daughter being dead without leaving any Child,

An Estate for three Lives granted to A. his Executors and Administrators, is a personal Estate, and will on A.'s Death be liable to all his Debts by simple Contract as a Lease for Years would be.

Aaron Kinton makes a Will, and devises the Reversion, which was thus reserved to himself and his Executors, to his Wife for Life, and afterwards to his Sister, and then to his Sister's Son, and dies.

On a Bill brought by the Duke of Devon who was a considerable Creditor of Aaron Kinton, to charge this Estate with his Debts, it had been decreed by (a) <sup>2 Vern. 719.</sup> Lord Comper, that the Reversion of this Estate for Lives reserved to Aaron Kinton, his Executors and Administrators, was by the Statute of Frauds and Perjuries made personal Estate, and being made such could not be devised away by the Testator in Prejudice of his Creditors, but ought to be liable to his Debts, and sold for that Purpose.

But the Devisee in Remainder after the Death of Aaron Kinton the Testator, not being made Party to that Suit, and the Testator's Wife the Devisee for Life being dead, he now brought this Matter over again.

And it was insisted upon by Talbot Solicitor General, that tho' the Remainder-man could not be bound by the former Decree, not having been a Party thereto, yet so far might that Decree be made Use of, to shew it to have been the Opinion of that great Man my Lord Comper, that an Estate pur auter vie, when limited to Executors, was personal Estate, and as such, (a) distributable within the Statute of Distribution.

Mr. Attorney General: Before the Statute of Frauds and Perjuries, it is plain an Estate pur auter vie was not considered as personal Estate; and that Statute says, that where it is limited to the Heir, it shall not go to the Executors or Administrators. Put the Case, that one seised in Fee should convey to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder to his Executors, would that be personal Assets? And if the Executors are special Occupants, or take by Occupancy, then it cannot be Assets.

Lord Chancellor: The Case put of Lands in Fee being limited to Executors, is different; here the Executors and Administrators are made special Occupants and also take as Executors, whereby the Premises are personal Estate as naturally as if limited originally to Executors.

Wherefore I shall decree this to be personal Estate, and consequently that it could not be devised away by the Testator from his Creditors; nevertheless being a specific Devise, all the rest of the Testator's personal Estate not specifically devised must be first applied to pay the Debts, and if there be any other specific

However, though in the Spiritual Court an Estate pur auter vie be not distributable, on account of its being a Freehold, yet it seems as if in a Court of Equity it should be distributable, and that the Administrator should be taken to be a Trustee for general Legacies, if any; and if no Will, then for the next of Kin: And as the Administration may be granted to one only as principal Creditor, he ought not to go away with the Residue of the Estate pur auter vie, as Administrator.

Blackler versus Webb & al'

Cafe 116.

Lord Chancellor King.

SAMUEL Bagwell possessed of a considerable personal Estate, and having had several Children, some of whom being dead leaving Children, made his Will dated the 3d of December 1715. and after several Legacies thereby given, bequeathed the Surplus of his personal Estate equally to his Son James, and to his Son Peter's Children, to his Daughter Traverse and to his Daughter Webb's Children, and his Daughter Man, and made his Son-in-law Benjamin Traverse sole Executor.

One having had five Children, A. B. C. D. and E.; B. is dead leaving several Children, and by Will the Testator devises the Residue of his personal Estate to his Son A. and to B.'s

Children, and to his Daughter C. and D.'s Children, and to his Daughter E.; D. is living and has Children; decreed the Children of B. and the Children of D. shall take per Capita and not per Stirpes, as if all named.

The Fact was, that at the making of the Will the Testator's Son Peter was dead leaving several Children, the Testator's Daughter Hannah Webb was living, but her Husband was in low Circumstances, and had been twice a Bankrupt, and therefore the Testator by his Will made some Provision for her separate Use.

The Question was, how these Children and Grandchildren should take, whether per Stirpes or per Capita?

Mr. Solicitor General insisted, that the Grandchildren should take per Stirpes, it not being likely that the Testator should intend his own Children, his Son James and his two Daughters Traverse and Man to take no greater Share of his personal Estate than each of his Grandchildren, some of which were of very tender Years, and whose Maintenance and Subsistence would con-

consequently require a very small Expence; but that the Construction in this Case should be according to the Statute of Distribution of Intestates Estates, where, in Case of Children taking, they take only the Share of their deceased Parent and as Representatives of the Stock.

Mr. Attorney General contra: Such Part of the Surplus of the personal Estate as is given to the Grandchildren must be the same, and have the same Construction, as if the Testator had particularized each Grandchild by Name, as John, Thomas, &c. when there could be no Question but that the Grandchildren must have taken per Capita and not per Stirpes.

And as to the Statute of Distribution, it is not likely that the Testator in this Case understood the Statute or the Construction thereof, or had any Allusion to it; neither could this Will come within that Part of the Statute of Distribution, in regard the Testator's Daughter Webb was living, and therefore her Children could take nothing by Representation within that Statute.

To which it was added, that there was a particular Reason why the Children of the Testator's Daughter Webb were inserted in the Will, because their Father was in very low Circumstances and unable to provide for them; and as to the Testator's Children, they all had Portions given them before in his Life-time; and this being additional, it was but reasonable that the Grandchildren should take an equal Share of the Surplus with the Testator's own Children.

Lord Chancellor at first seemed inclinable that the Grandchildren should take per Stirpes only; yet at Length he decreed that the Testator's Son James, and the Children of the Testator's deceased Son Peter and his Daughter Traverse, and the Children of the Testator's Daughter Webb, and his Daughter Man, (being in all fourteen in Number) should each of them take per Capita, as if all the Grandchildren had been named by their respective Names; and that the Grandchildren could not take according to the Statute, or in Allusion thereto, forasmuch as the Testator's Daughter Webb was living, and so her Children could not represent her; and to determine that the Grandchildren should take per Stirpes would be to go too much out of the Will, and contrary to the Words, when the Meaning of the Testator might be according to his Words, and that Meaning a reasonable and sensible one.

Lord Clifford's Case.

Case 117.

(First Seal after Michaelmas Term, before the Master of the Rolls, in the Absence of Lord Chancellor.)

A Sequestration was granted, unless Cause, against the Defendant Lord Clifford for Want of an Answer; afterwards he put in an Answer, which being reported insufficient, it was now moved for a Sequestration absolutely, an insufficient Answer being no Answer, and in such Case the Plaintiff is to go on where he left off before the insufficient Answer was put in.

Vide Vol. I. 535. Anonymus.

A Sequestration nisi is the first Process against a Peer, or Member of the House of Commons, tho' this is some Hardship; but if there be a Sequestration nisi against a Peer for Want of an Answer, and the Peer puts in an Answer which is insufficient, yet the Order for Sequestration shall not be absolute, but a new Sequestration nisi.

Master of the Rolls: As in Case of a Peer, or Member of the House of Commons, it is an Hardship upon them that a Sequestration, which in some Respects is in Nature of an Execution, is the first Process; so when a Sequestration is granted against a Peer nisi for Want of an Answer, it is good Cause against such Order nisi, to shew that the Answer is put in, which must be allowed for Cause, and when that Answer is reported insufficient, the Plaintiff must move again de novo for a Sequestration nisi, which Goldsborough the Register said was the Course of the Court.

Case 118.

At the Rolls.

Serle versus St. Eloy.

ONE devised in Fee of Lands near Godalmin in Surry that were in Mortgage, and likewise seised in Fee of other Lands, devised his Lands in Godalmin to his Cousin and God-daughter Jane Styles at her Age of twenty-one, subject to the Incumbrances that were thereupon, and ordered that the Rents and Profits of the Premisses should, during the Infancy of his said God-daughter, be paid to her Father for her sole Use, and devised other Lands to Trustees, in Trust to pay the Testator's Debts.

One devises his Lands in D. to A. (his Cousin) an Infant at her Age of twenty-one, subject to the Incumbrances thereupon, and the Rents during the Infancy to be paid to her Father, and devises all his other Lands to Trustees to pay his Debts, the Lands in D. being mortgaged, this Mortgage shall be discharged by Monies arising from the Sale of other Lands.

Obj. The Lands in Godalmin are devised subject to the Incumbrances thereupon, for which Reason the Devisee must take them cum onere, and be contented to pay off the Mortgage.

Master of the Rolls contra: The Devise of the Estate subject to the Incumbrance is no more than what is implied, for the Testator could not do it otherwise; but when the Testator devises other Lands to pay his Debts, this must be intended all his Debts, and consequently the Debt by Mortgage of Godalmin is Part of those Debts which are to be paid off out of the Money arising by Sale of the Trust-Estate; and this is the stronger, by the Testator's having appointed the Rents and Profits during the Infancy of his God-daughter to be paid to the Infant's Father for the sole Use of the Infant, which is as much as to say, that they shall not go or be applied in Discharge of the Mortgage.

And tho' the Infant by her own Bill had submitted to pay off this Mortgage, yet his Honour said, he must take Care of the Infant, and not suffer her to be caught by any Mistake of her Agent.

Wherefore paying the Cofts of the Day, let the Infant amend her Bill.

Case 119.

NOTE; the Course of the Court is, That where a Cause is brought on upon Bill and Answer, and the Plaintiff's Bill is dismissed as against a Defendant, in such Case only 40 s. Cofts is to be paid by the Plaintiff; but if the Plaintiff has a Decree against the Defendant, tho' upon Bill and Answer only, if the Plaintiff has Cofts given him, it must be Cofts to be taxed.

Where the Cause is brought on only on Bill and Answer, if the Bill is dismissed against any of the Defendants, there only 40 s. Cofts are to be paid; but if the Plaintiff has a Decree against the Defendant, tho' only on Bill and Answer, there Cofts must be taxed.

Case 120.

At the Rolls.

THE Testatrix Mrs. Peck by her Will inter al', after Legacies given to several of her Relations, bequeathed to her two Grandchildren A. and B. some of her best Linnen, and made J. S. residuary Legatee.

One bequeaths to her Grandchild A. some of her best Linnen; this void for the Uncertainty; yet the Court recommended it to the Executor to give some of the best Linnen to the Legatee.

Master

A Bequest of such of the best Linnen as the Executor should think fit, or as the Legatee should chuse, had been good.

Master of the Rolls: This is a void Legacy for the Uncertainty; the best of my Linnen is uncertain, but some of my best Linnen is more uncertain still; if it were such, or so much of my best Linnen, as they should chuse, or as my Executors should chuse for them, this would be good, and by the Choice of the Legatees or Executors is reducible to a Certainty, but in this Case it is merely void for the Uncertainty.

However, afterwards forasmuch as these were so near Relations to the Testatrix as Grandchildren, and having no other Legacy by the Will, and since it was plain the Testatrix intended some Linnen, his Honour did by the decretal Order recommend it to the residuary Legatee, to give some of the best of the Testatrix's Linnen to these Legatees A. and B. which Recommendation in the like Cases (he said) the Court had sometimes made.

Case 121.

Tenant for Life of Coal-Mines may open new Pits or Shafts for the working the old Vein of Coals.

Clavering versus Clavering.

THE Defendant was Tenant for Life of Lands in Durham, but not without Impeachment of Waste; the Plaintiff was the Remainder-man in Tail, and in these Lands there were several Mines of Coals, which were open before the Defendant the Tenant for Life came to the Estate, and the Tenant for Life opened the Earth in several Places, but (as it was said) with Design only to pursue the old Vein of Coals. And the Plaintiff moved for an Injunction to stay the Defendant from opening the Earth in any new Place.

Lord Chancellor: This was determined in the great Cause of Hellier versus Twiford, in which I was of Counsel, the Matter was tried at the Assizes in Devon- shire before Mr. Justice Powel, and held great Part of the Day; there it was proved by Witnesses to be the Course of the Country, and a Practice well known in those Parts among the Miners, that any Person having a Right to dig in Mines may pursue the Mine, and open new Shafts or Pits to follow the same Vein; and that otherwise the working in the same Mines would be impracticable, because the Miners would be choaked for want of Air, if new Holes should not be continually opened to let the Air in to them; and the same Vein of Coal frequently runs a great Way, and (as Lord Chancellor expressed it) the same Mine of Coals was very knowable and easy to be discerned; besides, that to stop the Working might be the Ruin of the Colliery for ever; and in the present Case it appeared that there was a Fire-Engine kept by the Tenant for Life of these Mines, which carried off the Water, without which the Mines would be lost, and the working of this Fire-Engine cost 40 or 50*l.* a Week.

Hazardous to grant an Injunction to stay the Working of a Coal-Mine.

Then it was objected by the Attorney General, that these Mines were not opened when the Settlement was made; having been opened by the Person who by that Settlement claimed an Estate-tail, and was since dead without Issue, whereas the Settlement gave only the Benefit of the Mines then opened to the Tenant for Life.

One seized of Lands wherein there are Coal-Mines not opened, settles the Lands on A. in Tail, Remainder to B. for Life, A. opens the Mines, works them, and dies without Issue; B. may continue working in all Mines lawfully opened.

Sed per Cur': It seems as if the Tenant for Life may work all Mines which were lawfully opened by the precedent Tenant in Tail, tho' subsequent to the Settlement.

So deny the Injunction.

THIS was an Ejectment tried at Chelmsford Summer Assizes 1726, and the Lands in Question being of small Value, and depending merely on the Words of a Will, it was by Consent made a Case to be determined by the Opinion of Mr. Justice Reynolds, who tried the Cause.

his Son B. should die without Issue, and his Wife should survive him, then the Wife to have the Premises for Life, Remainder to C. in Fee; B. the Son dies without Issue, but Testator's Wife dies before him; C. is not intitled to the Remainder in Fee, because the Contingency is annexed to all the Devises over.

The Case was, Thomas Hooker the Defendant's Uncle was seised in Fee of Lands in Seeward-Stone in the Parish of Waltham-holy-cross in Essex, and had a Wife Alice, an only Son William Hooker, and a Sister Mary Stratton.

Thomas Hooker the Father, by his Will dated the 5th of July 1705, devised his Lands to his Son William Hooker and the Heirs of his Body, and if his said Son should die without Issue of his Body, and the said Testator's Wife Alice Hooker should survive his the said Testator's Son, then the Testator's Wife Alice should enjoy the Premises for her Life, and after her Decease, that the Premises should be enjoyed by the Testator's Sister Mary Stratton for her Life, and after her Decease [the Testator's Son William Hooker being dead without Issue as aforesaid] then the Testator devised the Premises to the Lessor of the Plaintiff John Peirce, and to two others Pigborn and Randal

(both since dead) and to their Assigns for ever. The Testator Thomas Hooker died, the Wife Alice did not survive the Testator's Son William Hooker, but died before him.

The 6th of September 1709 the Son William Hooker died without Issue; upon which Mary Stratton the Testator's Sister and Heir entered, enjoyed the Premises for her Life, and died the 10th of October 1723.

Pigborn and Randal two of the Devisees over in Fee died, and the other Devisee John Peirce survived, and was the Lessor of the Plaintiff; and the Question was, whether John Peirce the surviving Devisee took any Thing by this Devise, in Regard Alice Hooker the Testator's Widow died in the Life-time of the Testator's Son William Hooker; so the Contingency of the Son dying without Issue in the Life-time of the Testator's Wife had not happened, and whether this Contingency was annexed to all the subsequent Estates and Limitations, and prevented any one of them from taking Effect?

Objected by Serjeant Baines, 1st, That the Remainder devised to Alice Hooker the Testator's Widow was a vested, and not a contingent Remainder;

2<sup>dly</sup>, That if the Remainder to the Testator's Widow was a contingent Remainder, yet this Contingency did not extend to the subsequent Limitations; but the Devise to the Lessor of the Plaintiff (Peirce) was to be taken as a substantive Devise, without any Regard had to the Contingency of the Testator's Son dying without Issue in the Life-time of the Testator's Wife; That the principal Case did not differ from the Case of a Devise to my Son in Tail, and for Want of Issue

Issue of my Son the Remainder to my Wife, or of a Devise to my Son and the Heirs of his Body, and if he die without Issue, then the Remainder to my Wife; in which Case the Words [if] or [then*] would be insignificant, and no more than the Law implied, & expressio eorum quæ tacite insunt nihil operatur; and that in the Limitation of the Remainder to the Wife for her Life, the Words [in Case she be living at the Time of the Son's dying without Issue] must plainly be immaterial and insignificant; for if the Testator's Wife was not then living, she could not take; and it was the stronger, as it was but an Estate for Life which was given to the Wife, and was the same Thing as if the Devise were to A. for Life, and if B. survives A. then to B. for Life, in which Case this would be a vested Remainder in B. and the Words [if B. survives A.] would be void, and no more than implied, because B. could not take unless he survived A.

Or supposing this to be a precedent Condition, or a precedent Contingency to the vesting of the Estate for Life to Alice the Testator's Wife, yet the Devise of the Remainder in Fee to Peirce and the two others upon the Death of the Testator's Son without Issue, was a good Substantive Devise, and consequently the Lessor of the Plaintiff well intitled.

Mr. Justice Reynolds: If the Devise had been to the Testator's Son and the Heirs of his Body, and if the Testator's Son should die without Issue, and the Testator's Wife should survive him, then to the Wife for her Life, it might be reasonable to take it to be a vested and a common Remainder to the Testator's Wife, upon the Son's dying without Issue; but as it would have been plainly otherwise, if the Devise had been to the Wife in Tail, or in Fee, in Case the Son should die without Issue, and the Testator's Wife should be then living; so in the present Case it is the same as if the Devise upon this Contingency had been to the Testator's Wife in Fee, because all these Remainders are but as one Estate arising upon the same Contingency, and as from one Root.

Moreover this Devise to Peirce and the two others in Fee, on the Testator's Son's dying without Issue, cannot be taken as a substantive Devise, because the Devise is to Peirce and the two others in Fee, the Testator's Son being dead without Issue as aforesaid; which Words [as aforesaid] imply as in Manner aforesaid, or as if these Words had been repeated, (viz.) in Case my Son dies without Issue, my Wife then living; for which Reason the Contingency not happening, the Devise to Pierce and the two others is void; and if this were but doubtful, yet by doubtful Words an Heir ought not to be disinherited.

Whereupon the Judge, after some Days taken in considering of the Case, delivered out the Postea to the Defendant, with these Words subscribed,

I am of Opinion, that the Remainder limited to the Lessor of the Plaintiff by the Will of Thomas Hooker is a contingent Remainder depending on the Death of William Hooker without Issue in the Life of Alice the Testator's Wife; and as that Contingency never happened, the Remainder which depended thereon could never arise; therefore let the Associate deliver the Postea in this Case to the Defendants or their Attorney.

Dec. 19. 1726.

Case 123.

Lord Chancellor King.

Creditor coming in under a Commission of Bankruptcy, tho' only to prove his Debt and oppose the Bankrupt's obtaining his Certificate, yet he shall not sue the Bankrupt at Law, unless he will waive all Benefit of the Commission, not only as to the Dividends, but as to his voting against the Bankrupt's gaining his Certificate.

UPON the Petition of a Bankrupt complaining that A. one of his Creditors had come in under the Commission and proved his Debt, yet had arrested the Bankrupt, and praying to be discharged: The Counsel of the other Side insisted, that by the Statute of the 13 Eliz. cap. 7. it is enacted, that if a Creditor be not fully satisfied out of the Bankrupt's Effects, he may notwithstanding take his Course at Law against the Bankrupt for the Residue of his Debt, and tho' by the 1 Ann. cap. 12. if the Bankrupt has his Certificate signed by four Fifths in Number and Value of his Creditors, and allowed by the Lord Chancellor, then, and not otherwise, the Bankrupt is discharged of his Debts, yet in this Case the Bankrupt was not within the latter Statute, so as to have his Debts discharged, he having not got his Certificate allowed, and was within the Statute of the 13 Eliz. liable to be sued by the Creditor for the Debt, especially in this Case, the Creditor coming into the Commission for no other Reason but to oppose the Bankrupt's having his Certificate, which he would have had, if the Creditor had not come in and proved his Debt.

That the Creditor was willing to waive taking any Advantage of the Bankrupt's Effects or Estate, and therefore it was fit he should be at Liberty to sue the Bankrupt at Law, he not having got any Certificate, otherwise the Creditor might be under a Dilemma, if he had had not come in, the Bankrupt would have gained his Certificate signed by four Fifths of his Creditors in Number and Value, and now he had come in, tho' for no other End than to oppose the Bankrupt's having the Certificate, yet Endeavours were used to deprive him of the Benefit of the Law against the Bankrupt.

Lord Chancellor: It has been the Construction of the Court of Equity, upon the latter Statute which discharges the Bankrupt of his Debts, on his procuring a Certificate signed by four Fifths of his Creditors, and allowed by the Chancellor, that where a Trader becomes a Bankrupt, and any one of his Creditors comes in before the Commission to prove his Debt, tho' with Design only to oppose the Bankrupt's Certificate, yet this Proceeding of the Creditor is an Election to take his Remedy for his Debt under the Commission, and if pending that, the Creditor sues and arrests the Bankrupt, it is taken to be an Oppression. Therefore let the Creditor at his own Expence discharge the Bankrupt out of Custody.

But if such Creditor will waive having any Benefit under the Statute, stay a reasonable Time, and there is an Improbability of the Bankrupt's being able to gain his Certificate signed by four Fifths in Number and Value of his Creditors, or allowed by the Court, in such Case, if the Creditor applies to the Court, declaring his Consent to waive any Right or Share of the Bankrupt's Estate under the Commission, and praying that he may sue the Bankrupt, I think it might be reasonable for the Court to give Leave to such Creditor to proceed at Law against the Bankrupt for his Debt.

Case 124. Ex parte of the East-India Company.

Lord Chancellor King.

Regularly speaking, at Common Law, none should come in on a Com-

A Trader contracted with the Company at one of their Sales for the Purchase of a Parcel of East-India Goods, to be paid for at a future Day and before the Day of Payment he became a Bankrupt. Commission of Bankruptcy but such as were Creditors at the Time of the Bankruptcy, because the Bankrupt could not afterwards charge his Estate. But now (since the 7 Geo. 1. cap. 31.) if A. gives a Note under Hand payable at a future Day, before which Day A. becomes a Bankrupt; in this Case such Creditor by Note shall come in. But a Contract by A. at an East-India Sale to buy a Parcel of Goods, before which Day A. becomes a Bankrupt, this not within the above-mentioned Statute: Neither is a Bond or Note to pay Money on a Contingency, before the happening of which Contingency the Obligor or Giver of the Note becomes a Bankrupt, within the said Statute.

Lord Chancellor: Formerly in case a Trader contracted a Debt payable at a future Day, and afterwards (but before the Day of Payment) became a Bankrupt, this not being a Debt until after the Bankruptcy, at which Time the Bankrupt could not do any Act to alien or lessen his Estate to the Prejudice of his Creditors, such Contract was held void, and the Creditor not allowed to come in for a Satisfaction under the Commission.

And in some Cases it was thought hard, that if one, on the Buying of Goods, or for other valuable Consideration, should give a Note under his Hand payable at a future Day, and actually had the Goods delivered to him, or the Money lent him, and before the Day of Payment the Debtor should become a Bankrupt, that in this Case the Creditor could not come in under the Commission with the rest of the Creditors; wherefore for the remedying of this, the Statute of 7 Geo. 1. cap. 31. was made. But the present Case is not within that Statute, because the Goods were not delivered, nor was the Contract signed by the Party (a).

(a) See the Statute, in which there are no express Words to this Purpose.

And at this Day, if a Bond or Note be given by a Trader upon a Contingency, and before it happens the Trader becomes a Bankrupt, and then the Contingency happens; this is not within the Act, neither shall the Debt arising (a) after the Bankruptcy be satisfied under the Commission.

Bays versus Bird.

Case 125.

Lord Chancellor King.

MR. Zouch late of Odyham in the County of Hants deceased, by Deed of Settlement in 1702 created a Term of 500 Years in the Manor of Odyham, and the Wastes and Commons there, in Trustees the Defendants Field, Fervoise and Redyard, in Trust to pay Debts, and for a Charity, upon which Premises there was great Quantity of Timber growing, and the Term was not without Impeachment of Waste.

A. seized in Fee of Land demised the Premises to Trustees B. C. and D. for 500 Years in Trust to pay Debts and for a Charity; B. one of the Trustees being in Possession, and as a Receiver appointed by the Court, cuts down 1000*l.* worth of Timber, D. one of the other Trustees consenting; B. the Trustee for the Charity, or as Receiver, ought not to take Advantage of his having Possession, without which he could not cut down the Timber, yet the Timber must be valued according to what it would be worth at the End of the Term of 500 Years.

Upon Zouch's Death the Reversion descended to his Heir, who sold the Reversion and Inheritance to Field one of the Trustees of the Term, who was also appointed Receiver of the Estate by the Court.

Field cut down from the Wastes and Commons of the Premises above 1800*l.* worth of Timber, but left sufficient for Repairs and Botes for the Tenants.

Vol. II.

5 I

The

(a) But if the Contingency happens before the Bankrupt's Estate be fully distributed, such Creditor shall come in pro rata. Vide post Ex parte Caswell, &c.

The Question was, whether the Defendant Field should make any, and what Satisfaction to the Trust for the Timber which he had cut down?

A Trustee of a Term for a Charity, subject to Waste, purchases the Reversion in Fee; he shall not cut down the Timber, if he does he must make Satisfaction to the Charity.

Obj. for the Charity: Tho' the Timber was Part of the Inheritance, and Field was Owner of the Inheritance, yet if he had not been a Trustee of the Term nor Receiver of the Estate, he could not have justified entering upon the Premises during the Term to cut down any Timber; and it was compared to a Copyhold, where, tho' the Right to the Timber be in the Lord, yet cannot the Lord enter to cut it down; and tho' the Timber if blown down would belong to the Lord, or to the Owner of the Inheritance, yet this would be the Act of God; but the Lord or Reversioner cannot by his own Act entitle himself to the Timber, which in the present Case ought to be estimated according to the Rate and Value it would yield at the End of the Term of 500 Years, at which Time, if standing, it would however be decayed and rotten and of little Value; and tho' the Defendant Field was a Trustee, he ought not to make Use of that Possession to the Prejudice of the Trust, much less make an ill Use of the Possession he had as Receiver, that being to be looked upon as the Hand of the Court, and therefore the Court ought to make him pay as much as it would have been worth his While to have given the other Trustees for their Leave, if it had been asked for the cutting down this Timber, which ought (it was said) to be Half, and that it would be very well worth the Defendant Field's While to give Half for such Licence, in regard whatever he got thereby was clear Gain, and the Termors had a special Property in the Trees, as to the Mast and Shade.

Upon this it was proved by Field, that Redyard, another of the Trustees, gave him Leave to cut down the Timber; and as to the Termors Property of the Maft and Shades, it would hardly fatisfy the Charity to have an Issue to try the Value of the Maft or Shade during the Term.

That during the Term, and before the End thereof, it was likely by some Tempeft or Accident the Trees might be blown down, and then Field would be entitled thereto; alfo that this being a Common or Wafte, (and not Inclofures) the Jury would give but little Damages for the Lessor's entring upon the Land and cutting the Timber.

Lord Chancellor: It is plain that Field as the Purchafer of the Reversion could not enter upon the Premiffes to cut down the Timber; and as to Redyard the Co-Trustee's Assent to the Cutting down of the Timber, it was a Breach of Trust in him, of which the Defendant Field ought not to take any Advantage, fo that something ought to be paid to the Charity or Trust for their Leave.

And on his Lordship's propofing 220 l. both Parties agreed thereto, and fo the Matter was compromised.

Another Point arofe in this Cafe, which was, that the faid Mr. Zouch by his Deed in 1702 granted his Hundred and Manor of Odyham in Hampshire, and his Manor of Woking in Surry, and all his Manors, Lands and Premiffes in Odyham and Woking aforefaid. Whereupon

The Question was, Whether the Grantor's Manor of Hartlerow, which was within the Hundred of Odyham, but not within the Manor of Odyham or Woking, should pafs by this Deed? And after Debate,

What paffes by Grant of an Hundred.

Lord

One feifed in Fee of an Hundred and of Lands in the Hundred, grants the Hundred; this paffes only the Franchife, and not the Lands in the Hundred.

Lord Chancellor: An Hundred is only a Franchife confifting of a Court called the Hundred Court, and probably has the Return of Writs, and by fuch Grant the Franchife paffes, but not all the Teftator's Lands within that Franchife; wherefore by the Word [Hundred] the Manor of Hartlerow not being named in the Grant, does not pafs, and the rather in Regard I heard it faid and offered to be made out, that the Manor of Hartlerow and the Hundred and Manor of Odyham came to Mr. Zouch's Family by different Purchafes, and at different Times; but where Mr. Zouch grants his Hundred and Manor of Odyham, and his Manor of Woking, and all his Manors, Lands and Tenements in Odyham and Woking aforefaid, the Words [Odyham aforefaid] muft have Reference to, and intend the Hundred of Odyham, efppecially as the Grant is of all the Grantor's Manors and Lands in Odyham aforefaid, fo that tho' there may be a Manor within a Manor, yet it is not likely that Hartlerow Manor fhould be a Manor within the Manor of Odyham, nor is it pretended fo to be, neither does it appear that Odyham is mentioned as a Vill in the Deed, but only as an Hundred and Manor.

But it being obferved, that Woking was named as well as Odyham; whereas Woking could not be intended as an Hundred, but rather as a Vill, and fo muft Odyham when coupled together.

Lord Chancellor: Then let this be tried in a feigned Iffue at the next Affizes for Hants, whether comprifed or not comprifed within this Grant of 1702; and let Mr. Field be Defendant, and the reft of the Trustees Plaintiffs, and let the Deed be admitted to have been executed by Zouch, and that Zouch was at that Time feifed of Lands in Hartlerow.

Sir John Napier versus Lady Effingham. Case 126.

Lord Chancellor King,
Master of the Rolls.

SIR John Napier Nephew and Heir of Sir Theophilus Napier the first Husband of the Defendant Lady Effingham, (who after the Death of Sir Theophilus married and survived Lord Effingham) brought his Bill against the Lady Effingham (inter al') to be relieved against a Conveyance gained unduly by Lady Effingham from her first Husband Sir Theophilus Napier, whereby he settled divers Lands lying in the Middle of his Estate, and likewise the Manor of Shitlington, a Manor that had been long in the Family, of which there are about 200 Tenants, and this Manor named in the Middle of the Parcels, amounting in the Whole to above 600 l. per Annum; whereas the Defendant by her Answer admitted, that the Lands agreed by Sir Theophilus to be settled were not above 400 l. per Annum.

Upon a Decree against an Infant, unless Cause within six Months after he comes to Age, the Infant may answer, make a Defence, and examine Witnesses anew.

And the Defendant Lady Effingham preferred her cross Bill (inter al') to establish this Settlement.

Lord Chancellor Parker (among other Things) referred this Matter to be stated by the Master; and afterwards the Plaintiff Sir John Napier, an Infant, exhibited his Petition to his Lordship for Leave to bring a new Bill, shewing that his Cause had been mismanaged by his former Solicitor, and making out the same by Affidavits, upon which the Court gave Leave to bring such new Bill.

But the Defendant Lady Effingham (a) appealing from this Order to the House of Lords, she was let into the Possession of the Premises, but Leave was given the Plaintiff to shew Cause within six Months after he should come of Age.

And now Sir John Napier petitioning the Court that he might have Leave to amend his original Bill, or be allowed to bring a new or supplemental Bill as he should be advised, and also to amend his Answer to the Cross Bill;

Lord Chancellor called to his Assistance the Master of the Rolls, and after hearing Counsel on both Sides, this Day the Opinion of the Court was delivered.

As to what is prayed concerning amending the original Bill, there does not appear to be any Precedent in this Court of an Amendment to a Bill in a Part wherein it has been dismissed upon the Merits.

The Plaintiff Sir John Napier, now he is of Age, ought to be well advised how he goes on in this Cause, as it is insisted at the Bar that there was a Particular given in by Sir Theophilus for instructing Counsel to draw the Settlement in Question, which comprised this Manor of Shitlington.

But as to the present Question concerning the Manner in which the Plaintiff ought to shew Cause, and bring this Matter before the Court, it is not to be imagined that Sir John is tied up to the former Proceedings only, for that would be the most imperfect Relief which could be given.

Therefore this Cause is to be considered as if there had been a common Decree against an Infant relating to his Inheritance, with a nisi causa within six Months after he should come of Age, in which Case it would be plain the Defendant might amend his Answer.

All Infant Defendants by their Answers put in an early Claim to the Care and Protection of the Court in Relation to their Right, and ought to have it, forasmuch as they are supposed unable to take Care of themselves; which arises from the general Superintendency this Court has over Infants; all Decrees against them give six Months after they come of Age, to shew Cause; and therefore Sir John Napier in the present Case ought to have Leave to put in a new Answer.

And the Master of the Rolls said, he look'd upon this as a Matter of Course and of Right, believing that he had granted the (a) same upon a Petition ex parte.

Note; The Consequence of an Infant's putting in a new Answer is, that he may examine Witnesses a-new to prove his Defence, which may be different from what it was before.

Case 127.

Lord Chancellor King.

If an Advowson only be mortgaged and becomes void, it seems in this Case the Mortgagee is to present, especially if in the Deed the Agreement be that the Mortgagee shall present.

SAMUEL Gardiner the Plaintiff's Father, being possessed of a long Term for ninety-nine Years of the Advowson of Eckington, made a Mortgage thereof to the Defendant by Way of Assignment of the Term, upon Condition to be void on Payment of the Mortgage-money and Interest at the End of the Year, and there was a Covenant in the Mortgage-Deed that on every Avoidance of the Church the Mortgagee should present.

Several Years after the Mortgagor died.

One mortgages a Manor with an Advowson appendant, and the Church becomes void, Mortgagee, tho' in Possession, shall not present to the Church till the Mortgage is foreclosed.

It was admitted by Lord Chancellor and by the Counsel on both Sides, that if there be a Mortgage made of a Manor, and an Advowson appendant, before the Mortgage is foreclosed (tho' the Mortgagee be in Possession) yet the Mortgagor shall present if the Church becomes void, for the Presentation is to be presumed to yield no Profit, and consequently cannot be accounted for, nor go towards Satisfaction of the Mortgage; for which was cited Wood and Hinchman versus Sir Thomas Stanley, and also Mr. Serjeant Selby's Case. (a).

(a) See also 2 Vern. 401. Amburst versus Dawling; 2 Vern. 549. Attorney General versus Hesketh; and Preced. in Chan. 71. Fory versus Cox.

But the principal Case was said to differ, nothing being mortgaged here but the Advowson, so that the Mortgagee could have no other Satisfaction than by providing for a Child, Relation or Friend on the Advowson's becoming void, and the rather for that it was the express Agreement in the Mortgage-Deed, that as often as the Church should become void the Mortgagee should present, which express Agreement would be good even in Case of a Mortgage of a Manor with an Advowson appendant, and this was still stronger, as it was the Case of a perishing Term, where every Presentee or Incumbent would have an Estate for Life in the Church; to which the Court, though it gave no Opinion, yet seemed to incline.

But it appearing, that this Bill against the Mortgagee and his Presentee was brought seven Months after Institution, Lord Chancellor dismissed the Bill, declaring that as a Quare impedit was confined to the six Months after the Death of the last Incumbent, so the Bill seeking to compel the Defendant to resign, and consequently to deprive him of his Living, ought by the same Reason to be limited to the same Time; and the relieving against this would be to relieve against an Act of Parliament, which had punctually been observed for some Hundreds of Years, ever since the 13th of Edward 1. and that the Tempus semestre ought to be as much observed here as at Law, in regard it tended to the Peace of the Church.

Mortgagee of an Advowson presents; Bill by Mortgagor must be brought within six Months, in the same Manner as a Quare impedit.

Indeed, had a Quare impedit been brought within the six Months, and the Bill been preferred after the six Months, the Court might, on a proper Case, give Directions in Aid of the Quare impedit, that the Mortgage should not be given in Evidence, &c. but here there was no Quare impedit brought, and the Bill came out of Time. Wherefore

Per Cur', dismisses the Bill as to that Part which seeks to compel the Defendant to resign his Living; but let the Plaintiff redeem the Mortgage on Payment of Principal, Interest and Costs.

And now Mr. Melmoth seconded by the Attorney General moved the Lord Chancellor to discharge that Order, insisting it was more the Commissioner's Fault, who upon the Commission in the Country, took these Depositions, than the Witness's; for the Witness might be an ignorant Person, and not know what was proper to put down or depose; but the Commissioner must be supposed to understand this, and therefore if an Answer be reported scandalous or impertinent, the Cofts by the Rule of the Court are to lie upon the Counsel.

Lord Chancellor: I find the Commissioners on both Sides attended at the Examination, and since it was the Commissioners Fault to take down any Deposition that was scandalous or impertinent, therefore discharge the Order.

A. becoming a Bankrupt, a Commission of Bankruptcy issued out against him, and D. comes in as a Creditor, and pays his Contribution-money as claiming a Debt of 200 l. and proves the Debt.

Then B. becomes a Bankrupt and a Commission being taken out against him, D. in like Manner as before, pays his Contribution to this Commission as for the whole Debt of 200 l. and proves it.

Afterwards C. the last Indorser becomes a Bankrupt, and on a Commission taken out against him, D. (as before) pays his Contribution-Money as for the whole Debt of 200 l. and proves the same.

The Assignees under the Commission of Bankruptcy against A. the first Bankrupt pay a Dividend to D. after the Rate of 5 s. in the Pound out of A.'s Estate, and then the Assignees in the Commission of Bankruptcy against B. propose to make a Dividend out of B.'s Estate, but refuse to pay D.'s Dividend as a Creditor for the whole 200 l. but only for the 150 l. 50 l. of the 200 l. being paid off by the Dividend made out of A. the first Bankrupt's Estate.

Upon this D. petitioned the Lord Chancellor, and insisted, that as the Commissioners in the Commission against B. took D.'s Contribution-Money, as of the whole Debt of 200 l. so they ought to allow D. a Dividend for the same; and especially in regard all the Dividends which were like to come to him out of the Estates of the three Bankrupts, would not be near sufficient to pay his just Debt; and that as to D. — the first Drawer and the two Indorsors were equally his Debtors for the whole; wherefore it was prayed, that D. the Petitioner should have his Dividend out of the Estate of B. the Bankrupt for his full Debt of 200 l. and not as reduced to 150 l. by his having received the Dividend of 5 s. in the Pound out of the Estate of A.

Lord Chancellor: The 5 s. in the Pound which the Petitioner D. has received upon the Dividend out of the Estate of A. must be taken to reduce and lessen the Debt due to the Petitioner upon this Note; for as 5 s. in the Pound is paid in Part of the Debt, by necessary Consequence so much less of the Debt remains due, and therefore the Petitioner must take a Dividend as for a Debt of 150 l. only unpaid upon the Note; but with regard to so much of the Contribution-Money as the Petitioner D. paid to the Assignees in the Commission of Bankruptcy sued out against B. the first Indorsor beyond the Debt of 150 l. remaining due on the said Note, let that be refunded.

A Copyholder in Fee by Will charges his Lands with Payment of his Debts, the Lands being in England, the Heir an Infant in Scotland; the Creditors bring their Bill to have their Debts paid out of the Copyhold Premises; the Heir appears, and there is an Attachment for Want of an Answer; but the Heir being an Infant, the next Step is to bring up the Body; the Infant being in Scotland the Plaintiff is at a Stand. The Infant must answer by a certain Time, or shew Cause why a Receiver should not be appointed.

A Bill had been brought against the Heir for Satisfaction of the Debts out of the Copyhold Estate, to which the Heir appeared, but was in Contempt for not answering.

Whereupon Mr. Solicitor General Talbot moved, that the Plaintiff might have the like Process against the Defendant the Infant as if he were of Age, or else that the Court would appoint a Receiver of the Estate in Question; for that as the Defendant the Infant enjoyed such Estate by the Protection of the Laws of England, so the same ought to be subject to the Laws of England; and if the Court should not make some Order in this Case for the Relief of the Plaintiff, there would be a Failure of Justice, since the Defendant being an Infant, the Process after an Attachment was for a Messenger to bring up the Body to answer, which could not be in this Case, in Regard the Defendant the Infant was in Scotland; but if he were of Age, the Plaintiff might proceed to a Sequestration of the Land in Question, and by that Means have a Remedy.

Lord Chancellor: The Court ought to lend its Assistance in this Case, in order to prevent a Failure of Justice; and if the Defendant will not answer, the Lands being in England, I will stop the Rents in the Tenants Hands; but let the Defendant answer by the Master of the Rolls: From that Time the Purchaser was sure of his Title and of his Purchase, tho' the Tenant for Life had died the next Day, and from that Time the Life was wearing, which is equivalent to the taking of the Profits, and in case the Purchaser had taken the Profits, he must certainly have paid Interest: Also from the Time of the Report confirmed absolutely, the Estate is bound, and the Party who was to convey is become but a Trustee for the Purchaser, who ought to have the Money ready.

And as it does not appear that the Purchaser from that Time kept the Money dead by him, so he ought to have no Advantage of the Use or Interest thereof, which seems to belong to the Seller, or to those Trusts for which the Estate was to be sold.

Therefore let the Purchaser pay Interest from the Time of his being confirmed absolutely the best Purchaser to the Time of his bringing the Money into the Bank.

Case 133.
 Lord Chancellor King.

Deg versus Deg.

(On an Appeal from a Decree at the Rolls.)

A BILL was brought by the Creditors of Simon Deg the Defendant's Father (some of which were Bond-Creditors and some Simple-Contract Creditors) for the Payment of their Debts out of a personal Estate, and out of a Trust-Estate created by the Will of Simon Deg for that Purpose.

On the Marriage of the said Simon Deg with Silena Williams, Sir Simon Deg the Grandfather of Simon Deg did by Deed of Settlement in 1695. settle Lands in Derbyshire and Staffordshire to the Use of Simon Deg for Life, Remainder to Silena his Wife for her Life, Remainder to the first and every other Son of that Marriage in Tail Male successively, with divers Remainders over, Remainder in Fee to one Deg a Relation, with a Covenant in the Settlement, that 3500 l. being the Wife's Fortune, should be laid out in a Purchase of Lands in Fee-simple, in the Names of Trustees, and settled to the same Uses.

In 1722. Silena the Wife dies, leaving three Sons by this Marriage, the Defendant Simon Deg, William and John.

Simon Deg laid out 3000 l. Part of his Wife's Portion of 3500 l. in the Purchase of Lands, and buys them in his own Name.

Afterwards Simon Deg marries the Plaintiff Jane his second Wife, with whom he has 2000 l. Portion, and covenants to add 2000 l. to her 2000 l. and to raise a further Sum of 4000 l. by 200 l. per Annum, and to lay the same all out in Lands, to be settled to the Use of himself and his Wife Jane for their Lives, with Remainder to their Children.

But during his first Marriage, by Indentures of Lease and Release dated the 1st and 2d of Feb. 1705, reciting the Covenant for laying out the 3500 l. in the Purchase of Lands and settling them in the same Manner as the said Lands were settled upon Silena's Marriage, and reciting further, that this 3500 l. had been all received by Simon Deg the Defendant's Father, and also that Lands in Derby, together with Lands in Mapleton, had been purchased with Part of this Trust-Money, and that there was a Defect in the said Settlement made upon the said Silena's Marriage, in that there was no Provision made for younger Sons of that Marriage; therefore Simon Deg, for supplying that Defect, and in Pursuance of the Trust, conveyed the Lands in Derbyshire and Mapleton to Trustees, to the Use of Simon Deg the Defendant's Father for Life, Remainder to the said Trustees for 1000 Years, in Trust for raising such Sums for the Benefit of the two younger Sons by Silena (not exceeding in the whole 4000 l.) as the said Simon Deg the Defendant's Father should appoint, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of the said Simon Deg by the said Silena in Tail Male, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of the said Simon Deg by any Wife in Tail Male, Remainder over to the same Uses as were limited in the Deed of Settlement made upon the said Silena's Marriage, with a Power of Revocation reserved to the said Simon Deg (the Defendant's Father) by any Instrument in Writing attested by two or more credible Witnesses.

17 June 1715. Simon Deg makes his Will attested by three Witnesses, and therein by express Words devises his Lands in Staffordshire and all his Lands in Derby and elsewhere in the County of Derby, and the Equity of Redemption thereof, and all his personal Estate to Trustees, (viz.) Lord Macclesfield and ——— Poole Esq; and to their Heirs, Executors and Administrators, in Trust that they should sell all these devised Premises, and thereby, together with his personal Estate, pay all his Debts, and the Surplus to be applied as by Will, leaving the Trustees Executors.

Soon after the Testator Simon Deg dies, leaving three Sons by his second Wife, being indebted 8000 l. and upwards by Marriage Articles (which is a Debt by * Specialty) and 570 l. by Simple Contract, and 2331 l. for Rents and Profits received by Simon Deg after his first Wife's Death, from an Estate that upon the Death of his said first Wife did belong to the Defendant Simon Deg his eldest Son.

And upon this Case the several following Points arose, and were determined.

(a) See Preced. in Chan. 84. Kirk ver. Webb, and 168. Halcott ver. Mar-kant.

1st, That tho' Money had no (a) Ear-Mark, inso-much that if a Receiver of Rents should lay out all the Money in the Purchase of Land, or if an Executor should should realize all his Testator's Assets, and afterwards die insolvent, yet a Court of Equity cannot charge or follow the Land: Nevertheless in the present Case, where the Defendant's Father Simon Deg by his Deed had owned the Receipt of the Money, and that he had laid out the same in the Purchase of Lands in Derby and Mapleton, this was resolved to amount to a Declaration of Trust, and to raise a specific Lien upon those Estates.

Money has no Ear-Mark, and if invested in Land or other Things it cannot be pursued; therefore if a Receiver of Rents, or if an Executor in Trust lays out the Rents or the Assets in a Purchase of Lands in Fee, and dies insolvent, the Purchase will not be liable; but if such Receiver or Executor in Trust does by Writing own that this Purchase was made with the Trust-Money, this binds the Estate, and is a Declaration of Trust.

And tho' it was made a Question at the former Hearing, whether the Will of Simon Deg the Father devising all his Lands in Derby and elsewhere in the County of Derby to Trustees for the Payment of his Debts, (the Testator having no other Lands there than the Lands in Question) did not amount to a Revocation of the Settlement in 1705, since the Will devised the same Lands to different Uses, and the Circumstances required by the Power were observed, tho' the Power itself was not mentioned; which Question was referred to the Judges of the Common Pleas, who determined that the Will operated as a Revocation; yet it was now held, that the Will only operated as a Devise of the legal Estate, still subject to the Trusts before declared for the Benefit of the Defendant Simon Deg the eldest Son; and that the Trusts being once declared, he (the Father) could not annex a Power of Revocation to it, or limit a Term thereout for the Benefit of his younger Sons by his said first Wife.

If one has made himself Tenant for Life of Lands in Dale, with a Power by any Writing, &c. to revoke these Uses, and limit new ones, and he afterwards by Will devises all his Lands in Dale, &c. to J. S. having no other Lands in Dale excepting these, they shall pass, if the Will be circumstanced as the Power requires, tho' no Mention be made of the Power.

2dly, It had been objected, with regard to the Lands not affected by Settlement, that the Devise being to the only, this is but equitable Assets, and to be applied to pay all Sorts of Creditors equally.

(a) See
2 Vern. 248.
Greaves versus Powell.

Executors and their Heirs, to be sold for Payment of Debts, these Lands (according to the Cases in 1 Leo. 224. Alexander versus Lady Gresbam, 1 Lev. 224. Dethick versus Carravan, 1 Ro. Abr. 920. plac. 6. and (a) Hard. Rep. 405. Berwell and Salter versus Corrant) were legal Assets, and consequently the Debts must be paid in a Course of Administration; otherwise, if the Devise were to Trustees who were not Executors, or to Executors and also to a third Person a Stranger, in either of which Cases they would be only equitable Assets; but in the present Case the devised Premises being legal Assets, must be administered according to Law, and consequently Specialty Debts were to have the Preference in Payment; to which at the first Hearing the Master of the Rolls seemed not to agree, in Regard generally all Devises for Payment of Debts are to Executors: And see 2 Vern. 133. accord'.

However, it was now resolved that the Premises devised being mortgaged in Fee by the Testator, and he having nothing but an Equity of Redemption, could be only equitable Assets, and consequently must go among all the Creditors equally; forasmuch as a Debt by Judgment and a Debt by Simple Contract are in Conscience equal.

A. devises all his real and personal Estate to his Executors and their Heirs, in Trust to sell and pay all his Debts, his real Estate being only equitable Assets, and the Testator leaving Debts by Bond and Simple Contract: If the Bond Creditors are paid Part out of the personal Estate, they shall bring it back again into Hotchpot, if they would be paid any Thing out of the real Estate.

3dly, The next Point (and what was principally appealed from in his Honour's Decree) was, that he had (b) decreed, that tho' the Specialty Creditors were at Liberty to take their Preference out of the personal Estate, yet in Case these should come in upon the Lands devised in Trust to pay all the Debts, they should first bring that all should go equally to pay his Debts, and he might give his equitable Affets in what Manner and upon what Terms he pleased: For Instance, he might dispose of them in Trust to pay his Simple-Contract Debts only, tho' it was true he had no Power by his Will to dispose of his personal Estate from his Creditors, or to devise it for Satisfaction of his Simple-Contract Creditors, in Preference to his Specialty Creditors; but these equitable Affets being intirely within his Power, he might let in the Specialty Creditors for a Satisfaction thereof, under what Terms he should think proper; and it was a very ill Argument to say, that the Specialty Creditors had received so much out of the personal Estate, as to make it not worth their While to bring it into Hotchpot; for the more they had received of the personal Estate, the less Need they had of the Aid of a Court of Equity to be paid out of the Trust Estate.

The Testator's Heir at Law who opposed the Will as to Part of the Lands devised thereby to pay Debts, yet being a Creditor was let into the Residue of the Fund raised by the Will for the Payment of Debts.

In the last Place it was objected, that the Defendant Simon Deg the Heir ought not to be let into this Fund of the equitable Affets devised for the Payment of Debts, since the Derby Estate was Part of the Land devised to pay the Debts, and the eldest Son opposed this Estate's being made liable to them, in which he opposed his Father's Will, and hindered as much as he could its taking Effect; and in case the Defendant the eldest Son would take any Advantage of the Will, he ought to abide by the whole Will.

But to this it was answered and resolved, that as to the Derby and Mapleton Lands, taking it that the Defendant the eldest Son had a specific Lien thereupon, then they were the Defendant Simon Deg the Son's own Lands, and it was not to be supposed, that a Court of Equity would compel any Person to admit a Testator's tor's Devise of Lands, which were not the Testator's own, but the Lands of the Creditors, who would come in upon the Fund given by the Testator for the Payment of Debts; so that as to the Lands in Derby, the Testator the Father's Devise was as much void, as if the Father had devised any other Part of the Estate of the said Defendant Simon Deg the Son.

ONE Mrs. Powel by Will, after several Legacies, devised her Household Goods to J. S. and the Surplus of her personal Estate, which was about 3000 l. to her Niece (being an Infant of about seventeen) to be paid to her at her Age of twenty-one Years, and if she should die before twenty-one or Marriage, then the Testatrix devised it over, and she also devised a small Estate in Lands to the said Niece in Possession.

A. having a Niece an Infant about the Age of Seventeen, devised to her the Surplus of the personal Estate payable at twenty-one; the Niece shall have the Interest paid her in the mean Time, tho' the Surplus be devised over, if the Niece die before twenty-one or Marriage, the Devise over being but a Condition subsequent.

On the Death of the Testatrix, the Questions were,
1st, Who should have the Produce and Interest of this Surplus during the Infancy of the Niece?

2<sup>dly</sup>, Whether by the Devise of the Household-Goods the Plate should pass?

Object. This Produce, &c. ought to be laid up until the Niece should come to twenty-one or be married, and be then paid to the Niece, but if she should die before, in such Case it ought to be paid to the Devisee over, and that nothing was to be paid before the Niece should come to twenty-one or be married, because it was not due till then.

For

For the Niece it was argued, that the Surplus being devised to the Niece payable at twenty-one or Marriage, this was Debitum in presenti, though Solvendum in futuro, and the Devise over, in case she should die before twenty-one or Marriage, being in Nature of a Condition subsequent, could not defeat the first Devisee of the mesne Profits accruing before the Devise over took Effect; as if I should devise Lands to an Infant, to be void if the Infant should die before twenty-one, tho' the Infant should die before twenty-one, yet would he be intitled to the mesne Profits until the Time of his Decease. So if I was to devise to one 1000*l.* and if he dies before twenty-one, then the same to go over, the Devisee the Infant should have the Interest till his Death; neither was there any Diversity betwixt a Devise of a particular Sum, and the Devise of a Surplus, for this last may by Computation be reduced to a Certainty. Also when the Devise is of a Surplus to an Infant, and if he dies before twenty-one, then to go over, the Surplus devised over is the same Surplus which was devised to the Infant; whereas it would be a different and greater Surplus, were it to carry the Interest accruing during the Life of the Infant, added to what was the Surplus at the Time of the Testator's Death, which seems not to have been intended.

Master of the Rolls: Let the Master take the Account, but reserve the Point, whether the Infant shall be intitled to the Interest of the Surplus during her Infancy, and let it be spoke to in Court, it not being fit to be determined on a private Hearing by Consent.

ported manifest Intentions and Declarations of the Testatrix as to the other Point, that she did not intend the Plate should pass, yet the Master certifying that the Plate was commonly used in the House:

His Honour rejected all the Evidence touching the Intention of the Party, there being a compleat and plain Will in Writing, which must not be altered or influenced by parol Proof.

But as to the mean Profits of the Estate, the Court took it clearly, that the Infant Niece was intitled to the Profits and the Interest of the Surplus which should incur from the Death of the Testatrix, and in the Lifetime of the Niece, tho' she should happen to die before attaining her Age of twenty-one, &c. and decreed accordingly.

Case 135.

Lord Chancellor King.

THOMAS Lord possessed of a considerable personal Estate, did by his Will in 1720. after some Legacies, devise the Residue of his personal Estate to his Niece Alice Staines, Wife of John Staines, for her separate Use, and after her Death, the yearly Interest and Produce thereof to be for the Maintenance and Education of such Children as she should have by the said John Staines, until the Ages following, (viz.) until the Sons should come to twenty-one, and the Daughters to Eighteen, who at such their respective Ages were to be paid their Portions; and for Want of such Issue, then all the said Estate to go to the Children of Sarah Maddox.

Devise of a personal Estate to A. for Life, and afterwards for her Children, the yearly Interest and Produce to be for their Maintenance until the Sons should be twenty-one, and the Daughters eighteen, at which respective Ages their respective Portions to be paid them, and for want of such Issue then to B. A. dies, without Issue; the Devise over to B. good, the Words [for want of such Issue] being the same as [for want of such Children.]

Alice Staines died without Issue, and the Children of Sarah Maddox brought their Bill against the Executors of Staines for an Account of this personal Estate.

And now Dr. Henchman and Dr. Pinfold, together with the Attorney and Solicitor General, argued that the Devise over of this personal Estate was after too remote a Possibility, it being devised over for want of Issue of Alice Staines, and particularly Mr. Solicitor General insisted, that if the Words [for want of such Issue] should be intended to signify such Child or Children of Alice Staines as should attain the Age of twenty-one if Sons, or eighteen if Daughters, yet this would exceed the Rule which confines these Bequests (especially of mere personal Estates) to Lives in Being, for this might be above twenty Years after the Life of Alice Staines, in regard she might die and leave an Infant Son just born, which would be carrying executory Devises further than had yet been done; for which were cited 1 Sid. 37. Witmore and Weld. 1 Vern. 326. and Pollexfen 57.

Lord Chancellor: A Devise over of a Lease for Years or other personal Estate after a Death without Issue, or in Failure of Issue, would have been void; but here the Devise being to Alice Staines for her Life, and then the Interest and Produce thereof for the Maintenance and Education of her Children, the Sons till twenty-one and the Daughters till eighteen, and at those Ages the Principal to be paid to them in equal Shares and Proportions, therefore for want of such Issue, must be intended, for want of such Children, and whether Alice Staines shall leave Children will be known at her Death; if she does leave Children, then those Children are to have the Proceed and Produce of the Estate for their Maintenance, until they come to Age, before which Time if they had the absolute Interest therein, they could not by Reason of their Infancy dispose of it; but as soon as they do come to that Age, then they are to have the intire Property, and therefore this is a very good executory Devise.

Cafe 136. Countess of Gainsborough versus Gifford.
At the Rolls.

THE Plaintiff brought her Bill to be relieved against a Contract which her Broker had made for the Purchase of twelve Shares in the Stock of the Welsh Copper Company from the Defendant for 54 l. per Share, to be transferred by the Defendant to the Plaintiff at the then next Opening of the Books; the Contract was made on the 12th of August 1720, and the next Opening was on the 22d of the same Month.

The Defendant brought his Action on the Contract, and recovered a Verdict for the whole Money, deducting only for what the Shares sold at.

The Countess first brought her Writ of Error, and then her Bill in this Court; and the Injunction being dissolved by the Lord Chancellor, the Countess paid the Money recovered at Law and the Costs. The Bill insisted that the Defendant had not so many Shares, nor had registred the Contract.

But the Defendant, in order to recover the Costs in this Court, set down the Cause ad requisitionem defendentis.

It was argued for the Plaintiff, that the Defendant by his Answer had confessed he had sold her Shares on the 22d of August at 34 l. per Share, and that this being the Produce of the Plaintiff the Countess's Shares, which she had bought, the Money belonged to her.

Upon which the Defendant's Counsel insisted, that this was a Mistake in the Plaintiff's Office Copy, the Original of the Defendant's Answer being otherwise, which was then also produced, and signed by the Counsel's (Mr. Hungerford) own Hand, wherein it was not said her Shares, but it was said ten Shares.

His Honour immediately ordered, that the Answer itself should be sent for from off the File, and in the mean Time it was urged for the Defendant, that even this was what ought to have been insisted upon by the Defendant at Law (the now Plaintiff) at the Trial, in Mitigation of Damages, and that a Court of Equity ought not to give Relief to a Defendant at Law who might, but neglected to make a proper Defence.

Soon afterwards the Record itself of the Answer being taken off the File, was brought into Court, and the Word in Question appeared to be [Her] as in the Office Copy, and not [Ten] as in the original Draught of the Answer.

Master of the Rolls: I do agree the Court ought to be very tender how they help any Defendant after a Trial at Law in a Matter where such Defendant had an Opportunity to defend himself.

In some Cases Equity relieves after a Verdict at Law, and where the Plaintiff in Equity might properly have defended himself, as where a Receipt from the Plaintiff at Law is found after the Verdict.

But still such Cases there are, in which Equity will relieve after a Verdict, in a Matter where the Defendant at Law might properly have defended himself.

As if the Plaintiff at Law recovers a Debt against the Defendant, and the Defendant afterwards finds a Receipt under the Plaintiff's own Hand for the very Money in Question. Here the Plaintiff recovered a Verdict against Conscience, and tho' the Receipt were in the Defendant's own Custody, yet he not being then apprised of it, seems intitled to the Aid of Equity, it being against Conscience, that the Plaintiff should be twice paid the same Debt; so if the Plaintiff's own Book appeared to be crossed, and the Money paid before the Action brought.

Now the principal Case is within the same Reason; If the Defendant in this Court, who was Plaintiff at Law, has been paid great Part of his Money by the Sale of those Shares, which he had contracted to sell to the Plaintiff, the Money raised by this Sale ought to be applied towards the Discharge of the Debt which the Plaintiff the Countess owed him; and tho' it were impossible for any other Person to know one Share from another, yet the Plaintiff at Law, who is the Defendant in this Court, might himself know that these Shares which he sold on the 22d of August 1720, were the very Shares he contracted to sell to the Plaintiff the Countess; and the Court must take this Confession of the Defendant in his Answer to be an ingenuous Confession of the Truth; more especially, as the Price of 34 l. per Share was much more than the intrinsic Value of the Stock, and it appears that the Rate which the Stock bore at the Time the Verdict dict was given, tho' then very low, was yet not fully allowed to the Plaintiff the Countess; nor would his Honour hear of any Proof that the Record of the Answer was mistaken in being made contrary to the original Draught.

But as the Defendant in his Action at Law had recovered his Money against Conscience, the Court decreed him to pay back to the Plaintiff the Money for which he had sold the Shares, confessed by the Answer to be her Shares, deducting what had been allowed at the Trial to the Countess for the then Value of the said twelve Shares.

But afterwards, upon very full Affidavits by the Solicitor and his Clerk, that this was only a Mistake in the Person that ingrossed the Answer, and the foul Draught being produced, upon solemn Debate before Lord Chancellor, assisted by the Master of the Rolls, the Court gave the Defendant Leave to amend the Answer, and to swear it over again, tho' no Precedent could be shewn that this was ever done after the Cause heard, and this Matter had been before denied on a Petition, and on a Motion.

An Answer amended after Hearing, and Decree, on Affidavit of the Solicitor and his Clerk, that the Mistake was in the ingrossing the Answer from the Draught, and the Draught produced.

Case 137.

At the Rolls.

ONE Norcourt had long followed the Business of a Goldsmith, and on Michaelmas Day last, after he had shut up Shop, being indebted to several Persons much beyond what he was able to pay, in Contemplation of his Bankruptcy, and to give a Preference in Payment to the Plaintiff Small, who in Friendship had

A Goldsmith after shutting up his Shop, being greatly indebted, assigns his Stock in the Wine-Trade in which he was concerned, to J. S. being a particular Creditor, and to secure his Debt, but without the Knowledge of J. S. and becomes a Bankrupt the very next Day. J. S. brings a Bill to have the Benefit of this Assignment; and decreed for him.

had then lately advanced a considerable Sum of Money, did, in order to secure to the Plaintiff Small the Money due to him from the said Norcourt, make an Assignment to him of two Leases, and also of two Thirds of his Stock in the Wine-Trade, which he was concerned in with the Defendant Oudley, being about the Value of 300*l.* and this Assignment was made without the Privity of the Plaintiff Small; Norcourt never opened his Shop again, but the very next Day after making this Assignment went off, and was afterwards found a Bankrupt, and to have become such the Day after Michaelmas Day, and all his Estate was assigned by the Commissioners to the Defendant Man.

The Plaintiff Small who was the Assignee of these two Leases, and likewise of the two Thirds of the Stock in the Wine-Trade, brought his Bill against Man the Assignee in the Commission, and against Oudley the Partner in the Wine-Trade, to make them account.

Objected for the Defendants: This Assignment made by the Trader, when it was resolved by him that he would be a Bankrupt the very next Day, and in Contemplation of such Bankruptcy, and to give a Preference to this Creditor before others, by which the equal Distribution of his Effects intended by the Statutes is prevented, must be a void Assignment.

Besides it is an Assignment in general of all his Stock in the Wine-Trade, which is the same, as if it had been of all his Stock in Trade; then this Assignment being made without the Privity of Small the Assignee is therefore fraudulent, there being no Account stated on the Trade for Wine to the Bankrupt, nor from the Assignee Small to the Bankrupt, after all which, Small the Assignee comes to have this established, and through Partiality assisted in a Court of Equity, which if allowed, lowed, will effectually set aside such Parts of several Statutes as give an equal Distribution of the Bankrupt's Estates to all his Creditors.

Master of the Rolls: This is a Case of great Consequence, as it affects Trade in general, and as it tends to frustrate the several Statutes made for the equal Distribution of the Effects of Bankrupts; but still I think that the Assignment by Norcourt to Small the Plaintiff is good, and the Plaintiff is intitled to an Account of this Wine-Trade against the Defendant Oudley.

1st, As to the Matter of Bankruptcy, that is a Term not known to our Common Law, but introduced by several Statutes; the 3 H. 8. cap. 4. which is the first, is very imperfect, the next of the 13 Eliz. cap. 11, is more large, and that Statute since enlarged by several subsequent ones.

Now these Statutes do ascertain what Acts make a Bankruptcy, and there can be no such Thing as an equitable Bankruptcy, it must be a legal one.

No such Thing as an equitable Bankruptcy, but the Bankruptcy must be a legal one.

2<sup>dly</sup>, There may be just Reason for a sinking Trader to give a Preference to one Creditor before another, to one that has been a faithful Friend, and for a just Debt lent to him in Extremity, when the rest of his Debts might be due from him as a Dealer in Trade, wherein his Creditors may have been Gainers; whereas the other may be not only a just Debt, but all that such Creditor has in the World to subsist upon; in this Case (I say) and so circumstanced, the Trader honestly may, nay ought to give the Preference.

There may be Reason for a Bankrupt to prefer one Creditor before another.

Not the Time when the Assignment made material, so as it be before the Bankruptcy, but the Justice of the Debt:

And 3<sup>dly</sup>, In such Case it is not the Time when the Assignment was made by the Trader that is material, provided it be made before the Bankruptcy, but the Justice of the Debt is very material.

No Objection that the Assignment was made by the Trader without Notice to the Party, for this shews it was without the Creditor's Importunity.

4<sup>thly</sup>, What has been objected, that Small the Assignee did not know of this Assignment, seems rather an Advantage to the Assignment, for this shews there was no Fraud, no Importunity used by the Assignee, and oftentimes, upon the Account of mere Importunity, a Trader has, when in Trouble, been prevailed upon to make such Assignment.

When the Thing assigned to the single Creditor by the Bankrupt is a Chose in Action, it is no Objection to such Assignee that he comes into Equity; for he can go no where else.

5<sup>thly</sup>, As to the Creditor the Assignee's coming into Equity, I admit, that every Person who comes into Equity ought to come with an innocent and a just Cause, and the now Plaintiff (for ought appears) does so; however, what distinguishes the present Case in his Favour is, that the Assignment being of a Chose in Action, he could, in the Nature of the Thing, apply no where else for Relief, or to have the Benefit of the Assignment, but in Equity. Secus if it had been a Conveyance of any legal Estate.

Precedents where a Bankrupt just before his Bankruptcy assigned Part of his Estate to some particular Creditors to give them a Preference, and held good.

And as to Precedents, the same was done in the Case of Cock and (a) Goodfellow, where the Assignment was made by Mrs. Cock in Contemplation of her Bankruptcy, and in Trust for her own Children, and as to Part, it was but a Direction to her Trustees to assign her Stock in the Bank, &c. and Lord Macclesfield declared that this was so far from being an Act of Fraud in Mrs. Cock, tho' it was for her own Children, that it seemed to be just and commendable. So in the Case of Jacob and Shepherd, where Shepherd the Trader was just on the Brink of Bankruptcy, and the Deed brought ready ingrossed to him, which he executed a little before his Bankruptcy, and in Contemplation thereof, to give a Preference to some of his Creditors; indeed I doubted of this; but on the Appeal Lord Macclesfield ordered a Trial, to be informed when the Trader became a Bankrupt, and the Execution of the Deed being found to have been before the Bankruptcy, the Decree was in Favour of the Deed.

The like happened in Sir Stephen Evans's Case, who having executed a Deed immediately before his Bankruptcy, and with a View to give a Preference to some of his Creditors, the same prevailed.

So that this having been settled, tho' it may have a mischievous Consequence in preferring some Creditors in Hopes of Favour from them afterwards, yet according to these Precedents, I must decree in the present Case in Favour of the Deed giving a Preference to the Plaintiff.

Note; His Honour said, that if the Assignment had been of all his Goods and Effects, or of all his Estate, or of all his Stock in Trade, as Goldsmith, &c. this had been too general, and would hardly have stood: But here it was not of the Trader's own Trade as Goldsmith, but a small Branch of a different Trade, of a Stock in Wine, the whole not above 300 l. and but two Thirds of that.

But if the Assignment be of the whole Bankrupt's Estate to prefer any Creditor, then it will be void.

Case 138. Marchioness of Annandale versus

Abridgment of Cases in Chan. 87.

A Man having seduced an innocent Woman, and having had a Bastard by her, gives her a Writing obliging himself to pay 2000 l. after his Death for the purchasing an Annuity for the Woman and the Child for their Lives. The Man dies, Equity will compel a Performance of this Agreement.

THE Marquiss of Annandale had unlawful Familiarities with Anne Harris who was before a modest Woman, but the Marquiss seduced her, and had a Child by her; and afterwards by Deed Poll reciting that he the Marquiss had given a Bond to the said Anne Harris for the Payment of 2000 l. to her within a Year after his Death; now by this Deed the Marquiss agreed that this 2000 l. should be laid out in an Annuity for the Use and Benefit of Anne Harris and the Child for their Lives. The Marquiss died, and the Marchioness his Widow administered.

There was (it seems) but one Witness to the Bond; and tho' his Hand-Writing was proved, yet he swearing that he did not see the Bond sealed and delivered, the Plaintiff Anne Harris was nonsuited at Law.

The Marchionefs brought her Bill in Equity to be relieved againſt the Bond and Deed Poll, as gained upon an unlawful and wicked Conſideration; and Anne Harris brought her croſs Bill to be paid the 2000 l. out of the Affets of the Marquiſs.

This Bond could not be proved, and ſo was not produced; but the Deed Poll reciting the Bond, and containing a Covenant that the 2000 l. ſhould be laid out in this Annuity, was proved and read.

It was urged on Behalf of Anne Harris, that the known Diverſity was, where the (a) Woman has before been a common Strumpet, and draws in a young Man to give ſuch Bond or Covenant, in ſuch Caſe Equity will relieve; but where the Man ſeduces a Woman who was before a modeſt Woman, and gives ſuch Bond or Covenant, there the Obligor who has done the Injury, ſtates and aſcertains himſelf the Damages, which are to be the premium pudicitia, and no Relief to be had in Equity.

(a) 1 Vern.

On the other Side it was objected, that ſuppoſing Equity would not relieve againſt ſuch Bond or Covenant, yet it being a Matter of Turpitude, Equity ought not to intermeddle, the Conſequence of which would be, that both Bills ſhould be diſmiſſed, and that this Court ſhould not lend any Aſſiſtance, either on Account of Affets, or otherwiſe in ſuch a Caſe.

But to prove the contrary, the other Side cited the Caſe of Ord verſus Blacket, where Sir William Blacket having ſeduced Mrs. Ord a young Gentlewoman of good Family and Fortune, afterwards ſettled an Annuity on her for Years; but the Eſtate was incumbered, and Mrs. Ord dying, her Adminiſtrator brought a Bill in order to disincumber the Land which was charged with this Annuity, and was relieved accordingly.

A. grants an Annuity to a Woman whom he had seduced, out of his Manor of D. in which A. had no Estate; Equity will make him secure the Annuity out of other Lands.

They also cited the Case of Carew versus Safford decreed in the Exchequer about two Years since, where the Man granted an Annuity to the Woman out of the Manor of D. when in Fact he had no such Manor, upon which that Court decreed him to settle this Annuity on the Woman out of other Lands.

Lord Chancellor : If a Man does mislead an innocent Woman, it is both Reason and Justice he should make her a Reparation; but this Case is stronger in Respect of the innocent Child, whom the Father has occasioned to be brought into the World in this shameful Manner, and for whom in Justice he ought to provide; and tho' the Child be now dead, yet the Case is to be taken as it was when the Bond and Covenant were given, and then the Child was living.

2<sup>dly</sup>, The Recital in the Deed that the Covenantor had given such a Bond, is a sufficient Evidence of there having been such; it is a Confession by the Obligor himself, and stronger than a verbal Confession, it being under his Hand and Seal. Wherefore, if the Court allows this Covenant to stand, it must then be in the same Case as any other Covenant or Bond; consequently it is a Debt, and being so, Equity shall decree it to be paid out of Assets. *

This Decree was affirmed in the House of Lords in March 1728.

The Case was thus: Richard Freeman the Father on his Marriage with his first Wife Elizabeth, one of the Daughters of Sir Anthony Keck, by Articles dated the 19th of February 1693, in Consideration of the Marriage and of 4000 l. Portion, covenanted for himself and his Heirs, with Sir Anthony Keck, that he the said Richard Freeman or his Heirs would, within six Months after Request by Sir Anthony, his Heirs, Executors or Administrators, settle all his Lands in Battsford, &c. in Glocestershire to the Use of himself for Life sans Waste, Remainder to Trustees to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to Elizabeth his then intended Wife for her Jointure and in Bar of Dower, Remainder to the first, &c. Sons of the Marriage in Tail Male successively, Remainder to Trustees for 500 Years to raise Portions for Daughters, if but one Daughter 5000 l. if more 6000 l. payable at Eighteen or Marriage, which should first happen, and to raise Maintenances for such Daughters till their Portions should become payable, 80 l. per Annum if but one Daughter, and ——— per Annum if more than one.

Mr. Freeman covenanted, that these Premises which were but 366 l. per Annum, were 500 l. per Annum excepting Parliamentary Taxes, and gave a Bond in 8000 l. Penalty for the Performance of the Articles.

The Marriage took Effect, of which there was Issue only a Daughter the Plaintiff Mary, and Elizabeth the Wife died soon after the Birth of the Daughter, no Settlement having been made pursuant to the Articles.

The Defendants by Answer set forth the Articles and Bond, and insisted, that thereby the Plaintiff Mary had a Portion of 5000 l. secured to her, and ought not to have any Part of the personal Estate of the Intestate her Father, unless she would bring that into Hotchpot, to the Intent the Estate of all the Children might be made equal.

This Cause having been often argued, was at length decreed by the Lord Chancellor King, with the Assistance of the Lord Chief Justice Raymond, Master of the Rolls, and Mr. Justice Price, who all agreed that this 5000 l. should be brought into Hotchpot.

2dly, Tho' this Settlement is only to be made on Request, and none has been made, yet this cannot prejudice the Party to whom the Portion is due, for the Covenantee is only a Trustee, and the Neglect of such shall not (a) prejudice the Cestui que Trust: Which here is the stronger, forasmuch as the Cestui que Trust was an Infant.

3dly, Supposing there was a Covenant to settle absolutely within six Months, and it were broken, so that Damages might at Law be recovered; nay, tho' there had been a Covenant to pay the Portion, yet the Party to whom the Portion is due, ought to come upon the Land first, and in Case of a Deficiency there, then resort to the personal Estate; for the Articles to settle particular Lands are in Equity a Settlement, and from the Time of making these Articles Mr. Freeman became a Trustee of the Lands, a Trustee for the Trusts in the Articles:

It has been objected, that had there been a Covenant to pay the Portion, this had been like a Mortgage, and the personal Estate should have exonerated the Land.

Resp. This is not like a Mortgage; in the Case of a Mortgage, the Land is only a Pledge for the Money borrowed, but here the original Agreement was, that the Portion should be raised out of that very Land. And for this I would only cite the Case of Coventry and (b) Coventry, where the late Earl of Coventry covenanted on his Intermarriage with the Countess Dowager, that he would, according to the Power given him by his Family Settlement, or otherwise, settle Lands

(b) Ante

Lands of 500 l. per Annum on his then intended Wife. And on a Bill brought by the Countess Dowager, to have this Jointure made good to her,

It was contended, that the Countess ought to resort to the personal Estate, for that here were no particular Lands covenanted to be settled, and the Covenant was to settle Lands of 500 l. per Annum pursuant to the Power, or otherwise; but decreed by the Lord Chancellor Macclesfield, with the Assistance of the Judges, that this Covenant did bind the Land, and that the Words or otherwise were intended in Favour of the Jointress for her further Security, in Case the Power should fail or prove deficient; and if so, they were not to be made use of to her Prejudice.

So that I do not think this is to be considered as a Debt which by lessening the personal Estate would diminish the distributive Shares, for this 5000 l. ought to be made good out of the real Estate contracted to be settled, supposing there is enough left unsettled; but it must be agreed, that the Land actually settled by Mr. Freeman on his second Marriage without Notice, tho' it be a Breach of Trust, yet such second Settlement is good, and must take place against the Articles, no more Lands being liable to the Articles, than are omitted out of the Settlement on the second Marriage.

As to the second Point, whether the 5000 l. Portion thus secured by the Articles to the Plaintiff Mary is to be brought into Hotchpot, before she shall come in for any Part of the personal Estate?

I am of Opinion it ought; the End and Intent of the Statute of Distribution being to make the Provision for all the Children of the Intestate equal, as near as could be estimated; and therefore this 5000 l. ought
to

The Intent of the Statute of Distribution was to make the Provision for all the Children equal, and do what a just and impartial Father ought to do for his Children.

to be collated into the personal Estate. The Design of the Act was to do, what a good and a just Parent ought for all his Children; nor is this Equality to be confined to such Estates as Children claim by voluntary Settlements only, for (generally) Provisions for Children are by Settlements made on Marriage, which alone is a Consideration; and the Statute would be of little Effect, if it were to extend to make a Child bring only that into Hotchpot which such Child took by a voluntary Settlement; Marriage Settlements are most frequent, & ad ea quæ frequentius occurrunt, &c.

(a) Vide Swinb. 165.

A Provision by a Father for a Child by Will not to be brought into Hotchpot, nor a Provision of Land for an Heir.

I admit, that a Provision for a Child by (a) Will (for a Case may happen, that as to Part of the personal Estate the Testator may die Intestate) is not an Advancement to be brought into Hotchpot; neither shall Land given by Will to a younger Child; for a Provision to be brought into Hotchpot must be such as is made by an Act in the Intestate's Life-time and not by Will; any Land Provision to the Heir at Law of the Intestate, however given, is privileged by the Statute of Distribution, and not to be brought into Hotchpot: Thus there are great Variety of Provisions which may be made by Parents for Children; and it could not be expected the Statute of Distribution should enumerate all of them; but as a contingent Provision, when the Contingency has happened, is a Provision, so is it within the Act; also as there are great Variety of Provisions, the Times when they are to take Effect may be various; but yet if such Provisions be to take Effect in a reasonable Time, they shall be within the Act. A Child may be provided for by Land, Freehold or Copyhold, or by a Charge upon either, or by Money, Goods, Stocks in Companies, and those in some Companies pretty precarious. Some Provisions may be payable to the Child when of Age, or upon Marriage, and these Contingencies framed upon infinite Variety, as the several Circumstances of the Parties may require, which rendered it impossible for the Act to mention all of them, and therefore it was proper for the Legislature to make Use of general Words as they have done.

The Statute of Distribution does in the Beginning take Notice, that if a Child (other than the Heir) have a Settlement of Land made on him by the Intestate, this shall be brought into Hotchpot.

Now to think the Statute did extend to Land itself when settled on a younger Child by the Father, and not to a Charge upon Land for such Child, is strange. Suppose it were a Rent out of Land, this would be an Advancement, and why not when a Charge upon Land? But the present Case comes nearer to Land, than if it had been a Charge out of Land; for the Trust of the 500 Years Term being only to raise this 5000*l.* Portion, and the Plaintiff Mary Edwards being the Person who is alone intitled to it, she as to this Purpose is in Effect the Owner of the 500 Years Term.

One settles a Rent out of Lands upon a younger Child, this is an Advancement pro tanto.

The Occasion of making the Statute of Distribution, was to put an End to the long Contest which had been betwixt the Temporal and Spiritual Courts, for when the Spiritual Courts ordered any Distribution, or Bond to be given by the Administrator for that Purpose, the Temporal Courts sent a (a) Prohibition, being of Opinion, that the Administrator had a Right to all, and that the Spiritual Court could not break into that Right; and so this Statute was made in Favour of the Practice of the Spiritual Court, which proceeded to order Distribution as often as the Common Law Courts did not prohibit them, and the Act intended to make the Children's Provision equal, which was agreeable to the Civil Law, where Goods moveable, and immoveable (i. e. Lands) are considered as the same, tho' our Law would never let the Civil Law meddle with Lands. In Swinburne 165. it is said, that if a Father by Deed settle an Annuity on his Child, to commence after his Death, this is an Advancement pro tanto; and by the same Reason, a Reversion settled on a Child, as it may be valued, is an Advancement also. The Provision within the Statute for a Child need not take place in the Father's Life-time, a future Provision is a Bar pro tanto, a Portion assured or secured to a Child, tho' in futuro, is a Provision according to its Value.

A Provision for a Child by a Father, tho' contingent, yet when the Contingency happens, is an Advancement pro tanto.

But it is objected, that this is a contingent Provision, and therefore not an Advancement within the Statute, and being in Contingency, it cannot be collated; for Instance, suppose it were a bare Possibility or what is not Debitum in presenti.

The Right to the distributive Share on the Statute of Distribution vests immediately on the Intestate's Death.

Resp. I do agree, this Contingency did not vest until the Plaintiff Mary came to eighteen, for tho' the Term did arise before, yet no Trust for her Benefit could. But the Statute of Distribution does not appoint any Time when the Distribution shall be made, it mentions indeed when it shall not, viz. not within a Year; and according to the Resolutions, the Right to the distributory Shares vests immediately on the Intestate's Death. The personal Estate of the Intestate may consist of Monies or Debts payable at several future Days, or upon Contingencies, so that it may be impossible to make a Distribution thereof at any certain Time; it may consist of Debts arising upon the like Contingency as is annexed to this Portion, and since those Debts, as they fall in, may be distributed and valued, why may not a contingent Portion be estimated and brought into Hotchpot? But all that Difficulty is over, by the Contingency's tingency's having happened in the present Case, and all Inequality, as to the Provisions for Children, is prevented, which is the Intent of the Act.

Lord Chief Justice Raymond: I agree with the Master of the Rolls, that this 5000*l.* ought to be brought into Hotchpot by the Plaintiff Edwards and his Wife; the Statute of Distribution does not break into any Settlement that has been made by the Father; it only meddles with what is left undisposed of by him, and of that only makes such a Will for the Intestate, as a Father, free from the Partiality of Affections, would himself make; and this I may call a Parliamentary Will.

The Intention of making the Provisions of the Children equal, goes throughout the whole Act; first it gives the two Thirds of the personal Estate (the Mother being allowed her Third) equally among all the Children. But then the Act takes it into Consideration, that there may be some of the Children who have received a Portion or Advancement before, but not so much as to make up their full Share; in that Case such Child so advanced but in Part, shall have so much more out of the Intestate's personal Estate as will suffice to make his Share equal to that of the other Children. The Statute takes nothing away that has been given to any of the Children, however unequal that may have been, how much soever that may exceed the Remainder of the personal Estate left by the Intestate at his Death, the Child may, if he pleases, keep it all; if he be not contented, but would have more, then he must bring into Hotchpot what he has before received; this manifestly seems to be the Intention of the Act, grounded upon the most just Rule of Equity, Equality. There may be many Cases in the Books, where, in regard to beneficial and remedial Laws, the Judges have gone beyond the Words to make the Intent of the Act take place place, as in Plowden 467, &c. Here the Words will bear the Construction which I put upon them, and which is intended by the Act, tho' not drawn with the greatest Correctness.

The Statute of Distribution affects only the personal Estate undisposed of, in order to make the Provision of each Child equal, but takes away nothing that has been given to any Child.

A Provision made for a Child either by a voluntary Settlement, or for a good Consideration, is an Advancement pro tanto.

As to the Settlement made upon the Children, it was objected, 1st, That this Statute extends only to voluntary Settlements, and not to such as are made on Marriage, wherein the Issue are Purchasers; and this is said to be as if an Estate had been sold to the Child, which surely had not been within the Act.

Resp. If the Child pays Money for an Estate, this is not a Settlement upon, but a Sale to the Child; and it cannot be within the Words or Intent of the Act that such Purchase should be brought into Hotchpot. The Words of the Act make no Diversity betwixt a voluntary Settlement and a Marriage Settlement, they mention Settlements in general. The Estate thus settled (tho' on Marriage) upon the Children, may have been purchased by the Father, and lessened that Part of the personal Estate, which would otherwise have gone amongst all the other younger Children. Great Hardships might follow from that Construction which the other Side labour for; as suppose the Father who made this plentiful Provision of 5000 l. for the only Child by the first Marriage, (which in the present Case exceeded the Plaintiff's own Mother's Portion by 1000 l.) should die leaving but 200 l. in such Case it would be very hard the Child, who has already had a Portion of 5000 l. out of the Estate, should yet take away somewhat out of the inconsiderable Portion of 200 l. left for the other Children; it cannot be intended, that if the Intestate had made a Will, he would thereby have ordered any such Thing. Indeed the Parliament intended, that if the Intestate had married any of his Children, given them a Portion adequate to his then Estate, and his Circumstances in the World had afterwards improved, that the Children before advanced should have the Benefit of such Increase.

Object. But this is not a Portion advanced for the Child in the Father's Life-time.

So, tho' the Portion be not paid, yet if secured to the Child in the Father's Life-time, altho' not payable till after the Father's Death.

Resp. That is not required by the Act; if it be secured to the Child in the Life of the Father, it is sufficient; but it is no ways material in what Manner the same is secured. Suppose the Father had covenanted with Trustees to pay his Child 100*l.* a Week after his Death, as the Covenant would have been plainly good, so it had been a Portion within the Act.

But it is objected, that this depends upon a Contingency arising after the Intestate's Death.

Resp. Then I would put the Case a little further: Suppose I covenant to leave a Child 1000*l.* if living a Week after my Death, would this Contingency prevent its being a Portion? prevent its being brought into Hotchpot? Suppose the Contingency were, that if the Child had been living one, two or three Years after the Intestate's Death; surely this had been a Portion, and to be brought into Hotchpot: Suppose it had been a Bond instead of a Covenant, or a Mortgage instead of a Bond, this would have made no Diversity; I grant it could have been no Provision, until the Contingency happened; but it cannot be denied that when the Contingency has happened, it is a Provision. Tho' I agree the Contingency should be so limited, as to arise in a reasonable Time; and here it is so, at Eighteen or Marriage, which is providing the Portion as soon as it can be wanted, with Maintenance in the mean Time. Can the Parent of a Child so provided for with such Certainty intend that no Regard should be had to this Provision in the Distribution of his Estate among his other Children?

I agree any Legacy given to a Child (supposing the Testator dies intestate as to the Surplus of his Estate) shall not be brought into Hotchpot, because this Legacy is not a Provision secured by the Parent in his Lifetime.

Object. Upon the Death of the Intestate the Share of the personal Estate vested (a) in the Children, and consequently the intire Share of the eldest Daughter vested in her, without Regard to the Portion secured by the Settlement, which being contingent must be lost, if the Daughter had died before her Age of Eighteen or Marriage, at which Time the Portion was payable.

Resp. The distributive Share does not in all Events vest in the Issue on the Intestate's Death, because if there be a posthumous Child, such Child shall be let in for its Share, tho' not in esse at the Intestate's Death.

Distributory Share vests on the In-testate's Death, but not so as to exclude a posthumous Child.

Object. If this Contingency is not to be brought into Hotchpot until it happens, what must become of the Distribution in the mean while?

Resp. In this Case, as the Plaintiffs have brought their Bill for the Daughter's distributory Part, and the Defendants by their Answer have put this, which was on a contingent Provision, before the Court and in Issue, I do not see but that the Court may make a Distribution, and order, that if this Contingency should happen, then the Money shall be so distributed, as to make the other Children by the second Marriage equal in their Portions with the Plaintiff the only Daughter by the first Marriage. If an Executor pays a Legacy, on Supposition that there are Assets to pay all the other Legacies, and there happens a Deficiency, the Court will make the Legatee who is paid his full Legacy refund; a fortiori will the Court in the principal Case, when the contingent Portion is not paid, order that only so much of it shall be paid to the first Daughter, as will put her upon an Equality with the rest of the Children.

If an Executor pays a Legacy on a Supposition that there are Assets to pay all other Legacies, and afterwards there is a Deficiency of Assets, the Legatee must refund.

Object. There is no Precedent of such a Decree.

Resp. I believe that is owing to the Equality intended by the Act of Parliament, which was understood to be so plain a Case, that no Body ever thought it worth While to bring it as a Question before the Court; so I am of Opinion this 5000 l. ought to be brought into Hotchpot by the Plaintiff Mary the only Daughter by that Marriage.

Lord Chancellor: Mr. Justice Price, who is hindered by his Indisposition from being present, has signified to me, that he is of the same Opinion with the Master of the Rolls and my Lord Chief Justice, and as I myself am, that this 5000 l. thus secured to the Plaintiff Mary, the only Daughter of Mr. Freeman by the first Marriage, ought to be brought into Hotchpot; and, 2<sup>dly</sup>, That the Lands not included in the Settlement made on Mr. Freeman's second Marriage must stand liable for the raising of this 5000 l. The Statute of Distribution says, one Third shall belong to the Wife, and the other two Thirds to the Intestate's Children, except such Children as shall have been advanced by the Intestate in his Life-time.

The Occasion of making this Statute was, to put an End to the Controversy betwixt the Temporal and and Spiritual Courts. The Ordinary before took Bonds from the Administrator to make Distribution, and those Bonds were at Law adjudged void, and the Administrator intitled to all the personal Estate. Hughes and Hughes, Carter's Rep. 125. 1 Levinz 233. One died intestate leaving a considerable personal Estate, and a Son and a Daughter, the Son administered, and the Daughter contended for a Share in the Spiritual Court, where it was thought an Hardship that the Son should have all, and yet the Daughter was prohibited at Law. However, this Statute of Distribution takes away the Administrator's Pretensions (which he before had made with Success) of retaining the Whole. It is true, that in Case any Child had been advanced by a Freehold, the Spiritual Court would not meddle with that; but the Act of Parliament has therefore gone further than ever the Spiritual Court intended to go, to make this Freehold settled upon a younger Child by the Father, be brought into Hotchpot.

Usual at the Time of making the Statute to make Provisions for Children by Settlement, and therefore this to be taken an Advancement pro tanto.

It is material, that at the Time of making the Statute of Distribution, it was usual to provide for Children by Settlements, and therefore with great Reason such a Provision may be taken to be an Advancement pro tanto; so an Annuity out of Land, or a Charge upon Land is to be brought into Hotchpot by the Children for the very same Reason.

As to the Objection, that this is no voluntary Settlement, I answer, this was voluntary in the Parents, who might have applied all of it for the Benefit of the eldest Son. Indeed, if the Child had been a Purchaser, or Creditor of the Father, it could not be intended, that what was the Child's Purchase or Debt should be brought into Hotchpot.

Object. This is a future and contingent Provision, and to be taken as it was at the Time of the Father's Death.

This I admit; but as future contingent Debts due to the Intestate are within the Clause of the Statute, as to a Distribution, so it is equally reasonable that future contingent Provisions should be construed Advancements pro tanto, as to the Children; but this Contingency must be limited to take Effect within a reasonable Time, as in the present Case where it is payable at 18 or Marriage, with a Provision for Maintenance in the mean Time. If the Father advances for a Daughter in Marriage so much for a Portion, this is a Portion given for a valuable Consideration, Marriage and a Settlement, and for that very Reason an Advancement to the Daughter within the Statute of Distribution. This is an Advancement pro tanto within the Custom of London, upon which (a) Custom the Statute of Distribution was in a good Measure founded; and it can be no Injustice to the Child, because it is left to the Election of the Child thus advanced, whether she will collate or not; if the Child be contented with what she has received, she may keep it. If the Plaintiff the Daughter in the present Case had come before her Age of eighteen demanding her distributory Part, there had been some Difficulty, whereas now there is none, the Contingency being over; but as to the Maintenance Money, 80 l. a Year secured by the Father to the Plaintiff the Daughter, we are of Opinion, this is not to be brought into Hotchpot, no more than what is allowed or secured by the Parent for the Education of the Child.

As contingent Debts are within the Statute, so must contingent Provisions for Children be

Case 141.

*Evans versus Cogan.*Lord Chan-of a House,

A Bill was brought to compel a Conveyance of an House at Bristol pursuant to an Award.

Remainder to her six Daughters in Fee, the Mother and J. S. submit to an Award touching the Title to this House; Arbitrators award that the Mother shall procure the Daughters to join in the Conveyance thereof, the Daughters are married, and one is dead leaving an Infant Heir; J. S. brings a Bill against the Mother and Daughters and their Husbands, and the Daughters examined in a former Cause say, they are willing to convey; they are not bound touching any Title to the Freehold and Inheritance.

The Case was, Thomas Cogan being seised in Fee of an House at Bristol, devised it to his Wife for Life, Remainder to his six Daughters in Fee equally, the Plaintiff stopped up the ancient Lights of the House, by building too near, and the Widow bringing her Action for stopping the Lights, it came on to Trial at the Assizes at Bristol, and all Matters in Difference, as also the Title to the House, were referred to Arbitrators, who awarded that the Plaintiff should pay 15 l. Costs to the Mother, and also 155 l. to the Mother for the Purchase of the House, and that she on Payment thereof should convey the House to the Plaintiff in Fee.

The Plaintiff paid the 15 l. Costs and brought a Bill against the Mother praying that she might convey the House, and procure the Daughters to join in the Conveyance.

Some of the Daughters were examined by the Mother the Defendant in the former Cause, and proved, that it was the Plaintiff's own Fault he had not the Conveyance, for that he had Possession of the House delivered to him, but occasioned the Conveyance to be delayed by being unwilling to part with the Purchase-Money. Soon after the Mother died; whereupon the Plaintiff now brought a new Bill against the Daughters, and against the Husbands of such as were married, in order to compel them to convey, and to procure an Infant Heir of one of the Daughters who was dead, to convey when of Age.

It was much insisted upon, that as to such of the Daughters as had been examined as Witnesses for the Mother in the former Cause, wherein they swore they were willing and ready to join with the Mother in the Conveyance, and the Mother by her Answer swearing she was willing to convey, this was sufficient to shew their Consent to the Award.

On the other Side it was said, that the Award could only bind the Mother, whose Assets the Plaintiff was at full Liberty to follow; but as to the Daughters, tho' they might be willing in their Mother's Life-time to make her easy, and rather than disoblige her, join in the Conveyance, yet now the Mother was dead, what induced them before to join was at an End. Besides four of the Daughters were married Women, and so their Answers could not bind the Inheritance, nor their Husbands; and that one of the Daughters was dead leaving an Infant Heir who could not be bound, neither was he a Party.

Lord Chancellor: If the Daughters had been sole, I should have taken their Answers to be a Consent to the Award, and have decreed them to convey; but all but one of them being under Coverture, and there being an Infant Heir of the deceased Daughter, who is no Party to the Bill, I do not see how the Answers of the married Daughters can bind themselves, as to their Inheritance, much less their Husband's, and it is impossible to bind the Infant Heir. With regard to the only

only Daughter who is a Feme Sole, her undivided Part, if it were decreed to the Plaintiff, would be of no Use to him.

Therefore dismiss the Bill without Cofts, as to such Part thereof as prays a Conveyance. But with respect to the Proceeding against the Executrix of the Mother to be recompenced out of her Affets, tho' the Executrix denies Affets, yet the Plaintiff, if he thinks it worth his while, shall be at Liberty to proceed to be repaired in Damages, for the not performing of the Award.

THE Plaintiff who brought this Bill was a Servant to the Genoese Ambassador, and consequently his Person privileged by the (a) late Act; it was moved that the Plaintiff should not go on in his Bill, until he gave Security by a Bond in 40*l.* Penalty for the Payment of Cofts of Suit, if awarded against him, in the same Manner as where a Plaintiff is beyond Sea; and a Precedent was cited, where the like Order was made in the Case of an Ambassador's Servant, Plaintiff in this Court, dated 25th of July, 8th of the late Queen.

Whereupon the Defendant obtained an Order that the Plaintiff's Proceedings should stay until he with a Surety gave such Bond in 40*l.* Penalty for answering Cofts, if awarded.

Case 143.

Lord Chancellor King.

THE Plaintiff was a Trustee for the Defendant of 1000*l.* South-Sea Stock, and at his Desire in 1720. borrowed of the Company 4000*l.* on a Mortgage of the Stock; the Defendant the Cestui que Trust received the Money borrowed; afterwards the (a) Act of Parliament was made, which provided, that if any of the Borrowers would pay to the Company 10*l.* per Cent' before such a Day, they should be discharged of the rest of the Money borrowed.

per Cent' upon the late Act to be discharged of the Loan; tho' B. forbod the Payment, yet he is liable. (a) 7 Geo. 1. sess. 2. sect. 7.

The Defendant the Cestui que Trust directed the Trustee not to pay the 10*l.* per Cent', alledging that he thought the Borrowers were not obliged to pay to the Company the Money borrowed, but that it was in the Election of the Borrowers to forfeit the Pledge.

There were some Attempts to prove an Agreement by the Plaintiff the Trustee and others to pay the Money borrowed in Compassion to the Defendant the Cestui que Trust, and in regard to the Losses by him sustained, but that Proof was deficient.

The Plaintiff who had thus mortgaged his Stock to the Company, and had permitted the Defendant to receive the Money, paid the 10 l. per Cent', and brought a Bill in Equity to recover it as laid out for the Defendant.

Whereupon for the Defendant it was insisted, that this was an officious Payment made of the 10 l. per Cent' against his express Directions, which (as the Defendant's Counsel objected) was not recoverable at Law; for the Act of Parliament, had the Money been recoverable there, would have given to the Company more than 10 l. per Cent' for the Money borrowed, or at least would have made it compulsory upon the Borrower to have paid this 10 l. per Cent'; and altho' there had been a Verdict at the Suit of the Company against one of the Borrowers, yet that was not against the Defendant: It was Res inter alios acta, and might have been recovered on a faint Defence, and therefore ought not to be any Evidence against the Defendant; quod Cur' concessit.

Then the Case was put, If there were a Trust created for the Payment of Debts without specifying them, and as to one Debt, the Party interested in the Estate charged, should forbid the Trustees to pay it, alledging it to be at least a disputable one, and that he thought it no real or just Debt; if the Trustees should afterwards spontaneously pay this Debt, they ought not to be allowed it: Or supposing this in the principal Case to be a Debt, then as the Plaintiff the Trustee had paid down the Money for the Defendant the Cestui que Trust, it was recoverable at Law in an Action for Money laid out to the Use of the Defendant; and the Plaintiff having a Remedy at Law ought not to come into Equity for the Recovery thereof.

Lord Chancellor : If the Defendant had not only forbid the Payment of this 10*l. per Cent'*, but had also offered Security to indemnify the Trustee in Respect of it, this had been material, had the Plaintiff afterwards paid the 10*l. per Cent'*. But the Plaintiff had good Reason to think, that he was liable to pay the whole Money borrowed. When Money is borrowed it ought to be paid, and tho' a Pledge was given for it, if that proves insufficient, the Borrower ought to be liable. If a Mortgagor borrows Money, tho' there be no (a) Covenant in the Mortgage Deed to pay it, yet his Executor has been decreed to pay the Money in Discharge of the Land descended to the Heir ; but if in the present Case there was only a Hazard, the Trustee ought not to continue liable to such Hazard ; on the contrary, as it is a Rule that the Cestui que Trust ought to save the Trustee harmless, as to all Damages relating to the Trust, so within the Reason of that Rule, where the Plaintiff the Trustee has honestly and fairly, without any Possibility of being a Gainer, laid down Money, by which the Defendant the Cestui que Trust is discharged from being liable for the whole Money lent, or from a plain and great Hazard of being so, the Plaintiff ought to be repaid.

Thomas Addis seised in Fee-simple of some Lands, and possessed of a Lease for twenty-one Years held of the Church of Hereford, of other Lands in D. all in the Possession of A. and B. Tenants thereof at certain Rents, and it being by Reason of the long Unity of Possession very difficult to distinguish the Fee-simple from the Leasehold Premises, made his Will dated 19th of October 1717. and devised all his Messuages, Lands and Tenements in the Parish of D. which he then stood seised or possessed of, or any ways interested in, and which were in the Possession of A. and B. unto his Wife Jane for Life, Remainder to his Brother James Addis and the Heirs of his Body, if then living, (of which the Testator much doubted,) Remainder, if his Brother James were then dead, or should die without Issue, to the Plaintiff John Addis for Life, with a Power to make a Jointure, Remainder to Trustees during the Life of the Plaintiff in Trust to support contingent Remainders, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of the Plaintiff John Addis in Tail Male successively, Remainder to the Testator's Sister Eleanor Bradshaw for Life, with Remainder to her first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder to the Testator's Brother-in-law Thomas Delahay in Fee; and all his Goods and Chattels, Money and personal Estate, after some Legacies thereby given, were bequeathed to his Wife Jane Addis, who was also made Executrix. Soon after the Testator died; the Wife after ten Years of the twenty-one were expired, renewed the Lease with the Church of Hereford for twenty-one Years, for 36*l.* Fine, and a Guinea to the Clerk for the drawing and ingrossing the said Lease; after the Death of the Testator and the Widow, her Executors all along paid the Rent to the Church, tho' the Leasehold together with the Freehold were all enjoyed by the Plaintiff.

The sole Question in this Case was, whether by the Will of Thomas Addis the Leasehold Premises did pass as well as the Freehold to the Plaintiff who was the Remainder-man for Life, or whether they belonged to the Widow and Executrix of the Testator Thomas Addis as Part of his personal Estate?

Against the Plaintiff it was objected, that the Leasehold Premises, especially for so short a Term as twenty-one Years, could never have been intended by the Testator to pass either for Life or in Tail, or to Trustees to preserve contingent Remainders, or that he thought of empowering the Plaintiff the Devisee for Life to make a Jointure thereof; but that here being some Fee-simple Estate which would satisfy the Words, the Leasehold should go to the Executors, and be included in the Devise of the personal Estate to the Wife, the Lease for Years being personal Estate. That the constant Diversity was, where the Testator had only a Lease for Years and made such Will, there, rather than the Will should be void, the Lease should pass, and comply with the Limitations as far as the Nature of the Estate would admit of; but where there was a Fee-simple Estate as well as a Leasehold, there the Will should operate only upon the Fee-simple Estate, and be satisfied with that, as was expressly resolved in Cro. Car. 292. Rose and Bartlet, where a Man having Lands in Fee and Leases for Years, devised all his Lands and Tenements to his Wife for Life, with Remainder over, this only passed the Fee-simple Lands. Now this was pretty near the principal Case; the Devise of all his Lands there, could not be a Devise of more than all, qui omne dat, nihil excipit, and in the present Case the Devise was of all the Lands of which the Testator was seised or possessed, or any ways interested in, which Words could not alter the Case, since they would amount to no more than All, and the Words All that the Testator was in Possession of might pass those Lands which were in his Possession, as these Words which the Testator was any ways interested in must be intended to signify the Land which he was any ways interested in either in Law or Equity, and need not necessarily be intended to pass the Leasehold Estate; besides that such general Words were (in all Probability) put in by the Scrivener without any Instructions from the Testator for that Purpose, who, if he had intended to have passed the Leasehold Premises, and that they should have gone according to these very improper Limitations, would have expressly mentioned this Leasehold in his Will.

2<sup>dly</sup>, As to the long Unity of Possession of the Leasehold Premises with the Fee-simple, it was said to be high Time for the Safety of the Church, that the Leasehold should be now severed and distinguished from the Freehold, and that the longer this Unity continued, the more difficult would it be to distinguish them.

3<sup>dly</sup>, It was argued that the Plaintiff having permitted the Executors of the Wife to pay the Rent for the Leasehold Premises, this was giving Judgment against himself, and owning them (the Executors) to have a Right to the Leasehold, and to be Tenants to the Church.

Lord Chancellor: The Question upon this Will of Thomas Addis, is whether the Leasehold passes with the Freehold?

I must own the Limitations are improper, but then the Words of the Will are very strong, All the Lands which the Testator was seised or possessed of, or any ways interested in; which Words possessed of or interested in properly refer to a Leasehold Estate, and distinguish the present Case from that of Rose versus Bartlet, where the Words possessed of or any ways interested in are not to be found.

And as this Lease for twenty-one Years was held of the Church and always renewable, the Lessee, who was the Testator, might look upon himself, from the Right he had to renew, as having a perpetual Estate therein, a Kind of Inheritance; and therefore the Leasehold Premises ought (I think) to pass by this Will.

Then it was objected, that the Defendant the Executrix of the Widow who had laid down the 36 l. Fine, should have Interest for such Fine.

But the Court denied this, in regard she was to have her Life in the renewed Lease by Virtue of the Will, and tho' she perhaps might not outlive the first Year of the Lease, yet she had her Chance for it; so the Court denied any Interest for the Fine, but allowed the Charges of the Renewal.

And forasmuch as the Lessee had not sealed a Counter-Part of the Lease, which the Church of Hereford had insisted upon, to the End that they might have the Covenant of the Lessee for their Security, for which Reason the Lease remained in a third Person's Hands, and was not delivered over to the Widow and Executrix of the Testator :

The

The Court ordered that the old Lease should be surrendered, and that the Church of Hereford should make a new Lease for the old Term which would be good (it being to commence from a Time past) to the Plaintiff the Devisee of the real Estate; and the Plaintiff to repay to the Executors of the Widow, what had been paid by them to the Church for the Rent grown due after the Widow's Death.

Farewell versus Coker.

MR. Farewell employed one Bower of — in Somersetshire as his Solicitor in a Cause in Chancery, and Bower the Solicitor employed Mr. Walter Edwards as his Clerk in Court.

Mr. Farewell paid Bower at several Times about 800 l. which he alledged was more than was due to him upon his Bill. Mr. Bower died, and his Widow administered to him. Mr. Edwards the Clerk in Chancery's Bill continued unpaid, and he delivered out several Papers, Copies of Depositions, and Orders to other Solicitors for the Use of Farewell in order to an Issue in this Cause.

Mr. Farewell on Petition got an Order to tax Bower's Bill, alledging it was overpaid, upon which Edwards got an Order ex parte from the Master of the Rolls, to stay the taxing of the Bill and all Proceedings till his Bill paid.

On Petition to the Lord Chancellor to set aside that Order, many Things were urged, as that the Clerk in Court was the sworn Clerk, and to be taken Care of by the Court as their Officer; That even at the Hearing of the Cause the Lord Chancellor has stopped the same from proceeding, on the Clerk in Court's insisting to be paid, or secured his Bill; and that it is at the Peril of the Country Client to enquire and stop Money for the Payment of the Clerk in Court, to whom both the Country Solicitor and Country Client are at Stake.

Lord Chancellor: The Client in the Country employs only the Attorney or Solicitor in the Country, and knows nothing of the Clerk in Court, where it is a Cause in Chancery, or of the entering Clerk where it is a Cause at Law; and on the other Hand, the Clerk in Court, or entering Clerk, being (generally) perfect Strangers to the Country Client, give Credit to the Attorney or Solicitor in the Country only; so that if the Country Client pays his Principal, who is the Country Attorney or Solicitor, he is thereby discharged, and must not pay the same Debt twice.

All I can do for the Clerk in Court is, to take no Paper out of his Hands till paid; and if any Thing be remaining due in Mr. Farewell's (the Country Client) Hands, I will stop it, and the same shall be paid to Edwards the Clerk in Court. Also here being some Proofs by Affidavits of Farewell's retaining Edwards to take Care of the Cause, let that be tried in an Action at Law to be brought by Edwards against Farewell.

Lands therewith usually enjoyed, void for Uncertainty, in regard the Tenement may be uninhabited, and the Lands often shifted and let with other Farms.

Cur': This is quite uncertain, the House may fall down, or be uninhabited, and then no Modus will be payable; also nothing can be more uncertain than Lands usually enjoyed with the Tenement, since the Lands let with a Farm-House may probably be often shifted.

2<sup>dly</sup>, Tithes being demanded of Turkies, it was objected that in Moor 599. (Hugton versus Prince) it was said, that Turkies were Things Feræ naturæ and not tithable, any more than Partridges, and that Turkies were not brought hither from beyond Sea before Queen Elizabeth's Time.

Cur': I cannot see but that Turkies are Birds as tame as Hens or other Poultry, and therefore must pay Tithes; it is true, if Tithes be once paid of the Eggs, there can be no Demand made a second Time in respect of the Chicken hatched afterwards.

3<sup>dly</sup>, There was another Demand made by the Bill of the Tithe of a Corn-mill, and it was insisted, that every 10th Toll-Dish was due. 1 Show. 281. Gumble versus Falkingham. Carth. 215.

But it was replied, that this Matter was determined in the Case of (a) Chamberlain versus Kneate in the House of Lords, upon an Appeal from a Decree of the Court of Exchequer, where the Bill was brought for the Tithes of a Malt-mill in Tiverton in Devonshire, and where the Lords determined, with the Assistance of eight Judges (whereof Holt C. J. was one), that Mills were tithable, but that the same was a personal Tithe, and so ought to be paid out of the clear Gain after all Manner of Charges and Expences deducted; upon which Authority the Master of the Rolls decreed the Mill in Question to pay Tithes, but that they should be paid only as a personal Tithe.

Mills are tithable, but they are to pay only a personal Tithe of the clear Gains after all Manner of Charges deducted. (a) In 1706. Abr. Cases in Eq. 366.

Note; In this Case it was said and admitted, that in a Bill brought by a Parson for Tithes, tho' the Right thereto be ever so plain, yet in the Exchequer the Decree is not that the Defendant shall pay Tithes for the future, but that he shall account for and pay what Tithe is due to the Time of bringing the Bill, but in the Court of Chancery it is to the Time of the * Decree. Feme seised of a Copyhold, on Marriage of her Daughter to J. S. surrenders it to the Use of J. S. and his intended Wife and the Heirs of their Bodies, Remainder

A Feme seised of the Reversion in Fee of a Copyhold Estate in Norfolk expectant on her Father's Death, and having agreed to marry her Daughter to B. articulated to pay to B. at the said Marriage 500*l.* and surrender the Copyhold Premises within two Months after her Father's Death to the Use of B. her intended Son-in-law, and his Heirs; upon which Surrender the Father of B. articulated to pay her 500*l.* and by the same Articles covenanted to J. S. in Fee; the Marriage takes Effect; the Husband signs a Writing whereby he owns that the Limitation of the Remainder in Fee to him was a Mistake, and that it was intended to be to the Wife, and accordingly covenants to stand seised of the Remainder in Fee in Trust for the Wife in Fee; this is not a mere voluntary Covenant, and Equity will compel the Performance of it.

venanted to settle certain Freehold Lands of about 80*l.* per Annum, to the Use of his Son and his intended Wife for their Lives, Remainder to the Heirs of their Bodies, Remainder to the Son in Fee, which Settlement the Father accordingly made. The Mother surrendered the Copyhold to the Use of the Husband (the Son-in-law) in Fee, and the Marriage having taken Effect, soon afterwards the Husband and Wife and the Wife's Mother went to an Attorney in the Neighbourhood, and informed him that there had been a Mistake in the Mother's surrendering the Copyhold to the Use of the Husband and his Heirs, for that it was intended to settle the same upon the Husband and Wife and the Heirs of their two Bodies, Remainder to the Heirs of the Wife, and that it was reasonable it should be so settled, it being the Wife's Mother's Inheritance; wherefore they desired the Attorney to rectify this Mistake; but the Husband withal desired it might not be done by way of Surrender, because this might probably come to the Knowledge of the Husband's Father, of whom the Husband was in great Awe, and who was a passionate and severe Man towards him. Upon this the Attorney drew a Deed reciting the former Surrender made by the Mother of these Copyhold Premises to the Use of the Husband in Fee, but taking Notice at the same Time that this was a Mistake, it being intended to be settled on the Husband and Wife and the Heirs of their Bodies, Remainder to the Heirs of the Wife; wherefore the Husband covenanted that he would stand seised of the Copyhold Premises in Trust for himself and his Wife for their Lives, Remainder in Trust to the Heirs of their two Bodies, Remainder in Trust for the Wife and her Heirs, with a Covenant from the Husband to convey the Premises to these Uses.

The Husband had Issue by his Wife a Daughter, and having upon his Admittance to the Copyhold Pre-miffes furrendered them to the Ufe of his Will, was prevailed upon foon after by his Father to make a Will, and thereby devife this Copyhold to his Father and his Heirs.

The Husband died, the Wife and her Daughter brought this Bill againft the Father of the Husband, infifting the Mother was impofed upon by thefe Articles, and the Intention was, that the Copyhold fhould be furrendered to the Ufe of the Husband and Wife in Tail, Remainder to the Wife in Fee; that to rectify this Miftake the Deed of Truft was made, and therefore the Plaintiffs prayed that the Husband's Father, having got the legal Eftate of the Copyhold by his Son's Will, fhould convey it according to the Ufes or Trufts in the Deed of Truft.

Againft which it was urged by the Defendant's Counfel, 1<sup>ft</sup>, That there was no Proof of the Mother's being impofed upon by the Articles, but on the contrary the Mother was to have, and did actually receive from the Father, upon the making this Surrender, 300 l. Confideration; and it was dangerous to admit of Parol Proof, in Contradiction to the plain and exprefs Words of written Articles; quod Cur' conceffit.

2<sup>dly</sup>, That this Deed of Truft was gained unduly by the Mother of the Wife from her Son-in-law the Husband, and being plainly a voluntary Deed ought not to be made good in Equity.

Lord Chancellor took Time till the next Day to confider of it; and the Caufe then coming on, Mr. Solicitor General Talbot infifted on Behalf of the Plaintiffs, that Equity follows the Law in this Cafe; and as at Law tho' a Promise without a Confideration was nudum pactum, and not fueable, yet a Deed or Covenant to pay Money, or to do any Act, having the Solemnity of a Deed, did import a Consideration, and as it was sueable at Law, so was it also in Equity, unless it were to do something vain and unequitable; accordingly in 1 Vern. 428. Beard versus Nuthal, it is said per Cur', that an Agreement, tho' voluntary, yet if under Hand and Seal, ought to be decreed in a Court of Equity; so in the Case of Husband and Pollard, Feb. 1718-19. a Father possessed of a Term for Years held of the Church, and renewable every seven Years, assigned this Lease to his Son in Trust for himself for Life, Remainder in Trust for the Son, his Executors, Administrators and Assigns, and the Father covenanted to renew the Lease every seven Years as long as he should live; the Son died, and the seven Years passed, upon which the Executors of the Son brought a Bill to compel the Father to renew the Lease; and decreed that the Father should at his own Expence renew it, tho' this was a voluntary Covenant, and the Bill had been brought by the Executors, who seemed to be out of the Consideration of Blood, which might have supported the Covenant as to the Son. Likewise the Case of Wiseman ver. Roper, 21 Car. 1. 1 Chan. Rep. 84. where a voluntary Covenant to make a Settlement in the following extraordinary Case was by the Court carried into Execution: A. had married a Wife without his Father's Consent, and the Uncle of A. with an Intent to reconcile him to his Father, and for natural Affection, covenanted, that in Case the Manor of Dale should descend to the Uncle from his Father, then the Uncle would settle it upon himself for Life, with Remainder to his Nephew and his Wife for their Lives, Remainder over; the Manor of Dale did descend to the Uncle, and the Son and his Wife brought a Bill to compel the Uncle to settle this Manor, who was decreed to settle it accordingly, tho' this was a voluntary Covenant; and what occasioned the greater Question, and the Searching into Precedents, was, its being a Covenant to settle a bare Possibility, an Estate before he had it, which the Uncle might never have; but notwithstanding a specific Performance was decreed even of this Covenant.

and

(a) Preced.
475.

On the other Side some Precedents were cited, where in Case either of a voluntary Conveyance or Covenant, Equity would not help a Defect in the one, or decree a specific Execution of the other; and the Case of (a) Fursacre versus Robinson was mentioned, where a Man made a defective Conveyance of a Copyhold to his Bastard Child, with a Covenant for further Assurance; on a Bill brought, and Hearing before the Master of the Rolls, and upon Appeal before Lord Chancellor Comper, both the Master of the Rolls and the Lord Chancellor dismissed the Bill, in Regard it was a mere voluntary Conveyance, tho' every one, even at Common Law, ought to maintain his own natural Child.

Lord Chancellor. I would not enter into the Consideration whether a Court of Equity will assist and make good a voluntary Conveyance, when (possibly) Precedents may be both Ways; but I do not think this is a mere voluntary Conveyance; for when the Husband of the Daughter does by Deed under his Hand and Seal declare, that he intended this Copyhold in Question should have been settled on himself and his Wife, and the Heirs of their two Bodies, with Remainder to the Heirs of the Wife, and to rectify the Mistake that had been made in the Limitation, and in Consideration of natural Love and Affection, the Husband covenants to stand seised of this Copyhold in Trust for himself for Life, then to his Wife for Life, and to the Heirs of their Bodies, Remainder to the Heirs of the Wife; I say, when the Husband under his Hand recites what his Intent was, and that the Conveyance of the

Copyhold

Copyhold in a different Manner was a Mistake, I must take the Husband's Intention to be as he himself recites it; taking this to be so, and that it was a Mistake to make a Conveyance of the Copyhold in a different Manner, then it was but Justice in the Husband to rectify this Mistake, and settle the Copyhold as was at first intended by the Parties.

So the Court decreed the Devisee the Father to settle the Copyhold Premises according to the Limitations of the Trusts in the Deed, to the Husband and Wife for their Lives, Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of the Husband and Wife, Remainder to the Wife in Fee.

Ford versus Flemming.

A. By her Will gave to her Granddaughter Mary Ford 40*l.* out of a Debt due to the Testatrix from J. S. for Rent, she the said Mary Ford allowing her Part of the Charge of recovering the same; and the Testatrix by her Will gave the Residue of the Rent due to her from J. S. to her Grandson William Weedon Ford, he also allowing his Part of what should be expended in the Recovery thereof.

Abr. of Cases in Equity 382. & Ante 164. Crockett versus Crockett.

One by Will gives 100*l.* due to the Testator for Rent from B. and now in B.'s Hands, afterwards the Testator sues B. for this Rent, and recovers it; yet this is no Ademption of the Legacy, for the Testator's suing for it might have been occasioned by his thinking the Debt in Danger.

After the making the Will A. the Testatrix sued for these Arrears of Rent, and received them in her Lifetime.

On a Bill brought by the Granddaughter for this 40*l.* Mr. Ryder on Behalf of the Defendant insisted, that the Diversity taken in this Case had been, if the Debtor who cannot be compelled to keep it, voluntarily rily pays in the Debt, so that it is his own Act, and the Creditor is bound to receive it, this is no Ademption of the Legacy, for it must be the Act of the Testatrix, and not the Act of the Debtor who is a third Person, which is to revoke the Will; but in the present Case, where the Testatrix called in the Debt, nay sued for it, and would not suffer it to continue where it was, this was altering the Condition and State of the Thing bequeathed, and must consequently, as to that be a Revocation of the Will; it was like the Case where one devises Land and afterwards disposes of it, this is a Revocation; nay tho' the Feoffment be to the Use of the Testator and his Heirs, nay even tho' it be to the Use of the Will; and it was observed, that the Will intended this Debt should continue until the Time of the Testatrix's Death, because it was said the Legatees should allow their Proportion of the Charges of recovering it.

To which it was replied, that this Legacy being 40*l.* could not be called a specific Legacy, but only so much Money, and the Debt due for Rent was added in Favour of the Legatee, as a certain Fund for Payment of the Legacy, and what was intended in Favour, and for the Benefit of the Legatee, ought not to be turned to his Disadvantage; and the Case of Orm and Smith, 2 Vern. 681. as also Poulet's Case in Raymond 335. were cited as in Point, where tho' the Debt bequeathed was called in and received by the Testatrix herself in her Life-time, yet it was resolved this did not avoid the Legacy, for that the receiving in the Debt increased the personal Estate, which was to answer the Legacy.

Lord Chancellor took Time till the next Day to consider of this Case, and observed that the Authorities of the Books were, that tho' the Testator called in the Debt, yet it was no Ademption of the Legacy ; and so were the two Cases cited, Poulet's Case in Raymond, and also in Swinb. 452. and that the Reason given why the Testator's calling in the Legacy should not be an Ademption thereof was, because it must be presumed to have proceeded from the Testator's Apprehension the Debt was in Danger (a), and therefore to have been done in Favour of the Legatee, to the Intent he might not lose his Legacy, and what was done out of Kindness to the Legatee, ought not to be interpreted to his Prejudice.

(a) See the Case of Earl of Desmond versus Earl of Suffolk, Vol. I.

His Lordship took Notice, how the same Action had been construed in two such opposite Senses ; however, he held, upon the Authorities aforesaid, that the Testatrix's receiving in the Debt herself, tho' upon her suing for it, was no Ademption of the Legacy.

Decreed by the Master of the Rolls, that B. had but an Estate for Life in the Lands, and so not intitled to the Deeds, but that they were to be brought into Court, and that the Lands to be bought with the Money, were to be settled on B. for his Life only, Remainder to his first, &c. Son. But by the Opinion of Lord Chancellor King, B. was decreed to have an Estate-tail in the Lands devised, and consequently to be intitled to the Deeds relating thereto, tho' as to the Lands to be purchased, that being executory, and in the Power of the Court, B. was to be but Tenant for Life, with Remainder to his first, &c. Son.

Determination of that Estate, to Trustees and their Heirs during the Life of B. to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of B. Remainders over, and died leaving C. Executor.

B. brings his Bill against the Executor to have the 10,000*l.* laid out in Land, and settled in the same Manner, and with the like Limitations as the Land was devised by the Will, by which it was insisted a plain Estate-tail vested in B. and also that C. the Executor should deliver to B. the Writings relating to the Land devised, he being intitled to the Inheritance.

For the Plaintiff it was urged to be an universal Rule, without any Exception, that where Lands are limited to one for Life, with a subsequent Limitation either mediate or immediate, to the Heirs or Heirs Male of his Body, in all those Cases the Tenant for Life has a vested Remainder in (a) Tail in himself, and the Words [Heirs] or [Heirs Male of his Body] are Words of Limitation, and not of Purchase, which Rule was said to hold in all Sorts of Conveyances, as well in Wills as Deeds.

Thus in the Case of King versus Melling, 1 Vent. 225. 2 Levinz 58. where Lands were devised to A. for Life, and after his Decease to the Issue of the Body of A. by a second Wife, and for Want of such Issue to B. in Fee, with Power to A. to make a Jointure on a second Wife, Lord Chief Justice Hale was of Opinion, that this was an Estate-tail in A. and tho' the three other Judges in B. R. were of a contrary Opinion, yet upon Error brought in the Exchequer Chamber, the Judgment in B. R. was reversed, and Judgment there given according to the Opinion of the Chief Justice, which was said to be a much stronger Case than the Case at Bar, in Regard there was in that Case not only an exprefs Estate for Life, with the like Power for the Tenant for Life to make a Jointure, (as in the present Case); but the Remainder was to the Issue of the Body of A. which was construed to give an Estate-tail to A. tho' the same Words in a Deed would not make an Estate-tail. Also the Case of (a) Bale versus Coleman was cited as determined by Lord Harcourt, where Lands were devised to be sold to pay Debts, and after Debts paid, the Trustees were to convey the Residue of the Lands unfold to A. for Life, Remainder to the Heirs Male of his Body; and tho' Lord Comper declared, that this being a Case where the Court was to direct a Conveyance to be made, and therefore Executory in its Nature, it should be construed like Articles, for which Reason his Lordship directed the Conveyance to be made to A. for Life, with Remainder to Trustees to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of A. in Tail Male successively, Remainder to the Daughters in Tail General; yet on a Rehearing before Lord Harcourt, this Decree was reversed, being the Case of a Devise of a Trust of Land which ought to be taken as a Devise of the Land itself; and if this had been such, a Court of Equity must have taken the Words of the Will as they found them, so the Decree ought to be, and his Lordship accordingly did decree, that the Trustees should convey the Estate to A. for Life, with Remainder to the Heirs Male of the Body of A. which made a plain Estate-tail in A. and there was the like Reason that the Conveyance of the Trust directed by the Will should in the present Case follow the Words of the Will. That the Power for B. the Devisee to make a Jointure, was no Indication that only an Estate for Life, and not an Estate-tail was intended to pass, because, tho' Tenant in Tail could make a Jointure, yet he could not do this without destroying the Estate-tail, by levying a Fine and suffering a Recovery;

whereas the Testator's Intention might reasonably be, that B. the intended Tenant in Tail should make a Jointure for his Wife, without cutting off the Intail. That in case of Wills, legal Estates, or any voluntary Conveyance, Equity ought not to interpose or give Assistance one way or other, but leave it to the Law, where B. the Devisee being clearly intitled to an Estate-tail, had consequently a good Claim to the Writings. That the Rule touching Limitations of Estates, where an Estate for Life was given to A. with a mediate or immediate Remainder to the Heirs or Heirs Male of his Body, gave an Estate-tail to A. and that the Word [Heirs] was a technical Word, was very well known and depended upon, insomuch that it would be dangerous to Titles to shake or suffer this Rule to be disputed.

As to the Case of the Money directed to be laid out in Land and settled as above, if it should be thought clear (as it was apprehended to be) that the Word [Heirs] must be taken as a Word of Limitation, and to create an Estate-tail in one Part of the Will, where the Land was devised, it was impossible but that the same Words of the same Man in the same Will must have an uniform Signification, and consequently that B. must have an Estate-tail in the Lands to be purchased with the 10,000*l.* Land and Money to be laid out in Land, being the same.

On the other Side it was said, that as to the Rule laid down, where an Estate is given to one for Life, with Remainder (mediate or immediate) to the Heirs or Heirs Male of his Body, this made an Estate-tail, and the Word [Heirs] was a Word of Limitation and not of Purchase, the same did not extend to the Case of a Will, as appeared from no Case having been cited to that Purpose. The only Rule in Construction of Wills was, that the Intention of the Party ought to take place, however improperly expressed. Now it was impossible by Words to express the Intention plainer than the Testator had done in this Case; and it would be a down-right Violation of his Intention to construe the Estate devised to B. to be an Estate-tail. For 1st, the Estate was devised to B. for his Life expressly. 2<sup>dly</sup>, It was to B. without Impeachment of Waste, which would be vain Words, if B. were to have more than an Estate for Life. 3<sup>dly</sup>, The Estate was devised to Trustees during the Life of B. to preserve contingent Remainders, so that the Testator expressed his Intention, that the Remainders limited to the Issue of B. should be contingent Remainders; and what could be more contradictory to this express and plain Intent, than to say, these Remainders shall not be contingent, but give a vested Estate-tail to B.? As to the Notion, that the Conveyance directed by a Will should be in the Words made Use of in the Will, it was impossible this Rule could universally hold; for suppose the Direction of the Will was, that the Trustee should convey the Lands to A. for Life, Remainder to B. for ever, this in a Deed would not convey a Fee, as it would in a Will, and therefore there was no Necessity the Words in the Conveyance should pursue those in the Will: So if the Words of the Will had directed the Estate to be conveyed to A. for Life, Remainder to the Issue of his Body (he having none at that Time born) this would be an Estate-tail, but in a Deed it would not be so. Again, if the Words in a Will were, that the Conveyance should be to A. and his Heirs Male, this would be an Estate-tail; but put such Words into a Deed, and there, for Want of saying of whose Body the Heir must be, they would give a Fee-simple, quod fuit concessum per Cur'. It was also observed, that if the Words of a Will be dark and doubtful, it would be quite improper for Equity to direct a Conveyance in such Words ; for that would be to decree in a Court of Equity a Suit at Law ; whereas the Office of a Court of Equity is to explain the Words, and put such a Construction upon them, as that a proper legal Conveyance may be made of the Premises ; and therefore it would be absurd to admit the Rule laid down by the other Side to be an universal Rule. The Case of Backhouse versus Wells was cited, which was determined Hill. 12 Annæ, B. R. during the Time that Lord Macclesfield presided there, where the Case was, that A. seized in Fee devised the Premises to B. to hold to him for the Term of his natural Life only, without Impeachment of Waste, and from and after his Decease to the Issue Male of his Body, (if God should bless him with Issue) and to the Heirs Male of such Issue Male, and for Want of such Issue, the Testator limited two Remainders over in the same Words. And it was adjudged that B. took but an Estate for Life, the Estate being given to him for Life only, and there was a Limitation afterwards to the Heirs Male of his Issue, which was a Description of the Person, who was to take the Estate-tail. To which was added, that however with Respect to the Lands devised, the Court might construe B. to have an Estate-tail therein, yet as to the 10,000 l. which was to be laid out in Lands, and to be settled on B. for Life, &c. admitting that the Devise of the legal Estate of the Land devised was out of the Power of a Court of Equity to model and alter, (tho' the plain Intention of the Party were otherwise) yet this Money to be laid out in Lands was executory, plainly in the Power of the Court, and of a Court of Equity too, for which Reason, and where no Rule of Law was to be broken, it was hoped a Purchase would be directed to be made with this Money, and a Settlement decreed in such Manner as that the Meaning of the Party might take Effect.

Master of the Rolls: I have not heard any Case cited, nor do I know of any at present, where Lands being devised to A. for Life, Remainder to the Heirs of his Body, this in Case of a Will has been construed an Estate-tail in A. The Intent of this Will is most plain, but how far consistent with the Rules of Law, and also how far the same Words Heirs of the Body in the same Will may be construed, as to the Devise of Lands, to be Words of Limitation, and yet in the Devise of Lands to be bought, Words of Purchase, I shall consider; but this is a new Case.

Afterwards on the ——— of December following, the Master of the Rolls having taken Time to consider of this Matter, solemnly gave his Opinion, that as to the Devise of the Lands in this Case, an Estate for Life only passed to the Plaintiff B. with Remainder to the Heirs of his Body by Purchase; and therefore the Plaintiff should not have the Writings delivered to him, but these should be brought into Court; and that as to the Money to be laid out in Lands, and to be settled to the same Uses, the Court had most evidently Power over that, which therefore should be settled so as to make the Plaintiff Tenant for Life only, and that his Sons should take in Tail Male successively, &c. according to the Intention of the Testator.

But the Cause coming (a) afterwards upon an Appeal before Lord Chancellor King, his Lordship declared, as to that Part of the Case where the Lands were devised to B. for Life, tho' said to be without Waste, with Remainder to Trustees to support contingent Remainders, Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of B. this Remainder was within the general Rule, and must operate as Words of Limitation, and consequently create a vested Estate-Tail in B. * and that the breaking into this Rule, would occasion the utmost Uncertainty; wherefore the Writings and Title Deeds of this Estate ought to be delivered to B. the Plaintiff: But,

As to the other Point Lord Chancellor declared the Court had a Power over the Money directed by the Will to be invested in Land; that the Diversity was, where the Will passes a legal Estate, and where it is only executory, and the Party must come to this Court, in Order to have the Benefit of the Will; that in the latter Case the Intention should take Place, and not the Rules of Law; so that as to the Lands to be purchased they should not be limited to B. for Life, with Power, &c. Remainder to the Heirs of his Body, but to B. for Life, with Power, &c. Remainder to Trustees during his Life to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to his first and every other Son in Tail Male, Remainder over, &c.

But if I give a Legacy to A. of 100*l.* payable at his Age of twenty-one, and if he dies before, then to B. and A. dies before twenty-one, B. shall have the Legacy presently, and not stay till such Time as A. should have come to twenty-one.

* Tho' this was Lord Chancellor's Opinion, yet the Question as to the Land devised was given up, the Plaintiff having brought a supplemental Bill, whereby it appeared that by his Father's Marriage-Articles he was intitled to an Estate-Tail.

ter the Plaintiff Anne Laundry 150 l. at her Age of twenty-one, and made his Wife the Defendant Rebecca Executrix and residuary Legatee. There was a Clause in the Will, That if any of his Sons and Daughters should die before his, her, or their respective Ages of twenty-one, then the Legacy or Legacies of him, her, or them so dying, should be paid to the Survivors or Survivor of such Children. The Daughter was paid her Legacy of 150 l. having attained her Age, also the Plaintiff Samuel having attained his Age of twenty-one received his Legacy of 230 l. Whitmore Laundry died at the Age of eleven, and now the Plaintiff Samuel Laundry the eldest Son and Anne the Daughter, who had attained their Ages of twenty-one, brought this Bill against the Executrix Rebecca, to have their two Thirds of Whitmore Laundry's 210 l. paid over to them, Edward Laundry the other Son being yet an Infant of about twelve Years old.

For the Defendant it was insisted, that the Plaintiffs came before their Time, forasmuch as they ought to stay for their Share of the deceased Infant's Legacy of 210 l. until the deceased Infant should have come to the Age of twenty-one Years, in case he had lived. For 1st, the Word [then] if any of the Children should die before twenty-one, then the Legacy of him, her or them so dying should go to the Survivors or Survivor, must be intended, in such Case, or if such Fact happened, and was not to be construed in Relation to any Time, or to signify, that on the Death of any of the Children, then at that Time the Legacy was to be paid. 2<sup>dly</sup>, Legatees over, in case any of the first Legatees should die before twenty-one, were only substituted, and could not be in a better Condition than the original Legatees were; consequently, as these could not take till their Ages of twenty-one, by the same Reason they that came in their Places should not take until the original Legatees might (had

(had they lived) have attained that Age. 3<sup>dly</sup>, It was to be presumed the Testator had considered with himself when and at what respective Times his Estate would bear the Payment of these several Legacies, and that he had determined the Legacies to his Children should be paid at their Ages of twenty-one, and in the mean Time the residuary Legatee should have them, and that it was unreasonable the Death of one of the Legatees under the Age of twenty-one should accelerate the Payment, or prejudice the residuary Legatee, who otherwise would certainly have had the Benefit of the Interest, until the deceased Infant should have come to twenty-one.

And of this Opinion was the Lord Chancellor, who pronounced his Decree accordingly.

But on the following Day Mr. Solicitor General mentioning the Matter again, and insisting that it had been determined otherwise, and that the Difference was betwixt the Executor or Administrator of the first Legatee, and the Devisee over; if I give a Legacy to A. payable at his Age of Twenty-one, and he dies before, his Executors or Administrators claiming under such Legatee, and standing in his Place, shall not be intitled to this Legacy until such Time as the Infant Legatee would have attained his Age of twenty-one, if he had lived; and that this had been solemnly determined as well on an Appeal to the House of Lords, 2 Vern. 199. as also by the two Chief Justices and the Master of the Rolls upon an Appeal to the King in Council from a Decree in (a) Antigua.

(a) See the Case of Chester versus Painter, ante 337.

But where I devise a Legacy of 100 l. to an Infant at his Age of twenty-one Years, and if the Infant dies before twenty-one, then to J. S. here J. S. does not claim under the Infant, but the Devise over to him, is as a new substantive Bequest, and is to be paid paid on the Death of the Infant under the Age of twenty-one. Vide 1 Anderson 33. also 2 Vern. 283. Papworth versus Moor exprefs in Point.

Wherefore on these Authorities Lord Chancellor varied the Decree which he had before pronounced, and ordered two Thirds of this 210*l.* to be paid to the two Plaintiffs (the Brother and Sister of the dead Legatee Whitmore Laundry) and gave Interest for their two Thirds from the Death of the said Infant; for tho' it was objected that this being a new Legacy, the Executrix ought to have a Year's Time for the Payment of it, yet the Court held that must be intended to be from the Death of the Testator; whereas in this Case the Testator had been dead several Years.

Note; The Rule in Equity seems by this Resolution to be settled accordingly.

A Purchase pendente lite, tho' without actual Notice, and for a valuable

Sorrell versus Carpenter.

A Bill was brought against the Defendant to have the Benefit of a Decree obtained against one Ligo, for the Recovery of a Leasehold Estate held of the Dean and Chapter of St. Pauls.

Consideration, yet shall be set aside; and tho' in this Case the Rule of Equity be hard, yet it is in Imitation of the Common Law, where in a real Action, if the Defendant aliens pending the Writ, the Judgment will over-reach the Alienation: But as it is hard enough in some Cases to make People take Notice of a Decree, it is harder still to oblige them to take Notice of a Pendency of a Suit; and in Case of a real Purchase pendente lite, the Plaintiff is to be held to strict Proof. And if any Flaw at the Hearing be on the Plaintiff's Side, the Court will not let him amend; but if the Purchase pendente lite be fraudulent, and to elude the Justice of the Court, it ought to be highly discountenanced.

The Defendant was a Purchaser of this Estate pendente lite from the Defendant Ligo, viz. about three Months after such Time as the Bill was filed against the said Ligo, and Subpœna's served upon him, and he in Contempt for not answering; but it was proved in the Cause that the Defendant was a Purchaser for the full Value, and without any Notice of the Plaintiff's Title, or any actual Notice of the Suit.

However it was objected by the Solicitor General, That a Purchase made pendente lite was to be looked upon as made under an implied and constructive Notice, and unless Regard should be paid to this, all the Decrees and the Justice of the Court might be wholly evaded, evaded, since the Defendant pending the Suit might alien to one, who after the Bill should be thereupon amended might alien again, by which Means Suits and Decrees in this Court would be rendered vain.

Lord Chancellor: Where there is a Conveyance made pendente lite, without any valuable Consideration, and to avoid and elude a Decree, it ought to be highly discountenanced, and even tho' the Alienation be for never so good a Consideration, yet if made pendente lite, the Purchase is to be set aside; and this in Imitation of the Proceedings in a real Action at Common Law, where, if the Defendant aliens after the Pendency of the Writ, the Judgment in the real Action will over-reach such Alienation. But where there is a real and fair Purchaser without any Notice, it is a very hard Case, especially in a Court of Equity, to set such Purchase aside; and there being some Defect in Part of the Proof in deraigning the Plaintiff's Title, I shall refuse to give the Plaintiff Leave to amend or make any new Proof after Publication.

Also his Lordship said, it was a difficult Matter to search for Bills in Equity, or to be able to get Notice of them, many of such being, after filing, kept in the Six Clerks Desk, and tho' this Court will oblige all to take Notice of its Decrees as much as of Judgments, yet there does not seem to be the same Reason for obliging People to take Notice of the filing of a Bill.

Cur': Dismiss the Bill, but in regard it is only a Slip in Proof, let it be without Costs.

Case 154.

Lord Chancellor King and Master of the Rolls.John Brome Esq; and Elizabeth his Wife } Plaintiffs;Henry Berkley Esq; George Berkley Esq; and Henry Cole Esq; } Defendants.

Upon a Marriage Settlement Lands are limited to the Use of the Husband and Wife for their Lives, Remainder to their first and every other Son in Tail, and in Default of Issue Male of the Marriage, to Trustees in Trust to raise 2500 l. for Daughters payable at twenty-one or Marriage, which shall first happen, and out of the Profits to pay 100 l. per Annum for Maintenance; the first Payment of the Maintenance to commence after the Estate of the Trustees shall have come into Possession; Husband dies without Issue Male, leaving a Daughter, and a Wife who is jointured in the Premises; the Portion shall not be raised in the Mother's Life-time, because the Maintenance, which is naturally to precede the Portion, is not to be paid till the Trustees are in Possession.

BY a Marriage Settlement dated 29 February 1689. Lands were settled on George Berkley for Life without Waste, Remainder to Trustees during his Life to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to his intended Wife for her Jointure, Remainder to their first and every other Son in Tail general successively, Remainder to the Use of the Trustees and their Heirs, in Trust that if the said George Berkley should have no Son by the Marriage, or if having Sons, they should all die before twenty-one, without Issue, then the Trustees should out of the Rents and Profits of the Premises, or by Sale, or Leasing, or otherwise raise for the Daughters of this Marriage, if but one, 2500*l.* payable at twenty-one or Marriage, which should first happen, and should also raise and pay the yearly Sum of 100*l.* by half-yearly Payments for her Maintenance and Education, until her said Portion should be due, the first Payment of the Maintenance-Money to be made at such of the said half-yearly Feasts as should next happen after the said Estate so limited to the Trustees as aforesaid should take Effect in Possession, together with farther Provisions that if there should be more Daughters than one, particularly if more than three, then the Trustees, &c. should stand seised of the Premises for the Benefit of all and every of the Daughters, to be divided amongst them equally as Tenants in common, and of their respective Heirs and Assigns for ever.

The Husband died having left no Issue Male by the Marriage, and but one Daughter, who being twenty-one, brought this Bill in the Life-time of her Mother (who had her Jointure on the Premises) against the Trustees for the raising of this Portion by Sale or Mortgage of their reversionary Trust-Estate, and also with Interest from the Time the same became payable; insisting,

1st, That the Words of the Settlement were plain and positive as to this Particular of raising the Portion of 2500*l.* in Case of Failure of Issue Male of the Marriage, for an only Daughter, which was to be paid to her at the Age of twenty-one or Marriage, without restraining it from being done till after the Death of the Mother. 2<sup>dly</sup>, For that it was highly reasonable this Provision in the Settlement should have a favourable Construction, because the Plaintiff Elizabeth (who was the only Issue of the Marriage) claimed as a Purchafer for a valuable Consideration, the Consideration of Marriage, and a Portion paid; whereas the Defendants claimed only under a voluntary Disposition, and subject to the Portion. 3<sup>dly</sup>; Forasmuch as, had there been more than three Daughters, the whole Reversion in Fee of the Premises would have vested in those Daughters to be at their Disposal, in which Case if the Plaintiff Elizabeth had had three Sisters, she would have had the fourth Part of the Reversion in her immediate Disposal, tho' in her Mother's Life-time; whereas tho' she was now the sole Issue of the Marriage, yet unless she succeeded in this Suit, she could have no Provision during her Mother's Life.

(b) Vol. I.

Master of the Rolls: This Portion ought not to be raised until the Jointress's Death; I admit that if a reversionary Term or Estate be limited to Trustees to raise Portions at a certain Time, when that Time comes the Portion must be raised, unless in the Declaration of the Trust of the Term the Intention of the Parties appears to the contrary. Thus in the Case of Sandys versus Sandys (b) there was a Term created for Portions, which was to commence in Possession after the Death of the Father and Mother, but the Portions being payable at a certain Time, at the Daughters Ages of twenty-one or Marriage (if after fourteen) and nothing appearing in the Trust of the Term, which shewed it to be the Intent of the Parties that the Portion should not be raised out of the reversionary Term, the Portion was decreed (tho' reluctante curiâ) to be raised in the Father's Life-time. In the Case of (c) Corbet versus Maidwell, where all the Cases of this Nature which had been then adjudged were cited, Lord Comper took Notice, that if those of Gerrard versus Gerrard, Staniforth versus Staniforth, and Greaves versus Maddison had come before him for Judgment, he should hardly have gone so far; and indeed the Case of * Greaves versus Maddison has not been warranted by any before or since. But this Case is quite open, even as much as if no Resolution had ever been in Relation to the Matter now in Question. Here all the Contingencies have not happened; since the Estates for Life must all determine before the Portion can or ought to be raised. And greater Inconveniencies would arise to Families by the Sale of these reversionary Estates or Terms, than can possibly be occasioned by the Daughters staying for their Portions; by such Sales or Mortgages of Reversions, Families are often ruined, and the Daughters also themselves undone by improvident Marriages; and tho' Inconveniencies ought not to weigh where the Words are plain and positive, yet if Arguments from the Convenience of Daughters being paid their Portions out of reversionary Estates at a Time when they may most want them, have hitherto had too great a Weight (as I think they have) it is Time to put an End to them.

I agree, the Intention as to the Manner of raising the Portion ought to prevail, and here such Intention is plain; for in this Case the Maintenance for the Daughter is not to be paid until the Trust-Estate comes into Possession, and the Payment of the Maintenance must be intended to (a) precede the Payment of the Portion; the Maintenance must determine when the Portion becomes payable; and this is the plainest Indication imaginable, that the Parties intended the Portions should not be paid until the Trust-Estate came into into Possession, which makes this Case full as strong as that of Butler versus Duncombe (b).

Lord Chancellor: I am of the same Opinion: All Mens Deeds are to be taken according to their Intention, and where the Words are plain, the Conveniencies and Inconveniencies which may ensue from thence are not to be regarded. It seems to me, that the Court has gone rather too far in Sales of Reversions for raising Portions for Daughters, even against the Intention of Settlements, and tho' I would not undo what has been done, yet most certainly I will go no farther; and I take it, that the Case now before the Court stands clear of all the former Resolutions. Here the Maintenance for the Daughters is to be raised out of the Rents and Profits, after such Time as the Trust-Estate chargeable with the Portion is come into Possession; and it is absurd to say, that the Portion shall be raised first, and the Maintenance-Money paid afterwards. Besides, the Argument which has in some Cases been allowed too much Weight, that the Portion ought to be raised to advance the Daughter in Marriage, cannot be used here; the Plaintiff Elizabeth having been married many Years ago, and having a considerable Provision over and above what is now contended for.

Wherefore the Bill, which she has now brought for her Portion in her Mother the Jointress's Life-time, comes too soon, and ought to be dismissed.

This Decree was affirmed by the Lords on an Appeal in the March following.

ONE devised the Residue of his personal Estate to six Persons, to each of them a sixth Part, and made them Executors, but one of these six Executors and residuary Legatees died in the Life-time of the Testator.

See the Case of Blackwell versus Day, Vol. I.

One devises the Surplus of his personal estate to six Persons, to each a sixth Part, one of them dies in the Life of the Testator; this sixth Part shall be taken as undisposed of by the Will, and go to the Testator's next of Kin.

Lord Chancellor: This is a lapsed Legacy as to one Sixth, and undisposed of by the Will, the residuary Legatees being Tenants in common and not Jointenants; and therefore the Legacy shall not survive, but go to the Testator's next of Kin, according to the Statute of Distribution.

Note; This Case in August 29. 1734. was cited before Lord Talbot, who said that it was plainly right, for that none of the other residuary Legatees could have any more than a sixth Part each, so that the sixth Part of the residuary Legatee who died in the Life of the Testator, must go as undisposed of to the next of Kin; but if any Legatee, where there is a joint Devise, dies in the Life of the Testator, it shall go to the surviving Legatees, which could not be in the present Case, forasmuch as each residuary Legatee was to have no more than one sixth Part.

THE Husband by Virtue of a Settlement made upon him by an Ancestor, was Tenant for Life, Vol. II. 6 I with his Wife by Deed; he does it by Will, and she has no other Provision; Equity will make this good.

with Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male, with a Power to the Husband to make a Jointure on his Wife by Deed under his Hand and Seal.

The Husband having a Wife, for whom he had made no Provision, and being in the Isle of Man, by his last Will under his Hand and Seal, devised Part of his Lands within his Power to his Wife for her Life.

Object. This Conveyance being by a Will is not warranted by the Power which directs that it should be by Deed, and a Will is a voluntary Conveyance, and therefore not to be aided in a Court of Equity.

Equity will supply the Want of a Surrender of a Copyhold, in Case it be devised for Payment of Debts, or for a Wife, or for younger Children; so also will it help a defective Execution of a Power: See of a Non-execution.

Master of the Rolls: This is a Provision for a Wife who had none before, and within the same Reason as a Provision for a Child not before provided for; and as a Court of Equity would, had this been the Case of a Copyhold devised, have supplied the Want of a Surrender, so where there is a defective Execution of the Power, be it either for Payment of Debts or Provision for a Wife, or Children unprovided for, I shall equally supply any Defect of this Nature: The Difference is betwixt a Non-execution and a defective Execution of a Power; the latter will always be aided in Equity under the Circumstances mentioned, it being the Duty of every Man to pay his Debts, and a Husband or Father to provide for his Wife or Child. But this Court will not help the Non-execution of a Power, since it is against the Nature of a Power, which is left to the free Will and Election of the Party whether to execute or not, for which Reason Equity will not say he shall execute it, or do that for him which he does not think fit to do himself.

And in this Case, the legal Estate being in Trustees, they were decreed to convey an Estate to the Widow for Life in the Lands devised to her by her Husband's Will.

And the Master of the Rolls on considering the Cases and Precedents, held

Master of the Rolls.

1st, That if a third Mortgagee buys in the first Mortgage, tho' it be pendente lite, pending a Bill brought by the second Mortgagee to redeem the first, yet the third Mortgagee having obtained the first Mortgage, and got the Law on his Side, and equal Equity, he shall thereby squeeze out the second Mortgage; and this the Lord Chief Justice Hale called a Plank gained by the third Mortgagee, or Tabula in naufragio, which Construction is in Favour of a Purchaser, every Mortgagee being such pro tanto.

Third Mortgagee buys in the first, tho' pending a Bill brought by the second Mortgagee to redeem the first, yet the third Mortgagee shall tack the first Mortgage to his third Mortgage.

2<sup>dly</sup>, If a Judgment Creditor, or Creditor by Statute or Recognizance, buys in the first Mortgage, he shall not tack or unite this to his Judgment &c. and thereby gain a Preference; for one cannot call a Judgment &c. Creditor, a Purchaser, nor has such Creditor any Right to the Land; he has neither jus in re, nor ment, &c. because he did not lend his Money on the Credit of the Land, has no present Right therein, nor can be called a Purchaser.

If a Creditor by Judgment, Statute, or Recognizance buys in the first Mortgage, he shall not tack it to his Judgment

nor ad rem, and therefore, tho' he releases all his Right to the Land he may extend it afterwards. All that he has by the Judgment is a Lien upon the Land, but non constat whether he ever will make Use thereof; for he may recover the Debt out of the Goods of the Cognizor by Fieri facias, or may take the Body, and then during the Defendant's Life he can have no other Execution; besides, the Judgment Creditor does not lend his Money upon the immediate View or Contemplation of the Cognizor's real Estate, for the Land afterwards purchased may be extended on the Judgment, nor is he deceived or defrauded, tho' the Cognizor of the Judgment had before made twenty Mortgages of all his real Estate, whereas a Mortgagee is defrauded or deceived if the Mortgagor before that Time mortgaged his Land to another; and 'tis such a Fraud as the (a) Parliament takes Notice of, and punishes by foreclosing such Mortgagor who mortgages his Land a second Time, without giving Notice of the first Mortgage, and in that Respect this Case differs from a puiſne Mortgagee's buying in the first Mortgage.

(a) See 4 &
c. 16.

3dly, Tho' the Rule of Equity has been so settled, it is not however without great Appearance of Hardship; for still it seems reasonable that each Mortgagee should be paid according to his Priority, and hard to leave a second Mortgagee without Remedy, who might know when he lent his Money, that the Land was of sufficient Value to pay the first Mortgage, and also his own; to be defeated of a just Debt, by a Matter inter alios acta, a Contrivance betwixt the first Mortgagee and the third, is great Severity; but this has been settled upon solemn Debate in a Case in 2 Vent. 337. Marsh versus Lee, wherein that great Man Sir Matthew Hale (then Chief Baron) was called by the Lord Chancellor to his Assistance; though
this

this be settled, there can be no Reason to carry it farther, to a Case not within the same Reason, to a Case where the Lender of the Money does not advance it upon the immediate Credit of the Land; no Precedents go so far, being all of them where a puisne Mortgagee buys in a first Mortgage, not where a puisne Creditor by Judgment, Statute, or Recognizance does so, as appears from the Case cited of Marsh versus Lee, reported also in 1 Chan. Cases 162. So in 1 Chan. Cases 149. Higgon & al' versus Syddal, Callamy & al', where Syddal leased in Fee of Land, granted a Rent-Charge of 300 l. per Annum for 2000 l. to the Plaintiff, and afterwards mortgaged the Premises for 1200 l. to Callamy, who bought in a Judgment precedent to the Grant of the Rent-Charge, there the Mortgagee of the Land having no Notice of the Rent-Charge, when he lent his Money upon the Mortgage, the Grantee of the Rent-Charge was decreed to have no Remedy in Equity against the Judgment, unless he would pay both the Mortgage and the Judgment; tho' it is to be observed in that Case, the Judgment Creditor, who was the first Incumbrancer, could at Law extend but a Moiety, and out of the remaining Moiety the Grantee of the Rent-Charge might distrain for the whole Rent; but it seems, that if the first Incumbrance had been a Statute-Staple, and the third Mortgagee had bought it in, he should have had the whole Land, until at Law the Cognizor of the Statute by a Scire facias ad computandum had got the Statute vacated, and that could only be on Payment of the Penalty; for Equity would not in such Case have given any Assistance against a third Mortgagee without Notice, until he was paid his Mortgage as well as Statute. So note a Diversity where a third Mortgagee buys in a Statute which is the first Incumbrance, and where a Statute Creditor, &c. being the third

Incum-

If a puisne Mortgagee buys in a Judgment or Statute, being the first Incumbrance, he shall hold till by Law he can be evicted

Incumbrancer buys in the first Mortgage; in the latter Case the Statute or Judgment Creditor, because he did not lend his Money on the Credit of the Land, shall not unite the first Mortgage to his Statute or Judgment; but in the former, as the Land was in the View and Contemplation of the Lender, he shall be allowed to unite the Statute to his third Mortgage. So in 1 Vern. 187. Edmunds versus Povey, there was a first, second and third Mortgage without Notice, and the third Mortgagee bought in a Judgment prior indeed to all, but it was satisfied, and the first Mortgagee bringing his Bill to be relieved against this Judgment, Lord Keeper North would not allow it to be so much as debated, but took it to be settled in the above cited Case of Marsh versus Lee, and not then to be disputed; tho' his Lordship admitted that it was at first a very disputable Case, and very strong Arguments and Reasons had been urged on the other Side.

The first Mortgagee lends a further Sum to the Mortgagor upon a Statute or Judgment, he shall retain against mesne Mortgagees till the Statute or Judgment is paid.

4thly, If a first Mortgagee lends a further Sum to the Mortgagor upon a Statute or Judgment, he shall retain against a mesne Mortgagee, till both the Mortgage, and Statute, or Judgment be paid; because it is to be presumed that he lent his Money upon the Statute or Judgment, as knowing he had Hold of the Land by the Mortgage, and in Confidence ventured a farther Sum on a Security, which, tho' it past no present Interest in the Land, yet must be admitted to be a Lien thereon.

If a puisne Mortgagee buys in a prior Judgment extended on an Elegit at an Undervalue, he shall hold the Extent till evicted at Law.

5thly, If a puisne Mortgagee without Notice buys in a prior Judgment or Statute, and that Judgment, &c. be extended upon an Elegit at a Value much under the real, the mesne Mortgagee shall not make the puisne Mortgagee, who has got in this Judgment, account otherwise, or for more than the extended Value; nor will will this Court give any Relief against the Judgment or Statute, but leave the mesne Mortgagee to get rid of them as well as he can at Law.

But, 6thly, his Honour said, In all these Cases it must be intended, that the puisne Mortgagee, when he lent his Money, had no Notice of the second Mortgage, Statute or Judgment, for that was the sole Equity; and therefore in the principal Case where the Creditor by Recognizance who bought in the first Mortgage, did not in his Answer deny Notice, tho' such Notice was not charged in the Bill (which was here brought by some puisne Incumbrancers for a Sale, and upon Bill and Answers first a Decree to state the several Incumbrances, then a Report, and thereupon a farther Decree was obtained for the Master to state the Value of the Land mortgaged to each of the Mortgagees) yet after all these Proceedings for a puisne Judgment &c. Creditor, to insist upon his having had no Notice, and offering to be examined upon Interrogatories was not sufficient; but this denying of Notice ought to appear on the Pleadings, whereupon the Parties might go to Issue, and have an Opportunity of proving Notice; and therefore tho' it were true that a puisne Judgment Creditor buying in a first Mortgage, should in such Case unite it to the Judgment, (which was clearly otherwise) yet here the puisne Judgment Creditor came too late, it being a Case not to be favoured, and in a Cause very much intangled, which, if such Indulgencies were to be given to the puisne Judgment Creditor, would never have an End.

But in all these Cases there must not be Notice of the mesne Incumbrance when the Money is lent.

7thly, In this Case it appeared that a puisne Incumbrancer bought in a prior Mortgage, in order to unite the same to the puisne Incumbrance, but it being proved

If a puisne Incumbrancer buys in a prior Mortgage, and the legal Title be

that in a Trustee, or in any third Person, then the buying in such first Mortgage will not avail, but in all such Cases where the legal Estate is standing out the Incumbrances must be paid according to their Priority.

that there was a Mortgage prior to that, the Court clearly held that the puisne Incumbrancer, where he had not got the legal Estate, or where the legal Estate was vested in a Trustee, could there make no Advantage of his Mortgage; but in all Cases where the legal Estate is standing out, the several Incumbrances must be paid according to their Priority in Point of Time; Qui prior est in tempore, potior est in jure.

Case 158.

Coppin versus —.

THE Plaintiff and his Wife brought their Bill to redeem a Mortgage of the Wife's Estate; the Defendant put in a Plea to the Bill, which was over-ruled, for which 5 l. Cofts is of Course given to the Plaintiff; the Defendant brought a cross Bill to foreclose the Wife, who being the surviving Plaintiff in the original Cause, moved the Court that Proceedings should stay in the cross Cause, until the Plaintiff, who was Defendant in the original Cause, had paid the 5 l. Cofts due upon over-ruling the Plea.

are 5 l. Baron dies, the Feme by Survivorship shall have the Cofts.

Object. These Cofts must be intended to have been laid out by the Husband in the original Cause, and consequently upon his Death the same were lost.

On the other Side it was insisted, that this original Suit was in Right of the Wife, who being intitled to the Equity of Redemption, the Husband joined therein only for Conformity; that the Suit was not abated by the Death of the Husband, the Order for Cofts being in Nature of a joint Judgment which must survive to the Wife; and the Sum for Coſts was certain by the Courſe of the Court, tho' not expreſſed in the Order.

Lord Chancellor for ſome Time doubted, and asked the Register; but afterwards taking it to be as a joint Judgment for a Sum certain, determined that it did ſurvive to the Wife; and they who oppoſed the Motion, ſaying that a Bond given to the Husband and Wife during the Coverture, on the Husband's dying firſt, did not ſurvive to the Wife: Lord Chancellor denied this, & rectè, for (a) clearly it does ſurvive to the Wife, as all other joint Chofes in Action do; tho' it is true in this Caſe the Husband may diſagree to the Wife's Right to it, and bring the Action on the Bond in his own Name only; but till ſuch Diſagreement, the Right to the Bond is in both the Husband and the Wife, and ſhall ſurvive.

Bond given to a Baron and Feme during the Coverture, Baron dies, the Bond will ſurvive to the Wife.

Whereupon it was ordered that Proceedings ſhould ſtay in the croſs Cauſe until the Defendant in the original Cauſe, ſhould pay the 5*l.* Coſts for over-ruling his Plea.

came a Bankrupt; and it was objected, that in Lord (a) Comper's Time it had been ordered, in Case of a Bond given on so valuable a Consideration, that the Money computed upon the Distribution to be the Share of the Obligee in this Bond, should be put out at Interest, and the Creditors to have such Interest during the Life of the Husband the Bankrupt, and if the Husband should die, living the Wife, the Money to be paid to the Wife; but if the Wife should die in the Life-time of her Husband, then the Money to be paid to the Creditors.

(b) On a Petition ex parte Bayly, in Hill. Vac. 1720.

On the other Hand Lord (b) Macclesfield was said to have doubted of this; wherefore these Cases coming now in Question before the present Chancellor, his Lordship ordered the Precedents made in Lord Comper's Time to be left with him; and accordingly one or two of those Precedents were left with him.

But his Lordship was of another Opinion, conceiving that no Part of the Bankrupt's Estate should wait or be deferred from being distributed, the Act ordering that the Bankrupt's Estate should be distributed within ——— Months; especially that the Distribution should not wait, as in the present Case, for a Debt which was neither debitum in presenti, and never might be debitum in futuro, in Regard the Wife might die in the Life of the Husband; besides the Husband, after his Certificate allowed, might go to his Trade again, and become a solvent Person, able to pay off his Bond, and therefore in all these Cases, the Court resolved, that the contingent Creditor should not come in for a Distribution, neither should the Money be reserved in Favour of such Contingency; but his Lordship declared,

That tho' the Debt were contingent when the Obligor became a Bankrupt, yet if the Contingency happened before the Distribution made, then such contingent Creditor should come in for his Debt; so if such Contingency happened before the second Dividend made, the Creditor should come in for his Proportion thereof, tho' after the first Dividend.

2<sup>dly</sup>, One of these Cases was of a Bottomry Bond, and the Obligor thereof became a Bankrupt before the Return of the Ship, and the Ship did not return before the Distribution made; whereupon it was held, that such Obligee should have no Benefit of the Distribution upon the Commission: And

Whereas it was objected, That this Bond would be barred after the Bankrupt's Certificate allowed, which could not be, unless it were to be looked upon as then due:

Also such contingent Creditor shall not be barred by the Allowance of the then accrued.

Per Cur': This cannot be, if the Obligee is careful in declaring upon his Bond; indeed if the Party declares upon the Bond only, he shall be barred: Secus, if he sets forth as well the Condition as the Bond in the Declaration, for then it must appear that the Cause of Action did not accrue at the Time of the Obligor's becoming a Bankrupt.

But note the cautious Way of declaring in such Case.

Case 160.

Ex parte Cook.Lord Chancellor King.

Two joint Traders becoming Bankrupts, first there is a joint Commission taken out and Commissioners assign, afterwards separate Commissions and Assignments made under them; the Court held, that the Assignment of the Commissioners under the first Commission conveyed away all the Bankrupts Estate both joint and several, and consequently that the Conveyance under the separate Commission was void.

TWO joint Traders became Bankrupt, and a joint Commission of Bankruptcy is taken out against them, upon which the Commissioners make an Assignment of the real and personal Estate of the two Bankrupts, or either of them; afterwards the separate Creditors take out separate Commissions against these two Bankrupts, and the Commissioners on the separate Commission assign over the separate Effects and Estate to other Assignees; and now the Assignees under the separate Commissions, applied by Petition to the Court, that they might be at Liberty to sue at Law for the separate Estate.

Lord Chancellor: It seems to me, that the Assignment made by the Commissioners upon the joint Commission, passes as well the separate as the joint Estate of the two Partners the Bankrupts, consequently the Assignees on the separate Commissions can make nothing of their Action at Law, and I will not suffer them to spend and waste the Estate in vexatious Suits there; but if they will join in a Bill in Equity for an Account of the separate Estate, I will not hinder them.

'Tis a Resolution of Convenience, that

It is (a) settled, and is a Resolution of Convenience, that the joint Creditors shall be first paid out of the Partnership or joint Estate, and the separate Creditors out of the separate Estate of each Partner, and if there be in case of joint Traders becoming Bankrupts, the joint Creditors shall be first paid out of the Partnership Effects, and the separate Creditors out of the separate Effects. And if any Surplus of the Partnership Effects, after all the Partnership Debts paid, the separate Creditors to come in, and so vice versa the Partnership Creditors to come in on a Surplus of the separate Estate.

be a Surplus of the joint Estate, besides what will pay the joint Creditors, the same shall be applied to pay the separate Creditors, and if there be on the other Hand a Surplus of the separate Estate, beyond what will satisfy the separate Creditors, it shall go to supply any Deficiency that may remain as to the joint Creditors. But in this Case, for the Ease of both Parties, let it be referred to a Commissioner in each of these Commissions, to take an Account of the whole Partnership Effects, and also of the separate Effects and Estates of each of the Partners; and if the Commissioners find any Thing difficult, they are to be at Liberty to state it specially; and with Regard to the Surplus of the Partnership Effects, beyond what will pay the Partnership Debts, and also touching the Surplus of the separate Effects, if there shall remain any, over and above what will pay the separate Debts, each Side to be at Liberty to apply to the Court concerning any of the said Surpluses.

ON the Marriage of Sir Thomas Palmer, the Petitioner's Father, with Elizabeth Marshall in Nov. 1700. a Settlement was made, by which, upon the Death of Sir Thomas Palmer without Issue Male, a Term of 500 Years was limited in Trust to raise Portions for Daughters, 6000 l. if one Daughter, 8000 l. if two or more, equally to be divided between them, and for their Maintenances, 100 l. per Annum if but one, 80 l. a-piece per Annum if two, 70 l. per Annum a-piece if three, or more, to be paid by half-yearly Payments, at Lady-day and Michaelmas, and to continue until the Portions should become payable respectively; the Portions and Maintenances to be raised out of the Rents

By a Marriage Settlement Maintenance for Daughters is made payable half-yearly, at Lady-day and Michaelmas, until the Portions become payable, which was at eighteen or Marriage; a Daughter attained her Age of eighteen the 16th of August and Profits, or by Sale, Mortgage, or Lease of the Premises, and the Portions to become payable at their respective Ages of eighteen or Marriage, which should first happen. The 9th of November Sir Thomas Palmer died leaving Issue of the Marriage three Daughters only.

On a Bill to take an Account of the Estate, and to have the Direction of the Court, &c. a Decree was made directing (inter al') that the Maintenances should be paid according to the Settlement.

16 August 1727. Elizabeth the eldest Daughter attained her Age of eighteen, and her Maintenance had been paid till Lady-day 1727. but because the full half Year was not due from that Time till her Age of eighteen, (she having come of Age before Michaelmas) it was doubted, whether she was intitled to any Maintenance from Lady-day to the 16th of August; the Settlement being, that the Maintenance should be paid by half-yearly Payments, at Lady-day and Michaelmas, she therefore now petitioned to have her Maintenance paid from Lady-day to the 16th of August.

Master of the Rolls: This Case is not like the Case of Rent, which will not be payable till the last Moment of the Day, on which it is expressly reserved in the Lease; as suppose a Tenant for Life makes a Lease for Years, and dies the Day before the Rent is due, the Rent is lost both to the Executor and the Reversioner, and the Law being so, (a) Equity will not relieve, tho' it seems a hard Case; and which (perhaps) has the greater Reason for Relief, because the Tenant has enjoyed the Land out of which the Rent issues. The present Case is of a Sum to be received for Maintenance, which is always favoured, being for the daily Subsistence of the Children; it is not like Interest, because that is only for Delay of Payment of what is due; but here the Portion is not due till eighteen or Marriage, and therefore no Delay. But perhaps it is a stronger Case than that of Interest reserved exactly in the same Words, under the same Restrictions at certain Days and by Half yearly Payments, because this Maintenance is for the daily Support of the Infant. In the present Case, the Deed is in this Respect penned very imperfectly, for want of a proper Sagacity in the Drawer, to foresee the several Cases which might happen. However, the general Intention is clear, that Maintenance should be paid during the whole Interval of Time, from the Commencement of the Term, till the Portion should become due; indeed the Manner of wording this Clause cannot be exactly satisfied by any Construction; but that which comes nearest to the Sense, and best answers the general Intention is, that the Maintenance shall be paid half-yearly, at Michaelmas and Lady-day, in every Instance where it can happen, during the Time from the Commencement of the Term, till the Portions become payable, and where that cannot be, it is a Case out of the direct Provision of the Settlement as to the Time of Payment, but within the general Provision of the Maintenance itself, which is expressed to continue till the Portions become payable, and that must be intirely rejected, if nothing be payable for the Time from Lady-day to the 16th of August, when the Portion became due; wherefore Maintenance ought to be paid during such Interval of Time in Proportion, which I order accordingly.

(a) See the Case of Fenner versus Morgan, Vol. I. 392. and the late Statute there referred to.

Grandfon,

without appointing any Time for Payment, with Proviso, that if the Grandfon dies before twenty-one, then the Legacy to go over to B. the Grandfon shall have the Interest of the Legacy during his Infancy.

A Man by Will devised 500*l.* to his Infant Grandson, without mentioning any Time of Payment, with a Proviso, that if the Grandson should die before twenty-one, then the Legacy to go over to another.

The Question was, Whether the Grandson should during his Infancy be intitled to the Interest of this 500*l.* Legacy?

Objekt. Until this Contingency has happened, non constat whether the Infant will ever be intitled to the 500*l.* and consequently he can have no Interest for that Legacy which never may become due, payable, or vest, until the Contingency be over; Interest is only due in Default of Payment, and this Legacy not being payable till the Grandson's Age of twenty-one, ought not to carry Interest: It is the same Thing, as if a Legacy were given to be paid at the Legatee's Age of twenty-one; and tho' the Legacy is to a Grandson, that is not material, in Regard the Grandfather is not bound to maintain the Grandson; and accordingly Equity would not supply the Want of a Surrender in case of the Devise of a Copyhold to a Grandson, as has been adjudged by the Lords upon an Appeal in the Case of (a) Kettle versus Townsend. Indeed if it was the Case of a Legacy to a Son who had nothing else, this Court might (perhaps) give Interest for the Son's Subsistence, because the Father is obliged to maintain him.

(a) Salk. 187. But see the Case of Watts versus Bullas, Vol. I. 60. and the Note thereto subjoined.

Mr. Lutwyche contra: The Legacy of 500 l. to the Infant Grandson, if no Time were mentioned for the Payment, would by Construction of Law be payable presently, and Equity of Course allows Interest from the End of the Year; if to a Son, from the Death of the Testator for his Maintenance; and tho' there be a Condition to make the Legacy void on the Legatee's dying before twenty-one, yet this is a subsequent Condition; and if the Contingency of his Death happens, it becomes void from that Time only. On the other Hand, if the Contingency never happens, it is as if none had ever been annexed to the Legacy, and then the Legacy must carry Interest; at least from the End of the Year after the Death of the Testator: If instead of a Legacy, the Testator had devised Land to the Grandson being an Infant, to be void (as here) if the Infant should die before the Age of twenty-one, the Grandson would have had the Profits of the Land until his Death, tho' he had died before twenty-one; and there is the same Reason that the Infant in the present Case should have the Profits or Interest of the Money until the Contingency happens; and this very Case has often been determined by the Court.

Master of the Rolls : It is extremely clear, that this is a Condition subsequent ; and therefore as the Infant's Death before twenty-one will only defeat the Legacy from the Time it happens, consequently in the mean while it shall carry Interest, at least from the End of the Year after the Death of the Testator.

Baron and Feme seised in Fee in Right of the

THE Bill was brought for raising 2000*l.* out of an Estate charged therewith pursuant to a Power.

Feme by Deed and Fine settled the Premises to the Use of the Baron and Feme for their Lives, Remainder to the first, &c. Son in Tail, Remainder to the Daughters in Tail, Remainder to the Husband and Wife and their Heirs, with Power to the Baron, during the Joint Lives of him and his Wife, by his last Will, or any Writing purporting to be his last Will under Hand and Seal, attested by three Witnesses, if Baron dies before his Wife, to charge the Premises with 2000*l.* The like Power (mutatis mutandis) to the Wife, if she die first, to charge the Premises with the like Sum ; Husband by Will under his Hand attested by three Witnesses, but not sealed, charges the Premises with 2000*l.* held void, being without a Seal.

The Case was, William Fenwick Esq; married Margaret the only Daughter and Heir of Sir Adam Brown Baronet, who died seised in Fee of a considerable Estate in Surrey, and by Indenture of the 2d of February 1692, and by a Fine levied pursuant to the Covenants in that Indenture, William Fenwick and Margaret his Wife did settle and convey the Castle and Manor of Bletchworth in the County of Surrey to the Use of William Fenwick and Margaret his Wife for their Lives, without Waste, Remainder to the Use of Trustees and their Heirs during the Life of him and his Wife, to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to the Use of their first, &c. Son in Tail Male successively, Remainder to their Daughters in Tail General, Remainder to the Use of the said William Fenwick and Margaret his Wife, and their Heirs,

With a Power to the said William Fenwick, at any Time during the joint Lives of him and Margaret his Wife, by his last Will, or any Writing purporting to be his last Will, under his Hand and Seal, attested by three or more credible Witnesses, (if he should die before his Wife without any Issue between them then living) to charge the Premises with any Sum or Sums not exceeding 2000*l.* to be paid to such Persons, and in such Proportions as he should appoint; with the like Power to Margaret if she should die without Issue in the Life of her Husband Fenwick.

There was no Issue of the Marriage, and William Fenwick the Husband, by his last Will in Writing under his Hand, attested by three Witnesses, but not sealed, reciting his Power of charging the Premises with this 2000*l.* disposed of the same to the Plaintiffs (being his Relations) in the Proportions therein mentioned.

There were three Witnesses to this Will of Mr. Fenwick, two of which swore that the Will was signed by the Testator in the Presence of all the three Witnesses; but the third swore that the Testator Fenwick, having written and signed the Will before, called for the Witnesses, and declared that Writing to be his last Will, and that all the three Witnesses were then present, and subscribed their Names in his Presence.

The Questions were, 1st, Whether this Will not being sealed, was a good Appointment of the 2000*l.* within the Power?

2<sup>dly</sup>, Whether it was a good Will to charge the Land, one of the Witnesses swearing, that the Testator did not sign the Will in the Presence of the Witnesses, but only acknowledged it was his Hand, and

declared it to be his Will, and the three Witnesses subscribed their Names in the Testator's Presence?

Mr. Solicitor Talbot contended for the Plaintiffs, that this Will of Mr. Fenwick the Husband, being a Will of Land, according to the Statute, was a good Execution of the Power, and an effectual Charge of the 2000*l.* upon the Estate, tho' not under Seal. That this Power to charge was in the disjunctive, either by Will, or by Writing purporting to be a Will; now as to the Power to charge the Land by Will, there was no need to guard that, the Act of Parliament having done it, by directing, 1st, That it must be in Writing. 2<sup>dly</sup>, That it must be signed by the Party; And 3<sup>dly</sup>, That it must be subscribed by three Witnesses, which Circumstances had all been complied with, and there was no need of a Seal to a Will.

Then as to the other Part of the Disjunctive, any Writing purporting to be a Will, it was plain he said, there might be a Writing purporting to be a Will, which yet might not be a good Will as to Lands; as where there are three Witnesses to a Will, but they do not subscribe their Names in the Presence of the Testator; now this is a Writing purporting to be a Will, tho' it is not a Will strictly, and according to the Statute of Frauds, and yet would be good pursuant to the Power, because attested by three Witnesses, tho' not subscribed by the Testator in the Presence of three Witnesses; and if the Power could bear this Construction, it would be reasonable to understand it accordingly, in a Case where the Testator must be admitted to have had this Power, and to have intended to execute it, since he recited this very Power in his Will; and it being in case of a Will, which is the most favoured of any Conveyance, where, if Counsel had been advised with, they would have directed the Testator to put a Seal to the Will, it would be very hard, that the plain Intention of the Party should be over-turned by the Omission of so slight a Circumstance; wherefore, this Power being capable of such Construction, the Court would understand it so as to make the Charge effectual, and there was no Necessity to apply to this Court to help an Omission, the latter Words which required the Seal, not referring to the Will, but only to a Writing purporting to be a Will.

On the other Side it was said by Mr. Attorney, that as this was a voluntary Charge, not for any Wife or Children, but for Legatees, if it had not pursued the Circumstances which the Party confined himself to, and prescribed, as it would be void at Law, so there was no Reason to aid it in Equity. That the latter Words requiring a Seal, referred as much to the Will, as to the Writing purporting to be a Will; and it was as necessary that this Instrument, by which the 2000*l.* was to be charged upon the Estate, should have a Seal, as that it should be attested by three Witnesses, for the Sentence was not compleat until the End, which declared the Circumstances required to execute the Power: Also the principal Case could not be intended of a Will or Devise of Lands, for that must be supposed where a Man having Lands devises them; but here Mr. Fenwick the Testator was only Tenant for Life; and the Will or Writing purporting to be a Will, must singly and alone operate upon the Power.

Where a Will of Land ought to be signed by the Testator in the Presence of three Witnesses.

As to the second Point; it was argued by Mr. Solicitor General for the Plaintiffs, that there being two Witnesses proving the Will to have been signed by the Testator Fenwick, in the Presence of the three Witnesses; this was sufficient to establish the Fact, and make the Will good; and it had been determined upon Debate lately in this Court, in the Case of a Will of Land, that where the Testator signed the Will, and afterwards declared in the Presence of three Witnesses, that this was his Hand, and desired the three Witnesses to attest the same, who subscribed their Names in the Presence of the Testator, this was sufficient. But the Counsel on the other Side insisted on the Case of Lee (a) and Libb, as reported in Carthew 35. where C. J. Holt was of another Opinion.

(a) Show. 68.
3 Mod. 362.

Lord Chancellor said, that tho' he himself inclined to think the Will of the Land good, if the Testator should acknowledge the Name to be his, and the Witnesses should subscribe in the Presence of the Testator, yet that Point should be reserved to the Defendant.

Mr. Lutwyche for the Defendant: What has been said concerning the Intention of the Testator is wholly immaterial. If a Will of Land be made and signed by the Testator, and subscribed by two of the most credible Witnesses in the World, no Body can doubt but that it is the Testator's Will and Intention to pass his Estate; but the Words of the Statute of Frauds say, this shall not be a good Will; and as the Statute says so in the one Case, so the Law which the Testator has here prescribed to himself, not to charge without a Writing under his Seal, is equally express in the present Case. And this Charge does not operate by Virtue of the Will, or other Writing, but by Virtue of the Settlement, and like the Case where a Copyhold is surrendered to the Use of a Will, and the Will is afterwards made of these Copyhold Lands, such a Will is good, tho' but with two (b) Witnesses, or indeed without any Witness at all, because the Copyhold passes by the Surrender, and not by the Will.

(b) Ante
Wagstaff versus Wag-
staff.

Lord Chancellor: I take this Will to be a good one, and being so, to be a good Charge; the Power was in the the Disjunctive, 1st, in Respect of the Husband, who could make a Will; and, 2<sup>dly</sup>, in Respect of the Wife, who could not make a Will, but only a Writing purporting to be a Will; but for the Satisfaction of both Parties, as it is a Matter of Law, let it be referred to the Judges of B. R. to be made a Case on both the Points; and as to the last Point the Testator's not signing in the Presence of the Witnesses, the Case to be made upon the Depositions, and referring to them.

And it was determined by the Judges of B. R. on Argument, that the Will was void as a Charge, for Want of being sealed.

Rakestraw & al' versus Brewer.

Case 164.
At the Rolls.

THE Plaintiffs, as Representatives of Henry Holford late of Gray's Inn, Esq; brought their Bill against the Defendant, who was the Executor of John Brewer Esq; late one of the Benchers of that Inn, to redeem a Mortgage of Chambers there made in 1687, and by Assignment transferred to Brewer. The Term mortgaged by Holford was for fifty-seven Years, being a building Term, which would expire at Lady-day 1731, and the Bench gave a new Term for eleven Years to Mr. Brewer, to commence from the End of the former, and he was the first Person who was in Possession of the Chambers under the Mortgage, but had not been in Possession for twenty Years, so that the Plaintiffs came within Time. They first petitioned the Bench to be admitted to redeem, and thereupon the 21st of May 1726, an Order of Pension was made, reciting that the Matter in Dispute betwixt the Parties was Matter of Account, which the Bench was not capable of taking, and the Mortgage of long standing;

A Bill in Equity will not lie to redeem a Mortgage of Chambers in the Inns of Court, but the Plaintiff must apply to the Bench, or to the Judges of the Society; secus, if on Application to the Bench they refer the Plaintiff to his Remedy in Equity. One possessed of a renewable Term mortgages it to J. S. who gains a new Term from the original Landlord to commence after the old one; this new Term shall be subject to the old Equity of Redemption.

ing; but that the Plaintiffs were at Liberty to seek their Remedy in a Court of Equity, as they should be advised; upon which the Plaintiffs brought their Bill.

And it was insisted by the Defendant, that these Chambers mortgaged being in an Inn of Court, where the Students were to enjoy Quiet without Disturbance, the Plaintiffs ought to apply to the Bench, and if not redressed there, then to the Judges of the Society; but that the Courts at Westminster had been always pleased to decline interposing therein; and the rather for that the legal Estate of all the Chambers of the House was in Trustees; and the Order of Pension which granted Terms in Chambers, passed no legal Title, nor were the Benchers that made such Order seized of the legal Estate; and tho' a Bill which was only to foreclose the Equity of Redemption, and supposed the Plaintiff to have a legal Title, might be proper, yet in the present Case it was otherwise, since the Plaintiffs neither had, nor could have it, especially as they were the Daughters of Mr. Holford the Mortgagor, who were not capable of having the Chambers.

Master of the Rolls: I would not meddle with this Title to Chambers, which is no legal one, but the Benchers themselves having recommended it to the Plaintiffs to come hither, and left them at Liberty to make this Application, therefore the Bill is proper.

It was then urged for the Defendant, that if the Plaintiffs were proper to redeem the old building Term of fifty-one Years, which would expire at Lady-Day 1731, yet they could have no Title to the additional Term of eleven Years, which was distinct from, not interfering with the other Term, but independent thereof, and to commence from the Expiration of the former, granted by the Bench in pure personal Fa-your and Kindness to Mr. Brewer their Brother Bencher: Whereas had it been asked for by the Plaintiffs, it probably would have been denied, and they being Women, were not capable of having Chambers by Virtue of a new Grant; tho' perhaps if an old Term came from a Member to Executors who were no Members, they might have a reasonable Time to dispose thereof; but no Instance could be given where one, not a Member, had a Chamber by an original Grant.

Sed per Cur': This additional Term comes from the old Root, and is of the same Nature, subject to the same Equity of Redemption, else Hardships might be brought upon Mortgagors by the Mortgagees getting such additional Terms more easily, as being possessed of one not expired, and by that Means worming out and oppressing a poor Mortgagor; whereupon a Decree for Redemption was pronounced by the Master of the Rolls, and that afterwards (a) affirmed upon an Appeal to the Lord Chancellor.

Pitfield's Case.

(A Cause by Consent.)

Case 165.

UPON a Marriage Settlement, Part of the Lands were settled on Pitfield the Husband for Life in Possession, Remainder to the Wife for Life, Remainder as to Part to Trustees for 500 Years. Other Lands were settled on Pitfield the Husband's Father for Life, Remainder to Pitfield the Husband for Life, Remainder to the said Trustees for 500 Years, Remainder as to

By a Marriage Settlement a Term for Years is created to raise 5000*l.* Portion for Daughters, payable at their Age of all twenty-one or Marriage;

Vol. II.

all

Provido if any of the Daughters attain the Age of twenty-one or marry in the Father's Life-time, then the Portion to be paid within a Year after the Father's Death. Also if any of the Daughters die before her Portion payable or before her Age of twenty-one or Marriage, her Share to go to the Survivor; there was Issue a Son and three Daughters, the first of whom married and received her Portion; the second attained twenty-one, married and died without Issue, and her Husband administered; the third Daughter survived both her Sisters: Resolved the Husband as Administrator of the second Daughter is intitled to her Share of the 5000*l.* she having lived to twenty-one, so that the Right vested in her, and the Payment was only suspended till her Father's Death.

all the respective Premises, to the first and every other Son of the Marriage in Tail Male successively, Remainder to the Use of Trustees for 500 Years; and the Trust of the several Terms for 500 Years was to raise 5000*l.* for the Portions of the Daughters, payable at their Ages of twenty-one or Marriage, with a Proviso that if any of the Daughters should attain the Age of twenty-one or Marriage, in the Life of the Father, then her Portion to be paid at the End of the Year after the Death of her Father, and with another Proviso, That if any of the said Daughters should die before her or their Portion or Portions became payable, and before her or their Age of twenty-one or Marriage, her or their Share or Shares to go to the surviving Daughters or Daughter.

There was Issue by the Marriage one Son and three Daughters, Elizabeth, Anne, and Mary, the eldest Daughter Elizabeth was married to Sir Thomas Clerk, and a larger Portion given her than was secured to her by the Marriage Settlement, and so her Third of the 5000*l.* was satisfied. The Grandfather and Wife died, and the second Daughter Anne having attained twenty-one married in the Father's Life-time, and died before her Father without Issue, her Husband administered to her, after which the Father died.

The Questions were, who should be intitled to the third Part of the 5000 l. which Anne the middle Daughter would plainly have had a Right to in case she had survived her Father; 1st, Whether it should sink into the Land, forasmuch as the Daughter died before the Portion became payable, and so the Son take Advantage of it? Or

2<sup>dly</sup>, Whether by Virtue of the Proviso, the youngest Daughter should be intitled as Survivor, the 4 middle middle Daughter dying before the Portion became payable? Or 3dly, Whether it should not go to the Husband of the middle Daughter Anne, as Administrator to his Wife, she having lived to her Age of twenty-one and been married?

For the Son and Heir it was urged, that the constant Difference was between a Legacy out of a personal Estate, and a Portion out of Land, that if a Portion be given out of Land payable at a future Time, and the Daughter dies before that Time comes, the Portion is to sink into the Land for the Benefit of the Heir, let him be Heres factus or natus; and this was the present Case, as Anne the middle Daughter died in the Life of her Father, and the Portion was not payable until the End of the Year after the Father's Death.

For the youngest Daughter it was said, that by the latter Proviso in the Settlement, if any of the Daughters should die before her Portion became payable, the surviving Daughter was to have her Share, and the middle Daughter dying in her Father's Life-time, she died before her Portion became payable; and therefore, &c.

But on Behalf of the Husband the Administrator; Mr. Solicitor General Talbot contended, 1st, That as to the youngest Daughter she could not be intitled to it, because the middle Daughter did attain her Age of twenty-one, and was married: Whereas to intitle the Survivor to take, the other Daughter must have died under twenty-one or Marriage.

2dly, That this third Part of the 5000 l. Portion would not sink into the Land, because the Reason of that Construction was for the Benefit of the Heir, in Pefe-

Preference to the Administrator of the dead Daughter, where such Daughter died before twenty-one or Marriage, so that she had no Occasion for her Portion, no want of it to advance her in Marriage, nor could she dispose of it by Deed, or by any Act in her Life-time, until her Age of twenty-one; whereas that Reason could not hold in the present Case, the Daughter having attained twenty-one, and being married: That the Meaning of this Proviso was a prudent Caution to prevent a Sale of the Reversion of the Land limited to the Father, in the Father's Life-time, which had been found by Experience to distress and ruin Family Estates, but it was hard, when the Term was come into Possession, that the Husband who married this Daughter should have no Portion with her.

And of this Opinion was the Lord Chancellor; who observed, that Equity had strained sometimes, to help a Daughter married in her Father's Life-time, to her Portion, but never to deprive a married Daughter thereof: His Lordship likewise said, that this last Proviso, "If any of the Daughters attained to twenty-one Years or Marriage in the Life of the Father, then such Daughter should have her Portion paid to her at the End of one Year after the Father's Death", was without any negative Words that she should not be paid her Portion till then; but the Meaning of it was, that then in all Events, even though the Grandfather of such Daughter, who had Part of the Estate comprised in this 500 Years Term limited to him for his Life, had been living, the Reversion should notwithstanding have been sold for the raising of this Portion.

So it was decreed, that the Husband of Anne the second Daughter should have the third Part of the 5000*l.* with Interest from the End of the Year after the Father's Death, raised by the Sale of a third Part of this Term, and if that not sufficient, then in case the Son who was Tenant in Tail should happen to die without Issue Male and under twenty-one, the Administrator of Anne should have Liberty to apply to the Court to be paid what remained due out of the other Term, which was to arise by the Settlement on the Son's Death without Issue Male.

Sir John Eyles and others, the Trustees Case 166.
for the South-Sea Company, verſus Lord Chan-
Ward. cellor King.

THE Plaintiffs had recovered a Decree for a great Sum of Money, with Interest to be computed by the Master; the Master made his Report, which was not filed within four Days after the making and signing, but was filed before any Proceedings had thereon; and on filing the Report, it was moved and ordered, that the Report should be confirmed nisi; when it was to be made absolute, it was shewn for Cause, that by a standing Order of this Court made by the Lords Commissioners in the 4 W. & M. it was directed, that all Reports should be filed within four Days after the making, otherwise no Decree, Order or Proceedings, to be had thereupon.

Sufficient if a Master's Report is filed before any Proceedings had thereon, though not within four Days after it was made.

Mr. Solicitor General and Mr. Lutwyche: It is sufficient if the Report be filed before any Proceedings or Order made thereupon; and the Parties are under no Manner of Inconvenience, though the Report be not filed within four Days after the making; and agreeable hereto is the constant Practice.

Lord Chancellor asked Mr. Price the Register how the Practice was? who said, that it was sufficient if the Report were filed before any Proceedings had thereupon, tho' this were not done within four Days after the making; which his Lordship agreed to, adding that this was the Spirit of the Order, though the Letter seemed otherwise; and the constant Practice being according to this Construction, many hundred Reports would be liable to be set aside, if the Order should be literally observed; and no Motion was ever known to have been made for filing a Report nunc pro tunc.

Wherefore the Court took it to be well enough; though in this Case the Motion to confirm the Report nisi causa was made the same Day that the Report was filed.

Case 167. Lord Brook versus Lord and Lady Hertford.
 Lord Chancellor King.

Lands conveyed to Trustees, in Trust as to one Moiety to A. an Infant in Tail, as to the other Moiety to B. (who is of Age) in Tail; A. the Infant brings a Bill for a Partition. Cur': Decree a Partition, but the Trustees not to convey till the Infant is of Age, that he may join in confirming the Partition.

SIR George Strode devised diverse Manors and Lands to Trustees and their Heirs, in Trust (after several other Trusts since determined) for his two Granddaughters, the Countess of Hertford married to the Earl of Hertford, and Frances Lady Brook Wife of the late Lord Brook, for their Lives, Share and Share alike, Remainder to the Heirs of their respective Bodies, and to the Heirs of their Bodies respectively, with diverse Remainders over. The Testator died long since; Lord and Lady Brook died, leaving the Plaintiff the Lord Brook an Infant, the only Issue of their Bodies.

The Plaintiff brought this Bill for a Partition, and that the Trustees should convey the legal Estate of the separate Moiety to be allotted to the Plaintiff the Lord Brook, on this Partition to him and the Heirs of his
 2 Body

Body, in Regard, tho' there might be a Doubt whether the Lady Hertford had more than an Estate for Life (the Words of Inheritance being subsequent to the Limitation to the Heirs of the respective Bodies of the Daughters) yet as to the Plaintiff the Lord Brook, who was the only Son and Heir of the Lady Brook, it must be agreed he was intitled to an Estate-tail; which was admitted.

Lord Chancellor: Decree a Partition, and for that Purpose let a Commission issue to allot one Moiety in Severalty to the Plaintiff the Lord Brook, and the other Moiety in Severalty to Lady Hertford, to hold to them according to their respective Estates which they are intitled to under the Will, and let the Plaintiff and the Defendant the Lady Hertford be respectively quieted in the Possession of the Premises severally to be allotted as aforesaid; but forasmuch as the Infant Plaintiff cannot join in a Conveyance of the Moiety to the Lady Hertford, so that there cannot be mutual Conveyances, let the Conveyances to be made by the Trustees of the legal Estate be respited, until the Infant Plaintiff comes to twenty-one or farther Order of the Court, at which Time all Parties interested may join in mutual Conveyances.

Then it was objected that the Will of Sir George Strode, under whom the Infant Plaintiff the Lord Brook claimed, was not proved.

Cur': This will not be material; for an Infant, when Plaintiff, is as much bound, and as little privileged, as one of full Age.

Case 168.

Fox & al' versus Ayde & al'.(Heard first by Default 5 July 1728, and also on Defendant's shewing Cause the 5th of May 1729.)

A Modus, that in Consideration the Parishioners made the Tithe Grass into Hay, therefore the Parishioners Inhabitants within the Parish were to pay no Tithes for the Herbage of dry and unprofitable Cattle; and

THIS was a Bill brought to establish a Modus in Favour of the Inhabitants of the Parish of Sturton in Nottinghamshire; the Modus was, in Consideration that after the Grass was cut, the Parishioner at his own Costs and Charges did make the Tithe Grass into Hay, by strewing the Grass upon the Ground, (which is called tedding of it) and afterwards gathering it into Week and Wind-rows, therefore the Persons that inhabited within this Parish (which Parish appeared to be the greatest Part thereof Meadow Land) were to pay no Tithes for the Herbage of dry and unprofitable Cattle.

tho' proved that the Parishioners Time out of Mind had paid no Tithe of this Herbage, yet the Court held it to be a material Objection to the Modus, that Foreigners living out of the Parish made the Tithe Grass into Hay, and yet paid Tithe Herbage.

But tho' it was proved in the Cause that the Parishioners had not Time out of Mind paid Tithes for the Herbage of dry and unprofitable Cattle, yet there was no Evidence that this Excuse for not paying of Tithes of Herbage, was in Consideration of the Parishioners making Tithe Grass into Hay. On the other Hand it was proved, that Foreigners, those who lived out of the Town, made the Tithe Grass into Hay, as well as the Inhabitants, and yet paid Tithe Herbage. Also it was proved by the Plaintiffs, that the Grass was tedded and spread, and not divided into Heaps or Cocks, until the same was made into Hay; that in this Parish there was a Vicar endowed with the small Tithes, the Rectory an Impropriation, and that the Vicar had 40 l. per Annum out of it.

Lord Chancellor: 1st, This may be a good Custom or Modus, to excuse the Occupier of the same Land wherein the Parishioner made Grass into Hay from paying Tithes for the After-Herbage, but it can be no good Modus to excuse the Herbage Tithe of other Land, for at that Rate a Man might mow and make into Hay only a small Parcel of Ground containing about a Quarter or Half an Acre of Land, and by this Means be excused from the Tithe Herbage of 100 Head of Cattle.

The Court held it to be a void Modus, that the making the Tithe Grass into Hay should not only excuse that Ground from paying Tithes for Herbage, but that perhaps a small Quantity of Meadow Ground, by making the Grass thereof into Hay, should excuse the greater Part of the Ground of that Parish from paying Tithe Herbage.

2<sup>dly</sup>, It seems to me a material Objection against the Custom, that Foreigners living out of the Parish, though they have no Privilege of being Tithe-free as to their Herbage, yet have made the Tithe Grass into Hay, which looks as if it was the Usage of that Parish for the Parishioners to make their Grafs into Hay of Course.

3dly, It seems material what some of the Witnessses have proved, that in this Parish the Parishioners when they cut down the Grafs, did not divide it into ten Parts, until such Time as they had made it into Hay; for of Consequence the Parson could not have any Opportunity of making his Tithe Grafs into Hay himself.

But, 4thly, It being objected, that the Consideration of making the Tithe Grafs into Hay for the Benefit of the Rector, could be no Consideration as to the Vicar who was intituled to the small Tithes of Herbage;

A Modus in Relation to the Tithe due to the Parson may be a good Bar to the Payment of a small Tithe due to the Vicar, because all the Tithes did at first belong to the Parson, during which Time he might agree to this Modus.

Lord Chancellor: That (a) is nothing, for originally and of common Right the Parson was intituled to all the Tithes, as well small as great, and the Modus (supposing it to be a good one) must have been Time out of Mind, and consequently must have begun while the Parson was seised of the small, as well as of the great Tithes; and when afterwards the Vicarage was derived out of the Parsonage, and the Parson by Consent of the Patron and Ordinary endowed the Vicar with these small Tithes, this shall not prejudice the Parishioners, or deprive them of the Benefit of enjoying their Modus which they before were intituled to.

5thly, It was objected, that the Parishioners de jure ought to make the Tithe Grafs into Hay.

But

(a) See for this in Yelv. 86. Cro. Jac. 116. Green versus Austin; but see also 3 Bulst. 220. Wintall versus Child, and 2 Keb. 212. Brown versus Haywood, contra.

But Lord Chancellor declared the Law to be otherwise, and interrupted the Counsel when they began to speak to this, saying that all the Parishioners were bound to do was, to cut down the Grafs and divide it into ten Parts, after which the (a) Parson was to make it into Hay. And that this had been so resolved in a Devonshire Case, (the Case of one Reynolds;) however, in Regard Foreigners having Meadow Land in this Parish made their Tithe Grafs into Hay as well as the Parishioners, and yet paid Tithe of the Herbage; and by Reason of the other Objections above-mentioned, it would be too much in a Court of Equity to establish this Modus, especially where it was insisted upon (as in this Case) that the Parishioner's making Tithe Grafs into Hay did not only excuse the Herbage of that Ground from Tithe Herbage, but also all the Tithe Herbage that the Parishioner was to pay for any Land he depastured within the Parish, tho' it might be a great Parcel of Pasture Land, and tho' the same might be fed all the Year.

Parishioners only bound to cut the Grafs and to lay it into Heaps or Cocks, but not bound to make it into Hay.

Dismiss the Bill with Costs, but without Prejudice as to any Litigation, that may be made touching the same at Law.

Barry versus Edgeworth.

Case 169.

At the Rolls.

Judith Only had a Sister the Plaintiff Elizabeth, Wife of the Plaintiff Barry, and intending to marry the Defendant Edgeworth, the Wedding Day was appointed and the Wedding Cloaths bought, but before Marriage

Judith I devise all my Land and Estate in D. to J. S. Decreed a Fee in the Land.

(a) See 1 Rol. Abr. 644. accord. But see also 1 Rol. Rep. 172. contra; and note, the Tithes are called the Tithe of Hay and not of Grafs.

Judith Only falling sick made her Will, by which she devised all her Land and Estate in Upper Catesby in Northamptonshire, with all their Appurtenances, to William Edgeworth of St. Margaret's Esquire, without saying for what Estate. After the Testatrix's Death, the Plaintiff being Heir at Law brought her Bill for the Writings.

The Defendant the Devisee confessed he had the Writings, but insisted that he had the Inheritance and Fee-simple of the Premises, and consequently was intitled to the Writings. Whereupon the sole Question was, whether the Defendant Edgeworth had an Estate for Life only, or an Estate in Fee, by Virtue of this Will?

It was objected, that only an Estate for Life passed in these Lands; for where a Man devises his Land and Estate in such a Place, it describes only the Thing, and not the Interest in it, and the Words in Upper Catesby do nothing but Point out the Locality of the Thing, and Lands and Estate in this Case are synonymous.

Master of the Rolls: The Case of the Countess of (a) Bridgewater verius The Duke of Bolton, seems to have settled the Law in this Point, it being a Resolution given on great Consideration, in which the Lord Comper, when of Counsel, discouraged a Writ of Error in Parliament; and the Lord Chief Justice Holt, who pronounced the Judgment of the Court, laid it down as a Rule, that a Devise of all one's real Estate, comprehends not only the Thing but also the Interest in it; the Word [Estate] naturally signifies the Interest rather than the Subject, and its primary Signification refers thereto; and tho' the Devise be of all her Land and Estate in Upper Catesby, this is not restrictive with Respect to the Estate intended to pass by the Will, but only as to the Land, as if the Testatrix had Land in another Parish, (suppose for Instance in Lower Catesby) those Lands in Lower Catesby could not have passed by the Will; and as the Word [Estate] (a) has been agreed and settled to convey a Fee in a Will, it would be dangerous to refine upon it; for then none could give any Opinion thereupon; and these Words, or the like, are frequently made Use of in Wills: Besides, the Word [Estate] if it did not pass a Fee in the present Case, would be quite void; since the Devise of the Lands did before of it self pass an Estate for Life, and no Word in a Will shall be rejected that can have any Construction.

(a) Salk.

The Word [Estate] naturally signifies rather the Interest in the Thing than the Thing it self.

A Freeman of London having but one Child, advances that Child in Part only, the Child shall take a full Share without bringing what she had before received into Hotchpot: For the only Meaning of bringing the Child's Share into Hotchpot is to make an Equality among the Children.

Anthony Cleaver, a Freeman of London, had a Son and three Daughters, and advanced all his Children in Marriage in his Life-time; his Son died leaving Sons, all his Daughters died also in his Life-time, except his eldest Daughter Hannah, whom the Father advanced in Marriage above forty Years before his Death, but the Certainty of the Portion did not appear under the Father's Hand, who by his Will, taking Notice that he had advanced his only Daughter in Marriage, gave to her 35 l. provided that if she or her Husband should refuse to give a Release to his Executors after his [the Testator's] Death, or should any ways trouble or disturb them, upon any Claim or Pretence by Virtue of the Custom of London, that the Legacy of 35 l. given to his Daughter, should go over to the Children of his youngest deceased Daughter; and gave the Bulk of his personal Estate (being Leasehold) to his two Grandsons the Sons of his deceased Son, and died leaving a Wife and one only surviving Daughter.

In this Case, after solemn Debate, it was adjudged, 1st, That if the Daughter had been advanced only in Part, she should (a) still have come in for her full Orphanage, for that the Child's bringing her partial Advancement into Hotchpot, is only in Order to make an Equality among the Children, and not for the Benefit of the Mother, or to increase the dead Man's Part.

2<sup>dly</sup>, That if a Freeman having several Children, or one Child, does (b) fully advance all his Children, or his single Child, this satisfies the Custom, and is the same as if the Testator had no Child; or if the Husband Freeman before his Marriage compounds with his intended Wife as to her customary Part, it is the same as if there was no Wife.

as if there was no Child, and the Freeman may dispose of his Estate as if there was none; so if a Freeman compounds with his Wife before Marriage for her customary Part, it is the same as if no Wife. (b) See the Case of Blunden versus Barker, Vol. I.

3<sup>dly</sup>, That if the Freeman shall have advanced his Child in Marriage, and the Certainty of that Advancement does (c) not appear under the Freeman's Hand, this must be intended and taken to be a full and compleat Advancement; and his Honour said that the Advancement in the present Case being made about forty Years before the Death of the Freeman, this Declaration in the Will, that the Daughter was fully advanced was an Evidence thereof; especially it being so difficult a Thing for the Legatees in the Freeman's Will to prove an Advancement made at that great Distance of Time; but it being objected, that the Father's own Declaration in his Will was of very little Avail, since at that Rate it would be in the (d) Power of every Freeman, by making such Declaration to bar his efficient Evidence.

If a Freeman has several Children, or but one Child, and has in his Life-time fully advanced that one Child, or all his Children, it is the same

If a Freeman has advanced his Child on Marriage, and the Certainty of that Advancement does not appear under the Freeman's Hand, this is to be taken as a full Advancement; but the Freeman's Declaration alone in his Will that he has fully advanced his Child, is not of itself suf-his Child of the Orphanage Part: Thereupon a Proof was read, that the Daughter's Husband had himself confessed he had received above 1000 l. Portion with his Wife from the Freeman at his Marriage, which was satisfactory.

4thly, It was urged that still the 35 l. Legacy ought to be paid to the Daughter, and it would be hard to construe the insisting in a Court of Justice upon a Matter as one's Right, to be a Forfeiture, especially when it was the Right of a Feme Covert.

The Freeman by his Will gives 35 l. to his Daughter, provided that if she refuse to give a Release, or put the Executors to any Trouble, then her Legacy of 35 l. to go over to her Sister's Children; the Daugh-

To which it was answered, that the Father having given this Legacy of 35 l. to his Daughter, upon the exprefs Condition that she or her Husband should make no Claim, nor give any Disturbance to the Executors, upon Pretence of the Custom of London, and the Husband and his Wife having insisted upon the Custom, the same was a Forfeiture of the Legacy; and however it might have been construed to be intended only in terrorem, yet being devised over, and by that Means a Right to this Legacy being vested in a third Person, a Court of Equity could not divest it.

ter claims her Orphanage Part, and her Husband joined in the Claim, and does not claim the 35 l. Legacy. Decreed the Daughter and her Husband's claiming the Orphanage Part was a Forfeiture, and the 35 l. being vested in the Devisee over, Equity will not divest it.

And the Master of the Rolls compared it to the Case of a Devise of a Legacy to a Child, upon Condition that she married with the Consent of the Executor, but if she should not marry with such Consent, then the Legacy to go over; though this (he said) was against the Rule of the Civil Law, according to which maritagium debet esse liberum, yet it is a good Condition by our Law, and when the Legacy is once vested in the Devisee over, Equity cannot fetch it back again. Also there was no Colour to help the Defendant the Daughter to her 35 l. Legacy, since she had made no Claim to it by her Answer; and as to its being the Right of a Feme Covert, all personal Things were under the Power of the Husband, who could either release or forfeit them; wherefore the Court decreed that the Daughter was barred of her customary Part, as being fully advanced, and likewise that she and her Husband had forfeited the 35 l. Legacy by her claiming her Orphanage Part and by Reason of the Devise over.

Cray versus Willis.

Case 171.

At the Rolls.

A. Bequeathed the Surplus of his personal Estate to B. and C. making them Executors, and died; upon the Death of B. the Question was, Whether this being a Matter Legatory, and sueable in the Spiritual Court (where Survivorship would not be allowed) the Survivor should be liable to account with the Representative of the deceased Executor? And after Time taken to consider of the Case, his Honour now gave his Opinion.

A. makes two Executors B. and C. appointing them residuary Legatees; B. dies, the whole shall survive to C.

Master of the Rolls: A Right of Survivorship is as good as a Right by Descent; neither is there any Thing unreasonable or unequal in the Law of Jointenancy, each having an equal Chance to survive; and the Duration of all Lives being uncertain, if either Party has an ill Opinion of his own Life, he may sever the Jointenancy by a Deed granting over a Moiety in Trust for himself; so that Survivorship can be no Hardship, where either Side may at Pleasure prevent it. It is plain that at Law in Case of a Grant of a Term for Years to two, the Thing granted must survive, if the Jointenancy be not severed.

The hardest Case of a Jointenancy, and which was thought so to be in the House of Lords, was that of Wilkinson versus Spearman cited in Cook versus Cook, 2 Vern. 545. where one devised Lands to his two Daughters and the Heirs of their Bodies, one of them died leaving Issue, and the Survivor claimed the Whole, they having been Jointenants for Life, with several Inheritances; the Lords were inclinable to give a Moiety to the Issue of the Daughter who died first; but the Judges informing their Lordships, that the Law was settled in this Point, They would not alter it. A Right of Survivorship is much more reasonable than a Right by Occupancy; and yet this latter, as unreasonable as it was, prevailed until the Statute of Frauds took it away.

But put the Case of a Trust instead of a legal Estate, or suppose Lands are granted for Years to A. in Trust for B. and C. B. dies, and his Executors get a Moiety of the Term assigned to them by the Trustee, yet a Court of Equity would help the surviving Jointenant to that Moiety against the Executors of him who died first. 2 Vern. 556. Aston versus Smallman. Now this is pretty near the present Case, which is that of a Trust, since every Executor after Debts paid, is a Trustee for the Legacies.

But it is objected, that in Case of a Legacy given to two, it shall not survive, because a Legacy is recoverable in the Spiritual Court, where the Rule of the Civil Law takes Place, which Rule is against Survivorship.

Resp. I do not see that a Court of Equity should, even in Case of a Legacy, judge according to the Civil Law, but ought rather to pursue the Common Law, which is the general Law of the Land; for all Legatees are Volunteers, and ought to stand or fall by the Rules of the Common Law. And that this Court does in other Cafes determine the Right of Legacies according to the Rules of the Common, and not of the Civil Law, is plain from a common Cafe; as suppose I devise to my Daughter 1000 l. on Condition that she marry with her Mother's Consent, with a Devise over in Cafe she does not marry with such Consent; if the Daughter does marry without her Mother's Consent, a Court of Equity determines the Devise over and the Condition to be good, though the Civil Law says they are both (a) void, for by that Law maritagium debet esse liberum. And if a Court of Equity is to determine according to the Rules of the Common Law in the Cafe of one Legacy, why not in others? Besides, in Cafe of a Legacy or Term for Years given to two, if the Executors assent to the Legacy, and one of the Legatees dies, the Legacy then will be admitted to survive, because by the Consent of the Executors the Legacy is become a legal Property, and consequently determinable according to the Rules of the Common Law.

(a) See the preceding Cafe.

Now it is not very reasonable that when the Debts are all paid (as they are in this Cafe) the Executors delaying to give their Consent to do what in Equity they ought, nay what they are compellable to do, viz. to consent to a Legacy, should defer the vesting a legal Right in a third Person.

But if this were so, here is an implied Assent: If I devise a Term for Years to my Executor, who enters generally, he may primâ facie take as Legatee, this being more for his Advantage; tho' it is otherwise where I devise a Term to my Executor for Life only, with Remainder to ŷ. S. Because if the Term were vested in the Remainder-man, it could not be divested out of him again, and so might make a Devastavit, 1 Roll. Abr.

Abr. 619. Cro. Eliz. 347. Pannel versus Fenn; and tho' the present Case is of a Devise of a Surplus, and it must be admitted, that until Debts, &c. are paid it cannot be known what that Surplus is, yet here where all the Debts and Legacies are paid, it may well be known what it is, and so there may be an Assent to this Legacy. Farther, if these two joint residuary Legatees should be taken as Tenants in common, then if one of them had died in the Life of the Testator, one Moiety of the personal Estate would have gone to the next of Kin to the Testator according to the Statute of Distribution, which would hardly be admitted.

As to Authorities, tho' there may be some scattered ones against Survivorship, in Case of a Legacy's being bequeathed to two, yet the last and most considerable Authority is in 1 Vern. 482. Lady Shore versus Billingsley, (the same Case reported in Jones [Thomas] 162.) where it was adjudged before the Delegates, decreed by Lord Keeper North, which Decree was also affirmed by Lord Jefferies, that where a Surplus of a personal Estate was devised to A. and B. this was a joint Devise, and should survive; and that it was the same as if A. and B. had been made joint Executors, and A. had possessed a Moiety of the Goods and died, in which Case the Survivor should have all; and there it is said, that the Case of Cox versus Quantock, which in 1 Chan. Cases 238. was at first decreed to the Dissatisfaction of the Bar, was reversed upon a Rehearing; and agreeably thereto, (viz.) that there should be a Survivorship, was decreed in 2 Chan. Cases 64. where a Devise of a Surplus was to Executors; and the Lord Chancellor said it would survive upon the Death of either; his Lordship in that Case making Use of this Expression, The Judges will have it so. See also Jones [Thomas] 130. Bastard versus Stukely, where a Devise was of the Surplus to two, upon which the Executor consented, and then one died, this Consent of the Executor turned the Right of the Legatee into a legal Property, which therefore should survive, accordingly I think the Survivor must in the present Case take the Whole.

By which this Point seems now fully settled in Favour of Survivorship.

Poulson versus Wellington.

Case 172.

Lord Chancellor King.

THE Plaintiff, as Administrator of his late Wife Mary, who was the Widow of one Wellington, a Freeman of London, brought this Bill for the Recovery of four Ninths of Wellington the Freeman's personal Estate.

A Widow of a Freeman of London who left Children, and died intestate, was intituled to four Ninths of his personal Estate, and having by Deed assigned over her four Ninths for her separate Use in Case of Marriage, and to such Persons as she should appoint, and for Want of such Appointment, then to her Children; the Widow intending to marry a second Husband, by another Deed to which the intended Husband was Party, in Consideration of the intended Marriage, and of a Settlement made on her by him, recites that if she did not dispose of her four Ninths, the Husband would be intituled thereto, and then assigns it over to Trustees in Trust for the intended Husband during their joint Lives, subject to her Control and Disposal by Writing, and dies without disposing of it. Decreed the second Husband is a Purchaser, and the Recital that he would be intituled to it if the Wife should not dispose of it was a Gift.

The Case was; Wellington the Freeman had a Wife, the said Mary, and three Children, and died intestate; Mary the Widow, after the Death of her first Husband, and before her second Marriage, by Indenture dated the 30th of November 1719, assigned five Ninths of her late Husband's personal Estate in Trust for her Children, and as to the four remaining Ninths, to which she was intituled, (three Ninths as her customary Part, being a Freeman's Widow, and a Third of a Third being the dead Man's Part, which made another Ninth, and belonged to the Widow by the Statute of Distribution of Intestate's Estates,) the Widow by her said Deed of the 30th of November 1719, assigned these four Ninths to Trustees, in Trust for her separate rate Use for her Life, in Case she should marry, and afterwards in Trust for such Purposes, and such Persons as she should by Deed to be attested by two Witnesses appoint; and for Want of such Appointment, to her Children by the first Marriage; but the Husband which she should marry, on his surviving her, to have 200 l. out of the four Ninths. Afterwards, she having agreed to marry the Plaintiff, by Indenture dated the 11th January 1720, to which the Plaintiff was a Party, and attested by two Witnesses pursuant to the Power, reciting that she had before settled the Childrens five Ninths in Trust for them, and that in Case she should make no Appointment of her own four Ninths, they would belong to her then intended Husband the Plaintiff Poulson, by this Deed assigned her said four Ninths in Trust for the Plaintiff Poulson during their joint Lives, but she to have the Management and Ordering thereof during the Coverture, or by any Writing duly attested to appoint it over; and the Plaintiff Poulson by this Indenture covenanted to settle a Leasehold Estate upon the Wife for her Life, and afterwards to the Issue of the Marriage. The Plaintiff Poulson married the said Mary, and she afterwards dying without Issue by him, and without making any Appointment,

The Question was, to whom the Wife's four Ninths should go, whether to the second Husband, or only the 200 l. to go to him, and the Residue to her Children, for want of an Appointment made by the Wife after the second Marriage?

Lord Chancellor for some Time much doubted thereof, for that the Plaintiff the Husband had Notice of the Wife's first Deed; but because he was a Purchaser of these four Ninths, and it being recited in the last Deed, that in case the Wife died without making an Appointment, the Plaintiff the second Husband would be intitled thereto, which (tho' but a Recital) yet shewed the Intention and Agreement of the Parties, and amounted to an [informal] Appointment, and as no strict Form is requisite to constitute such Appointment, and since the latter Deed varied the Power reserved to the Wife, the first Deed requiring that it should be by Writing attested by two Witnesses, and yet by the latter Deed, the Power of Appointment reserved to the Wife being by any Writing duly attested, (in which Case a Writing would have been duly attested, tho' it had but one Witness;)

For these Reasons his Lordship, yet with some Hesitation, decreed the four Ninths to the Plaintiff the second Husband, but at the same Time declared it to be clearly his Opinion, that if the Plaintiff the second Husband had no Notice of the first Deed made by the Wife while she was a Widow, this would have been a void Deed, and fraudulent as against him.

This Decree was afterwards affirmed on an Appeal May 1730. to the House of Lords.

Powell versus Price & al', & econtra. Case 173.
In Scacc'.

UPON Sir Thomas Powell's Marriage with Elizabeth Mansell, and in Consideration of it, and of Articles on Marriage to settle Lands on Husband and Wife for their Lives, Remainder to their first, 5000*l.* Portion, by Articles dated the 2d of March 1693. for making Provisions for the Issue of that Marriage,

&c. Son of the Marriage, Remainder to the Heirs Male of the Body of the Husband by any Wife, Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of the Husband by the first Wife, Remainder to the Husband in Fee, with Provisions for the Daughters of the first Marriage, if no Son; Husband has one Daughter by the first Wife, suffers a Recovery, and marries a second Wife, and takes Notice of the first Marriage Articles in his second Marriage Settlement; the Daughter by the first Marriage barred by this Recovery.

Marriage, Sir Thomas Powell covenanted with the Wife's Trustees to make, do or execute, one or more Conveyance of the Premises in Question in Carmarthenshire, and for the better directing the making of the said Settlement, to the Use of himself for Life, without Waste, Remainder to Trustees and their Heirs during his Life to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder as to Part, to Elizabeth the Wife for her Jointure, Remainder as to the whole, to the Use of the first, &c. Son of the Marriage in Tail Male successively, Remainder to the Heirs Male of his own Body, (i. e. by any Wife) Remainder to the Heirs of his Body by his said Wife Elizabeth, and for want of such Issue, Remainder to the right Heirs of Sir Thomas Powell himself. In which Articles there was a Clause empowering Sir Thomas Powell and his Lady to make Leases at the old Rent; also a Clause, that if Sir Thomas Powell should die without Issue Male by Elizabeth, and there should be Daughters, if but one Daughter, then such Daughter should have the Sum of 3000 l. if more Daughters than one, 4000 l. among them, and this was agreed to be secured on some Part of the Estate.

The Fact happened to be, that there was but one Daughter by this Marriage, Elizabeth married to the Defendant Sir John Price, and no Son.

Sir Thomas Powell surviving his first Wife Elizabeth, and intending to marry a second Wife, Judith the Daughter of Sir James Herbert, suffered a Common Recovery of the Premises, and by Lease and Release dated the 25 & 26 July 1698. settled his whole Estate to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder as to Part, to the Use of his second Wife for Life, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of the second Marriage in Tail Male successively, Remainder to Trustees for 500 Years to raise 5000 l. for Daughters of the Marriage,

(if no Son) Remainder to Sir Thomas Powell in Fee; as to the other Part of the Premises, to the Use of Trustees for ninety-nine Years, in Trust, after Sir Thomas Powell's Death, to raise 3000*l.* for Elizabeth, Daughter of Sir Thomas Powell by the first Marriage, (now Lady Price); and this was declared to be in Satisfaction of all Monies she was intitled to by the first Marriage Articles; and in the mean Time she to have 100*l.* per Annum for her Maintenance, Remainder to Sir Thomas Powell and his Heirs. Three of the Mansells (Relations of the first Wife) were Parties to this second Marriage Settlement. Sir Thomas Powell had Issue three Daughters by his second Wife, but no Son, and died in August 1720.

The Question was, (here being Notice of the first Marriage Articles, by which there was a Limitation, after that to the Heirs Male of Sir Thomas Powell by any Wife, To the Heirs of the Body of Sir Thomas by Elizabeth his first Wife) whether this being in case of Articles, should not be taken as if the Limitation had been to the Daughters of Sir Thomas Powell by his first Wife, for then they could not be barred by the Recovery.

For Sir John Price and his Lady it was insisted, that her Mother and the Issue of the Marriage (and consequently the Lady Price as being the only Child of the Marriage) were Purchasers in Consideration of the Marriage and the Mother's Portion of 5000*l.* That the Limitation to the Heirs of the Body of Sir Thomas Powell by Elizabeth his first Wife, being by way of Articles, must be the same as if it had been to the Daughters; for it could not be intended in Favour of the Sons of that Marriage, there being an express Limitation before to them; and tho' if this had been in a Settlement, there being a precedent Limitation for Life to Sir Thomas Powell, it would have been an Estate-tail in him, and barrable by the common Recovery, yet it was otherwise where it rested upon Articles; for in that Case, an express Estate for Life being limited to the Husband, (as here) such express Estate excludes the raising or vesting of any different Estate in him, by Virtue of any Limitation to the Heirs of his Body; and so it was determined in the Case of (a) West and Errissey, which tho' adjudged in the Exchequer contrary to what was now laboured for, yet that Judgment was reversed in the House of Lords; likewise in the Case of Trevor (b) and Trevor, decreed first by Lord Chancellor Macclesfield, and afterwards affirmed in the House of Lords, as also 2 Vern. 526. Leonard versus Earl of Suffex, and White versus Thornborough, 2 Vern. 702. It was admitted there was a prior Limitation in the Articles to the Heirs Male of the Body of Sir Thomas Powell by any Wife, but this being by way of Articles must have the same Construction as if it had been to the Sons of Sir Thomas by any Wife, and the subsequent Limitation was to the Heirs of the Body of Sir Thomas Powell by Elizabeth his first Wife, so that the Daughters by the first Wife were then in View, their farther Advancement, upon the Contingency of Failure of Issue Male, in Contemplation of the Parties, and the Benefit of such Contingency was to be an Addition to their Portion, and might well be intended to make it up equal to what their Mother brought, which was 5000*l.* and though there was a Portion of 3000*l.* for one Daughter, and 4000*l.* for more Daughters by the first Marriage, yet this was a Provision which was to come to them in all Events, but then the Daughters by the first Marriage were to have the Benefit of this Contingency besides, to have the Land if there were no Sons, which would be some Compensation for the Smallness of their Portion.

(a) See ante 349.

(b) See Vol. I.

It was also admitted, that if the Trustees or second Wife had no Notice of the Articles made on the first Marriage, then their being Purchasers without Notice, would have been a Bar to the Plaintiff's Claim by the Articles.

On the other Side it was said and resolved, that though here was Notice of the Marriage Articles, yet the 3000*l.* secured by the Settlement on the second Marriage, was an actual Satisfaction of all Demands by these Articles; and though a Limitation by Articles to the Heirs Male of the Marriage, after an express Estate for Life to the Father, shall be taken to mean a Remainder to the first, &c. Son, it does not follow, that such a Limitation to the Heirs of the Body, must be equivalent to a Remainder limited to Daughters; especially in this Case, where they were postponed to the Limitation to the Heirs Male of the Body of Sir Thomas Powell by any Wife, and where there was an express pecuniary Provision made for the Daughters by the first Wife, which was all the said Daughters were to depend upon; besides, that Sons are of a different Consideration in Equity from Daughters, they being to support the Name of the Family, which Daughters do not; also in the general Course of Marriage Settlements, Daughters are provided for by pecuniary Portions, and not by Land; that the legal Estate being now in those who claimed under the second Marriage Settlement, and had an equal Equity, it would be hard to take the Benefit of the Law from them, by raking into old stale Articles, and disturbing Settlements made on valuable Consideration, as that in the present Case was, where the Parties had both the Law and Equity on their Side. As to the Case of West versus Eriffey, that, it was true,

Diversity betwixt a Limitation by Marriage Articles to the Heirs of the Body of the Man and the Heirs Female of the Body of the Man; and Sons more favoured than Daughters.

was adjudged in the House of Lords contrary to the Decree made here in the Exchequer; yet if there should be any Difference betwixt that and the present Case, there might be Reason to lay hold of it: Now there was this Diversity; in the Case of West versus Eriffey no Portion was provided for the Daughters of the first Marriage; in the present Case Portions in all Events are secured to such Daughters. In West versus Eriffey, after the Limitation in the Articles to the Heirs Male of the Body of the Husband and Wife, with Remainder to the Heirs Male of the Body of the Husband by any Wife, came the Remainder to the Heirs Female of the Body of the Husband by the first Wife, &c. so that the Daughters were more immediately in the View and Contemplation of the Parties in that, than in the present Case.

Besides which, it was observable (as Mr. Baron Commins said) that in the Year 1693, when these Articles were made, it was usual to construe a Remainder to the Heirs Male of the Body to mean and intend the first, &c. Son of the Marriage; and if so, it would be reasonable to interpret Articles according to the Time in which they were executed; neither ought Length of Time to make any Alteration in Favour of the Daughter by the first Marriage, who had what was then thought and agreed upon to be a competent Provision for her; that it was a material Circumstance in Favour of the second Marriage Settlement, that three of the Mansfells (Relations to the first Wife) were Parties thereto; from whence it seemed that by the general Opinion of the Relations of Sir Thomas Powell's first Wife, this 3000 l. in all Events was thought a sufficient Provision for Lady Price, the only Daughter by the first Marriage, which might reasonably induce the Court to think so too. And by the same Reason that Lady Price would come in for the Estate, she might have barred the second Wife of Sir Thomas Powell of her Jointure, if she had been living, and likewise her Daughters of their pecuniary Portions, which would be very hard.

Wherefore it was decreed, that Lady Price was not intitled to the Premises in Question by Virtue of the Limitation in the first Marriage Articles, to the Heirs of the Body of Sir Thomas Powell by his first Wife.

Whitchurch versus Golding.

Case 174.

Lord Chancellor King.

UPON a Demurrer for not annexing an Affidavit, that the Deed inquired after by the Bill was not in the Custody of the Plaintiff, and upon Debate of the Matter, and looking into the Cases in 1 Chan. Cases 11. (Anonymus) and (a) 1 Vern. 180. it was ruled by Lord Chancellor, that if a Bill be brought only for Discovery and Delivering up of a Deed or Deeds, and which prays no other Relief, there it is not necessary the Plaintiff should annex an Affidavit that he hath not the Deed or Deeds in his Custody; for it cannot be intended a Man will bring a Bill only for discovering or delivering up of that Deed which he himself is possessed of; but if the Bill be for Relief generally upon any Deed or Bond, as to recover the Money upon the Bond, or the Profits of Land under the Deed, in this or the like Case, there must be an Affidavit annexed to the Bill, that the Deed is not in the Plaintiff's Custody, because such a Bill does by Consequence seek to transfer the Jurisdiction from the Common Law to the Court of Equity.

Abridg. of Cases in Equity 14.

In a Bill purely for the discovering of a Deed, or to have the Deed delivered up, no Need of annexing an Affidavit that the Deed is lost; secus if Relief be prayed generally, as to recover the Money on a Bond.

And note, the very next Day, in the Case of Saunders versus Stephens, on Demurrer to a Bill for Want of an Affidavit annexed, that the Deed was not in the Plaintiff's Custody, the Lord Chancellor gave the same Rule, with the same Diversity.

Tynt versus Tynt.

Case 175.

At the Rolls.

A. is Principal in a Recognizance of 5000 l. and B. and C. are Sureties; A. does afterwards

A. Was appointed Receiver of the Plaintiff Sir Hafswell Tynt's Estate during his Infancy, and B. and C. were the Sureties of A. all joining in a Recognizance to the late Master of the Rolls (Sir John Trevor) to account yearly.

jointure his Wife before Marriage in some Lands, without Notice either to the Wife or her Friends of this Recognizance, and devises his real and personal Estate to B. one of his Sureties, and dies. First the personal Estate of A. the Principal shall be applied towards this Recognizance, then his Land devised, the Devisee being a Volunteer, next the Paraphernalia of the Wife of A. the Principal, and lastly the two Sureties shall contribute to make up the Deficiency.

There was 3000 l. found in Arrear in A.'s Hands, who, after giving this Recognizance, settled a good Part of his Lands in Jointure upon his Wife before Marriage, neither the Wife nor her Friends having Notice of the Recognizance when the Settlement was made. A. the Husband, who was the Receiver, by his Will devised all his real and personal Estate to B. one of his Sureties, making him his Executor, and died; the Plaintiff Sir Hafswell Tynt put the Recognizance in Suit, upon which the Widow of A. the Receiver, who was the Jointress, prayed that the personal Estate of her Husband might be first liable, and her Bona Paraphernalia exempted; 2dly, the Land devised to B. the Surety; and in the next Place, the Jointress being a Purchaser without Notice, that the Land of the other Cognizor the Surety should go towards Satisfaction of the Recognizance.

Master of the Rolls: It is plain, that all the personal Estate of A. the principal Cognizor ought to be first applied to satisfy this Recognizance, then the Land devised by A. to B. the Surety, for such Devisee is a Volunteer, and the Jointress a Purchaser; but as to the Lands of the other Cognizor the Surety, they ought to be last applied, and the Jointure must be liable before these, for all the Estate of the principal Cognizor ought to be first subjected; and tho' the Jointress be a Purchaser, yet as she claims under the Grant of the principal Cognizor, she can only stand in his Place, and be in no better Case than he himself was, and it reasonably and probably might be an Inducement for the Sureties to be bound, that they saw the Principal seised and in Possession of so large a real Estate, and the principal Cognizor cannot by his own Act, as against the Surety, discharge any Part of his real Estate, which being liable at Law, ought to be so in Conscience.

Mr. Solicitor General: If the Jointress pays off the Cognizee of the Recognizance, and takes an Assignment of it, then she may extend it at Law, and the Surety shall have no Remedy in Equity against her, she being a Purchaser without Notice; for tho' the Recognizance be a Record, yet in Equity the Purchaser is not bound to take Notice of it.

Cur': This is not the Case; for you neither have, nor are like to have, this Assignment of the Recognizance, it being made to the late Master of the Rolls, and the Court will hardly direct an Assignment of it to load a Surety. But even at Law, if the Jointress should get an Assignment of the Recognizance, and endeavour to load the Sureties, then they may have an Auditâ querelâ, insisting that all the principal Cognizor's Land either in his own Hands, or in the Hands of any Alienees, Alienees, ought to be liable before any of the Sureties Lands be extended. And as to the Bona paraphernalia of the Widow, tho' there be Debts more than the personal Estate will extend to pay, yet as these are liable only in Favour of Creditors, and not of the Heir, nor of the Devisee, who stands in the Place of the Heir, and is Heres factus; if the Lands devised be sufficient to pay the Recognizance, the Bona Paraphernalia shall be enjoyed by the Widow; but if those devised Lands should prove insufficient, the Bona Paraphernalia must be subject before the Sureties Lands shall be extended.

Neal's Case.

Case 176.

Lord Chancellor King.

No Objection that the Committee of the Lunatick's Person is the next of Kin to the Lunatick, and will come in for a Share by the Statute of Distribution, it being for the Interest of the next of Kin to prolong the Lunatick's Life, whereby his personal Estate will be increased.

TWO Sisters of a Lunatick petitioned for the Custody of her Person. The Petitioners were not the Heir at Law, but a deceased Brother's Son was; the Lunatick's Estate consisted of 700*l.* in Money, and a Freehold Estate of 50*l.* per Annum for her Life only; and a Niece, a deceased Sister's Daughter, put in a cross Petition, recommending a third Person to be Committee.

Objected against the two Sisters, that there being a personal Estate, they would be intitled to a distributive Share thereof within the Statute, for which Reason being likely to gain by the Death of the Lunatick, they ought not to be the Committees; so that the Person whom the Niece recommended ought to have it rather than the Sisters.

Mr. Solicitor General: There is not the same Objection against the next of Kin of the Lunatick, on Account of the personal Estate, as there is against the Heir (a) with Regard to the real Estate; for the personal sonal Estate may increase, and probably will by good Management during the Life of the Lunatick; thus the longer the Lunatick lives, it will be the better for the next of Kin, consequently it is for their Interest to preserve and prolong the Lunatick's Life, whereas the real Estate cannot be increased*.

And it appearing that the Niece who had preferred the cross Petition, did recommend a necessitous Man to be the Committee of the Person, one who was a Day-Labourer and a Mole-Catcher, and had but a very mean Cottage, with only one Fire-Place in the whole House, (which was an Argument the Niece did not care what became of her Lunatick Aunt) His Lordship granted the Commitment of the Person of the Lunatick to her two Sisters, and both Parties agreed that the Commitment of the Estate should go to one Bean a neighbouring Gentleman of a fair Character, who was likely to manage it to the best Advantage.

A. Took out a Commission of Bankruptcy against B. and kept it for six Months without doing any Thing upon it, and then executed it, and B. thereupon was found a Bankrupt.

One sues out a Commission of Bankruptcy, and for six Months keeps it, without doing any Thing upon it; the Court, for this Reason only, superseded the Commission, tho' it was executed, and the Trader found a Bankrupt before any Application to supersede it.

On a Petition to supersede this Commission, it was said by A. in Excuse for his having kept the Commission so long by him without executing it, that he was not certain at first his Proof was sufficient to find B. a Bankrupt, but it appeared afterwards there were good Grounds for a Commission, and that B. was accordingly found a Bankrupt.

Lord Chancellor: It was very ill done in A. to keep the Commission so long in his Pocket, and unless, or until he had sufficient Proof of the Bankruptcy, he ought not to have taken out the Commission, which, by having been kept so long in his Pocket, may have been the Means of drawing in Multitudes of People to give Credit to the Bankrupt, and of furnishing him with Opportunities of defrauding many; wherefore, for Example Sake, let the Commission be superseded.

And it being said, that this would only bring a fresh Expence upon the Bankrupt's Estate, the Charge of another Commission, His Lordship replied, he would take Care that the former Commission should not be at the Charge of the Bankrupt's Estate.

Effects in Specie in his Hands; but the Administrator denying this upon Oath, and swearing that there were Debts by Specialty beyond the Assets, the Court thought this proper for a Bill and not for a summary Way of accounting before Commissioners.

Against the Petition I urged, that this Matter was not fit to be ended in a summary Way, but that a Bill would be necessary to determine it; for that J. N. the Heir and Administratrix of the Assignee had made an Affidavit, that she never confessed the Assignee her Father kept the Bankrupt's Money in a separate Bag or Place, nor did she believe the Fact to be so; that the Assignee the Father died indebted by Specialty, and otherwise, several thousand Pounds beyond all his Assets; that she had paid some Bonds, and Actions were depending upon others, that it was in her Election to prefer which of the Specialties she pleased; and the Commissioners were not proper to determine in a summary Way, whether the Payments already made by the Administratrix, or which she should make, were or would be good and legal; or if they should make such Determination, this could be no ways binding to the other Creditors; therefore the Order now desired, that the Daughter and Administratrix of the Assignee should account with the Commissioners, would be of no Use, since the Creditors might notwithstanding bring their Action, or Bill in Equity against the said Daughter and Administratrix. For which Reasons Lord Chancellor ordered the Petition of the new Assignees to be dismissed, and directed them to bring their Bill.

Desbody versus Boyville.

PPETER Boyville* by Will gave to his Executors some South-Sea Stock and Annuities, in Trust to apply the Dividends thereof, for the Maintenance of the Plaintiff his Granddaughter, until she should attain the age of twenty-one, and if she should marry without the Consent of the Executors, the Legacy to go over; this Condition, tho' general, must yet be intended, if she marries under twenty-one sans Consent of the Executors, and on the Daughter's coming to twenty-one, the Court will decree the Legacy to her.

the Age of twenty-one, or be married; and to the Intent that they should transfer the said Stock and Annuities to the Plaintiff when she should attain the Age of twenty-one, or be married with the Consent of A. and B. But that in Case she should marry without the Consent of A. and B. the Executors to pay her the Dividends during her Life, and after her Death transfer the said Stock and Annuities to her Children, and if she died without Issue, then to go over.

The Plaintiff having attained twenty-one, brought her Bill to have the Stock and Annuities transferred to her, which was opposed by the Remainder-man, who insisted, that in Regard the Plaintiff was not married, and if she married without the Consent of A. and B. (which possibly might happen to be the Case) then she was only to have the Dividends for her Life; therefore the Stock and Annuities ought not to be absolutely vested in her

Lord Chancellor was of Opinion, that the Plaintiff having attained twenty-one, she had an absolute Interest vested in her, and the Testator having expressly directed that the Stock and Annuities should be transferred to her when she was twenty-one, the Condition annexed to her Marriage must be restrained to her Marriage before twenty-one; for if the Stock and Annuities were transferred to the Plaintiff at twenty-one (as the Will said they ought to be) the Executors, in Case she should afterwards marry without the Consent of A. and B. could not after her Death transfer the Stock to her Children, or if no Issue, to the Remainder-man; from whence it was plain, that the Testator could not intend there should be any Forfeiture, but only in Case the Plaintiff should have married without Consent under twenty-one; and therefore the Stock and Annuities were decreed to be transferred to the Plaintiff.

UPON a Reference by the Court to a Master, to examine whether an Infant was a bare Trustee, and so to be ordered to assign over the Estate within the late Act of 7 Anna, cap. 19. The Master reported, that the Father from whom the Estate descended to the Infant, had frequently acknowledged he was only a bare Trustee, and Proof was read, that the Purchase-money was paid by Mr. Vernon, who devised the Estate to the Petitioner, but the Receipt in Writing had been given to the Infant's Father; that the Cestui que Trust and those under him had been all along in the Possession of the Writings and of the Estate, which was 40 s. per Annum, being a Burgage-House in Whitchurch in Hampshire.

The Court will not on Motion or Petition order an Infant Trustee to convey, unless the Trust appear in Writing, but in such Case will leave the Cestui que Trust to get a Decree by Bill.

Lord Chancellor: I am satisfied that this is but a Trust; a resulting Trust, by Reason of the Payment of the Money by Mr. Vernon the Testator; and as it is an Estate of small Value, and I hear it now said, that I have made the like Order heretofore, for such a Conveyance of a Burgage-House in the same Borough from Mr. Vernon's Trustee, I will, in this Case also, make an Order that the Infant shall convey, since a Decree will cost the Value of the Fee-simple of the Burgage-House in Question: However, where there is no Declaration of Trust in Writing, I shall for the future leave the Cestui que Trust to bring his Bill and have a Decree against the Infant to convey, because these Orders for an Infant Trustee to convey, ought to be in * the plainest Cases, and not in such as are subject to the Disputes, which Trusts without Writing may be liable to.

* So held also by Lord Talbot, in the Case of Godwyn versus Lister, 7 November 1735.

Case 181.

Walker versus Meager.

Lord Chancellor King.

Where there is a Devise of Lands to Executors to pay Debts and Legacies; the Debts to be first paid; for this being legal Assets, Payment must be in a Course of Administration; secus in Case of a bare Trust to pay Debts and Legacies.

A. B. made his Will beginning it thus: As to such Effects whereof God has appointed me Steward, I charge the same with the Payment of all such Debts as I shall owe at my Death, and also with the several Legacies herein after bequeathed; and after giving several Legacies, he devised some Copyhold Lands which he had surrendered to the Use of his Will to his eldest Son and his Heirs, subject to, and charged with all his just Debts, and the several Legacies therein before bequeathed, and made his said Son Executor, who proved the Will and died. Upon a Bill brought by the Creditors against the Representatives of the Son, an Account of Assets was decreed, and all further Directions reserved until after the Account taken.

Now coming on, upon the Master's Report, it appeared, that great Part of the personal Estate had been wasted by the Executor, and the rest applied in the Payment of some Debts; and that the Copyhold had been sold to pay off a Mortgage made thereof by the Testator, and the Remainder of the Money arising by the Sale was not sufficient to pay the rest of the Debts and Legacies.

The Question was, whether the Creditors should have a Preference, and be first paid out of the Monies arising by the Sale before the Legatees, or whether the Creditors and Legatees should be paid pari passu?

It was insisted for the Creditors, that the Testator in the Beginning of his Will, seemed to declare his Intention, that his Debts should be first paid, the Words and also importing, that after his Debts paid, the Estate should be further charged with his Legacies.

But to this it was answered, that the Words imported nothing more in the natural Construction of them, than the Testator's meaning, that his Estate should be charged both with his Debts and Legacies; and tho' the Debts were first mentioned, yet that would not give them a Preference; for if so, the first Legacy in a Will must be first paid, then the second, and so on.

Further it was said, that where an Estate is charged with Debts and Legacies, Equity would give the Preference to the Debts, it being reasonable to suppose a Man intended to be just before he was bountiful, for which was cited 2 Vern. 405. as also the Case of Petre versus Bruen in Lord Harcourt's Time, which was thus: A Man before the Statute of fraudulent Devises, devised a Freehold Estate to his second Son and his Heirs, subject to the Payment of his Debts, and a Legacy of 500 l. And the Question being, whether the Debts should be preferred to the Legacy, Lord Harcourt said he would expound the Testator's Meaning to be what it ought to be, To pay his Debts before he was charitable, and in Consequence thereof decreed the Debts to be first paid. Now there was no Difference betwixt that and the present Case, for as here the Copyhold was not liable to pay the Debts otherwise than by the Will, so neither was the Freehold devised before the Statute of fraudulent Devises, unless made so by the Will. Besides, what made the present Case stronger in Favour of the Creditors, was, that the Devise being to the Executor, the Money would become legal Assets and ought to be applied, as all other legal Assets, in a Court of Administration.

To which it was replied on Behalf of the Legatees, that the Copyhold Estate not being liable at Law to pay the Testator's Debts, it was a Bounty in the Testator to make it so; wherefore the Creditors were really in Nature of Legatees; and there being no express Preference given to them by the Will, they ought in Equity to be paid equally with the Legatees.

Lord Chancellor: The Words [and also] are not material, but what is most material in this Case is, that the Devise is to the Executor, which must be taken to be a Devise to him to enable him to pay the Testator's Debts and Legacies, and this is Assets; and whether legal or equitable Assets, it is the same Thing; for equitable Assets in the Hands of the Executor must be applied as legal Assets are, first to pay Debts, and then Legacies; indeed if this was a bare (a) Trust to pay Debts and Legacies, it might be otherwise, and the Legatees might then have a Right to be paid equally; but this is not the Case here.

Decree the unsatisfied Creditors to be paid out of the Remainder of the Money arising by Sale of the Copyhold Estate in the first place.

(a) Quere autem, Whether it is not now the Practice, in case of a Trust for Payment of Debts and Legacies, to prefer the former; and see the Case of Greaves versus Powell, 2 Vern. 248.

Lord Chancellor King.

Husband by Will gives an Annuity of 10 l. per Annum to his Niece A. an Annuity of 10 l. per Annum to his Niece B. and makes his Wife Executrix; the Wife by Will gives 10 l. per Annum to the said A. and 10 l. per Annum to the said B. to begin upon the Contingencies of their surviving their respective Mothers; these must be intended additional Annuities, and not in Satisfaction of those given by the Husband's Will; so tho' not given upon such Contingencies, and greater in Point of Duration, yet if not expressed by the Wife to Heirs for ever, and to her Daughter the Defendant Elizabeth Dimmock an Annuity of 5 l. to hold to her and her Heirs for ever; all the said Annuities to be paid quarterly at Lady-day, Midsummer, Michaelmas, and Christmas; and the Payments to begin at such of the said Quarter-Days as should first happen next after her Decease; and directed that all the said Annuities should be charged upon and paid out of her personal Estate by the Defendant John Norman, until a Purchase could be made for the more sure Payment thereof, and the Testatrix directed that John Norman should lay out the Sum of 1000 l. or such other Sum of Money as should be sufficient to make a Purchase of some Freehold Lands of Inheritance within 50 Miles of London, and settle the same for the more sure Payment of all these Annuities, which Lands should only be subject to the Payment thereof; but if any of the Rents remained, such Surplus should be yearly divided among the Annuitants in Proportion to their respective Annuities, and appointed John Norman sole Trustee to pay them during his Life, and such other Person or Persons and their Heirs, as he should appoint Trustee or Trustees to pay the same after his Death, and to receive the Rent of the Estates so to be purchased for that Purpose.

The Question was, Whether the Annuities given by the Will of Elizabeth Boddington to Elizabeth Potter, Elizabeth Nicholls, Martha Dimmock, and Elizabeth Dimmock, should be taken as a Satisfaction of the like Annuities given to them by the Will of Thomas Boddington, (they being bequeathed by her who having her Husband's personal Estate, was become a Debtor in Respect thereof, and consequently might intend the Legacies in Satisfaction of such Debt) or whether they should have the several Annuities given to them by both the Wills?

Lord Chancellor : 1st, As to the Annuities given by the Will of Elizabeth Boddington to the Defendant Elizabeth Potter and Elizabeth Nicholls, these being given upon the Contingencies of their surviving their respective Mothers, there can be no Pretence to say they shall be a Satisfaction of the Annuities given them absolutely by the Testator Thomas Boddington's Will.

2<sup>dly</sup>, As to the Annuities given to the Defendants Martha and Elizabeth Dimmock by the Will of the Testatrix, altho' they be of the same yearly Value, and greater in Point of Duration than those given by the Testator's Will, yet as she has not declared, that the one shall be a Satisfaction for the other, I see no Reason why it may not be supposed the Testatrix intended to be kind as well as just to her Husband's Relations, and to make an Addition to what he had given them.

Wherefore decree that the Defendants Martha and Elizabeth Dimmock shall have the several Annuities given them by both Wills, and that the other Defendants Elizabeth Potter and Elizabeth Nicholls, besides what is given them by the Testator, shall also have the Annuities given them by the Will of the Testatrix, if they survive their respective Mothers.

Case 183.

At the Rolls.Hawkins versus Crook.

Taking a Bill pro Confesso not of long standing, it having been formerly the Practice to put the Plaintiff to make Proof of the Substance of the

THIS Bill was brought by Thomas Hawkins Brother and Heir of John Hawkins, to set aside his Brother's Will dated the 1st of December 1727, whereby the Testator had devised his real and personal Estate to the Defendant Japhet Crook, charging the same with some Legacies and Charities; the Bill suggested, that the Defendant had obtained this Will by Fraud and Imposition.

Bill, though the Defendant stood out to the last Process. But latterly the Practice has been, that if the Defendant appears to a Bill and stands out in Contempt to a Sequestration, the Cause is set down to be heard, and the Record of the Bill produced and taken pro Confesso; but if Time be given to a Defendant to Answer, though after the Sequestration, and though the Answer be reported insufficient, yet the Bill shall not be taken pro Confesso.

The Defendant Crook having appeared to the Bill, stood in Contempt to a Sequestration for not answering; whereupon the Plaintiff obtained an Order for setting down the Cause, to the Intent the Bill might be taken pro confesso; but the Defendant having procured an Order for putting off the Cause for some few Days, in the mean Time put in an Answer, to which the Plaintiff took above twenty Exceptions, and the Answer being reported insufficient as to most of these, the Plaintiff served the Defendant with a Subpoena for a better Answer; whereupon the Defendant put in a second Answer, which was also reported insufficient in near twenty Exceptions; eighteen of which were in Relation to Letters written by the Defendant to the Testator Hawkins, the Bill praying a Discovery, whether the Defendant did write such Letters: And these being in the Hands of the Plaintiff's Clerk in Court, and the Defendant (having been all along from the Time of exhibiting the Bill in the Prison of B. R. upon Account of a criminal Prosecution) applied to the Plaintiff's Clerk in Court, offering him a Guinea, to bring the Letters to him in the King's Bench Prison, that he might be enabled to answer concerning them, and also petitioned the Master of the Rolls that the Plaintiff's Clerk in Court might attend the Defendant in the Prison of B. R. suggesting in his Petition, that he could not otherwise put in a full Answer.

But this being only two Days before the Cause was to come on, in order to take the Bill pro confesso, and after two insufficient Answers, the Master of the Rolls took it to be for Delay only, and refused the Petition; whereupon the Defendant put in a third Answer, setting forth that he could not answer positively as to these several Letters, having had no Opportunity of seeing them, but that he did believe he wrote such Letters, and also answered the other two Exceptions. This Answer was put in on the Saturday, and the Cause came on the Monday following, when I moved that the Defendant might have farther Time to answer.

Because, 1st, The Practice of taking a Bill pro confesso is not of long standing, the ancient Way being, to put the Plaintiff to make Proof of the Substance of the Bill, tho' the Defendant had stood out to the last Process, a Sequestration. 1 Vern. 224. Sir James Johnson versus Desminere. In 1 Vern. 247. Gibson versus Scevington, the Court appeared to be in Doubt, whether it should grant such an Order; and indeed the Consequence of it was extraordinary, to take every Thing pro confesso which the fruitful Fancy of a Counsel could invent, suggest, or put into a Bill, and make all pass for Truth. 2<sup>dly</sup>, The Reason of this Order must be, that the Defendant appearing, and refusing to put in any Answer at all, the Plaintiff is by that Means incapable of joining Issue, and deprived of the Opportunity of examining any Witnesses; whereas when the Defendant puts in an Answer, tho' it be insufficient, yet the Plaintiff has it then in his Power to reply, and prove his whole Bill, consequently is not without Remedy. 3<sup>dly</sup>, There can be no Precedent produced for this; and what makes the present Case still the harder is, that by this Order, not only what had not been answered would be taken pro confesso, but even such Part as was sufficiently answered; and it seemed very strange, when the Master said the Defendant had answered all the Bill, except such a Part of it, and the Plaintiff acquiesced under such Report, that the Court should now be desired to look upon that as confessed, which the Defendant in Fact upon his Oath had well and sufficiently denied. 4<sup>thly</sup>, This was stranger yet, when all the Parts of the Bill which contained any Charge of Fraud had been denied, and only some Letters not answered to, which the Defendant being a Prisoner could not see nor have Access to, though the same had been left in the Hands of the Plaintiff's Clerk in Court.

On the other Side it was said, that this Order for taking the Bill pro confesso was usual, when no Answer was put in, and an insufficient Answer being as no

Answer, the Order was therefore regular; that though the Court had afterwards indulged the Defendant in giving him farther Time, yet he having made an ill Use of such Indulgence, deserved no Favour; and it was no Answer to say, that by an insufficient Answer the Plaintiff is put into a Condition to examine his Witnesses, and prove his whole Bill, since the Justice of this Court was not thereby satisfied; for the Plaintiff was intitled to have a Discovery from the Defendant, and (it might be) of such Facts as could not be otherwise proved by the Plaintiff; therefore it was just to say in this, as well as in other Respects, that an insufficient Answer was no Answer. That farther, this Method of Equity intaking a Bill pro confesso was consonant to the Rule and Practice of Courts at Law, where, if the Defendant makes Default by Nihil dicit, Judgment is immediately given in Debt, or in all Cases, where the Thing demanded is certain; but where the Matter sued for consists in Damages, a Judgment interlocutory is given, after which a Writ of Enquiry goes to ascertain the Damages, and then follows the Judgment final.

Whereupon, altho' no Precedent was cited in the Case, the Bill was in Part read, and his Honour the Master of the Rolls pronounced his final Decree, for the Defendant to account for the Rents and Profits received by him, that there should be a perpetual Injunction, and a Reconveyance.

But an Appeal (a) being brought from this Decree before Lord Chancellor King, his Lordship differed in Opinion, observing that though in this Case there was an Order for a Sequestration before any Answer put in, yet the Court would consider how Matters stood when the Decree to take the Bill pro confesso was made; it was sufficient there was at that Time an Answer

(a) July 1730. Lord Chancellor King.

Answer put in, and that it was an Answer, plainly appeared, nay had been admitted to be so, even by the Plaintiff himself, when he sued out Proceſs for a better, ſince it could not, with any Propriety of Speech, be called a better Answer, unleſs there was ſome Answer put in before. That here was alſo a third Answer, which muſt be admitted to be a full one, becauſe not referred for Inſufficiency. Now he could not (he ſaid) reconcile it to Reaſon or common Senſe, that a Defendant ſhould be ſaid to confeſs the whole Bill to be true, when it appeared by the Maſter's Report, (which was a Record of the ſame Court) that he had answered the greateſt Part of it, and when the Plaintiff himſelf had taken the firſt Answer to be an Answer in Part, by ſerving the Defendant with Proceſs to put in a better.

Wherefore the Decree at the Rolls for taking the Bill pro confeſſo was reverſed.

Charles Harris & al', Defendants.

Henry Goodall Yeoman being seised in Fee of a real Estate of 36 l. per Annum, and possessed of a personal Estate of 450 l. by Will dated 25th January 1723, devised all his real and personal Estate to his Daughter, with a Devise over, in Case the Daughter died before twenty-one or Marriage, and made the Defendant Charles Harris, Comper, and Treacle, Guardians to his said Daughter, desiring them to take Care of the Infant and of her Estate during her Minority; and the Testator dying in April 1725, Administration was granted to the Guardians during the Minority of the Daughter.

One of the Guardians of an Infant Girl of about nine Years old, takes her from a Boarding School, and marries her to his own Son, who has no Estate; the Court ordered the Guardian to produce the Girl in Court, and then committed her to the other Guardian, ordering an Information to be brought against the Guardian who married the Ward to her Disparagement; but held this to be no Contempt, the Ward not being under the immediate Care of the Court.

Comper, one of the Guardians, educated the Daughter under him while he lived; but he dying in May last, she was placed at a Boarding School at Salisbury by the surviving Guardians, and afterwards the Defendant Harris, one of the Guardians, taking the Infant from the Boarding School, married her (being then of the Age of nine Years and three Months) to his own Son Francis Harris, who had no Estate, and was an Apprentice to a Perule-Maker.

Lord Chancellor on Motion ordered Harris the Guardian to bring into Court this Infant whom he had married to his Son, and that he, his Son, and the Infant should attend, who accordingly all attending,

Mr. Verney moved, that tho' the Defendant Harris was a testamentary Guardian, yet having in so perfidious a Manner broken his Trust, and married his Ward to his own Son who was worth nothing, the Court of Chancery, the Guardian of all Infants, and which had a Superintendency and Cognizance of all Trusts, ought to commit this perfidious Guardian, and not suffer the Girl, now but nine Years and three Months old, to continue to cohabit with her Husband, who having no Estate ought not to be indulged with Opportunities of inveigling her, and preventing her from disagreeing to the Marriage when she should come to the Age of twelve Years, which it would be for her Interest to do; and therefore it was prayed, that the Court would commit the Custody to any other Person, it being doubted whether the other Guardian, who was in Wiltshire, would take her, and it was not proper to intrust this Guardian any longer with the Custody of the Infant.

Lord Chancellor : The Infant Girl never having been under the Care of the Court, nor committed by the Court to the Custody of the Defendant Harris, I do not think this (a) an immediate Contempt of the Court; but then it is a very ill Thing in the Guardian to marry this Child to his own Son, and punishable by an Information; and I will have this Guardian bound over with Sureties to be taken by the Master, to appear and answer to an Information to be exhibited by the Attorney General against him.

After which Certificate, there was another Motion for a new Trial; and the Master of the Rolls being present in Court, and his Lordship desiring his Thoughts on this Matter, his Honour said, the only Objection to the new Trial, appeared to be the Death of the Witness, and though it had been said, that the Weight of a living Witness would be greater than Depositions, yet it was his Opinion, that since this Witness had been examined in the Cause, and was dead, the Depositions might be read; also, as the Testimony which the Witness had given at the former Trial, might be given again in Evidence against the same Parties, he should rather think, that the other Side had suffered by the Death of the Witness, since they had thereby lost the Advantage of cross-examining. And the Court ordered a new Trial to be had at the Bar of the Common Pleas, where, after a very long Evidence on both Sides, the Jury found a Verdict for the Defendant, which was contrary to the former Verdict.

And now a Trial was again moved for; upon which it being sent back to the Judges of C. B. to know whether this Cause was proper to be tried again, the Chief Justice acquainted the Lord Chancellor, that there had been very strong Evidence given on each Side, in so much that he could not have blamed the Verdict, on which Side soever it had been given, and that he could not say this Verdict was against Evidence.

Afterwards another Application was made for a new Trial, when it was insisted, that this Matter relating to an Inheritance, it would be very hard to have the Right determined by one Trial, though at Bar, and divers Cases were cited, where new Trials were granted after a Trial at (a) Bar; and this ought the rather to be done in the present Case, where there had been Verdict against Verdict, and consequently the Matter seemed to be left at large.

(a) See the Case of Leighton versus Leighton, Vol. I.

But the Chancellor and the Master of the Rolls denied a new Trial; saying, otherwise there would be no End of Suits; that a Trial at Bar, where more Time might be allowed, and the Party was put to more Expence, was of greater Weight than one by Nisi prius; that the Intent of the Court in sending the Cause to be tried at Bar was, that it might be final; but this Case was the stronger, as the Issue to be tried related only to the Intention of the Party, and not to any legal Title, which Question might have been determined at the Hearing, without ever sending it to a Trial; and here being a Trial at Bar, this might justly claim a Preference to a Trial by Nisi prius, and was sufficient to satisfy the Conscience of the Court; but that still, if the Party, against whom the Decree was, thought he had a legal Title, the Court did not debar him of that.

Chapman & al' versus Monson & e- contra. Case 187.
Lord Chancellor King.

THE Plaintiffs in the original Bill were Occupiers of Meadow and Pasture Ground within the Parishes of Burgh and Winthorp, in the County of Lincoln, but did not inhabit within either of the said Parishes, and they brought their Bill on Behalf of themselves and others, Occupiers of Lands, and who did not inhabit within either of these Parishes, to establish a Modus for Tithes.

A Modus, that every Occupier of Land within the Parish of A. living out of the Parish, shall pay a Penny an Acre for all Pasture Land within the Parish, but if he lives within the Parish, to pay Tithes in Kind, a good Modus.

The Modus, as laid, was, that in the two Parishes of Burgh and Winthorp, the Bishop of Lincoln for the Time being was Impropiator, and the Defendant Mr. Monson Lessee for three Lives under the Bishop; the Parishes were near the Sea, and consisted chiefly of Marsh-Lands; and the Modus, as to the Parish of Burgh was, that every Person not inhabiting within the Parishes of Burgh and Winthorp, occupying any Meadow and Pasture Land within the Parish of Burgh, had Time out of Mind paid to the Appropriator of the Parish, his Farmer or Tenant, on every Good-Friday, or as soon after as demanded, the Sum of 4 d. per Acre every Year as a Modus, in Satisfaction for all Tithes, and so proportionably for every greater or lesser Quantity.

And the same Custom (mutatis mutandis) was laid for the Occupiers of Meadow and Pasture Lands within the Parish of Winthorp, not inhabiting within the Parishes of Winthorp or Burgh, that they should be privileged from paying of Tithes in Kind, paying a Modus of 4 d. per Acre for every Acre of Meadow or Pasture within the said Parish of Winthorp, and so in Proportion for any greater or lesser Quantity.

The Defendant Mr. Monson demurred to the Bill, for that it appeared on the Face thereof, that this was an unreasonable Modus, as it favoured Foreigners, not Inhabitants within the Parish, more than those who were Inhabitants, and bore the chargeable and burdensome Offices of the Parish; also, because the Modus was uncertain, and not permanent, and in one Year Tithes might be paid, and in the next a Modus, but in the third Year Tithes in Kind again, for which were cited 1 Lev. 116. and 1 Keb. 602. Bawdrey versus Bushell, where, upon a Motion for a Prohibition, the whole Court held this to be an unreasonable Modus; and particularly in Keb. it is said, to be an Invention to cheat the Parson.

Lord Chancellor took Time till the next Day to look into the Books, and then declared he did not approve of the Reason given in Levinz, that the Inhabitants ought to be more favoured in the Modus than the Foreigners, in Regard the Inhabitants were liable to the Repairs and Vestments of the Church; whereas by the Resolution in Jeffrey's Case, 5 Co. 66. b. a Foreigner occupying Lands within the Parish, tho' living out of the Parish, is liable to the Repairs, and to be taxed even to the Ornaments of the Church, there being no Reason, but that as he is an Inhabitant in one Respect, he should be so in all, as to paying Rates and Taxes; and his Lordship called this a sudden Opinion upon a Motion, and therefore would not allow the Demurrer.

Afterwards in Hill. Term 1729, this Cause coming on to be heard, Lord Chancellor desired to be assisted by Mr. Justice Reynolds, and Mr. Justice Fortescue, who being present, and the Custom being declared by the Court to be well proved, the only Question was, Whether the Modus was good in Law?

Lord Chancellor King,
Mr. Justice Reynolds,

Against the Modus it was insisted, That as Tithes are a Revenue of Common Right belonging to the Church, so every Custom derogating from this common Right ought to be taken strictly; that according to this Custom, if an Inhabitant of the Parish of Burgh, occupying Lands within the Parish, should leave the Parish, and take an House, or even a Lodging in any neighbouring Parish except Winthorp, this would intitle him to the Advantage of the Modus; so that an Inhabitant by his own voluntary Act, and by so slight a one, as going (perhaps) on the other Side of the Highway or Hedge, (which possibly may be the Boundary of the Parish) would be privileged from paying Tithes in Kind; that tho' it should be admitted, a Modus would be good, that every Inhabitant, or Occupier of Lands within the Parish (tho' not an Inhabitant) should pay 4 d. an Acre for every Acre of Pasture or Meadow Land within the Parish: Yet (as in the principal cipal Case) for a Modus to arise on so frivolous an Account, as that of leaving the Parish, and taking an House or Lodging in the next Parish, was unreasonable, just in the same Manner, as if there should be a Modus or Custom, that if any Inhabitant left the Town, and continued to occupy Lands there, he should be intitled to the Benefit of a Modus, purely on the Consideration of his having left the Town, which surely would not be good; for the Consideration to intitle a Parishioner to a Modus, must be something which was (originally at least) for the Benefit of the Parson, and therefore a Consideration that the Parishioner was to repair the Church, would not be good; secus if the Modus were in Consideration of his repairing the Chancel, or even the Parson's Pew; but the Parishioners leaving the Parish would be so far from being a Benefit to the Parson, that it would turn much to his Disadvantage, by depriving him of the personal and small Tithes; that every Modus for Tithes, if good, must be supposed to have had a reasonable Commencement; but what reasonable Cause could be assigned for the Commencement of this Modus, which so manifestly favoured mere Strangers and Foreigners, beyond the Inhabitants of the Place, and which would tempt and encourage every Inhabitant to desert the Town, for the Sake of that prevailing Motive, his own Interest, by which Means the Parish might become desolate, and the Parson have no Parishioners left to preach to. Again, every Modus in Lieu of Tithes must be supposed to have commenced originally by the Agreement and Consent of Parson, Patron and Ordinary; but what could be imagined to have induced the Parson to consent and agree to such a Modus, by which he might be deprived of all his Parishioners, in Hopes of getting an Exemption from Payment of Tithes? Also every Modus which conduced to Fraud was an ill Modus; see Degg's Parsons Counsellor 308. cap. 16. where it is said the Law so much abhors Fraud in this Respect, as to allow of nothing which may introduce it. In 1 Leo. 99. Stebbs versus Goodlack, the Parson of Letcome in Berks libelled in the Spiritual Court against the Defendant for Tithes of Corn; the Defendant shewed a Custom in Letcome, that the Parson, as a Modus for the Tithes of Corn, should have the tenth Land sown with Corn, and should begin his Reckoning at the Land which was next the Church, and so the next Year at the next Land, &c. and insisted on this Custom: The Parson thereupon shewed, that the Defendant the Farmer by Fraud and Covin, every Year sowed the tenth Land very thin with Corn, and never dung'd or manured it, so that the other nine Lands, each brought forth every Year thrice as much as the Parson's Land; wherefore, in Regard the Defendant had abused the Custom, the Parson sued for Tithes in Kind. The Farmer at first got a Prohibition on Account of the Custom, but the Parson afterwards had a Consultation, Wray Chief Justice saying this Custom was against common Reason. Now if this were so, that a Modus conducing to Fraud was ill, how can any Modus be a greater Inlet to Fraud, or more productive of it than this, where some of the Parishioners would be continually leaving the Parish, and taking Lodgings in the next, to avoid paying Tithes in Kind, and those who staid behind, would be continually imposing on the Parson by threatning to leave the Parish, if he did not accept of Half his Dues? Besides, every Modus in Lieu of Tithes ought to be certain and permanent; in Salk. 656. Archbishop of York versus Duke of Newcastle, it is said by the Judges (tho' in other Matters they differed) that a Modus must be an annual Profit both certain and permanent; and the Words in Deg. 308. are, "That every Modus must " have Continuance, and cannot be good at one

“ Time, and sleep at another.” That as Reason was thus against the Custom, so there were two express Authorities, (viz.) 1 Lev. 115. and 1 Keb. 602. and tho’ the Reason in 1 Lev. might go a little too far, in saying the Custom ought rather to favour the Parishioners than Foreigners, by Reason that the Parishioners were at the Charge of repairing the Church, whereas even Foreigners were liable to be taxed for that Purpose if they occupied Lands within the Parish; yet so far it might be urged in Favour of Inhabitants beyond Foreigners, that they were liable to burdensome Offices, as Church-wardens and Overseers, who by the Stat. of 43 Eliz. are directed to be chosen yearly out of the principal Inhabitants; or if an Occupier of Lands only was an Inhabitant to all Intents and Purposes, then there would be no Ground for the Custom to make a Distinction; that the Custom saying, any Person occupying Lands, and not an Inhabitant, should be intitled to the Benefit of the Modus, was uncertain, as it did not say for how long Time such Person should not have inhabited within the Parish, whether for a Week or a Month, &c. Also as every Person occupying Lands, who was not an Inhabitant, ought to pay 4 d. an Acre, and so in Proportion for any lesser Quantity; this (it was observed) was one Farthing for every sixteenth Part of an Acre; but if it should be but a seventeenth Part, then it would amount to a Custom in non decimando.

Attorney General contra: As this Modus has been uninterrupted Time out of Mind, so there may have been a Purchaser of Part of this Land, who has paid the dearer for it, from a Dependence upon the Modus, and consequently, by setting aside the Modus, the Purchaser would be injured. There is no Necessity that the Modus should be permanent; in Godb. 194. Brown’s Case, a Man had a Modus decimandi for Hay in Black- acre, he sowed the said Acre seven Years together with Corn, yet this was held not to destroy the Modus, but that the same should continue, when the Acre was made into Hay; also it is there said, that if the Vicar be endowed of Tithes of Hay, the same Close, when kept as Meadow and mowed, shall pay Tithes to the Vicar, and when sown with Corn, shall pay Tithes of Corn to the Parson; by which Case it appears not to be necessary, that the same Land should always pay a Modus, but may sometimes pay Tithes in Kind, and sometimes a Modus, and yet the Modus subsist. With regard to the Fraud objected as incident to the Modus in the principal Case, that which every Thing is liable to, cannot be a good Objection against any particular Thing; for this Fraud may be suggested in all Modus's; particularly in the Case in Godbolt, the Land-owner might say to the Parson, if you will compound with me for Tithes, I will sow the Land, else I will mow it and use it for Meadow, and then you (the Parson) will not have the Tithes, but the Vicar. In the Case of Coltford versus Pease, Cro. Eliz. 136. a Custom was, that Time out of Mind every Inhabitant of Sal, who occupied Pasture Lands in Dale, paid Tithes for these Pasture Lands to the Vicar of Sal, and that the Vicar paid 2 d. for every Acre to the Parson of Dale; the Court held this a good Custom, though it depended on the Uncertainty of an Inhabitancy, and that the Vicar of Sal's paying 2 d. per Acre to the Parson of the other Parish for this Pasture, was the same Thing as if this Composition were paid by the Occupier of the Land itself, being equally beneficial to the Parson. Then as to the Commencement of this Modus, the same may have been a reasonable one, since this Parish of Burgh, having a great Tract of Land, it might be for the Good of the Land and of the Parson to encourage Foreigners to come, take and manure this Land, by exempting empting them from paying of Tithes in Kind, but still they were to pay 4 d. per Acre to the Parson, which was for the Parson's Benefit, as it might be supposed, that otherwise the Land would have laid Waste, uncultivated, and yield no Profit, consequently no Tithes at all.

Every Modus must be certain, or else it is void, and no Length of Time will make it good. Thus a Modus to pay a Penny per Ann. or thereabouts for every Acre, void. Modus to pay 12 d. per Acre for every Acre of Up-Land and 6 d. for every Acre of Marsh-Land, good.

A Modus need not be the same every Year, as while the Religious Houses held the Lands in their own Hands.

The Lord Chancellor and the two Judges held this a good Modus; they admitted, that every Modus must be certain, and if it was uncertain, no Length of Time would make it good; and as to a Modus being void for Uncertainty, Mr. Justice Fortescue cited 2 Rol. Abr. 265. where a Prescription to pay a Penny or thereabouts for every Acre of arable Land, was held void for the Uncertainty; but he also cited a Case in the Exchequer in 1726. where there was a Modus to pay 12 d. an Acre for Up-Land and 6 d. for Marsh-Land, and held good. But they all thought the Modus in the present Case certain, 4 d. per Acre for every Acre of Pasture and Meadow Ground occupied by those that were not Inhabitants within the Parish; in which Case the Parson had no Reason to object that the Modus was not more extensive, that it did not extend to all the Land in the Parish, whether occupied by Inhabitants, or by such as were not Inhabitants; for that had been more to the Prejudice of the Parson, who, in the present Case, had Tithes in Kind of the Inhabitants for their Land; and as the Modus for paying 4 d. per Acre for all the Land in the Parish, (whether occupied by the Inhabitants or not) had been good, a fortiori this was good, because more beneficial to the Parson. That this Modus was certain, because the Parson was always sure of having either his 4 d. per Acre, or what was better, his Tithes in Kind; but by the Case cited from Godbolt, it appeared not to be necessary, that the Modus should every Year take place; and here, whenever it should happen that the Pasture or Meadow Land were occupied by Foreigners, then the Modus would certainly arise; and the same Uncertainty might be objected to the Custom, which said, that while the Religious Orders, or Houses, held the Land in their own Hands, they should pay no Tithes, which notwithstanding has been always adjudged a good Custom; the like Answer might be given to the Objection to that Part of the Custom, where the Occupier of this Land was not to be an Inhabitant either of Burgh or Wintborp; for if he were an Inhabitant of either of those two Parishes, he was to pay Tithes in Kind, which was still in Favour of the Parson. The Court admitted, that every Modus must be supposed to have had a reasonable Commencement; but as to the Necessity of shewing now that the Modus is reasonable, that seemed not to be so clear; for these Modus's having been from Time immemorial, none can know but that there were such Circumstances in those ancient Times, as might have made such a Composition reasonable, tho' at present they may not be discoverable; that it was enough to satisfy us at this Time of Day, that the Parson, Patron and Ordinary, before the restrictive Statutes, might bind the Revenues of the Parson, and that all these Modus's must have had their Commencement from an Instrument signed by the Parson, Patron and Ordinary; but there could be no Colour to say, that because such Instrument in so great a Length of Time had been lost, therefore the Modus should be lost also; indeed so far the Law went in Favour of the Church, as that if the Instrument which the Parson, Patron and Ordinary, had given to a Layman, Owner of such a Farm, to discharge the Farm of all Tithes, (though this would be good while the Instrument could be shewn) should be once lost, this being a Privilege in non decimando, the Pri-

Not necessary to shew a Modus had a reasonable Commencement, for it might at first be so, and not now capable of being shewn at this great Distance of Time.

Sufficient that the Parson, Patron and Ordinary might at first make this Agreement, and bind the succeeding Parsons, and though the Instrument of the Agreement be lost, yet the Modus will be good.

vilege would be lost by the Loss of the Deed; but that in the present Case, there was no Ground to insist on the Custom's being unreasonable; for the Tithes are the Reward for the Trouble and Care which the Parson takes of the Souls of his Parishioners, in which Case the Labourer is worthy of his Hire; but then, as the Parson is not bound to go out of his Parish to visit those who only occupy Land within the Parish, so it is but reasonable, that they who have not the Benefit of the Parson's Care, should answer the less Duty to him, and may well be excused for a Modus of 4 d. an Acre, which the Parson cannot say is too little, especially in this Case, when Part of his Proof is, that a whole Acre was let for 12 d. or 8 d. an Acre in the Times of Edward the First and Second, a Reason for avoiding this Modus, as being originally too much. As to the Case in Levinz, that was observed to be a sudden Opinion of the Judges, upon a Motion only, and when (perhaps) only the Counsel that made the Motion was heard, and none of the other Side; neither is the Case mentioned in the other cotemporary Reports; as Raymond, Siderfin, &c. Also Mr. Justice Reynolds asking, with regard to the Parish called Skegness, (concerning the Tithes and Modus whereof this Motion was made in Lev.) how the Practice had been, and whether Tithes in Kind, or a Modus had been since paid? it was answered, that notwithstanding that Opinion, this very Modus had been observed, and Tithes in Kind not paid, which shewed, that no Regard was had to the Opinion, and that the Parson was not advised to rely upon it. Lastly, the Chancellor and Judges laid great Weight on four Precedents in the Exchequer, cited by the Counsel for the Parishioners, where that Court resolved such a Custom and Modus to be good, and in some of these Cases condemned demned the Parson in Cofts, for contefting the Modus, particularly Brown's Entries 194, 199. was cited, where the Pleadings of one of thofe Cafes are to be found, with a Prohibition granted thereupon.

Wherefore the whole Court agreeing the Modus to be good, Time was given to the Bifhop till the next Day to give his Anfwer, whether he would try the Cuftom; which the Bifhop declining,

Lord Chancellor: Eftablifh the Modus, and difmifs Mr. Monfon's Crofs-Bill for Tithes in Kind, without Cofts, in cafe he fubmit to the Modus.

Case 188.

Middleton Walker, Plaintiff;Israel Woollaston, Defendant.

An Administrator
pendente lite touching a Will, may maintain Actions for recovering Debts due to the Deceased.

THIS was a Judgment given in the Common Pleas, wherein the now Defendant was Plaintiff, in an Assumpsit on a promissory Note brought by the then Plaintiff Woollaston, as Administrator de bonis Nathanael' Clerk, non Administrat' by Frances his late Wife and Executrix, pendente lite in the Spiritual Court touching the Will of the said Frances, in which Suit in the Spiritual Court Woollaston the Executor named in the Will of Frances was Plaintiff, against the Nephews and Nieces of Frances Clerk: The Plaintiff in the Court below recovered Judgment, and 52 l. Damages, upon which the Defendant below (Walker) bringing a Writ of Error, and assigning the general Errors:

The Question was, Whether an Administrator pendente lite, where the Suit in the Spiritual Court is touching the Executorship, may maintain an Action for recovering the Debts due to the Deceased?

I

And

And to shew that he might, I argued as follows :

1st, What I shall insist upon will be the Reason of the Thing.

2<sup>dly</sup>, I shall mention such Authorities as are in my Favour.

3<sup>dly</sup>, The great Inconveniencies that would ensue if the Law were against me in this Point. And,

In the last Place shall endeavour to give an Answer to those Cases which have been cited on the other Side.

First, I presume it will be admitted, that tho' a Man makes a Will, and appoints an Executor, yet if the Executor be under any Incapacity or Disability of acting as such, he is, during his Incapacity, in many Respects as no Executor, and therefore for that Time it is considered as an Intestacy. For this Reason the Ordinary may in these Cases, during the Incapacity or Disability, grant a temporary Administration, and such temporary Administrator may sue and bring Actions, as well as any other Administrator to whom a compleat Administration is granted. I shall instance in the common Case, where an Infant (under the Age of seventeen Years) is made Executor ; here, in Regard the Infant, by Reason of the Tenderness of his Years, is for that Time incapable of acting as Executor, the Ordinary may grant a temporary Administration to another during the Minority of the Infant (until his Age of seventeen) and such temporary Administrator may sue and bring Actions. Within the same Reason is the Case, where upon the Death of a Man there is a Litigation in the Spiritual Court touching the Executorship to the Deceased ; since during this Contest none can act as Executor; and therefore the Ordinary may grant Administration to another, pending this Suit, which Administrator may sue, it being Part of his Office to recover and get in the Debts of the Deceased.

I admit formerly there have been Opinions (particularly in Owen 35.) that an Administrator durante minore etate could not sue, Lord Dyer having held that such an Administrator was but as a Servant or Bailiff. But I take the Law, by very many Cases, and by a constant Course of Experience to be now settled, that an Administrator during the Minority of an Executor, tho' granted in the most restrictive Manner, only ad usum & commodum infantis, may however maintain an Action for a Debt due to the Deceased; this is admitted in 5 Rep. 29. Pigor's Case, so as the Administrator makes a proper Averment that the Executor is under seventeen; and so is Hob. 251. Carver versus Haslerig; and indeed such Suits are really ad usum & commodum of the Infant Executor, as they are brought in Order to recover Debts due to the Estate. These Authorities warranting an Administrator during Minority, &c. to sue, are carried much farther in 1 Roll. Abr. 888. Wright's Case, and 2 Brownl. 83. where it is adjudged, that if an Administrator during Minority, &c. brings an Action, recovers Judgment, and before Execution the minor Executor attains seventeen, he is so far privy to this Judgment, that by a special Scire facias he (the Executor) may sue Execution thereon. If then an Administrator durante minore etate, &c. ad usum & commodum infantis, who in some Books is said to be as a Bailiff or a Servant to the Infant Executor, and in another Book is called his (a) Curator, may maintain an Action for a Debt due to the Deceased; why should not an Administrator pendente lite, (tho' touching the Executorship) be allowed to maintain an Action also, since both are but temporary rary Administrations? one determining on the Infant's coming to seventeen, and the other with the End of the Suit in the Spiritual Court; why should not these temporary Administrations equally empower each Administrator to sue? or rather, do not all the Authorities warranting an Administrator during Minority, &c. to sue, prove strong for us in the present Case? I own, it has been a Question, Whether the Ordinary could grant Administration durante absentia of the next of Kin beyond the Seas. 1 Lutw. 342. and 4 Mod. 14. Clare versus Hodge. And I find in a Manuscript Report which I have, that the late Chief Justice Pratt of Counsel in that Cause, objected it was a void Administration, as it might end soon after granted, and yet neither the Administrator himself, nor any of the Debtors to the Estate of the Deceased know when it ended; because the next of Kin might return from beyond Sea, and the Administrator, or the Debtors of the Deceased, know nothing of it; that by this Means the Debtors of the Deceased would be drawn in to make Payments to the Administrator, after the next of Kin's Return, consequently after the Administration was determined, and that such an Administrator durante absentia, &c. might be discouraged from bringing any Actions against the Debtors of the Deceased, forasmuch as such Action must abate by the Return of the next of Kin from beyond Sea before the Judgment, and the Administrator lose his Costs. But notwithstanding these Objections (which were really made, tho' not reported in the Books) the Court adjudged such an Administration granted durante absentia, &c. to be good; and the very Reason given, as reported in Lutw. is, "to prevent " the grand Inconvenience that would ensue, if " the Debts of the Deceased could not be recover" ed during the Absence of the Executor beyond Sea." The Court farther said, that if any of the Debtors of the Deceased paid his Debt to such an Admi-

Administrator durante absentia, &c. tho' it was after the Return of the Executor; yet if the Debtor who paid the Money had no Notice of such Return, it would be a good Payment. Now this Case proves, not only that an Administration durante absentia, &c. is good, but that the chief Reason inducing the Court to be of that Opinion was, that by the Administrator's being enabled to get in the Debts due to the Deceased, the grand Inconvenience which otherwise might happen would be prevented; and if an Administrator durante absentia, &c. may sue, within the same Reason ought an Administrator pendente lite. The Case in 1 Salk. 42. Slaughter versus May, not only proves that an Administrator durante absentia may bring an Action, but also is an express Authority in this very Point, that an Administrator pendente lite touching the Executorship may, if he makes a proper Averment. That Case was, H. being an Administrator durante absentia of J. S. an Executor, brought an Action of Debt on a Bond, but did not aver that J. S. the Executor was then absent, or where he was; upon which the Court said, it was but reasonable the Ordinary should have Power to grant Administration during Absence, as well as during Minority, or pendente lite, and that such Administrator is accountable to the Executor, whose Absence must be intended an Absence beyond Sea; but the Plaintiff ought to aver him to be absent. Now in this Case it appears that the Court put these three temporary Administrators upon the same Footing; and I believe, in all Books, where named, they are considered as on the Level, and if so, no Reason can be given why an Administrator pendente lite touching an Executorship should not bring an Action, as well as an Administrator during Minority, or during Absence; nay, the allowing the Administrator durante absentia to bring an Action is a stronger Case than the present; because there the Administration may determine,

termine, and yet neither the Plaintiff the Administrator, nor the Defendant the Debtor, know any Thing of, nor have any Possibility to discover it; also in that Case there is all the Time a good Executor capable of acting, who may prove the Will by Commission, or sue by Letter of Attorney; whereas the End of a Suit during the Pendency whereof Administration is to continue, may be seen by any one at any Time resorting to the Proceedings in the Court where the Litigation touching the Executorship depended: Therefore all these Authorities which warrant Actions to be brought by an Administrator during the Absence of an Executor, are just so many Authorities for me; and the Case of Slaughter versus May mentioning that of an Administrator pendente lite touching an Executor, is an Authority in the very Point. In Gibson's Codex Juris Ecclesiastici Anglicani (Page 574.) these three temporary Administrations are taken Notice of, and put upon the same Footing; besides which, is added, "That though there be no Suit or Controversy depending touching the Executorship, and tho' there be an Executor, yet if he does not come in, the Ordinary may grant a temporary Administration until the Executor comes in and proves the Will." Also it is held, that if an Executor afterwards becomes Lunatick, and thereby disabled from acting, there, for Necessity's Sake, the Ordinary may grant a temporary Administration with the Will annexed; this I remember was said by Holt Chief Justice, in the Case of Hills versus Mills, reported short in 1 Salk. 36. but that otherwise it was if an Executor became a Bankrupt, because there being no Disability in such Case, no temporary Administration could be granted: But of very little Use would all these temporary Administrations be, if by Virtue of them the Debts of the Deceased could not be recover'd.

It is objected, that no Administrator before the Statute of 31 Edw. 3. cap. 11. could bring an Action, and that the Statute empowering an Administrator to sue, does not extend to one pendente lite.

Resp. All these temporary Administrators are equally out of the Statute, and in such Administrations the Ordinary is not bound to grant them to the next of Kin, as was held Hob. 250. Bryers versus Goddard, and 1 Vent. 219. Thomas versus Butler; but if an Administrator during the Minority or Absence of an Executor may sue, tho' out of the Statute, why may not an Administrator pendente lite sue also? I take all these temporary Administrators to be within the Reason and Equity of the Statute of Edw. 3. as they are deputed by the Ordinary, which are the very Words; and since in all those Cases the Deceased dies for the Time, and to some Purposes, intestate, there is then no Person to act as Executor.

Now I will consider the very great and manifest Inconveniencies which would ensue, if an Administrator pendente lite touching an Executorship could not bring Actions to recover the Debts of the Deceased.

Suppose these consisted only, or chiefly, in outstanding Debts, owing on hazardous Securities, or from Persons in doubtful Circumstances, in apparent Danger of being lost, if not sued for in Time; would it not be an irreparable Loss to the Estate, and to the Creditors of the Deceased, if for Want of a Power given by Law to the Administrator pendente lite, all those Debts should be lost? Suppose the chief Part of the Estate consisted of Debts in Trade, as Book-Debts, which are simple Contract and liable to be barred by the Statute of Limitations, and that the six Years have begun to incur in the Life-time of the Deceased ceased, and consequently must run on; would it not be a Thing of the most mischievous Consequence, and render the Law extremely defective, if the Administrator pendente lite were not allowed to sue for these Book-Debts, in order to prevent them from being barred by the Statute, and thereby secure the Estate of the Deceased, and perhaps save his Creditors from being ruined? The other Side, in this Case, are endeavouring to make a very nice Difference; where really there is none, betwixt an Administrator pendente lite and other Temporary Administrators; and yet to what Purpose is this extreme Nicety to be supported? Why, only to introduce great and Publick Mischief. On the other Hand, there can be no Inconvenience in allowing this Administrator pendente lite to sue for the Debts of the Deceased; the Hand of the Administrator who is to recover them, must be supposed safe; this Court may so far take Notice of the Spiritual Courts, as to be sensible that these Temporary Administrators give Security there proportionably to the Value of the Estate of the Deceased, or, if that were out of the Case, every Person is primâ facie intended by Law of Sufficiency to perform his Trust, and not to be insolvent, Nihil nequam præsumendum; and whatever such Administrator does receive of the Estate of the Deceased, he must be accountable for to the Executor when he shall have proved the Will. Besides, as this Administrator is allowed to be sued, why should he not also be allowed to sue, why should it not be mutual, especially since the allowing him to sue is the only Way to enable him to answer the Suits brought against him? I must own, that an Executor de son tort may be sued, and yet cannot sue; for as he comes in intirely by Wrong, and as a Tort-feasor, he shall have none of the Privileges of a rightful Executor; but in the present Case, our Administrator pendente lite cannot be said to come in by Wrong,

when he is constituted by the Act of the Court, of that Court too, which has a proper Jurisdiction in granting Administrations. It will be admitted, that an Administrator durante minore etate of an Executor, though it be but ad usum & commodum Infantis, may yet sell bona peritura. And the like Power will (I presume) be allowed an Administrator pendente lite, and why is this, when such Administrators can sell no other Goods? Surely for the Sake of Necessity, and to prevent these bona peritura from being destroyed; and is there not the same Necessity to take Care of hazardous Debts, and prevent Debts by simple Contract from being barred by the Statute of Limitations? Do not they require the same Care to secure them from being lost, as bona peritura do? Yes certainly, as probably the Debts are of a much greater Value than the Goods. The Spiritual Courts have of late come into this Way of granting Temporary Administrations, and my Lords the Judges have been pleased to allow them good in Law, though out of the Statute which permits, nay requires the Ordinary to grant Administration; and this the Courts of Common Law have done, for the Ease and Convenience of the Subject, which is indeed the chief End of all Laws. But it would very much lessen and take off from the Use and Benefit of these Administrations, if it should be adjudged, that none by Virtue thereof were capable of suing for and recovering the Debts of the Deceased: This Construction would reduce the Grant of Letters of Administration pendente lite, to no more than Letters ad Colligendum bona, &c.

And now, as to the Authorities which have been cited on the other Side; tho' I here beg Leave to premise, that nothing less than solemn Resolutions, such as are founded on good Reason, ought to be sufficient to introduce so great an Inconvenience; whereas (as I take it) among all the Authorities cited against us, there is not one Case adjudged in the Point.

As to Moor 636. Robin's Case, (Trin. 43 Eliz.) it was thus: Two Executors contest in the Spiritual Court, whereupon the Ordinary grants Administration pendente lite, and it seemed to the Court (semble says the Book) that he could not do it; these are all the Words of the Case; but here was no Judgment, nor any Reason given in Support of the Opinion; and to over-ballance this Authority, I would quote against it the Case of Slaughter versus May in Salk. 42. and the Reason given in 1 Lutw. 242. for the Resolution in Clare versus Hodge; here are two Authorities to one which say it is a great Inconvenience where none can sue for the Debts of the Deceased; and as they are the latter, so are they the better Authorities. As to Carthew's Rep. 153. Frederick versus Hook, that was an Action of Debt on a Bond brought by the Plaintiff Frederick, on a special Administration quoad the Bond, pendente lite concerning the last Will of the Lady Frederick; the Defendant pleaded in Abatement, that the Lady Frederick made her Will, and thereby constituted the Plaintiff her Executor, and that the Plaintiff suscepit super se onus executionis testamenti predicti, and prayed the Judgment of the Court, for that the Plaintiff brought his Action as Administrator and not as Executor; upon which the Plaintiff demurred; the Court held that the Administration granted pendente lite in the Spiritual Court concerning a Will was utterly void, and that the Difference was, where there is a Controversy in the Spiritual Court concerning a Right of Administration, and where it is concerning a Will, as in that Case; that in the first the Administration granted pendente lite is good, but otherwise where the Controversy is concerning a Will, for he who comes in under a Will shall avoid all which an Administrator can do, and then it is said in the End of the Case, that the Plaintiff proceeded no farther in that Action: Now it is plain upon the Words of the Book, that this Case was never adjudged, but the Objection started upon the Demurrer; and at that Time the Court held the Administration granted pendente lite touching the Will void, whereupon it is said, that the Plaintiff proceeded no farther in that Action; and possibly he had no Occasion; the Defendant in so plain a Case as that of Debt on Bond, having gained some Time by his Plea, probably paid the Money, or it may be, the Will of Lady Frederick was soon afterwards proved, and so the Objection removed; but this is not mentioned, only so far appears, that no Judgment was given in the Case. In the next place it is observable, that this very Authority allows an Administration granted pendente lite touching an Administration to be good; whereas this Temporary one is as much out of the Statutes enabling the Ordinary to grant Administration, as any other Temporary Administration whatever, and so this very Case cited on the other Side, answers one of the Objections which they make: But the Reason is very slight which is given by the Book to make a Difference betwixt an Administration granted pendente lite touching an Administration, viz. that this is good; but that an Administration granted pendente lite concerning a Will is void; why? Because he that comes in under the Will shall avoid all that an Administrator pendente lite can do; now this is no Reason at all; all that can be meant by it is but this, that an Executor shall avoid any Grant, Assignment, or Release made by an Administrator pendente lite of any Part of the Deceased's Estate, if made to his Prejudice; but the Administrator's suing for Debts due to the Deceased, and preventing their being lost by the Debtors

becoming insolvent, or from being barred by the Statute of Limitations, is a Service and can be no Prejudice to the Executor. The Administrator pendente lite, as soon as he receives a Debt, is accountable for it and must pay it over to the Executor; it cannot surely be intended, by this Reason of the Executor's avoiding all Acts of the Administrator pendente lite, that if such Administrator recovers Judgment against a Debtor of the Deceased for a Debt due to him, and takes out Execution, that the Executor shall avoid all this, and make the Debtor pay the Debt over again, which he was before compelled to pay by Course of Law, and which the Executor is at Liberty to receive at his Pleasure from the Administrator pendente lite; this would be doing a great Hardship without the least Occasion.

Or, putting this Case farther; suppose the Administrator pendente lite had got Judgment against a Debtor of the Deceased, and had thereby secured the Debt, but before any Execution sued the Executor had proved the Will, whereby the Administration pendente lite had determined, could this any ways prejudice the Executor? No; so far from it, that (as I take it) the Executor, when he has proved the Will, may take Advantage of this Judgment, and bring a special Scire facias in order to sue out Execution on it in the same Manner as an Infant Executor, having attained seventeen, may sue out a special Scire facias upon a Judgment recovered by an Administrator during the Minority of the Executor, which has been adjudged; so that the Reason given why the Executor shall avoid any Act done by the Administrator pendente lite, can only relate to Grants, Assignments or Releases made by such an Administrator to the Prejudice of the Executor; whereas all those which are done for his Benefit shall stand.

The

The other Case is that of Smith versus Smith, cited by Serjeant Carthew, in his Report of the former of Frederick versus Hook, from 3 Keb. 54. and this I admit to have been adjudged ; but however, it will not (as I apprehend) appear to be material to the present Question ; there the Plaintiff brought Trover as Executor for the Conversion of some Goods, and on Not guilty pleaded, the Jury found a special Verdict, that the Plaintiff was the Executor named in the Will of J. S. that the Goods in Question were the Goods of J. S. and that the Defendant in the Action of Trover had Administration granted to him of the Goods of J. S. pendente lite touching the Will ; adjudged for the Plaintiff in Trover, because the Administration was merely void ; and the Book says, that this Judgment was also given upon the Distinction above-mentioned. Now that this Judgment was very right and just I freely allow ; but that the same was given upon the Distinction betwixt an Administration pendente lite touching a Will, and an Administration pendente lite touching an Administration, I can hardly think ; all determined in this Case is, that the Property of the Goods of the Deceased was in the Executor, and not in the Administrator pendente lite, which I admit : For so in the Case where an Administration is granted durante minore etate of an Executor, the Property of the Goods is in such Infant Executor ; and therefore an Administrator during Minority cannot sell any of the Goods, which he necessarily might do, if he had the Property. But it is plain, that an Administrator durante minore etate may sue for the Debts due to the Deceased, though he cannot assign or sell any of his Goods ; and therefore this Case only shews, that an Administrator pendente lite is upon the Level with an Administrator during the Minority of an Infant Executor, which I do not controvert. So that upon the whole, as the principal

Cafe in Serjeant Carthew's Reports of Frederick versus Hook is not adjudged; and as the Reason given for the Opinion of the Court rather weakens its Authority, and that cited there and reported in Keble, of Smith versus Smith, though adjudged, is not to the Purpose; I humbly apprehend, that from the Reason of the Cafe now in Question, which is strong for us, from the very great Mischief and Inconvenience that would follow, if an Administrator pendente lite could not sue and recover Debts due to the Deceased, to the great Loss of his Creditors, and perhaps to the Ruin of the Estate; as there is not one adjudged Cafe against us, and on the other Hand several in our Favour determining that a Temporary Administrator may sue; and in the last Place, as there are others that put all these Temporary Administrators upon a Ballance, or upon the same Footing, I am to pray that the Judgment given in C. B. may be now affirmed.

Whereupon the Lord Raymond Chief Justice, Page and Probyn Justices were of Opinion for affirming the Judgment; and that the Ordinary had a Power to grant Administration pendente lite, tho' touching an Executorship; that the Reason of the Ordinary's having a Power to grant Administration durante minore etate of an Executor was, because during the Infancy of the Executor there was no Person capable of suing or recovering the Debts of the Deceased; that pendente lite there being no Executor that can sue, such Cafe is within the same Mischief, which would be attended with very great Inconveniencies, for the Reasons that had been given; that the Cafe of an Administrator during the Absence of the Executor was stronger, there being an Executor capable of acting, who might by Commission prove the Will, and sue by Attorney; that all these Temporary Administrations, tho' out of the Statutes of Edw. 3. and Hen. 8. were yet allowed to be within the Equity of those Statutes for the Ease and Convenience of the Subject, which ought to be considered; that in the Cases cited from Moor and Cartham there was no Judgment; and the Reason given in the latter of those Books, did not maintain the Opinion.

But Lee Justice doubted; for he said, an Administration pendente lite touching the Executorship seemed to differ from Administrations durante minore etate, or durante absentia of an Executor, because in the two last Cases the Administrations were granted cum testamento annexo, which cannot be done when the Will is in Controversy; & adjorn'. But Judgment was afterwards affirmed with the Concurrence of Mr. Justice Lee.

Case (189.)

Lord Chancellor King.Writ de Ventre inspiciendo.

UPON a Petition for a Writ de Ventre inspiciendo the Case was: Sir John Chaplyn Bart. a young Gentleman of about the Age of nineteen, seised of a great real Estate in Lincolnshire, was drawn in by one Morris a Bailiff, who lived in Clare-Market, to marry his Daughter, an Infant about sixteen, and after the Marriage Sir John was prevailed upon to make his Will, and thereby to devise all his personal Estate to his Wife; within two Months after the Marriage Sir John died, leaving three Sisters, who were his Heirs at Law, in Case of no Issue by this Marriage.

The Widow pretending to be with Child, the three Sisters petitioned for a Writ de Ventre inspiciendo, insisting by their Counsel, that this was a Writ at Common Law, a Matter of Right, and especially proper in the present Case, where the Petitioners Family had been twice imposed upon already, first by the improvident and unequal Marriage, and afterwards by the Will, which gave all the Testator's personal Estate to this new Wife, from whence there was great Room to suspect another Fraud might be put upon the Family by a false and supposititious Child, and so the Sisters and next Heirs be deprived of their Right to the Inheritance; and for this Purpose 1 Inst. 8. b. Cro. Eliz. 566. Moor 523. Willoughby's Case, and Cro. Jac. 685. Theaker's Case, were cited, but more particularly the Solicitor General insisted on the Case of the Attorney General versus La Roche, determined by the Master of the Rolls about six Years since, where one by Will gave a Sum of Money to be laid out in Land and settled on

The Effect of this Writ decreed upon a Bill in Equity, where a Sum of Charity on the Death of A. without Issue, A. dying and leaving a Widow of ill Fame, who pretended to be with Child.

A. (who was an extravagant Person) for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder to his Daughters in Tail general, Remainder to a Charity: A. married a Woman of an ill Reputation, and dying soon after, the Wife pretended to be with Child; whereupon the Master of the Rolls, in order to preserve the Charity from any false and supposititious Child, decreed the Master to appoint two Midwives, who should resort to the Widow, search her, and see whether she was with Child or not, and attend at the Birth; and that afterwards, there being an Attendance on the Master in Relation to this Cause, the Widow perceiving the Matter would be discovered, voluntarily came before the Master, and declared that she was not with Child; by which Means the Right to the Money was preserved for the Charity.

(a) Vide
1 Inf. 8. b.

The Petitioners in the principal Case farther prayed, that whereas the Widow was now at her late Husband's Seat in Lincolnshire, this might be as her (a) Castle, wherein she should be confined and continue until the Time of her Delivery, and that some Woman might be always resident with her both before and at the Birth.

Against which it was urged, that here was no Crime in Sir John the Infant's marrying Morris's Daughter, or in her being married to Sir John, who was of Age to chuse a Wife for himself, and who might think Beauty and Virtue a sufficient Portion, especially when his Fortune had put him above the Want of Money; that here was not the least Imputation on the Lady's Character; that as it had not appeared any Fraud or Collusion was intended, it was very unreasonable to suspect she would be guilty of imposing a false Child on the Family; also, that the other Side ought to have proved Sir John died seized of some Lands

Lands in (a) Fee-simple, whereas it was reported that by a Family Settlement the Estate was intailed; that it would be an Hardship on a Lady of so tender Years to send a Jury of Matrons to inspect her; and she being now with Child, might be of dangerous Consequence, and occasion a Miscarriage, a Thing possibly wished for by the other Side; however it was hoped the Court would not grant this Writ unless there was just Reason for it; then with Regard to her staying at the Seat in Lincolnshire, it was represented to be an old House much out of Repair, and that she having no Friends or Relations in that Neighbourhood, it would be cruel to force her to continue there; also Affidavits were read, proving she was with Child, which Fact was not disputed.

Lord Chancellor: I take this Writ de Ventre inspiciendo to be of common Right, it is in the Register, though not in F. N. B. and is for the Security of the next Heir, to guard him or her against fraudulent or supposititious Births; as to what is objected, that the Petitioners are intitled only to an Estate-tail, this, at the Time the Writ was first allowed, being a qualified Fee, is sufficient; besides, any Affidavits proving that Sir John was in Possession of Land, will induce me primâ facie to intend it a Fee-simple; but as it may be an Hardship to oblige the Lady to live in Lincolnshire, far from any of her Friends and Relations, and since the Marriage appears to have been but in March last, consequently no Probability of her being brought to bed before Christmas, and as her Father consents that she shall be in Town before Michaelmas, and reside in St. James's Parish in Middlesex, let the Writ de Ventre inspiciendo issue at Michaelmas, directed to the Sheriff of Middlesex; in the mean while the present shall be till delivered, and where the Heir may from Time to Time, at proper Seasons and on Notice, send Women to see her, and to be present when the Child is born; and in such Cases no Need to execute the Writ in a strict Manner.

Covenant in Conſideration of Marriage to ſettle Lands of 350*l.* per Annum on

THIS Bill was for a ſpecific Performance of Marriage Articles, whereby Thomas Vernon the Defendant's late Husband and Teſtator covenanted inter al'

to

Husband and Wife and the Iſſue Male of the Marriage, Remainder to the Brothers of the Husband; Equity will compel an Execution of this Covenant, and not put the Party to an Action of Covenant in the Truſtee's Name.

to purchase Lands of 350 l. per Annum, and settle them on himself for Life, Remainder to his Wife the Defendant for Life, Remainder to their first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder to the Heirs Male of the Body of the said Thomas Vernon by any other Wife, Remainder to his Brother the Plaintiff George Vernon for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder to the Plaintiff Sir Charles in like Manner, Remainder to himself in Fee.

The Bill set forth, that Henry Vernon, eldest Brother of the said Thomas, having acquired a considerable personal Estate in Turkey, by his Will, after some Legacies, devised the Residue, being about 10,000 l. to his Brother the said Thomas Vernon, and in case he died without Heirs Male of his Body, then to his two Brothers, the Plaintiffs George and Sir Charles Vernon, to be equally divided between them; soon after which the Testator Henry died a Bachelor.

That afterwards the said Thomas Vernon, the next Brother of the Testator Henry, intermarried with the Defendant Jane, and by Articles made before Marriage dated the 6th of September 1695, it was agreed, that the said Jane (then Jane Stile) should convey her Inheritance in or near Crawley and Chobham in Surrey, to the Use of him the said Thomas her intended Husband for his Life, Remainder to herself for Life, Remainder to their first and every other Son in Tail Male, Remainder to their Daughters in Tail general, Remainder to Thomas Vernon in Fee; in Consideration whereof, and of the said Marriage, as also of 1500 l. in Money, Thomas Vernon covenanted to purchase Lands of 350 l. per Annum, and settle them on himself and his Wife Jane for their Lives, Remainder to their first and every other Son in Tail Male, Remainder to the Heirs Male of the Body of Thomas Vernon, Remainder to the Plaintiff George Vernon for Life, Remainder to his first and every other Son in Tail Male, Remainder to the Plaintiff Sir Charles Vernon for Life, Remainder to his first and every other Son in Tail Male, Remainder to Thomas Vernon in Fee; to which Articles Sir Thomas Vernon the Father was a Party, but neither gave, nor covenanted to pay or settle any Thing upon the Marriage.

Soon after the Marriage was solemnized, and Thomas Vernon having omitted to settle any Lands to such Uses as were agreed to be limited by the Articles, devised all his real and personal Estate to the Defendant Jane his Wife and Executrix, charged with Portions for his three Daughters, and in August 1726 died without Issue Male: Whereupon

His two Brothers the Plaintiffs now brought their Bill for a specific Performance of these Articles, (viz.) that Lands of 350*l.* a Year should be purchased and settled agreeable thereto.

For the Plaintiffs it was insisted, that Thomas Vernon having solemnly on his Marriage covenanted to make this Settlement to his own Brothers, and upon that Inducement the Father having come into the Articles, and as it was a reasonable Covenant in it self, so it was just Mr. Vernon should be compelled to make it good, and settle Lands in Manner as aforesaid; that it was to be presumed Mr. Vernon, the Defendant's late Husband and Testator, entered the more readily into the Agreement, in order to make some Satisfaction for the Advantage accruing to him by the void Devise over of his Brother Henry's personal Estate, in case of Failure of Issue Male of his Body, to his two Brothers the Plaintiffs George and Sir Charles Vernon; also that the Defendant Jane herself had had by Letters, after her Husband's Death, promised to perform his Marriage Articles in purchasing and settling Lands accordingly; and several Cases were cited in Behalf of the Plaintiffs, particularly that of (a) Osgood and Strode, determined first by Lord Mac- (a) Ante

clesfield, and afterwards affirmed on a Rehearing by <sup>245.</sup> Lord King, where a Covenant for settling Lands on a Nephew, in Default of the Son's dying without Issue Male, was decreed to be carried into Execution.

For the Defendant it was urged, that the Covenant, as to the Plaintiffs the Brothers of Thomas Vernon, was merely voluntary, not within any of the Considerations expressed in the Articles, which were that of Marriage, of the Wife's covenanting to settle her Inheritance, and the pecuniary Portion of 1500 l. which she brought, and that these being all express Considerations, no other could be intended, expressio unius est exclusio alterius; that in Bedell's Case, 7 Co. 40. it is said, if the Father, in Consideration of 100 l. paid by his Son, covenants to stand seized to the Use of the Son, this Deed must operate as a Bargain and Sale, and be inrolled, though in case of a Son, by Reason of the express Consideration; and so here no Consideration could be intended but what appeared, which Case was the stronger, as the usual Clause, (viz.) and for divers other Causes and Considerations, is omitted in the Deed: That if by a different Deed, and not by these Articles, Thomas Vernon had covenanted to settle Lands of 350 l. per Annum, without any Consideration, Equity would not have compelled him to perform it; and as a Nudum pactum would not bind at Law, so neither would a Covenant if voluntary, and without a Consideration, oblige in Equity; besides, this Remainder to the Plaintiff's Brothers was not only voluntary but intirely precarious, in the Power of Thomas Vernon to have barred

barred at his Pleasure, by a Common Recovery, as soon as made; and it must have been intended that he should never be sued for a Performance of it, since the very Suit would be a Provocation to him to bar the Remainder when settled. That as to Sir Thomas Vernon's being made Party to the Articles, it could not be material, because nothing moved from him, nor did he undertake to pay or settle any Thing; and if it was an Objection against the Defendant, that Sir Thomas Vernon was a Party, it was surely as material an one against the Plaintiffs, that they were not Parties to the Articles. That the Plaintiffs seemed conscious a Consideration was necessary, by their endeavouring to bolster up this Covenant, and make it as a Consideration, that it was done by Mr. Vernon with Design to make Satisfaction for the personal Estate settled by Henry Vernon's Will on the Plaintiffs, in case he (Thomas Vernon) should die without Issue Male, which from the Remoteness of the Limitation vested absolutely in him; whereas the Answer to this was easy, (viz.) that such Will was either good, in which Case the Plaintiffs might take Advantage and make the best of it; or void, and then it was out of the Case. That as to the Letters sent by the Defendant Jane just after the Death of her Husband, when over-whelmed with Grief, and at best not knowing the Law, these were said to be explained by the Evidence of her Brother Hornby, to mean no more than that if she was obliged by Law to do this, she would not put her Husband's Brothers to the Expence of a Suit, but that she had been since advised the Covenant, being voluntary as to them, was not binding; that as to the Case of Osgood and Strode, cited on the other Side, where there was a Covenant for settling Lands on a Nephew in Default of the Son's dying without Issue Male, that could not be called a voluntary Covenant, the Father who joined in the Settlement having an equitable Interest in Part of the Lands settled, and it might well be presumed he would not have joined, unless a Remainder had been limited over to the Son of his second Son, which was the very Reason (a) given by the Lord Macclesfield in pronouncing that Decree; whereas there was no such Ingredient to be found in the present Case, the Father, though Party to the Articles, contributing nothing on the Marriage; wherefore all that Equity could do, would be to decree that the Plaintiffs should have Liberty to bring an Action of Covenant in the Trustees Names against the Defendant the Executrix of Thomas Vernon, in order to recover Damages.

Lord Chancellor: As to what has been said of putting the Plaintiffs to sue the Covenant in the Names of the Trustees in the Marriage Articles for the Recovery of Damages, I do not think it an adequate Remedy; the Party who would be entitled to the greatest Share of the Damages, would (in case any such were living) be the Plaintiff George Vernon's Son, as having the first Estate-tail; but there being as yet no such Son, I do not see how he would have any Part of the Damages given in the Action of Covenant, were it to be brought; also Sir Charles Vernon's eldest Son may die without Issue, and then the second Son may be entitled to the first Estate of Inheritance in the Premises to be purchased, who yet cannot come in for any Part of the Damages recovered in the Covenant: But if I decree a specific Performance, and a Settlement to be made according to the Agreement, then each Party entitled, or to be entitled, will have Right and Justice done them, if not before barred by a legal Conveyance, (viz.) by a Common Recovery. With Regard to what has been mentioned of Mrs. Vernon's Letters, it is true these ought not to bind her, if not bound before by the Articles; she might well be under an Apprehension of being liable by Means thereof, and therefore write such Letters; but that would be no Reason for her being concluded by her Misapprehension. There is no Pretence of any Fraud or Imposition on Mr. Vernon in the obtaining this Covenant from him, on the contrary, it appears to have been made upon the most solemn Occasion, that of his Marriage; and to be an Agreement, which not only his own but also his Wife's Relations came into; wherefore as he has in so solemn a Manner entered into it, I do not think he himself could have been admitted to say I will not perform it, and if so, his Executrix, who stands in his Place, cannot be more favoured.

(a) Ante 256.

Reasons why Equity should not put the Party to sue the Covenant at Law in an Action brought in the Trustees Names.

Mr. Vernon might be induced to come into this Covenant, in order to make some Recompence for what was intended the Plaintiffs by their elder Brother Henry's Will, I mean the Devise over of the personal Estate to them in case their Brother Thomas should die without Issue Male, which has happened; he probably did not at first know such Devise over to be void in Law; indeed none but a Lawyer could know it; and though he might afterwards be advised it was void, yet as this was the Intention of his Brother expressed in his last Will, he may have thought himself in Conscience bound to make some Satisfaction; and for this, or some other good Reason, as for the Support of his Name, have entered into the Covenant. Farther, no Creditor can here be hurt by a specific Performance of this Agreement; wherefore as the Defendant has admitted Assets, let her purchase and make a Settlement of Lands of 350*l. per Annum* pursuant to the Articles, and the Master settle the Conveyance if the Parties differ.

As to Cofts, it feems this was fo doubtful a Cafe, that they were not fo much as asked for the Plaintiffs*.

Upon Appeal to the Lords this Decree was (a) affirmed. (a) In March 1731-2.

Cafe (191.)
Lord Chancellor King.

SIR Thomas Doleman the Father, upon a Settlement made on his Marriage, had a Power to charge the Manor of Shams in Berks with 1000 l. and in cafe of Non-payment, the faid Manor and Premiffes were limited to the Ufe of Trustees and their Heirs, until this 1000 l. and Interest fhould be paid, fubject to which Charge the Manor, &c. were by that Settlement limited to the firft, &c. Sons of Sir Thomas in Tail Male.

Sir Thomas Doleman made an Appointment of the 1000 l. unto J. S. under whom the three Children of Lewis Doleman, fecond Son of Sir Thomas, (viz.) Thomas-Humphrey Doleman, Lewis and Dorothy Doleman, became intituled to 400 l. equally to be divided amongft them, this 400 l. being faid to be Part of the 1000 l. Afterwards Sir Thomas Doleman died leaving Ifsue two Sons, Sir Thomas and Lewis; Lewis died leaving Ifsue the faid Thomas-Humphrey, Lewis and Dorothy; Sir Thomas Doleman the Son fuffered a Recovery to the Ufe of himfelf in Fee, (Qu. If the Freehold was not in the Trustees for raifing the Money appointed to be raifed by Sir Thomas Doleman the Father, and confequently no good Tenant to the Precipe.)

Præcipe,) and by his Will devised several Annuities, particularly 100 l. per Annum to one Elizabeth Smith for Life, also several Legacies, as 500 l. to his Nephew Lewis Doleman, payable at his Age of twenty-five; 1000 l. to his Niece Dorothy, payable at her Age of twenty-five; and devised his Manors and Lands to Trustees and their Heirs, chargeable with the Payment of his Debts, Legacies, Annuities and Funerals, upon Trust that they should receive the Rents, Issues and Profits until his said eldest Nephew Thomas-Humphrey Doleman, or such Person as should be entitled to the Premises under the Will, should attain his Age of twenty-five, and that the Trustees should out of the Profits pay 30 l. per Annum to Thomas-Humphrey Doleman, and 20 l. per Annum a-piece to Lewis and Dorothy until their respective Ages of twenty-five; the Rest and Residue, after Debts, Annuities, Legacies and Funerals, and the Charges of the Trustees paid, the Testator gave to Thomas-Humphrey Doleman, or to such other Person as should be entitled to the next and immediate Reversion of the Premises, when they should attain the Age of twenty-five Years; also, that from and after his Nephew Thomas-Humphrey should attain his Age of twenty-five, the Premises should be to the Use of him and the Heirs Male of his Body, Remainder to Lewis Doleman and the Heirs Male of his Body, Remainder to Dorothy in like Manner, with divers Remainders over; and having made his Trustees Dean, Smith and Weston, Executors, the Testator died the 30th of April 1711.

Thomas-Humphrey Doleman died the 30th of August 1712. an Infant, intestate and without Issue; Lewis the next Nephew died the 17th of April 1716. an Infant about sixteen Years old, having left his Mother Mary Webb, who was the Widow of Lewis Doleman the Father, (and afterwards Wife of Mr. Serjeant Webb)
Executrix.

Executrix. 30 August 1716, Dorothy Doleman intermarried with John Talbot, who afterwards together with his Wife then an Infant assigned over the 1000*l.* Legacy given to her by her said Uncle Sir Thomas Doleman's Will to ——— Wilbraham for 750*l.* Hillary 1719 Talbot and his Wife, she having attained her Age of twenty-one, levied a Fine to Richard Combs, and in Easter Term then next suffered a Recovery, and by Deed of Lease and Release dated the 2d and 3d of March 1719, declared the Use thereof to be, to the Intent that Richard Combs should have an Annuity or Rent-charge of 100*l. per Annum* in Fee, in Consideration of the great and signal Services done to Mr. Talbot and his Wife, by the said Richard Combs, and of 900*l.* by him paid or secured to be paid to them, the Premises thus charged to be to the Use of Talbot and his Wife for their Lives, without Waste, Remainder to the Use of such Persons, and for such Intents and Purposes, as the Husband and Wife, or the Survivor of them, by Writing under the Hands and Seals of them, or the Survivor of them, attested by two Witnesses, should appoint, and for Want of such Appointment, to Dorothy the Wife in Fee.

28th of May 1720, John Talbot articulated to sell the Premises to the Duke of Chandos for 20718*l.* the Coppice and Timber to be valued and paid for by the Duke, besides the Purchase Money; the 31st of January 1722, Dorothy the Wife attained her Age of twenty-five; and on the 17th of December following the Duke of Chandos brought his Bill against John Talbot and Dorothy his Wife, and others, to have a specific Performance of the Articles; the said Dorothy at the same Time bringing her Cross Bill to set aside the Fine and Recovery and Deed of Uses.

The 27th of July 1727, the Causes were heard, when so much of the Cross Bill as sought to set aside the Fine, Recovery and Deed of Uses, was dismissed, the Duke's Articles established and decreed to be performed, and the Timber ordered to be valued by two indifferent Persons to be appointed by the Master, who was to see what Money his Grace had paid in Satisfaction of Incumbrances affecting the Estate.

The Master made his Report, and on Exceptions taken thereto, the Cause being again brought on, these Points arose :

1st, As to two Sums of 133 l. 6 s. 8 d. and 133 l. 6 s. 8 d. which were said to be Part of the said 400 l. charged on the Premises, and which had been assigned to Lewis Doleman and Dorothy Doleman respectively, it was insisted that Lewis Doleman surviving his elder Brother Thomas-Humphrey Doleman, became Tenant in Tail of the Estate charged with this 133 l. 6 s. 8 d. which was assigned to him, and as an Estate-tail was devised to him by his Uncle Sir Thomas Doleman's Will, this was an Inheritance which might endure for ever, and therefore did merge the Charge of 133 l. 6 s. 8 d. assigned to him.

Where 100 l. is charged upon a real Estate, which Estate itself comes to the Person intitled to the Money, if in Fee, the Charge is merged; but

Sed per Cur': Here can be no Merger, because by the Settlement made by Sir Thomas Doleman the Father, the Manor and Premises were vested in Trustees until Payment of the 400 l. which legal Estate yet continued in them, and which being a Fee-simple makes it a stronger Case than that of Thomas and Kemysb, 2 Vern. 348. where there was a Term of 500 Years in Trustees where the 100 l. charged is secured by a Term or other legal Estate in a third Person, there the Charge is not merged, nor if the Estate which comes to the Person intitled to the Money be only an Estate-tail.

tees to secure a Daughter's Portion payable at eighteen or Marriage, the Fee descended to the Daughter, who afterwards died unmarried and an Infant about eighteen, having first made a nuncupative Will, and thereby devised all in her Power to her Mother; whereupon it was decreed by the Lord Sommers, and affirmed by the House of Lords, that this Portion was not merged, but should go to her Mother, who had Administration with the Will annexed. Indeed had this been a mere equitable Charge upon the Land, and a Fee-simple, not an Estate-tail only, had come to Lewis Doleman the Son, it might then have been a Merger.

2dly, As to the 133 l. 6 s. 8 d. assigned to Dorothy, it was urged, that she having joined in a Fine and Recovery of the Premises, this would extinguish all her Right to any Thing issuing out of or charged upon them, either present or future, and consequently barred her Right to the 133 l. 6 s. 8 d. to which Opinion the Lord Chancellor at first inclined.

One having a Sum of Money charged upon Land secured by a Term in a third Person, levies a Fine of the Land; this extinguishes his Right to the Charge; so if he suffers a Recovery.

guishes his Right to the Charge; so if he suffers a Recovery.

But it afterwards appeared, on the Reading of the Will which gave the 400 l. to these Children of Lewis Doleman the second Son, that it was only a Legacy at large, and not any Part of the Money secured by the Charge which Sir Thomas Doleman the Father had made upon the Estate; wherefore this Exception to the Master's Report was waived.

Another Exception was concerning the Valuation of the Timber, and what was Timber; for the Master by his Report had charged the Duke with the Valuation of young Saplings, estimated but at 12 d. or 18 d. a-piece, which being several Thousands amounted to above 400 l. as also of Pollards, some of which were rotten, or contained no Timber; the same of Walnut-Trees, which were not Timber, though some of them them were worth 20*l.* and others 40*l.* a Tree; also Yew, Cherry, Crab, Lime and Horse-Chestnut Trees were valued as Timber in the Master's Report.

In a Purchase where Timber is agreed to be valued, the Custom of the Country makes those Trees Timber, which in their Nature are not so, as Birch, Beech, &c. Pollard Trees, if the Bodies are found, to be valued as Timber.

Lord Chancellor: It is the Custom of the Country that makes some Trees Timber, which in their Nature, generally speaking, are not so, as Horse-Chestnut and Lime-Trees, so of Birch, Beech and Asp, and as to Pollards, notwithstanding what is said in Plowd. 470. in the Case of Soby versus Molyns, that these are not Timber, and that Tithes are to be paid of their Loppings, (which could not be if Pollards were Timber) yet if the Bodies of them be found and good, I incline to think them Timber; secus if not found, they being in such Case fit for nothing but Fuel.

With Regard to the Walnut-Trees it was said, that tho' these might be valuable in themselves, yet since the Duke by the Articles was only to pay for the Timber, (by which could be meant only such Trees as were fit to be used in building and repairing Houses) therefore Walnut-Trees being no Ways proper for these Uses, were not to be valued, which Rule would also extend to young Saplings or Trees called Titlers, tho' all these might in Time come to be Timber; however, not being so when the Articles were executed or Decree pronounced, the Duke was not to pay for them.

Walnut-Trees, where of considerable Value, to be estimated as Timber. Where Trees are of Value, and the Parties

Lord Chancellor: If a Timber-Tree which may not be worth 3*l.* or 4*l.* shall be valued or paid for in the Purchase, why not Walnut-Trees, some of which may be worth 10*l.* 20*l.* or even 50*l.* a-piece? However as these Trees seem to be of considerable Value, unless cannot agree in the Valuation of them as Timber, the Court will send it to be tried whether by the Custom of the Country any and which of these are Timber-Trees.

the Parties can agree amongst themselves to lump the Valuation, and as it is the Custom of the Country which ascertains what are Timber-Trees, making some to be esteemed such which in their Nature, generally speaking, are not, especially in Countries where Timber is scarce, I shall direct an Issue to try whether any, and which of these Trees are by the Custom of the Country to be accounted Timber.

Then a Question arose, whether the 1000 l. Legacy given by Sir Thomas Doleman the Son's Will, to Dorothy payable at her Age of twenty-five Years, and assigned by her Husband Mr. Talbot and Her before she came to Age, and for the Sum of 750 l. only, was a good Assignment; for though Mr. Talbot and his Wife did join in a Fine and Recovery of the Premises charged therewith, yet if it were well assigned to Wilbraham before the Fine, the subsequent Fine could not hurt it; to which the Court agreed.

And here it was objected, that the Wife being then an Infant, the Assignment was void as to her; that it was a Chose en Action in its Nature unassignable, and wholly in Contingency until Dorothy should attain her Age of twenty-five, before which Time if she had died, being a Charge upon Land, it would have sunk. Also this 1000 l. was insisted on to be merged, because Dorothy living to twenty-five, the Estate-Tail became compleatly vested in her, and such Estate turned afterwards into a Fee-simple by a Recovery; consequently when the Charge upon the Land, and the Land itself came to the same Person, there must be a Merger; that the Issue of Dorothy could not be charged therewith at the Suit of her Administrator, wherefore it could not be said to subsist nor be assignable; but supposing this 1000 l. to be assignable, yet as it was assigned for less Money than was really due, (viz.) for 750 l. instead of 1000 l. the Assignee Wilbraham should only have the Money he actually paid, and not the whole 1000 l. which though as against the Assignor he might be entitled to, yet as against a Mortgagee or Creditor of the Assignor, he could claim no more than what he had actually laid down, agreeable to the Distinction taken in the Case of Williams versus Springfield, 1 Vern. 476.

To which it was answered, that though a Chose en Action, as a Bond, &c. was not in Strictness of Law assignable, yet in Equity it was, as every Day's Experience shewed; that though the Wife was an Infant when the Assignment was made, yet that could not be material; for if she had been of Age and joined, the Deed as to her would have been void, and she might have pleaded non est Factum, but being a personal Thing the Husband alone might assign it; and with Regard to its being a Contingency until the Wife Dorothy should come to her Age of twenty-five, it had been determined that the Possibility of a Term, (viz.) where a Term was devised to A. for Life, Remainder to B. for the Residue thereof, such Possibility might be assigned even by the Husband alone, as appears from the Case of Theobald versus Duffay, decreed first by the Lord Macclesfield, affirmed afterwards by the present Chancellor, and last of all by the House of Lords. But were it not in Strictness to operate by Way of Assignment, yet it would be good as an Agreement, especially when made for a valuable Consideration; that in the Case of Beckley (a) and Newland, where two, whose Wives were Coheireses to one Mr. Turgis, and in Expectation of gaining considerably by him, agreed in Mr. Turgis's Life-time to divide between them what should come to either of them by Virtue of his Will;

A Chose en Action, tho' not assignable at Law, yet is so in Equity, where the Husband may assign it alone, as he may any other Part of the Wife's Personal Estate. So may a contingent Interest which the Husband has in Right of his Wife, or a Possibility of a Term, which tho' not good strictly by Way of Assignment, yet will operate as an Agreement, where for a valuable Consideration.

this was an Agreement concerning a much more remote Possibility than that in the present Case, and yet was established by a Decree of this Court.

Then as to the Objection of the Assignment's being made for 750 l. instead of 1000 l.; the Interest of the 750 l. from the Time of making the Assignment to that of Dorothy's attaining twenty-five would amount to near 1000 l. and considering the Chance the Assignee run of Dorothy's dying before her Age of twenty-five, the very Insuring of her Life would come to so large a Sum of Money as to make it a dear Bargain. That it would be still more unreasonable, should Mr. Talbot be construed to have destroyed his own Assignment of this 1000 l. Legacy by his own subsequent Fine, that he, against his own Assignment, after having received a valuable Consideration for the same, nay the full Value, considering the Remoteness of the Time of Payment, and the Hazard of the Legacies sinking in the mean while, should have the Legacy again; and with Regard to any Judgment or other Creditors of Mr. Talbot, as they claimed under him, and had no specific Lien on the Legacy, they could not be in a better Condition than he himself was; for which Reasons the Lord Chancellor decreed this Assignment of the 1000 l. Legacy to Wilbram to be good, and that he was entitled thereto with Interest from the Time Dorothy came to the Age of twenty-five.

The last Question was touching the Legacy of 500 l. which by the first Part of the Will of Sir Thomas Doleman was given to his Nephew Lewis Doleman to be paid at his Age of twenty-five, and so a vested Legacy as to the Personal Estate, after which the Testator's Real Estate was charged therewith; and in Regard Lewis Doleman died an Infant of about the Age of fifteen,
and

A Legacy out of a personal Estate payable to an Infant at twenty-one, if the Infant dies before twenty-one, his Administrators may have it; secus if the Legacy is charged upon a Real Estate.

and before the Time appointed for the Payment, it was insisted that this being a Legacy charged upon Land, did sink for the Benefit of the Heres factus or natus; that here the Premises chargeable with this Legacy, amongst other Parts of the Real Estate of the Testator, were devised to Trustees and their Heirs, upon the Trusts and to the Uses herein before mentioned; it was true in Case of a Bequest of any Sum of Money out of a Personal Estate to one, to be paid at his Age of twenty-one or twenty-five, if the Legatee dies before the Time of Payment, it becomes, notwithstanding, a vested Legacy transmissible to Executors or Administrators; but where such Legacy is devised out of a Real Estate, and the Legatee dies before the Time appointed for Payment, there the Legacy shall sink into the Land; because Equity will not load an Heir for the Benefit of an Executor or Administrator. One of the first Cases of which Nature was that of Paulett and Paulett, 1 Vern. 204, 321, where a Portion was charged upon a Term for Years raised out of an Inheritance for that Purpose, payable to a Daughter at twenty-one or Marriage; the Daughter died before twenty-one unmarried, and her Administratrix suing in Equity for this Portion, the Court decreed it should sink into the Land.

No Diversity where a Portion is charged by Will upon Land, and where by Deed payable to an Infant at twenty-one; for in both Cases, if the Infant dies before twenty-one, it sinks into the Land

Afterwards Cases happened where Lands were by Will charged with Portions for Children, payable at their Ages of eighteen or twenty-one; and on the Child's dying before such Time, it was objected, that though it had been determined, where by Deed or Settlement, Lands were charged with Portions for younger Children payable at certain Times, this being upon a Marriage Treaty where the Parties contracted and stipulated for particular Purposes (as the Advancement of Daughters in Marriage) and when the Fact so happened that the Daughters died before they had any Occasion for their Portions, these were decreed to sink: Yet a Legacy given by a Will, was to be looked upon as a Bounty, and not as arising upon any Treaty, Contract or Stipulation between the Parties, for which Reason it should not here sink as in Case of a Settlement.

Notwithstanding which, such Distinction has been disallowed, and the Rule in Equity settled to the contrary, as appears from the Case of Smith and Smith, 2 Vern. 92. where a Portion charged upon Land by a Will payable at a future Day, on the Child's dying before the Day, was determined to sink in the Land, to which Purpose I cited the Case of Yates and Fettiplace, 2 Vern. 416. as in Point, where a Legacy was given out of a Personal Estate (and in Aid thereof the Real Estate made subject) payable at a future Day, before which Day the Legatee dying, though not only the Difference before mentioned between a Settlement and a Will was insisted upon, but likewise another Distinction attempted to be made, (viz.) where a Legacy was charged both upon a Real and Personal Estate, and where upon Lands only: Yet was it decreed that the Legacy should sink into the Land. Also I mentioned the Case of Jennings versus Lookes (b) heard before the Master of the Rolls and Mr. Baron Gilbert, when Lords Commissioners of the Great Seal, in which Case a Legacy was given to a Child, payable at twenty-one, out of the Personal Estate, which if not sufficient, the Real Estate to be liable; and in that Case the above-mentioned Diversity between a Portion secured by a Deed and a Will was insisted on; nevertheless this Distinction was over-ruled, and it was held that tho' if the Administrator of the Legatee who died before twenty-one, could get all or any Part of the Legacy out of the Personal Estate, he was at Liberty so to do; yet with respect to the Land, he should recover no Part from thence.

So where a Portion is given out of a Personal Estate, payable at a future Day, and if that not sufficient, then out of the Real Estate; since if the Person to whom it is given, dies before the Portion is payable, it sinks as to the Land.

(b) Ante 276.

In Answer to all which it was urged, that there was a material Difference between a Portion contracted for by Stipulation of the Parties before Marriage, or secured by a Marriage Settlement, and Legacies charged upon Land by Will, which is a mere Bounty; as also between a Portion to a Child for whom the Father is bound to provide, and a Legacy to a Nephew or remote Kinsman, for whom the Testator is not obliged to make any Provision. That in the principal Case the 500 l. being given first as a Legacy out of the Personal Estate, it would not sink, but subsist, though the Child should have died before the Day of Payment; and when by the latter Part of the Will the Land came to be charged, this was only a Security in Aid, but still for the Payment of what was before given out of the Personal Estate, just as if a subsequent Mortgage had been made for the Payment of the Legacy, the Nature thereof or it's Subsistence would not thereby have been altered, but it would still continue a Legacy.

At another Day, this Cause having been adjourned in order to search Precedents, the Lord Chancellor said he had looked into the Case of Yates and Fettiplace in 2 Vern. and also that of Jennings and Lookes, both which came fully up to the present Case, (viz.) that where the Personal Estate was not sufficient, and the Real Estate in Failure thereof was made liable to answer the Legacies, in Case of the Legatee's dying before the Legacy became due, the Charge upon the Land determined; that it seemed but a very * slight and superficial Diversity between a Legacy given at twenty-one, and payable at twenty-one; and tho' it had been established in the Spiritual Court, as to Legacies given out of a Personal Estate, it did not deserve to be favoured or countenanced, where the Legacy is charged upon

Land

* Of this Opinion was the Lord Keeper Wright, who in the Case of Yates versus Fettiplace, 2 Vern. 417. calls it a Distinction without a Difference.

Land, and the Infant Legatee dies before twenty-one, or before the Time when the Legacy is made payable; that there was not any the least Difference between a Sum of Money charged by a Will on Land, payable to an Infant at twenty-one, and where such Charge arises by a Deed. That the Authorities before mentioned shew there is no Difference where the Real as well as the Personal Estate is charged, for in such Case, as far as the Executor or Administrator claims out of the latter, he shall succeed according to the Rule of that Court where these Things are determinable, even though the Infant Legatee dies before the Time of Payment; but as far as the Legacy is charged upon the Land, so far shall it, on the Legatee's dying before the Legacy becomes payable, sink; and this being the Rule which has of late universally prevailed, be the Legatee a Child or a Stranger, it would be of the most dangerous Consequence, and disturb a great deal of Property for him to break into it.

Wherefore he thought that the 500 l. Legacy payable to Lewis Doleman at twenty-five, on his dying before that Time, as to so much thereof as was payable out of the Land, must sink.

Eastwood versus Vinke, or Eastwood versus Styles. Case (192.)
At the Rolls.

IN this Case one of the Points was, where a Son died seized in Fee of Land without Issue, Brother or Sister, but leaving two Cousins his Heirs at Law, one of whom was his own Mother, Whether the Mother could take as Heir to her Son?

A Father or Mother may be Cousin to the Son, and as such inherit to him notwithstanding the Relation of Father, &c.

Object. The Father or Mother, Grandfather or Grandmother cannot take as Heir to their Son or Grandson; they

(a) Vide
Litt. Sc&C. 3.

they may, it is true, inherit by (a) Circuitry, as thus: The Uncle may take as Heir to the Son, after which the Father or Mother may take as Heir to the Uncle, but the Father or Mother cannot, as in the present Case, succeed immediately and in the first Instance to the Inheritance of the Son.

On the other Side it was said, and so ruled by the Master of the Rolls, that though a Father or Mother could not as Father or Mother inherit immediately after the Son; yet if the Case should so happen, that the Father or Mother were Cousin to the Son, and as such his Heir, they might take notwithstanding; and that here, though the Heir was also Mother, this did not hinder her from taking in the Capacity or Relation of Cousin. His Honour further observed, that the other Cousin being but half an Heir could not take the whole, neither could any Thing go to the Lord by Escheat, for as long as there is any Heir left he cannot take; so that though the other Cousin could take but a Moiety, yet her being a Moiety of an Heir would prevent the Lord's Title by Escheat; and that notwithstanding this was a very uncommon Case, he took it to be a clear one.

One gives a Bond on his Marriage, either within four Months to settle Lands of 100 l. per Annum on his Wife, or that his Heirs, Executors, &c. shall pay her 2000 l. within four Months after his Death; Husband after this Devises to his Wife Lands of 88 l. per Annum; this shall not be taken in Part of the 100 l. per Annum, but only as a Benevolence.

Another Point was, A Man on the Marriage of his Wife, gave a Bond to her Trustee, in the Penalty of 4000 l. conditioned that if he at any Time within four Months should settle and assure Freehold Lands of the yearly Value of 100 l. on his Wife for her Life, or if his Heirs, Executors or Administrators should within the Space of four Months after his Death pay unto his said Wife 2000 l. then the Bond to be void. The Husband soon after the Marriage made his Will, devising thereby Freehold and Copyhold Lands lying intermixed in Norfolk, of the yearly Value

Value of 88 l. to his loving Wife and her Heirs, having furrendered all his Copyhold to the Use of his Will, and died within four Months after the Marriage. Whereupon the Wife now infisted to retain these Lands of 88 l. per Annum, and that in Regard her Husband had not settled the 100 l. per Annum for her Life, she was also at Liberty to elect the 2000 l. out of his Affets.

Against which Demand it was urged, that this Devise of Lands of 88 l. per Annum was a Satisfaction of the Bond, because Lands of 88 l. per Annum in Fee-simple, were greater in Point of Value, and might be sold for more than would purchase 100 l. per Annum for her Life, nay, might in a Day's Time be turned into an Annuity of 100 l. per Annum; but taking it that this Devise was not to go in Satisfaction, yet it ought at least to go towards it; and therefore all that the Executors of the Husband had to do, would be to make up the 88 l. per Annum, 100 l. per Annum; that if the Husband in his Life-time had settled Lands of 88 l. per Annum on her, supposing it were for Life only, this had been a Performance in Part of his Bond, and he would have been bound only to make it up 100 l. per Annum; for which Purpose the Case of Wilcox and Wilcox, 2 Vern. 558. was cited, where one bound to settle upon his Son Lands of 100 l. per Annum, left an Estate of 100 l. per Annum to descend to such Son, though the Lands agreed to be settled were to be intailed, and those that descended a Fee-simple, and so of a different Nature, yet were these latter construed a Satisfaction. That if in that Case the Lands descended had been but 88 l. per Annum, all that his Executors by Virtue of the Covenant had been bound to do, would have been to make the Lands descended of 88 l. amount to 100 l. per Annum; so here the Lands devised were to be made up but 100 l. per Annum; and 2 Vern. 493. Brown ver- hus Dawson was cited, where A. on his Wife's joining in a Sale of Part of her Jointure, gave her a Note to pay her 7 l. 10 s. per Annum for her Life, and afterwards on Sale of a farther Part, gave her a Bond to pay her 6 l. 10 s. per Annum for her Life, and by Will, without taking Notice of the Note or Bond, gave her 14 l. per Annum for her Life; the Devise was held to be a Satisfaction of the Bond and Note. So if a Child has a Portion secured to her by a Settlement, and afterwards has the like or a greater Portion given her by the Will of the same Parent who made the Settlement, the Legacy shall be taken in (a) Lieu of the Portion by the Settlement, and the Child not have both.

(a) Vide
Vol. I. 299.

It was farther observed, that the Election was in the Husband to settle Lands of 100 l. per Annum on the Wife for her Life, within four Months after the Marriage, or that his Heirs, Executors or Administrators should pay the Wife 2000 l. and here the Husband dying within four Months after the Marriage, the Election which he had should go to his Heirs, Executors or Administrators, which Election was considerable, since the Land to be settled was but 100 l. per Annum for her Life, but in Default thereof the Money to be paid her was near double the Value, (viz.) 2000 l.

Money and Lands being Things of a different Kind, the one, tho' of greater Value, shall never be taken in Satisfaction of the other, unless so expressed. Whatever is given by a Will is primâ facie to be intended a Benevolence.

Master of the Rolls: As Money and Lands are Things of a different Nature, the one shall not be taken in Satisfaction of the other. Whatever is given by a Will is primâ facie to be intended a Bounty and Benevolence; and it is remarkable, that in the present Case the Devise is to his loving Wife, which is a Word of Affection. I look upon it to have been a Stretch, that where a Man has owed £.s. 100 l. and afterwards given him a Legacy of 100 l. this latter has been taken in Satisfaction of the former, since at that Rate nothing is given; but though the Court has gone so far, it never yet construed a Devise of Land to be a Satisfaction for a Debt of Money, much less has it decreed that a Legacy of a less Sum than the Debt should be deemed a Satisfaction pro tanto; the Devise of such of the Land as is Copyhold cannot possibly go towards Satisfaction of the 100 l. per Annum, which was to be Freehold; nay, supposing the whole 88 l. per Annum were Freehold, it would not go towards Satisfaction of the 100 l. per Annum, not being so expressed; but if there be not enough to answer the rest of the Charges laid upon the Land, or the Bond Creditors who may come upon the Land, then indeed so much of the 88 l. per Annum devised, as is Freehold, might be taken towards Satisfaction, because otherwise the Testator's Will would be disappointed; though supposing there are Assets to pay all the Bond-Debts, and likewise the Charges laid by the Will upon the Land (which was afterwards admitted) in such Case the 88 l. per Annum shall be enjoyed as a Bounty and Benevolence; vide 4 Co. Vernon's Case, and also that of (a) Lawrence versus Lawrence.

As to the Objection, that the Heirs or the Executors of the Testator ought to have their Election either to settle Lands or pay the Money, the Husband, it is true, had this Election in him, which was to continue four Months after the Marriage, but he dying within the four Months, though the Time expired afterwards, yet where, upon the Death of the Testator Matters are for some Time in Confusion, nothing is more usual than for the Court to (b) enlarge the Time, or to relieve against any Lapse thereof; wherefore let the Husband's Executors pay the incurring Profits of the 100 l. per Annum, from the Death of the Husband, to the Wife, and settle upon her the 100 l. per Annum, they not being bound to pay the 2000 l. to her, but the 88 l. per Annum devised shall not be taken as Part of the 100 l. per Annum agreed to be settled*.

A. bound within four Months after his Marriage to settle Lands of 100 l. per Ann. on his Wife, or else to leave her 2000 l. and dies within the four Months, after which the four Months pass; his Executors shall elect, whether to pay the 100 l. per Annum or the 2000 l.

North versus Ansell.At the Rolls.

One in Consideration of
Portion which he is to have with his Wife, by Settlement impowers the Wife to dispose of 200*l.* by her Will; they live together fifteen Years, and the Wife gives the 200*l.* away by her Will;
the Husband
at this Diffance of Time shall not be admitted to say he had not 500*l.* with his Wife,
but shall pay the Money.

A Man, in Consideration of a Portion of 500*l.* which he was to have in Money and Goods with his Wife, and in Consideration of the Marriage, made a Settlement before Marriage of Land to the Use of himself for Life, Remainder to Trustees for 200 Years, Remainder to the Wife for Life, Remainder to himself in Fee; the Trust of the 200 Years Term was to raise 200*l.* to be paid as the Wife by her Will or any Writing should direct; the Husband and Wife having lived together about fifteen Years, she made a Will, appointing the Payment of the 200*l.* and died before her Husband. On the Appointees bringing their Bill for the raising of this 200*l.* the Husband insisted, that he never received above 300*l.* as a Marriage Portion with his Wife, and that his having 500*l.* was as a Condition precedent, and the Consideration for her Power of disposing of 200*l.* and to be understood thus, 200*l.* out of her 500*l.* or as if the Words had been, *that upon Condition the Husband should receive 500*l.* with his Wife,* he would then allow her to dispose of 200*l.* out of it.

Master of the Rolls: The Consideration of this Power to dispose, is not only the Wife's Portion but the Marriage, which last alone, without any Portion had been a good Consideration, both for the Power and also the Jointure; the Quantum of the Portion seems rather a Computation than otherwise, and it is not to be imagined but that the Husband would and did look into such Quantum before the Marriage, and was satisfied therewith; nor is there the least Evidence of any Fraud: The Reason why this Court does not relieve against Marriage Contracts for Settlements, Jointures or other Provisions, though they may be very unequal, and in Favour of the Wife, is, because it cannot set the Wife in statu quo; or unmarry the Parties, as was said in the Case of Wicherley and Wicherley, where the Remainder-man brought a Bill to be relieved against a Jointure made by the Tenant for Life, even upon his Death-bed, in Consideration of and previous to his Marriage, by Virtue of a Power reserved to him; in which Case the Lord Parker, assisted by the Lord Chief Justice Pratt and myself, denied Relief. Moreover the Answer of the Husband in this Case is very tender, denying that for the Marriage Portion he received above 300 l. whereas he might receive more afterwards, and it would be extremely hard and unreasonable, to put the Legatees of the Wife, who may be Strangers to all these Matters, at the Distance of fifteen Years, after so long an Acquiescence of the Husband, to shew he received a Portion of 500 l. with the Wife, which, had the Husband died soon after the Marriage, might easily have been made to appear; wherefore, upon a Presumption that the Husband received the 500 l. I shall decree the 200 l. to be raised with Interest from the End of the Year after the Wife's Death, and with Costs.

A Settlement or Jointure on a Marriage, tho' made very unequally, and in Favour of the Wife, will not be set aside in Equity, as that cannot put the Wife in statu quo.

Bligh & al' versus Earl of Darnley. Case (194.)

At the Rolls.

THE late Earl of Darnley, the Defendant's Father, seised in Fee of a great real Estate both in England and Ireland, and possessed of a Leasehold in Scotland, and likewise of a considerable personal Estate, having two Sons and three Daughters, by his Will devised 8000 l. a-piece to his two eldest, and 6000 l. to his youngest Daughter, charging his real Estate with the Payment thereof. Afterwards by a Codicil he bequeathed several pecuniary Legacies of considerable Value to his several Brothers and Sisters (the Plaintiffs) without charging his real Estate with the Payment of these latter Legacies. Subsequent to which he entered into a Contract before the Master for the Payment of 17,000*l.* for a third Part of the Manor of Cobham-Hall in Kent, he having two Thirds of the said Manor before. The Master reported him the best Purchaser, and before his Death, which happened soon after, the Report was absolutely confirmed.

The Lord Darnley's personal Estate, before his entering into the Contract for the Purchase of this Estate, was sufficient for the Payment of all his Legacies, but the Performance of the Contract would (as it was thought) occasion a Deficiency of Assets.

One by Will gives several Legacies, some charged on the real Estate and others not; if the personal Estate proves not sufficient to pay all, the Legacies charged on the real Estate shall be paid there-out; or if they have been paid out of the personal Estate, the other Legacies, as to so much, shall stand in their Place upon the Land.

Mr. Hornby, who was the Owner of the third Part of the Manor of Cobham, having brought his Bill against the Executors and Heir of the late Earl of Darnley, to have the Purchase compleated and the Money paid, obtained a Decree for the same; at which Time the now Plaintiffs, the younger Brothers and Sisters of the late Earl, brought their Bill, setting forth the Will, and that several pecuniary Legacies had been given them out of the personal Estate in general; that his Daughters had the above mentioned Legacies charged upon the real Estate, and that the Testator, since the making his Will, having entered into this Contract for the Purchase of the Cobham Estate, whereby there might be a Deficiency of the personal Assets for the Payment of these Legacies: Therefore they prayed that the Assets might be marshalled, and the Daughters Legacies paid out of the real Estate; or if already recovered out of the personal, then that the Plaintiffs the Brothers and Sisters might stand in the Place of the Daughters, and take so much out of the Land for their Legacies as these had exhausted out of the personal Estate:

Which the Court decreed as reasonable, and within the common Rule of marshalling Assets.

But then it was farther pressed by Mr. Attorney General, that the Debt contracted for this Purchase by the late Earl of Darnley was due by a Decree, a Contract made with the Intervention of and confirmed by the Court, which had ordered the late Earl to pay it, and taking it to be a Debt due by a Decree, it was then in Nature of a Judgment, which would bind the real Assets in the Hands of the Heir; and if so, then since the Land agreed to be purchased was real Assets, consequently even That, and more plainly the other real Estate devised or descended to the Defendant the Infant Earl, was Assets liable to the Decree, and the Purchase Money contracted to be paid for Cobham Manor ought to come out of the real Estate, by which Means there would be personal Estate sufficient left for Payment of the pecuniary Legacies given to the Plaintiffs.

But the Master of the Rolls was very clear in his Opinion against the Plaintiffs, as to this last Point, holding it not to be a Debt due by a Decree, but only by an Order of Court against the late Earl, for the Payment of the Purchase Money, who not being Party to the original Cause, but coming in before the Master, it could not be said there was a Decree against him; but supposing there was a Decree, yet where it is said a Decree is equal to a Judgment, or to be paid next thereto, this must be intended only out of the personal Estate; whereas a Decree for a Debt does not bind the real Estate, acting only in personam, not in rem, and the Remedy upon a Decree to affect the Land is only for a Contempt, whereupon the Party proceeds

One allowed the best Purchaser under a Decree is ordered to pay the Purchase Money; this not a Debt due by Decree, but only by Order of the Court.

Where there is a Decree for a Debt, and the Defendant dies, such Decree does not bind the real Af-sets descended to the Heir, as a Judgment does. The only Way upon a Decree for a Debt to affect Land is to proceed for a Contempt to a Sequestration; but such Sequestration abates by the Death of the Party, which an Extent does not.

proceeds to a Sequestration, which Procefs is not of a very long Standing; and that a Sequestration is but a personal Procefs appears by its falling and abating by the Death of the Party; on the other Hand, an Extent upon a Judgment does not fo abate. That Judgments did not affect the Land until the Statute of Westm. 2. (13 E. 1. cap. 18.) which can hardly be thought to have included a Decree; nay plainly it does not, for if fo, it would have affected but a Moiety of the Land, as a Judgment does; whereas upon a Sequestration the Plaintiff takes the whole Profits; that if a Decree for a Debt should be obtained, and the Defendant die leaving no personal, but a considerable real Estate in Fee, the latter would not be affected by the Decree in the Hands of the Heir, as it would in case of a Judgment; and were this otherwise, surely after fo many thousand Decrees and Instances of Deficiencies of personal Assets for the satisfying thereof, some Cases would be found where Land had been sequestred for such Debts in the Heir's Hands, but no Precedent of this Kind was ever heard of; and though the Land thus contracted to be purchased must in Equity be taken as Land, descendible and devisable as such, still it is not liable to the Decree.

Whether a Leasehold Estate in Scotland can be valued here as personal Assets, as a Leasehold in Ireland may.

However, the Plaintiffs hoping that the personal Assets would be sufficient to answer not only all the Legacies, but also this Contract for the Purchase, when the Daughters Legacies were placed upon the Land, the Court decreed an Account to be taken of the personal Estate, doubting at the same Time whether the Leasehold in Scotland could be looked upon as personal Estate in England; though a Leasehold Estate in Ireland is personal Assets in England, and may be sold here; but the Master was left at Liberty to report any Thing specially.

Cotter versus Layer.

Case (195.)

Lord Chancellor King.

THE Bill was to compel a specific Performance of an Agreement made by a Feme on her Marriage with her second Husband, on this Case: The 20th of Nov. 1711, Christopher Layer and Eliz. his Wife were admitted to the Copyhold Premises in Question, to hold to them two and to the Heirs of the Husband; the 1st of September 1717, Layer and his Wife surrendered these Copyhold Premises to the Use of the Wife for Life, and afterwards to such Uses as she by any Writing, or by her last Will attested by three Witnesses, should appoint; who accordingly by a Writing purporting to be her last Will, and signed by her in the Presence of three Witnesses, gave, devised, limited and appointed the Premises to her Daughter Elizabeth Layer in Tail, Remainder to her Brother (one Elwyn) in Fee. Afterwards Elizabeth Layer surviving her Husband Christopher (he being attainted of Treason and executed) did by Deed or Writing attested only by two Witnesses, upon a Marriage agreed to be had between her and the Plaintiff Cotter, covenant to surrender the Premises to the Use of her intended Husband Cotter and herself, and the Heirs of Cotter, who covenanted on his Part within twelve Months to settle an Annuity or Rent-charge of 30*l. per Annum* on the said Elizabeth his intended Wife for Life. The Marriage took Effect, and she died within the Year.

Equity aids a defective Execution of a Power, if for a valuable Consideration, and this against a Remainderman, or one not claiming under the Power.

The Husband brought this Bill against the Defendant Elizabeth, the Infant Daughter of his late Wife by Christopher Layer, to compel her to perform this Covenant of her Mother's.

Objected 1st, This Deed or Writing of the Wife's, being attested by three Witnesses, is a good Settlement on the Daughter, an effectual Execution of the Power which could not afterwards be altered; and that it must not operate as a Will, but by way of Writing declaring the Use of the Copyhold, because a Feme Covert cannot make a Will.

(a) Vide Salk. 313. Sbardelow versus Nyler.

Sed per Cur': Though in (a) Strictness a Feme Covert cannot make a Will, yet where she is impowered to make a Writing in Nature of a Will, the Writing will operate as such.

2<sup>dly</sup>, Objected, Supposing this to be a Writing in Nature of a Will, yet the Agreement made by Elizabeth Layer upon her second Marriage, being but a Covenant, cannot amount to a Revocation of a Will, (vide 1 Roll. Abr. 615. said to have been so agreed in the Case of Montague and Jeffreys) for the Covenantor may at his Election break or perform his Covenant, and therefore a bare Covenant cannot revoke a Will.

One devises Land, and afterwards articles for a valuable Consideration to sell or settle the Premises; this in Equity is a Revocation of the Will.

Cur': Tho' a Covenant or Articles do not at Law revoke a Will, yet if entered into for a valuable Consideration, amounting in this Court to a (b) Conveyance, they must consequently be an equitable Revocation of a Will, or of any Writing in Nature thereof; and it is plain, in the present Case, that the Writing was intended as a Will, and not to devest Elizabeth Layer of her Estate during her Life, as it must have done, were it an Appointment of an Use to take Effect in present; nay, a Woman's Marriage is (c) alone a Revocation of her Will.

(b) See the very same said and resolved in the Case of Sir Barnham Ryder versus Sir Charles Wager, ante 332.

I

3<sup>dly</sup>,

(c) 4 Rep. 61.

3<sup>dly</sup>, Objected, These Articles by Elizabeth Layer, to settle the Copyhold Premises on her second Husband, were attested by two Witnesses only, so not pursuant to the Power, and consequently void.

Cur': These Articles being for a valuable Consideration, (viz.) that of Marriage, though not in Strictness pursuant to the Power, I shall supply the Want of Circumstances in the same Manner as I would the want of a Surrender; otherwise had the Agreement been voluntary.

Where there is a Power to declare an Use by a Writing attested by three Witnesses, and such Use is declared by a Writing only attested by two; if for a valuable Consideration, Equity will help it.

4<sup>thly</sup>, Objected, The Defendant the Daughter claims as Heir of Christopher Layer her Father, and not of Elizabeth her Mother who made this Covenant; and tho' the Mother's Covenant may bind her own Heirs, yet can it not affect the Heirs of her Husband any more than any Stranger whatsoever.

Cur': The Case of The Countess of (a) Coventry versus The Earl of Coventry is stronger than the present; there the late Earl, who was but Tenant for Life, previous to and in Consideration of a Marriage and Portion, covenanted to settle Lands of 500*l. per Annum* on the Countess pursuant to a Power, and dying before the Jointure was made, Equity compelled the present Earl, though claiming by Virtue of a Remainder, and not under him who entered into the Covenant, to confirm and make good the Jointure; which Case being adjudged on solemn Debate, and with the Assistance of Judges, is a great Authority, and to be observed by me; from thence it may be inferred, that whatever is in the Power of the Person covenanting to do, provided the Covenant be for a valuable Consideration, Equity ought to look upon as done, and supply the Want of Circumstances against a Remainder-man, and a pari ratione against the Heir of the Husband, whether such Heir be mentioned or not. The Case where the Issue in Tail was held not to be bound by Articles enter'd into by Tenant in Tail, and a Decree obtained against him to perform such Articles, is not parallel; since the Issue claims paramount his Ancestor, and by Virtue of the Statute of Westm. 2, in Contradiction to which Equity cannot assist, but here no Act of Parliament interferes. Let the Plaintiff hold and enjoy, and the Defendant Elizabeth Layer (now an Infant) when she comes to Age must convey, unless she shews Cause to the contrary within six Months after attaining twenty-one.

Peyton versus Bury.

ONE by Will bequeathed the Residue of his personal Estate to Jane Styles, provided she married with the Consent of A. and B. his Executors, (who were but Executors in Trust) and if Jane Styles should marry otherwise, then the Testator devised over the said Residuum to J. N. One of the Executors died, after which Jane Styles, without the Consent of the surviving Executor, intermarried with a common Mariner; whereupon J. N. brought his Bill for the Residuum.

One devises the Residue of his personal Estate to J. S. provided she marries with the Consent of his two Executors; on the Death of one, the Condition (being a subsequent one) is become impossible, and she may marry without the Consent of the Survivor.

Insisted for the Plaintiff, that this was a Condition precedent, which was not to vest any Thing in Jane Styles until her Marriage with the Consent of both the Executors, and she, not having married with such Consent, was not entitled to the Residuum, consequently the same was well devised over to the Plaintiff. Or taking it to be a Condition subsequent, still Jane Styles ought to have performed it cy pres, as near as might be to the Intent of the Condition, by having the Consent of the surviving Executor. That it would be hard, if there were five or six Executors, that the Death of any one of them should discharge the Condition; and it was compared to the Case in Litt. Sect. 352. If a Feoffment be made upon Condition to reinfteoff the Feoffor and his Wife, and the Heirs of their two Bodies, and for Default of such Issue, the Remainder to the right Heirs of the Feoffor; if the Husband dies living the Wife, before any Estate in Tail made to them, then ought the Feoffee by the Law to make an Estate to the Wife as near the Condition as possible, (viz.) to the Wife for Life, without Impeachment of Waste, Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of the Husband on her begotten, Remainder to the right Heirs of the Husband; so here, though Jane Styles could not have the Assistance and Advice of both the Executors (one being dead) yet ought she to have taken the Advice of him who was living.

Master of the Rolls: It is very clear, that the Plaintiff the Devisee over has no Title to the Residuum: 1st, In the Nature of the Thing, and according to the Intention of the Testator, this could not be a Condition precedent, for at that Rate the Right to the Residuum might not have vested in any Person whatever for twenty or thirty Years after the Testator's Death; since both the Executors might have lived, and Jane Styles continued so long unmarried, during all which Time the Right to the Residuum could not be said to be in the Executors, they being expressly mentioned to be but Executors in Trust. Besides, the Bequest of the Residuum is first to Jane, which, if the Will had stopped there, would have been an absolute Devise, so that the following Condition annexed must be a subsequent, not a precedent one. Now the (a) Rule of Law is, that if there be a subsequent Condition which be-

1 Inst. 206.

(a) Vide
ante 528,
531.

discharges the Grantee from the Condition; Lex non cogit ad impossibilia, which Construction ought the rather to prevail, with regard to a Condition so odious as that in the present Case is, which restrains the Freedom of Marriage, and is (a) void by the Civil Law, when annexed to a personal Legacy. The Plaintiff by his Bill comes to establish a Forfeiture, and would have the Court add those Words to the Will which the Testator might, but did not think fit to insist upon, that Jane Styles should not marry without the Consent of the Executors or of the Survivor of them, and which the Testator might omit upon good Reason; as intending that both the Executors should confer together about the Marriage of Jane Styles, in order that the one by Arguments might convince the other touching the Suitableness of a Match, which cannot now be done when only one is left.

Where there is a Condition that a Feme shall marry with the Consent of two Executors, and one without Reason is against the Match, the Court will dispence with his Consent.

In what Cases a Condition is to be performed
cy pres.

His Honour farther observed, that he had known the Case happen, where the Consent of both the Executors being required by the Will, one, on a proper Match being proposed, did consent, but the other was obstinate and would not; which being laid before the Court, and the Dissent of the Executor appearing to be without a just Cause, the Want of such Consent was supplied. That this was not like the Case put out of Littleton, of the Feoffment which ought to be made cy pres, &c. because there the first Feoffee was not intended to keep the Estate to his own Use, but only as an Instrument or Conduit-Pipe for conveying it back to the Feoffor and his Family, of which, whilst any were left, the Reinfcoffment ought to be made as near the Intent of the Condition as might be; but in the present Case, Jane Styles was to take the Devise of the Surplus to her own Use. Moreover, this Consent directed to be had being like a bare (b) Authority, and and so different from that which is coupled with an Interest, could not survive, without express Words for that Purpose.

Wherefore thinking this a frivolous Bill, His Honour dismissed it with Costs.

Langford versus Pitt.

At the Rolls.

UPON a Bill brought by the Plaintiff for the Performance of Articles for a Purchase, the Cafe was: The Plaintiff Langford, Vicar of Axminster in Devon, did by Attorney enter into Articles with Governor Pitt for the Sale of Lands in Cornwall. The Articles were dated November 1725, whereby the Plaintiff agreed to convey the Premises to the Governor and his Heirs, on or before Lady-day then next, at the Costs and Charges of the Governor, and as Counsel should advise; upon the making of which Conveyance the Governor covenanted to pay 1500 l. to the Plaintiff.

One articles to buy certain Lands, he thereby becomes seized thereof in Equity; but where A. devised all his real and personal Estate, and afterwards articulated to purchase Lands, and then died, the Heir at Law was held to be entitled to this Estate, as not passing by the Will; secus had the Articles for the Purchase been before the Will, for then the Estate would have passed.

Governor Pitt lived until after Lady-day, but in 1722, long before the Executing of these Articles, made his Will, by which he devised all his real Estate to his Son Robert Pitt for Life, Remainder to his eldest Son John Pitt for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male successively, with several Remainders over, bequeathing all his personal Estate to Trustees, to be invested in Lands and settled as above; and dying soon after Lady-day 1726, his said eldest Son and Heir laid Claim to the Premises, as descending to him, and made his Will, wherein by express Words he devised the Premises thus articulated to be purchased, to his Wife and others, in Trust to pay his Debts, &c. and soon afterwards afterwards died, leaving John Pitt his Son and Heir, to whom the Governor had devised all his Estate expectant on the Death of Robert Pitt the Son.

The Plaintiff Langford brought his Bill against the Executors of the Governor, the Executors of Robert Pitt the Son, and against John the Grandson, to be paid the 1500 l. Purchase Money; and though it appeared in the Cause by the Plaintiff's own Witnesses, that in 1728 the Plaintiff had paid to his eldest Brother's Daughter (being the Heir general of the Family) 750 l. for her joining with her Husband in a Deed and Fine to the Use of the Plaintiff and his Heirs, (Note; the Witnesses said, this was rather to clear up the Title than that it was necessary) from whence the Defendant's Counsel urged it to be evident, even by the Plaintiff's own shewing, that he had not at the Time of entering into the Articles a good Title to the Premises:

Yet, by the Master of the Rolls, it is sufficient if the Party entering into Articles to sell has a good Title at the Time of the Decree, the Direction of the Court being in all these Cases to enquire whether the Seller can, not whether he could make a Title at the Time of executing the Agreement. In the Case of Lord Stourton versus Sir Thomas Meers, the Lord Stourton at the Time of the Articles for a Sale, or even when the Decree was pronounced, could not make a Title, the Reversion in Fee being in the Crown; and yet the Court indulged him with Time more than once for the getting in this Title from the Crown, which could not be effected without an Act of Parliament to be obtained in the following Sessions; however it was at Length procured, and Sir Thomas Meers decreed to be the Purchaser. Indeed it would be attended with great Inconveniencies, were Decrees to direct an Enquiry, whether the Contractor to sell had at the Time of entering into such Contract a Title; for thus all Incumbrances and Defects must be raked into; wherefore it has been thought insufficient to answer the End, if at the Time of the Decree or Report the Seller can make a good Title, and accordingly it is usual for the Report to mention, that if such a third Person joins, the Title will be good.

Then the Question was between the Defendants, whether the Devisees of Robert Pitt the Son, or the Grandson, under the Will of the Governor, were entitled to the Lands thus articulated to be purchased, for it was agreed that the Purchase Money was to be paid by the Executors of Governor Pitt.

And for the latter it was objected by the Attorney and Solicitor General, that when the Governor by his Will devised all his real, and also his personal Estate to be laid out in Land, and all this to be for the Benefit of his Grandson John, after the Death of his Son Robert Pitt, either in one Shape or other, these Lands thus agreed to be purchased by the Governor should pass; that nothing could be plainer than his Intention to dispose of all his Estate both real and personal; and Mr. Solicitor cited the Case of Greenhill versus Greenhill, 2 Vern. 679. by which it is decreed, that where a Man articles to buy Land, this gives the Party contracting an equitable Interest in such Land, which he may devise, though before the Day on which the Conveyance is to be made.

Master of the Rolls: I admit the Case of (a) Greenhill and Greenhill, in which I my self was of Counsel, to have been so determined; but this material Difference is observable between the two Cases: There the Articles for the Purchase were entered into by the Testator before he made his Will, and so the equitable Interest which he gained thereby was well devisable ; but in the present Case Governor Pitt's Will was made prior to the Articles for this Purchase, before he had any equitable Interest in the Land, consequently when he had no Kind of Title, he could devise nothing ; so that this Interest in the Premises gained by the Governor's Articles must have descended to his Son Robert Pitt as Heir at Law, who might well devise the same ; and though it may at first look strange, that when the Governor devised all his real and personal Estate, these Words should not carry all, yet it will not seem strange, when it is considered that an Estate purchased after the Will cannot pass thereby ; now these Articles are as a Purchase subsequent, and though the Governor's Executors are to pay for such Purchase, they cannot have the Benefit of it, being to advance the Money only as a Debt due from their Testator.

Decree the Master to enquire, whether the Plaintiff can make a Title, if he can, the Purchase Money to be paid by the Governor's Executors out of his Assets ; the Master to see who has been in Possession since Lady-day 1726, at which Time the Purchase Money was to be paid and the Conveyance completed ; Interest and Cofts to be reserved*.

At the Rolls.

Blackbourn versus Webster & al'.

An Order of Vestry is made for building a Work-house in a Parish, and that in Case any one

THE Inhabitants of the Parish of Horn-Church in Essex, being minded to build a Work-house for setting the Poor to work, a Vestry was called and held the 4th of April 1720, when it was agreed to build will lay down the Money, the Parish shall repay : Equity will decree a Parish-Rate to be made to reimburse the Party who lays down this Money.

* On Appeal to the Lord Chancellor this Decree was affirmed build the Work-house, and to lay out a Sum not exceeding 300 l. in Building the same; that the Money should be borrowed, and that whoever was bound for it should be indemnified by the Parish. And by another Order of Vestry made the 8th of the same Month the first Order was confirmed, both being signed by the Vicar and several Inhabitants of the Parish.

In Pursuance of these Orders, 300 l. was borrowed of Sir Thomas Webster, and the Plaintiff, together with one Hunt (who is since dead insolvent) became bound for the Payment thereof, with Interest: The 300 l. and more was laid out in building the Work-house, which became beneficial to the Parish, the Poor's Rates being thereby lessened. Several Orders of Vestry were afterwards obtained for making Rates for Relief of the Poor, which were collected, but no Part of the Debt paid, by reason that some Persons who came into the Parish after the Work-house was built, opposed the Payment, and in particular, when an Order of Vestry was made for levying a Rate for relieving the Poor and Payment of this Debt, they, on an Appeal to the Quarter-Sessions, got the Order which had been made below to be quashed. The 300 l. not being paid, Sir Thomas Webster put the Bond in Suit against the Plaintiff, who being forced to pay the Money, brought this Bill against such of the Inhabitants as were living, and against the present Vicar, Church-wardens and Overseers of the Poor of the said Parish, to be relieved and re-imbursed what Money he had paid, with Interest and Costs, and to be indemnified.

The Defendants admitted the Order, the Borrowing the 300 l. and the Building of the Work-house, saying they were willing to come into any lawful Means within their Power for the Payment of this Debt, but that it had been opposed by some in the Parish, who who gave out that no Rate could by Law be made to pay the Debts of the Parish.

Master of the Rolls: The Plaintiff has a very just Demand, and it was an unconscionable Thing in those who appealed to the Sessions. Supposing no Rate could by Virtue of the 43 Eliz. be made for Payment of a Parish-Debt, the Plaintiff ought not however, in a Case of this Nature, to be without a Remedy. Wherefore decree him his Principal, Interest, and Coſts at Law and in this Court; and that the Defendants the Vicar, Church-wardens and Overseers of the Poor of the Parish, do call a Vestry to make a Rate for the Payment thereof; and in case any of the Inhabitants shall refuse paying what they shall be rated, the Plaintiff to be at Liberty to apply to the Court; since I do not see why the Court may not as well compel those who are not Parties to pay the Rate, as order Tenants, though not Parties, to pay their Rents: And forasmuch as the Defendants have put in a fair Answer, decree them their Coſts to be raised by the said Rates; but if those who had appealed to the Quarter-Sessions had been before the Court, they should have paid all the Coſts.

Ex parte Ludlow.

Case (199.)

Lord Chancellor King.

MR. Ludlow, late a Bencher of the Temple, having a Daughter Elizabeth, who was found a Lunatick, and being seised of a real Estate of near 500 l. per Ann. and possessed of a personal Estate amounting to about 600 l. by Will made his Sister Mrs. Bathurst Executrix and Residuary Legatee, in Case his Daughter should not recover from her Lunacy; but if she did, then the Daughter to be Executrix and Residuary Legatee, and to remain under the Care of Mrs. Bathurst during the Continuance of her Infanity of Mind. Afterwards Mrs. Bathurst made her Will, appointing thereby one Robert Bog of Doctors Commons her Executor and Residuary Legatee, and devised, as far as in her lay, the Custody of her Niece the Lunatick to the said Mr. Bog, who having prov'd the Will, and under Colour thereof got the Lunatick under his Care, petitioned the Court for the Custody of the Person.

On the other Hand, Henry Strangeways, who was Cousin of the Lunatick, viz. the Lunatick's Grandfather's Sister's second Grandson, petitioned for the Custody of the Person, as did also Mrs. Rachael Masters, who was another second Cousin of the Lunatick, viz. the Lunatick's Grandfather's youngest Sister's Granddaughter, and Sister of Sir Harcourt Masters.

1st, For Mr. Bog it was insisted, that though the Devise of Mrs. Bathurst the Aunt was not good in Law, yet it might amount to a Recommendation of him to the Court by one who, as she was a near Relation, and herself intrusted with the Care of the Lunatick by her own Father, must be supposed best to know the Lunatick, and such Recommendation would be of Weight with the Court. That Mrs. Bathurst, being the Father's Executrix, stood in his Place, consequently it was as the Father's own Appointment, more especially when the other two Competitors were not unexceptionable; for as it was an Exception to the Heir that he should not be entrusted with the Custody of the Person, since he was to be a Gainer of the real Estate by the Death of the Lunatick, so these two Competitors, being two of the next of kin, would, on her Death, come in for a Share of the personal Estate, under the Statute of Distribution, the Value of which might happen to be more than that of the Land; or at least, supposing the personal Estate were to increase by the Continuance of the Lunatick's Life, it was their Interest however that her Lunacy should continue, and she remain incapable of making a Will.

2<sup>dly</sup>, For Mr. Strangeways it was alledged, that he was an House-keeper, a Person of a very fair Character, and several Affidavits were read proving the great Liking and Affection which the Lunatick took to her Cousin Strangeways, and the great Dislike and Aversion she had to Mrs. Masters, which arose (as was conceived) from her Brother Sir Harcourt Masters (one of the Directors of the South-Sea in 1720.) having drawn in the Lunatick's Father to put his Substance into the South-Sea, where a great Part of it was lost; and that thereupon it had been the usual Expression of the Father, that Sir Harcourt Masters had drawn him into a Secret.

But taking this in the best Sense, even supposing Sir Harcourt did not by any indirect Means induce the Father to be an Adventurer in the South-Sea, yet if upon this, or any other (though a groundless) Occasion, the Lunatick had entertain'd such Thoughts, (and she plainly appeared to be uneasy when in the Custody of any of the Family of the Masters's, and raved, becoming much disordered at the Sight of them) all this would be regarded by the Court, which would use its Endeavours to make these unfortunate Persons as easy as possible. And several Affidavits were read, proving, that whenever Mr. Strangeways appeared, the Lunatick, tho' before in her furious Fits, would on a sudden grow calm; wherefore, as committing her to the Care of Strangeways might facilitate her Cure, or make her more easy under the Continuance of her Distemper, so the placing her with one for whom she had an Aversion, might (it was said) prevent her Cure, or retard it, and make her more uneasy in the mean Time.

3<sup>dly</sup>, On Behalf of Mrs. Masters Affidavits were produced, shewing that the Lunatick's Expressions of Aversion to the Family of the Masters's were only in her raving Fits, at which Time she would use all her Relations alike ill.

the Custody of a Lunatick Son or Nephew who is above
21, this void.

Lord Chancellor: As to the Will of Mrs. Bathurst devising the Custody of her Niece to Mr. Bog, it is absolutely void; the Father himself could not make such a Will, tho' he might dispose of the Guardianship of his Child till Twenty-one, yet after that Age (which is the present Case) he had no such Power; and taking the Will out of the Case, Mr. Bog, being no Relation, is as a mere Stranger, consequently against the near Relations of the Lunatick he can have no Pretence of Claim to the Custody of the Person.

The Court will not the Lunatick's

the being

Inconvenient to grant the Custody of a Lunatick to two.

It is true, when the Party seeking the Custody of the Lunatick's Person has been Heir at Law, or next entitled to the real Estate after the Lunatick's Death, this has prevailed as an Objection, tho' much more considerable formerly than (a) of late: But the being next of kin, so as to be entitled to a Share of the personal Estate of the Lunatick, is (b) no Objection, nor do I remember it ever to have prevailed; for the personal Estate in all Probability will increase by the Continuance of the Lunatick's Life, consequently it must be for the Advantage of the Committee to preserve such Life, and to be more careful and tender of it. In the present Case the Degree of Relation is equal, which may seem to entitle both the Competitors: But as I have found by Experience, that granting the Commitment to two has been attended with Inconveniencies, by occasioning Suits, and putting the Estate to great Expence; and since Mrs. Masters, being of the same Sex, may probably better know how to take Care of the Lunatick, and in this Respect be more tender of her; let the Custody of the Lunatick's Person be granted to her second Cousin Mrs. Masters in Preference to her other second Cousin Mr. Strangerways.

THE Defendant Colmer was a younger Brother of a good Family, and a thriving Tradesman and Freeman of London. The Plaintiff's late Husband Mr. Milner was a very rich Merchant, a Freeman of London, and died intestate, leaving the Plaintiff his Widow and several Children. There had been for some Time a Suit depending in Court, wherein an Account was decreed to be taken of Mr. Milner's personal Estate, one Third of which, according to the Custom, was decreed to the Wife, the other two Thirds to the Children. And the Defendant Colmer having, without the Consent of the Court, or of the Mother, married one of the Infant Daughters of Mr. Milner, whose Portion was 14000 l. and applying to the Court for his Wife's Portion, he was sent to a Master to make Proposals as to the Settlement which he was willing to make on his Wife; whereupon Mr. Colmer offered to settle 4000 l. Part of his Wife's own Fortune, on him and her and her Issue; and further to be bound, in Case his elder Brother, who had then no Issue, should die without Issue Male in his the Defendant Colmer's Life-time, to settle 500 l. per Ann. of the Family Estate upon his said Wife for her Jointure, alledging that, he being a Freeman of London, the Custom of the City was alone a Provision for his Issue.

Husband marries an Infant entitled to a great personal Estate, pending a Bill for an Account of such Estate, and applies to the Court for his Wife's Portion, which directs him to make his Proposals before the Master; the Court accept Proposals from the Husband to settle only Part of her Fortune on the Wife and her Issue.

The Matter coming on upon this Report, it was insisted on for the Defendant, that this Portion of the Wife's being personal Estate, the Right thereto by Law vested in the Husband, and that it was somewhat extraordinary for a Court of Equity to interpose or meddle where the Law gives a plain Title to the Husband, especially where the Husband was a Person in Trade, a thriving Man, of a good Family, and proposed to settle some Part of the Money, so far as to secure against Want both the Wife and Children; that the rest would probably turn to better Account in the way of Trade, even to the Wife and her Children, than if invested in a Purchase and settled. That the Covenant to settle 500 l. per Ann. pursuant to a Power in the Family Settlement, was a considerable Addition, there being but one Brother before the Defendant, who was beyond Sea, had no Child as yet, nor was likely to have any by his Lady, who did not live with him; and then not only the 500 l. per Ann. Jointure would be made, but the Family Estate, which was 1000 l. per Ann. in Warwickshire, would come to the Defendant Colmer and his Children (if Sons) by this Wife. That the Husband's being a Freeman of London has been thought a considerable Ingredient, and therefore several Persons have been ordered to (a) take up their Freedom, to the Intent their Wives and Children might be entitled to their Provisions by the Custom of London; and though the Freeman might lay out his personal Estate in Land, yet Tradesmen are not apt to take their Money out of Trade, which generally yields greater Profit, and to invest it in Land, where the annual Income is frequently very inconsiderable in Comparison of the Profit arising by Trade.

(a) See the Case of Frederick versus Frederick, Vol. I.

That if the sole reasonable Occasion of the Interposition of the Court in this Case was the Defendant's Wife being then an Infant, she was now of Age, and present in Court, ready to give her Consent that her Husband should have the Residue of her Portion; which Consent of hers before a Judge, upon a Fine, would devert her of any real Estate, a fortiori would such Consent when given by her before the Lord Chancellor himself, be sufficient to put an End to such such Interposition of the Court, and induce it to permit the Defendant to receive what by Law he was before entitled to, the personal Estate.

On the other side it was said to be the settled Distinction, that where the Husband has a legal Title to the Wife's personal Estate, which he can come at by Law without the Aid of Equity; this Court will not in such Case interpose: But where the Application by the Husband is in Equity for his Wife's Portion in the Hands of the Court, or perhaps of a Receiver, there, if the Husband will have Equity, he must do Equity. That the present Case was much stronger, the Court having actually referred it to a Master to receive Proposals, and the Husband, in Consequence thereof, having made them; all which would be vain, were the Husband to have his Wife's Portion upon a Supposition of being entitled to it by Law; that now the only Question was, whether the Proposals were reasonable or not, and the same as if before the Marriage they had been made to the Parent or Guardian of the Lady; the Court being now her Guardian, and in loco parentis; and it would hardly have been thought a reasonable Proposal, had the Husband offered to settle not above a third Part of his Wife's own Portion; that the Covenant to settle a Jointure of 500*l.* per Ann. Part of the Family Estate, when in Possession, was intirely precarious; the Brother might have Issue by this or by another Wife, or might survive the Defendant; in any of which Cases, the Defendant's Power of making a Jointure, being to take Effect only when in Possession, his Covenant for that Purpose would be of no Signification. Also as to the Custom of London, that was said to be as precarious, the Freeman might dispose of his personal Estate, contract Debts, might miscarry in the World, or realize his Effects; in any of which Cases the Custom would not take Place; and Tho' where the Husband has a legal Title to his Wife's personal Estate, Equity will not interpose in Prejudice of such Right; yet where he cannot get at it without the Assistance of this Court, it will put Terms upon him.

and tho' the Gains in Trade might sometimes be considerable, yet Money imployed in Trade was also subject to very great Accidents; for which Reasons it was hoped that the Portion which the Wife brought, or at least more of it than had been offered by the Husband, should be invested in Lands or settled.

Lord Chancellor said, He thought it extraordinary that this Court should interpose against the Husband in Cases where the Law gives him a Title to the Wife's personal Estate; and doubted Experience had shewn, that such Interposition, unless where the Husband has appeared to be a profligate or extravagant Man, had been the Occasion rather of Mischief than Good.

Whereupon his Lordship examined the Wife in Court as to her Consent, asking her, whether she understood the Proposals made by her Husband; which she repeated to the Court, and made it appear she did understand them; adding, that her Husband had been put to great Charge, Trouble and Loss of Time in this Suit, for which Reason she desired that without more Trouble he might have the Remainder of her Portion, she being satisfied he had Intentions to do more for her.

Then his Lordship recommended it to the Husband to add to his Proposals; but he answering, that he could not conveniently do it,

The Court said, The Covenant to make a Jointure of 500 l. per Ann. when in Possession of the Family Estate, though contingent, was yet to be considered and valued; and therefore directed that the Defendant giving such Covenant, the Residue of the Portion, deducting the Sum proposed to be invested in Land and settled as above, should be paid to him.

Profits from what Time,

cruing, and where only from filing
the Bill.

THE King under the Duchy Seal granted to Mr. Serjeant Bennet Kingsland Park in Hampshire for twenty-one Years, which expired at Michaelmas 1728. Serjeant Bennet by his Will devised the Leasehold Premises to his younger Son Thomas Bennet (the Master in Chancery) and made his eldest Son John Bennet (another Master) his Executor, and died 23 Dec. 1723. Thomas Bennet, the younger Son and Devisee of the Leasehold, in 1728 brought his Bill against the Defendant (inter al') for the meane Profits of Part of the Premises, having himself been in Possession of the other Part from his Father's Death; and it appearing, that a Counterpart of a Lease was delivered by one who had been the Defendant's Agent to the Plaintiff Bennet, by which the Premises in Question were formerly leased by the Crown under the Duchy Seal to the Defendant Whitehead, which Counterpart was executed by the Defendant himself, and now produced; and the Lands therein mentioned being the same as were granted by the latter Lease to Mr. Serjeant Bennet: This satisfied the Court of the Plaintiff's Right; wherefore the Defendant (who pretended to the Inheritance of the Premises) was decreed to account with the Plaintiff for the Profits.

But then the Question was, from what Time this Account should be taken, whether from the filing of the Bill only, or from the Death of the Plaintiff's Father, at which Time the Plaintiff's Title accrued?

And it was objected, that the bringing of the Bill was to be looked upon as an Entry of the Plaintiff upon the Premises, from which Time only he should be entitled to the Profits. Indeed in Case of a third Person's entering upon the Lands of an Infant, such Infant, when he comes of Age, shall by a Bill in Equity recover the Profits from the Time of the first Entry; but the Reason is, because where one enters on an Infant he is chargeable as Bailiff or Guardian, and no Laches shall be imputed to the Infant; wherefore it will be construed as if he had entered as soon as his Right accrued; whereas it might reasonably be imputed as Laches to the Plaintiff Mr. Bennet, that he did not bring his Bill before; that as the Court might go back five Years before the bringing of the Bill, by the same Reason it might go back twenty-five or fifty Years; besides the Account ought not to be decreed without an Issue first directed to try, whether the Premises in Question were Part of the Premises comprised in the Lease under the Duchy Seal, (viz.) Part of Kingsland Park, in regard the subsequent Lease made to Serjeant Bennet from the Year ———, would by the same Reason bind the Premises; and the Defendant pretended to an Inheritance therein, which ought not to be affected without a Trial. Farther, the Plaintiff claimed Title to the Leasehold Premises without shewing an Assent to the Devise thereof by the Executor of Serjeant Bennet, which he ought to have done.

One in Possession of Lands belonging to an Infant; if the Infant when of Age makes out his Title, he shall recover the Profits in Equity from the first accruing of his Title, and not from the filing of his Bill only.

Lord Chancellor: The Names of these Meadows being expressly mentioned in this Lease from the Duchy, and being the same which the Defendant owns he has been in Possession of, they must be intended the same Lands, for no one will presume, unless it be proved, that there are two Meadows of the same Name; then as the Plaintiff's Right accrued upon his Father's Death by Virtue of the Will, he must from that Time be entitled

The Defendant shall account for Profits from the Time the Plaintiff's Right accrued, and not from the Time of filing the Bill only, if the Defendant has conceal-titled to the Rents and Profits of the Premises; and the rather against the Defendant, as he had the Deed and Counterpart of the Lease in his Possession which made out the Plaintiff's Title, and it was the Defendant's Agent who delivered the Deed to the Plaintiff; it is sufficiently clear, that the Lands in Controversy are the very Lands comprised in the Duchy Lease; the Defendant or his Ancestors having accepted the same, shews they had no other Title than under such Lease; all which is made more evident by the Defendant, who now claims the Premises as a Fee-simple, not being able to shew any Deed, Fine, Conveyance or Settlement, by which they were conveyed as Fee-simple Lands. As to the Objection, that the Plaintiff claims Title to the Leasehold without shewing an Assent to the Devise thereof by the Executor of his Father; it appears the Plaintiff was in Possession of Part of the Premises, which is a sufficient Proof of the Executor's Consent, especially when the Executor does not appear to have made any Claim himself thereto.

Decree the Defendant to account with the Plaintiff for the Rents and Profits of the Leasehold Premises from the Death of his Father Serjeant Bennet, from which Time his Title thereto accrued by Virtue of his Father's Will.

A Deposition of a Witness amended after Publication.

Griells versus Gansell.

ON Petition to amend a Deposition of a Witness (one Dubourdieu a Clergyman, who had been examined in this Cause) the Witness was ordered to attend, as was also the Examiner, the latter of whom, being examined by the Lord Chancellor, swore he took the Deposition truly from the Mouth of the Witness, to whom the Deposition was afterwards distinctly read, and then the Witness subscribed his Name.

The Witness being examined did not swear positively that the Examiner had taken his Deposition false, but that he was induced to believe he did not express himself in the Manner the Deposition was taken, and was positive he did not intend or mean to swear as the Examiner had taken it, but that he really intended to swear in the Manner as the Amendment was desired, and that the same was what he had before declared in Conversation; as also what another Witness in the Cause had positively sworn.

The Counsel on the other Side insisted, that though there were Instances where a Defendant's Answer had been amended, yet (a) no Precedent could be produced for amending a Deposition after Publication; or at least if the Court was inclined to amend, this would be better deferred to the Hearing, when it would be more fully possessed of the whole Matter.

(a) Vide
1 Chan. Ca.
25.

Lord Chancellor: Where it appears to the Court, that either the Examiner is mistaken in taking the Deposition, or the Witness in making it, I think it for the Advancement of Truth and Justice, that the Mistake should be amended; and the sooner this is done the better, in regard the Witness may be dead; or in remote Parts, before the Hearing; it would be hard and unjust to pin a Witness down to what is a Mistake, by denying to rectify it. As to what has been objected of the Inconvenience of amending the Deposition after Publication, it was impossible to know it until Publication; wherefore let the Deposition be amended, as desired, and the Witness swear it over again.

Cafe (205.) Lady Jane Holt, Widow of John Holt, Esq; who was Nephew and Heir of the Lord Chief Justice Holt, } Plaintiff;

Lord Chancellor King.

Rowland Holt sen. the next Brother and Heir of the said John Holt, and his eldest Son Rowland Holt, } Defendants.

Thomas Gibson, Esq; and others, Creditors of the said John Holt, } Plaintiffs;

Lady Jane Holt, Defendant.

Tenant for Life, with Power to make a Jointure of 100*l.* per Ann. for every 1000*l.* which he has with his Wife, may make several Jointures for every 1000*l.* which he receives with his Wife; and if such Tenant for Life has received any Portion for which he has made no Jointure, the Remainder-Man, on his Death, will be compellable to make the Jointure; but the Court will not compel the Remainder-Man to make a Jointure where the Portion depends upon a Contingency, or it is doubtful whether it will ever be paid.

The late Lord Chief Justice Holt being seized in Fee of a great real Estate, made his Will 4 Sept. 1708, and having no Issue, devised his Lands to his Brother Rowland Holt for Life, with Remainder to John Holt, eldest Son of the said Rowland, for Life, Remainder to Trustees during the Life of John, to support contingent Remainders, with Remainder to the first, &c. Sons of the said John in Tail Male successively, with Remainder to the Defendant Rowland, younger Son of the said Rowland the Father, for Life, with Remainder to his first, &c. Sons in Tail Male successively, with divers Remainders over, with a Power to every Tenant for Life of the Premises when in Possession, to make a Jointure to any Wife whom he should marry, so as such Jointure should not exceed 100 l. per Ann. for every 1000 l. which any Wife they should respectively marry, should bring as a Marriage Portion, and so for more, more, &c. The Jointure to be for the Wife's Life, and to commence and take Effect from the Death of the Husband.

The Chief Justice died, Rowland Holt the Father died, and John Holt the Son being in Possession, and a Marriage being agreed upon betwixt him and the Plaintiff the Lady Jane, one of the Daughters of the late Marquis of Wharton, the said John and Lady Jane executed Marriage Articles, dated the 25th of May 1723, which Articles recited the Power given by the C. J. Holt's Will, and thereby, in Consideration of 8000 l. left Lady Jane by her Father's Will, John Holt covenanted to settle within a Month after the Marriage 800 l. per Ann. Jointure on Lady Jane for her Life, and also to make her an additional Jointure of 100 l. per Ann. for every 1000 l. which he should receive or be entitled to by Virtue of Lady Jane's Father or Mother's Will, and so in Proportion for any lesser Sum than 1000 l. Lady Jane being then an Infant, the Articles were signed by her and her Guardians. There was also a Provision therein, that the Residue of the personal Estate which Lady Jane was intitled to by her Father's and Mother's Will should go first towards Payment of John Holt's Debts, and afterwards to the said John Holt. The Marriage was soon after solemnized, and within a Month a Jointure

Jointure of 800*l.* per Ann. was settled on Lady Fane for her Life.

Afterwards John Holt raised 1500*l.* upon a Mortgage which he made to some of the Plaintiffs of some other Part of the Portion he was intitled to in Right of Lady Fane his Wife, giving his Bond for the Repayment of it; and thereupon he made an additional Jointure upon Lady Fane his Wife of Lands of 150*l.* per Ann. by Virtue of the Power.

5 Jan. 1728. John Holt died without Issue, and the Defendant Rowland his Brother entered upon such Part of the late Chief Justice's Estate as was not comprehended in the Jointure.

Lady Fane being by the Will of her Father the late Marquis of Wharton, intitled, together with her Sister Lady Lucy, to a Moiety of the Surplus of his personal Estate; and likewise by the Will of her Mother the Lady Marchioness, having a Right to some Lands in Fee-simple in the County of Tipperary in Ireland, and John Holt dying much indebted, it was prayed by the Creditors Bill that they might have the Benefit of Lady Fane's Share of her Father's and Mother's Estate, and that in Lieu and Recompence thereof she might have an additional Jointure made to her after the Rate of 100*l.* per Ann. for every 1000*l.* which they should recover out of her Estate towards Payment of their Demands.

Lady Fane's Bill was, that she might have such an additional Jointure made to her, pursuant to her late Husband's Covenant; but in Case she could not, then that no Part of her Estate should be taken from her by the Aid of Equity, unless she had the Recompence which it was agreed she should have by her Marriage Articles, viz. after the Rate of 100 l. per Ann. for every 1000 l. she should bring.

The only Question of Difficulty seemed to be, how far the Power given by the C. J. Holt's Will for every Tenant for Life to make a Jointure, and the Covenant by John Holt the Tenant for Life to make a Jointure of 100 l. per Ann. for every 1000 l. which his Wife the Lady Fane should bring, in Regard it was not executed by John Holt in his Life-time, could bind the Defendant Rowland the Remainder-man.

On Behalf of the Plaintiff it was said, that though the Power granted to a Tenant for Life to charge the Remainder, being the Estate of a third Person, was at Law to be taken strictly, yet in a Court of Equity this was plainly otherwise, in Cases where the Person claiming under such Power is a Purchaser for a valuable Consideration; and therefore if there be Tenant for Life, with a Power to make a Jointure by a Deed attested by three Witnesses, and the Tenant for Life, previous to his Marriage, and in Consideration thereof and of a Portion, does by a Deed attested by one Witness only make a Jointure, this, tho' void in Law, shall be aided in Equity. That Lady Fane was plainly a Purchaser both of the Power and of John Holt's Covenant to make a Jointure, for the most valuable Consideration that could be, that of a Marriage and a Marriage Portion, and consequently within all the Cases where defective Executions of Powers are made good in Equity. That in the Case of The Countess of Coventry versus The Earl of Coventry, it was said by the Lord Chief Baron Gilbert, and assented to by the Master of the Rolls and the Lord Chancellor Macclesfield, that this Power of making a Jointure given to a Tenant for Life, is Part of the old Dominion which the Tenant in Fee had himself over the Estate, and had transferred to the Tenant for Life ; from whence it followed, that such Power being Part of the ancient Dominion which the Owner of the Estate had over it, the Tenant for Life, quoad the Power of making this Jointure, should be taken as seised in Fee, and in that Light nothing could be plainer, than that if one seised in Fee were to enter into a Covenant to make a Jointure of 100*l.* per Ann. for every 1000*l.* which his Wife should bring, and should die before the making of such Jointure, the Covenant would be executed in Equity, and the Jointure directed to be made pursuant thereto.

That in a Court of Equity, all Covenants made on a valuable Consideration for the doing of any Thing, whether for the Conveyance of any Estate, making a Lease, Jointure or Settlement, were considered as done and performed, provided he that gave the Covenant had a Power to perform it.

One Exception indeed there was (and but one) to this general Rule, which was where a Tenant in Tail covenanted for a valuable Consideration to levy a Fine, or suffer a Recovery, to the Use of the Purchaser, and died before the Fine levied, or Recovery suffered ; in which Case it was admitted to have been held, that the Covenant could not in Equity be made good against the Issue in Tail, or the Remainder-man ; but this was for a Reason which did no ways hold in the principal Case, viz. on Account of the Statute de Donis, the express Words whereof entitled the Issue and the Remainder-man to the intailed Premises, from which Act of Parliament nothing could deliver those Estates-tail, but either common Recoveries, which were usefully invented by the Judges to prevent the Inconveniencies introduced by that Act, or by levying of a Fine (a Remedy provided by subsequent Acts of Parliament) to bar the Estates-tail, though not the Remainders, when limited to third Persons. That the Covenant by John Holt, being for a valuable Consideration, and for no more than it was in his Power to have performed, ought to be taken as if performed, and consequently bound the Remainder-man in the same Manner as if executed by the Tenant for Life. That it could be no Objection that Lady Jane had already had two Jointures made her by her said Husband, since these were a Recompence only for such Part of her Portion as had been already raised and answered to her Husband; and there was as much Reason (because equally within the Intent of the Articles) that she should have an additional Jointure for her additional Portion, as that she should have her original Jointure for her original Portion. That in the Countess of Coventry's Case the Matter rested only upon Marriage Articles during the Life-time of the late Earl, no Jointure reduced to any Certainty, and yet upon these Marriage Articles the Jointress was decreed to hold and enjoy her Jointure against the Remainder-man. It was true in the Case last cited, the Portion of 10000*l.* was actually paid before the Marriage; whereas in the present Case, the Certainty of the Residue of Lady Jane's Portion did not as yet appear; wherefore all that the Plaintiffs the Creditors now prayed was, that it might be referred to the Master to ascertain the Quantum of the Residue of such Portion, by which Means the Certainty thereof would appear, id certum est quod certum reddi potest; and that the present Case was the stronger, there having been already a Decree pronounced, that the Executors of the late Marquis of Wharton should account for his personal Estate, which Account would probably in a short Time be taken and finished. In the mean while, it could not with any Colour of Reason be insisted upon, that the making this additional Jointure upon Lady Jane should be deferred until the Residue of her Portion was actually paid to her Husband, or those claiming under him; but that it would be sufficient if the same was secured either by Mortgages, Government or other Securities, so as to be rendered safe; and (as it was said) here the Residue of Lady Jane's Portion was sufficiently secured by the Decree and Marriage Articles.

On the other side it was insisted, that the Lady Jane Holt was not a Wife unprovided for, but had already two Jointures settled upon her by her Husband, one of 800 l. per Ann. and the other of 1500 l. per Ann. and there was as much Reason for the Remainderman to question the Validity of the second Jointure, as for the Lady Jane to ask a third; in Regard the 1500 l. which was the Consideration for John Holt's making the second Jointure, was not Money actually paid or secured to him, but what he had raised by a Mortgage of Part of her Portion, for the Repayment whereof he had given his Covenant and Bond, and was liable to be sued for it; wherefore as yet this 1500 l. could not be said to be received, but only borrowed by him; that as to the Residue of the Portion, it was neither known what it was, how much it would amount to, or when or whether ever it would be paid; and tho' there might be an Account decreed touching the Surplus of the late Marquis of Wharton's Estate, yet there were several Causes in this Court where Accounts have been depending, some twenty, some thirty Years, or upwards. That were the Rule laid down of id certum est quod certum reddi potest, allowed to take Place in the present Case, still Things must be reduced to a Certainty in the Lifetime of the Husband, who was to make the Jointure; for it would be a miserable Incumbrance upon the Estate of the several Remainder-men claiming under the late Chief Justice's Will, and in no Sort within the Intent of the Testator, were this Power of making a Jointure for the Widow of John Holt to be kept in Suspence, and hovering over their Estate for the Space of twenty or thirty Years, and might at last tend to disable these Remainder-men from making any Jointures, until it should be ascertained how much in the Whole Lady Jane would be entitled to, and whether her Jointure, when made, (though perhaps to be made twenty Years hence) should not over-reach the subsequent Jointures to be made by any of them, by reason of Lady Jane's precedent Marriage Articles; which might be a great Inconvenience, and hinder the Marriages of the Remainder-men. That the Intention of giving the Power to the Tenant for Life to make a Jointure, was, in order to a Recompence for the Portion which the Wife should bring to her Husband, not for what might not be brought until about twenty or thirty Years after his Death, and which consequently could be of no Manner of Avail as to him, but only to some remote or distant Administrator, who might not be so much as known to him. That this additional Jointure which was now desired to be made upon Lady Jane, was plainly not within the Intention of the Power, since by Virtue of the Will it was to be made by the Husband, which could not be in the present Case, he being dead; also the Jointure to be made pursuant to the Will was to take Effect for the Benefit of the Wife upon the Death of the Husband, which was impossible to be done here, the Husband having been already dead above the Space of three Years: That suppose John Holt had by express Words covenanted, that in Consideration of what farther Monies Lady Jane should bring to him in respect of the Residue of her Portion, &c. Roland Holt the Remainder-man should make a Jointure to her after the Rate of 100 l. per Ann. for every 1000 l. this would certainly be void, as there could be no Pretence that John Holt, by any exprefs Words or Covenant, could bind the Remainder-man who did not claim under him, and surely there was as little Reason why he should by any implied Words in the Covenant be construed to bind him. Or suppose Lady Jane were entitled to a desperate or doubtful Debt of 10000 l. it would hardly be said that the Assignment of such Debt, which might never be received, should be looked upon as a Portion of 10000 l. in Recompence for which John Holt should be enabled within this Power to settle upon his Wife 1000 l. per Ann. Wherefore since the most that Lady Jane had as yet brought was but 8000 l. and 1500 l., there was no Reason for her to ask a farther or additional Jointure, until it should appear she had brought a farther Portion; consequently her present Bill being too early, ought to be dismissed.

Lord Chancellor: The Intention of this Power is to enable every Tenant for Life under the Chief Justice's Will, to settle a Jointure after the Rate of 100 l. per Annum for every 1000 l. which the Wife of such Tenant in Possession should bring; accordingly Lady Jane has had a Jointure of 800 l. per Annum for 8000 l. and 150 l. per Annum for her 1500 l. which she has brought; and it not appearing that she has brought any farther Portion to her late Husband, I do not see she can be entitled to any additional Jointure. It is not reasonable that the Life-Estate of Rowland Holt the Remainder-man, or of any other of the subsequent Remainder-men, (who in no Sort claim under him) should be bound or affected by John Holt's Covenant for making a Jointure, any farther than the original Power warrants, which is to settle but 100 l. per Ann. for every 1000 l. such Wife should bring to her Husband. The Estate of the Chief Justice, so carefully settled, ought not to be incumbered with Jointures to take Effect upon remote Contingencies or Possibilities of farther Portions coming in, when it does not appear what they are, or when, or whether they will ever come in. On the other Hand, I do not think it reasonable that the Creditors of Mr. Holt should have any Benefit of the Residue of Lady Jane's Fortune, if ever that shall be recovered, in regard she cannot have the Recompence in Consideration whereof it was agreed by the Articles that she should part with it; let her therefore keep such Overplus of her Estate to herself, without having any additional Jointure out of the Chief Justice's Estate.

Cafe (206.)

Lord Chancellor King.

IN 1716 the Plaintiff brought his Bill against the Defendant as Executor of J. S. for a Legacy of 300*l.* In 1724 he obtained a Decree to be paid out of Assets, and for the Defendant to account for his Testator's personal Estate. In 1729, on the Master's reporting that the Defendant had Assets, he was ordered to bring the Money reported in his Hands into the Bank by such a Day; for not complying with which, the Plaintiff took out Process of Contempt against the Defendant, and proceeded to take him up in Wales (where he lived) by a Serjeant at Arms; but the Process being referred for Irregularity, the Master reported it irregular, the Return of the two Attachments, upon which the * Order for a Serjeant at Arms was grounded, not being entered in the Register's Office.

Attachment.

Every Attachment returned, on which an Order for a Serjeant at Arms is grounded, must be entered in the Register's Office, else irregular.

Upon this the Plaintiff moved to discharge the Master's Report, suggesting that he had done his Part, and left the Attachments with the Agent of the Register in his Office, where he had paid the usual Fee for entering, but that the Register or his Agent had not entered them; all which appearing on Examination, the Court ordered the Master to tax the Defendant's Costs out of Purse only, which the Plaintiff, who was reported to have been guilty of this Irregularity, should pay

* In the principal Cafe the Attachments were followed by the usual Process, a Commission of Rebellion; but by the Course of the Court, that issues only to the Sheriff of Middlesex.

pay to the Defendant, but that these should be answered over to the Plaintiff by the Register.

After this, Mr. Price the Register died, having left Eliz. Maddox Executrix; the Coſts were taxed at 58 l. and the Matter coming on again on Petition, Mr. Mead objected, that here being a personal Neglect or Misbehaviour in the Officer, it died with him; that if there should be a Decree for Coſts, and the Defendant die before Taxation, these would be lost, which was stronger than the present Case, where there was but an interlocutory Order; or if the Executrix was liable, the Plaintiff had his Remedy by Action at Law.

Suitor having paid the Officer his Fee, and the Officer having neglected his Duty, by which Means the Process becomes irregular, the Suitor is to pay the Coſts, but he to have them over against the Officer; and tho' the Officer in such Case die, yet this being a Duty and Matter of Contract, his Executor will be liable.

To which I answered, and so it was held, that this was not a bare Misbehaviour or Neglect in the Officer, but the Plaintiff having carried the Attachments to the Office, and paid the Fees for entering, the Register by his Acceptance of them had promised and agreed, by Implication of Law, to procure the Returns to be entered; wherefore the not doing that which he took Money for, and engaged to do, was a Breach of his Contract, and being a Duty, could not die with the Person, altho' nothing had been ascertained in the Life-time of the Register; just as if he should have promised to pay so much Money as the Master should tax, this would not die with the Person; that tho' Coſts, if not ascertained on the Death of the Party, are in some Cases lost, yet here with Respect to Mr. Price they were to be looked upon as a Duty, and not as Coſts only, which this Court would not suffer to be examined by any other Court in an Action, but determine itself, as in all like Cases, in a Summary Way. That the Executrix of Mr. Price standing in his Place, and having Assets, she should thereout pay this 58 l. to the Plaintiff. But there being no one in Court to admit Assets for her, it was ordered that she should be examined as to her having Assets.

Term. S. Hillarii,

Case 189.

UPON a Bill brought by the Plaintiffs the three Infant Daughters of George Evelyn by Mary his Wife, for raising their Portions of 8000 l. (the eldest of the said Daughters being about the Age of eight Years) the Case was thus:

Master of the Rolls, in the Lord Chancellor's Absence.

A Term of 500 Years created to raise Portions for Daughters in Failure of Issue Male, as soon as conveniently may be after the Father's Death, but no Maintenance nor any express Time mentioned when the Portions are payable; there are three Daughters, and the eldest but eight Years old, the Father is dead, but the Mother who has a Jointure on the Estate is living; the Court will not raise the Portions for Daughters so young, out of the reverfionary Term.

George Evelyn the Defendant's Father (and Grandfather to the Plaintiffs) had three Sons John, George, and the Defendant Edward Evelyn.

George Evelyn the Father being Tenant for Life, Remainder to his eldest Son John in Tail Male, of Part of the Premises, on the 20 October 1698. together with his eldest Son John, by Deed and Recovery settled the Manor of Walkhamsted alias Godstone in Surrey, to the Use of himself for Life, sans Waste, Remainder to his eldest Son John Evelyn for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail Male successively, Remainder to his second Son George Evelyn for Life, Remainder to his his first and other Son in Tail Male successively, Remainder to his third Son the Defendant Edward Evelyn in like Manner, with Trustees to support all these contingent Remainders, Remainder to the Heirs Male of the Body of George Evelyn the Father, Remainder to him in Fee; with a Power to George Evelyn the Father by Deed or Will, to charge by Lease, Mortgage or otherwise, the Premises to himself limited for Life, with raising or paying any Sum not exceeding 6000 l. also with a Power to every of his Sons, when in Possession, by Deed attested by three Witnesses, to limit, before or after Marriage, to the Wife of any of the said Sons for a Jointure, all or any Part of the Premises, so as such Jointure should not exceed 100 l. per Annum for every 1000 l. which such Son should have received as the Fortune of the Wife; with farther Power to his said Sons respectively, when in Possession, by any Deed or Writing under Hand and Seal, attested by three credible Witnesses, to make any Lease or Leases for Years, sans Waste (but without Prejudice to any Jointure which should be made by Virtue of the said Power) for the raising of Portions for the Daughters of such Sons, so as such Portions should not exceed that which such Son making such Leases should have had with his Wife, and so as such Leases should not take Effect, until there should be a Failure of Issue Male of such Son so making such Lease; with the usual Power for George Evelyn the Father and his said Sons respectively, when in Possession, to make Leases for twenty-one Years at the most improved Rent.

By other Indentures of Lease and Release dated the 20th and 21st of October 1698. George Evelyn the Father, in Consideration that his Son John Evelyn had joined with his Father in the said Common Recovery and Settlement, did settle other Lands, (viz.) the Manor of Tandridge, &c. of which he was seised in Fee, to the same Uses as the said Manor of Walkhamstead alias Godstone was settled by the former Deed, with this Difference only, (viz.) that as to the Son's Power of Leasing for raising Daughters Portions, these Words were added, [so as such Lease or Leases should cease and determine upon the raising of such Portions, and Costs and Charges for raising the same.]

Upon the 22d of August 1720, George Evelyn the Father, in Pursuance of his Power, mortgaged Part of the said Land for 1500*l.* for the Term of 1000 Years, which Mortgage afterwards by mesne Assignment became vested in Sir Thomas Pope Blunt, with a Covenant from George Evelyn the Son for Payment of the Mortgage-Money, and Sir Thomas the Mortgagee covenanted to reassign to George Evelyn the Son. In June 1699 George Evelyn the Father died. In October 1703 John Evelyn the eldest Son died without Issue, upon which George Evelyn the second Son entered upon the Premises comprised in the Settlement. August 22d 1720, upon the Intermarriage of George Evelyn the Son with the Daughter of Mr. Garth, whose Portion was agreed to be 8000*l.* in Consideration of the said then intended Marriage and 8000*l.* Marriage Portion, for settling a suitable Jointure on her, making Provision for the Issue of the Marriage, and that 8000*l.* should, on Failure of Issue Male, be secured to the Daughters, and reciting the said former Settlements, with the Power for making a Jointure, and raising Portions for Daughters; the said Indenture witnessed, that for the Considerations aforesaid, and in Pursuance of the said Powers, or any other, George Evelyn the Son did limit and appoint to; and to the Use of the said Mary his then intended Wife for her Life for her Jointure, and in Bar of Dower, divers Messuages and Lands in Godstone, not exceeding the Value of 800*l. per Annum*; also in Pursuance of the Power in the said Settlements, or any other the said George Evelyn the Son, in Case of Failure of Issue Male between him and Mary his said intended Wife, granted and leased to Trustees (therein named) all the Premises limited to the said Mary for her Life for her Jointure, and all other the Manors and Lands comprised in the said Settlements, to hold to the said Trustees for the Term of 500 Years, to commence and take Effect from and after Failure of Issue Male of the Body of the said George Evelyn the Son, upon Trust, that if there should be Failure of Issue Male of the Body of the said George Evelyn the Son on the Body of the said Mary, and if he should have one or more Daughters by her, then the Trustees of the said 500 Years Term should, by and out of the Rents, Issues and Profits of the Premises comprised in the said Term, or by Sale, Mortgage or Lease thereof, or of any Part thereof, or by any other Ways or Means as to them in their Discretion should seem meet, as soon as conveniently might be after the Decease of the said George Evelyn the Son (or in his Life-time if he should think fit to have the same sooner raised, and so direct) levy and raise the Sum of 8000 l. for the Portion or Portions of such Daughter or Daughters to be paid to her or them, and equally divided amongst them, if more than one, Share and Share alike, with a Proviso that the Term should not prejudice the Jointure, and that immediately after the raising the said 8000 l. with all Costs, &c. the said Term should cease.

The Marriage took Effect; but afterwards in the Year 1724 George Evelyn died intestate, leaving the Defendant Mary his Widow and only three Daughters, who by their Mother in the Year 1725 brought their Bill against Edward Evelyn and James Evelyn his eldest Son (being the next Remainder-man in Tail) praying a present Sale of the 500 Years Term to raise the Portions, the eldest Daughter being not above four Years old at the Time of bringing the Bill; and on the other Hand the Defendant Edward Evelyn and his Son (the next Remainder-man in Tail) brought their cross Bill against Mrs. Evelyn the Mother (afterwards married to Governor Bohun) being the Administratrix of her former Husband George Evelyn, praying that the personal Estate of her late Husband should be applied towards paying off the Mortgage of 1500 l. and in Exoneration of the real Estate.

These Causes coming on at first before the Master of the Rolls in the Absence of the Chancellor, he was pleased to declare, that the Powers in the Deeds of the 20th and 21st of October 1698 were well executed, and directed, that it should be referred to the Master to state the Value of the real, and also of the personal Estate of George Evelyn the late Husband of Mary; whereupon the Master stated the real (beyond the Jointure) to be 91 l. per Annum, the personal Estate to be about 4000 l. and the Debts (besides the Mortgage) to be about 2000 l. and afterwards these Causes being ordered to be set down for hearing before the Lord Chancellor upon the Master's Report, and for farther Directions, and upon the Petition of Edward Evelyn and James Evelyn his Son to his Lordship, alledging that they apprehended themselves aggrieved by such Part of his Honour's Decree, whereby the Powers in the Deeds of the 20th and 21st October 1698 were declared to be well executed, in Regard the Petitioners conceived that however the Term might be well raised, yet that the said Powers touching the Trusts were not well declared, nor well executed or warranted by the above-mentioned Deeds: It was therefore ordered that these Causes should be set down to be reheard touching the Matters in the Petition mentioned, at the same Time that the Matter of the Master's Report was set down for Hearing.

And

Lord Chancellor King,
Lord Chief Justice Raymond, Master of the Rolls.

And now the Cause standing for Judgment in the Paper, the Lord Chancellor assisted by the Lord Chief Justice Raymond and Master of the Rolls, delivered the Resolution of the Court.

Where the personal Estate shall go in Ease of the real Estate, and where not.

1st, As to the Question, Whether the personal Estate of George Evelyn the Son should be applied to pay off the Mortgage made by George Evelyn the Father, in Regard the Son covenanted to pay this Mortgage-Money, whereupon the Mortgage was to be re-assigned to him, or as he should direct:

If one mortgages Lands and dies, his personal Estate shall go in Ease of the real; but if A. seised in Fee mortgages his Land, leaving B. his Son and Heir, and B. dies leaving C. his Heir, B.'s personal Estate shall not be applied to pay this Mortgage, because it was not B.'s Debt: So tho' the Mortgage being transferred in B.'s Time, B. covenants to pay the Money, yet the Debt not being originally

It was agreed that the personal Estate of the Son should not be applied to pay off this Mortgage made by the Father, forasmuch as the Charge was made by George Evelyn the Father in Pursuance of his Power to charge the Premises; and as he had such Power, the Defendant Edward must be contented to take the Land cum onere; that this being the original Debt George Evelyn the Father, tho' his personal Estate, if any such were to be found, would be liable thereto, yet the * Son's personal Estate ought not to be charged with the Father's Debt; and notwithstanding that the Son did afterwards, on the Assignment to Sir Thomas Pope Blunt, covenant to pay the Mortgage Money, yet since the Land was the original Debtor, this Covenant from the Son would be considered only as a Surety (a) for the Land; that it was not like the Case of Sir John Napier, where Part of the Estate of Sir John the Mortgagor, was after his Death settled by a private Act of Parliament in Trustees as a Fund to pay all his Debts, and Sir Theophilus the Son and Heir of Sir John disposing of that Fund, was consequently answerable for the Debts, having had the Benefit of the Fund set apart for the Debt of B. his Covenant is only a Surety, and the Land the original Debtor, which C. shall therefore take cum onere. * See the Case of Cope versus Cope, Salk. 449, 450. (a) See the Case of Bagot versus Oughton, Vol. I.

for them, for which Reason it was but just that upon his Death his personal Estate should be answerable for the Debts of his Father; whereas in the present Case here was no Fund for Payment of Debts that came to the Son, but the Land was the original Debtor, and must continue so, there being nothing substituted in its Place; that in the common Case where a Mortgagor covenants to pay and dies, tho' quoad the Mortgagee, the Land may be looked upon as the Security on which he relies, yet if the Mortgagor covenants to pay and does receive the Money, he is the original Debtor, and his personal Estate shall go to ease the Land in Favour of the Heir. But here George Evelyn the Son was not the original Debtor, his Father was, who actually received the Money; that in the Case of the Earl and Countess of (a) <sup>(a) Ante</sup> Coventry, where Gilbert late Earl of Coventry on his <sup>222.</sup> Marriage with the Daughter of Sir Strensbam Masters, (the Earl being but Tenant for Life with a Power to make a Jointure of Lands not exceeding 500 l. per Annum on any Wife he should marry) covenanted in Consideration of the intended Marriage, that he or his Heirs would after the Marriage, according to the Power given him by his Father's Will or otherwise, settle Lands of 500 l. per Annum on his Wife for her Jointure; and it being in Proof that the late Earl directed his Steward to look over his Rent-Rolls for a fit Parcel of the Estate to make good the Jointure, and afterwards the Jointure Deed was drawn and ingrossed, but not executed; tho' this depended only on a Covenant, yet the Jointure of Land being the chief Thing in View, the Decree was, that the Land should be settled, and the Covenant not made good out of the personal Estate. In like Manner, in the Case of (b) Freeman and Edwards, tho' the Wife's Jointure <sup>(b) Ante</sup> and the Daughter's Portion were secured by Articles <sup>435.</sup> which were never compleated by a Settlement, however those Articles being to settle Lands, and the Covenantor leaving Lands sufficient to answer it, it was * decreed that the Daughter's Portion should be raised out of the Lands, and the personal Estate of Mr. Freeman the Covenantor not be applied in Exoneration of the Land. So that as to that Part of the Cross Bill, which prayed the Mortgage-Money should be paid out of the personal Estate of George Evelyn the Son, the same was dismissed with Costs.

As to the other Point (which was the most considerable) it was agreed that this 8000 l. should be raised out of the Rents and Profits of the Premises comprised in the 500 Years Term, and not by any Sale or Mortgage thereof, and that no more than the Sum of 8000 l. in the whole should be raised, and the Profits be accounted for from the Death of George Evelyn the Husband.

Portions secured by a Trust Term out of Land payable to Daughters, to be raised by Rents and Profits, and no Time limited for Payment, shall carry no Interest, and be raised only by Perception of Profits, not by Sale or Mortgage.

The Master of the Rolls, who delivered his Opinion very fully, said he would consider the Nature of such Powers in general, the Words made use of in the present one, and the Precedents in the like Cases for securing and raising Portions for Daughters.

As to the Nature of such Powers, they were to be taken strictly, being to charge, burden and incumber the Estate of a third Person. Vide 6 Co. 33. Fitz-Williams's Case, also 2 Vent. 350. Sayl versus Freeland; upon which Occasion the Lord Chancellor Nottingham makes this Distinction: Where a Man has a Power to make Leases or any other Charge which is to incumber a third Person's Estate, such Powers are to have

* But in that Case particular Lands were agreed to be settled, and consequently the Covenant was a Lien upon those Lands.

a rigid Construction; but where it is to dispose of his own Estate (as in that Case the Party who had the Power was Tenant in Tail) the most liberal Interpretation is to be made. In 2 Vern. 531, 542, (Lady Charlot Orby versus Lord Mohun) the Point then in Question was no more, than Tenant for Life with Power to make Leases of Lands usually let at the ancient Rent; the Tenant for Life made a general Lease to J. S. of all his Lands usually let, reserving the ancient Rent, and though this general Lease followed the Words of the Power, nevertheless since, if good against the Remainder-man, it would put a Difficulty upon him in his Suit for the Rent, to set out what was the ancient Rent for every particular Parcel of Land, and might endanger his being frequently nonsuited before he could be able to recover the Rent from the Lessee, it was adjudged in Chancery, and affirmed in the House of Lords, that such a general Lease was not warranted by the Power to bind the Remainder-man; which shews, that Powers binding the Interest of Persons in Remainder ought to be taken strictly; and as Powers in Settlements to Uses are raised by way of Use, which at Common Law were Trusts, they were originally cognisable and determinable in Courts of Equity. In 1 Levinz 239. Jenkins versus Kemys (the same Case also in Hardres 395. & 1 Chan. Cases 103.) Tenant for Life, Remainder to his eldest Son in Tail, with Power to charge the Land with 2000*l.* they both by Lease and Release join in a Mortgage in Fee of the Premises to J. S. under Proviso to be void on Payment of the 2000*l.* and Interest, with a Covenant for farther Assurance, but no Mention made of the Power; decreed by the Lord Keeper Bridgman, that this Mortgage should not be intended an Execution of the Power, but only a common Mortgage, and so the Father and Son being both dead, the Mortgage was not binding on the Issue of the Son either in Law or Equity, consequently the Money was lost; from whence

whence it appears that Courts of Equity are not free in extending Powers given to Tenant for Life, to bind a Remainder-man. Indeed in 2 Vern. 379. Lady Clifford versus Lord Burlington, where the Lord Clifford by his Marriage Settlement was made Tenant for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Son in Tail, with Power for him to make a Jointure not exceeding 1000 l. per Annum, and his Lordship in treating of the Marriage covenanted to settle a Jointure of 1000 l. per Annum, giving in a Particular of Lands as of that Value, and settling them, but the Lands proved to be only 600 l. per Annum; whereupon after Lord Clifford's Death, a Bill being brought by the Jointress against the Issue in Tail, to have the Jointure made up pursuant to the Marriage Articles, the Decree was, that the Issue in Tail should make up the Jointure 1000 l. per Annum; it is true in that Case, Relief was given to a Purchaser against a Purchaser; however this is to be looked on as a Family Case, where it might be thought severe not to make good her Jointure to a Lady who brought a considerable Fortune, and the Decree made (probably) on a faint Defence; besides, it does not appear to have been thought a right Decree, or even sufficiently approved of by the Reporter himself; at least it is to be considered, there was a Power to make a Jointure of 1000 l. per Annum, a Covenant, and also an Intention to execute it; whereas in the present Case, what is asked for the Daughters seems not warranted by the original Power, which cannot be exceeded by the subsequent Settlement of the Portion; such Part therefore of the Deed securing the Portion as exceeds the original Power, is to be looked upon as of no Force; the Sons of Mr. Evelyn the Father, who are Remainder-men in his Settlement, are at least to be regarded as much as an Heir at Law, from whom nothing shall be taken but by necessary Implication; and though George Evelyn the Son, in the Execution of the Power, seems not to have regarded the Conveniency of the Remainder-men, yet the Plaintiffs the Daughters can ask nothing but what the Power in the Settlement of George Evelyn the Father warrants.

There are two Ways of raising Portions; the 1st, by Sale or Mortgage; the 2<sup>d</sup> by Perception of Profits: Now where a particular certain Time is limited for the Payment of the Portion, there it carries Interest from that Time, and may imply a Power of (a) Sale; but here no certain Time is limited for Payment; which very much influences the present Case, and distinguishes it from others. It is not said or implied, that the Portions should be payed or raised upon the Death of George Evelyn the Son without Issue Male; though it is true, the Right thereto did then vest in the Daughters, viz. a Right to the bare Sum of 8000 l. to be raised by Perception of Profits; and as it were unreasonable in it self to raise the Portions by a Way so destructive to the Estate and Family, as a Sale would be, it must be more particularly hard to do it in the present Case, when the Daughters, for whom they are to be raised, are of such tender Years; and when it moreover appears to have been the plain Intention of the Maker of the Settlement, to preserve the Bulk of his Estate in his Name and Family.

(a) See the Case of Traford versus Abton, Vol. I. 415, & ante 13, the Case of Joy versus Gilbert.

Object. The Word [Portion] always implies a Sum in gross, and to be paid all at once.

Resp. If the Daughters are sure of their Portions, tho' the same are not to be raised or paid in so beneficial a Manner as they would have them, it is however sufficient; the Writ de rationabili parte bonorum never required that the Childrens Shares should be paid in a gross Sum.

It is observable, that the Power given or reserved by Evelyn the Father to charge the Land with 6000*l.* is by Lease, Mortgage, or otherwise, without Restriction; but when he comes to make a Settlement of his Fee-simple Lands, his Son's Power of Leasing for raising Daughters Portions is restrained, so as such Lease or Leases shall cease and determine when the Money shall be raised. Now this is the strongest Argument imaginable, that Evelyn the Father did not intend a Sale of the Premises for the raising of these Portions, but only to do it by Perception of Profits, when even a Lease thereof was not to continue after the Portions raised; which could not be, if after those Sums were raised, and the Children paid, the Term were still to subsist for the Benefit of a Purchaser or Mortgagee; it is not possible that the Term can cease upon raising the Portions in any other Sense or Way, than by raising them out of the growing Profits; and then tho' the Execution of the Power by Evelyn the Son, were it defective, would be supplied or helped in Equity, yet where it comes to exceed the Power, Equity will never support such Excess. The Truth is, there may be some Hardship either Way, to the Daughters of Evelyn the Son on the one Side, and to the Remainder-man the Brother on the other; but the greater Hardship seems likely to fall on the Remainder-man, if the Estate (being a Reversion) should now be sold; whereas if the Daughters have their Portions of 8000*l.* tho' not paid in so beneficial a Manner as they could wish, it still is a plentiful Provision. In the next Place, it appears that the Power to raise the Portions for the Daughters of Evelyn the Son, was so as the same should not exceed the Portion which their Father should have with his Wife, which being but 8000*l.* is the same as if it had been expressed in the Power, that the Daughters Portions should not exceed that Sum; and this shews that Interest for the 2000 l. was not to be raised, for that might double the Sum, and eat up all the Reversion. And as to this Point, what has been cited from the Case of Lord Kilmurry versus Dr. Gery, Salk. 538. is not applicable, the Decree there being grounded on the particular Circumstances of the Case: The Power arose upon a Settlement made with the Approbation of Trustees by a Person during his Infancy, and confirmed by Act of Parliament; by the Settlement a Power was reserved of charging divers of those Lands at any Time during his Life with the Sum of 3000 l. he borrowed this Sum of the Doctor, and having executed his Power while an Infant, died soon after he came to Age; the Plaintiff his Son brought his Bill to redeem on Payment of the principal Sum borrowed; but the Court then decreed a Redemption upon the common Terms of Payment of Principal, Interest and Costs; because here was a Power given to him to raise Money, and immediately to give Security, which was actually done; and altho' (perhaps) had he been of Age at that Time, he should have been obliged to keep down the Interest during his Life, yet being an Infant at the Time intended for the Execution of this Power, and therefore not capable of making his Person liable to any Part of the Engagement, the Land must, from the Necessity of the Thing, have stood engaged for Interest as well as Principal, or it had been impossible for him during his Infancy to have raised any Money at all, which the Nature of the Transactions required.

Lastly, His Honour cited most of the Cases that had been adjudged in Relation to Portions charged on real Estates; but took Notice, that the following were the principal Cases proving that when no Time was limited for the Payment of Portions, and the Daughters claiming the same were of tender Years, tho' the Right to the Portions vested in such Infant Daughters, yet they were to be raised by Rents and Profits :

First, 2 Vern. 72. Earl of Rivers versus Earl of Derby, where on a Marriage, Lands were limited to the Husband for Life, Remainder to the Wife for Life, Remainder to the first, &c. Son in Tail Male, Remainder to Ʒ. S. in Fee; Proviso, that if there should be no Issue Male, and a Daughter of the Marriage living at the Death of the Husband, then the Trustees should stand seised of the Premises, to the Intent that such Daughter should receive 10,000 l. out of the Rents, Revenues and Profits thereof, and 100 l. per Annum for Maintenance, and this 10,000 l. to be for her Portion, without appointing any Time of Payment: There was no Son, and but one Daughter, who having lived to seventeen died unmarried: Decreed that the Portion of 10,000 l. did go to her Executor, and was to be raised out of the Profits by the Trustees; so that here was the Case of a Portion vested, decreed to be paid out of the Profits; and, which was likewise a farther Answer to the Objection, that by the Word [Portion] was to be meant a Sum to be paid in gross.

Secondly, That of (a) Ivy versus Gilbert, decreed by Lord Macclesfield, and affirmed by the House of Lords, where a Trust Term was limited to raise 1500 l. for Daughters Portions by Rents, Issues and Profits, or by leasing for one, two, or three Lives at the old Rent; and decreed that the directing the Portion to be raised in this particular Manner, implied a Negative, that it should be raised in no other Manner, and therefore not by Mortgage or Sale, nor any more Money be raised than the 1500 l. without Interest; which was exactly the same with the principal Case, an Instance of a Portion to be raised by Perception of Profits without Interest: And his Honour concluded, that there was not one single Precedent where a Sale had been decreed of a Trust Term for a Portion appointed to be raised by Rents and Profits, and no Time limited for Payment.

The Lord Raymond relied much on the Intention of the Maker of the Settlement, which appeared to be plainly for preserving the Estate in the Male Line of the Family; so that there could be no Design to extend the Power for raising Portions for Daughters to a Sale or Mortgage; consequently such Power being neither express or implied, nor any Time limited for the Payment of the Portions, it would (he thought) be extreme hard for the Court to decree that which would prove the Destruction of the Estate, against the Intention of the Party *.

* This Decree was afterwards appealed from to the House of Lords, where, on the 2d May 1733, the Parties on both Sides came to an Agreement, which (7 Geo. 2.) was confirmed by an Act of Parliament.

Case 190.

(a) Vide ante Case 103. If a Parent makes a voluntary Conveyance in Trust for his Children, and keeps it in his own Power, or in the Hands of his Agent, and it is got from him, this ought not to bind him; but where a Feme having Issue by her first Husband makes a suitable Provision for them before a Treaty for her second Marriage; this is good, and not liable to be avoided by a second Husband.

THE (a) former Decree being ordered to be without Prejudice to any Relief which the then Defendant King might have, he now preferred his Bill against the several younger Children of his Wife the Lady Cotton, by her former Husband Sir Thomas Cotton, and also against the Lady Cotton his Wife, to set aside the several Settlements made by her before her Marriage with the Plaintiff, as being made without his Privity, and while she appeared the visible Owner of the Estate, and thereby induced him to marry her; all which Settlements were made by his Wife in Trust for her self until her second Marriage, and afterwards for her younger Children respectively; but it being now proved that these Provisions by Lady Cotton for her younger Children were made before her Marriage-Treaty with the Plaintiff King was begun, and in a publick Manner; that she herself desired they might be publick; that she made an Entertainment for several of her Tenants, whereat being present, she acquainted them her younger Son Stephen was to be their Landlord, in case she married again, and if she married, married, her second Husband should marry her for Love; and it appearing that she had reserved to herself out of these voluntary Settlements, her original Jointure made by Sir Thomas Cotton (being 420 l. per Annum Rent-charge;) that she had nine younger Children by her former Husband Sir Thomas, who, at best, were very slenderly provided for; and farther, that the Plaintiff Mr. King, when he married Lady Cotton, was in very mean Circumstances, an Half-pay Lieutenant in Ireland, had two Sons by a former Wife, and that he had a considerable Sum of Money with Lady Cotton, as she had been Executrix and residuary Legatee of her former Husband Sir Thomas; so that it was evident there had been no Fraud or Imposition on the Plaintiff Mr. King, who did not so much as pretend he could make any Settlement or Jointure on Lady Cotton:

For these Reasons the Lord Chancellor dismissed the Plaintiff Mr. King's Bill, as to that Part of it which sought to set aside any of the Settlements made by Lady Cotton in Trust for her younger Children; saying it was a very reasonable Thing for a Widow, while it was in her Power, to make a Provision for her Children by her former Husband, and this being before her Treaty of Marriage with Mr. King, it had been impossible to have asked him to be a Party thereto, he not being then thought of; that though an Assignment had been made by the Lady Cotton only to a Friend, and not a Child, a meer voluntary Gift before the Marriage-Treaty, in a Case so circumstanced as this was, might be binding; and as to the South-Sea Stock, though there was no actual Assignment by Deed, but only a Covenant to transfer, yet this was such an Assignment as would bind Mr. King; for it was not like a Bond from Lady Cotton to pay Money, since here Mr. King was to pay none, nor to part with any Thing which was his, it was only a Provision made by Lady Cotton before her

her Marriage Treaty with the Plaintiff, that in Case of her Marriage such a Part of her Estate should go to her Children, which was but reasonable; and yet, contrary to this Provision made for the Children, he himself had sold this Stock and received the Money, besides a farther Sum of 1000 l. South Sea Stock which Lady Cotton had not assigned; that here the younger Children had the Law on their Side, and had recovered Damages in an Action of Covenant, which Benefit he could not take from them. Note; They recovered not only the Value of the Stock, but also all the Dividends since the second Marriage.

In this Case one Point arose, concerning which the Court gave no Opinion; and it was this: Lady Cotton a Jointress for Life of an Estate at Easher in Surrey, devised the same to Trustees for ninety-nine Years, if she so long lived, in Trust for herself during her Widowhood, and after her Marriage, then in Trust for one of her younger Sons John Salisbury Cotton, and the Heirs of his Body, and if he died without Issue, the Remainder in Trust for her next younger Son the Defendant Linch Salisbury Cotton; John Salisbury Cotton died without Issue and intestate, and the Question was, Whether the Trust of this Term should go to his Mother as Administratrix to him, subject to the Statute of Distribution, or to the next Son in Remainder?

It was insisted for the Lady Cotton, that in the Limitation of the Trust of the Term to John Salisbury Cotton and the Heirs of his Body, with Remainder over, such Remainder over being only of a Trust of a Term, was void.

On the other Side it was contended, that the only Reason why the Trust of a Term could not be limited to one and the Heirs of his Body, with Remainder over, was, because this would make a Perpetuity; but here could be no Perpetuity, in Regard the whole Term was to determine whenever Lady Cotton should die, just as if she had made a Lease of her Jointure Lands to a Trustee for ninety-nine Years, if she so long lived, in Trust for A. and the Heirs of his Body; but if A. should die without Heirs of his Body, living Lady Cotton, then to B. this had been good. Ideo quer. tho' it seems rather to be a good Limitation of the Trust, and within the Reason of the Duke of Norfolk's Case, and the several other subsequent Resolutions grounded thereupon.

Case 191. Sir Edward Mansell, Bart. Plaintiff;

Rawleigh Mansell, Esq; } Defendants.

Trustees for supporting contingent Remainders joining to destroy them, guilty of a Breach of Trust, and no Diversity whether the Settlement be voluntary, or for a valuable Consideration, or by Will only.

Edward Vaughan, Esq; seised in Fee of Lands in Carmarthenshire of 1630 l. per Annum, made his Will dated the 30th of November 1682, and devised the Premises to Trustees (Sir Edward Mansell and Arthur Mansell) and their Heirs, to the Use of his Sister Dorothy Loyd Widow for her Life, Remainder to the said Trustees and their Heirs during the Life of Dorothy, in Trust to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to the Use of the first, &c. Sons of Dorothy in Tail Male successively, Remainder to the Use of the Testator's Cousin Edward Mansell in Fee; soon after which the Testator dying without Issue, Dorothy Loyd the Devisee for Life, enters and intermarries with Sir Edward Mansell the Plaintiff's Father; afterwards Sir Edward Mansell and Dorothy his Wife, together with Edward Mansell the Remainder-man in Fee, join in a Feoffment to Trustees to the Use of Sir Edward Mansell the Husband of Dorothy and his Heirs, and covenant by the* same

same Indenture to levy a Fine at the next grand Sessions to be held for the County of Carmarthen, to the same Trustees, and to the same Uses. The Trustees for preserving the contingent Remainders in the Will, by Indentures of Lease and Release dated the 23d and 24th of July 1686. conveyed the Premises to Sir Edward Mansell the Husband of Dorothy in Fee, she at that Time being ensient with a Son. On the 7th of August following, Dame Dorothy had Issue by Sir Edward Mansell her Husband, a Son, the Plaintiff (now) Sir Edward Mansell, and afterwards several other Children; subsequent to which Sir Edward Mansell the Father made his Will, and being seized in Fee of diverse other Lands besides what was the Vaughan Estate, devised all his Lands and Tenements in general Words to his Son the Plaintiff for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Sons in Tail Male successively, Remainder to the second Son of Sir Edward Mansell by Dorothy for Life, with Remainder to his first, &c. Sons in Tail Male successively, and died leaving several Sons. Dame Dorothy his Wife also died.

The Plaintiff the eldest Son of the Marriage being barred at Law of his Remainder in Tail by the joining of the Trustees before his Birth, brought his Bill to have the Benefit of the Will of his Uncle Edward Vaughan, whereby the Premises were devised to his Mother Dorothy for Life only, Remainder to Trustees during her Life to preserve contingent Remainders, with Remainder to her first Son the Plaintiff in Tail; and that the Plaintiff might have the Benefit of the Settlement, and be reinstated in the Premises, as if there had been no Breach of Trust.

This Point, (viz.) Whether Trustees for preserving contingent Remainders joining before the Birth of a Son in destroying them, were guilty of a Breach of Trust?

Trust? being a Matter of great Consequence, was reserved for the Opinion of the Court, who now, with the Concurrence of the Lord Raymond Chief Justice of B. R. and the Lord Chief Baron Reynolds, decreed the same to be a Breach of Trust in them. And herein,

1st, It was resolved, that the Feoffment and Fine by Sir Edward Mansell and Dorothy his Wife did not destroy the contingent Remainders to the first, &c. Sons of Dorothy, but that the Right to the Freehold in the Trustees did support them.

2<sup>dly</sup>, That when the Trustees joined in the Lease and Release to Sir Edward Mansell (the Plaintiff's Father) and his Heirs, this destroyed the contingent Remainders.

3<sup>dly</sup>, That the joining of the Trustees to destroy such Remainders was a plain Breach of Trust; and tho' this had not been before judicially determined, yet it seemed to the Court, in common Sense, Reason and Justice, to be capable of no other Construction: For when Trustees are appointed to preserve an Estate in a Family, and for no other Purpose, and they, instead of preserving it, do a wilful Act with an Intent, and in Order to destroy it, how can this be otherwise than a plain Breach of Trust, or how can it be rendered clearer than by barely putting the Case? Should the Court hold it no Breach of Trust, or pass it by with Impunity, it would be making Proclamation, that the Trustees in all the great Settlements in England were at Liberty to destroy what they had been intrusted only to preserve. Indeed, where an Estate is limited to A. for Life, Remainder to his first, &c. Sons in Tail, tho' it be a plain Wrong and Tort in him to do any Act which will destroy those contingent Remainders before the Birth of a Son, notwithstanding standing his legal Power of doing so, yet as in this Case there is no Trustee, there can be no Trust, nor consequently any Breach of Trust, and therefore a Court of Equity may have no Cognizance of such a Case, nor Handle for Relief, the Matter being left purely to the Common Law. But to prevent this Inconvenience, has the Remedy of appointing Trustees been invented, on Purpose to disable the Tenant for Life from doing such Injury to his Issue, which is not a very old Invention. Now, as it was a Tort in the Tenant for Life, (where there were no Trustees) to destroy contingent Remainders, so must it more plainly be one in Trustees to join in the Destruction of them, being contrary to their Trust, upon which Account only is such Act of theirs punishable in a Court of Equity.

Then as to the Remedy: Had the Premises been conveyed to one without Notice and for a valuable Consideration, such Purchaser must have held the Lands discharged of the Trust, and the Son of the Marriage who was injured by the Breach of Trust, have taken his Remedy against the Trustees only, who would have been decreed to purchase Lands with their own Money, equal in Value to the Lands sold, and to hold them upon the same Trusts and Limitations as they held those sold by them. But even in Case of a Purchase, if the Purchaser had Notice of the Trust which the Trustees were subject to, as annexed to their Estate, such Notice would have made him liable to the same Trust; so if there had been a voluntary Conveyance made of this Estate, tho' without Notice, the voluntary Grantee would have stood in the Place of his Grantors, and have been liable to the Trust, in the same Manner as the Trustees themselves were: But in the present Case it is much stronger; for here was not only Notice of the Trust, but the Conveyance itself voluntary, and made to Sir Edward Mansell the Plaintiff's Father (who was the

If the Persons claiming under the Breach of Trust have Notice of it, then they are subject to the same Trust; so if the Conveyance be voluntary, or without a valuable Consideration; but if for a valuable Consideration, and without Notice, the Purchaser will hold the Land discharged, and the Trustees must buy and settle other Land to the same Uses.

Tenant for Life) and was himself Particeps criminis, nay one for whose Sake and Interest all this had been done. So that the Lands conveyed by these Trustees must now remain liable to the same Trusts, as they were when the Trustees joined in the Conveyance to Sir Edward Mansell.

As to what has been mentioned from Pollexfen's Rep. 250. "that Trustees were never punished in Equity "when they broke their Trusts," that was said by Mr. Pollexfen when of Counsel, & arguendo only; and it is observable, that still this Saying admits it to be a Breach of Trust, which of Course seems punishable in a Court of Equity. However, to outweigh this, there is the Case of (a) Pye and Gorge reported in Salk. 680. which is of greater Authority than the Dictum of Pollexfen as Counsel; it being there declared by Lord Harcourt (tho' not decreed, as the Book says) that Trustees for preserving contingent Remainders are punishable as for a Breach of Trust, if they join in a Conveyance to destroy them: And for Englefield's Case in 1 Vern. 443, 446, where there was a Destruction of a contingent Remainder, that was determined only upon the Fraud appearing therein; besides, there being no Trustees, there could be no Trust, nor consequently any Breach thereof.

It has been contended, that tho' in all Settlements on Marriage, or for other valuable Consideration, it would be a Breach of Trust in the Trustees to join in the destroying contingent Remainders, yet it is otherwise in Case of Remainders created by a Will, or other voluntary Settlement; but in Reality it is as much a Breach of Trust in one Case as in the other; it cannot be denied, but that if I make a voluntary Conveyance in Trust for my self, and my Trustees sell the Estate, or convey it to another for any valuable
I Consideration

Consideration, without Notice, I have, notwithstanding, a Remedy against them for this Breach of Trust; and whether they do it by a voluntary Conveyance, or not, is not material, for still every Trustee ought to be faithful to his Trust. [With regard to the Case of Ely [or Else] versus Osborn, 2 Vern. 754. where the Marriage Settlement was to the Use of the Husband for ninety-nine Years, if he so long lived, Remainder to Trustees during the Life of the Husband to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to the Wife for her Jointure, Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of the Husband by the Wife, Remainder to the right Heirs of the Husband; which Settlement was made by the Husband, and he having two Sons, joined with his Wife, his eldest Son, and the Trustees, in a Fine, upon which it being objected that this was a Breach of Trust in the Trustees, the Court is said to have held it was not; for that the first Son was in Equity as Tenant in Tail, and he having joined with the Trustees, made it no Breach of Trust: The (a) Report of this Case is not satisfactory; it cannot be said that the eldest Son, where the Remainder is limited to the Heirs of the Body of the Husband by the Wife, can, during the Life of the Husband, have any Estate vested in him in Equity, more than he has at Law, for Nemo est heres viventis *;] And as to that of (b) Winnington versus Foley, where Lands were settled on Marriage to the Husband for ninety-nine Years, if he should so long live, Remainder to Trustees to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to the first, &c. Sons of the Marriage in Tail Male successively, Remainder to the first, &c. Sons by any other Marriage in Tail Male; the Husband had a Son, the Wife died, and the Son being about an advantageous Match, the surviving Trustee apprehending himself to be a Trustee for all the Sons, would not join in a Recovery without a Decree, which was accordingly had, directing him to join therein; One

(a) See Vol. I. 387. where this Case is reported differently.

(b) Vol. I. 536.

* Note; This particular Case was observed only by Lord Raymond

One Reason of that Decree was, for that this, by making the Son Tenant for Life instead of Tenant in Tail, would be a Means of preserving the Estate the longer in the Family; but Lord Macclesfield (then Chancellor) moreover observed, that the Wife of Mr. Winnington the Father being dead, there could be no more contingent Remainders within the Consideration of the Marriage Settlement, and therefore it was reasonable to decree the Trustee to join. But in the present Case there are none of these Circumstances, no Decree for the Trustees to join, could possibly have been obtained here.

With Regard to the Case of Pye and Gorge (mentioned above) where a third Person settled Lands on the Husband for ninety-nine Years if he should so long live, Remainder to Trustees and their Heirs during the Life of the Husband, to support contingent Remainders, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of the Husband by the Marriage, Remainder to the right Heirs of the Husband; the Husband, Wife and Trustees joined in a Sale of the Premises; after which the Husband and Wife dying without ever having had Issue, a remote Heir brought his Bill to be relieved against this Conveyance as a Breach of Trust, which Bill was dismissed, for that such remote Heir was not intended to be provided for by that Settlement; to bring that Determination to this Case, it must be supposed, that if a Son had afterwards been born, the Lord Chancellor would not have declared it a Breach of Trust; whereas his Lordship did there actually declare it to be a dangerous Experiment for Trustees in any Case to destroy Remainders which they were appointed by the Settlement to preserve.

The Case of Plat versus Sprigg, 2 Vern. 303. where a Man having mortgaged and incumbered his Estate, settled it on himself for Life, Remainder to Trustees during his Life, to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to his Wife for Life, Remainder to their first, &c. Son in Tail; the Husband having no Issue articulated to sell to one, who brought his Bill for a specific Execution of the Articles, and to compel the Trustees to join in Conveyances; and it appearing that the Mortgagee threatned to enter, and foreclose, and the Wife of the Vendor consenting in Court to a Sale, the Trustees thereupon were decreed to join: Now it is to be observed, First, That there did not appear in this Case ever to have been Issue. Secondly, That the Mortgagee might have swallowed up all by his Mortgage. And, Thirdly, That (as was done in the Case of Winnington versus Foley) the Trustees were decreed to join; whereas no such Circumstances are found in the present Case: Besides, where the Husband and Wife were much in Years, had no Prospect of Issue, and the Estate in Debt, the Courts may perhaps have formerly gone so far as to decree Trustees to join in a Sale, which however was going too far; but the principal Case appears with a quite different Aspect, the married Couple young, the Wife ensient when the Trustees joined to bar the Remainders, and the Conveyance by the Trustees made on Purpose to bar this Child then so near its Birth: So that were there no Precedent for Relief, yet the Reason and Justice of the Case is so strong, that unless Precedents could be produced in the very Point against it, the Act of the Trustees ought to be deemed a Breach of Trust, and punished as such; and therefore the Land in the Hands of the voluntary Grantee must be affected with, and liable to, the Trust.

Let all Parties join in making such an Estate to the Plaintiff, as he would have been intitled to under Mr. Vaughan's Will, if these contingent Remainders had not been destroyed, that is, an Estate in Tail Male, &c.

THE Case is this: Dorothy Lennard possessed of Lands in Surrey for the Residue of a Term of 500 Years, on the 29th of July 1729 made her Will, and devised these Lands to the Defendant Hussey for the Remainder of the Term, in Trust to raise Money by Sale or Mortgage to discharge her Debts and Legacies, and after Payment thereof, to permit her Nephew Francis Leigh and his Assigns to receive all the Rents and Profits of the Premises (deducting an Annuity of 100 l. per Annum given to her Mother) for so long of the said Term as he should happen to live, and after his Decease to the Use of the first Son of Francis Leigh, and the Heirs Male of the Body of such first Son, and in Default thereof, to the second and other Sons of Francis Leigh severally, and respectively in Order and Course as they should be in Seniority of Age, and Priority of Birth, and the several Heirs Male of the respective Bodies of such Son and Sons; and in Default of such Issue, to the Use of the Daughter and Daughters of Francis Leigh, and if more than one, to be divided amongst them Share and Share alike at their Ages of twenty-one or Marriage; and in Default of Daughters, or in Case of their Death before their Age of twenty-one or Marriage, then to the Use and Behoof of the Plaintiff for the then Residue of the Term. The Testatrix gave her Mother an Annuity of 100 l. per Annum for her Life, and to the Plaintiff 200 l. be-vides several other Legacies, making Francis Leigh Executor.

The 10th November 1729 the Testatrix died, and the Defendant Hussey declining to act, Francis Leigh entered on the Leasehold Premises, and possessed other Parts of the personal Estate. The Testatrix being indebted to the Plaintiff in 500 l. on Bond, he brought his Bill for an Account of the personal Estate, and for a Satisfaction of his Debt and Legacy; and after Satisfaction of all the Debts and Legacies, that such Surplus of the Leasehold Estate as should not be sold for that Purpose, might be settled according to the Will, insisting that the Limitation to him of the Leasehold Estate was a good Limitation.

Francis Leigh by his Answer insisted that the Limitation of the Leasehold Estate to the Plaintiff was void, and that if the said Francis Leigh should die without Issue, it would go to his Executors.

Upon the first Hearing of this Cause, 1st December 1731, the usual Directions were given for taking an Account of the Testatrix's Estate, and of her Debts and Legacies, for Sale of so much of the Leasehold Estate as should be necessary for the Payment of such Debts and Legacies; and the Consideration how the Surplus of the Leasehold Estate should go after the Death of Francis Leigh without Issue, was reserved till after that Contingency happened.

The Contingency has since happened by the Death of Francis Leigh, without having had any Issue, and the Cause has been revived against the now Defendant Sir John Leigh his Administrator; and being brought again to Hearing for Directions as to the Point reserved by the former Decree, the Question is, whether the Limi-

Limitation of the Trust of the Leasehold Estate to the Plaintiff by the Will of Dorothy Lennard be a good, or void Limitation?

I am of Opinion it is a good Limitation, and that the Trustee the Defendant Huffey ought to assign the Residue of the Term to the Plaintiff.

To make this Limitation void it must be asserted, that it tends to a Perpetuity: Now, in Order to examine this Assertion, let us see what is a Perpetuity.

Definition of a Perpetuity.

A Perpetuity, as it is a legal Word or Term of Art, is the limiting an Estate either of Inheritance or for Years, in such Manner as would render it unalienable longer than for a Life or Lives in Being at the same Time, and some short or reasonable Time after. I have joined Estates of Inheritance and for Years together, because the Law does equally abhor what is called a Perpetuity in the one as in the other; the Reason of which Abhorrence is, the Mischief that would arise to the Publick from Estates remaining for ever, or for a long Time unalienable or untransferrable from one Hand to another, being a Damp to Industry, and Prejudice to Trade, to which may be added the Inconvenience and Distress that would be brought on Families whose Estates are so fettered: Now this Inconvenience and Mischief are the same, let the Right or Interest in the Estate to be limited be what it will. Had this been constantly attended to, there would not have been such a Distinction in the Doctrine of Perpetuities between the Limitation of a Fee-simple Estate, and that of a Term for Years, as hath sometimes been made. If any Distinction was to be allowed, I should have thought the Law would rather, or with more Strictness, have guarded against Perpetuities in Fee-simple Estates, than in Terms, since there might be an indefinite Perpetuity in an Inheritance; but there can be no such Thing in a Term, the Expiration thereof putting an End to all Limitations whatsoever carved out of it.

But the blending the old Notion of the Infirmitie or Meanness of an Estate for Years (by the Common Law always in the Power of the Freeholder) with the Notion of a Perpetuity, Things distinct in their Nature, (I conceive) begot confused Ideas, and it was thought a Man might not have so much Power over a Term for Years, as over a Fee-simple Estate. This Distinction is exploded in very strong Terms by the Lord Nottingham, in the Duke of Norfolk's Case (a), where he calls it “ a Distinction in Words, and says, “ there is no real Difference but what Mankind will laugh at; shall not a Man, saith he, have as much Power over his Lease as over his Inheritance? This were an Absurdity altogether insuperable.” Now it cannot be pretended but that the same Limitations as are in the present Case, which is of a Term, would have been good if they had been of an Inheritance, and yet that would have gone a little farther towards a Perpetuity; for the Sons, though not in esse, must all have taken one after another, and none of them could have barred the Remainders but by a Recovery, which requires Time, and cannot be done in an Instant; whereas in this Case, the first Son would, upon his Birth, have had the whole Residue of the Term subject to the precedent Interest vested in him, and it could never have gone over to any in Remainder, if he had died before his Age of twenty-one, but his Executors or Administrators would have had it, who could have aliened or assigned it instantly. If he had lived till twenty-one, so might He have done. This is therefore farther from a Perpetuity than if the like Limitations had been of a Fee-simple Estate.

The common Course of settling Terms for Years.

Again, Let us see what is the common Course of settling Terms for Years, to which great Regard is to be had, and of which having informed my self, I find it usual in Marriage Settlements to limit them thus : To Trustees for the whole Term, in Trust to permit the Husband and Wife and the Survivor, to receive the Rents and Profits during so long of the Term as they shall live, and after the Death of the Survivor, to permit the first Son of the Marriage to receive the Rents and Profits till he attains twenty-one, and if he attains that Age, then the Trustees to assign the Residue of the Term to him ; but if such first Son dies under twenty-one, then in Trust for the second and other Sons in like Manner, and if no Sons, then in Trust for the Daughters, or any other Person as shall be agreed between the Parties. This too is apparently going farther towards a Perpetuity than the present Devise.

But it is objected, that the Devisor, by the Limitations over in Default of Heirs Male of the first Son, intended a Perpetuity, and such Intention of his shall make the farther Limitations void. Now supposing the Devisor did intend a Perpetuity, it would be very strange, if for that Reason only, the Law should make those Limitations void ; for if they do not really tend to a Perpetuity, the Bounds which the Law has set to extraordinary Devises, or Limitations of Terms for Years, are not transgressed, nor are its Rules violated ; so that the Intention is vain and fruitless, and consequently can or ought to have no Operation at all. But I think it cannot be affirmed, that the Devisor in the present Case had any such Intention, if he knew the Law, he could not intend it : He takes Notice that his only Interest was a Term, and the Limitation of the Trust of that Term to the first Son of F. Leigh, and the Heirs Male of such first Son in Contingency (if the Contingency happened, and there was a Son) would absolutely have given his Son the whole Residue of the Term, subject to the precedent Limitations; for the Words to the first Son and the Heirs Male of his Body, do not operate as a Limitation of the Time or Duration of the Estate, but as an absolute Disposition of the Term, agreeable to what the Lord Nottingham says in the Duke of Norfolk's Case p. 34. and though in Wills the Law presumes a Man to be inops concilii, and will effectuate his Intention, in limiting an Estate where he has expressed himself improperly; yet will he not be presumed to be ignorant of the legal Operation of Words made use of in one of the Limitations, in order to defeat the other; this would be raising a Presumption to a quite contrary Purpose from what the Law intends.

Another Objection to the Plaintiff's Title is, that the Limitation to him is postponed to the Sons of F. L. and to the Daughters arriving to twenty-one or Marriage; and (say they) there might have been a posthumous Son, and if no Son, a posthumous Daughter, or one who might not live to twenty-one or Marriage, and so the Contingency, on which the Limitation to the Plaintiff was to take Effect, might not happen within the Compass of a Life.

As to the Case of a posthumous Child, that is a Contingency which must happen within a short Time after the Death of the Father; and this Objection was taken Notice of and disallowed by the Lord Comper in Higgins and Dowler, which I shall have Occasion to mention more largely by and by; besides, a longer Time, a Year beyond a Life, was allowed in the Case of Loyd and Carew, adjudged in the House of Lords, Shower's Cases in Parliament 137. As to a Daughter's arriving

Case of Ma-

arriving at twenty-one or Marriage, that is a Contingency which must happen within a reasonable Time after the Death of the Father, and indeed prevent the Power of Alienation no longer than the Law would do if there were no such Contingency expressed, as it (a) has been held in this Court. This Objection therefore, that the Contingency on which the Plaintiff's Title is to depend, might not happen strictly within the Compass of a Life, is of no Weight.

Let us now see what Authorities there are on one Side or the other to guide us in the present Case: All those then adjudged which any ways concern the present Question, were taken Notice of and thoroughly canvassed in the Duke of Norfolk's Case; I shall mention but few of them, and refer to the Book for the rest.

(b) 1 Mod.
115.

I observe, that tho' the Case of Child and Baily, which may be urged as an Authority for the Defendant, is not only denied to be Law by the Lord Nottingham in the Duke of Norfolk's Case, but also by the Court of King's Bench Mich. 5 W. & M. Lamb and Archer, Salk. 225; yet there are two others which the Lord Nottingham admits, and goes so far as to call plain and clear, and they are these: If a Term be limited to a Man for Life, and after to his first and other Sons in Tail successively, and for Default of such Issue, the Remainder over, such Remainder is void, tho' there never were a Son born, for that looks like a Perpetuity, Sir William Backhurst's Case: Yet one Step farther, (says he) and that is (b) Burgiss's Case, where a Term being limited to one for Life, with contingent Remainders to his Sons in Tail, with Remainder over to his Daughters; though he had no Son, yet because it was foreign and distant to expect a Remainder after the Death of a Son to be born without Issue, that having a Prospect of a Perpetuity, was also adjudged to be void.

I must observe as to the first of these Cases, which is that of (a) Backurst versus Bellingham, reported in Poll. <sup>(a) or Back-</sup> 33, the Remainder of the Term held to be void was <sup>house.</sup> after Limitations to a great many Persons, and to their first and other Sons respectively, and the Heirs Male of their respective Bodies; nor does it appear by Pollexfen's Report, but that some of those contingent Limitations to the first and other Sons had vested, or if they had not, still that Particular is not taken Notice of: The second indeed, (viz.) that of Burgiss and Burgiss, reported in 1 Mod. 115. 1 Chan. Ca. 229. and Poll. 40. is a full Authority for the Defendant in this Case; but then it is to be considered, that this was a Decree of Lord Nottingham's own, and at the Time when the Principle laid down by him afterwards in the Duke of Norfolk's Case, of a Man's having as much Power over a Term as over an Inheritance, had not obtained, nor is it very probable that it did occur to him; besides, it is easy to imagine he would make large Concessions, in order to lessen the Number of the Resolutions which he was to encounter in the Duke of Norfolk's Case: These Concessions too were made in the first Argument; and any one that reads his second Argument, will find that he grows stronger in his Opinion upon that Point, of a Man's having as much Power over a Term as over an Inheritance. After all, these Concessions or Resolutions must be tried by the Reason given for them, which is singly in the first Case, that such Limitations look like, and in the second, that they have the Prospect of, a Perpetuity; now it is very strange, that the Limitation a Man makes of his Estate should be void, because it looks like a Perpetuity, when surely the Law must be formed on Realities, and not upon the Looks or Appearances of Things; it is equally strange, that such a Limitation should have a Prospect of a Perpetuity, which it is impossible should ever terminate in a Perpetuity; this I think is sufficient to invalidate the Authority of those Resolutions, especially when they run counter to the whole Tenor of the Lord Nottingham's Reasoning in the Duke of Norfolk's Case, and several other Resolutions there cited, particularly Wood and Saunders Case much relied on by him, which I shall mention by and by, and also to a Resolution in Point in the Case of Higgins and Dowler, reported in Salk. 156. 2 Vern. 600. but of which I have a farther Manuscript Report. Now it is observable with Regard to this last Case, that though the two printed Books differ in wording the Limitations, yet they agree in the Point resolved by the Lord Comper, and the only one argued before him, which was, that the Limitations of the Trust of a Term by a Marriage Settlement to the Father for Life, Remainder to the first and other Sons and the Heirs of their Bodies respectively, Remainder to the Daughters, were good, and there happening to be no Son, the Limitation to the Daughters would take Effect.

This was upon a Demurrer to a Bill brought in Disaffirmance of the Daughter's Title, who was the only Issue of the Marriage; none of the Reports say what became of it, but all agree the Point was so resolved; and by some Notes taken by Mr. Goldsborough the Register then in Court, of which I have a Copy, it appears to have been really so; these say, that Lord Comper, on arguing the Demurrer, declared the Reason why a Remainder after an Estate-tail of a Term is accounted void, to be, because an Estate is vested; but at the same Time declared, that if the Contingency did not happen, so as the Estate did never vest, the Remainder was good; yet He over-ruled the Demurrer, and directed, that when the Cause came on upon the Merits, Precedents should be produced. By this it appears, that the Opinion of the Court was according to the Reports, and that the over-ruling the Demurrer, was only in order to a more solemn Determination of the Cause, and not from any Doubt in the Court, for the Manuscript Report which I have says, Lord Chancellor took it with (a) great Clearness, that where the Limitation ever vested in the Son, the Remainder to the Daughter is void, but if there never was a Son, such Limitation is good. As to what is said at the End of the Case in Salk, that upon reading the Settlement it appeared to be, “ That in Default of Issue Male of the Body of the Husband (that is the Father) then to the Daughters,” for which Reason the Limitation to the Daughters was held to be void; that could be no Ingredient in the Judgment of the Court; for on arguing a Demurrer, the Court cannot go out of the Pleadings; this must therefore be a Mistake, and I suppose the Bill was read, and not the Deed.

(a) Vide
Vol. I. 99.

The Bill to which the Demurrer was put in was an amended Bill, and was thus, as I have it from the Record:

The Plaintiffs were Executors of Alice Higgins, and Administrators of Henry Higgins her Son, and brought their Bill against the Trustees of the Term, and the Administrator of Mary the Wife, and Elizabeth the Daughter of Henry Higgins, upon this Case: Alice Higgins, as Administratrix of her Husband Henry Higgins Senior, being possessed of a Term of 999 Years, in Consideration of an intended Marriage between her Son Henry and Mary Dowler, demised the Premises to the Defendants Lowe and Dowler for 860 Years, in Trust for herself for Life, Remainder to Henry for Life, Remainder to Mary the intended Wife of Henry for Life, Remainder to the eldest Son of the said Henry Higgins on the Body of the said Mary to be begotten, his Executors and Administrators, who should should receive and take the Rents, Issues and Profits of the Premises to his and their own Use during the then Residue of the said Term; and for Default of Issue of the first Son, then that all and every the Sons of Henry begotten on the Body of Mary, their Executors and Administrators, and every of them, as they should be in Seniority of Age, should receive and take the Rents, Issues and Profits of the Premises to their own Use during the Term; and for Default of Issue Male of Henry to be begotten on the Body of Mary, then that the Daughters of Henry begotten on the Body of Mary, should receive and take the Rents, Issues and Profits of the Premises for the Residue of the Term, equally to be divided between them; and in Case Henry should have no Issue on the Body of Mary, then the Rents, Issues and Profits of the Premises should be enjoyed by the Executors, Administrators and Assigns of Henry. The Marriage took Effect, and there was Issue of such Marriage only a Daughter Elizabeth, who survived her Father, and died intestate in the Life-time of Mary her Mother; Alice afterwards died, and made the Plaintiffs Executors of her Will, and the Plaintiffs had then got Administration to Henry; after the Death of Alice, Mary the Mother enjoyed the Premises many Years, and dying intestate, her Brother the Defendant Dowler was her Administrator.

The Plaintiffs by their Bill insisted, that the Limitation to the Daughters, which was to arise in Default of Issue Male of the Marriage, and much more the other subsequent one to arise in Default of Daughters, were void both in Law and Equity, and that they neither did nor could subsist, but that upon the Death of Henry Higgins and Mary his Wife, without any Son or Sons, the Leasehold Estate did result back to the Executors of Alice Higgins, from whom the Term came; therefore the Bill prayed, that the Defendants might assign the Premises to the Plaintiffs, deliver up the Writings, and account for the Profits. On this Title solely it was that the Plaintiffs relied, and it is observable, that the Bill disaffirms any Title in the Plaintiffs as Representatives of Henry, by insisting that all the Limitations which were to arise in Default of Issue of the first Son were void, and consequently that the implied Limitation to Henry and his Issue on the Body of Mary was void, as well as those to the other Sons and Daughters: This was the Case on which the Demurrer was argued, and over-ruled in the Manner I have now mentioned. The Defendants afterwards put in an Answer, by which it appears, that the Defendant Dowler was Administrator to Elizabeth the Daughter, and that the Administration to Henry, which had been granted to the Plaintiffs, was repealed, and granted to the Defendant Dowler. With only this Variation, the Cause came on to be heard the 30th of May 1708, and, as appears by the Register's Book, the Court then declared, that as the Plaintiffs claimed the Residue of the Term only by way of a resulting Trust, the Limitation to Henry, his Executors, Administrators and Assigns, was a sufficient Disposition to prevent a resulting Trust for the Benefit of Alice, and therefore dismissed the Bill.

Upon this State of the Case these Observations arise,

1st, That upon the Frame of the Bill the Point reported, (viz.) whether the Limitation to the Daughter was a good Limitation, came properly in Question. 2<sup>dly</sup>, That the Plaintiffs did not rely on their Title as Representatives of Henry, for they had disaffirmed it by their Bill, and had Reason to do so, for though they got Administration to Henry, they could not hold it, but it was repealed, and granted to the Defendant Dowler. 3<sup>dly</sup>, That the Point determined at the Hearing was consistent with the Opinion of the Court on arguing the Demurrer, for it adjudged the Limitation to the Executors, Administrators and Assigns of Henry, a sufficient Disposition to prevent a resulting Trust, which could not be, if the Limitation to the Daughters and all those to arise on Default of Issue of the first Son, as the Plaintiff insisted, were void.

This is therefore a full Authority for the Plaintiff in the present Case, and so I think is the Case of Wood and Saunders, Poll. 35. and cited (but shortly) by Lord Nottingham in the Duke of Norfolk's Case, fo. 37. where the Trust of a long Term is limited thus : To the Father for sixty Years, if he live so long, then to the Mother for sixty Years, if she live so long, then to Trustees to assign to John the Son, in case he survived his Father and Mother, for the Residue of the Term, but if he died before Assignment, and left a Son, then to assign the whole Term to his eldest Son, and if no Son, then to his Daughter, if any; and if John died without Issue before Assignment, or having Issue, his Issue died before Assignment, then in Trust for Edward the Son and the Heirs of his Body. John died without Issue in the Life-time of his Father, and then the Father and Mother died, Edward the Son surviving; the Question was, whether the Limitation to Edward was good; and Edward dying, whether his Administrator was intitled or not? The Lord Keeper Bridgman, assisted by Mr. Justice Twisden, Mr. Justice Rainsford and Mr. Justice Wild, agreed in Opinion, and declared, that the Estate limited to John being but in Nature of a Contingency, nothing ever vested in him, and that Wood and his Wife, as Administratrix of Edward the Son, were well intitled to the Trust of the Term, and decreed accordingly. Here were Limitations very near to the present Case, and the Directions to Trustees to assign the whole Term to the eldest Son make no Difference; for so the Trustees in the present Case must have done, as I have shewn before, if there had been an eldest or any Son born. But farther, in the Case cited there was a double Contingency precedent to the vesting the whole Trust of the Term, (viz.) not only John's dying without Issue before Assignment, but if he had Issue, the dying of such Issue before Assignment; if he had Issue a Son, that Son would not have taken at his Birth, as the Son of Francis Leigh would have done in the present Case; but if he had died before he had or could have taken any Assignment of the Term, and the Father had died without any other Issue, the Trust of the Term would have gone to Edward: Besides, there is a dying without Issue of John precedent to Edward's taking, which perhaps might take in Grandchildren as well as a Son or Daughter. This Case was therefore stronger against Edward's taking, than the present against the Plaintiffs; but these Contingencies being of Necessity to happen within the Compass of two Lives, and no contingent Estate ever vesting, this solemn Resolution held the Limitation to Edward to be a good Limitation.

Upon the whole Matter, If I should dismiss the Plaintiffs Bill as to the Point in Question, it must be solely upon the Authority of the two Cases, Backhouse versus Bellingham, and Burgiss versus Burgiss, supported by no solid Reasons, contradicted by other Authorities, and contravened by the common Course of Settlements of Terms for Years, which I ought not to overthrow, or any way weaken.

I must therefore remain of the same Opinion I was, to decree for the Plaintiffs, that the Trustee Christopher Hussey do convey the Residue of the Term unfold to him*.

* See the Case of Sabberton versus Sabberton, Mich. 1736, where on a like Limitation over of a personal Estate, a Case was made by Lord Talbot for the Opinion of the Judges of B. R. who certifying the Limitation to be good, the Lord Hardwicke in Mich. 1739 decreed agreeably thereto.

A Resolution by Sir
Joseph Fe-
kyl Master of the Rolls,
That a Widow should be indowed of an Equity of Redemption, though the Mortgage was made in Fee before the Marriage, upon her paying a Third of the Mortgage Money, or keeping down a Third of the Interest.

THE Case upon the Question reserved at the first Hearing, concerning the Claim of Dower by Margaret Sutton the Plaintiff in the third Cause, is thus :

Peter Hancock feised in Fee of Lands of 600 l. per Annum, mortgaged the same in Fee to the late Chief Baron Ward for 4229 l. In April 1708. Hancock made his Will, whereby he devised his real Estate in Fee, and his personal Estate, to Sir William Ellis, in Trust to pay his Debts and Legacies, and to bring up and educate Robert Sutton the Defendant's Husband, until twenty-one or Marriage, and then to settle a Moiety of his Estate upon him and the Heirs of his Body, and the other Moiety to Elizabeth the Wife of the Plaintiff Banks, and the Heirs of her Body, with cross Remainders, Remainder over; the Testator Peter Hancock died; Sir William Ellis entered on the real Estate, proved the Will, possessed the personal Estate, paid off the Mortgage, and took an Assignment of it to a Trustee for himself; 6th April 1720. Robert Sutton attained his Age of twenty-one, married, and lived some Years afterwards; Sir William Ellis did not settle the Moiety of this Estate on Robert Sutton in Tail, as he was directed by the Will, but received Part of the Mortgage Money, by Perception of Profits: Robert Sutton died, and afterwards his Widow Margaret Sutton claims Dower, and brings her Bill to redeem the Mortgage, to be let into her Dower, and be paid her Arrears since the Death of her Husband, offering to pay, or keep down, a Third of the Interest of the Mortgage Money remaining unsatisfied.

The Testator seems to have thought, that the Mortgage might be paid, either by his personal, or by the Rents of his real Estate, before Robert Sutton should come to twenty-one, and therefore directs the Trustee Sir William Ellis, to convey a Moiety of the Estate, (which must be intended the legal Estate of the Premises) to Robert Sutton at his Age of twenty-one or Marriage. But supposing that by that Time, the Mortgage was not satisfied, yet plainly Robert Sutton was intitled to the Redemption of the Mortgage.

Two Questions arise on the present Case :

1st, Whether the Widow of a Tenant in Tail of a Trust, to whom the legal Estate is by the Will directed to be conveyed at his Age of twenty-one, and who lives to that Age, shall have the Aid of Equity to help her to her Dower ?

2<sup>dly</sup>, Whether the Widow of a Person intitled to an Equity of Redemption of a Mortgage in Fee, shall be let in to redeem, on a Claim of Dower ?

If either of these Questions are with the Plaintiff Margaret, she is intitled to a Decree.

There has been a Difference taken in Equity by some, betwixt a Tenant by the Curtesy and Tenant in Dower, who have held that the former is more to be favoured; but this is a groundless Distinction, and not supported by the Resolutions of the Court. It may be proper to consider the Nature and Circumstances of Tenancy in Dower, and of Tenancy by the Curtesy, and compare them together.

1st, In 1 Inst. 33. b. Lord Coke says, that all Kinds of Dower were instituted for the Subsistence of the Wife during her Life; which Right of Dower is not only a legal but a moral Right, as it was held by Sir John Trevor the late Master of the Rolls, in the Case of Lady Dudley and Lord Dudley, Precedents in Chancery 244. 2<sup>dly</sup>, The Relation of Husband and Wife, as it is the nearest, so is it the earliest, and therefore the Wife is the proper Object of the Care and Kindness of the Husband; the Husband is bound by the Law of God and Man, to provide for her during his Life, and after his Death, the moral Obligation is not at an End, but he ought to take Care of her Provision during her own Life. This is the more reasonable, as during the Coverture, the Wife can acquire no Property of her own; if before her Marriage she had a real Estate, this by the Coverture ceases to be hers, and the Right thereto, whilst she is married, vests in the Husband; her personal Estate becomes his absolutely, or at least is subject to his Control; so that unless she has a real Estate of her own (which is the Case but of few) she may by his Death be destitute of the Necessaries of Life, unless provided for out of his Estate, either by a Jointure or Dower. As to the Husband's personal Estate, unless restrained by special Custom (which very rarely takes place) he may give it all away from her; so that his real Estate (if he had any) is the only Plank she can lay hold of, to prevent her sinking under her Distress; thus is the Wife said to have a moral Right to Dower. The Husband on the contrary has no Right to a Tenancy by the Curtesy, but from positive Institutions or Provision of the Laws; his Right does not arise from the Relation of Husband and Wife; for then every Husband would have it, which is not so, nor doth the Husband want it. If it be not his own Fault, (or at least his Misfortune) during the Coverture he is Master, not only of his own, but of his Wife's Estate; and by his Industry and provident Care may acquire Property sufficient, without any Part of her Estate, to maintain himself after her Death; so that the Husband's Tenancy by the Curtesy hath no moral Foundation, and is therefore properly stiled a Tenancy by the Curtesy of England, that is, an Estate by Favour of the Law of England.

Dower also is a legal Right created by Law; which settles the Quality of the Estate out of which the Wife's
Dower

Dower arises, and likewise ascertains the Quantum thereof. The Common Law says, a third Part is rationabilis dos, and a special Custom (which is lex loci) enlarges or abridges the Common Law of Dower, and gives the Whole, Half, or less than a Third. 1 Inst. 33. b. The Common Law likewise ascertains Dower, with Respect to the Nature and Quality of the Husband's Estate; it says, the Wife's Dower must come out of such an Estate as would descend to the Issue of the Husband, by that Wife; and gives Dower of the Husband's Seisin, though not actual, or reduced into Possession. It annexes Privileges to Dower; as not to be liable to Distress for the Husband's Debt to the King, much less for any due to the Subject; with several other Privileges. Again, the Law fixes the Age when a Woman is dowable; and (by the way) fixes it at such a Time, as by the Course of Nature (at least in this Part of the World) it seems impossible she should have Issue, or be pregnant, (viz.) at nine Years old: But it is not so favourable to a Tenancy by the Curtesy; which it allows only in the Case of a Seisin in Deed; it annexes no Privileges thereto; and though the Husband may be Tenant by the Curtesy of a Common sans Number, of which the Wife is not dowable, yet that is, because of its Indivisibility, in which Case, if Dower were allowed, it would be injurious to other Persons, and the Lands doubly charged; thus the Law, where it can justly do it, prefers the Title of Dower to that of Curtesy.

3<sup>dly</sup>, Dower is also an equitable Right, and such a one as is a Foundation for Relief in a Court of Equity; it arises from a Contract made upon a valuable Consideration; Marriage being in its Nature, a civil, and in its Celebration, a sacred Contract; and the Obligation is a Consideration moving from each of the contracting Parties to the other ; from this Obligation arises an Equity to the Wife, in several Cases, without any previous Agreement ; as to make good a defective Execution of a Power, a defective Conveyance, or supply the Defect of a Surrender of a Copyhold Estate ; in all which the Court relieves the Wife, and makes a Provision for her, where it is not unreasonable or injurious with Respect to others: Indeed in the Case of the Husband, Marriage, as it is a legal Consideration, so is it an equitable one ; but then it is not carried so far in his Favour as in hers ; and in the Cases before mentioned, this Court would not supply a defective Title for the Husband ; at least I have not known it done.

Equity makes good defective Executions of Powers for a Jointure or other Provision for a Wife, tho' after Marriage.

By the Common Law, where a Husband had an inheritable Estate, it was Part of the Marriage Contract, that the Wife should have her Dower, one Species of which was ad Ostium Ecclesiae. Litt. Sect. 39. “ When the Husband comes to the Church-Door to be married, after Affiance or Troth plighted between the Husband and Wife, he endowes her,” which implies, that such Endowment is before the Marriage compleatly solemnized ; and though my Lord Coke says, such Dower is after the Marriage solemnized, this is a Mistake. Also by the Romish Ritual used here before the Reformation it appears, that all Marriages were celebrated ad Ostium Ecclesiae ; so that it should seem to be incumbent on the Husband, if he could do it, to endow his Wife, and to specify the Dower upon the Marriage, instead of which, the general Words of endowing with all his worldly Goods in the Office of Matrimony now in Use, have come in ; from whence it is to be inferred, that Dower is, and Time out of Mind has been, a Part of the Marriage Contract, when it came to be publickly solemnized ; and if so, a Right of Dower is founded in Contract, and is therefore an equitable Right, to which a Tenant by the Curtesy has no Pretence. For this Reason I cannot but wonder how it ever came to be thought, that a Tenant by the Curtesy was intitled to Relief in Equity more, or farther, than a Dowress; and particularly, that a Tenancy by the Curtesy might be of a Trust-Estate, but not Dower; which is no less than a direct Opposition to the Rule and Reason of the Law, allowing Dower of a Seisin in Law, but not a Tenancy by the Curtesy, because the Wife cannot gain an actual Seisin, but the Husband may; which Reason holds in a Trust-Estate, for the Wife cannot gain or compel a Trustee to convey the legal Estate to the Husband, but the Husband himself may; therefore, if any Distinction is to be made, Dower (one would think) ought to be preferred to Curtesy.

I admit the Lord Sommers decreed, in Snell and Clay's Case, 2 Vern. 324. that a Tenant by the Curtesy should have the Benefit of a Trust-Term attendant on the Inheritance, and denied it to a Dowress in those of Lady Bodmin and Vandebendy, and Brown and Gibbs, which occasioned such a Distinction to be advanced; but it hath been exploded, or declared unreasonable, as often as mentioned ever since, and the Lord Sommers himself, when the Case of Snell and Clay was urged in that of Brown and Gibbs, as an Authority for a Dowress, it being taken for granted that there was no Difference in Reason, between the Case of Dower and that of Curtesy: I say, Lord Sommers seems to admit there was no Difference; for he avoided the Authority of Snell and Clay, by saying, that Point of a Tenant by the Curtesy's having the Benefit of a Trust-Term, was not debated in that Cause.

But as such a Distinction has been advanced, and the Boundaries of Relief in Equity to a Dowress are not fixed, I will endeavour to find out, in what Particulars these Boundaries have, or have not been, already established; and then see, whether Things might not be reduced to some Certainty, beginning with such as have been settled.

First, A Dowress shall not have the Benefit of a Trust-Term attendant on the Inheritance, against a Purchaser; this, after different Opinions of two Chancellors (Jefferys and Sommers) was settled by the Judgment of this Court, and affirmed by the House of Lords in the Case of Lady Bodmin and Vandebendy, reported in the Abridg. of Cases in Eq. 219. where the other Books, in which it was then to be found, are referred to, and is since reported in Preced. in Chan. 65. by the Name of Lady Radnor and Rotherham. It seems, that by the same Reason, as a Dowress shall not have the Benefit of a Trust-Term attendant upon the Inheritance against a Purchaser of the legal Estate, so she shall have no Relief in Equity against a Purchaser of the Inheritance of a Trust-Estate; for in both Cases the Purchaser ought to be safe.

A Dowress shall have the Benefit of a Trust-Term against an Heir, or Devisee, but not against a Purchaser.

2dly, A Dowress shall have the Benefit of a Trust-Term attendant on the Inheritance, against an Heir; though this was denied in the Case of Brown and Gibbs, Precedents in Chan. 97. by the Lord Sommers, and in Wray and Williams, 151 in the same Book, by the Lord Keeper Wright, (though contrary to his own Opinion) he thinking himself bound by the Judgment in the Case of Lady Bodmin and Vandebendy. The same Question came afterwards to be considered by the late Master of the Rolls, in the Case of Lady Dudley versus Lord Dudley, (Precedents in Chan. 241.) and upon great Deliberation, in a solemn Argument, he decreed for the Dowress, as did the Lord Harcourt in Higford and Higford, Paschæ 1711, (and not in 1710, as is falsely printed in the

(a) Vide
Vol. I. 137.

the Abridgment of Cases in Equity 219.) and upon a Bill of Review brought in the Case of (a) Wray and Williams, and a Demurrer thereto which was argued before him 18 Feb. 1711, he declared his Opinion for the Dowress, over-ruling the Demurrer; and afterwards the Defendant submitting, a Decree was made by Consent, fixing a Sum for the Arrears of Dower, and giving her Possession; agreeable to Lord Hale's Opinion in Hard. 489, and to all the Resolutions in the Case of Tenant by the Curtesy; so that this Point seems settled, both as to Dowresses and Tenants by the Curtesy.

Next I will consider the Case of Dower of a Trust of the whole Inheritance, not against a Purchaser, but an Heir; and this in two Respects:

1st, In case of a Trust created by the Husband himself; 2<sup>dly</sup>, of a Trust created by another Person, the Ancestor, or Donor of an Estate to the Husband.

1st, Of a Trust created by the Husband himself.

* Octavo Edit'.

The first Case of this Kind is Colt and Colt, * 1 Chan. Rep. 254. but the Year and Folio of the Register-Book there set down, are false printed; it is the 15 Car. 2. fo. 794, and was a Claim of Dower of a Trust created by the Husband himself, as is the Case of Bottomley and Fairfax, Preced. in Chan. 336, and that of (a) Ambrose versus Ambrose, heard in this Court 1716, and affirmed in the House of Lords in June 1717. Where therefore the Trust of an Inheritance is created by the Husband himself, I take it to be settled, that the Wife shall not have Dower, even against the Heir, nor against a Devisee, the Cases in Reason being the same.

(a) Vide
Vol. I. 321.

In case of a Trust of an Inheritance created by the Husband himself, the Wife shall not have Dower.

But 2<sup>dly</sup>, Whether the Wife shall have Dower of a Trust of an Inheritance created by another Person, as against the Heir or Devisee, is a very different Question. That the Wife shall not have Dower of a Trust created by the Husband, or (which is all one) of a Purchase made by him, in a Trustee's Name, may be reasonable, since it may be presumed to be done with Intent to bar Dower, and every Man may do as he pleases with his own. Accordingly it has been commonly practised, for a Purchaser to take a Conveyance in his own Name and in the Name of another Person as Trustee, purposely to prevent Dower. It is said in Shower's Parliament Cases 71, that Serjeant Maynard made a long Lease to a Servant, on Purpose to prevent Dower; and the Case of Bottomly and Fairfax in the Book before mentioned, seems to go upon the Act and Intention of the Husband; the Words being these, "In this Case, it was clearly agreed, that if a Husband, before Marriage, conveys his Estate to Trustees and their Heirs, in such Manner as to put the legal Estate out of him, though the Trust be limited to him and his Heirs, yet of this Trust-Estate the Wife, after his Death, shall not be endowed, and that this Court hath never yet gone so far, as to allow her Dower in such a Case": But where there is no Conveyance to Trustees by the Husband in order to put the legal Estate out of him, and the equitable Interest (which in this Court is taken for the whole) descends or comes to the Husband from another, who cannot be presumed to have lodged the legal Estate in Trustees to prevent Dower out of the Estate of a future Cestui que Trust (perhaps one not then born,) this seems to differ in Reason, and does so by the Authorities: I find no Resolution against Dower in such Case, but on the contrary some allowing that, as well as Tenancy by the Curtesy.

Secus where the Trust is created by another Person or the Husband's Ancestor.

The first is a very strong one, determined upon great Deliberation, and with great Perseverance in Opinion ; for it came no less than five Times before the Court in one Shape or another ; it is very imperfectly reported in all the printed Books, tho' best in the Preced. in Chan. 250, but hath not been throughly understood ; I took it out of the Register's Book which cannot deceive ; the Case was thus: Henry Robinson, for a valuable Consideration, agreed to assure the Manor of Binton and other Lands in the County of York, to Henry his eldest Son in Fee ; but falling into Trouble for counterfeiting a Patent under the Great Seal, conveyed the Estate to John his younger Son in Fee, to prevent a Forfeiture, and the younger Son executed a Declaration of Trust to the Father, who being afterwards freed from his Troubles, conveys the Estate to his eldest Son, and dies ; the eldest Son dies, leaving a Widow (the Plaintiff) and no Issue, whereby the younger Brother became his Heir ; against whom the Plaintiff brought her Writ of Dower, and a Bill in this Court, to set aside the Conveyance made to the Defendant, as an Impediment at Law to the Recovery of her Dower. The Court thought this a Case fit to be maturely considered, and ordered it to be stated by one Counsel on each Side. On the 6th of May 1653 the Cause came to be heard on a Case so stated, which was, in Substance, as I have mentioned, and concludes thus :

“ So that upon the whole Matter, the Case upon the “ Bill, Answer, and Proofs, will fall out to be, that “ Henry the Father being Cestui que Trust in Fee, con“ veyed to Henry the Son (i. e. eldest Son) and his Heirs, “ and Henry the Son died ; now whether the Wife of “ the Son (the Interest in Law being still in the Tru“ stee, that is the younger Son) shall be holpen to “ Dower in Equity, is the single Question? whereupon

“ upon the Court is of Opinion, that there is good “ Ground to set aside the said Deed made to John the “ youngest Son, and that the Plaintiff should have her “ Dower out of the said Manor of Binton, and other
“ the Lands conveyed to the Plaintiff’s Husband and “ his Heirs, for the Time to come, and to the Ar“ rears thereof from the Death of her Husband”: And it was decreed accordingly, unless Cause, the Defendant then making Default. On the 13th of the same Month (being the Time appointed for that Purpose) the Defendant’s Counsel coming to shew Cause, on hearing Counsel on both Sides, it was decreed, that the Deed to the younger Son should be set aside, as against the Plaintiff, and not given in Evidence at Law, and that, as to the Arrears of Dower, the Plaintiff should resort to the Court for farther Directions, after a Trial at Law; which being accordingly had, the Deed was, notwithstanding the Decree, given in Evidence, and the Plaintiff nonsuited; whereupon on the 9th of October 1654, she applied again to the Court, and prayed a Commission to set out her Dower, that Proceedings on the Nonsuit might be stayed, that she might have her Costs at Law and in this Court, and that the Defendant and his Attorney, who insisted on giving the Deed in Evidence at the Trial, might stand committed; which was ordered accordingly, unless Cause shewn to the contrary on the 28th of November following; at which Time, upon hearing Counsel on both Sides, the Order of the 9th of October was made absolute.

I observe, notwithstanding the Deed to the eldest Son was upon an Agreement for a valuable Consideration, yet in all Likelihood it was so worded, as to exclude giving the Consideration in Evidence; or there was some other Objection made, whereby it could not prevail at Law against the Deed to the younger younger Son, though that was voluntary; and accordingly it was taken for granted by the Counsel on both Sides, and by the Court, that the Law was against the Plaintiff; for which Reason she was nonsuited upon the Trial; and yet, notwithstanding there was no legal Seisin in her Husband, she had her Dower by the Aid of this Court. This seems a great Authority for Dower out of a Trust-Estate of Inheritance, and was very much relied on by the late Master of the Rolls, in his Argument of the Case of Lady Dudley and Lord Dudley; for after taking Notice of it, he says, “tho’

 “this was much contested, yet Equity prevailed; and “though the Time in which it was adjudged, may be “objected, yet were * they (meaning the then Com“missioners of the Great Seal) learned Men, who de“liberated well, and pronounced their Decrees accord“ing to their Oaths, and according to Justice and E“quity. Precedents in Chan. 250. This Resolution of Fletcher and Robinson does not stand alone; for at the End of the Case of Otway and Hudson, decreed by the Lord Comper 27 October 1706, 2 Vern. 585, it is said, that the Widow of a Cestui que Trust of a Copyhold Estate ought to have her Widow’s Estate, (i. e.) Customary Dower, as if her Husband had the legal Estate in him; and a Husband ought to have a Tenancy by the Curtesy of a Trust as well as of a legal Estate. And as Dower is more favoured in Law, Reason and Equity, than Curtesy, therefore every Precedent for Tenant by the Curtesy of a Trust, is an Authority for Dower of a Trust. The Case of Sweetapple and Bindon, 2 Vern. 536, is thus: A Woman bequeathed 300 l. to be laid out in Land and settled to the Use of her Daughter with a Remainder over; the Daughter married the Plaintiff, by whom she had a Child, she and the Child died, and the Money not being laid out, on a Bill brought by the Husband, the Lord Comper decreed the Money to be considered as Land, and the Plaintiff to be Tenant by the Curtesy. In that of (a) Watts and Ball, cited imperfectly 2 Vern. 681, as determined by the Lord Comper in 1708, where the Inheritance was in Trustees for Payment of Debts, the Surplus to the Testator's two Daughters equally in Fee; he decreed the Husband of one of the Daughters to be Tenant by the Curtesy of that Daughter's Moiety; and there, according to a full Report I have of the Case, the Lord Comper declared, that the Husband ought to be Tenant by the Curtesy, and the rather, as he thought his Wife seised of a legal Estate, and had Reason to think so, she being in Possession; but this appears to be only an additional Reason for decreeing the Tenancy by the Curtesy, since his Lordship laid down the Rule generally, that Trusts are to be governed by the same Law, and are within the same Reason, as legal Estates; and if there were not the same Rule of Property in all Courts, Things would be at Sea, and there would be the utmost Uncertainty; which general Position extending to the Case of Dower, as well as Tenant by the Curtesy, may be reckoned an Authority for the one, as well as the other. That Trusts and legal Estates are to be governed by the same Rules, is a Maxim which has obtained universally; it is so in the Rules of Descent, as in Gavelkind and Borough-English Lands, there is a (b) possessio fratris of a Trust, as well as of a legal Estate; the like Rules in Limitations, and also of barring Intails of Trusts, as of legal Estates. I believe there is no Exception out of this general Rule, nor indeed is there any Reason there should; and it would be impossible to fix the Boundaries, and shew how far, and no farther, it ought to go; perhaps in early Times, the Necessity of keeping thereto was not seen, or throughly considered.

The Widow of the Cestui que Trust of a Copyhold Estate shall have her Free-Bench, as well as if her Husband had the legal Estate.

 (b) § 457. (b) he says, that there shall be no Tenant by the Cur-tesy of an Use; probably the other Books, where the same Thing is said, may be taken from this Authority: But it is to be observed, that this might possibly be said with Regard only to demand of Dower at Law, and not in a Court of Equity; but however, if the Opinion that a Wife should not be endowed of a Trust, has been, in former Times, taken generally, yet that which has for a long Time prevailed is, that Trust-Estates ought to have the same Properties, and be governed by the same Rules, as legal Estates.

(a) 27 H. 8.
 cap. 10.

As to the Preamble to the Statute of (a) Uses, which recites, “ that by Uses Men lost their Tenancies by “ the Curtesy, and Women their Dowers”, there is Room to think these Words ought not to be taken in a general Sense; for the Uses complained of are such as were created by fraudulent Assurances, and were secret; but supposing all Uses, before the Statute, were thought to bar Tenants by the Curtesy, and Dower, even in Equity as well as Law, yet it will not follow, at this Time of Day, that Trusts or equitable Interests are now to be considered as they were then. Besides, as to Authorities for Dower out of Trust-Estates, it is admitted that a Dowress shall have the Benefit of a Trust-Term attendant upon an Inheritance, and yet it cannot be in Reason distinguished, why a Dowress shall not have the Benefit of a Trust of the whole Inheritance. It has indeed been said, that in the one Case the Dower by Law, had attached on the Inheritance, which attracts the Term; whereas in the other the Wife has no legal Right at all; but this seems to be a Difference in Words only; for why should her Dow-

er out of the Inheritance give her the Benefit of a Trust-Term, when by Law she cannot have her Dower, during the Term? Why should Equity assist the Dowress in the one Case more than in the other, when at Law, without the Aid of Equity, she cannot have Title in either? Why should a Dowress have the Aid of Equity to be endowed out of a Trust-Term more than of a Trust of Inheritance? Nay, after a Judgment in Dower, with a Cesset executio during the Term (as it must be;) if she hath Dower out of the Trust-Term, she has it in direct Contradiction to the Judgment upon which she founds her Claim, where she comes after Judgment, as the Cases generally have been; this is the Observation of the Lord Sommers in the Case of Brown and Gibbs before cited, where his Lordship says, that it would be relieving her against the very Judgment upon which she founds her Right to Relief; and yet hath obtained, and is a Point now settled.

But after all these Reasons and Authorities, I must declare, that I would not take upon my self to determine, whether a Wife should have Dower out of a Trust of Inheritance, where it is created not by the Husband, but some other Person, and no Time limited for conveying the legal Estate; when that comes to be the Case, it will be Time enough to do it; but the present very much differs from the common Case of Trust-Estates, in that there is a Time limited for conveying the legal Estate, and that Time come in the Life of the Plaintiff's Husband; this makes it clear for Dower, upon a Principle well known, and established in this Court, that where an Act is to be done by a Trustee, that is to be looked upon as done which ought to be done, consequently the Estate directed to be conveyed to the Plaintiff's Husband ought to be considered as actually conveyed to, and vested in, him; and then the Plaintiff hath a Right to Dower out of it.

The Widow of a Tenant in Tail of a Trust, to whom the legal Estate is by the Will of the Donor directed to be conveyed at his Age of twenty-one, and he living to that Age. is intitled to Dower.

2dly,

2dly, Suppose the legal Estate is not to be considered as conveyed to the Plaintiff's Husband, by Reason of the Mortgage standing out unsatisfied during his Life, yet, however, the Husband was undoubtedly intitled to redeem the Mortgage, and then the other Point before mentioned is to be considered, whether the Plaintiff, being the Widow of a Person intitled to the Equity of Redemption of a Mortgage in Fee, hath a Right to redeem upon Account of Dower?

That a Dowress shall have Redemption of a Mortgage for Years is a Point settled; and as that was never doubted, so neither has the Court ever distinguished it from the Case of a Mortgage in Fee. The Lord Sommers, in the Case of Brown and Gibbs, seems to admit, that a Dowress may redeem a Mortgage; and gives a Reason for it, which goes to a Mortgage in Fee as well as for Years; he says, "a Mortgage is looked upon as a personal Contract, and the Mortgagee has no Interest beyond his Money". In that of Hitchin and Hitchin, Precedents in Chan. 133. though it was a Mortgage for Years, yet the Lord Keeper Wright does not distinguish, but (speaking to the Counsel) says generally, "you do not pretend but a Dowress is to be relieved against a satisfied Mortgage": Now the Case of a satisfied or an unsatisfied Mortgage differs only in this; in the one the Court gives the Dowress Relief absolutely, in the other, upon Terms of keeping down a Third of the Interest, or paying a Third of the Principal; though as to the Mortgagee, the Dowress must pay the whole Money, and hold over for the Residue. The Case of Palmer and Danby, Precedents in Chan. 137, was a Mortgage for Years, (though not so reported) but the Question is there stated generally, whether a Dowress had a Right to redeem a Mortgage? and the same Lord Keeper declared it to be his Opinion that she had. I see no Reason for a Difference between a Mortgage in Fee and for Years, as to the Dowress's redeeming in a Court of Equity; the Interest in the Mortgage-Money and the Equity of Redemption is the same, whether it be for Years, or in Fee; the Mortgage in both Cases is personal Estate, goes to the Executor, and not to the Heir; the Equity of Redemption in both goes to the Heir, not to the Executor; however, there are Authorities a pari, or rather a fortiori, that a Mortgage in Fee shall no more preclude a Dowress, than one for Years. In the Case of Thorn and Thorn, 1 Vern. 182, 183, it was twice held by the Lord Keeper North, that a Mortgage in Fee was a Revocation only pro tanto, of a voluntary Settlement with Power of Revocation; and in that of Hall and Dunch, 1 Vernon 329, it was held by the then Master of the Rolls, that a Mortgage in Fee was a Revocation only pro tanto, of a Devise; which last coming upon an Appeal before the Lord Keeper North, 1 Vern. 342, he affirmed the Decree for this Reason (says Mr. Vernon) because the Intent of the Mortgagor could be only to supply his present Occasions, by borrowing Money, which is pretty near the same Reason as was given by the Lord Sommers in the Case of Brown and Gibbs, and is equally applicable to Mortgages in Fee or for Years; the like Reason is given in the Case of the Earl of Lincoln and Rolle, Parliament Cases 156, where it was admitted by the Counsel on both Sides, that a Mortgage in Fee was not a Revocation of a Devise; say the Counsel for the Appellant, because in Equity the Mortgage does not make the Estate another's; and the Counsel for the Respondent, because a Mortgage is not an Inheritance, but a personal Estate.

Now surely if a Devisee who is a mere Volunteer; or if a Grantee with a Power of Revocation, who is a Volunteer to the utmost Degree, shall in Equity be entitled to the Redemption of a Mortgage, a fortiori shall the Dowrefs be fo : The Law is as much againft the Devifee as againft a Dowrefs; yet Equity interpofes in Favour of the Devifee, a mere Volunteer, relieving againft a Revocation by the Devifor; and this too, when by making a Mortgage in Fee, and limiting the Redemption to him, and his Heirs, he hath in fome Sort declared his Intention, that the mortgaged Premiffes fhall go to his Heirs, and not to the Devifee. Befides, in Cafe of a Devife, any Act done to put the Eftate into another Plight than it was at the Time of the Devife, is (regularly) a Revocation, though probably not fo intended by the Devifor, as was held in that Cafe of the Earl of Lincoln and Rolle; this therefore feems to be much ftronger againft the Interpofition of the Court than that of a Wife, who, in refpect to Dower, is not a mere Volunteer, but founds herfelf upon the Marriage Contract, or however, in the feveral Inftances before mentioned, is relieved, where a mere Volunteer is not; and therefore a Dowrefs ought, a fortiori, to have the Redemption of a Mortgage in Fee, rather than a Devifee; efppecially if it be, as this Cafe is, of a Mortgage not made by the Husband himfelf, but by the Donor of the Eftate.

How far thefe Reafons and Authorities in cafe of Dower out of an Equity of Redemption of a Mortgage in Fee, will weigh in that of Dower out of a Trust of the Inheritance againft the Heir, may be confidered when that Queftion comes before the Court. Indeed in Robinfon againft Tong, heard before the late Lord Chancellor (6 Nov. 1730.) the Cafe appeared to be the fame, viz. That of a Widow claiming Dower out of an Equity of Redemption on a Mortgage in Fee, not made by the Husband himfelf; which was infifted to be the fame with Dower of a Trust of the Inheritance; and the Cafe of Ambrofe and Ambrofe before mentioned was cited, where Dower of a Trust-
Eftate

Estate, created by the Husband himself, was denied; though it was admitted, there might be a Tenancy by the Curtesy of it; this the Lord King thought a groundless Distinction, but, without attending to the Difference between a Mortgage and a Trust, or observing, that in the Case of Ambrose and Ambrose the Trust was created by the Husband himself, and in that before him, the Mortgage was made, not by the Husband, but by his Brother (of whom the Husband purchased the Equity of Redemption;) he says, the best way is stare decisis; but however, did not determine the Point against the Dowress; for by the Decree it appears, that the Estate in Mortgage, upon which the Question arose, is directed to be sold, and the Master to enquire, whether the Defendant the Widow be dowerable of any Estate of her Husband's; and if she be, the Master to put a Value upon her Dower, which is to be paid out of the Money arising by the Sale, preferable to her Husband's Creditors, except the Mortgagee, and an Annuity charged on the Estate subject to which the Husband purchased.

I do not know, nor can find any Instance, where a Dower of an Equity of Redemption was controverted, and adjudged against the Dowress; and as there are Authorities in Cases less favourable, therefore I declare, that the Plaintiff being the Widow of the Person entitled to the Equity of Redemption of this Mortgage in Question (which was a Mortgage in Fee) hath a Right of Redemption; and accordingly decree her the Arrears of her Dower from the Death of her Husband, she allowing the Third of the Interest of the Mortgage-Money unsatisfied at that Time, and her Dower to be set out, if the Parties differ*.

* See the Case of the Attorney General versus Scot & al, 12 Nov. 1735, when upon a Bill for the Sale of an Estate, the Lord Talbot determined a Wife should not have Dower of an equitable Estate devised to her Husband, who had mortgaged it to the Defendant.

THIS Case, as it is very extraordinary, so is it of a large Compass, and every Part requiring Consideration, I must therefore necessarily take up some Time in Stating, Observing, and Arguing going upon it, for maintaining the Judgment that I shall give.

Robert Booth a Freeman of London, seized of a small real, and possessed of a large personal Estate, had one only Child named Judith, who intermarried in her Father's Life-time with William Comper Esq; afterwards Earl Comper, and had Issue by him only one Son named William.

On the 5th of July 1690, Mr. Booth made his Will, whereby, after making a Provision for his Wife, in lieu of what she might claim by the Custom of London, he takes Notice, that he had before given his Daughter 5000 l. upon her Marriage, which he did not intend to be in full of her Orphanage Part, and therefore makes a farther Provision for her in these Words, “ I do farther give and bequeath 4500 l. “ unto Mr. Samuel Powell, upon this special Trust and “ Confidence, that he shall, with all convenient Speed, “ lay out the 4500 l. in the best Manner he can, in “ the Purchase of Lands and Tenements of Inheri- “ tance, to be conveyed and settled to him upon “ the several Uses, Intents and Purposes herein after “ mentioned, that is to say, in Trust for and to the “ Use of my Son and Daughter William Comper Esq; “ and Judith his Wife for the Term of their Lives, “ and after the Decease of my Daughter, then to the “ Child or Children of her Body hereafter to be be- “ gotten, Share and Share alike, and for want of such “ Issue, then to my Grandson William Comper and his “ Heirs for ever”. He farther by his Will charged some Annuities upon a Leasehold House he had in St. Hellen's, London, gave several Legacies, and devised the small real Estate he had to his Cousin Thomas Heirdson for Life, with Remainder over, and then gives all the Residue of his Estate, not before disposed of,

to his Daughter, desiring that what it should amount to over and above the 4500*l.* might be laid out with the 4500*l.* to the same End, and for the same Uses, as are in that (the above recited) Clause expressed, and made the said Mr. Powell, his Wife Mary Booth, and his Daughter Judith Comper, his Executors.

On the 1 November 1690 Mr. Booth died, and the three Executors joined in the Probate of the Will, but Mr. Comper (in Right of his Wife) acted as Executor, and possessed the personal Estate.

On the 16th of June 1692 my Lord Comper (then William Comper Esq;) executed a Declaration of Trust, whereby, after reciting the Will, and that he in Right of his Wife (the Heir and Residuary Legatee of Mr. Booth) had received of Mr. Booth's personal Estate (including a Mortgage then unpaid on Lands in Gloucestershire) Assets above all Debts and Legacies, sufficient to answer the 4500*l.* and that he had lately purchased an Estate at Standon in Hertfordshire for 3400*l.* he declared that Estate was bought by him with the Money arising out of Mr. Booth's personal Estate, and was to be taken as Part of the 4500*l.* and that he had taken a Conveyance to himself, to the Intent, that as soon as the whole Purchase for the said 4500*l.* could be completed, he and his Heirs should settle and convey the same according to the true Intent of the Will, or as near as might be at the Time of such Settlement, and that in the mean Time, the Rents and Profits should be received by such Persons respectively, as would in Right and Justice be intitled thereto, in case such Conveyance were made.

On the 5th of July 1697 my Lord Comper executed a Declaration of Trust of three Fifths of other Lands purchased by him, wherein, taking Notice that he had deposited the former Declaration of Trust in the Hands of Mr. Powell, he declared the Trust of the three Fifths of those Lands in the same Manner as he had declared that of the other Lands, and having sold Part of the other Lands, he declared that the three Fifths of those Lands with the Lands unsold of the first Purchase, did exceed the Value of 4500 l. as they really did. This Declaration was also deposited with Mr. Powell, and both were found among his Papers, as appears by the Answers of his Executors.

In 1697, or 1698, William Comper the Son died an Infant of tender Years, and in April 1705 died Judith the Mother.

On the 6th of November 1722 the late Earl Comper made his Will, and after subjecting his real and personal Estate to divers Charges, and to Debts and Legacies, he devised his real Estate to the Defendant the present Earl for Life, Remainder to his Executors, as Trustees to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to the Defendant's first and other Sons in Tail Male successively, and after several like Remainders to Spencer Comper his youngest Son, and every other Son to be begotten, for Life, and their first and every other Sons successively in Tail Male, he limited a Remainder to his Brother Spencer Comper for Life, Remainder to the Plaintiffs William, John and Ashley Comper, and every after-born Son of his Brother Spencer Comper for Life, and to their first and every other Sons successively in Tail Male, with proper Limitations to Trustees to preserve contingent Remainders, Remainder to the right Heirs of the Earl. By a Codicil of the same Date with the Will, he bequeathed the Residue of his personal Estate to his Executors, in Trust to be laid out in the Purchase of Lands to be settled to the same Uses as he before had devised his real Estate, and so as they,
and

and all the Lands he was then seized of, might go with the Honour, and made his Brother Spencer Comper and the Defendant Woodford his Executors.

On the 10th of October 1723 my Lord Comper died, soon after which both the Executors proved the Will, and on the 16th of November following, they filed their Bill against the present Earl Comper, the late Countess, Lady Sarah, Lady Anne and Spencer Comper, (the late Earl's younger Children) and against William, John and Ashley Comper, three of the Plaintiffs in this Cause, in which my Lord's Will being recited verbatim, it is alledged, that the Plaintiffs were unwilling to meddle with any of the Estate, but what was of absolute Necessity for the Funeral and other immediate Occasions: But it being necessary to take some Money for those Purposes, the Plaintiff Spencer Comper, on the 15th of October 1723, in the Presence of Mr. Woodford and Mr. Sydenham (the late Earl's Steward) took out of an Escripore in my Lord's House in George-street 1670 l. in Bank-Bills, of the Disposition whereof the Bill gives an Account, and that since, (viz.) on the 20th of the same October, the Plaintiffs went to Colnc-green, my Lord's House in the Country, and in Mr. Sydenham's Presence, opening a Bureau of the Testator's, took thereout 187 l. 12 s. 6 d.  $\frac{1}{2}$  which was paid to the Countess, and that all the rest of his personal Estate remained in the same Plight and Condition as it was at the Earl's Death; that it being necessary to prove the Will per testes, and the Plaintiffs being unwilling to execute the 'Trusts thereof, without the Direction of this Court, the Bill prays, that the Defendants may set out their Claims on the real and personal Estates of the late Earl, that the Legatees may be paid, and an Allowance settled for the Maintenance of the present Earl, and my Lord's other Children, that the Surplus Rents and Profits of the whole Estate may be disposed of for the Earl's Benefit, a Receiver appointed, the Plaintiffs account for the personal Estate, and be indemnified, the Will and Codicil proved and established, and the Trusts thereof compleatly executed. On the 21st of December 1723, the Earl, then an Infant, answered this Bill, and insisted on his being Heir at Law, and intitled to the late Earl's real Estate, in case the Will was not well proved. On the 13th of March following, William, John and Ashley Comper answered, and admitted the Will and Codicil, hoping the Trusts should be fully executed, and that the Remainders limited to them would be decreed.

On the same Day the Earl, by his next Friend, filed a Cross Bill against Mr. Spencer Comper, and Mr. Woodford, and against his Brother and Sisters, praying that the Defendants might set forth their several Claims and Demands of what Kind or Nature soever, upon the real and personal Estates of the late Earl, and might account for them; and that if the Will was duly executed, an Execution of the Trusts might be decreed according thereto. Mr. Spencer Comper put in his Answer the Day the Bill was filed, and thereby gave the same Account, as by the original Bill, of the taking 187 l. 12 s. 6 d.  $\frac{1}{2}$  out of a Bureau at Colne-Green on the 20th of October, in the Presence of Mr. Woodford and Mr. Sydenham, and that besides that and 1670 l. 5 s. taken out of the House in George-street, and some other Particulars set forth in his Answer, he had never received any Part of the personal Estate, or meddled therewith; that he had caused an Iron Chest to be opened in the Presence of Mr. Woodford and Mr. Sydenham, in which were Securities, Monies and other Things, which Chest was locked again with three Keys, whereof each of them kept one, that the Chest was deposited with him, and remained in the same Condition, ready to be delivered as the Court should direct: That he believed there might be some few Things in an Escritore or Chest at Colne-Green, whereof he had the Key, but knew not the Particulars, and desired it might be brought up and delivered as the Court should direct, he not intending to intermeddle therewith; that he had no farther or otherwise concerned himself with the personal Estate, having determined to act as little as possible without the Direction of the Court; that he could not set out an Account of the late Earl's real Estate, but referred to Mr. Sydenham for that Purpose, and said he was very desirous the Trusts of the Will should be fully executed, an Account taken of the real and personal Estate, and the Surplus laid out in a Purchase, as the Will directed, after Funeral Charges, Debts, Legacies, and all just Demands thereout deducted and paid; in order to which, he set out Mr. Booth's Will, and stated his Claims under it in the same Manner as I have before mentioned, and as is done by the present Bill, insisting that his Title to the Benefit of the Trust in Mr. Booth's Will accrued from the Death of Judith the late Earl's first Wife; that he believed the late Earl possessed the real and personal Estates of Mr. Booth, and that the Trust had not been fully executed; and therefore he insisted,

“ that he was intitled to the real Estate of Mr. Booth “ undevised, and to the Sum of 4500 l. and Interest, “ or to any Estate purchased therewith, and to an Ac“ count of the Surplus of Mr. Booth's personal Estate, “ with Interest from the Death of the said Judith;
 “ but that he conceived it might be proper by a Bill to “ be preferred by him against Mr. Booth's surviving “ Executors and other proper Parties, to establish his “ Demand, though he found it necessary to disclose
 “ it by way of Answer to this Bill, which was to “ discover what Demands the Defendants had on the “ late Earl's Estate; and therefore craved Leave to “ reserve to himself the Liberty of Proceeding to e“ stablish

“ establish his Demand as he should be advised, and fa-“ ving to himself such his Demand, as far as the same “ should appear just and reasonable, he submitted to the “ Execution of the Trusts of my Lord Comper's Will”.

Mr. Woodford likewise put in his Answer, and said, he came to Colne-Green the 13th of October, the Sunday after the Earl's Death, and with the Concurrence of the Countess, Mr. Comper, the present Earl, and Lady Sarah, settled and agreed on the Manner and Charges of the Funeral, and takes no other Notice of what passed there at that Time; that on the 15th of the same Month, he attended Mr. Spencer Comper his Co-executor to George-street, where finding several Papers, Writings, Letters and Accounts, many of which were cursorily passed over by them in the Presence of Mr. Sydenham, some few principally concerning the Testator personally, and of no Concern or Value to his Estate, were, as he believed, taken away by Mr. Comper, and in all other Respects gave the same Account of this Transaction in George-street, as is given in the original Bill, and in Mr. Comper's Answer, saying, that the Iron Chest was removed to Mr. Comper's Chambers; that amongst other Things at the House at Colne-Green, my Lord had a Bureau or Cabinet, in which were (as he believed) 187 l. 12 s. 6 d.  $\frac{1}{2}$  in Money, which being on or about the 20th of October taken from thence, were delivered to Mr. Sydenham, and by him (as he believed) paid on Account to the Countess.

The Day before either of these Answers put in, Mr. Spencer Comper filed a Bill against the present Earl, Mr. Woodford, and the surviving Executor of Mr. Booth, and others, to establish his Demand, in which Mr. Booth's Will and the two Declarations of Trust are set out verbatim, and his Demand by this Bill is the same as by his Answer.

In

In May 1724 the present Earl was served with the Lord Chancellor's Letter, and appeared, but was never called upon for an Answer; and none of the other Defendants were served, nor any other Proceedings had upon this Bill. In the other two Causes Replications were filed to all the Answers, and on the 10th Day of July 1724 both Causes were heard together, when the late Earl's Will and Codicil were declared to be well proved, and decreed to be performed; to which End an Account of the personal, and of the Rents and Profits of the real Estate was directed, and the Master to take an Account of the Testator's Debts and Legacies, whom the Creditors should attend, to make out their Debts; that the Surplus of the personal Estate should be laid out in Purchases, according to the Earl's Will, and the Surplus Profits of the real Estate improved for the present Earl's Benefit.

In Pursuance of this Decree, on the 18th of January 1726, the Master having been attended by Solicitors for the Plaintiffs and Defendants, made a general Report of the personal Estate, which then stood in the Name of the late Earl, or of his Executors, or which had been received by Mr. Sydenham, who, before the Hearing, had by Order of the Court been appointed Receiver of the Rents and Profits of the real, and of the Produce of the personal Estate, in which Report the Leasehold Estate at St. Hellens, and the Rent of it due at the Earl's Death, are accounted for as personal Estate, as are also the Arrears of Rent of the Estate in Hertfordshire, concerning which the Trusts had been declared by the Earl, and also a Bond and Note entered into by Mr. Booth, are mentioned as outstanding Debts due to the Earl, and as Part of his personal Estate.

On the 28th of July 1727, the Master, having been attended by Solicitors for the Plaintiffs and Defendants, as also by the Receiver, made another Report of his having passed the Receiver's Accounts of the Rents and Profits of the real, and of the Interest and Produce of the personal Estate from the Earl's Death, to Michaelmas 1726; these Accounts comprise the Rents of the Estate in Westmorland, of the House in London, and of the Estate in Hertfordshire, and also the Interest of the Savings of the late Earl's Estate which had been from Time to Time invested in Securities for the now Earl's Benefit according to the Decree.

On the 10th of April 1728 the Master made another Report of his having passed the Receiver's Accounts till Michaelmas 1727, and the succeeding Accounts after Mr. Spencer Comper's Death were passed in the same Manner till the present Earl came to Age. Indeed none of the Reports were confirmed, nor is it usual to confirm Reports of Receivers Accounts, as all except the first are; and as to that, though it is not confirmed in common Form, yet the following Orders obtained at the Instance of Mr. Comper and Mr. Woodford are (I conceive) an implicit Confirmation of it; for on the 12th of November 1724 an Order was made on their Motion, that several Sums, Part of the Earl's Estate, then out upon Securities, and expected to be paid in, should be placed out in South-Sea Annuities in their Names; and on the 22d of June 1727 there was an Order upon their Petition to sell the Stocks of which the Earl's personal Estate then consisted, and lay out the Monies arising from such Sale in Purchases. On the 8th of March 1727 they preferred another Petition, reciting the Decree, the Report of the Receiver's Accounts, and that they were desirous to improve the Savings of the now Earl's Estates, and had agreed to place out 10,000 l. on a Mortgage, which Sum was to be advanced out of the clear Produce of the real and personal Estate of the Earl; that the Receiver had, with their Approbation, paid 7000 l. in Part, and would soon have 3000 l. more in Hand, and that the Decree having only provided for placing out the Surplus Profits of the real Estate, they apprehended it necessary to have an Order for placing out and improving the clear Produce of the personal Estate in the same Manner; they therefore prayed that the Receiver might pay the 3000 l. and that the Mortgage might be made to them in Trust for the Earl, and such farther Sums, as from Time to Time should be saved for the Earl out of the personal as well as real Estates, be placed out at Interest and improved for the Benefit of the Earl, in their Names. On the 13th of March 1727 this Petition was heard in the Presence of Counsel for the Petitioners and the Earl, when it was referred to the Master to see if the Security proposed was a good one, and if so, the Receiver was to pay the 3000 l. and the Mortgage to be made to the Petitioners in Trust for the Earl, and the future Savings of the personal Estate were ordered to be improved for the Earl's Benefit in their Names.

This Order hath been thus executed, (viz.) on the 17th of July 1728 the Master, having been attended by Solicitors for the Plaintiffs and Defendants, certified his Approbation of the Title and Security; and on the 11th of November 1728 approved the Mortgage Deeds made to the Plaintiffs by the Description of Trustees on Behalf of the Earl. The Money was paid, and the Mortgage Deed executed by Mr. Woodford only, after Mr. Comper's Death, and, in Pursuance of an Order for that Purpose, this Mortgage has been assigned to the present Earl Cowper on his coming to Age.

During all these Proceedings, Mr. Cowper never made one single Step towards proving his Claim or Demand, or towards coming in as a Creditor under this Decree; but suffered the Rents of all these Estates now claimed, to be accounted for as my Lord Cowper's, and soon after, (viz.) on the 10th of December 1728, died.

The Plaintiff William is his eldest Son and Heir, and as such is Heir at Law of William Cowper, the Son of my Lord Cowper by his first Wife.

The Plaintiff Theodora Cowper is Mr. Spencer Cowper's Widow and Administratrix, and the Plaintiffs John and Ashley Cowper and Judith Maden are his younger Children, who have brought this Bill (mutatis mutandis the same with Mr. Spencer Cowper's;) to have an Account of Mr. Booth's personal Estate not invested in Purchases, of the Rents and Profits of the Estates in Hertfordshire and Westmorland, and of the House in London, to have a Conveyance to the Plaintiff William Cowper of the Estates in Hertfordshire and Westmorland, and an Assignment to him of the Term in the House in London.

The Defendants all answered, but none of them are concerned in Interest, except the Defendant the present Earl.

The Estate in Westmorland was only a Mortgage, and the House in London a Leasehold for Years; they were therefore both Part of the personal Estate of Mr. Booth, and to be governed by his Will; the Rents and Profits thereof were received by my Lord Cowper during during his Life, and after his Death brought into the Receiver's Accounts as Part of his Lordship's Estate.

Now, as to any Account of the personal Estate of Mr. Booth received by my Lord Comper and not invested in Purchases, or of the Rents and Profits of the Hertfordshire and London Estates received by his Lordship, or of those received after his Death, and brought into the Account taken in this Court pursuant to the Decree before mentioned: I am of Opinion, that the Bill ought to be dismissed; and as to all the personal Estate of Mr. Booth, possessed by my Lord Comper, and no Part whereof was possessed by Mr. Booth or Mr. Powell, the Bill must be likewise dismissed, as against their Representatives.

This will be a Dismission of the whole Bill as to all the Plaintiffs, except Mr. William Comper, and even with Respect to him, as he is jointly concerned with the other Plaintiffs in the personal Estate of Mr. Spencer Comper.

1st, As to any Account of the personal Estate of Mr. Booth received by my Lord Comper and not invested in Purchases, or as to the Rents and Profits of the Hertfordshire, Westmorland, and London Estates, received by my Lord, the Plaintiffs claim as Representatives and next of Kin of Mr. Comper, and if he was intitled, then was he a Creditor of my Lord Comper, and ought to have come in upon the Foot of the Decree made in the Causes before mentioned.

My Lord by his Will had charged all his Estate real and personal with the Payment of his Debts, and by the Decree Mr. Spencer Comper, as well as his Co-executor Mr. Woodford, was to account for the personal and the Rents and Profits of the real Estates, the Creditors were to come in and prove their Debts, and the Surplus only was to be laid out in Purchases pursuant to his Lordship's Will; Mr. Spencer Comper therefore might have craved an Allowance in the Account of his Demand; or if not, might have come in as a Creditor by the exprefs Provision of the Decree, and one way or other (I conceive) he ought to have come in, for he had disclosed his Demand by his Answer to the Cross Bill, was Party to the Decree, and to the Account taken pursuant thereto; and in such Case I declare, I shall always be of Opinion, that an Executor or Trustee ought not to lie by, and put the Estate with which he is intrusted to the Expence of a new Suit, to obtain Satisfaction for a Demand which he might have had in the Course of the former Proceedings; this is not acting agreeable to his Trust.

If there be a Decree for an Account to which an Executor is Party, and the Executor has a Debt which he does not claim, but lies by, and the Account is taken and perfected, he shall not bring a new Bill for his Debt, and put the Estate to a fresh Charge, this being contrary to the Trust reposed in him.

2dly, As to the Account of the Rents and Profits of the Estates received after the Death of my Lord Comper, and brought into the Account before mentioned, Mr. Spencer Comper was Party to that Account and bound by it, and the Plaintiffs who stand in his Place, cannot avoid that Bar by an original Bill, no nor by a Bill to establish it, though he did not think fit to prosecute it; so that, as to this Account likewise, there must be a Dismission, as being finally barred.

The great Question then, in this Case, concerns the Hertfordshire Estate principally, which the sole Plaintiff now remaining (Mr. William Comper) claims, as Cousin and Heir of William Comper the late Earl's Son by his first Wife.

With regard to that, the Declarations of Trust executed by my Lord Comper, take Notice of Mr. Booth's Will, and declare these Lands were purchased with 4500*l.* being Money arising out of Mr. Booth's personal Estate, and were to be conveyed and settled to the Uses of Mr. Booth's Will, and in the mean Time that the Rents and Profits ought to be received by the Persons intituled as if such Settlement had been made. These Declarations being relative to the Will of Mr. Booth, if Mr. Spencer Comper as Uncle and Heir of William Comper became intituled by or under that Will, it is the same as if the Trust had been expressly declared for him, and then undoubtedly he had an equitable Estate vested in him, which hath descended to the Plaintiff; and so is his Title.

Indeed it has been objected, that although Mr. Spencer Comper was Heir to his Nephew William, yet he was not next of Kin, and if the 4500*l.* had remained in Money, his Lordship would have had it, and after him, the present Earl according to his Father's Will.

Lands cannot ascend from the Son to the Father, but shall rather escheat.

But this Objection is of no Weight; for had the 4500*l.* remained in Specie, it must have been considered as Land, and have been governed by Mr. Booth's Will; it is impossible for the Father to be Heir immediately to the Son; nay, the Law says the Land shall rather escheat; for which Reason it must have descended to Mr. Spencer Comper, else it could not have descended at all.

As to the Hardship of setting up this Right in Respect to the Person against whom the Suit was brought, I own, and cannot forbear declaring, that were I to consider the Matter, not as sitting in Judicature, but taking in all Manner of Considerations, such as Honour, Gratitude, private Conscience, &c. I must think this Claim should never have been made. The Defendant is Son and Heir of my Lord Comper, in Consequence of whose Marriage with his first Wife, the Subject Matter of the Plaintiff's, as well as his Father's Claim, has arisen; their Obligations to my Lord Comper laid upon them in his Life-time could not but be very great, and his Kindness continued to the last, for by his Will, they and their Issue are put into the Intail of the Estate, to go along with the Honour, which by his Patent is limited to them; the Defendant now sustains that Honour, and every one would wish the whole Estate to go along with it.

Besides, as my Lord Hale said, in the Case of Collingwood and Pace, 1 Vent. 424 the Brother of the half Blood is nearer than the Uncle, and is therefore preferred in the Administration; for the Uncle on the Part of the Father, hath no more Blood of the Mother, than the Brother of the second Venter, and he hath the immediate Blood of the Father, which the Uncle hath not; the Uncle is forced to go up to the Grandfather, and meet the Blood of the Nephew in him, so that it is impossible to find out a Reason in Nature for preferring the Uncle to the half Brother. Indeed he offers a legal Reason for it, which is this, (viz.) that our Law agreeing with the Canon Law, makes Brother and Brother but one Degree, and Uncle and Nephew two Degrees, and thereby the Law gives a mediate Descent to the Uncle mediante patre, but the Descent to the Brother must be immediate, if at all; and my Lord Hale holds, that the half Blood impedes it: But now let us examine this; our Law taking the Computation of Degrees of Kindred from the Canon Law, (which by the way shortened the Degrees or Distance of Relation, in order to increase the Number of Dispensations from the Court of Rome) makes Brother and Brother but one Degree; whereas the Civil Law, in its Computation, went up to the common Parent or Father, and down again to the persona proposita, and so made Brother and Brother

Though the Law will not allow one of the half Blood to be Heir, yet there is no solid Reason for it, for the Uncle is not only more remote, but has but Half the Blood, he having none of the Mother's Blood.

ther two Degrees, which is certainly right; for there is no Consanguinity among Collaterals, but by meeting of the Blood in some common Person or Parent; but now, taking our Law to be right, why should the half Blood impede the Descent to the Heir on the Part of the Father? Why should the Blood of a different Mother hinder the Descent to the Heir of the Father, especially when it is considered, that neither of the Competitors hath any of the Mother's Blood, as hath been observed? These seem Considerations of Weight; but still, sitting in a legal Judicature, I must judge of the Plaintiff's Claim as the Law is, and not as I would have it; the Court must judge according to the stated Rules of Law and Equity, and if the Plaintiff's Claim is not barred, nothing is plainer than his Title; the Law, if it had been a legal Title, would undoubtedly have cast the Descent upon his Father, who by the Declaration of Trust had an equitable Title; now equitable and legal Estates are descendible in the same Course. Uses before the 27 H. 8. were equitable Estates; but yet the Common Law directed their Descents, particularly there was a possessio (a) fratris of an Use, as well as of a legal Inheritance, 1 Co. 121. b. 4 Co. 22. which cite the Year-Book of the 5 Ed. 4. 7. b. so that the Brother of the half Blood was, in that Case, excluded from the Inheritance of an equitable, as well as of a legal Estate.

Equitable Estates are guided by the same Rules of Descent as legal Estates.

(a) Vide ante Banks versus Sutton.

Rules of Descent so plain as that there are very few Disputes about them.

The Lord Coke (*) somewhere sets a Value upon the Laws of England in Relation to Descents, on Account of the Certainty of them; but considering how many Trusts are now-a-days created in Lands, and how many Questions have arisen concerning Uses, whether executed or not, I think we should have little Reason to boast of the Certainty of our Laws in the Rules of Descent, if legal Estates were governed by one Rule, and equitable by another. Besides, as my Lord Comper thought proper to take the Conveyance of the Land in Question to himself, let us now suppose he had lodged the legal Estate in another Person, could the present Earl have had the Conveyance of the Inheritance from that Trustee? Plainly he could not; now, if the Plaintiff as Heir, and not the Defendant as Brother of the half Blood, must, under such Circumstances, have been intitled to a Conveyance, surely my Lord Comper's vesting the legal Estate in himself can make no Alteration in the Case.

and

The next Thing to be considered is, that supposing these Objections not to stand in the Plaintiff's Way, as plainly they do not, then the Question will be, whether any Thing else is sufficient to bar his Demands?

With Regard to the Proof of my Lord Comper's keeping his Accounts of these Estates jointly, and in the same Manner with his other Estates, of his letting Leases of them, having them measured and mapped, and of Mr. Spencer Comper's saying that the late Earl had declared to him just before his Death, he did not owe above 100*l.* and that there was not a more punctual and just Man in the World than he, these Proofs to me seem not material; for certainly my Lord Comper thought the Lands in Question his own during his Life, his Enjoyment of them is a sufficient Evidence of that, and it does not appear Mr. Comper knew of this Claim when he said these Things.

The Objections made against the Plaintiff's Claim (such I mean as seem of any Weight) are these:

First, Length of Time since the Title accrued, which was from the Death of Lord Comper's first Wife in Reversion, if not in Possession. Secondly, The Improbability probability of my Lord Comper's suffering his Brother's Title to stand out, when he might have obtained a Release or Conveyance of it. Thirdly, The tender, or slight Manner in which the Plaintiff's Father mentioned his Claim in his Answer to the Defendant's Bill, and to Mr. Sydenham the late Earl's Steward a little before his Death. Fourthly, His not prosecuting his Bill to make good that Claim, but on the contrary, suffering a Proceeding whereto he was Party to go on, and the Rents of the Lands in Question to be accounted for as Part of the late Earl's Estate. Fifthly, His not coming in as a Creditor for the Residuum of Mr. Booth's personal Estate possessed by the late Earl, though as such, he was invited or directed by the Decree: But above all, Sixthly, His possessing himself of the late Earl's Papers, Writings, and Books of Account after his Death, without the Participation of his Co-executor Mr. Woodford, burning and destroying such as he thought fit. These Things most certainly give an unfavourable Aspect to the Plaintiff's Claim, however go not so far as to bar it.

The Case being not of an accidental Loss, or Suppression of a Deed, two Things are necessary for the Defendants to prove,

1st, That Mr. Spencer Comper did execute some Deed or Writing whereby the Estate was conveyed or released to the Earl.

2<sup>dly</sup>, That such Deed was destroyed or suppressed by him.

It must be granted, that the Plaintiff's Father having an equitable Estate, if he is devested of that, it must be by some Deed or Writing sufficient for that Purpose; this is supposed by the Defendant's making the Plaintiff's Father's burning or destroying Papers or Writings a Part of his Defence; and therefore a Presumption of Satisfaction made by my Lord Comper for this Claim, is not (as was said by some of the Defendant's Counsel) of it self sufficient, but there must have been some Deed or Writing to convey or release the Estate, or that will operate as such. Now it does not sufficiently appear, nor can it be inferred or presumed, that there was such a Deed or Writing, or that it was destroyed or suppressed by Mr. Comper.

As to the first Objection, the Length of Time since the Title accrued, which was upon the Death of my Lord Comper's Wife, in Reversion, if not in Possession, Mr. Spencer Comper in his Bill, and the Plaintiffs in theirs, suppose the Title commenced then in Possession, and demand an Account accordingly; but the Plaintiffs, at the Hearing, abridged their Demands, praying an Account only from the Death of my Lord Comper, which in this Case ought to be inserted in the Decretal Order, and will bind the Plaintiffs who (particularly Mr. William Comper) cannot say hereafter, that their Father's Title accrued in Possession before the Death of my Lord Comper; but the Defendants Counsel, in order to lengthen the Laches of the Plaintiff's Father, may, by way of Argument, still insist, as they have hitherto done, that it did accrue in Possession on the Death of my Lord's first Wife. The first Limitation is to William Comper and Judith his Wife for the Term of their natural Lives; this undoubtedly would carry an Estate for both their Lives, during the Life of the Survivor, and according to Brudenel's Case, 5 Rep. 9. which hath been always taken for Law, unless the next Words, [and after the Decease of Judith, then to the Child or Children] restrain and make them carry only an Estate during the joint Lives of my Lord (then Mr.) Comper and his Lady; and indeed, if the latter Words are not so Devise of Land to Husband and Wife for their Lives, and after the Death of the Wife, then to their Children; upon the Death of the Wife the Husband's Estate determines.

taken, they must be totally rejected, and the subsequent Limitations made to take place, not upon the Death of Mrs. Comper, according to the Will, but to expect till the Death of both; whereas on the contrary, if they are so taken, they may receive a Construction, and be understood to vest the Remainder in Mrs. Comper, upon the Determination of the former Estate by the Death of her Husband; and I am of Opinion, that this is the true Way of construing Mr. Booth's Will, it being certain, that the literal and grammatical Construction of a Limitation to A. and B. for the Term of their Lives, is for the Term of both their Lives; for their Lives being plural must comprehend both, and join them together; which is the legal Construction too, where there is no particular Reason to vary from it; for so it is held in Auditor Curl's Case, 11 Rep. 3. b. that an Office granted to two pro termino vitarum suarum, determines by the Death of one. Indeed in a Limitation of Lands it is otherwise; and the Reason of the Difference is this: A Jointenancy of Lands may be severed, and if it be not, the Interest must consequently survive; which is otherwise in an Office; and that it is so in Lands, is not from the Import of the Words of that Limitation, but from the Institution or Operation of Law; for if the Words imported a Survivorship, it would be so in both Cases; besides, upon a Severance of the Jointenancy in Land, the Estate does not continue during the Life of each Donee, but determines upon the Death of one for his Moiety, and of the other for his, according to Dyer 67. a. and 1 Inst. 197. a. which shews that the Estate does not necessarily survive or continue for the whole as long as one of them lives. This different Operation of the same Words in the Cases put, shews the Intent of the Donor, and consequently determines the Effects of it; so in our Case, the Words subsequent to the Limitation, (viz.) [“ and after the Decease of my “ Daughter to the Child or Children, &c.”] shew the Testator’s Intent, and must determine the Effects of the Limitation, especially in a Will, where the Intent over-rules the legal Import of the Words, be they never so exprefs and determinate.

I am sensible there is a Diversity of Opinions among the learned Judges of the present Time, whether the legal Operation of Words in a Will, or the Intent of the Testator, shall govern? For my Part, I shall always contend for the Intention where it is plain, and I think the strongest Authorities are on that Side; for if the Intention is sometimes to govern, as it is admitted it must, and not always give way to the legal Construction, and yet at other Times shall not govern, there will then be no Rule to judge by, nor will any Lawyer know how to advise his Client; a Mischief which Judges ought to prevent.

In a Will, where the Intention is plain, that ought to control the legal Operation of the Words.

Thus much I have thought proper to say upon the Question, whether the Remainder came into Possession upon the Death of Mrs. Comper, or not till the Death of her Husband (afterwards Lord Comper) because it was laboured so much at the Bar, and I did not care to pass it over superficially; but after all I think it not very material. If Mr. Spencer Comper had any Knowledge of his Title before my Lord’s Death, it might have been material, by lengthening the Time of his Laches, but there is no Proof of that; and Mr. Woodford by his Answer says, that the 15th of October 1723, (five Days after the Earl’s Death) was the first Time Mr. Comper mentioned his Demand under Mr. Booth’s Will, which Mr. Woodford says he never heard of before, nor is there Ground to believe that Mr. Comper knew any Thing of it till after my Lord’s Death; he had no Reason to think himself concerned in Mr. Booth’s Estate, being a Stranger to him in Blood; besides, if it had occurred to him, that he was Heir to Mr. Booth's Grandson, yet Mr. Booth was a Citizen of London, had preferred his Daughter in Marriage, his Estate almost all personal, how then could Mr. Comper divine he would order it to be converted into Land, and afterwards dispose of it in such a Manner, as to carry it from his own Heirs, and give it him?

As for the Declarations of Trust wherein Mr. Booth's Will is recited, how should Mr. Comper know of them? they were deposited by my Lord Comper with Mr. Powell the Executor, and found after his Death among his Papers, as his Executors say by their Answer, which is not contradicted by Proof; besides, one of these Declarations takes Notice that the other was deposited with Mr. Powell, and there being the same Reason to deposit the one as the other, no Doubt they were both so, and in Mr. Powell's Custody at the Time of his Death; so that there is no Reason to suppose Mr. Spencer Comper knew any Thing of his Title, till after my Lord's Death.

But then they object the Improbability of my Lord Comper's suffering his Title to stand out when he might have obtained a Release or Conveyance of it.

As to this, I am in the Dark, I mean, with Respect to my Lord's Knowledge of Mr. Comper's Title; one would think, he had considered the Limitations in the Will, and consequently to whom the Estate would go after his Death; but that his Lordship was positive in his Opinion, upon Limitations so ambiguous, does not appear, and is the more doubtful, as in neither of the Declarations of Trust executed by his Lordship, did he take upon him to determine, how the Estate was to go by Virtue of the Limitations; all that he says is, that it should go according to the true Intent of Mr. Booth's Will. What Power or Influence my Lord Comper had, doth not judicially appear; if he did obtain a Release or Conveyance from Mr. Comper, it must be either before he had Issue by his second Lady, or after; now, before my Lord had such Issue, Mr. Comper was both Heir to my Lord and to his Son, and therefore my Lord, in case his Son by his first Marriage should die without Issue, might think that the Estate would go to his Brother, and that he had no Reason to endeavour to prevent it. It is proved my Lord's Son died in 1697 or 1698, my Lord's first Lady not till April 1705; and till Issue born of the second Marriage, there is no Foundation to presume there was any such Release or Conveyance, and after he had Issue by his second Lady, he might think his Brother would not do so hard a Thing as to call for the legal Estate, and separate it from the Honour, an Honour intailed upon himself and his Issue.

Besides there is some Evidence, that this Title was standing out on my Lord's Death: His Lordship deposited these Declarations of Trust with Mr. Powell, to be delivered to such as should have a Right to the Estate, and if he had got in his Brother's Title, most probably he would have called for the Declarations, and not have left them in the Hands of Mr. Booth's Executor, when he himself was sole Owner of the Estate.

3d Object. The slight and tender Manner in which the Plaintiff's Father (Mr. Spencer Comper) mentioned his Claim in his Answer to the Defendant's Bill, and to Mr. Sydenham the late Earl's Steward, a little before his Death.

Mr. Comper in his Answer says, " he is desirous the " Trusts of the late Earl's Will should be executed, " and insists upon his Title to the Benefit of the " Trusts

“ Trusts therein contained, but says, he conceives it “ might be proper by a Bill to establish his Demand, “ though he found it necessary to disclose it by way “ of Answer to that Bill, and prays to reserve to him“ self the Liberty of establishing his Demand, as he “ should be advised, and saving it to himself, so far “ as the same should appear just and reasonable, he sub“ mits to the Execution of the Trust of my Lord “ Comper's Will”.

Mr. Sydenham examined for the Defendants says,
 “ that a little before Mr. Comper's Death, he took Oc“ casion to mention this Demand of his upon the “ Earl's Estate, and told him, he hoped he would “ make an End of it in the easiest Manner he could,
 “ upon which he seemed to make very slight of it,
 “ and said, there was a small Piece of Meadow near “ his Canal in a Field called Clunk-field, which lay con“ venient for him, and if the present Earl would let “ him have this Field, he should make other Matters “ extremely easy.

It seems plain, Mr. Spencer Comper's Answer to the Bill expresses a Backwardness in setting up this Title, and a Tenderness in making the Claim, and by what he said to Mr. Sydenham, he slighted and made little Account of it, (which Claimants are not apt to do) yet there is something particular in this Case, which takes away the Force of the Objection; for though the Title upon which this Claim is founded, be clear and plain to those that understand the Law and common Rules of Equity, yet in the common Opinion of Mankind, it would be thought in it self, and in the Circumstances attending it, very hard and unreasonable, and the setting it up severely censured; besides, it appears by Mr. Sydenham's Deposition, that this Claim was not set up in order to carry Things to the utmost Extent, but to obtain some Acknowledgment for a Release of the Demand, and indeed it was like to have had that Effect; for Mr. Sydenham says farther in his Deposition, that the Defendant, after he came to Age, and before the filing of the present Bill, offered the now Plaintiff to comply with the Proposal his Father had made, and to convey the Field, upon having a Release.
 I but

The fourth Objection is that of Mr. Spencer Comper's not prosecuting his Bill brought to make good his Claim, but, on the contrary, suffering the Proceedings I have mentioned, and the Rents of the Lands claimed by him to be accounted for as Part of the late Earl's Estate.

And so far as that Proceeding extends, it has proved a Bar; but farther than that it cannot be carried, for it cannot operate as a Bar to the Realty, or as an Extinguishment of the Right to the Land.

It is objected, that if Mr. Spencer Comper had thought his Claim to the Land had subsisted, he would not have suffered a Bar to an Account of the Rents and Profits to have run upon him.

To this it may be answered, that possibly Mr. Comper might think the Pendency of his Bill to establish his Claim, would prevent that Bar; but if he did not think so, yet he might be willing to suffer himself to be barred as to the mesne Profits, or might intend no more by setting up his Claim, than to obtain some Acknowledgment for the Release of it, especially as he must know that the setting it up would appear hard, and could not escape Censure; which seems also an Answer to the next Objection to the Plaintiff's Claim, Mr. Spencer Comper's not coming in as a Creditor for the Residuum of Mr. Booth's personal Estate possessed by the late Earl, though he was, as such, invited and directed by the Decree. Besides, he might not think it proper, or worth his while to enter into so stale an Account, as that of Mr. Booth's Estate, who died almost forty Years before.

And now we come to the last Objection (and which is the strongest) viz. Mr. Spencer Comper's possessing himself of the late Earl's Papers and Books of Account, after his Death, without the Participation of Mr. Woodford his Co-executor, burning and destroying such of them as he thought fit.

This is a Fact of such a Nature, that every Circumstance relating to it ought to be thoroughly weighed, in order to see whether there be any Foundation in Precedent, Reason or Justice, for the Presumptions which the Defendant's Counsel would build upon it, and this, not merely with Regard to the present Cause, but as it concerns Property in general, and Publick Justice.

The Evidence of Mr. Comper's possessing himself of all the late Earl's Papers, those at Colne-green his House in the Country, and those at his House in Town in George-street, is very plain; the Sum or Substance of it this: 1st, As to the Papers and Books of Account in the Country, notwithstanding there is some Variety in the Evidence as to the circumstantial Part, yet it plainly appears, that on the 10th of October 1723 (the Day my Lord died) Mr. Spencer Comper was in the House at Colne-green, and none being present but Mr. Sydenham, he opened a Bureau, took out Papers, cancelled some, and afterwards the same Day Mr. Sydenham found him alone with a greater Quantity of Papers and Writings lying before him on the Floor, torn and cancelled, which he told Mr. Sydenham, " he intended to put out of the Way, and I " would

“ would look over all the Earl’s Papers, to preserve
“ such as he thought proper, and destroy the rest”.
On the 13th of October Mr. Woodford, by his Appointment, was to come down to Colne-green, and before he came, Mr. Comper ordered one of my Lord’s Servants to carry down a large Basket of Papers and Writings into the Kitchen to be burnt, and accordingly they were burnt in the Kitchen-Fire, in the Presence of several of the common Servants, one of which says, “ he saw on the Top of the Basket two Books co“ vered with white Vellum or Parchment, such as “ my Lord used to keep his Accounts in”.

2dly, As to the Papers or Writings in Town, it appears, that on the 15th of the same Month, Mr. Com-per, Mr. Woodford and Mr. Sydenham, came to my Lord’s House in George-street, and in a Closet below Stairs there was a Bureau, which, by a Key Mr. Comper had in his Pocket, was opened, and in it were several Writings and Papers, some of which Mr. Comper only looked over, and took away with him, saying, they concerned the Earl personally, and not his Estate, and locked up the Closet keeping the Key, and that they all went up and opened an Iron Chest, put in some Jewels and Curiosities which they had found below, and took out some Bank-Bills, which were delivered to Mr. Sydenham, and then three Locks were put upon the Chest and each had a Key; a Day or two after this, Mr. Comper told Mr. Sydenham, he would have all the Earl’s Papers and Writings in Town brought to his Chambers, that he might peruse them, and put out of the Way such as were not proper to be kept, and accordingly, without Mr. Woodford’s Knowledge, he sent the Key of the Closet to Mr. Sydenham, who caused the Papers to be taken out of the Bureau and put in Boxes, which Boxes, together with the Iron Chest, were sent to Mr. Comper’s Chambers,

Chambers, who several Times after mentioned to Mr. Sydenham, that he had looked into the late Earl's Papers, and destroyed such as were not fit to be seen. It appears likewise, that Applications were made to Mr. Comper, on Behalf of the Countess, desiring that she or some Person for her might be present at the opening of the Earl's Papers, which he declined, saying they were private Papers not fit to be seen.

Upon this Evidence and the known Maxim, Omnia presumuntur in odium spoliatoris, the Defendants Counsel would have two Presumptions to arise. First, That Mr. Spencer Comper had executed some Deed or Writing to the late Earl, whereby his Title to the Lands in Question was conveyed or released: And 2dly, That such Deed or Writing was by him burnt or destroyed.

How far Courts of Equity have gone in Case of Suppression of Deeds.

Now, before I consider the Evidence, I must premise, that this is going farther than any Court, either of Law or Equity, has gone in any Case of suppressing or destroying Evidence, that I know of. In that of The King (a) and The Countess of Arundel, Hob. 109, my Lord Hobart says, the Suit (that is the Bill) affirmed the King's Title to be by the Attainder of Francis Dacres, who (the Bill said) was seized of an Estate-tail; but the Deeds whereby the Estate was come to him were not extant, but very vehemently suspected to have been suppressed and with-holden by some under whom the Defendants claimed; and therefore the Decree ran, "That the King and his Heirs, and the Lord Hunsdon his Farmer, should hold and enjoy the Lands, until the Defendants should produce the Deeds, and the Court thereupon take farther Consideration and Order". This was a very solemn Resolution, and with the greatest Deliberation, for the
I then

(a) See this Case stated with some others of the like Nature in the Case of Dalston versus Coatsworth, Vol. I.

then (a) Lord Chancellor was assisted with the two Chief <sup>(a) Lord Ellesmere.</sup> Justices and the Master of the Rolls. By the printed Report the Deeds are supposed, but not said to be proved; I have had the Register's Book searched, the Decree is entered Trinity 14 Jac. 1. lib. B. fol. 1095. b. and drawn up thus: "That the King, his Heirs and his Farmer, should hold and enjoy until the Defendant produced the Deeds therein particularly mentioned and proved once to have been extant and duly executed". Here we see the Existence of the Deeds was fundamental to the Decree, and the Proof of them fully and expressly asserted by the Court in framing the Decree; in the Case of Gartefide and Ratcliffe, 1 Chan. Cases 292, the Deed burnt or cancelled was proved; in that of Hunt and Matthems, 1 Vern. 408, the Deed suppressed was proved; and in that of Wardour and Beresford (not rightly reported 1 Vern. 452) in the Register's Book of Pasche 1687, page 491, there is this Entry: "The Lord Chancellor, on reading and examining Witnesses viva voce, declared that the Papers (there called Wynne's Accounts) were, thro' the Carelessness of the Defendant, imbezilled, and therefore confirmed the Master's Report, which had not made the Defendant any Allowance for Diet, &c. by Reason of such Imbezilment"; here the Proofs of the Imbezilment of the Papers prove there were such Papers. The Case of the Countess of Plymouth and Bladen, reported 2 Vern. 32, appears by the Register's Books to be thus: The Defendant was the Plaintiff's Steward, and the Bill was brought for an Account; the Defendant pleaded, that the Plaintiff had imprisoned him, and upon Promise of his Liberty had got a Trunk, in which were all his Vouchers, insisting that though he kept the Key, yet it was easy to be opened, and that it was to be presumed it had been so, and was impossible for him to prove what the Plaintiff had taken out, or to account without his Vouchers ; this Plea was argued and ordered to stand for an Answer ; afterwards, by an interlocutory Order, the Trunk was directed to be delivered to the Usher of the Court ; and upon Hearing of the Cause, the then Lords Commissioners decreed the Defendant to account, and ordered the Trunk to be brought before the Master, who was to open it in the Presence of both Parties, and they to have Copies of the Papers found in it, as they should think fit ; in this Case the Court would not presume material Papers, or even a Suppression of any such, though it should seem that the Trunk was got by the Plaintiff in a very unwarrantable Manner, and only took the best Care they could that the Papers, whatever they were, should be produced.

There have been no Cases at Law, and these are all the material ones that I have heard cited in Equity ; but though there may have been others, the Names of which I cannot at present recollect, yet do I not remember, or believe, there has been any one, where there was not some Proof made of the Existence of the Deed or Writing supposed to be suppressed or destroyed.

Now I shall consider the Manner and Circumstances of Mr. Cowper's possessing himself of and burning and destroying these Papers, Writings, or Books of Accounts, in order to see, whether they afford any sufficient Presumption, that there was such a Deed or Writing, and that Mr. Cowper did burn or destroy it.

As to the Transaction at the late Earl's House in the Country, Mr. Sydenham was present when Mr. Cowper first opened the Bureau, took out Papers and cancelled some of them ; and afterwards Mr. Sydenham was admitted into the Room, when Mr. Cowper had a greater Quantity of Papers lying by him, torn and
cancelled

cancelled, which he frankly told Mr. Sydenham he intended to put out of the Way, and would look over all the Earl's Papers, preserve such as he thought proper, and destroy the rest; this was on the 10th of October; on the 13th, before Mr. Woodford came down, he ordered one of my Lord's Servants to carry down a large Basket, full of Paper Writings, and Books of Account, into the Kitchen to be burnt, and accordingly they were burnt (Mr. Sydenham says by Mr. Comper himself) in a very publick Manner in the Kitchen-Fire, and in the Presence of several of the common Servants, which is to be presumed was not kept secret from my Lady Comper, for Mr. Comper refused to let any Person for her be present at the opening of the Earl's Papers, (though she desired it) saying, there were private Papers not fit to be seen, which was avowing to her his Design to destroy some Papers, or at least to conceal them.

But then it is asked, how came Mr. Comper to open the late Earl's Bureau in the Country, search his Papers, cancel and burn such as he thought fit, without the Knowledge or Participation of Mr. Woodford, and this too, before the coming of Mr. Woodford, who was to come there by his Appointment?

Now although each Executor, having the whole Office in him, hath Authority to do what Mr. Comper did, yet I think he ought to have stayed for Mr. Woodford the other Executor; but then it doth not appear, that Mr. Woodford, when he came, took upon him to act in any Manner, or so much as to enquire concerning the late Earl's Papers or Books of Account, or any of his Affairs; and indeed he might reasonably think Mr. Comper, whom he found in the House, had taken some Care or other about my Lord's Affairs; probably he might think Mr. Comper being my Lord's Brother

Brother, and one who had no Interest in his Lordship's Estate (that he knew of at that Time) was more proper than himself to lock into Bureaus or Cabinets, and inspect Papers; and it appears he did think so, for when they both came to my Lord's House in Town with Mr. Sydenham, Mr. Comper brought with him the Key of the Bureau there, in which were several Writings and Papers, some of which Mr. Comper only looked over and took away with him, saying they concerned the late Earl personally, and not his Estate; and as Mr. Comper had the Key of the Bureau with him, so Mr. Woodford let him lock up the Closet where the Bureau was, and carry away the Key, which was putting it into his sole Power to look over all the rest of the Papers and Writings, and dispose of them as he had already done of some others in Mr. Woodford's Presence; this accounts for Mr. Comper's doing what he did in Relation to the other Papers or Books of Account at Colne-green, without the Knowledge or Participation of Mr. Woodford; besides, either Mr. Comper found the Deed or Writing supposed by the Defendants Counsel, at my Lord's House in Town, or in the Country; if at his House in Town, the Searching of his Papers and Writings there by Mr. Comper, having a Power over them, was in some Sort by Mr. Woodford's Consent; and if in the Country, that was done before, and it cannot be imagined, if Mr. Comper had in his Power what he wanted there, he would then have burnt or destroyed so many Papers or Writings in so publick a Manner, and after all this, have possessed himself of Papers and Writings in Town with the Privity of Mr. Woodford, have ordered Mr. Sydenham to send them to his Chambers, and several Times after have told Mr. Sydenham he had been looking into them, and destroyed such as were not fit to be seen. Again, if Mr. Comper had executed such a Deed of Release, and had intended to suppress or destroy it, he

he would have taken a secret and clandestine Way for that Purpose, as the Suppression of Deeds does in its Nature suppose, and not have burnt Papers and Writings at several Times in an open publick Manner.

For my Part I do declare, that had there been the least positive Proof of a Release from Mr. Comper, I would have totally dismissed the Bill; but when such Release or Conveyance is only supposed or inferred from Appearances, out of which that Supposition does not necessarily or even naturally arise, and when my Lord Comper's leaving the Declaration of Trust in the Hands of Mr. Powell does encounter it, I cannot but think this Title is subsisting.

Upon the whole Matter, my Opinion is, this Title should not have been set up, but now it is so, it appears a plain and a subsisting one.

The Law is clear, and Courts of Equity ought to follow it in their Judgments concerning Titles to equitable Estates; otherwise great Uncertainty and Confusion would ensue; and though Proceedings in Equity are said to be secundum discretionem boni viri, yet when it is asked, Vir bonus est quis? The Answer is, Qui consulta patrum qui leges Furat; servat; and as it is said in Rook's Case, 5 Rep. 99. b. that Discretion is a Science, not to act arbitrarily according to Mens Wills and private Affections: So the Discretion which is executed here, is to be governed by the Rules of Law and Equity, which are not to oppose, but each, in its Turn, to be subservient to the other; this Discretion, in some Cases, follows the Law implicitly, in others, assists it, and advances the Remedy; in others again, it relieves against the Abuse, or allays the Rigour of it; but in no Case does it contradict, or over-turn the Grounds or Principles thereof, as has been sometimes ignorantly imputed to this Court. That is a discretionary Power, which neither this nor any other Court, not even the highest, acting in a Judicial Capacity, is by the Constitution intrusted with.

It is farther to be observed, that the legal Interest of these Lands passed by my Lord Comper's Will, and the Defendant the present Earl has an Estate for Life only therein, with a Reversion in Fee, after several intermediate Remainders, some contingent, others vested, and consequently the Plaintiff can have a Conveyance only of such an Estate as my Lord has; the Counsel make no Objection for want of my Lord's Brother being a Party, who has the next Remainder, and is not before the Court, therefore I will take no Notice of him; but the Defendant must convey such Estate and Interest as he has in the Hertfordshire Lands, and account for the Profits. As to the Time, or to what Period this Account is to go back, the Court has very reasonably taken a Latitude, determining upon the Circumstances of the Case; and since the Plaintiff's Demand is stricti juris, he ought therefore to have strict legal Measure meted to him. The Plaintiff's Father filed his Bill not long after the late Earl's Death, and if he had proceeded on that Bill, might have had an Account of the Profits from that Time, in the same Manner as, in Case of a legal Title, he would have had from the Time of his Entry; but afterwards, he was so far from insisting upon a Right to the Profits from thence, or upon the Benefit of his Claim by that Bill, as to suffer a Proceeding whereto he was Party, to be had in Disaffirmance of it; and therefore the Plaintiff's Right must stand upon his own Claim.

Consequently, I decree the Earl Comper to account for the Profits of the Hertfordshire Estate in Question, the Account to be taken from the filing of the Plaintiff's Bill, and the Defendant to have all just Allowances, and to be examined upon Interrogatories as the Master shall direct*.

* From this Decree (which was soon after inrolled) there was an Appeal to the House of Lords, where the Parties agreed, and that Agreement (9 Geo. 2.) was confirmed by Act of Parliament.

Money covenanted to be laid out in Land shall descend as Land; but he that would be entitled to the Fee of the Land when purchased, may dispose of it by a Will, tho' not attested by three Witnesses; also a parol Direction for the Payment of it seems to be good: So if Money is ordered or devised to be laid out in Land and settled, to the Use of A. in Tail, Remainder to himself in Fee, Equity will order the Money to A. secus if the Remainder thereof be limited to a third Person; also tho' by a voluntary Contract Money is agreed to be laid out in Land, the Court will execute such Agreement in Favour of the Heir. 171

It is against natural Justice that any one should pay for a Bargain which he cannot have; as if I article to buy an House, and the House is burnt down before the Day of Payment, I am not bound to pay the Money. 220

The Plaintiff's House being so near the Church that the ringing of the Five a Clock Bell in the Morning disturbed her; the Plaintiff came to an Agreement in Writing with the Churchwardens and Inhabitants at a Vestry, that she would erect a Cupolo and Clock at the Church, in Consideration of which the Bell was not to be rung in the Morning; this a good Agreement, and decreed to be binding in Equity. 266

Feme gives a Bond to her intended Husband, that in case of their Marriage she will convey her Lands to him in Fee; they intermarry, the Wife dies without Issue, and then the Husband dies; the Bond, though void in Law, is yet good Evidence of the Agreement in Equity, and the Heir of the Husband shall compel a specific Performance against the Heir of the Wife. 243

A Feme Infant seized in Fee, on Marriage with the Consent of her Guardians, covenants in Consideration of a Settlement to convey her Inheritance to her Husband; if this is done in Consideration of a competent Settlement, Equity will execute the Agreement, though no Action would lie at Law to recover Damages. 244

- One devises Lands in Fee to his Daughter, being a Feme Sole, for her separate Use, without appointing any Trustees; the Husband is a Tradesman and becomes a Bankrupt; yet the devised Premises not subject to the Bankruptcy. 316

There may be Reason for a Bankrupt to prefer one Creditor to another. Page 429

The Time when the Assignment was made is not material, so as it be before the Bankruptcy, but the Justness of the Debt is material. 430

No Objection, that the Assignment was made by the Trader without Notice to the Party, for this shews it was without the Creditor's Importunity. ibid.

But if the Assignment be of the Bankrupt's whole Estate to prefer any Creditor, this seems to be void. 431

A Trader on Marriage gives a Bond to a Trustee to secure 1000*l.* to the Wife, if she survive him; the Trader becomes a Bankrupt; this Debt shall not be allowed, nor any Reservation made for it, nor shall it stop the Distribution, in regard it may never be a Debt; within the same Reason an Obligee in a Bottomry-Bond shall not, before the Return of the Ship, come in under a Commission of Bankruptcy; but in either of these Cases, if the Contingency happens before the Bankrupt's Estate be fully distributed, such Creditor shall come in for his Proportion. 497

But in the Case above-mentioned of the Bond, the Obligee, if he declares upon his Bond only, will be barred; secus if he sets forth in the Declaration as well the Condition as the Bond. Page 499

It is a Resolution of Convenience, that in case of joint Traders becoming Bankrupts, the joint Creditors shall be paid out of the Partnership Effects, and the separate Creditors out of the separate Effects; and if any Surplus of the Partnership Effects, after all the Partnership Debts paid, the separate Creditors to come in, and so vice versa the Partnership Creditors to come in on a Surplus of the separate Estate. 500

Two joint Traders becoming Bankrupts, first there was a joint Commission, and the Commissioners assign; afterwards separate Commissions and Assignments under them; the Court held that the Assignment under the first Commission conveyed all the Bankrupt's Estate, both joint and several, and consequently that the Conveyance under the separate Commission was void. ibid.

The Defendant is in Contempt to a Serjeant at Arms for not answering, and then puts in an insufficient Answer; if the Plaintiff's Clerk in Court accepts the Costs, it purges the Contempt, and the Plaintiff must begin again with an Attachment the first Process; but if the Costs be not accepted, the Plaintiff may go on in his Process for Contempt where he left off, for a further Answer. 481

Hudson's Bay Company and other Corporations, may by their By-Laws make Restrictions upon their Stock, (viz.) that it shall first be liable to pay the Debts due to themselves from their own Members, or to answer the Calls of the Company upon their Stock. 207

So a By-Law of a Company to seise a Member's Stock for a Debt due from the Member to the Company is good; but if this Debt be not due to the Company, but to their Trustee, then the By-Law will not extend to it. 208

A Corporation, without any express Power by their Charter, may of Course make By-Laws; but if they have a particular Power to make By-Laws for the Management of their Trade, they cannot make By-Laws for carrying on Projects foreign to the Affairs of the Corporation. 209

Where the Right of Guardianship is in Dispute, the Court will upon Petition only, with-nation thereof. 118

Though an Infant cannot bring a Bill for an Account against his Guardian until his coming of Age, yet a third Person may, even during the Minority of the Infant. 119

Not a reasonable Maxim, that the next of Kin to whom the Land may descend shall not be Guardian in Socage.

Page 262

Where an Estate in Mortgage descends to an Infant, the Guardian ought not to permit the Interest to grow in Arrear, but out of the Profits of the Estate to keep it down. 279

One of the Guardians of an Infant Girl of about nine Years old, takes her from a Boarding-School and marries her to his own Son who has no Estate; the Court ordered the Guardian to produce the Girl in Court, and then committed her to the other Guardian, ordering an Information to be brought against the Guardian who married the Ward to her Disparagement; but held this to be no Contempt, the Ward not being under the immediate Care of the Court. 561

Where an Infant is Defendant, the Service of the Subpoena to hear Judgment must be on the Guardian, not on the Infant. (643)

One seised in Fee, as Heir of the Mother's Mother, devises the Land to Trustees in Fee, in Trust to pay several Annuities, the Residue to go to the Testator's right Heirs of his Mother's Side for ever; the Heir of the Mother's Mother's Side entitled to the Estate and Surplus of the Profits after the Annuities paid.

A younger Brother beyond Sea having contracted to buy a real Estate of his elder Brother, makes his Will, charging his Estate with great Legacies, but his Will was attested only by two Witnesses; afterwards the Testator dies without Issue, leaving his elder Brother his

A Provision made by a Father of Land for an Heir is not to be brought into Hotchpot.

A Father or Mother may be Cousin to the Son, and as such inherit to him, notwithstanding the Relation of Father, &c. (613)

Though the Law will not allow a Brother of the Half Blood to be Heir, but prefers the Uncle, yet there is no solid Reason for it, the Uncle being not only more remote, but having only half the Blood, viz. only the Blood of the Father. 667

Matters controverted between the Heir and Executor.

Where, although by a voluntary Contract, Money is agreed to be laid out in Land, the Court will execute such Agreement in Favour of the Heir. 171

In all Cases where it is a measuring Cast between an Executor and an Heir, the latter shall in Equity have the Preference. 176

A. devises all his real and personal Estate to his Executors and their Heirs, in Trust to sell and pay all his Debts; his real Estate being only equitable Assets, and the Testator leaving Debts by Bond and Simple Contract, if the Bond Creditors are paid Part out of the personal Estate, they shall bring it back again into Hotchpot, or shall not have any Thing out of the real Estate. 416

Husband by Marriage Settlement secures a Portion for Daughters of the Marriage in Default of Issue Male; there is one Daughter only, the Husband survives that Wife, and marrying again, leaves Issue by the second Wife, and dies intestate, the Daughter by the first Marriage being an Infant, and her Portion not then due; if the Daughter lives till the Portion is due, it is an Advancement pro tanto, and must be brought into Hotchpot as to the other Issue. 435

Provision for a Child by the Will of the Father not to be

A Feme Infant seised in Fee, on Marriage with the Consent of her Guardians, covenants in Consideration of a Settlement to convey her Inheritance to her Husband; if this is done in Consideration of a competent Settlement, Equity will execute the Agreement, though no Action would lie at Law to recover Damages. 244

An Infant by Prochein Amy brings a Bill, and never stirs in it after he comes of Age, and the Bill is dismissed; the Infant is liable to pay Costs, and must take his Remedy over against the Prochein Amy. Page 297

At Law an Infant is liable to pay Costs if the Judgment be against him. 298

Where an Infant in his Bill, by Mistake of his Guardian, submits to any Thing which will be prejudicial to him, this will not be binding, but he will be allowed to amend. 387

An Infant, when he is Plaintiff, is as much bound and as little privileged as one of full Age. 519

The Court will not on Motion or Petition order an Infant Trustee to convey, unless the Trust appear in Writing; but in such Case will leave the Cestui que Trust to get a Decree by Bill. 549

- Legacy and Legatee. Vide also Tit. Satisfaction, also Legacies given to marry with Consent, &c. see Restraints on Marriage under Tit. Marriage.
- One having a Wife and three Daughters, devises 900 l. to his three Daughters equally, payable at their respective Ages of twenty-one or Marriage, and if all die before their Legacies are payable, then the whole to the Mother; if two of the Daughters die before their Shares become due, the surviving Daughter is entitled to the whole. 69
- If a Creditor by Bond, or other Creditor who may come upon the Land, exhaust the personal Estate, a Legatee shall stand in his Place and be paid out of the real Assets. 81
- Legatee's both Christian and Surname mistaken, yet the Legacy good. 141
- One by Will gives several Legacies, & inter al', to such of his Creditors with whom he had formerly compounded their Debts; this but a Legacy, and not to be preferred to other Legacies. Page 296
- If I devise 100 l. to A. at his Age of twenty-one, A. dies before twenty-one; his Executors shall not have the Legacy until such Time as A. should have come to twenty-one if he had lived. 336
- And my Executors shall have the Interest in the mean Time. 478
- But if I give a Legacy to A. payable at his Age of twenty-one, and if he dies before, then to B. and A. dies before twenty-one; B. shall have the Legacy presently, and not stay till such Time as A. should have come to twenty-one. 478
- A.* by Will devises 500 l. to his Infant Grandson, without appointing any Time for Payment, with Proviso if he dies before twenty-one, then the Legacy to go over to B. the Grandson shall have the Interest of the Legacy during his Infancy. 504
- The Court of Chancery in case of Legacies determines according to the Rules of the Common, not of the Civil Law; as where I devise to my Daughter 1000 l. on Condition that she marry with her Mother's Consent, with a Devise over in case she does not marry with such such Consent; if the Daughter marries without her Mother's Consent, a Court of Equity determines the Devise over and Condition to be good, though the Civil Law says they are both void, and that Maritagium debet esse liberum. Page 531

If a Legacy be assented to by the Executor, it from thenceforth becomes a legal Property. ibid.

One gives a Legacy to a Daughter at twenty-one, Proviso that if the Daughter marries without the Consent of the Executors the Legacy to go over; this Condition, though general, must yet be understood if she marry under twenty-one without such Consent, and on the Daughter's coming to twenty-one, the Court will decree her the Legacy.

Legacy.

Ademption of a Legacy.

One placed 500 l. in a Goldsmith's Hands on his Note, and afterwards orders Part out again, and then devises 500 l. in the Goldsmith's Hands to J. S. this good for the whole 500 l. secus if the Testator had after the making the Will drawn out Part of this Money; for this had been an Ademption pro tanto.

164

Vol. II.

A. having a Debt due to him from J. S. devises 500 l. of it to B. and the Residue of it to C. but does not mention what the Debt is which is owing from J. S. A. receives the whole Debt in his Life-time; B. dies before the Testator; the Testator's receiving in the Debt in his own Life-time is an Ademption of the Legacy, as to the Devise of the Residuum of the Debt; but it might have been otherwise as to the certain Legacy given to B. if he had survived the Testator. Page 330

One by Will gives 100 l. due to the Testator for Rent from B. and now in B.'s Hands; afterwards the Testator sues B. for the Rent, and recovers it; yet this no Ademption of the Legacy, since the Testator's suing for it might be occasioned by his thinking the Debt in Danger. 469

One makes a Will, then a Codicil, and gives Legacies by both; on a Deficiency of Assets they shall come into Average.

In Case of a Deficiency, Charity Legacies as well as others shall abate in Proportion; but a Legacy of 3*l.* to the Poor of the Parish, to be taken as Part of Funerals, and so no Abatement. 25

Sixty Pounds Legacy to an Executor for Care and Pains, in Case of a Deficiency to abate in Proportion. ibid.

If an Executor pays a Legacy on a Supposition that there are Assets to pay all other Legacies, and afterwards there is a Deficiency, the Legatee must refund. 447

Legacies or Portions vested, lapsed or extinguished.

A Father gives a Legacy to an Infant Child payable at twenty-one, in what Case, and in what Manner, the Court will allow Maintenance to the Infant out of the Legacy before it is due.

A. devises 500*l.* Legacy to the second Son of J. S. and devises other Legacies to the other Sons of J. S. declaring that if any of the younger Sons of J. S. shall die before they are capable of receiving their Shares, the Share or Legacy of him so dying should go to the Survivor; the second Son dies in the Testator's Life-time, this 500*l.* given to the second Son shall not survive.

Page 330

A. having a Niece an Infant about the Age of seventeen, devises to her the Surplus of his personal Estate, payable at Twenty-one, and if she died before Twenty-one, or Marriage, then the Surplus to go over; decreed the Niece should have the Interest paid her in the mean Time, the Devise over being a Condition subsequent.

419

A. devises the Surplus of his personal Estate to six Persons, to each a sixth Part; one of them dies in the Life of the Testator, this sixth Part shall be taken as undisposed of by the Will, and go to the Testator's next of Kin.

489

Secus had it been a joint Devise, for then it should have gone to the surviving Legatees. ibid.

By a Marriage Settlement a Term for Years is created to raise 5000*l.* for Daughters, payable at their Age of Twenty-one, or Marriage; proviso, that if any of the Daughters attain their Age of Twenty-one, or marry in the Father's Life-time, then the Portion to be paid within a Year after the Father's Death;

- Death; also if any of the Daughters die before her Portion is payable, or before her Age of Twenty-one, or Marriage, her Share to go to the Survivors or Survivor; there was Issue a Son and three Daughters, the first of whom married and received her Portion, the second attained Twenty-one, married and died without Issue, and her Husband administered; the third Daughter survived both her Sisters; resolved the Husband, as Administrator of the second Daughter, was entitled to her Share of the 5000*l.* she having lived to Twenty-one, so that the Right vested in her, and the Payment was only suspended till her Father's Death. Page 513
- A Legacy out of a personal Estate, payable to an Infant at Twenty-one; if the Infant dies before Twenty-one, his Administrators may have it; secus if the Legacy is charged upon a real Estate. (610)
- Neither is there any Diversity where a Portion or Legacy is charged by Will upon Land, and where by a Deed payable to an Infant at Twenty-one; for in both Cases where the Infant dies before Twenty-one, it sinks into the Land. (ibid.)
- Where and from what Time a Legacy shall carry Interest.*
- If a Legacy be given out of Land, it carries Interest from the Death of the Testator, though no Time of Payment be mentioned in the Will, because Land yields Profits. Page 26
- If, out of personal Estate lying dead, it yields Interest from a Year after the Testator's Death; but if a Time of Payment be mentioned, then Interest from that Time. ibid.
- If a Legacy be given only out of a Reversion or Remainder, it shall not yield Interest but from the End of the Year. ibid.
- If out of a personal Estate consisting of Mortgages or Funds carrying Interest, and no Time be mentioned for Payment, it shall carry Interest from the Death of the Testator. 27
- If a Legacy be brought into Court, the Legatee shall lose the Interest while it remains in Court; but if placed out by the Court at Interest, Legatee to have such Interest. ibid.
- A Legatee or Creditor coming in before a Master for his Legacy or Debt, and not Party to the Cause, shall have his Costs; for it was in his Power to have brought a Bill for his Legacy or Debt, Debt, which would have put the Estate to further Charge.

Specific Legacies.

Though Bona Paraphernalia be not to be allowed to the Widow where there are not Assets at the Death of her Husband, notwithstanding contingent Assets afterwards fall in, yet under such Circumstances she shall have a specific Legacy. 79

One possessed of a Term devises it to A. and makes B. his Executor, and dies leaving some Debts; if the Executor sells the Term, the Purchaser shall hold it against the Devisee; secus if sold at an under Value, or if the Purchaser knew that there were no Debts, or that the Debts were or could be paid without breaking in upon this specific Legacy. 148

Limitations.

Statute of Limitations.

Feme Covert having a separate Estate borrows Money upon Bond; the Bond not void, nor if six Years pass barred by the Statute of Limitations. 144

A Trust not within the Statute of Limitations. 145, 374

One owing a Debt by Simple Contract barred by the Statute of Limitations, devises Lands in Trust to pay his Debts; this Debt, though barred by the Statute, is revived by the Will. Page 373

Though it may be a Question, whether the Child of a Freeman of London, upon receiving a suitable Portion, may release to the Father the Orphanage Part, yet if the Child, or the Husband of such Child, covenants to release to the Executors after the Freeman's Death, this good, and Equity will execute the Covenant. 272

Any Lands of Inheritance settled by a Freeman on his Child no Advancement; secus of a Lease for Years; but if Lands of Inheritance are given as an Advancement, and in Bar of the Custom, and accepted as such, this will bind in Equity. 274

A Father bequeaths to his younger Daughter 3500 l. the Son swears by his Answer, that his Father on his Death-bed recommended it to him to let his Sister have an Annuity for her Portion; the Daughter has also a Right to her Orphanage Part by the Custom; the Son being the Father's Executor agrees with his Sister, then forty Years old, to give, and does settle an Annuity of 250 l. per Annum on his Sister

- ster in lieu of her Portion; the other Sister is Witness to the Deed, and the Agreement made by the Consent of the Relations; Bill brought by the other Sister's Husband to set aside this Agreement, dismissed with Costs. Page 274
- The personal Estate of a Freeman shall be applied to pay off Mortgages preferably to the Customary or Orphanage Part; so against a residuary Legatee; but not against a pecuniary or specific Legatee. 335
- The Statute of Distribution is grounded on the Custom of London. 358
- A Freeman of London having but one Child advances that Child in Part only; the Child shall take a full Share without bringing what she had before received into Hotchpot; for the only Meaning of bringing the Child's Share into Hotchpot is, to make an Equality among the Children. 526
- If a Freeman has several Children, or but one Child, and has in his Life-time fully advanced that one Child, or all his Children, he may dispose of his Estate as if there were none; so if the Freeman compounds with his Wife before Marriage for her Customary Part, it is the same as if no Wife. 527
- If a Freeman has advanced his Child on Marriage, and the Certainty of that Advancement does not appear under the Freeman's Hand, this is to be taken as a full Advancement; but the Freeman's Declaration alone in his Will that he has fully advanced his Child, is not of it self sufficient Evidence. Page 527
- A Freeman by his Will gives 35 l. to his Daughter, provided that if she refuse to give a Release, or put the Executors to any Trouble, then her Legacy of 35 l. to go over to her Sister's Children; the Daughter claims her Orphanage Part, and the Husband joins in the Claim, and does not claim the 35 l. Legacy; decreed the Daughter and her Husband's claiming the Orphanage Part was a Forfeiture, and that the 35 l. being vested in the Devisee over, Equity will not devest it. 528
- Lunatick. See also Court of Chancery.
- A Lunatick is never to be looked on as desperate. 265

The Court will not grant the Custody of the Lunatick's Person to the next Heir; but the being entitled to a Share of the personal Estate by the Statute of Distribution is no Objection. (ibid.)

Inconvenient to grant the Custody of the Lunatick to two. (ibid.)

Maintenance.

A Father gives a Legacy to an Infant Child payable at twenty-one; in what Case and in what Manner the Court will allow Maintenance to the Infant out of the Legacy before it is due.

21

Usual for the Court, where younger Children are left destitute, to make such a liberal Allowance to the Guardian of the eldest, as that he may thereout be enabled to maintain all the Children.

22

So where a Legacy has been devised over in case of the Legatee's dying before twenty-one, the Infant Legatee has been allowed a Maintenance out of the Interest.

ibid.

A reversionary Term for raising Maintenance and Portions for Daughters shall, in case of Necessity, be mort-

One devises the Residue of his personal Estate to J. S. provided she marries with the Consent of his two Executors; on the Death of one Executor, the Condition being a subsequent one is become impossible, and she may marry without the Consent of the Survivor. (626)

Money has no Ear-Mark, and if invested in Lands and other Things, cannot be pursued; wherefore if a Receiver of Rents, or an Executor in Trust, lays out the Rents or Assets in a Purchase of Lands in Fee, and dies insolvent, the Purchase will not be liable; but if such Receiver or Executor in Trust does by Writing own that such Purchase was made with the Trust Money; this is a sufficient Declaration of Trust to bind the Estate. 415

Possibility is assignable in Equity for a valuable Consideration. (608)

Tenant for Life with Power to make a Jointure, Remainder over, Tenant for Life covenants to make a Jointure to a Wife in Consideration of Marriage by Virtue of his Power or otherwise, of 500*l.* per Annum, and dies before making the Jointure; Equity will make it good. 222

Equity aids a defective Execution of a Power, if for a valuable Consideration, and this against a Remainderman, or one not claiming under the Power. (623)

Where the Sheriff has the Amerciaments, as in London, the Courſe was to grant a Meſſenger to bring in the Body on a Cepi Corpus returned; but now the Practice is to deny a Meſſenger, and order the Sheriff to bring in the Body, elſe the Sheriff to pay the Plaintiff all the Coſts. 301

A Sequeſtration Niſi is the firſt Proceſs againſt a Peer, or Member of the Houſe of Commons; but if there be a Sequeſtration Niſi againſt a Peer for want of an Answer, and the Peer puts in an Answer, which is inſufficient, yet the Order for a Sequeſtration ſhall not be abſolute, but a new Sequeſtration Niſi ſhall iſſue. Page 385

Latterly the Practice has been, that if the Defendant appears to a Bill, and ſtands out in Contempt to a Sequeſtration, the Cauſe is ſet down to be heard, and the Record of the Bill produced, and taken pro Confefſo; but if Time be given to a Defendant to answer, though after Sequeſtration, and tho' the Answer be reported inſufficient, yet the Bill ſhall not be taken pro Confefſo. 556

C.* and D. for 500 Years, in Trust to pay Debts, and for a Charity; B. one of the Trustees being in Possession, and as a Receiver appointed by the Court, cuts down 1000*l.* worth of Timber, D. one of the other Trustees consenting; B. the Trustee for the Charity, or as Receiver, ought not to take Advantage of his having Possession, without which he could not cut down the Timber; yet the Timber must be valued according to what it would be worth at the End of the Term. 397
- A.* Trustee of a Term of Years for a Charity purchases the Reversion in Fee; he shall not cut down the Timber; if he does, he must make Satisfaction to the Charity. 398
- In a Purchase, where Timber is agreed to be valued, the Custom of the Country makes those Trees Timber which in their Nature are not so; as Birch, Beech and Pollard Trees, if the Bodies are found, to be valued as Timber. (606)
- Walnut-Trees, where of considerable Value, to be estimated as Timber. ibid.
- Where Trees are of Value, and the Parties cannot agree in the Valuation of them as Timber; the Court will send it to be tried, whether by the Custom of the Country any, and which, of these Trees are Timber. Page (606)

Tithes.

- A. Modus* for Tithes of Corn for the Inhabitants of such a Tenement, or the Lands therewith usually enjoyed, void for the Uncertainty; in Regard the Tenement may be uninhabited, and the Land often shifted and let with other Farms. 462

- Mills are tithable, but to be paid only as a personal Tithe of the clear Gains, after all Manner of Charges deducted. 463
- In a Bill for Tithes in the Exchequer, that Court never decrees the Payment of Tithes for the future, but Chancery does. ibid.
- A. Modus*, that in Consideration the Parishioners made the Tithe-Grass into Hay, therefore the Parishioners, Inhabitants within the Parish, were to pay no Tithe for the Herbage of dry and unprofitable Cattle; and tho' proved, that the Parishioners
- 9 E Time

- Time out of Mind had paid no Tithe of this Herbage, yet the Court held it to be a material Objection to the Modus, that Foreigners living out of the Parish made the Tithe-Grafs into Hay, and nevertheless paid Tithe-Herbage. Page 520
- A void Modus, that the making the Tithe-Grafs into Hay should not only excuse that Ground from paying Tithe for Herbage, but that perhaps a small Quantity of Meadow-Ground, by making the Grafs thereof into Hay, should excuse the greater Part of that Parish from paying Tithe-Herbage. 521
- A Modus in Relation to the Tithe due to the Parson, may be a good Bar to the Payment of a small Tithe due to the Vicar; because all the Tithes did at first belong to the Parson, during which Time he might agree to such Modus. 522
- Parishioners only bound to cut the Grafs and to lay it into Heaps or Cocks, but not to make it into Hay. 523
- A Modus, that every Occupier of Land within the Parish of A. living out of the Parish, shall pay 1 d. per Acre for all Pasture Lands within the Parish; but if he lives within the Parish, to pay Tithes in Kind; a good Modus. 565
- Every Modus must be certain, else it is void, and no Length of Time will make it good; thus a Modus to pay 1 d. per
- Annum*, or thereabouts, for every Acre, is void; but a Modus to pay 12 d. per Acre for every Acre of Upland, and 6 d. for every Acre of Marsh-Land, good. Page 572
- A Modus need not be the same every Year, as while the Religious Houses held the Lands in their own Hands. ibid.
- Not necessary to shew a Modus had a reasonable Commencement, for it might at first be so, and yet not be capable of being shewn at this great Distance of Time. • 573
- Sufficient that the Parson, Patron and Ordinary, might at first make this Agreement, and bind the succeeding Parsons; and though the Instrument of the Agreement be lost, yet the Modus will be good. 573

Trial.

- In case of an Issue out of Chancery, it is proper to move that Court for Costs in not going on to Trial. 68
- The Court refused to grant a new Trial after a Trial at Bar, where the Issue tried related only to the Intention of the Party, not to any legal Title, and where the Question might have been determined at the Hearing, without ever sending it to a Trial. 564, 565

Cestui que Trust in Tail brings a Bill against his Trustees to the Intent that they should join in a Recovery; this not proper, but it is proper to pray that the Trustees may convey the Premises to Cestui que Trust in Tail, who may then suffer a Recovery; though if the Trustees are also Trustees for any Annuity subsisting, they are not compellable to part with the legal Estate out of them to the Cestui que Trust in Tail. On a Marriage Settlement Lands were conveyed in Trust to the Use of the Trustees and their Heirs, to the Use of the Husband for Life, Remainder to the Use of the Wife for Life, Remainder to the Use of the first, &c. Son of the Marriage in Tail Male; these Limitations to the Use of the Husband for Life, &c. are Trusts only, not Uses; and when the Husband and Wife levied a Fine to a Mortgagee to raise Money, tho' the Fine would have been a Forfeiture of the Wife's Estate for Life, had she had the legal Estate, against which Equity would not relieve, yet decreed that a Trust-Estate was not forfeited by a Fine. Page 146

By a Devise of all the rest of his real Estate, an Estate of which the Testator was but a Trustee passes. 198

- If a Receiver of Rents, or Executor in Trust, lays out the Rents or the Assets in a Purchase of Lands in Fee, and dies insolvent, the Purchase will not be liable; but if such Receiver or Executor in Trust does by Writing own that this Purchase was made with the Trust-Money, the same is a Declaration of Trust sufficient to bind the Estate. 415
- A.* who is a Trustee for B. of 1000 l. South-Sea Stock, at the Desire of B. borrows 4000 l. on this Stock of the Company, and B. receives the Money; A. pays the 10 l. per Cent. upon the late Act 7 Geo. 1. to be discharged of the Loan; tho' B. had forbid the Payment, yet he is liable. 453

- Trust for raising Daughters Portions and Payment of Debts. See also Portions and Provisions for Children.*
- If in a Trust-Term for raising Daughters Portions a particular Method of raising them be directed, this implies a Negative that they shall not be raised any other Way; as where it was to raise the Portions out of Rents, Issues and Profits, as well by leasing for three Lives or twenty-one Years, at the old Rent; it was held to extend only to raise the Portions by annual Profits, or by Leasing, and not by Mortgage or Sale; and if the Trustee mortgages for the Portion, the Mortgage is void, when the Portion might have been raised by the Profits. - Male, payable at eighteen or Marriage, or as soon afterwards as the same might conveniently be raised; the Mother died leaving no Son, and only one Daughter; the Court was of Opinion that the Portion could not be conveniently raised by Sale of the Reversion. Page 93
- Where there is a Power in the Trust-Term to raise Portions, for the Husband, with Consent of the Trustees, to revoke all the Uses, this suspends the vesting of the Portion. 101
- In a Marriage Settlement a Term for Years for securing younger Childrens Portions is by Mistake made subsequent to the Estate-tail limited to the Sons; this helped in Equity. 151
- A reversionary Term for raising Maintenance and Portions for Daughters shall, in case of Necessity, be mortgaged to pay either, and when fallen into Possession shall pay all the Arrears of Maintenance incurred before it came into Possession. 179
- One devises Lands to Trustees in Fee, in Trust to apply the Profits thereof until Sale for the Benefit of all his four Children, and the Survivors and Survivor of them equally, and on farther Trust, that as soon as the Trustees shall see necessary they shall sell the Premises, and apply the Money for the Benefit of his four Children equally, to be paid at twenty-one or Marriage; A. the eldest of the four Children attains twenty-one, marries, dies without Issue intestate, and leaving a Wife; decreed that the Lands being in all Events devised to be sold, tho' the Time for Sale was left to the Executors, was personal Estate, and A.'s Widow must have a Moiety of his Share, and that the Profits of the Land until Sale must go as the Money arising upon Sale would. Page 320
- One owing a Debt by Simple Contract barred by the Statute of Limitations, devises Lands in Trust for Payment of his Debts; this Debt, tho' barred by the Statute, is revived by the Will; 373
- One devises his Lands in D. to A. his Cousin an Infant, at her Age of twenty-one, subject to the Incumbrances thereupon, the Rents during the Infancy to be paid to her Father, and devises all his other Lands to Trustees to pay his Debts, the Lands in D. being mortgaged; this Mortgage shall be discharged by Monies arising from the Sale of the other Lands. 386
- If a Devise be to Executors of an Equity of Redemption only for Payment of Debts, this is but equitable Assets, and to be applied to pay all Sorts of Creditors equally. 416

Husband by Marriage Settlement secures a Portion for Daughters of the Marriage in Default of Issue Male; there is one Daughter only, the Husband survives that Wife, and marrying again, leaves Issue by the second Wife, and dies intestate, the Daughter by the first Marriage being an Infant, and her Portion not then due; if the Daughter lives till the Portion is due, it is an Advancement pro tanto, and must be brought into Hotchpot as to the other Issue.

Portions secured by Settlement out of Land, or articulated so to be, are not to be paid out of the personal Estate.

Upon a Marriage Settlement Lands are limited to the Use of the Husband and Wife for their Lives, Remainder to their first and every other Son in Tail, and in Default of Issue Male of the Marriage, to raise 2500 l. for Daughters payable at twenty-one or Marriage, which should first happen, and out of the Profits to pay 100 l. per Annum for Maintenance; the first Payment of the Maintenance to commence after the Estate of the Trustees shall have come into Possession; Husband dies without Issue Male, leaving a Daughter and a Wife, who is jointured in the Premises; the Portion shall not be raised in the Mother's Life-time, because the Maintenance which is naturally to precede the Portion is not to be paid till the Trustees are in Possession.

Where there is a Devise of Lands to Executors to pay Debts and Legacies, the Debts to be preferred; for this being legal Assets, Payment must be in a Course of Administration; secus in case of a bare Trust to pay Debts and Legacies. 550

Portions secured by a Trust-Term payable to Daughters, to be raised by Rents and Profits, and no Time limited for Payment, shall carry no Interest, and be raised only by Perception of Profits, not by Sale or Mortgage. 598

The Word Portion does not ex vi termini imply a Sum in Gross, and to be paid all at once: 601

Trustees for preserving contingent Remainders.

On Marriage, Lands are settled on A. for ninety-nine Years, if he so long live, Remainder to B. and his Heirs, during the Life of A. to support contingent Remainders, Remainder to the first, &c. Son of A. who has Issue two Sons C. and D. A. the Father having mortgaged the Premises, he and his Son C. covenant to suffer a Recovery, and to procure the Trustee to join, who by Answer submits to the Court; Court will not compel the Trustee to join, unless D. the second Son of the Marriage will Consent. 379

Trustees for supporting contingent Remainders joining to destroy them are guilty of a Breach of Trust; and no Diversity, whether the Settlement be voluntary or for a valuable Consideration, or by Will only. Page 610

And in such Case, if the Persons claiming under the Breach of Trust have Notice of it, they are subject to the same Trust; so if the Conveyance be voluntary, or without a valuable Consideration; but if for a valuable Consideration, and without Notice, the Purchaser will hold the Lands discharged, and the Trustees must buy and settle other Lands to the same Uses. 613

Where Governors or Visitors are said not to be accountable, it must be intended where such Governors have the Power of Government only, and not where they have the legal Estate, and are intrusted with the Receipt of the Rents and Profits. ibid.

If a Parent makes a voluntary Conveyance in Trust for his Children, and keeps it in his own Power, or in the Hands of his Agent, and this is got from him, it ought not to bind him; but where a Feme having Issue by her first Husband, makes a suitable Provision for them before her Treaty for a second Marriage; this is good, and not liable to be avoided by a second Husband. 358, 606

A Widow being admitted to be with Child, the Court will fix a Place agreeable to both Parties, where she shall be till delivered, and where the Heir may from Time to Time, at proper Seasons and on Notice, send Women to see her, and to be present when the Child is born; in which Case no need to execute the Writ in a strict Manner.
